Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.

Demo rattle

Compared by Candler

By Bishop Warren A. Candler

There is no possible defense for lynching in the south or lynching in any other part of our country where it occurs. It is to be regretted that there are lynchings beyond the limits of the south which have even less excuse than most of those which occur in the south. But wherever a lynching occurs it is utterly reprehensible. It means the lynching of the law even more than it signifies the lynching of the victim.

But in the entire country last year there were no more than 16 lynchings, if we may trust the statistics reported from a bureau which seems not to overlook any such offenses anywhere.

In the south there are approximately thirty millions of people, which is about ten times as many as are the inhabitants of Chicago. Yet the gangsters of Chicago who assassinate for money outnumber the lynchers of the south very greatly. Yet no bureau keeps the statistics of the dastardly deeds of the gangsters in Chicago and New York; and no federal law is proposed to punish these assassins, although an anti-lynching law is proposed for the south. A lynching in the south is never done for the sake of money. It is generally done to avenge dreadful crimes against women and girls. But the gangsters of New York and Chicago kill in cold blood for cold cash. They seem to divide the cities up into areas assigned to particular gangsters or some particular "racketeers." When one of these shameless criminals invades the territory which another of his class claims, assassination is likely to follow.

Moreover, there is an unblushing boldness and a shameless openness about the gangsters in the great cities of the north. They do not conceal nor deny their crimes, but rather parade them.

A few days ago the press dispatches reported that one of them was buried in a coffin costing $15,000; and the manifestation of sympathizers at his funeral was in keeping with the costliness of his burial. Sometime ago, one of the leading dailies in Chicago, printed, under the caption, "A Gangster's Burial," the following editorial:

"America is entirely capable of providing astounding spectacles for the

NEW YORK WORLD

AUG 22 1928

HANDS OFF POLICY IN JERSEY FIGHTS

Republican National Committee Not to Interfere

NEGRO DISPUTE SETTLED

State Board Places Embargo on Sweet Corn Shipments

The Republican National Committee will not interfere in local political fights in New Jersey. Representative Franklin W. Fort, Secretary of the National Committee, told the State Committee yesterday in Trenton. He said the National Committee's plan is to let the State Committees conduct their local campaigns in conjunction with the Hoover campaign. The State Committee ironed out a difference between two Negro factions by appointing George E. Bates of East Orange, Secretary of the National Colored B. P. C. E., to the Negro Auxiliary Committee. The factions wanted to name their own committee.

Embargo on Corn Shipments

The State Board of Agriculture yesterday ordered an embargo against sweet corn being shipped into Hudson and Middlesex Counties. The quarantine applies to corn, broom corn, all sorghums and sudan grass, unless rigidly inspected by Federal and State officials. This would prevent the redistribution of New York and Long Island corn, which is said to be affected by the corn borer, an insect that ravages both the corn and corn stalks.

The restricted area includes Hoboken, Jersey City, Weehawken, West New York, Union City, North Bergen, Guttenberg, Secaucus and Woodbridge in Middlesex County.

Mrs. Giberson Seeks Pardon

Mrs. Ivy Giberson of Lakehurst, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of her husband, William Giberson, will seek a full pardon from the Court of Pardons, meeting at Trenton Sept. 4, it was learned yesterday. She was found guilty on circumstantial evidence of chloroforming and shooting her husband in the head. Since her incarceration in Trenton, she has had advertisements in newspapers offering a reward of $2,000 to $5,000 for the apprehension of the killer or killers of her husband. Mrs. Giberson has always maintained that two men, after binding her with a rope, robbed and shot her husband.

CONSTITUTION
ATLANTA, GA.

AUG 20 1928

STEPHENS ON TOLERANCE.

If Alexander H. Stephens, one of the greatest of Georgians and soundest of our democratic leaders since the declaration of statehood, were living today what would he say as to the existing movement of so called democrats to disintegrate the party from within, because of religious prejudice and intolerance?

The only fair and just conclusion must be gathered from what he did say when precisely the same situation existed before the war between the states.

Then the "Know-Nothing party" flourished its insidious creed of bigotry, and incited rebellion and even riot in the south in its attack upon the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom.

That black page in the south's history was in the 50's.

Few people living today recall the activities of the "Know-Nothing party" except by history. But it left its stain and its stigma.

At that time Alexander H. Stephens was one of the great Georgia triumvirate that largely shaped by virile leadership the affairs of the Empire democratic state of the south that was being storm-tossed by a misguided group, and by its mobilization of ignorance and prejudice.

During the democratic campaign of 1856 he delivered a memorable address firmly sustaining the religious freedom provision of the federal constitution, presenting an unanswerable argument in favor of tolerance.

"In America every citizen, wherever he may be born, or whatever may be his religion, is to be measured and weighed in the civil scales according to his merits and conduct, deserts and worth."

Those were his words, followed by a masterful argument in opposition to "mixing religion and politics," and in the interest of the party that had been the sustaining strength of the south, and the house of refuge, ten years later, under the shelter of which the white people of the south escaped from negro domination, and from laws enforced by "carpet baggers" with federal bayonets at their back.

In both branches of congress, as governor, and as vice president of the Confederacy, his great mind, and unsullied statesmanship, stood out conspicuously as a southerner who ranked with the most powerful leaders of the nation.

His statue, one of Georgia's quota of two, is in the hall of fame in the nation's capitol by a choice of the people as one of Georgia's greatest men.

We are publishing elsewhere his address of 1856 against religious intolerance.

If he had made it today, 72 years later, under conditions that exist, it would meet the situation as it did in those days, when practically the same conditions prevailed.

All of the noise now being made by the democratic insurrectionists is incited by religious prejudice. The party mutineeers dare not attack the federal constitution. They hide behind the prohibition issue as a smoke screen.

The words of Alexander H. Stephens, delivered in 1856, ring today, from the pages of history, as a clarion call to duty, to honor and to fundamental obligation.

HERALD
Manchester Conn.

AUG 7 1928

COLORED VOTE

Every Presidential election year, along about this time, we hear about large gatherings of disgruntled northern Negro voters who have resolved that the time has come to quit the Republican party and go over to the Democrats. Somehow the results of the bolts are never discernible in those wards where the colored man and brother has his habitat.

There is no race of people in the world with a sense of humor quite equal to that of the Negro. He can get some fun out of any situation except his own funeral. And the idea of working the solemnly credulous Democratic leaders for spreads of fried chicken and watermelon is too good to be resisted. So we see the colored boys every four years stringing the good thing along and squeezing as much happiness as possible out of the campaign. In November, of course, they all go to the polls and vote for the party of Marse Abe Lincoln.

This year they are not likely to abandon the Herbert Hoover who rescued scores of thousands of their kin from the horrors of the Mississippi flood in the interest of the people who deny them the right to vote at all.

WHY THE SOUTH IS FOR SMITH

The Southern states will vote for Smith and Robinson. Whatever the disaffection, whatever the spirit of resentment, whatever the pain on the part of devoted prohibitionists, they will support the Democratic ticket, because they must. Their good sense will convince them of it.

The presence of the Negroes as potential voters ties the prohibitionists to the Democratic party. In South Carolina are now about 875,000 Negroes and about 925,000 whites.

The white people cannot divide into two parties without getting many Negro voters into both. If the Negroes are used as voters they will be used as [illegible].

Since Mr. Taft took office in 1908, the Southern white people have not been harassed by Republican administrations with appointments of Negroes, and a frame of mind has been induced upon them that this menace to their safety and peace has been wholly removed.

What they have forgotten is that in the same twenty years the contacts of the federal government with the private acairs and interests of the citizens have been multiplied by ten, or twenty. They forgot what might take place when they ratified the Eighteenth amendment and their congressmen voted for the Volstead act. They forgot that, one day, Negroes might be appointed a federal prohibition enforcers. The Volstead act is a "force bill."

Federal prohibition agents are federal police officers.

In South Carolina are about 200,000 Negroes of voting age. If 50,000 of them vote the Republican ticket, they will demand their rewards and will receive them. Some of them will be appointed to office. That statement proves itself. Probably, in Northern cities, are a few Negro prohibition agents now.

In South Carolina is not a Prohibition Democrat who would be willing for the home of a suspected "wet" to be raided by a Negro agent. Nor would he have white men and white women in automobiles subject to be halted and searched by colored men.

In Mr. Taft's administration was no federal income tax, no collectors and auditors looking into the citizen's books. There was no Harrison narcotic act, with federal enforcers, in those days.

In these twenty years laws have been passed whereby the federal government enters, at will, into every man's and every woman's kitchen, office, store, bedroom, bathroom. Its agents tap the telephone wires and eavesdrop a conversation at a man's fireside if it is their wish. It is their right. The supreme court so has decided.

Twenty years ago the federal government seldom touched the average man. A few deputy collectors raided a few mountain moonshiners, the collector of the port here had to do with shippers, and other people would scarcely have known by personal association that there was a federal government except from the postoffice.

All that is changed now. "Uncle Sam" walks with us arm in arm. He crosses his legs under our tables. When he is in good humor he is a welcome guest, but when he is prying he isn't.

The News and Courier has no delight in talking about the Negro question, its disposition toward the Negroes is not unkind., but we have got to keep the Negroes out of govesnment in the South or get out of the South ourselves.

The federal government having become intimate with all of us, having taken a seat in the family circle, which it did not do formerly, it is for the South to watch.

If the whites divide, the Negroes vote.

If the Negroes vote, they get a share of the offices.

Prohibition agents and income tax deputies are federal officers.

These officers get closer to us than do other offirers.

The Southern white prohibitionists will turn against national prohibition and vote for a "wet" candidate for president, pledged to uphold the right of each state to deal with the liquor traffic question in its own way, before they will take the chance of creating an angry division of the white people and having the South infested with Negro prohibition agents and income tax investigators.

Of course tne South will vote for Smith and Robinson.—The News & Courier.

SMITH AND THE NEGRO

If the Al Smith newspapers did not continue to insist that Georgia democrats will have to contend with Ben Davis if they refuse to support Smith, we would find a little more grounds for beliieving that they were trying to fight out in the open in fair manner.

But they know Georgia has been cleaned up by the Hoover forces who will offer a white electoral ticket for representative citizens. One can take a pint of liquor and color the editorial policy of the Grand Old Telegraph as completely as if he had wielded the brush himself. But wait, please. We did not say it had to be taken into the editorial sanctum of that newspaper and used. Not that. Something a bit different has to be done.

Those who want to shape the editorial policies of the Macon Telegraph go to Atlanta--nowhere else. They find one certain man who with grave countenance admits the candidates by card. His name is Hammond—John Hammond. Once inside a pint—not over a quart — has to be produced. It may be that a supper—a midnight supper in some cafe near at hand — should be added for safety, but that quart and that supper—that's all. The next two or three columns of political observations that go down to the Macon Telegraph are all shaped like the donor of that quart and that supper want them. John Hammond never goes back on a fellow who brings the pint or quart and buys the supper.

Later on, not many moons afterwards, down through the dignified columns of the editorial page of the Macon Telegraph goes the reflection from the latest Hammond article. Truth or no truth—meanness or what not—spleen or hatred, rarest of all rare reflection is the editorial comment. It carries the Hammond coloring, true to the crossing of the last letter "t".

Ben Davis has been removed from the arena in Georgia—was the day after the Kansas City convention refused to honor him with the same place he has held. But because it thinks it can still smear the stink of a sweaty negro flavored with cheap booze and cheroots all over the consciences of upstanding Georgianes who are determined not to vote for Al Smith, it offers in the Monday issue the following—and more:

"According to Mr. Hammond, who received his information from one of the leading white Republicans of the state, the national republican organization has recognized the Ben Davis wing of the republican party in Georgia and is approving Davis' selection of G. F. Flanders, of Swainsboro, for chairman of the state central committee. The information further is that the national committee will make no selection of a national committeeman from Georgia to succeed Davis until after the November election."

Note, please, that it is conceded in the last words that Davis does not succeed himself as national committee man—until after the November election. Then—we are left to guss what will happen. That is rotten as can be—is the work of rottenest kind of fighting. It but knocks the stuffin' out of the fellow who slings such stuff

Now, let's turn for a moment in another direction.

These are the words in which the negro voters "Advisory Association" out in Colorado congratulated the Honorable Alfred E. Smith of New York, when he was nominated to head the democracy of this nation in the fiasco at Houston:

"The Colored Negro Voters Advisory Association congratulates the Democratic party upon your nomination as its standard bearer for the presidency of the United States. Your nomination comes to the negroes of America as their second emancipation proclamation. The first freed them from manual bondage. The second frees them from political slavery. The Colorado negro voters will give you and Senator Robinson in our judgment at least eighty per cent. of their voting strength."

It is hard for the Hammond type to understand that the republicans have never had any thing on Tammany as a negro coddling organization. Hammond's type cannot see it—just doesn't want to see it. With this type—and wiith all the other Al Smithers in Georgia the one task is to spread the smell of the negro.

On the front page of the New York Times of Sunday—day before yesterday—appears this shocking comment on the new move Raskob is making to capture the negro vote everywhere for the Al Smith and Tammany ticket:

"Washington, Aug. 4.—Republican leaders are perturbed over news they have received that Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic National Committee plans to organize the negro vote in Northern, Border and Central Western States in an effort to land it for the Smith-Robinson ticket.

"The Republican party always has regarded the negro vote as its own, and party leaders, therefore, were somewhat pained to learn that they would have to be up and doing this year to keep this particular segment of the voting population in line.

"The campaign now being conducted on behalf of Governor Smith has taken on characteristics that tend at times to confuse the political opposition. The Raskob management is not proceeding along the conventional lines that have marked Democratic campaigns for years. Its appeal to what is known as "big business" was a notable departure from previously accepted Democratic policy.

"Mr. Raskob's bid for the negro vote was a bold challenge that Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee met by the prompt organization of a colored voters division to resist the Democratic attempt to wean the negro in the north and west from his long time political association.

"According to information received here Chairman Raskob has gone after the negro vote in a most business like manner. Hoover leaders are advised that he has chosen a number of bright young men identified with the Harlem black belt, where Governor Smith is strong, to carry on the work. These young men are to be sent to other black belts to convey the message that Governor Smith is friendly to the race that this would be a good year for the negro to demonstrate that he is capable of independent thinking and that he must no longer permit himself to be treated merely as a chattel of the republican party.

"Definite information is lacking as to what special arguments are to be made in urging the colored voter to vote for Smith and Robinson. The republicans have had no trouble in former national elections to hold the negro voter in leash. They have rewarded leaders of the race with public offices and recognition in other ways. It is a new experience for the republicans to find themselves confronted by an organization that thinks it has a chance of swinging the colored vote into the democratic column."

Jim. Crow "Cage" at Democratic Convention

The segregated section for Negroes at the Democratic convention in Houston, which nominated Gov. Smith and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, was built with chicken wire and caused many heart-burnings among the colored people who had been trapped into believing Smith and his supporters would treat them fairly.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

HOUSTON'S MAYORALTY CAMPAIGN

The city executive committee of the Democratic party has designated Saturday, December 1, 1928, as the day for the "white man's primary" election to choose the mayor, four city commissioners and city controller for the next two ensuing years.

Already candidates are filing for the various offices, while the executive committeemen are cutting some peculiar capers in their avowed intention to disqualify all Democrats who vote for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors in the general election Tuesday, November 6, 1928.

If the city Democratic committee carries out this threat, and if the thousands of local Democrats cast their votes for Mr. Hoover as they have already indicated they will do, it begins to appear as if the local Democrats are in for quite a hectic battle.

In support of their contention that they can disqualify the Democratic "bolters" and defectionists, members of the city executive committee contend that the recent decision of Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson, Jr., in holding against O. P. DeWalt and J. B. Grigsby, local race leaders who sought a mandatory writ to compel the county Democratic executive committee to permit them to vote in the July and August primaries held by the Democratic party, gives them full authority to determine who shall be qualified to cast a ballot in such partisan elections.

Many local Democrats, who have placed patriotism above party and determined to vote for Mr. Hoover for president of the republic, are literally "up in arms" at the latest edict issued by the city party leaders, and are threatening to resort to court proceedings in the event such a disqualifying clause is printed on the ballots for the municipal primary election.

Members of other political parties in the city, who will also be disqualified by such ruling, should not be caught napping; and if these tax-paying citizens are denied a right to vote in such an important primary election, then they should organize their forces and bring out a strong, independent ticket next spring to oppose the nominees of the December 1 primary.

With the city Democratic primary election being held during 1928, and with ample time between December 1, 1928, and January 31, 1929, for voters to qualify to exercise their elective franchise right in the various elections of next year, those citizens who will not be permitted to vote in the election on December 1, can certainly get ready for the general city election which will not be held until April, 1929.

Most asuredly there is nothing in the city charter which makes it mandatory upon the voters of Houston to elect only Democrats to the offices of mayor, city commissioners and controller.

Furthermore, Houston is the only large city in Texas, with one possible exception, where partisan politics obtain in the election of city officials, and The Informer is of the opinion that 1929 will be as good a year as any to place this city in the group of Texas municipalities holding non-partisan city elections.

Democratic

NEGROES OF VIRGINIA INSULTED AT DEMCRATIC MASS MEETING

Roanoke, Va.—U. S. Senator, Carter Glass, of Virginia, addressed a mass meeting in Roanoke, on Friday, September 28th. Mr. Glass stated to his hearers that to vote for Hoover would mean the enfranchisement of millions of Negroes in the South, which would perpetuate the Republican Party, and he asked his hearers did they want that to be done. An appeal to the audience not to vote for Hoover for President in order that "White Supremacy" would be upheld.

Mr. Glass referred to the Hon. Garrison Villiard of Boston, who was supporting Hoover, and stated that Mr. Villiard was denied service in the dining rooms of the Hotels of Baltimore, because he had a "nigger" to dine with him. After making this statement he asked his audience did they want to uphold a party who was advocating such. He further stated to his hearers, that he would regard it as one of the greatest disasters, and a great set-back for many years if Virginia would go Republican, and this would cause the state to lose white supremacy.

Virginia Negroes also resented Senator Saxon W. Holt of Newport News; Mr. Holt stated that a vote for the Democratic party in November means a vote for the continuation of white supremacy in Virginia. Mr. Saxon W. Holt stated that he was going to vote the Democratic ticket as it means a great step for Virginia, and white supremacy would surely reign. Mr. Holt stated also, that Congressman Dyer of St. Louis, made a grave mistake when he warned the Virginia people to go Republican, and in the event they do so it would mean success and happiness for the State, and would place the colored people on the same equality with the other races of the country. Mr. Saxon, in quoting Congressman Dyers, stated that he (Congressman Dyers) would insist that Congress enact enforcement laws that would give millions of Negroes their Constitutional Rights as citizens, this is the policy of the Republican Party both State and National.

After quoting Mr. Dyers, Mr. Holt asked his audience again, if they wanted to support a party who would advocate such. Mr. Holt stated that many Counties in the State of Virginia have a majority of Negro population, and warned his hearers to beware of any policy where the Negro was liable to become in control. And in his closing he appealed to the seriousness and danger of Virginia lossing white supremacy if the State should go Republican.

Mr. C. Tiffney Tolliver, Chairman of the Colored Voters Division, of the State, stated that the Democrats of Virginia, dread worst of all the Negro vote. Mr. Toliver also stated, that as he has stated to his daily callers at his headquarters, there is no doubt of Virginia being carried by Hoover. Mr. Tolliver and several leading politicians of the State will make another tour of the State this week, and will arrive to Elizabethtown, Tenn., to hear Mr. Hoover speak on Saturday, October 6th. Major W. B. F. Crowell, will be among the number to accompany Mr. Tolliver, and will speak in Bristol, Tenn., on Friday, October the 5th.

20-Page Al Smith Pamphlet Out

NEW YORK—A campaign document addressed to colored voters been issued by the Smith-for-President Colored League. It is in pamphlet form and consists of twenty pages with illustrations.

throughout the country in advocacy of Alfred E. Smith for President has

Among the subjects interestingly discussed are: "The Early History of the Democratic Party and the Negro," "The Republican Party and the Negro," "Herbert Hoover and His Campaign for Nomination," "Hoover's Campaign for the Presidency," "Present Day Republican Party and the Negro," "The Negro Farmer," "The Negro Miner," "The Negro Railway Employee," "The Loss of Official Recognition," "The Present Day Democratic Party and the Negro," "Alfred E. Smith as the Champion of Personal Rights," "Governor Smith and the Negro," "His Friendly Official Acts," "His Friendly Private Acts," "The Governor as Seen by Leading Negroes," "The Governor as Seen by Thos J. Heflin," "The Negroes' Opportunity," and "Ku Klux Hoover Exhibits."

Newark, N. J. Business Man For Smith

NEWARK.— B. C. Gordon, one of New Jersey's best known colored business men, is an ardent Al Smith supporter. "Members of the race should not forget what Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, Assistant United States Attorney General, is doing to Perry Howard, of Mississippi," states Mr. Gordon. "The Republican Party thinks it sees some hope of breaking the Solid South, so the poor Negro is to suffer the same as he did in 1876.

"After forty years voting as a Republican I shall this year cast my vote for the Democrats. It is my belief that if we enter the portals of the Republican Party this year, our future is hopeless and our civic, political and economical hopes would be lost forever."

YES, AL DID IT

Before the campaign is over we expect the Democrats down here in Oklahoma will claim credit for the excellent corn crop. Such reasoning will be just as consistent as the talk that is going the rounds that Al Smith has placed 700 Negroes on the police force in New York. Of course, the governor of Oklahoma does not appoint policemen, and the constitution of the State of New York does not repose any such responsibility upon the chief executive of that state. Bonehead Negroes will still continue to roam around and tell the story of how Al Smith took over the police department of New York City and appointed 700 coppers.

While Al's henchmen are dealing in bunk they ought to go the limit. Why not tell the Negroes that Al will give them a mild winter as soon as elected, so far as the South is concerned he will immediately exterminate the boll weevil.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

HOUSTON'S MAYORALTY CAMPAIGN

The city executive committee of the Democratic party has designated Saturday, December 1, 1928, as the day for the "white man's primary" election to choose the mayor, four city commissioners and city controller for the next two ensuing years.

Already candidates are filing for the various offices, while the executive committeemen are cutting some peculiar capers in their avowed intention to disqualify all Democrats who vote for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors in the general election Tuesday, November 6, 1928.

If the city Democratic committee carries out this threat, and if the thousands of local Democrats cast their votes for Mr. Hoover as they have already indicated they will do, it begins to appear as if the local Democrats are in for quite a hectic battle.

In support of their contention that they can disqualify the Democratic "bolters" and defectionists, members of the city executive committee contend that the recent decision of Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson, Jr., in holding against O. P. DeWalt and J. B. Grigsby, local race leaders who sought a mandatory writ to compel the county Democratic executive committee to permit them to vote in the July and August primaries held by the Democratic party, gives them full authority to determine who shall be qualified to cast a ballot in such partisan elections.

Many local Democrats, who have placed patriotism above party and determined to vote for Mr. Hoover for president of the republic, are literally "up in arms" at the latest edict issued by the city party leaders, and are threatening to resort to court proceedings in the event such a disqualifying clause is printed on the ballots for the municipal primary election.

Members of other political parties in the city, who will also be disqualified by such ruling, should not be caught napping; and if these tax-paying citizens are denied a right to vote in such an important primary election, then they should organize their forces and bring out a strong, independent ticket next spring to oppose the nominees of the December 1 primary.

With the city Democratic primary election being held during 1928, and with ample time between December 1, 1928, and January 31, 1929, for voters to qualify to exercise their elective franchise right in the various elections of next year, those citizens who will not be permitted to vote in the election on December 1, can certainly get ready for the general city election which will not be held until April, 1929.

Most asuredly there is nothing in the city charter which makes it mandatory upon the voters of Houston to elect only Democrats to the offices of mayor, city commissioners and controller.

Furthermore, Houston is the only large city in Texas, with one possible exception, where partisan politics obtain in the election of city officials, and The Informer is of the opinion that 1929 will be as good a year as any to place this city in the group of Texas municipalities holding non-partisan city elections.

Democratic

NEGROES OF VIRGINIA INSULTED AT DEMCRATIC MASS MEETING

Roanoke, Va.—U. S. Senator, Carter Glass, of Virginia, addressed a mass meeting in Roanoke, on Friday, September 28th. Mr. Glass stated to his hearers that to vote for Hoover would mean the enfranchisement of millions of Negroes in the South, which would perpetuate the Republican Party, and he asked his hearers did they want that to be done. An appeal to the audience not to vote for Hoover for President in order that "White Supremacy" would be upheld.

Mr. Glass referred to the Hon. Garrison Villiard of Boston, who was supporting Hoover, and stated that Mr. Villiard was denied service in the dining rooms of the Hotels of Baltimore, because he had a "nigger" to dine with him. After making this statement he asked his audience did they want to uphold a party who was advocating such. He further stated to his hearers, that he would regard it as one of the greatest disasters, and a great set-back for many years if Virginia would go Republican, and this would cause the state to lose white supremacy.

Virginia Negroes also resented Senator Saxon W. Holt of Newport News; Mr. Holt stated that a vote for the Democratic party in November means a vote for the continuation of white supremacy in Virginia. Mr. Saxon W. Holt stated that he was going to vote the Democratic ticket as it means a great step for Virginia, and white supremacy would surely reign. Mr. Holt stated also, that Congressman Dyer of St. Louis, made a grave mistake when he warned the Virginia people to go Republican, and in the event they do so it would mean success and happiness for the State, and would place the colored people on the same equality with the other races of the country. Mr. Saxon, in quoting Congressman Dyers, stated that he (Congressman Dyers) would insist that Congress enact enforcement laws that would give millions of Negroes their Constitutional Rights as citizens, this is the policy of the Republican Party both State and National.

After quoting Mr. Dyers, Mr. Holt asked his audience again, if they wanted to support a party who would advocate such. Mr. Holt stated that many Counties in the State of Virginia have a majority of Negro population, and warned his hearers to beware of any policy where the Negro was liable to become in control. And in his closing he appealed to the seriousness and danger of Virginia lossing white supremacy if the State should go Republican.

Mr. C. Tiffney Tolliver, Chairman of the Colored Voters Division, of the State, stated that the Democrats of Virginia, dread worst of all the Negro vote. Mr. Toliver also stated, that as he has stated to his daily callers at his headquarters, there is no doubt of Virginia being carried by Hoover. Mr. Tolliver and several leading politicians of the State will make another tour of the State this week, and will arrive to Elizabethtown, Tenn., to hear Mr. Hoover speak on Saturday, October 6th. Major W. B. F. Crowell, will be among the number to accompany Mr. Tolliver, and will speak in Bristol, Tenn., on Friday, October the 5th.

20-Page Al Smith Pamphlet Out

NEW YORK—A campaign document addressed to colored voters been issued by the Smith-for-President Colored League. It is in pamphlet form and consists of twenty pages with illustrations.

throughout the country in advocacy of Alfred E. Smith for President has

Among the subjects interestingly discussed are: "The Early Hoover and the Democratic Party and the Negro," "The Republican Party and the Negro," "Herbert Hoover and His Campaign for Nomination," "Hoover's Campaign for the Presidency," "Present Day Republican Party and the Negro," "The Negro Farmer," "The Negro Miner," "The Negro Railway Employee," "The Loss of Official Recognition," "The Present Day Democratic Party and the Negro," "Alfred E. Smith as the Champion of Personal Rights," "Governor Smith and the Negro," "His Friendly Official Acts," "His Friendly Private Acts," "The Governor as Seen by Leading Negroes," "The Governor as Seen by Thos J. Heflin," "The Negroes' Opportunity," and "Ku Klux Hoover Exhibits."

Newark, N. J. Business Man For Smith

NEWARK.— B. C. Gordon, one of New Jersey's best known colored business men, is an ardent Al Smith supporter. "Members of the race should not forget what Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, Assistant United States Attorney General, is doing to Perry Howard, of Mississippi," states Mr. Gordon. "The Republican Party thinks it sees some hope of breaking the Solid South, so the poor Negro is to suffer the same as he did in 1876.

"After forty years voting as a Republican I shall this year cast my vote for the Democrats. It is my belief that if we enter the portals of the Republican Party this year, our future is hopeless and our civic, political and economical hopes would be lost forever."

YES, AL DID IT

Before the campaign is over we expect the Democrats down here in Oklahoma will claim credit for the excellent corn crop. Such reasoning will be just as consistent as the talk that is going the rounds that Al Smith has placed 700 Negroes on the police force in New York. Of course, the governor of Oklahoma does not appoint policemen, and the constitution of the State of New York does not repose any such responsibility upon the chief executive of that state. Bonehead Negroes will still continue to roam around and tell the story of how Al Smith took over the police department of New York City and appointed 700 coppers.

While Al's henchmen are dealing in bunk, they ought to go the limit. Why not tell the Negroes up North what Al will give them a mild winter as soon as elected, so far as the South is concerned he will immediately exterminate the boll weevil.

Cutting Off Your Nose

LAST WEEK'S Afro-American published an article by Commissioner Ferdinand J. Morton, entitled "Why I'm for Smith." Some hardboiled souls might reply that Mr. Morton is for Smith because he holds a high-salaried job under Tammany Hall. But apart from that, Mr. Morton makes about as good an argument for the Negro's voting for Smith as can be made, which is saying very little.

Mr. Morton says that as long as the Negro's vote is the property of one political party he cannot use it to his advantage; that he can use it to his advantage only if he divides it; that he should prove his political independence by dividing his vote, thus earning the respect of the nation and placing himself in a position of strategic advantage politically. All these things will be accomplished, Mr. Morton says, if the Negroes give their vote to Governor Smith.

THE AIMS MENTIONED BY MR. MORTON are sound enough and all Negroes can agree upon them. But how can those aims be accomplished by the Negro's voting for Governor Smith? What strategic advantage can be gained by fighting for an enemy? And the National Democratic party, governed as it is by Negro-hating Southerners, is certainly the Negro's enemy.

IT IS EASY TO TALK of dividing the vote, but what encouragement have the Democrats given the Negro to divide it? Whenever a group of Negroes have offered their allegiance to the National Democratic party it has been contemptuously spurned. The best chance the Democrats ever had to win the Negro vote was in 1912, when Woodrow Wilson first ran for President. The Negroes were disgusted with Taft and angry with Roosevelt. Woodrow Wilson came along preaching the new freedom, and thousands of progressive Negroes believed him and voted for him. This number would have been doubled in the next election if the Negroes had received halfway decent treatment. But Wilson not only scorned them; he told them he could be elected without them.

WHAT ENCOURAGEMENT has the Negro from the Democrats in the present campaign? First of all, they nominated a man who in his four terms as Governor had never appointed a Negro to office, who had three times vetoed a bill, ostensibly for the reason that it might make it possible to elect a Negro magistrate to the Municipal Court bench, and who at no time in his public life has ever uttered a word of friendliness or encouragement to the Negro. All through the present campaign the Democratic National Committee has nervously denied that it had any Negro connections and has done its best to assure the South that if Smith should be elected Negroes would not be appointed to anything higher than menial positions.

THEORETICALLY, it might seem a good thing for the Negroes to rebuke Republican negligence by helping to elect a Democrat, but practically it would be like cutting off the nose to spite the face.

Bristol, Tenn., News-Bulletin
Wednesday, September 26, 1928

Oh, Yes! "The Nigger!"

As has already been said in this column, some of the Democratic newspapers and politicians are appealing to sectional and racial prejudices in this campaign. They are engaged in a wild effort to persuade the Southern people to believe Tammany Hall has always been a friend to the South, that Tammany has stood between the South and Negro domination, and that even now the surest means of perpetuating white supremacy in this section is to elect the Tammany ticket in November. Of course, the more intelligent Southern people know there is no menace to white supremacy in the South, at least from the Republican Party; but in this connection it is interesting to note a few facts regarding Tammany Hall and the Negro.

The argument that a Democratic victory is necessary to insure white supremacy is being used only in the South. It is not being used in the North, and especially it is not being used in New York City, where there is a large Negro vote. Tammany Hall is playing for that vote in New York and in Chicago and elsewhere in the North, and indications are that Tammany will corral the most of it. For the Negro has come to regard Tammany as his good friend.

Tammany, which controls New York City, has been very considerate in dealing with Negro patronage. While it has no Negro membership, directly affiliated, there is an organization known as the Colored Democracy, whose leaders are close to the leaders of Tammany in political matters. The colored leader of this Colored Democracy holds the important position of Municipal Civil Service Commissioner at a salary of $7,500 a year and just now is directing the Smith-for-President Colored League.

There are about 1,500 men and women employed by the City of New York, including stenographers, secretaries, clerks, foremen, doormen and messengers. Whites and Negroes work side by side. There are about fifty Negro school teachers in the city public schools, most of whom have both white and Negro pupils. In some schools the Negro pupils predominate, and mixed classes are the rule in all the schools. There are many Negro policemen, some of whom are sergeants. A recent colored addition to the Police Department in Harlem was Louis T. Wright, who was made Police Surgeon with the rank of Police Inspector.

During election times Democratic Negro politicians, working under Tammany Hall direction, are active at the polls in Harlem. Most of these workers are city or State employees and are charged with the responsibility of keeping their precincts or districts properly lined up. They understand the game of politics and play it with the facility and alacrity of their fellow politicians from the Fourteenth Street Wigwam.

As the campaign progresses Democratic orators are telling the voters in the South to work for a great outpouring of Democratic votes to maintain white supremacy. At the same time the Smith-for-President League in New York is talking about new opportunities that are being offered to the Negro by the Democratic Party and of Governor Smith's great human and understanding qualities that may be depended upon to solve the vexing social problems affecting the progress of the Negro.

An incident that did not help the position of the Democratic leaders in the South occurred in New York recently at a convention of the National Negro Business League, which was attended by more than five hundred representatives from all parts of the United States. The convention was welcomed by James J. Walker, the Tammany Mayor of New York, who, according to the New York Times, concluded his address with these words: "After the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November—I won't say what is going to happen—but I can assure you now that you will be as welcome in the White House as you are here in New York City."

Since the Tammany Tiger swallowed the Democratic Donkey at Houston the Democrats of a Missouri district have nominated a Negro for Congress. And indications now are that the Tammanyized Democracy will get the bulk of the Negro vote of the country, in the South as well as in other sections. The Negroes rally to the Tammany standard, carried by Smith, Raskob and Company, in a noble effort to save white supremacy in the South!

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.

Rainey Sees Smith Sentiment in West

New York, Sept. 26.—Never before in the country's history has there been such a pronounced sentiment for a Democratic candidate for President as for Alfred E. Smith is the observation made by Julian D. Rainey, chairman of organization of the Smith-for-President Colored League.

Mr. Rainey has just completed a tour of the middlewest getting a close-up of the political situation ,and reports that many Negroes are espousing the cause of the Democratic nominee.

"In the past, while Negroes have supported Democratic candidates in local and state elections, especially in the north and middlewest, they have displayed reluctancy in voting for a Democrat for President.

"This year presents an unprecedented situation everywhere. Smith-for-President Colored Clubs are forming and you will find Negroes openly and enthusiastically proclaiming their preference for Governor Smith."

BISHOP CLEMENT GIVES REASONS FOR SUPPORTING SMITH

Akron, O., Sept. 26—The Rt. Rev. George C. Clement, one of the most influential Bishops of the A. M. E. Zion Church, is giving his reasons for supporting Alfred E. Smith for President.

"First, I regard him as the ablest executive now in American public life, efficient, honest, fair and magnetic; second, I believe in religious tolerance, oppose bigotry, whether creed or race; third, although favoring prohibition, I am convinced that Gov. Smith could not be more favorable to liquor interests than the present administration has proven; fourth, the time is here when the Negro must divide his votes or else hazard his citizenship; fifth, Hell-in and the ku klux klan leaves me no other choice."

This communication was addressed to the Rt. Rev. Reverdy C. Ransom, Bishop of the A. M. E. Church, who is Chairman of the Speakers Committee of the Smith-for-President Colored League.

SMITH BACKERS REFUTE BLACKS HOLD BIG JOBS

Washington, D. C.—(ANP—The only recognition that Governor Smith has given to Negro Democrats has been in their appointment to jobs of porters, janitors and charwomen, etc., according to an official statement issued by the Washington office of the Democratic national committee last Sunday. This statement denied emphatically that Governor Smith has ever had a Negro stenographer, or has ever appointed a colored Democrat to a position of trust and responsibility under his administration.

"The truth is," the statement reads, "Governor Smith does not have, and never has had, a Negro stenographer, and in the employmnt of Negroes by the state of New York under his administration this has been done only to fill such jobs as they are given in the South, to wit: porters, janitors, charwomen, etc."

This answer of the Democratic national committee is to a charge alleged to have been made by a preacher at Foley, Ala., that "Gov. Smith's private stenographer was a Negro wench and that Smith had placed thousands of Negroes on the payroll in New York state." Exceptions were also taken to Negroes riding up and down the eastern shore of Maryland in automobiles displaying on their sides "Al Smith" streamers. Senator Millard Tydings, chairman of the Democratic speakers bureau, says that he is informed that Republicans have hired these colored persons to do this.

Sprinkle Smith Clubs Among Illinois' Colored Population

Chicago, Sept 24.—(By A. N. P.)—In order to break the traditional chain which has bound colored voters to the Republican party for the past two generations, prominent Negro leaders of the state have set about to boost the candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith and enlist colored voters in the ranks of the Democratic state organization. W. Ellis Stewart, State Chairman of the Smith-for-President Colored League, reports that active Smith Clubs have been organized in Chicago, Peoria, Springfield, East St. Louis, Cairo, Carbondale, Danville, and Evanston.

COLORED VOTE FOR SMITH CLUB FORMED AT ANNAPOLIS, MD.

A conference of leading colored political and business men of Annapolis, Md., and vicinity, resulted in the formation of a Smith-for-President organization.

Mr. Charles Henry Bell, who has twice been elected city alderman, was chosen president, Mr. Joseph A. Taylor, prominent Elk, was elected secretary, and Mr. Wm. D. Nixon, of Ann Arundel County, chairman of the executive board.

The officers of the newly formed Democratic club accepted an invitation extended by the Royal Flush Club the largest colored social organization in Maryland, to address them on the two political parties. The president of the club introduced Mr. W. D. Nixon, who reviewed the many shortcomings of the Republican party and pointed out that our forefathers have paid in full our former debt of gratitude to that party. He urged the young men to think for themselves and to withdraw their support from the G. O. P. whose ingratitude and neglect of our interests should no longer be tolerated.

Ex-Alderman Chas. H. Bell, of the fourth ward of Annapolis, also made an excellent address, pointing out that it is time for the Negro to stop following blindly the party that has not kept faith with our people.

The Smith Democratic Club has a large following, and has planned for several mass meetings to be addressed by leading race men.

N A A C P HEAD COMES OUT FOR SMITH

BOSTON, Sept. 26—Moorfield Storey, since the early 70's leader of the Boston Bar and as staunch friend of the Negro, has written a letter to John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, offering his support to Governor Smith. Mr. Storey is a lecturer of Harvard University and an author of many monographs on many political subjects. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Since 1912 he has been President of

SMITH ON PARTY RESPONSIBILITY

In his transcontinental tour, Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, Democratic presidential nominee, is proving quite a drawing card, and thousands of people are listening to and cheering him wherever he appears or delivers one of his celebrated invectives against the Republican party and its presidential standard-bearer, Hon. Herbert Hoover.

In his Oklahoma City address a few nights ago, Governor Smith, by replying to those religious fanatics and zealots who are opposing the Democratic presidential candidate because of his church connections, projected the religious issue more to the fore and became very intolerant of those who are opposing him because of his liquor and religious views.

At Helena, Montana, Governor Smith took the firm position that Mr. Hoover and the Republican party are wholly responsible for all the corruption, graft, pillage and fraud charged against certain Republicans during the Harding administration.

If Governor Smith's position is feasible and tenable (and we are not contending to the contrary), then what about the responsibility of his Democratic party for the injustices, inequalities and double standard citizenship in Southern states where the Democratic party holds sway?

If a party organization is responsible for any act committed during its administration of national, state, county or municipal affairs, then must we hold the Democratic party responsible for the prologue to their national convention at Houston during last June, when certain heathenish and hunnish members of the Democratic party staged the first lynching bee in the history of this city?

The Informer is not endeavoring to absolve the Republican party and Nominee Hoover from Governor Smith's charges and allegations, but if Mr. Hoover is responsible for the shortcomings of certain Republicans, how can Governor Smith escape or dodge the blame for the damnable and diabolical record of the Democratic party, particularly in the Southern states?

We wonder if the Gotham governor, in his denunciation of the Republican party as thieves, robbers and grafters, has forgotten about the unsavory and unspeakable record of Tammany Hall, his own "dear and precious" political organization which has been a stench in the nostril of decent American people, without regard to partisan affiliations, since the days of Tweed, Croker and others of their ilk and regime?

We would like to know what Governor Smith thinks about the rotten conditions obtaining in the South, where his "darling" party has held domination since the Civil War, and where crookedness, grafting and pillage of public funds have been practiced on a big scale in numerous instances!

What about the graft charges now being made against the Democratic party in New York City, where, it is alleged, millions of dollars have been filched and squandered by Governor Smith's political associates and partisan comrades—where his bosom friend, "Jimmy" Walker, occupies the mayorality chair?

If Governor Smith's contention about party responsibility is correct, then his Democratic party, taken by and large, can not consistently nor conscientiously point the indicting finger at the Republican party; for whenever the kettle jumps up and calls the pot black, the former makes itself both ridiculous and indicrous

IRA BRYANT'S STAND AROUSES COMMENT

Leading A. M. E. Layman Out Flatfooted For Al Smith

HOOVER INDECISIVE

Afro-American
10-20-28

G. O. P. Candidate Looking Both Ways He Declares

Baltimore, Md.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The statement of Ira T. Bryant, Secretary-Treasurer and Manager of the African Methodist Episcopal Sunday School Union, that the Negro should support Alfred E. Smith for President as the race owes the Republican Party nothing has been the subpect of widespread comment among members of the race.

Mr. Bryant, one of the most influential members of the A. M. E. Church, is asking Negroes, "Why vote for Hoover?" "They say we should votef or Mr. Hoover because we were 'caged off' at the convention in Houston, but they forget that before we were 'caged off' at the enemy's meeting in Houston we were 'jim-crowed' in the meeting of our friends at Kansas City," cites Mr. Bryant.

"The treachery within our ranks that recently brought about the defeating of Ben Davis in Georgia, Cohen in Louisiana, and Perry Howard in Mississippi, was undoubtedly inspired by white Republican Party leaders in their bid for the Ku Klux Klan votes in the South," he continues.

New Leadership

"But the most cowardly aspect of this Republican treachery in the Negro race is found in Secretary Work's recent statement in Washington reflecting upon the integrity of Negro political leaders of the past, in his effort to conceal the cloven hand of the faint promise of great things to come to the race by reason of a 'new leadership among Negroes', which not deceives no one.

"The truth is the men of the race now managing the affairs of the Party are not one whit better in any respect than those of other days. Politics, where yesterday, today, or tomorrow. Whatever happened in Georgia or Mississippi is exactly what would happen in every other state, altho possibly with a different background. It takes money to maintain organizations and it certainly stands to reason that those who hold office should pay for the up-keep of party organization.

Has The Guts

"I believe there is merit in Harding's advice to the Negro to divide their vote. Aside from that, we stand for the election of Smith: (1) because he stands for something, and (2) because he has the guts to say without being prodded just what he does stand for. In this respect he is in marked contrast with Hoover, the man of indecision, the Sphinx of looking both ways in variety.

"I shall cast my vote for Gov. Alfred E. Smith if for on other reason than to show the Republican Party that they cannot assault all the Negroes with impunity and still keep us in line."

Smith League In Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va. — A Smith-for President Colored League Club has been organized here with the following officers: W. L. Davis, President; Dr. C. F. Coppage, Vice-President; J. M. Harrison, Secretary; Dr. A. Strong, Treasurer; Rev. D. J. Le Chaplain; Dr. R. J. Brown, Sergeant-at-Arms.

DEMOCR'TS USED GUM SHOE ON MINISTERS

Endorsement of Al Smith Sought at Louisville Convention

BODY BACKS HOOVER

LOUISVILLE, Ky.— Employment of Negro ministers by the Democratic party to attempt to corral the Negro votes for Al Smith definitely was revealed at the annual session of the National Baptist Convention held here last week.

Little did President L. K. Williams, of Chicago, suspect that Democrat emissaries were working in the ranks of his organization until he discovered what was characterized as a "gum shoe" method of obtaining the endorsement of Baptist ministers for the Al Smith ticket.

When the real purpose of the Democratic emissaries was brought to the attention of Dr. Williams and other leaders of the convention, a resolution was presented to drive out the Smith workers and another resolution which read:

"Resolved, That in the opinion of the convention it is not safe to place the reins of government in the hands of any person who highly esteems the Constitution, the fundamental law of the land, conceived in the wisdom of the founders of this Republic and enlarged and strengthened by very important amendments held and regarded as essential to the freedom and well-being of all citizens of the country."

Wire Cage At Democratic Convention Recalls Action of Dr. Washington When Speaking In Florida Theatre

Dr. J. Kenney, An Eye-Witness, Recalls How Tuskegee Head Reacted To Dividing of Colored and Whites In Theatre By Sheets

Age
10-20-28

After seeing in last week's Age the photographic reproduction of wire cage installed at the last Democratic National Convention in which Negroes attending the sessions were compelled to sit, Dr. John A. Kenney of the Kenney Memorial Hospital, 132 West Kinney street, Newark, N. J., writes The Age, asking if the Negro can "support a party who has such fear of contamination."

New York Mining

The incident calls to the mind of Dr. Kenny an occurrence in Florida on the occasion of one of the late Dr. Booker T. Washington's Good Will Tours in that state, hitherto untold, in a theatre in which Dr. Washington spoke to a mixed audience of colored and white hearers, on which occasion an attempt to separate the races by visible barriers was quickly resented by the Tuskegee founder, who refused to speak until the barriers had been removed.

Should Cause Serious Thought.

Dr. Kenny writes as follows:

"KENNEY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL
"132-134 West Kinney Street
"Newark, N. J.
October 12th, 1928.

"Editor of The New York Age:

"The publication by you in The New York Age for Saturday, October 13, of the "Actual Photograph of the Jim Crow Wire Cage Installed at the Democratic National Convention for all Negroes Who Attended the Convention, should set every Negro who is planning to vote the Democratic ticket in the National election to thinking seriously. Regardless of the estimate that he puts upon the candidate, can he support a party who has such fear of contamination by his presence that by said party he is caged off as though he were a savage beast?

Separated by Sheets.

This calls to my mind an incident in the life of the late Booker T. Washington which I have never seen in print, and to which I was an eye-witness. It happened during his "Good Will Tour" of the State of Florida. For the purpose of his address to a mixed audience of white and colored citizens, one of the theatres had been secured. This was the first time that Negroes had ever been into this theatre for any occasion.

When Dr. Washington came upon the rostrum by the stage entrance, in looking over the large audience he saw that the house was divided into two longitudinal sections by sheets or curtains from the rostrum all the way back to the door. He was visibly affected. I don't think that I put it too strongly to say that he was actually angry. He walked tothe front of the stage and in attitude and voice he showed the deep feeling within him.

Had Sheets Removed.

"Without any greeting to the audience he said: "I have travelled all over this country and in many foreign countries, but this is the first time I have ever seen white people and colored people separated by sheets, and now before I begin my address, I want those things taken down from there.'

"And he stood without another word awaiting the execution of his demand. He did not have to wait long for immediately from some source there sprang several hands that took hold of the sheets or curtains and in much less time that it takes to tell it, they were removed.

"He then said, 'Now I'll begin.'

An Act of Heroism.

"This may not seem like very much of an act of courage to some, but to me, considering the environment and all conditions associated with it, it was an act of heroism, distinctly showing where he stood on matters affecting the standing of his race.

"What would he have done for those cages in Houston? Was there no one there to take his place and protest against this outrage?

"I don't believe that respectable colored voters can look upon this picture which you present and with honest racial convictions support the party who thus advertises in no uncertain way to the world its contempt for the race.

"In presenting this matter as you have, I think you have done a fine piece of work at an opportune time.

"JOHN A. KENNEY."

Prominent Lawyer Stumps for Smith

Armond W. Scott, local attorney, left for a speaking tour covering:

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 11
Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 12
Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 17
Lexington, Ky., Oct. 19
Louisville, Ky., Oct. 19
Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20
Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21
East St. Louis, Oct. 22
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 29
Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.

Washington, D. C.

A bomb was dropped into colored political circles here yesterday when reports of the remarks of Senator George H. Moses, director of the Eastern division of the Republican National Committee, reflecting upon the colored people, made during one of his speeches in New York City, were quoted to supporters of both the Hoover-Curtis and the Smith and Robinson tickets.

Several colored leaders interpreted Hoover's Tennessee speech at Elizabethton as repeating what Taft said at his inaugural address when he declared himself against the appointment of colored men to office in the South.

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation

LET US REASON TOGETHER AND BE FAIR WITH EACH OTHER

There are four Negro papers in Louisville. Three of them are supporting Mr. Hoover for the Presidency.

This paper chooses to support Mr. Smith.

We will give our reasons as the campaign develops. The papers supporting Mr. Hoover will give reasons for the faith that is in them.

All we ask is that the arguments be kept to the issues and men. We will not indulge in any mud-slinging or personalities.

We will give our readers what we consider the best thing to do in this election. Intelligent men and women will read and ponder them and compare our arguments with those made by Hoover supporters

POLITICAL SITUATION SLOWING ALONG, SAY

Both Parties Slow to Get Things Going; May Be "Hot" In a Week

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—The question now before the country is what is the delay of both major parties in getting started what was supposed to be the greatest campaign the country ever knew. Before the conventions prediction was rife that more money would be spent this year than ever before by both parties—the Republican and the Democratic. The conventions are over, the candidates have been selected and at this writing one of them has been notified, but the campaigns seem to be lagging.

In Democratic quarters nothing can be heard of what part the colored voters will play in this campaign and election and the only thing that has been done by them is the opening of headquarters in Forty-sixth street, New York City, where the colored brother will do his "carrying on." This is several blocks away from the General Motors building where the white folks will "carry on."

Lester A. Walton Named

Lester A. Walton of the New York World has been selected as publicity man and his selection has proven very popular among the Democrats. Mr. Walton has many friends in both of the major parties. Attorney Rainey of Boston is said to be a close personal friend of William Gaston, a New England millionaire, is heading up the colored division along with Mr. Walton. It appears that Mr. Rainey will do the directing of activities, leaving the publicity end of the campaign to Mr. Walton.

Much Talk Of Morton

In prominent Democratic circles in New York City much discussion is going the rounds as to what part Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton will play in the campaign for Governor Smith, since Mr. Morton is the leading colored member of Tammany Hall. It is also being asked what has become of the Honorable William H. Lews of Boston and what part he will play. It will be remembered that he turned Democrat four years ago and it may be said with considerable truth that he is still off the Republican "reservation."

Not Much Doing Here

Down here in Washington things are just as slow as they are in New York City, if not slower. The only difference, however, is that the activities of the whites and colored here in Washington are not separated, they are all in the same building. There is nothing doing in the publicity department. In fact, Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh, Pa., director of publicity, has not even been to Washington as late as last Saturday. It is understood that Chairman John R. Hawkins is busy trying to get his appointees to come to a conference but they seem to be "shying" at the conference for some reason. At any rate the campaign has not started here in Washington. Another week may see things moving in both camps and the much-talked-of-campaigns may get going at full speed.

Democratic.

Self-Respecting Democrats

For the soul of us we cannot see how any colored citizen of self-respect could this year proclaim any allegiance to the Democratic party. Whatever hope he might have cherished in years past under the aegis of northern Democracy such as that of the Tammany Hall, Cook County and Kansas City Democratic organizations, all such hope he must now leave behind when he enters the portals of the Al Smith for President Colored Democratic League. When the blind Senator Gore at Houston declared that there could be no question of segregation in the Democratic Party because it was a white man's party and colored men are barred therefrom, he spoke not only the truth, but the platform of his party in 1928. When colored men were not allowed at the convention anywhere except in the coop, screened off by chicken wire near the rafters of the gallery, the emblem of the party was there enshrined. When not only the platform, but the notification acceptance speeches of Governor Smith and Senator Robinson patently excluded the colored citizens from the equation, confirmation of this condition which confronts colored Democrats was given. The theory of Democracy does not embrace colored citizens. They must be either foolish or venal who assert otherwise. But a heart's beat in the event of Al Smith's election would separate the colored citizens of this country from the terrible menace of a cracker President. We rejoice to see the upstanding colored democrats of the country such as William H. Lewis of Boston either remaining silent in their shame of their party or coming out squarely for Hoover. When it comes to self-respecting Democrats in 1928, shouting for Smith and Robinson, there can be no such animals.

CAPITAL ANALYZES ROBINSON'S SPEECH

Defense of Smith on Prohibition Taken as Presenting View for South to Adopt.

PARTY VIEW ON SLANDER

Reflected Indignation Felt by Democrats on the Whispering Campaign in Southern States.

NEGROES FRET REPUBLICANS

Reports of Their Defection Are Being Received From Various Parts of the Country.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Political Washington's reaction to Senator Robinson's speech accepting the Democratic nomination for Vice President has been extremely slight, due largely to two causes. One of these is the fact that very few persons prominent in the political world remain in the capital. The other is a disposition to pay less attention to a discussion of campaign issues by the candidate occupying second place on a national ticket than to what already had been said by the Presidential nominee in his acceptance address.

Two features of Senator Robinson's address have aroused comment, however. While he devoted more words to the farm problem than to any other issue of importance in the national political contest, his references to prohibition, and especially his defense of Governor Smith's position concerning it, were read with especial attention in political quarters here for the reason that Senator Robinson is a consistent opponent of any change in the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead enforcement act. What he had to say in condemnation of "the poisons of slander and libel" also attracted notice.

Importance of Prohibition View.

The discussion of the prohibition question by Senator Robinson is regarded as important in indicating to Southern Democratic drys the viewpoint they should adopt toward Governor Smith's wetness, and equal weight appears to be attached to Senator Robinson's attitude because it calls attention to and emphasizes the general disposition of men high in the Southern wing of the party to stand by Governor Smith through thick and thin.

With only a few exceptions, Senators from the South have rallied to the party's national ticket and there seems to be an equally high percentage of Southern representatives in Congresstaking the same stand. It is contended by Southern supporters of Governor Smith that the leadership of Democratic opposition to his candidacy in their section is largely confined to Methodist and Baptist clergymen, officers of prohibition organizations and women engaged in feminist activities.

Senator Robinson's defense of Governor Smith's right to his views with respect to prohibition is expected to encourage others prominent in the party in the Solid South to stand by the Democratic colors.

It is well understood in Washington that Senator Robinson's reference to slander and libel were a reflection of the indignation felt by party workers over the so-called whispering campaign that is being carried on in the South against Governor Smith. To term it a whispering campaign is something of a misnomer, for much of the attack on Governor Smith's religious faith is said to be in the form of documents circulated liberally, but to a large extent under cover.

Reference to "Poison" Campaign.

It was this aspect of the campaign to injure Governor Smith among Southern Democrats that Senator Robinson referred to when he said in his acceptance speech.

"Numerous political serpents are hissing in the dark and striking from cover, and with venomous malice seek to poison the thoughts and arouse the prejudice of those who will decide issues of far reaching importance."

The shafts aimed by Senator Robinson at the whisperers have particular point on account of the assertions of those high in the national campaign organizations of both major parties that they intend to keep the Presidential race free from personalities. In New York yesterday Dr. Hubert Work, Chairman of the Republican National Committee said that "the Republican Party never inaugurated or had anything to do with a whispering campaign."

This was in answer to a question concerning Senator Robinson's plea for a clean fight and his charges that a whispering campaign against Governor Smith was in progress in the South.

There is reason to believe that a sort of implied gentlemen's agreement to avoid any personal criticism of Mr. Hoover on the one side and of Governor Smith on the other exists between the Democratic and Republican National Committees.

The two campaign organizations are credited with endeavoring to keep the contest clean and to fight out the battle along the lines of principles, without questioning the sincerity or good faith of either candidate. This does not mean that Governor Smith or Mr. Hoover, or any of those who speak for them, is not free to mention his opponent by name and criticize him for his stand on this or that public question, or for the manner in which he administered public office.

But in such criticism the Presidential candidates and their authorized spokesmen, it is understood, will avoid anything that has the appearance of attack on character or personality.

Cannot Control Minor Workers.

There is a disposition here to believe that Governor Smith suspected that the reputed gentlemen's agreement had been broken by his opponents when former Governor Henry Allen, chief of the Republican National Committee's publicity department, gave to the press the cable message from William Allen White denying that he had retracted aspersions on Governor Smith's record as a member of the New York State Legislature. Mr. Allen has declared the National Committee free from complicity in this bit of publicity and insists that it was through an error that the publicity bureau in New York gave newspapers copies of the White message.

There is danger, however, that the tentative understanding may go by the board. In a speech he delivered yesterday in Lonoke, Ark., the town in which he was born, Senator Robinson said:

"Agents hired directly or indirectly by the Republican Party are going into many Southern communities for the purpose of intensifying religious and sectional prejudice."

As to whispering and personalities, the two national committees have been unable to control minor workers in their attacks on candidates. All the committees have done or apparently have been able to do is to let it be known that they are not responsible for the objectionable accusations that are being whispered or uttered aloud. In the South, where this sort of thing is especially marked by bitterness, lesser politicians of both parties are accused of indulging in it.

Republican party workers assert that these practices are not confined to innuendo aimed at Governor Smith. They declare that Mr. Hoover is being made the subject of attacks, some open but in many instances whispered or under cover, concerning his order as Secretary of Commerce abolishing the segregation of negro employes in that department.

Angles of Negro Question.

It is not denied that critics of Mr. Hoover have the right to comment on his anti-segregation order in unfavorable terms, but Republicans contend that some of the ramifications of these criticisms give an unfair and erroneous construction to Mr. Hoover's attitude.

The negro question is taking peculiar angles in this campaign. Republicans aver that an intensive drive is being made on the part of Democratic campaign organizations to line up the negro vote for Governor Smith. That this has been attended by some considerable success, especially in Northern and Western States with good-sized negro populations, is admitted by some Republicans.

These concede that Governor Smith's candidacy is making a strong appeal to many negroes, partly because of his prohibition views, partly through his friendly attitude toward the colored race in making appointments in New York State and partly because of dissatisfaction among many negroes over what they hold is failure by the Republican Party to do justice to the colored population.

The head of the negro Elks recently declined an invitation to serve in the colored branch of the Republican National Committee's campaign organization and in a letter to Chairman Work, while he said he wished success to Mr. Hoover, he declared that he and the generality of others in negro fraternal organizations felt that the Republican Administration had not fulfilled its promises to give protection and recognition to negroes.

Situation Worries Republicans.

Reports of negro defection from the Republican Party are being received from candidates and organizations in various parts of the country and it is evident that fear is felt by many of them that a negro trend from Republican to Democratic candidates, and especially from Mr. Hoover to Governor Smith, may turn the scales of the election in favor of the Democratic cause.

Such conditions in States like Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and New Jersey, each with a considerable negro population, are producing worry in the Republican ranks. The assertion is made that negroes in Northern and Western States are being influenced against the Republican Party by statements that it is sympathetic to the so-called "lily-white" Republican organizations in Southern States and contemplates their recognition to the exclusion of the "black and tans."

On the Democratic side the assertion is made that anti-Smith Democrats in Southern States are seeking to overcome the effect of statements about Mr. Hoover's abolition of negro segregation in the Department of Commerce by circulating stories that Governor Smith has appointed negroes to State offices and otherwise shown a disposition to recognize their race.

Negro Candidates on Both Sides.

One of the peculiar slants the negro phase of the situation has taken has to do with the nomination of two negroes for Congress. Reports have reached Republicans in Washington that attempts are being made to bring anti-Smith Democrats in the South back to their party by stressing that the nomination of Oscar De Priest as the Republican candidate for Congress in the Tenth District of Illinois is a first step toward electing other negroes to seats in Congress. De Priest was chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Martin B. Madden, who represented the Tenth District for many years.

The Tenth is a downtown section of Chicago and negroes of the district are said to number four-fifths of its residents.

Republicans say they have a good weapon to counteract the effect of the De Priest nomination on white anti-Smith Democrats in the South by calling attention to the fact that a negro has received the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Twelfth District of Missouri. This colored Democrat is Joseph H. McLemore. His Republican opponent is Representative Leonidas C. Dyer, who has been sent to Congress for eight terms and who received the certificate of election for a ninth term but was unseated by a Democratic House.

An anomalous aspect of the contest in this district, which comprises a heavily populated portion of St. Louis, with a large number of negro residents, is that Representative Dyer is the author of the so-called anti-lynching bill, which seeks to have the Federal Government punish communities where lynchings occur. On account of sponsoring this measure, Mr. Dyer has been something of a hero among negroes and regarded as the foremost friend of the race in Congress.

WHY THIS PAPER IS FOR AL SMITH

There are many and various reasons why the Louisville News as well as all agencies enlisted in the great cause of the down-trodden, should rally as one person around the standard of this great and chivalric man who in the face of prejudice and in the stress and strain of intolerance will dare to do what he conceives to be honest, just and right. The Empire State, with its teaming millions, with its countless wealth, its stupendous commerce, its varigated nationalities—a Modern Bable of tongues—has seen fit to call to its highest office, four times in succession, this most marvelous man. In the thirteen departments of the State of New YoYrk, he has chosen as his advisers and co-workers. nine Protestantts, three Catholics and one Jew. Disregarding all questions of race, nationality or religion he has been so clear in his great office, that his virtues plead like angels for hiselection. Never before in the history of this nation has so great an opportunity come to the Negro race to stocke a blow for tolerance, for individual liberty and for the brotherhood of the human race. The wicked and infamous band of marauders and murderers, known as the Ku-Klux-Klan, has permeated and poisoned the minds of countless thousands against the Negro in all sections of our beloved country. This brood of misanthropes were never allowed the privilege of marching down Pennsylvania Avenue in the Capitol of this Nation until Coolidge, whose father was a Klansman and was buried by the Klan, has used his great power to nominate a man to succeed him who will be plible to the Klan. We all know that the Klan elected all the Kentucky delegates to the last National convention; we all know that the Republican Klansman cared so little about the feelings of the Negro dupes and diciples that they gave the Armory to the Klan for Labor Day and invited the "Unspeakable Heflin" here to sow the seeds of hatred, bigotry and intolerance They took fright when the storm of protest arose and recinded the order at the eleventh hour, but their deep and dirty design was fuly revealed. Are all Negroes here sa lost to the whites that constitute their manhood and womanhood as to support by their voice and vote such a band of prostitutes? God forbid tht any thinking human being should fall so low as to lick the boot that repeatedly kicks him. As between Hoover and Smith, why should any Negro hesitate to make the proper choice. Hoover is a political adventurer, a soldier of fortune, serving under any banner for revenue only—one time a Democrat under Wilson—next time a Republican under Coolidge. Under Wilson he was for the League of Nations—under Coolidge he was against it. Under Wilson he wanted nothing but Democrats to come to congress—under Coolidge he wants nothing but Republicans to come. All things to all men—nothing to any man.

Hoover's greatest admirers point with pride to his great record in carrying food to flood sufferers. Now if that fits a man for the presidency of the greatest Nation on earth, Noah should have been elected Lord of Lords and King of Kings. Hoover wears his political principles as a loose garment.

Al Smith has arisen like Lincoln fom the honest walks of life. In the struggle and strife he has ben in constant contact with the weak and lowly. He has taken them to his bosom that they might feel the warmth and pulsations of his mighty iron heart. He was not like Hoover, born with a silver spoon in his mouth and a ace colar about his neck. He has felt the cold and of'times that which is sharper than any cold. He has climbed to the highest places and left all predjudice, meanness and hatred far below him .

Political—1928

Party Affiliation

Democratic

Political Pot Boils Slowly

Lester Walton Heads Democratic Political Bureau

HAWKINS LEADS G. O. P.

Another Week May See Things Hum

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21—(PNS)—The question now before the country is what is the delay of both major parties in getting started what was supposed to be the greatest campaign the country ever knew. Before the conventions prediction was rife that more money would be spent this year than ever before by both parties—the Republicans and the Democrats. The conventions are over, the candidates have been selected and at this writing one of them has been notified, but the campaign seems to be lagging.

Democrats Make Start

In Democratic quarters nothing can be heard of what part the Colored voters will play in this campaign and election and the only thing that has been done by them is the opening of headquarters in 46th street, New York City, where the Colored brother will do his "Carrying On." This is several blocks away from the General Motors building where the white folks will "Carry On."

Lester A. Walton Named

Lester A. Walton, of the New York World, has been selected as publicity man, and his selection has proven very popular among the Democrats. Mr. Walton has many friends in both of the major parties. Attorney Rainey, of Boston is said to be a lose personal friend of William Gaston, a New England millionaire, is heading up the Colored division along with Mr. Walton. It appears that Mr. Rainey will do the directing of activities, leaving the publicity end of the campaign to Mr Walton.

Much Talk of Morton

In prominent Democratic circles in New York City much disucssion is going the rounds as to what part Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton will play in the campaign for Governor Smith, since Mr. Morton is the leading Colored member of Tammany Hall. It is also being asked what has become of the Honorable William H. Lewis, of Boston and what part he will play. it will be remembered that he turned Democrat four years ago and it may be said with considerable truth that he is still off the Republican "reservation."

Not Much Doing Here

Down here in Washington things are just as slow as they are in New York City, if not slower. The only difference, however, is that the activities of the whites and colored here in Washington are not seperated, they are all in the same building. There is nothing doing in the publicity department. In fact, Robert L. Vann, of Pittsburgh, Pa., director of Publicity, has not even been to Washington as late as last Saturday. It is understood that Chairman John R. Hawkins is busy trying to get his appointees to come to a conference but they seem to be "shying" at the conference for some reason. At any rate the campaign has not started here in Washington. Another week may see things moving in both camps and the much-talked of campaigns may get going at full speed.

MARY BOOZE DENIES PATRONAGE CHARGES

Negro G. O. P. Committeewoman Flays Postmaster.

CLARKSDALE, Miss., Aug. 26.—Mary O. Booze, negro, national Republican committeewoman for the state of Mississippi, in an interview with a Commercial Appeal reporter, takes issue with W. V. Taylor, postmaster of Clarksdale, regarding his public statement made a few days ago, denouncing the sale of federal positions by negro politicians in the state.

"Mr. Taylor seeks to reflect upon the integrity of the recognized political authorities in Mississippi, some of whom happen, at this time, to be members of the negro race," said Mary Booze.

"It is well known that I have been for the past four years, and am now, the recognized Republican national committeewoman of the state of Mississippi, and, as such, federal appointments in the Third Congressional District have been referred to me for approval," she said. "In these matters I have first sought the advice of the Republican county chairman and secretary in each county of this district, but before making my recommendation, I have sought the advice of some outstanding white citizen in the community where the appointment was to be made, and in no instance were applicants or their friends required to pay for my recommendation.

"Under date of June 21 I received a communication from the chairman and secretary of the Coahoma County Republican committee approved by the chanrman of the Republican Third Congressional District committee, asking me to call upon the national committeeman to have an examination to secure an eligible register to fill the vacancy at Clarksdale caused by the expiration of Mr. Taylor's commission. The request was granted and the examination was ordered. I am told several applicants applied for the position and some, including Mr. Taylor, requested my support. I made no promise to any applicant as it was my policy to wait until the elegible register had been announced and referred to me for approval.

"It was, therefore, a surprise to me to note the announcement that the examination had been withdrawn and that Mr. Taylor would be reappointed. I immediately registered my objection to his reappointment to highest political authorities and I shall follow up my protest, until the insinuations or charges he has made are investigated and disproven.

"I do not believe in making unfounded insinuations or charges against anyone, especially through the press, but it is very likely that there will be some surprises in store for both Mr. Taylor and the public when the actual facts are made known regarding his effort to be reappointed postmaster.

"It is true that I am a negro woman and that my father, the late Isaiah T. Montgomery, was a black man and a former slave, but he was raised under the highest environment of the white race, being a member of the household and office boy of the late President Jefferson Davis. His heart was as true as steel to both races and he always advocated peace and harmony among them. He gave his life for the betterment of his native state and taught his children to love and respect its history and traditions. He was proud of his race and had faith in its ultimate success, but he wa sabove flattery and race prejudice and it pleased him just as much to help a white person as it did to help a member of his own race.

"I came up under the special training of my father, serving as his private secretary. Under every Republican administration for the past 40 years his advice was sought and respected in the Third District. I know the course he pursued and have conscientiously followed his example and I do not believe there is a white man in the district except Mr. Taylor, who would question my veracity and integrity. I have an abiding faith in the fairness of the white people of Mississippi. Therefore, I have no fear of the outcome of a thorough an dimpartial investigation by the federal authorities. As a matter of fact, I welcome such an investigation."

Mobile, Ala., Register
Sunday, Aug. 26, 1928

Voice of the People

SMITH AND THE NEGRO

To the Editor of The Register:

For the reason that there are very few dailies in the South which would give it space, the article which I am taking the liberty of enclosing to you was prepared for and has been offered to few publications other than religious weeklies. An editorial from The Register in this week's Literary Digest expresses the viewpoint of the article and encourages me to hope you may be willing to give it to your readers. It is too long, but I could not condense it and carry the thought to a conclusion which I wanted to convey.

I am just a farmer of no particular distinction. But I have voted the Democratic ticket for more than forty years because I thought it represented the best things for the average man—the man with the hoe. Personally I have divided my time about equally between making a living for myself and family and helping to make living better for others. And to indicate that my efforts have not been merely moral preachments, I mention only for your personal information, that I have established a trust fund in the sum of $200,000, the proceeds of which are to be used for benevolences. I am profoundly interested in preserving all of the best that civilization has accomplished.

L. D. Childs.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Aug. 4, 1928.

The article referred to by Mr. Childs is the following letter to Judge R. C. Watts, of North Carolina:

St. Petersburg, Fla., Aug. 3, 1928.

Judge R. C. Watts,
Laurens, S. C.

My Dear Sir:

I have read in the public press, with much surprise and very profound regret, your statement issued from an Atlanta sanatorium in which you attack the intelligence and honor of Southern Democrats who elect to support the principles and platform of the Democratic party rather than to support Alfred E. Smith. Surely you have failed to inform yourself about the background of Mr. Smith and to see from whence his viewpoint of life comes, than which, nothing is so important in determining what course of action he may be expected to follow, and which, in addition to his present attitude, those who oppose him regard as sufficient grounds for their position. For instance, I wonder if you have informed yourself about the causes which brought about the impeachment of William Sulzer, Democratic governor of New York. If not, let us review that enlightening history.

Alfred E. Smith was speaker of the assembly at the time and Boss Murphy was his faithful lieutenant. Among the first acts the speaker jammed through were the famous "McKee bills" intended to cripple the work of Dr. William H. Maxwell, superintendent of schools in the city of New York, and to place the public schools more completely under the control of Tammany Hall, the political organization in which he has been nurtured and to which he is so greatly indebted. Governor Sulzer refused to sign the bills. He was besought, implored, threatened. Big Tammany bosses, one after another, with high church dignitaries came from New York to Albany and repeated the process. But the governor stood firm. On April 13, 1913, Boss Murphy paid the governor his final call, remaining with him until after midnight. As he was leaving he turned upon Governor Sulzer with these words: "All right; I will disgrace and destroy you!" But many Democratic representatives outside of New York City and its environs refused to impeach their governor without cause, and the Republican minority had by caucus decided to let the Democrats do their own dirty work. . . . . Immediately thereafter several Republican assemblymen were summoned to Speaker Smith's office. At 5 o'clock in the morning when their names were called seven of those Republican assemblymen bolted their party caucus, voted to impeach Governor Sulzer, and he was impeached.

Why you should raise the question of the "bloody shirt;" why one in your position should threaten that negroes "will be killed," I am unable to see. I have failed to hear of any opponent of Mr. Smith who has in any manner whatsoever suggested "negro domination." Since you have raised the question, I think it is worth while to inform you, as you do not appear to know, what actual conditions are in the city of New York where Governor Smith and his Tammany backers are in complete control.

Ferdinand Morton, a negro, and president of the "United Colored Democracy," a Smith negro club, is civil service commissioner in the city of New York. Every civil service position filled by negroes and whites, by men and women, is granted by Commissioner Morton. The majority of policemen in parts of the city are negroes. The public schools, now under complete dominance of Tammany Hall, in at least some sections of the city, have no segregation of negroes and whites. Though the law permits it, Tammany bosses refuse to permit white children who have to sit side by side with negro children to transfer to schools where only white children attend. In the Harlem section of New York there are many cabarets where white men and negro women and white women and negro men associate upon a common level, dance and drink together and freely intermarry. And in the New York Times of October 29, 1924, can be found the report of a campaign speech, on front page, which Governor Smith made to the people of Harlem, a populous negro section, in which he appealed for the negro suffrage on the ground that he was unalterably opposed to any kind of race prejudice. And if Governor Smith likes the condition of race equality which he and Tammany bosses impose upon white school children in the city of New York; and if he is unalterably opposed to any kind of race prejudice in one section of the United States; and if he is as "fearlessly honest" as his Tammany backers assert he is, why should he not like the same condition in the South, were he president of the United States?

I, and, I believe, all Southern men and women are used to holding the high office you hold in profound respect; the robes you wear are emblematic of justice to small and great to weak and strong, and of that poise which inspires emulation. You will therefore permit me to say, that your intemperate language; your denunciation of your fellows as "traitors," apparently without informing yourself about the tremendous principles which actuate their conscience, is an assault upon the freedom of action guaranteed to every American, which I did not expect from one of your years of valued service and your exalted position.

Very sincerely,
L. D. Childs.

DEMOCRATS APPOINT HEADS

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Encouraged by what they feel is a definite drift upon the part of Negroes to the standard of Al Smith, plans are being laid by the Democrati

National Committee for a determined effort to capture Negro votes.

Already a colored section of the campaign committee is being formed. The organization is titled the Smith for President Colored Headquarters and is located at 132 W. Forty-sixth street, this city.

Julian Rainey, a prominent young attorney of Boston, has been named as active director although it is said that some titular position will be created for Civil Service Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton, long known as the Tammany chief of Harlem. Lester A. Walton, nationally famous member of the New York Daily World staff, is director of publicity. Mr. Walton handled a similar phase of the campaign four years ago under the leadership of William H. Lewis of Boston, Mr. Morton and Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City.

Earle B. Dickerson of Chicago has been named regional director for the Middle West. It is understood that eastern headquarters hopes Mr. Dickerson may be chosen to substitute for the white congressional candidate in the first Chicago district. Charles Washington, well known New Yorker and nephew of Booker T. Washington, is an attache of the office. A vigorous campaign is to be launched at once. Messrs. Rainey and Walton declared "to sell the virtues of 'Al' Smith to the colored voters of the country." Bishop Reverdy C. Ramson is to head the speakers' bureau.

HOLD YOUR NOSE—JUST ONCE

There is much enthusiasm among the Al Smith colored voters of Mobile and vicinity for a committee of prominent colored men are arranging for a big mass meeting to be held next week. The purpose of the meeting is the organization of a Smith and Robinson campaign club. The names of the committee follow: A. Caldwell, W. H. Atkinson, John A Pope, Daniel Powell, Joe Burke Speed Taylor, Dove Robinson, W. H. Lewis, John Shaw, Alexander Pope, Al Smith—Mobile Post.

What? Alabama negroes organizing to vote for Al Smith—the white man's democratic nominee for president—the white man's candidate? Can that be true? The Mobile Post—whatever newspaper that may be —is responsible for this bit of choice news. It is news of general circulation in Alabama, but not in Georgia where, according to the larger newspapers, one who votes his choice upon the call of conscience has to do so at the beck and call of Ben Davis! Piffle!

When this campaign is bared to the voter it will be found that Tammany is organizing the negro and giving him political preference over the white man—as in the case of the St. Louis negro candidate for congress on the Al Smith ticket against the veteran white man Congressman Dyer from the Twelfth Missouri district. The Al Smith supporters have this negro out for congress upon the democratic ticket. You'll never hear them make denial of it, for it is so. And the Alabama negroes are going to vote the Al Smith ticket!

But over the line here in Georgia the protesting white democrats who propose to vote for Hoover because they cannot support Smith and the menace of the Tammany ticket are stigmatized— unmentionable brutes—for daring to follow conscience in their belief that Hoover is a real leader in the cause for clean government—and the man of all men in the crisis which threatens the very principles upon which this republic was founded to save it from the alien hordes of Tammany as national dictators in the White House. Over here in Georgia protesting democrats are negro coddlers for protesting.

And the capping of the climax is the nerve of the Smith supporters who are planning to vote the negroes like so many cattle—for liquor—the grog shop and the saloon—using the negro in office as high up as congressional candidates as far south as Missouri—and at the same time squirting the perfume of the greasy negro, Ben Davis, at the good women who are courageously trying to save the homes, the women and the children of this land from the disgrace and disaster of the return of the saloon!

Pity Marse Hoke! Where is he with his pistol and musket? What is he going to do with Alabama white men and women who refuse to vote with these negroes for Al Smith?

Smith Not Worried About The South, But Anxious For Negro Vote

Of interest to those Democrats of the solid south who are willing to be voted like sheep for Al Smith because of their mortal fear of being termed bigots, bolters or worse by their party bosses, should be the cock sure attitude of Al Smith and his managers that the South despite its traditions and ideals of all future years will forget the past and go down the line for the wettest and most selfish candidate (we shall say more about his selfishness later) that has ever headed a Democratic presidential ticket.

Summing up the attitude of Smith's campaign leaders, a staff writer in the Chicago Tribune said: "In the first place they count on carrying the South despite all threats of bolting Smith that have emanatted from southern drys since the New Yorker telegraphed the Houston convention that he still favors modification of the prohibition law. The Democratic disaffection in the south has simmered down to a few protestant teachers and anti-saloon league superintendents.

While this confident of the South, and the belittling attitude taken toward the protestants of the south who have voiced disapproval of Smith, the democratic national committee will divert its greatest attention to the large cities of the east where it is hoped to sweep the wet states of the seaboard on the issue of modification of the prohibition law.

The democratic national committee will also forget the corn belt and the farmers, because the corn belt is conceeded to the republicans.

But Al Smith has not forgotten the negro vote. The highest paid negro appointee of New York has been sent on a tour throughout the nation to organize the colored vote for the wet Tammany candidate. And yet Mr. Raskob and Al except the south to line up and remain in line by the whip of the democratic leaders of the southern states—the threat that if they don't vote for Smith they will be eliminated from participation in the next primary election of the party.

As an Arkansas party said, of the threat to disqualify bolters. "Who wants to stay in a skunk's den anyway?"

If Mister Smith was the man that the democratic bosses of the south say he is, he would have declined the nomination after the party of Jefferson had declared for enforcing the prohibition laws. Ordinarily any man—if he was a man at all—would not attempt to run on a platform if that platform was not his own convictions. Instead, selfish and greedy, Smith the drinker, and Smith the Negro-lover, accepted the nomination of the party in one breath and with the next declared that his own opinion of the dry laws of the country greater than the opinion of the party that selected him.

Smith has bolted the ticket of the democratic party. There is not one word for condemnation from party leaders or the delegates that adopted the platform and then made Smith. Yet democrats who would bolt Smith because he has bolted the platform are to get thrown out on their ear.

Any true Democrat of the south than can stomach this, that is ready to swallow hook, line and sinker who is ready to shut his eyes and vote for a candidate who KNOWS the South MUST vote for him while he also organizes the negro vote, is, to our mind, anything but a true and loyal democrat.

And on that our measurement of a loyal and true democrat matters so much—it really doesn't—but it should be exceedingly hard for any Democrat who considers himself true and loyal to his party to conscientiously vote for Smith, who is himself a bolter and bigot of the lowest type.—The Foley Onlooker.

THE NEGRO VOTE.

(From The Lynchburg News)

When Bishop Ainsworth, of the Methodist church, denouncing the candidacy of Al Smith, asserts that the "good men" who are supporting Smith are joining hands with "large numbers of purchasable negroes and foreigners" in an effort to elect the New York governor he makes a statement which he should know is not true. The plain and only reference is that the good men who are seeking to prevent the election of Smith are not keeping political company with purchasable negroes and foreigners.

Is Smith being supported by the negro national committeemen and women from certain Southern states? Is Smith being supported by the Republican negro candidates for congress in Chicago? And what of those voters of foreign extraction in certain Western and Middle Western states who normally vote Republican; are they bolting their party to support the Democratic candidate? Unless Bishop Ainsworth can answer these questions in the affirmative, his effort to make it appear that Smith is the candidate of the "purchasable negroes and foreigners" is an effort to make white appear black.

Those gentlemen who, for reasons which satisfy their own minds, are fighting the Democratic candidate would do well to soft-pedal on the question of which candidate is a bidder for the "purchasable negro" vote. It was Hoover, not Smith, who forbid race segregation in the department of commerce: it was Hoover, not Smith, who profited by the support of corrupt Southern political machines in the hands of negroes. It was Hoover's party, not Smith's which nominated a negro for congress in Chicago; it has been Hoover's party, not Smith's, which has kept itself in office with the aid of negro votes.

Political – 1928

Party Affiliation.

Dr. Du Bois, Negro Leader, Bares Gov. Smith's Record.

W. E. Burghardt Du Bois, editor of the Crisis, Negro monthly, and well-known champion of the colored race, writing in the current issue of the Nation, claims that the Democratic organization has established a "Jim Crow" annex and does not allow Negroes to have offices in the regular headquarters. This he says lines the Democrats up with the Lily Whites of the South as surely as did the action of the Republicans, whom he charges with ousting every Negro political leader in the Southern states.

The unsuccessful effort to induce Governor Smith to make a friendly gesture toward Negro voters is thus described by Dr. Du Bois:

> A number of enthusiastic colored folk and friends of colored people put before the advisers of Governor Smith several possible statements which he might make to show that at least he was not an enemy of the American Negro. He refused to say a single word. He refused to let even indirectly anything go out from his headquarters which should seem to represent him as friendly to the black men.
>
> On the other hand, explicit and repeated anti-Negro propaganda is being sent out by Democratic headquarters. When the Klan accused Governor Smith of having as his private stenographer "a Negro wench", Democratic headquarters at Washington on September 8 sent out the following release: "Governor Smith does not have, and never has had, a Negro stenographer, and in the employment of Negroes by the State of New York under his administration this has been done only to fill such jobs as they are given in the South, to wit: porters, janitors, charwomen, etc."

The interesting thing about this statement is that it is perfectly true. In all of Governor Smith's long career, he has sedulously avoided recognizing Negroes in any way. He has twice vetoed bills which would have given a colored magistrate to Harlem. He has never given a Negro any major appointment. He has seldom been willing to receive a Negro delegation and it is doubtful if he has met personally in all his career a half-dozen of the 150,000 Negroes of his State.

Dr. Du Bois asserts that in view of the actual facts, Gov. Smith has repudiated the politically embarrassing Negro as thoroughly as has Mr. Hoover.

When "Boss" Tweed was put on trial and convicted for grafting, the prosecuting attorneys were Charles O'Conor and Wheeler Peckham, noted attorneys and members of Tammany. "Boss" Tweed was defended by Elihu Root, a Republican.

Democratic

SMITH STRONG ON CHICAGO'S SOUTHSIDE

Say Republicans Are Worried Over Changing Sentiment In Stronghold

10/20/28

By LESTER A. WALTON

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—When it comes to compactness and consistency at the polls there is an analogy between the Democratic Solid South and Chicago's Republican South Side, sometimes referred to as the "Black Belt." At this time when predictions are being broadcast about Mississippi, or some other Southern State breaking away from past traditions and going into the Republican column, Illinois Democratic chieftains are expressing high hopes of making an appreciable dent in the South Side's vote, hitherto one of America's most impregnable G. O. P. strongholds.

That there are good reasons for making this claim cannot be denied as colored voters here are manifestly in a resentful mood. A pronounced feeling of dissatisfaction prevails. To the visitor those in a belligerent frame of mind express themselves openly and loudly.

Have Played Game According to Hoyle

Since the World war thousands of migrants from the South settled in the South Side and Chicago Negroes have been an important factor in local politics, having played the game more "according to Hoyle" than members of the race anywhere else in the country. They have a municipal judge, civil service commissioner, state senator, state representatives and other important offices. There are between 80,000 and 90,000 colored men and women who vote in the "Windy City," and while the bulk of it is in the Second, Third and Fourth wards the group exerts a commanding influence in other sections of the city, particularly here and there on the west side.

Like Democratic leaders in other Northern states, who are greatly cheered by reported Smith sentiment among Negroes, State Chairman Donovan and others high in Illinois party councils are optimistic about weaning away from the G. O. P. scores of colored voters to Gov. Smith. They are mindful, however, of memorable instances in the past when some in the race have revolted against the Republican party in the early stages of the campaign, only to be placated by G. O. P. managers a few days before the election. But with Smith clubs being formed among Negroes throughout the city and state, the feeling persists at Democratic headquarters in the Sherman House that this year a precedent is to be established in which colored voters will say what they mean and mean what they say.

There is a combination of reasons for this threatened disintegration, but the chief one is keen resentment against the elimination of the Negro from responsible places of leadership, which policy many colored Americans believe has been inspired by the Ku Klux Klan.

The bitter fight in Cook County for control of the Republican machine has directly involved the Negro voters, the majority of whom in the past have been loyal to Mayor Thompson. With the Deneen forces doing everything in their power to gain control ill feeling is being engendered on every hand.

The indictment of Oscar De Priest, formerly alderman of the Second ward and Republican candidate for Congress from the First Congressional District of Illinois, to succeed the late Martin B. Madden, by the special grand jury now probing election frauds, graft and vice conditions on the south side, has been brought about by factional politics, Thompson supports assert.

Like a Martyr Among Negroes

De Priest's indictment has served to make him sort of a martyr among colored voters in the district who, with unconcealed delight, had looked forward to sending a Negro to Congress from the North for the first time in history. The nominee has refused to withdraw and has issued a statement charging Republicans unfriendly to him with having put him in his embarrassing position.

"My indictment is but a part of a nefarious scheme hatched through the erstwhile oligarchy of pseudo-Republicans which waged the battle in the spring of 1927 against William Hale Thompson, when hundreds of men and women were promiscuously thrown in jail, all of which was aimed at our leadership. The charges against me are unwarranted and without foundation in fact," De Priest avers.

THE WORLD'S HARDEST JOB

10/20/28

UNQUESTIONABLY, the hardest job in the world is that of the Negro Democrats who must apologize for the party of their adoption. For some time now, ever since funds have been available they have gone up and down the country trying to persuade skeptical Negroes that the Democrats have experienced a change of heart. Some of them hold forth at great length about the "liberal" Democrats who are now heading the party. This sounds very strange to those acquainted with the facts. It is the general impression that the leaders of the Democratic party are such men as Senators Robinson and Caraway of Arkansas, Senator Patrick Harris of Mississippi, Senator Glass of Virginia and others of that ilk. These gentlemen may be "liberal" but they have not been "liberal" in their attitude toward the colored brother.

It is rather pathetic to hear Ferdinand Q. Morton laboring to tell why he is for Smith. Mr. Morton, it will be recalled, is the gentleman who is supposed to head the United Colored Democracy in Harlem. And yet, so badly has Tammany treated her Negro friends there that they have only recently formed a Ferdinand Q. Morton Association in order to get control of the district into the hands of Negroes. It was but a few weeks ago that Mr. Morton had to refuse to take charge of the Negro Democrats in the present campaign because the Democratic party opened a Jim Crow headquarters in New York City. Not only that, but Mr. Morton and all Negro Americans know that the National Democratic committee was very anxious to keep him in the background because of his militancy, which is very distasteful to the southern element.

The Negro apologists for the Democratic party have seemingly forgotten that the Democrats refused to send a single delegate to the Democratic convention for fear of insulting the Solid South and impairing the chances of Governor Smith being nominated. Further, anticipating that some Negroes might be anxious to attend the sessions in Houston, the Democrats set aside for them a cage, such a one as will find in every zoo throughout the country. In this cage the Negroes were herded, and one of their number delegated to watch over the portals to see that no dark Democrat sneaked out and wandered among the whites.

All through this campaign, the Democrats while anxious for the Negro vote have tried to conceal the fact that they are in order not to arouse the enmity of the Solid South. If these Democratic strategicians are so solicitous about the feelings of the Solid South regarding the color question before election, what will be their attitude after election? In order to make their job easier, the black spokesmen of the Democratic Party are attempting to point out, first, that there is a difference between the Democrat in the North and the Democrat in the South; second, that the northern Democrats are now in the ascendency in the party councils; and thirdly that, since the Northern Democrats are more liberal than the Southern Democrats a Democratic Administration, therefore, will be more liberal toward the Negro than any of us suspect. In proof of this, they point to men like Governor Smith, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Herbert H. Lehman, John H. Raskob. Owen D. Young and others. These gentlemen seem to forget that already the Northern Democrats have shown what their attitude will be in the event of Governor Smith's election by what they have done already. If they Jim Crow Negroes before election, when their vote is solicited, how much more likely are they to Jim Crow them after election when their vote is not needed?

Southern campaigners for the Democratic party such as Senator Robinson of Arkansas are vociferously pointing out to Dixie audiences that Tammany has always stood by the South in the past. The Senator is on sound ground. Tammany HAS always stood by the South. It was the cohorts of Tammany that encouraged the Draft Riots during the Civil War. After the Civil War it was the Democrats of Tammany Hall who stood shoulder to shoulder with the South to beat the Negro back into chattel slavery. When Representative Henry Cabot Lodge, the eminent Republican, introduced his bill in 1890 (popularly called the Force Bill) to secure the Negro in the South the right to suffrage, which the Fifteenth Amendment guaranteed, Tammany was on the side of the South in opposing it. During the impassioned argument for the bill in the House of Representatives, Representative Cummings of New York, a Democrat, had this to say: "The New York Representative who votes for this bill ought to blush with shame. He will repent of this in sackcloth and ashes." If there has been any change in the attitude of the Northern Democrat since that time, it has been conspicuous by its absence.

We admire these Negro Democrats for their courage i attempting to defend the Democratic Party and even to plea its cause. They have no easy job to convince intelligent Negr audiences that they should vote for Senator Robinson of Arl ansas and all the hoard of hungry Democratic politicians who will descend upon Washington if Governor Smith is elected.

Yes, they are brave men and they need to be brave for they have the World's Hardest Job.

"A VOTE FOR THE PARTY"

"We can never vote for the Democratic party so long as it stands for the ignorance, meanness and race hatred exemplified in Memphis, Tennessee, Texas, Georgia and Mississippi. A vote for Al Smith is not a vote for the man, but for the Democratic party, with all of its infamy, race hatred and political intolerance.

"Every law on the books that offers us citizenship, protection, or anything else, was put on by the Republican party, and every act outlawing our rights, humiliating us, or taking from us that which the Constitution guarantees us was placed upon the books by the Democratic party. In every state in the union where there is a Democratic governor or Democratic government, we are jim-crowed, disfranchised and humiliated, and in no state where we have a Republican government are we jim-crowed, disfranchised, or denied our rights."

These are the words of Ben Davis, colored national committeeman for the Republican party in Georgia. He is the man who has been trusted by the party with the sale of patronage in Georgia during the Republican regime, and is still recognized as the chief spokesman for the party in Georgia.

Ben Davis is no simpleton, whatever else he may be. He knows the significance of a vote for the Republican nominee in the coming election, and he says it means a vote for that party which stands for the furtherance of negro equality. He says, "A vote for Al Smith is not a vote for the man, but a vote for the Democratic party."

And Ben Davis is exactly correct in both of his statements. The Republican party is the defender of negro equality, and the foe of the Southern white man's determination to defend his government against negro domination. Whatever our bolting friends may wish to admit, they can not evade the truth of Ben Davis' declaration.—Bulloch Times.

APPROACH ROBINSON

SENATOR ROBINSON CORDIALLY RECEIVES SMITH COLORED SUPPORTERS.

(California Eagle)

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18, '28: Stories have been rumored that Senator Robinson, Democratic candidate for Vice-President, refused to see a Negro delegation and various things said about his attitude to lynching and mob violence in the south.

Tuesday morning, October 9th, a Negro delegation, composed of Miss Theodosia Jones, Messrs. Jas. Alexander, R. G. LaMar and Mrs. C. A. Bass, visited Senator Robinson at the Biltmore Hotel and were cordially received.

After asking Senator Robinson about these so called rumors, he said:

"These rumors are all propaganda intended to take the Negro vote from the Democratic party. There is not a word of truth in it. Among my many and long friends are to be found some of the best people of the south, in fact, I received a telegram from Rev. Robinson, who happens to have the same initials as my own, that we will receive more than ten thousand Negro votes in Little Rock.

"I was present at a meeting just a few days ago when one of our leading women of the state said that for every Democratic vote lost to the party, we would gain 2 colored votes. No, my good friends, such action on the part of the Ku Klux Klan and the lower element of the South does not have my approval nor that of any fair thinking man. I am for law and order. My record is the best proof. Any doubt as to my stand on this or other things, wire or write Rev. Robinson or have him come west and tell you in person."

MARCUS GARVEY, DEPORTED, WRITES URGING NEGROES OF U. S. TO SUPPORT AL SMITH

Marcus Garvey, negro, who once was probably the greatest leader of the race in the United States, but whose voice now is heard and influence felt only from afar, since his deportation, is a most ardent supporter of Alfred E. Smith for president.

Spread over the entire front page of The Negro World, weekly published in New York City and said to be the leading race paper of the country is a "message" from Garvey to "fellow men of the negro race," in which he points out the great things Al Smith as governor of New York has done for negroes in the way of political jobs and other rewards, and hints at the greater things that may be expected with Smith in the White House.

Garvey writes his message from West Kensington, London, England, whither he has drifted since being forcibly ejected from the United States as a highly undesirable citizen. The issue of \ekl yis dated July 28, and the article is captioned: "All negroes should vote for Al Smith and the Democratic party in November; negro voter must not be misled." The article:

"Once more the time has come for the American negro to use his ballot wisely in the interest of domestic politics and supremely in the interest of the black race.

"Another presidential election is to be held in November. Already the two larger parties have placed their respective candidates in the field. For president the Republicans have Secretary Hoover, and the Democrats Governor Al Smith. Between the two men every member of the Universal Negro Improvement association, in America with a vote must decide for Al Smith, not because the Democratic party has been more kindly disposed toward the negro than the Republican party, but because Hoover represents a gang of politicians who mean absolutely nothing good to the black man in America, nor anywhere else, for that matter. Therefore, if we have to choose between the two men, it is better for us to decide for Al Smith than Hoover.

"Who is Mr. Hoover? Mr. Hoover is the candidate of a corrupt system of republicanism that has exploited the country for the past eight years—the system that gave us the Tea Pot Dome and the alien fraud cases in which Harry Daugherty, the late attorney general, figured prominently; the same Daugherty under whose regime the Universal Negro Improvement association and its auxiliary corporations were hounded and its president framed up in the federal district court so as to dispose of his power and influence which could not be used by the gang to keep the negro fooled in order to exploit him to serve big business interests. Isn't Mr. Hoover the friend of Mr. Firestone, who also acted as foster father to the Firestone scheme to rob black Liberia? Isn't this the Mr. Hoover who supported Firestone so as to corner Liberia and take away her independence, the independence that was given to her by former white presidents and American philanthropists as an experiment in negro self help? After other white men in Americna public life helped to establish Liberia and made it a free Republic, this Mr. Hoover in this our present century has come upon the scene to assist big American interests to reduce Liberia to slavery, the slavery from which Abraham Lincoln freed us in America in 1865. Mr. Hoover is representative of his business men; business men without souls or consciences, big bsuiness men, like Firestone, who are always ready to invade and exploit the countries of the darker and weaker people of the earth.

"There is absolutely no doubt that every intelligent and far-seeing negro in America with a vote will cast it for Al Smith and pass over the name of Herbert Hoover, the man who represents nothing to the negro but a return to slavery.

"I am warning the American negro not to fall for the clap-trap of the Republican party. They will tell you lots of things and promise you worlds whioh ycu will never obtain. They have fooled you from one presidential campaign to the next. Whenever the president is elected and gets into power he has a way of shunting the negro, or in other words, 'passing the buck.' The time has come for the American negro to call a halt on this passing-the-buck scheme. With a man like Al Smith as president, we may hope for much more from the Democratic party than the race has ever received from the hypocritical Republican party which serves nothing else but big business interests in their efforts to exploit the black people of the world.

"The Republican party has throttled two independent black republics. They have throttled Haiti so that the National City bank and other commerical interests can exploit the black republic of the West Indies. It is true that it was under Woodrow Wilson's regime that America assumed control of Haiti, but Woodrow Wilson never intended Haiti to be exploited as the Republican party has done.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Negro World

Democratic

AT THE CROSSROADS

The Negro World will be on the newsstands of New York City by 6 a. m. on Election Day, and so we cannot resist saying our last say to the Negro voters of the metropolis. Everything points to the fact that the Democratic ticket will be more largely supported by the Negroes of New York City in 1928 than ever before in the history of Presidential elections. And this is as it should be, since at the head of that ticket stands the name of a man which is one to conjure with.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, the people's man, stands for all that is sanest and soundest in American political life today. Of this we are assured.

Some people take the position that because Governor Smith has not mentioned the Negro group by name and made a definite pledge to it to put an end, as far as he is able, if elected President, to the many vile abuses which it now suffers, that he is not entitled to the votes of Negroes. These people reason in the same manner about Hoover, and they would have the Negro either refrain from voting or, as a gesture of protest, vote for Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate.

These people, we earnestly submit, are giving the Negro unwholesome advice. This is not the time for the Negro to be throwing away his ballot, his most precious possession today. A lesson must be read to the faithless Republican Party. A change must be effected at Washington. A man whose heart beats in sympathy with the masses must occupy the White House. Every trace of Daughertyism or snobbery must be obliterated from Pennsylvania avenue. No "White House spokesman" must confront Negro delegations as they ask that they and theirs be allowed to live like human beings, and citizens, if you please, in the land which thrived and put on stature as a result of their labors. We want, all should want, to see humanity and Christian charity and honest-to-goodness fifty-fifty dealing enthroned in this land. And who is better fitted to fill this great role than the standard-bearer of the Democratic Party, Alfred Emanuel Smith, who, even in the marvelous campaign just ended, has already wrought a wondrous good?

If Smith had singled out the Negro as the recipient of fervid promises of social and political betterment, he would have solidified the sentiment of the bigots and the unjust which is now arrayed against him. He would have reduced almost to vanishing point his chances of election. For, say what we may, the most rabid Ku Kluxer is as powerfully armed on Election Day as the most liberal of the liberals. He, too, has the ballot. It stands to reason, then, that the Negro who longs for a friendly and humane attitude in the White House should not be alarmed at the failure of Al Smith to guillotine his chances.

On the other hand, may we point out that it should be enough, in this campaign, that Smith has not hesitated in making it known far and wide that he stands vehemently opposed to bigotry and intolerance in any form and that he has expressed himself as very mindful of that passage in the Constitution of the United States which asserts recognition of the fact that all men were created equal. All that American Negroes ask, all that American Negroes should ask from those in authority is that they be treated as American citizens.

We again submit that it is of more than passing significance that Al Smith, while Hoover was promising the ignorant and prejudiced that he would not appoint Negroes to Federal office, was paying tribute in a log cabin to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, who signed the Emancipation Declaration giving freedom from slave chains to Negroes.

Governor Smith says victory is in the air. We sincerely hope that victory will crown his efforts. For, if he fails, we see no gain, not by a single step, for many a year in the drive of the oppressed Negro race against the fortresses of injustice and prejudice in this country.

Al Smith, man of the people, demonstrated champion of the people, seeks the suffrages of the nation. Every Negro should deem it a duty to vote for him. Let it never be held against the Negro that at a crisis in his and the nation's history he was found wanting.

GAZETTE

Charleston W. Va.

OCT 16 1928

Negro Democrats Suggest Debate

Republicans Are Challenged To Show Why Colored Race Should Continue to Vote for the G. O. P.

The colored division of the state Republican bureau was challenged to a debate yesterday by the Smith for President colored league, the subject to be "Why the Negroes Should Support the Democratic Ticket," according to Dr. C. F. Hopson, state chairman of the league, who made public a challenge he had addressed to T. Edward Hill, chairman of the G. O. P. branch.

Dr. Hopson suggested that the debate be held the latter part of October or first of November and said that perhaps two debaters should be named by each organization. It was suggested that one of the debaters for the Republicans be T. G. Nutter and one of those for the Democrats would be C. E. Kimbrough, Sr. Both are negro attorneys of Charleston.

The text of Dr. Hopson's letter to Chairman Hill follows:

"The Smith-for-President Colored league would like very much to have a public debate arranged in Charleston on some day about the last part of October or the first part of November, prior to the coming election, between not more than two persons on behalf of the Republicans and not more than two persons on behalf of the Democrats. The subject to be, 'Why the Negroes Should Support the Democratic Ticket.'

"We will chose the affirmative of this issues—that is to say, we will support the proposition that the negroes should vote the Democratic ticket in the coming election."

Race Prejudice in the Campaign

WHATEVER the issues of the present political campaign and whatever the merits of either cause, Americans generally are agreed that some of the tactics being employed to win votes are among the most unethical that have characterized a presidential campaign within the memory of the present generation. This fact is regrettable in the extreme and is alarming.

Exhibiting this feature of the campaign is the insistence of some of the campaigners on lugging the race question into the situation as a determining factor. That is the unethical and illogical way of confusing issues and diverting sane judgment by the appeal to dormant prejudices. It is the way of the mossback mugwump politician who assumes that the constituency to whom he is making his appeal are too ignorant to discriminate between that which is an issue and that which is mere "bunk." Ringing the changes on the Negro as a monster to be feared, and therefore to be hated, and suppressed to the point of extermination, was the characteristic method of the now extinct Vardamans, Tillmans, Hoke Smiths, and Cole Bleases. Long time ago their political "hokus-pokus" swayed large masses of unsuspecting folk, and to-day is tolerated even by a not inconsiderable number.

In the present campaign, the harsh song of that group of "type" politicians is left to the Hon. Josephus Daniels. Press dispatches report him as going up and down the Southland digging up the buried skeletons from the graveyard of reconstruction days and dangling these harmless spectres before his audiences in the frantic effort to incite the people to vote against the highest moral interests of the section and of the nation. It is a strange and rather sinister fact that Mr. Daniels is attempting to stir the dry South to follow the wet leadership which he himself just a few months ago specifically declared, according to published report, that he would not follow.

While it is not strange that he uses the weapon of race prejudice as his most efficient means of agitation, it is strange that Mr. Daniels—he of dry navy fame—should be following gleefully behind wet leadership now, and is urging others to do so. As one who once held high office in the Government with all the dignity that office implied, Mr. Daniels should feel it beneath that bestowed dignity to go about the country now capitalizing race prejudice against a minority group of American citizens in order to influence votes. Suppose Mr. Daniels' political career had brought him into the presidency of the nation, colored Americans would have experienced a sad deal at his hands as Chief Executive of all the people.

More disconcerting still is the fact that Mr. Daniels is a Christian—a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Sad indeed it is that Christianity has not pierced through his coat of race prejudice. This same Mr. Daniels, we heard several years ago, deliver fraternal greetings to one of our Methodist Episcopal Negro Conferences in session at Raleigh, N. C. He spoke then eloquently—if eloquence be possible without sincerity. For how can a man be sincerely religious if his religion does not color and determine the character of all his human relationships? Neither Mr. Daniels nor any other man can profess religion without owning the sway of that religion in determining and obligating him to mutual fellowship with all other Christians in every constructive endeavor and relationship of life.

Pious platitudes and inconsistent social attitudes on part of professing Christians are the deadly weapons that are fast killing the confidence of moderns in the validity of the religious experience claimed by those who preach divine love and practice human hate. It is a singular fact that this country of specialized religion is also a country of specialized race prejudice. And this will continue to be so as long as leaders in church circles advocate and practice race discrimination and race hate when their feet leave the threshold of the church building and enter the doors of the marts of industry and commerce, the arena of politics and public relations. Certainly a man who cannot be Christian at the polls and on the hustings cannot be Christian at the baptistry and the prayer altar.

In courageous and heartening contrast to the low level on which some would wage the present political campaign is that pronouncement sent forth last week from a group of high-minded Southern gentlemen with the Christian ring in it, deprecating those tactics of bringing the race question into the campaign. These gentlemen are eminently right and have the gratitude of all right-thinking Americans for this timely admonition. Such men are public benefactors. Broad visioned and broad gauged in soul, they are looking beyond the limits of past traditions and prejudices. They see issues clearly. They know values. These men are seeking the good of the nation. They have risen to a higher political and social philosophy than that of mere sectionalism. They share the mind of a national and world community. Theirs is the sanest voice that has come from the South within the last three decades except as a few other similar voices have been their forerunner. Theirs is a happy corroboration of the fine work done by the Interracial Commission in the effort to break down prejudice and to clear the atmosphere of social thinking so that the races may live peaceably and co-operatively in the South in fruitful labor and in the legitimate pursuit of happiness.

This timely request of Southern leaders that race prejudice be not dragged into the campaign is expressive of the new South. In this section is a growing nucleus of fine Christian public opinion that is striving to make itself articulate in the interest of a just social order. Often it seems well-nigh overcome by backwashes such as appear in this campaign when so many men are resorting to low tactics for partisan purpose, but it cannot finally be suppressed, and will continue to make itself effective with ever-increasing approval by the public mind throughout this entire section. Approaching the polls at such a momentous time as this when big moral issues are pressing for support; when our hearthstones and altars, our children and their destiny are at stake, let Americans, all Christian citizens, banish prejudice of race from their thinking, and let us be moved only by honorable and Christian consideration in casting our ballots.

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.
News
Palmetto - Fla

SEP 14 1928

Democratic.

NEGROES FOR SMITH

A dispatch from New York says:

Declaring that he "has long known Gov. Smith's strength with the negroes in New York state," and that he finds the negro voters in many states lining up for the Tammany candidate, Royal S. Copeland, Democratic senator from New York has issued a statement in which he virtually acknowledged the Tammany-Democratic party to be the party of the negro.

Expressing himself as "pleased with early development indicating great strength for Gov. Smith" among the negro voters, the New York senator continued:

"I have long known his strength with them (negroes) in New York state, and find he is strong with them in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, where the colored people hold the balance in determining how these states will go this fall."

Commenting on Senator Copeland's statements a prominent writer says:

"Time and custom have previously lined the negro up with the Republicans, but this present campaign finds a new alignment, with the negroes—at least those who crave social and political equality—clamoring for the election of the Tammany ticket. The complete equality, socially and politically, of the negroes in Harlem, New York's great black belt, has reacted on the southern negroes and they will be found this November, perhaps for the first time, voting the national Democratic ticket.

"This flop of black voters into the Tammany line-up has been hastened and abetted by action of the Hooverites, who have been ousting many negro politicians from the Republican party councils. This, under the favorable Tammany tactics on the one hand and the "strictly white" policies of the Hoover ticket, white southern Democrats are finding it "easy" to jump the old party traces and vote their Protestant, dry, American sentiments by marking their ballots for Herbert Hoover. The only thing to hold them in line was the "nigger" question, and with the negroes flocking to Al Smith, this issue has lost its kick."

Will southern Democrats follow the lead of Tammany and encourage negro men and women in their efforts to attain "complete social and political equality?"—Palm Beach Independent.

Colored Democrats Construct Midwest Organization

CHICAGO, Sept. 19—With the first firing of the political big guns at various Labor Day celebrations all over the country, the Mid-West division of the Smith-for-President Colored League opened its permanent headquarters in Chicago and announced the line-up of its organization.

In Illinois, two men prominent in the commercial life of Chicago, have accepted appointments on the National Advisory Committee of the Smith-for-President Colored League, and announce that they are out to put "Al" Smith over. W. Ellis Stewart, Secretary of the Liberty Life Insurance Company, and David Manson, Traffic Manager of the Illinois Iron and Metal Company, known widely as the highest salaried Negro executive in America, are the two men.

Dr. Edwarad A. Carter, prominent physician of Detroit, Michigan, and state medical director of Liberty Life Insurance Company, and Dr. Ossian A. Sweet of the famous "Sweet Case," are members of the Advisory Committee from Michigan.

In Ohio, Dr. C. C. Ailer, Cleveland, Pastor of Zion Hill Baptiist Church, has been appointed as one of the representatives from that state on the committee.

State chairmen of three states have also been appointed by the Regional Director, Attorney Earl B. Dickerson of Chicago. Dr. J. W. Ribbins, formerly a close associate of Robert Church in Tennessee has been selected as state chairman of Ohio, and Dr. James Owens, prominent physician, has been chosen vice chairman. Byrd Wade of Charleston, W. Va., has been appointed head of the league's activities in that state.

Leave The Negro Out

We are in to a pretty deep mess of politics in the South. There is no way out of it but to go on through with it. Here in Georgia we are taking the presidential race much more seriously than they are taking it in the "doubtful states" where presidential campaigns rage every four years. It is a new thing with us, and naturally it is characteristic of Georgians to get wrathful, bitter, ugly and mean when they get in politics. We can beat the world with our "intemperance" and our "intolerance" in our politics. It will soon reach the point where the fight will be removed from Hoover and Smith, or from the Kansas City and Houston platforms. It will be a family brawl among Georgia democrats over the question of freedom of the ballot. It will be friend against friend and neighbor against neighbor. This is all bad, but it is now inevitable.

For one thing, The Observer would like to see the Negro left out of the controversy. He is an innocent bystander. He is saying nothing, making no threats and getting in nobody's way. The accomplishments of leaders of the two races for fifteen or twenty years have been coopërating to break down race prejudice and establish good will and law enforcement, have been very great. The Negroes are peaceable citizens. They have good leaders among their preachers and teachers. They are out of politics. They are attending to their own business and letting others alone. They deserve to be let alone in this campaign. Efforts to "ring the Negro in" to the political discussions to stir anew prejudice and hate, are very unworthy. It is tearing up the wide consructive work of wise leaders. that has been a fine contribution to peace and good will among the races in the state.

Let the whites fight among themselves, and say all of the ugly things they feel they must say about each other. Let the Negro go in peace.

Once we had a great race problem in Georgia. Now that problem seems to have passed, largely. Let's not stir the embers into flames again.

N. C. Smith Club At Work

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Sept. 26—North Carolina Negroes have organized in the interest of Governor Smith for President. The Forsyth Colored Democratic Club has established headquarters in the Bruce Building. The officers are W. W. McGhee, President; James E. Mattren, Vice-President; U. S. Anderson, Secretary and Treasurer; and W. H. Copeland, Chairman of the Executive Committee.

Smith's Grove, Ky. Times
Thursday, September 6, 1928

The Negro Equality Buggaboo

The following letter appeared in the Charlotte, (N. C.) Observer for Sunday, July 15:

Tammany and the Negro

"I want to present the following facts before your readers about Tammany and the Negro: Rev R. B. Robinsin, president of the National Afro-American Democratic League, with headquarters at Washington, has issued a call for all Negroes everywhere to rally to the Tammany Democratic standard. He urges all Negroes to support Al Smith in November. And the following from Colorado: "The Colorado Negro voters Advisory Association congratulates the Democratic party upon your nominee (Al Smith) as its standard bearer for the presidency of the United States. Your nomination comes to the negroes of America as their second emancipation proclamation The first freed from manual bondage. The second frees them from political slavery. Colorado Negro voters will give you at least 80 per cent of its voting strength.

"In New York the Tammany organization has a strongly organized Negro branch of Tammany which numbers 100,000 or more. The Tammany, boss of these negroes is Ferdinand Q. Morton, a Negro member of the Civil Service Commission of New York City. This body has charge of the employment of 100,000 white government servants. Tammany Hall has given this Negro commissioner a white woman as his secretary, and he is also the superior officer of 150 white women and white men employes. Other Tammany Negroes hold supervisory positions in the public service in New York. There are numbers of dance halls in New York where blacks dance with white women, and Tammany makes no effort to separate them. Tammany takes into its bosom any and all colors. Negroes and whites eat together in public places in New York City, and go to movies together.

"The above is open to the inspection of any voter who will see for himself, by going to New York. The above are facts. Seek and ye shall find.

"I am visiting in your fair city for a few days, and would appreciate your publishing the above in your paper."—T. Q. Hassell, Brooklyn, N. Y. Flatbush Ave.

Macon, Ga., News
Thursday, September 6, 1928

Race Segregation

To The Herald:

Is it possible that such eminent statesmen as Senators George and Harris are putting themselves on the level of petty politicians in their efforts to make Georgia safe for the "Dummycrats?"

Both senators have, according to the press, declared in their speeches that Herbert Hoover as secretary of commerce, issued an order cancelling the previous custom of labor segregation in his department, thereby placing white and negro employes side by side in the seating arrangements.

An Associated Press dispatch from Atlanta, dated August 30, said:

"Charges that Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential candidate, in his capacity as secretary of commerce, revoked a long-distance order under which white and negro employes were segregated in his department, were reiterated here today in a public statement by Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia. The charges previously had been denied."

And Senator George, in a speech at Tampa, Fla., on August 25th, was quoted by the press as saying:

"As much as I dislike to bring the race question into the picture, still you must have the facts about Hoover's department in Washingon. In order to get the negro vote in Ohio, he issued an order abolishing race segregation and our white women must work along with negroes and have negro bosses."

Well, I believed it until the other day. Surely, I said, such sterling authorities as Messrs. George and Harris new whereof they spoke. In fact, my Southern blood became so ebullient that I was about to tear the Hoover sign off my car and cry out "All for Al," despite the fact that Smith is reported to have appointed 276 negroes to offices paying from $1,800 to $10,000 a year during his administration as governor of New York, and that negroes and whites are allowed to intermarry, and negroes to attend white schools, in his state.

Of course, Senators George and Harris would not resort to deception to keep their state in line for the man they so biterly opposed before he was nominaed. I would give them the benefit of the doubt, and say that they are so gullible that they still believe in Santa Claus, or that their policy, in the present situation is to shove discretion to limbo.

The following correspondence, reproduced from the Christian Index will explain what I mean:

Mr. Frederick J. Haskin, Director,
The Atlanta Journal's Bureau,
Washington. D. C.

Dear Mr. Haskin:

There has been a very decided rumor circulated which declares that Mr. Hoover, as chief of his department, has issued an order cancelling the previous custom of labor segregation and has, by direct instruction, placed white and negro employes side by side in the seating arrangements of his department. You can readily understand that the truth or falsity of this report will have much bearing upon the Southern people. You are in position to know if this rumor is true. Should there be any truth in the statement that negroes and whies are working side by side in the Department of Commerce, I would like for you to indicate how long this has been true and whether or not Mr. Hoover is responsible for the change.

Appreciating your services and with all good wishes, I remain,

Cordially Yours,
SPENCER B. KING.
Superintendent State Missions.

The Atlanta Journal
Frederick J. Haskin, Director
Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.
August 17, 1928.

Mr. Spencer B. King,
Executive Board,
Georgia Baptist Convention,
317 Palmer Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. King:

The Department of Commerce says that no order has been given in regard to racial segregation in the Department of Commerce. No change in the seating arrangement was ordered by Mr. Hoover.

Yours very truly,
FREDERICK J. HASKIN,
Director.

And that's that Dr. Editor. As you know, Haskin's Bureau information is regarded by the press and everyone as thoroughly authentic. But I suppose that some of the Georgia papers now carrying this service will drop it forthwith, on the grounds that there are times when the truth hurts.

Maysville, Ky., Independent
Saturday, September 1, 1928

Negroes Seek Right To Vote Democratic

Houston, Texas, (A. P.)—After 58 years of allegiance to the republican party, many negro voters in Texas are promising fealty to the democrats if they are allowed to cast ballots in the democratic primary elections.

So eager are the negroes to obtain a vote in the primaries that they have instituted suits which, their attorneys say, will be carried to the United States supreme court if necessary.

Texas laws leave to the political parties the power to fix qualifications of elections. The state democratic executive committee has made color one of the qualifications, specifying that a pledge, to appear at the head of ballots in the primary, read: 'I am a white democrat and pledge myself to support the nominees of this primary."

In Texas the election of a republican to any office state or local, is unusual. With the democratic primaries tantamount to general elections, negroes assert they are deprived of a privilege granted by the fifteenth amendment to the constitution.

In the face of previous court decisions holding that primary elections cannot be limited, negroes have applied in several Texas cities for injunctions to prevent election officials from barring them at the democratic primaries.

Judge J. C. Hutcheson of the United States distict court at Houston refused an injunction on the grounds that affairs of political parties are not the business of the courts. An appeal to the United States circuit court at New Orleans now is being prepared.

VOTE FOR A DEMOCRAT?

Tribune Sept 28

Years ago if a colored man would announce that he intended voting a Democratic ticket, he would be gazed upon in wonder. Time has changed considerably. At the coming election thousands of colored men and women will vote for this party. Even in Savannah this party will receive many Negro votes. In fact in the South there is a large class of colored men who are desirous of voting with their white friends of this party rather than otherwise, but in some manner many of these friends have always been suspicious of his vote and would never lend encouragement.

Savannah Ga.

These conservative colored voters are interested in the best welfare of their respective communities and the state at large and want to join with the best thought among their white friends in such a promotion, and will do so whole heartedly if given the least encouragement.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Baltimore Afro-American 9/29/28

KLAN AND LILY-WHITES INJECT NEGRO ISSUE INTO CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The unholy alliance formed by the Ku Klux Klan and Lily-White Republicans and their endeavor to inject the Negro issue in the present presidential campaign become more apparent each day. A letter from the Klan was recently received by Mrs. M. B. Dottery of Okolona, Miss., a white woman, in which she was urged to vote against Governor Smith, primarily because of his friendly attitude toward the Negro. The letter was written by Fred E. Wankan, Grand Dragon of Mississippi, and was as follows:

Dear Mrs. Dottery:

"We have Hoover, a Republican, who is dry, and Smith, a Democrat, who is wet. We have Hoover, who is a Protestant, and Smith, who is a Romanist. We have Smith who believes in social equality and intermarriage of blacks and whites, and Hoover who was the last head of the department in Washington to abolish segregation.

"Tammany Hall has a Negro division, and I am enclosing you copy of record appearing in the Negro Year Book. Smith's record on the Negro question is ten times blacker than that of Hoover's and, of course, it is needless for me to say that I intend to vote for the Republican electors. They will be the Lily-White electors, not the Perry Howard electors.

"We have an upstanding American, who is a Protestant, who is managing Hoover's campaign, while John J. Raskob, who has always been a Republican, who is dripping wet, a Roman Catholic. Private Chamberlain of the Pope's Lay Household, who has been decorated several times by the Pope, managing the so-called Democratic Party, but in fact the 'Tammany Clerical Party.'

"There is no comparison. It is a question of country, and I expect to stay with the country in opposition to the alien-controlled. Rome-ridden, Negro-loving, rum-selling Tammany gang. The Smith forces are going to seek to force us all to vote for Smith on the Negro question, and that little bubble will all be punctured and we won't hear much more of it after our campaign gets under way."

Mrs. Dottery's reply to the Grand Dragon of Mississippi follows:

"I am not nor ever have been a K. K. Was not old enough to belong to the old Order and do not want to belong to anything that works under a mask, anyway."

RUMORS STARTED BY DEMOCRATS ARE SPIKED BY REPUBLICANS

Washington.—It appears that this campaign will go down in history as a campaign of false propaganda. A great question in the minds of honest people is where does all this propaganda come from?

The color question seems to be the object of attack by nearly every piece of propaganda originated. Reference to him is made in most uncomplimentary terms and he is accused of aost elvmerything from deserting the Republican Party to voting for Al Smith. As a matter of fact, it is interesting to know how some of the propaganda is freated as well as to know the utter falsity of it.

Jack Johnson

For example, it said in the newspapers sometime ago by Mr. Raskob, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, that it was false that Jack Johnson was going to take the stump for Al Smith and the Democratic ticket. Mr. Raskob was very indignant and said that the report was put out by Republicans in order to injure the Democratic ause in the south.

The truth of the Jack Johnson story ought to be told to the public and here it is. The Associated Press dispatch from Winston-Salem, N. C., September 6th, 1928, is a follows:

Says He Is For Smith

"When Jack Johnson was asked whether he would fight again" he replied, "My next fight will be in politics. I am going to enter the ring in behalf of Al Smith, Democratic Presidential candidate."

If the Associated Press properly quoted Jack Johnson, and this ought to be easily determined, how can anybody imagine that the Republican Party started the story that Jack Johnson was going to take the stump for Al Smith. The Republican party has made its selection of colored men and women to assist in Mr. Hoover's campaign and it is a matter of public record who they are.

Most Citizens For Hoover

Another canard appeared in the Pittsburgh Post, under date of September tenth, to the affect that the Negro newspapers of the country were turning to Al Smith. The reporter went on at great length at tempting to impress his readers that he was familiar with Negro newspapers and although he did not tion any newspapers by name he made the statement that a number of Negro newspapers he had read were favorable to Al Smith.

It is absurd to attempt to answer such a statement but the colored newspapers prefer to be put in the proper light before the reading world and the editors of the following papers have expressed their indignation at being classified as Smith supporters and have expressly declared themselves as favoring the election of Herbert Hoover:

On G. O. P. Bandwagon

The Nashville Clarion, Nashville, Tenn.; Oklahoma Eagle, Chicago Whip, Herald Commonwealth, Baltimore; Newark Herald, Pittsburgh Courier, Norfolk Journal and Guide, New York Age, New York News, New York Amsterdam News, Progressive Herald, Buffalo; Philadelphia Tribune, Philadelphia Public Journal, Michigan Defender, Southern Register, Miss.; The Light, Chicago; Newport News Star, Cleveland Call and Post, Nashville Herald, Atlanta Independent, Hartford Pilot, Detroit Independent, Louisville Leader, Washington Tribune, Birmingham

Nothing To story

In addition to the foregoing newspapers the majority of the leading colored journals of the country are militantly for Mr. Hoover and there is absolutely nothing to the story that the colored papers are leaning toward Mr. Smith.

Another story

Another story went the rounds that the National Baptist Convention which met in Louisville, Ky., passed a resolution endorsing Al Smith. The truth is and the records show that President L. K. Williams was in the chair when a resolution calling for the endorsement of the candidate and platform which espouses a strict enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the cause of temperance was passed.

Baptists For Hoover

Dr. Williams himself expressed his earnest solicitation for the upholding and enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. The resolution was offered by Dr. W. H. Jernagin of Washington, D. C. and was seconded by the following ministers and delegates: Dr. Isaacs of Tennessee, Fuller of Tennessee, Bagby of Michigan, H. Bousham, Illinois; W. F. Graham and C. C. Scott of Pennsylvania, Carter, California; Holmes, Md.; Walker, Ohio; Attorney Robinson, Louisiana; Perry, Oklahoma; Charles Morris, Va.

Another Story Nipped

Another story nipped in the bud was the false impression put out at Democratic headquarters in New York that the Honorable William H. Lewis had refused to join with Dr. John R. Hawkins, Chairman, Colored Voters Division of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Lewis, it will be remembered, supported John W. Davis four years ago. Just this past week Mr. Lewis had a conference with Mr. Hoover and issued a statement declaring that he is satisfied with Mr. Hoover and will do whatever he can to bring about Mr.

The Martyr of "Al" Smith

Many colored voters throughout the country are misled under the delusion that Governor Smith is another Theodore Roosevelt and Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson rolled in one. They suffer under the misinformation that Governor Smith has been responsible for the creditable places that colored New Yorkers have held under the city administration of New York City. There is a foolish belief among many that the Democratic candidate will be able to bring liquor back. Nothing could be further from the truth. A second thought will convince them that the latter is impossible and more impossible under Smith than under Hoover. The record should convince them that Smith's election, judging the future by the past, would mean the complete loss of political recognition for their race and that he is as far from being a "Teddy" Roosevelt or a "Big Bill" Thompson as the North Pole is from the South Pole. They should read his record. We ask all colored citizens to investigate the record:

1.—Governor Smith has made no colored appointments throughout his thirty years of official life in New York State.

Senator Tydings, Chairman of the National Democratic Campaign Speakers' Bureau proclaims this when he said in answer to the Alabama clergymen who inquired as to whether or not Governor Smith had not formerly had a "Negro" wench as a stenographer, that not only had Smith never had a Negro stenographer,

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

KLAN AND LILY-WHITES INJECT NEGRO ISSUE INTO CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The unholy alliance formed by the Ku Klux Klan and Lily-White Republicans and their endeavor to inject the Negro issue in the present presidential campaign become more apparent each day. A letter from the Klan was recently received by Mrs. M. B. Dottery of Okolona, Miss., a white woman, in which she was urged to vote against Governor Smith, primarily because of his friendly attitude toward the Negro. The letter was written by Fred E. Wankan, Grand Dragon of Mississippi, and was as follows:

Dear Mrs. Dottery:

"We have Hoover, a Republican, who is dry, and Smith, a Democrat, who is wet. We have Hoover, who is a Protestant, and Smith, who is a Romanist. We have Smith who believes in social equality and intermarriage of blacks and whites, and Hoover who was the last head of the department in Washington to abolish segregation.

"Tammany Hall has a Negro division, and I am enclosing you the copy of record appearing in the Negro Year Book. Smith's record on the Negro question is ten times blacker than that of Hoover's and, of course, it is needless for me to say that I intend to vote for the Republican electors. They will be the Lily-White electors, not the Perry Howard electors.

"We have an upstanding American, who is a Protestant, who is managing Hoover's campaign, while John J. Raskob, who has always been a Republican, who is dripping wet, a Roman Catholic. Private Chamberlain of the Pope's Lay Household, who has been decorated several times by the Pope, managing the so-called Democratic Party, but in fact the 'Tammany Clerical Party.'

"There is no comparison. It is a question of country, and I expect to stay with the country in opposition to the alien-controlled, home-ridden, Negro-loving, rum-selling Tammany gang. The Smith forces are going to seek to force us all to vote for Smith on the Negro question, and that little bubble will all be punctured and we won't hear much more of it after our campaign gets under way."

Mrs. Dottery's reply to the Grand Dragon of Mississippi follows:

"I am not nor ever have been a K. K. Was not old enough to belong to the old Order and do not want to belong to anything that works under a mask, anyway."

RUMORS STARTED BY DEMOCRATS ARE SPIKED BY REPUBLICANS

Washington.—It appears that this campaign will go down in history as a campaign of false propaganda. A great question in the minds of honest people is, where does all this propaganda come from?

The colored citizen seems to be the object of attack by nearly every piece of propaganda originated. Reference to him is made in most uncomplimentary terms and he is accused of aost elvmerything from deserting the Republican Party to voting for Al Smith. As a matter of fact, it is interesting to know how some of the propaganda is freated as well as to know the utter falsity of it.

Jack Johnson

For example, it said in the newspapers sometime ago by Mr. Raskob, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, that it was false that Jack Johnson was going to take the stump for Al Smith and the Democratic ticket. Mr. Raskob was very indignant and said that the report was put out by Republicans in order to injure the Democratic ause in the south.

The truth of the Jack Johnson story ought to be told to the public and here it is. The Associated Press dispatch from Winston-Salem, N. C., September 6th, 1928, is a follows:

Says He Is For Smith

"When Jack Johnson was asked whether he would fight again" he replied, "My next fight will be in politics. I am going to enter the ring in fehalf of Al Smith, Democratic Presidential candidate."

If the Associated Press properly quoted Jack Johnson, and this ought to be easily determined, how can anybody imagine that the Republican Party started the story that Jack Johnson was going to take the stump for Al Smith. The Republican party has made its selection of colored men and women to assist in Mr. Hoover's campaign and it is a matter of public record who they are.

Most Citizens For Hoover

Another canard appeared in the Pittsburgh Post, under date of September tenth, to the affect that the Negro newspapers of the country were turning to Al Smith. The reporter went on at great length attempting to impress his readers that he was familiar with Negro newspapers and although he did not mention any newspapers by name he made the statement that a number of Negro newspapers he had read were favorable to Al Smith.

It is absurd to attempt to answer such a statement but the colored newspapers prefer to be put in the proper light before the reading world and the editors of the following papers have expressed their indignation as being classified as Smith supporters and have expressly declared themselves as favoring the election of Herbert Hoover.

On G. O. P. Bandwagon

The Nashville Clarion, Nashville, Tenn.; Oklahoma Eagle, Chicago Whip, Herald Commonwealth, Baltimore; Newark Herald, Pittsburgh Courier, Norfolk Journal and Guide, New York Age, New York News, New York Amsterdam News, Progressive Herald, Buffalo; Philadelphia Tribune, Philadelphia Public Journal, Michigan Defender, Southern Register, Miss.; The Light, Chicago; Newport News Star, Cleveland Call and Post, Nashville Herald, Atlanta Independent, Hartford Pilot, Detroit Independent, Louisville Leader, Washington Tribune. Birmingham

Nothing To Story

In addition to the foregoing newspapers the majority of the leading colored journals of the country are militantly for Mr. Hoover and there is absolutely nothing to the story that the colored papers are leaning toward Mr. Smith.

Another story went the rounds that the National Baptist Convention which met in Louisville, Ky., passed a resolution endorsing Al Smith. The truth is and the records show that Presdient L. K. Williams was in the chair when a resolution calling for the endorsement of the candidate and platform which espouses a strict enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the cause of temperance was passed.

Baptists For Hoover

Dr. Williams himself expressed his earnest solicitation for the upholding and enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. The resolution was offered by Dr. W. H. Jernagin of Washington, D. C. and was seconded by the following ministers and delegates: Dr. Isaacs of Tennessee, Fuller of Tennessee, Bagby of Michigan, J. H. Bousham, Illinois; W. F. Graham and C. C. Scott of Pennsylvania, Carter, California; Holmes, Md.; Walker, Ohio; Attorney Robinson, Louisiana; Perry, Oklahoma; Charles Morris, Va.

Another Story Nipped

Another story nipped in the bud was the false impression put out at Democratic headquarters in New York that the Honorable William H. Lewis had refused to join with Dr. John R. Hawkins, Chairman, Colored Voters Division of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Lewis, it will be remembered, supported John W. Davis four years ago. Just this past week Mr. Lewis had a conference with Mr. Hoover and issued a statement declaring that he is satisfied with Mr. Hoover and will do whatever he can to bring about Mr. Hoover's election.

Reports from Boston, Toledo, Ohio; Detroit, Michigan; Cleveland, Ohio; West Virginia; all indicate that the Negroes in these pivotal states will give an unprecedented majority to Mr. Hoover in November.

The Martyr of "Al" Smith

Many colored voters throughout the country are misled under the delusion that Governor Smith is another Theodore Roosevelt and Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson rolled in one. They suffer under the misinformation that Governor Smith has been responsible for the creditable places that colored New Yorkers have held under the city administration of New York City. There is a foolish belief among many that the Democratic candidate will be able to bring liquor back. Nothing could be further from the truth. A second thought will convince them that the latter is impossible and more impossible under Smith than under Hoover. The record should convince them that Smith's election, judging the future by the past, would mean the complete loss of political recognition for their race and that he is as far from being a "Teddy" Roosevelt or a "Big Bill" Thompson as the North Pole is from the South Pole. They should read his record. We ask all colored citizens to investigate the record:

1.—Governor Smith has made no colored appointments throughout his thirty years of official life in New York State.

Senator Tydings, Chairman of the National Democratic Campaign Speakers' Bureau proclaims this when he said in answer to the Alabama clergymen who inquired as to whether or not Governor Smith had not formerly had a "Negro" wench as a stenographer, that not only had Smith never had a Negro stenographer, but that he had never appointed "Negroes" except as porters, janitors, charwomen, etc.

2.—Governor Smith vetoed the Judiciary Bill in the New York Legislature in 1926 and 1927 which would have permitted the election of a colored Municipal Judge.

Governor Smith has given silent consent to disfranchisement, jim-crowism and lynching by Democratic Dixie.

3.—Governor Smith, though in absolute control of the Houston Convention refused to either personally or on the floor of the convention to have his party denounce the atrocious lynching of a colored youth as a pre-convention spectacle.

4.—Governor Smith refused through his lieutenants to forbid the Jim-crow cage of chicken wire into which colored spectators were forced to enter single file into the gallery at the convention.

5.—Smith and the Democratic Party has arranged that a heart's beat would separate colored America from a Dixie President in the event of Smith's election.

Governor Smith's forces at the Houston Convention dictated the nomination of Senator Robinson of Arkansas for Vice-President on his ticket. If Smith should die like Presidents McKinley and like Harding, Robinson would be President.

6.—Smith and the South are both nullifications. Smith on the Eighteenth Amendment and together in effect with the South on the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. Colored America wants no tampering with the Constitution.

7.—Smith and the Democratic Party are committed to a destruction of the present tariff laws.

The Protective tariff has made possible the present prosperity of the nation, the boon of ind[illegible] and commerce for colored and white Americans alike.

8.—Smith and the Democratic Party are committed to the destruction of the present immigration laws.

They are in favor of letting down the bars of immigration and the entrance of a flood of cheap European labor which would lower the standard of wages and working conditions for colored labor as well as white labor. The entrance of colored men and women during the last decade into their ever widening field of employment has been due to the restriction placed by the Republican Party on foreign immigration.

9.—Smith and the Democratic Party have refused to allow colored Democrats to participate in the campaign—at the behest of the south—except through the jim-crow "Al Smith for President" League, miserably housed and functioning apart from the National Democratic Committee. If he will do this before election, what after election?

10.—Smith and the Democratic Party have destroyed colored Democratic leadership under such stalwart and progressive leaders as Ferdinand Q. Morton of New York and William S. Hargrove of New Jersey.

11.—Smith and the Democratic Party through the present head of Tammany Hall have discarded the support of colored New York with the statement that "their voters are so few that they are not worth while bothering with."

12.—Smith and the Democrats [illegible] completely through such spokesmen as Mayor W[illegible], to the southern race point of view in the denial of the civil and human rights of colored citizens.

Read the troth of northern and southern democracy plighted by Mayor Walker at the unveiling of the monument to the Confederate General Stonewall Jackson and Robert E. Lee, at Stone Mountain at Atlanta. Remember the spectacle of Robert E. Lee, 3rd, being made a Lieutenant-General upon the Mayor's staff at the welcome of the German trans-Atlantic fliers. Recollect the barring of the Black Brazilians from the dance hall at Rome at the request of Mayor Walker.

We ask the colored citizens of America to read the record of Smith.

THIS NEW DENUNCIATION OF GOV. SMITH SHOULD MAKE EVERY NEGRO VOTE FOR HIM

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 24—Among the scurrilous literature being sent throughout Alabama by enemies of Smith and supporters of Hoover is a so-called campaign book, gotten out by Hugh A. Lock of this city. Some of the reasons he advances for the defeat of Al Smith, and the election of Hoover are:

"In Tammany the Negro has found a powerful friend and ready ally, and in Al Smith the Negro has found the so-called Democratic leader who is more enamored of the Negro than any man in public life today.

"Al Smith was raised among Negroes. He believes in social equality. He believes in intermarriage. He associates with Negroes. He ran for Senator on the same ticket with a Negro. He has Negro members of his legislature. He has taken away the Negro from the Republican party.

"Al Smith has not uttered a word indicating any sympathy for Southern ideals or Southern traditions. His environments, sympathies, and political alignments are all with the Negro. He is getting the undivided support of the Negro because Al will do for the Negro in the South as has done for him in the North.

"A typical illustration of Tammany's method in coralling the Negro vote is the nomination by the Tammany wing of Democracy in Missouri of the Negro McLemore for Congress. This Negro is a member of the so-called Democratic party in Missouri. He is for Al Smith.

"Once this country puts a Negro Democrat in Congress and a Negro loving Democrat in the President's chair, the South is doomed.

The "campaign book" is filled with other such bunk of this type."

Current Comments

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE SAYING

Some More Facts

From the Chicago Defender

In the last issue of the Defender, the two political parties were discussed at length. The object was to make known some facts concerning our governmental machines and the manner in which they operate. It was pointed out that time has served to alter the Republican and Democratic parties to such an extent that there is hardly a difference between the one of today and the other of yesterday and vice versa. What the Democratic party stood for 40 years ago the Republican party stands for today, and what made the Republican party famous two score years ago characterizes the Democratic party of today.

How this state of affairs came about can be explained only by an astute student of our American society—that this is the state of affairs can hardly be disputed by the most careless politician.

We as a group are unique in America. While overtures are being made by both the Republicans and Democrats to every other group, racial or national, in this country, we remain the bootball of both. It is either cocksureness that prompted the Republican organization to open its campaign to drive us out of the party, or it was the great contempt for our feelings in the matter. On the other hand, the Democrats have remained Democrats throughout the campaign. That is, they have followed for the most part the pattern which our attitude toward them justified, and which we have expected them to follow.

Again, the campaign is now in its last stages. Both the Democratic and Republican candidates have been in the South. But it was the Republican candidate who handed out the choice morsel to southern bigots by the declaration that the Republican party and the southerners to whom he was speaking had the same ideals and aspirations, while the Democratic candidate, almost at the same time, was paying tribute to Abraham Lincoln at his shrine and praying for the wisdom that guided that great Republican. He was also denouncing the Ku Klux Klan, a group that thus far has done its utmost on behalf of the Republican candidate.

The things which we have pointed out should be superficial were it not for the fact that we are so deeply concerned. Tariff, labor and prohibition are issues that will be met by either party as 118,000,000 Americans shall dictate. But the racial issue must be pushed by us and by us alone if it is to be considered. When a candidacy for the presidency of the United States decides to insult and humiliate us before election, we should know what to expect if he is elected.

Political 1928
Party Affiliation

Smith Asked Negro Views

Also Quizzed On Prohibition Stand

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Socialist National Campaign committee today made public a telegram which Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for president, sent to Governor Smith urging the governor "in the interest of a genuinely educational campaign" to tell the voters of the South his views on the negro problem and on prohibition.

The message, directed to the Democratic presidential candidate at Charlotte, N. C., said:

"On my recent trip South I discovered that certain simple questions interest the people in that section as they interest people everywhere. They are questions which Herbert Hoover evaded. I discussed them frankly. In the interest of a genuinely educational campaign I respectfully urge you to answer them.

"1. Will you explain more fully your plan for regulating transmission of power which may be generated at government owned and operated plants? Whom will you appoint to office to make the contracts of which you speak?

"2. If our remaining water power sites are God given resources what about coal, oil, copper, etc? What plan have you for them?

"3. You have properly criticised Coolidge's imperialism in Nicarauga. Will you tell the South and the country that you think of Wilson's imperialism in Hatti, Santo Domingo and elsewhere? Will you withraw the Marines from Nicarauga and Haiti?

"4. You have spoken plainly on religious bigotry. What about racial bigotry? Do you approve the constant attacks in the South on Mr. Hoover based on his abandonment of segregation in his department? Do you approve of the Texas rule of your party which excluded from its primaries all negroes, no matter what may be their character and attainments?

"5. What do you think of the plea of many prominent Southern Democrats that the electors vote for you in order more rigorously to enforce the 18th amendment without modification?"

Maryland Negroes Have Strong Smith Org.

Baltimore, Oct. 10.—Thomas R. Smith, Baltimores' influential Negro leader, and Robert J. Nelson, Regional Director of the Middle Atlantic Division, predict that the Negro will play an important part in putting Maryland in the Democratic column for Governor Smith. The Smith-for-President Colored League is organizing throughout the state.

Prominently associated with the Maryland Division are: Thomas J. Callaway, William Weaver, Arthur H. Bragg, Theresa Connoly, Edward Ridley, Eugene Barbour, William N. Jones, Sallie Logan, Alphua Peck, Elmer Amos, Edith Pritchett, Estelle Ridout, Alice Woodland, Georgianna Lewis, F. L. Nelson, Mamie Stewart, John W. Smith, Benjamin Hendricks, Truly Hatchett, Josiah F. Henry, John Johnson, Edward Harris, William Thomas, Peter Woodbury, Cincinnatus Major, J. Steward Davis, Walter Berkley, Sidney Edwards, Logan Jenkins, Jr., Amos Logan, Don S. S. Goodloe, Dr. Charles A. Marshall, Herman Dickson, Blanche Davis, Littleton Gamby, Sarah Murphy, Ralph Wade, Harry Brotten, George Williams, Beulah Tilgham, Mamie Sisco, Cardelle Scott, Annie Rich and Margaret Dow.

Believes Al Smith Is Honest

To the Editor, Journal and Guide:

The group of so-called leaders of the Negro race came together as campaign workers for an extra $105.00 and attempt to advance reasons why the Negro should support the Republican ticket; try to make it appear on the surface that the Republican party is Alpha and Omega, life preserver of the Negro. They are too often engineered by pecuniary motives, caring little for the welfare of the masses.

Political parties come before the people stating their policies. The Negro should scrutinize these policies themselves and not be moved by partisan appeals, and on election day they should cast their votes for the candidate or the policies which appear to them to best further the good and welfare of humanity, they should support principles and not party labels.

The writer is not unmindful of the fact that the Negro was unfettered from chattel slavery during a Republican administration, but the Republican party of today cannot be compared with the party of Lincoln, Sumner, Morton and Stephens. Today it is nothing but a party of trusts, functioning in the interest of the capitalist class, though masquerading as the party of liberalism. In spite of the record of the party in failing to defend the race against proscription, there are many Negroes who believe that the race should remain in the Grand Old Democratic Party and wait on the Lord for the change. There are others who believe that the Negro should shape his own destiny; they are saying why stay here until we die. The inducements offered the Negro by the party when in its embryo are now only imaginary. We are dying politically and economically, and if we support the Democratic ticket, we can but die. And if they save us from our political and economic oblivion, we shall live the accepted philosophy of the age—"A wise man changeth, but a fool never."

I believe that Al Smith is honest and will execute the law. He has the courage of his convictions. What he expresses can be comprehended by the ordinary mind. It is to be hoped that the time will soon appear when the Negro will think and act to the best interest of his race and humanity. The Negro can gain much out of politics for the ballot is all powerful, yet he can gain more out of industrial cooperation and economic independence.

—WILLIAM A. WALTERS

New Smith for President Club.

Dyed in the wool Republicans of many years standing have changed their tactics and resolve to give their support to Al Smith of New York for our next President.

Favors Al

Pittsburgh Courier

O. C. HALL

Prominent Layman and Clerk in County Auditor's Office Backs Al Smith

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 27. — For more than two months the Republican political pot has been simmering in preparation for one of the greatest Presidential campaigns in history, staid politicians were almost certain that the Democratic nominee would not appear on the horizon to any great extent in Minnesota because of the strong Hoover sentiment.

Lo! and behold, like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky a group of Minnesota's representative citizens, after weeks of careful maneuvering, fired a broadside which threatens to disrupt the ranks by organizing an "Al

Aged Veteran Resents Editorial Of Negro Editor In Plea For Democr

Montgomery is again the Capitol of the Confederacy. The "Gray Uniforms" is to be seen on every corner. Old and young salute the Confederate flag and "camp fire" stories are being retold as the heroes of the Sixties meet their old comrades and review the days when the South fought to preserve her sacred tradition and to repel the invading foe.

There is no more interesting visitor at the Reunion than J. W. Stewart, of Randolph County. Mr. Stewart is past eighty-six years of age, but his eyes are still bright as he tells of the four years under Lee and Jackson and his memory is still clear as he recounts the closing days of the war when he was in a Yankee prison at Elmira, New York.

The surrender of Lee did not close the war for Mr. Stewart, for he refused to take the oath of allegiance until the summer of 1865 and languished in a Yankee prison until, under the advice of his friends, he crossed his fingers and took the oath. He was given transportation only to West Point, Ga., and had to walk from West Point to his home in Randolph County, walking by day and sleeping on the ground as he made his way back to the ruins where once was home.

Mr. Stewart has in his possession a copy of the "Atlanta Independent," a negro newspaper edited by Ben Davis, the negro Republican National Committeeman from Georgia and when a reporter asked Mr. Stewart his views of the "strange times" that have fallen upon Alabama, he spoke with great indignation and his face flushed at the very mention of the leadership of this Georgia negro.

Loyal Democrat

While Mr. Stewart is a loyal Democrat and an enthusiastic supporter of the Democratic nominees, he resented the article of Davis branding white Republicans in an unprintable term. "This," he said, "is the greatest insult ever given to the white men and women of the South, regardless of party affiliations, yet, the Republican party and their Alabama associates, in the face of this dastardly insult, is trying to hood-wink those who stand for white supremacy and Southern Democracy with slander unprecedented."

"I am wondering what has become of the Ku Klux Klan that once dared to face the South of negro domination and keep the Democratic party free from negro contamination."

"Many of these men who were once willing to risk the Federal prison that white supremacy in the South might be made certain are now flirting with the Republican party—the same Republican party that has negro leadership in Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana and other Southern states, the same party that right here in the First Capitol of the Confederacy has a negro for chairman and a negro for secretary of the Montgomery County Republican Executive Committee.

Photo by Paulger
J. W. STEWART

Mr. Stewart raised himself to his full height when he said: "If the present population of the South had lived through the Civil War and the dark days of reconstruction, they would remember that the Democratic party is the party of Lee and Jackson, the party of Jeff Davis and white supremacy and these people would resent the insults of the negro, Ben Davis; they would repel the advances of the negro, Perry Howard; and they would turn away with indignation from those who now ask the soldier of the Confederacy to join in the effort being made by certain organizations to drive a wedge into the very heart of the Democratic party."

"This is the last reunion for many of us. We are making our last stand, and as we wave the sacred flag of our sacred cause, we call on our comrades and their sons and daughters to remain true to the White Man's party in Alabama and to keep safe the party under whose banner white supremacy has fought its battles."

Mr. Stewart is the first Democrat elected in Randolph County after the war. He did well his part to redeem Alabama and his county from scalawag and carpet-bagger rule and when the Democratic party again was restored to power, Mr. Stewart was elected circuit clerk of Randolph County.

2,000 CHICAGOANS CHEER FOR AL SMITH AT LARGEST DEMOCRATIC RALLY

G. O. P. Policy of Junking Negro Leaders and Indictment of De Priest Sends Crowd to Fever Heat

CHICAGO.—The largest and most enthusiastic meeting ever held in Chicago's history by Negroes on behalf of Democratic candidates was held in the auditorium of Wendell Phillips high school, Thirty-ninth street and Prairie avenue, when two-thousand men and women packed the hall and lustily cheered the name of Alfred E. Smith. The name of Herbert Hoover was received in silence.

The big meeting reflected the mood of hundreds of colored voters on the South Side. The indictment of Oscar DePriest, running on the republican ticket for congress, and the publication of an articel in The Chicago Tribune telling of the G. O. P. program to eliminate the Negro from a commanding position in politics, are the chief contributing factors in bringing about a new and unusual situation which is giving G. O. P. leaders much concern.

Arthur Sears Henning, writing in The Chicago Tribune, says in part: "The politically dry, anti-Catholic southern democrats cannot affiliate with the democratic party so long as it is dominated by Gov. Smith, a wet Roman Catholic, who will be its titular head for four years at least whether elected or defeated, and by John J. Raskob, a wet knight of the Roman church, who is democratic national chairman.

"In the G. O. P. those southerners find a party committed to the preservation of national prohibition, a party dominated by Protestants. To them the G. O. P. now opens its arms with the assurance that they have nothing to fear by joining up permanently. Their ground for distrust, fear and hatred of 'black republicans' is being removed. The G. O. P. is handing the Negro his hat and is prepared to be as 'lily white' as the most exacting southern shouter for white supremacy can demand.

"The plan to build a white republican party in the South received the approval of Hoover early in the campaign, according to somewhat varying versions obtained from southern republican leaders. Some say that the program was mapped out prior to the Kansas City convention, when Hoover organization had contracted for the delivery of certain Negro delegates from the South, but promised rival 'lily white' delegations to recognize them in the party reorganization after the convention.

"According to another version, the project did not actually take form until shortly before Hoover's acceptance speech when a number of southern republicans headed by Col. Jennings C. Wise of Richmond, Va., visited the candidate at Palo Alto. They explained to Hoover the opportunity of annexing the anti-Smith democrats permanently to the republican party if he would authorize the elimination of the Negro and the reorganization of the southern G. O. P. as a white man's institution.

"This movement, according to the universal understanding here, has the entire approval of Herbert Hoover, who is reputed to regard the regeneration of the republican party in the South on a white basis as one of the principal reforms he expects to carry out if elected to the presidency."

This Writer Believes Smith Will Do Justice

To the Editor, Journal and Guide:

Sir:—Mr. Hoover alluded inferentially to the Negro in his speech of acceptance; Mr. Smith did not. Except as a salve to partially assuage the much ruffled sensibilities of the black man, such an allusion was an unctuous platitude. The Negro question politically speaking has ceased to be an issue between the dominant parties.

While it is debatable whether or not the differences between the Democratic and Republican parties are more apparent than real, there is little question that his brother's in white attitude as to the Negro's participation in governmental affairs is guided essentially by locality first and expediency second. In other words, I am strongly of the opinion that the white man's political affiliations had but little to do with his attitude with reference to Negro suffrage.

I am of the opinion that we should regard the parties as they are and not be unduly influenced by what they were. I am not unmindful of the benefits conferred by the Republican party in the past; for these I am grateful. I am aware, too, of the Democratic party's opposition in the South to every measure apparently favorable to the bestowal of the rights of citizenship on the black man, yet (the Democratic party) as formerly constituted and constituted merited the opposition of every Negro. Since that time, however, much water has gone over the dam and many changes have taken place. In some section of our land both parties vie with each other in extending to our group the hand of political fellowship.

I think the time is now propitious for the Negro to break away from fetters and fetishes; to be less influenced by party labels and more by men and measures.

Mr. Hoover is in favor of the retention of the Eighteenth Amendment unimpaired, and his utterances on the "Volstead Act" are quite ambiguous and susceptable to various interpretations. Mr. Smith in quite understandable and forceful language, without equivocation or evasion, advises the electorate that he is unfriendly to the said Amendment and advocates the repeal of the "Volstead Act."

Mr. Hoover tacitly admits that the "Volstead Act" is the source of many abuses and inferentially suggests a partial failure in stating that, "It is a noble experiment which must be worked out constructively." If it must be, it has not been. Mr. Smith says that the "Volstead Act" is a failure, a source of corruption, graft, bribery and crime, and submits a constructive program for a temporary relief from such a condition, to be followed later, if the people be so advised, by a program which he believes will afford relief from a condition admittedly inimical to the best interest of our government. I think Mr. Smith's program merits, if not approval, certainly respectful and careful consideration. I am in favor of any program which has a tendency to remedy the present situation.

It is true that law, no matter how obnoxious or unpopular, merits observance and should be respected because it is law, but it is equally true that if that is its chief merit, it is a poor recommendation for the law itself. It is doubtful if the devil himself could have devised or sponsored a law more calculated to arouse the most wicked and criminal instincts of man; more pregnant with possibilities of graft and corruption, and more harmful to the morale of any given community than the "Volstead Act." It has put within easy grasp of the most vicious and degenerate persons the acquisition of vast wealth, a circumstance of itself to be deplored; corrupted many officials of the law and cast the shadow of suspicion on not a few. It has not only created a disregard for but even disrespect for law.

My admiration for Mr. Smith is not based solely on his views concerning the liquor question. I admire him because I believe him to be a man honorable and honest, capable and efficient, wise in the science of government and possessed of a remarkable ability of sponsoring and putting into execution measures and programs best calculated to promote the greatest good to the greatest number.

I am not prepossessed in favor of nor prejudiced against any person on account of his religious belief or protestation. I confess a certain degree of amazement at the apparent anger of one ostensible follower of the meek and lowly Nazarene against another because, forsooth, he differs in the approach to the same goal both hope to attain. Both ostensible worshippers of the same God, both believers in the same Christ, but because of the differences in their respective rites and tenets, haters, abusers and villifiers of one another. Such an excellent commentary on the efficacy of the influence of One who gave the world the wonderful admonition, "Love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and thy neighbor as thyself"! Verily, there must be a vast difference between religious belief and religious protestation.

I believe that so far as in his power lies, Mr Smith will do justly; I believe he loves mercy and I believe he walks humbly before his God. What matters the form if there the substance be!

In conclusion may I not be pardoned in looking askance at the sincerity of those who have risen in seeming righteous indignation to hurl their thunderbolts of anathema against any one who suggest a change in the 18th Amendments, a sumptuary enactment, while they sit complacently by witnessing, daily, the violation and actual nullification of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, enacted to protect human rights? Can any one, a real follower of Christ and an adherent to his teachings, be perturbed over the violation of the liquor law and remain quiescent in the face of the nullification of the law the purpose of which is to protect human rights?

—WALTER L. DAVIS

Norfolk, Va.

THAT 'SEGREGATION' QUESTION.

Answering a Florida correspondent that Mr. Hoover, a few months ago, while secretary of commerce, abrogated racial segregation in his department, and placed white and colored employees of both sexes together, the Manufacturers' Record editorially says:

"We have been officially advised and so published some weeks ago that there has been no change whatever in the department of commerce since the Wilson administration, in the matter of race relations. The report to that effect was merely a political canard."

The editor of the Record is grossly at error, as have been a number of so-called "Hoover democrats," who have sought to brush the facts away with a gesture, and hide behind the technicality that "no such order was issued."

Mr. Hoover has never denied the fact that racial segregation was recently abolished in his department, and he is not going to do so if he sticks to a truth that is too well known to admit even of the slightest controversy.

The facts are there—

During the Hoover-Willis campaign for the Ohio delegation to the Kansas City convention—Secretary Hoover contesting in Senator Willis' home state—a delegation of negro preachers and politicians of that state called on the secretary of commerce, and promised the support of the negro contingent in that state, if he would throw his white and colored employees together, in offices, rest rooms and in the department's cafeteria.

Failure to do so, they frankly stated, would mean they would throw the negro strength in the Ohio primary to Willis.

The secretary of commerce—the present republican candidate for president—agreed to interpose no objection to such a change.

And the next day the racial bars were let down.

There was no "official order" issued. It was not necessary, and Secretary Hoover was probably too keen to have the matter go into official records. But the word was passed down the line, from one chief of division to another, and the new racial alignments—a complete reversal of the Wilson policy—went immediately and rigidly into effect.

The matter was brought to the attention of congress, and an investigation disclosed the facts as stated. Various newspaper men made independent investigations. They, without exception, published the facts as stated. There is no secret about it, and the camouflage of "no official order" can not alter nor mitigate the fact.

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation

Democratic.

Washington, Ga., News-Reporter
Friday, September 7, 1928

DEMOCRATS ANGLE FOR NEGRO VOTES IN NEW YORK CITY

Tammany Mayor In Public Speech Promises Harlem Negroes A Hearty Welcome at White House Provided Al Smith Is Elected to Presidency.

(Editor's Note: The Macon (Ga.) News, one of the South's leading democratic dailies, has repudiated Gov. Al Smith and is now enthusiastically supporting Herbert Hoover. This great daily says it cannot support Al Smith, whose record is dripping wet and whose attitude towards Rome and Social Equality is so distasteful to the men and women of the South.

The following copyrighted article appearing on the front page of The Macon News, Monday, September 3rd, reveals an astonishing condition within the ranks of the national democratic party, and, feeling that it would be of interest to our own readers, we wired The Macon News for their permission to re-publish it, which they graciously granted. It is a very frank disclosure of conditions permitted by the Tammany Hall administration of which Gov. Al Smith is the recognized leader.)

(The Macon News)

By J. W. H. DeBelleville

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The Democratic national campaign managers in New York are displaying considerable concern over the Tammany Hall issue and the reaction of normally Democratic voters in the South and West to Al Smith's alleged intimate association and friendship with the promoters and protectors of immorality in the greater city. The governor's support, as a legislator, of Tammany protected vice appears now to be fairly well established. In fact, during his entire career as assemblyman it cannot be shown that he ever voted in favor of a single so-called reform measure. He has been at all times a dutiful and obedient son of Tammany and in his last speech in the hall on the 4th of July of this year he expressed his ardent admiration for that corrupt political machine.

In order to allay the fears of the decent elements in other parts of the country, the Tammany leaders are being shunted into the background and are expected to remian there until election day. During the preconvention campaign and at Houston, however, these same leaders were clothed with exclusive authority and ran things to suit themselves, nor are they losing any sleep at the present time over their temporary eclipse. In fact, they were in full agreement with the plan that during the election campaign Tammany should occupy the limelight as little as possible so as to relieve the governor of the taint of association with it. That this is only a meaningless gesture in the direction of expediency every well-informed person thoroughly understands. If the governor is elected, Tammany will in no sense be a welcome guest at the White House. It will be the host and will welcome only those whom it particularly desires to favor. The tiger knows how to reward its friends and it has never hesitated to destroy its enemies.

There should be food for thought in the present situation. Tammany has always been jealous of the power of the South in Democratic councils and has bitterly resented the minority role it has been forced to play in national politics. If it can elect its candidate, it will undoubtedly take advantage of its control of the federal administration to to turn upon the South and rend it In another four years it will hav so entrenched its position that will not need that solid block of electoral votes in order to keep its candidate in the White House. There are other sources of political power which Tammany knows only too well how to develop and the control of these will make the South no more necessary than any other party of the country. In 1932 Tammany will not be worrying over the electoral vote of Alabama or Mississippi. Long before that time, the power of the South in the councils of Democracy will be a thing of the past.

One important source of power which Tammany has ever been alert to cultivate lies in the constantly increasing numerical strength of the negro vote. In Harlem, where 150,000 negro residents of New York city have congregated and in the blac belts of other cities of the state, Tammany has for years been coddling the negro. Al Smith himself not only visits them during his campaigns but hands them out a brand of soothing syrup which he specially reserves for that type of citizen.

The Harlem negroes are permitted to run a wide-open town under the liberal eyes of their own black policemen. Their favorite gambling games are not interfered with in the back rooms of the speak-easies. Young bucks are allowed to lounge on the street corners and offer obscene insults to any white woman who passes that way. Nor do they hesitate to make eyes at the more attractive specimens and to revile them with lewd remarks if they resent their approaches. It is not safe and certainly not pleasant for a white woman to find herself in that neighborhood. Nothing however, can be done about it since these young negro gallants boast of power friends in Tammany hall to whom they can appeal for protection.

In the black and tan joints, which Tammany permits to run wide open white women dance and get drunk with these same negroes, and later in the night entertain them in their private quarters. Tammany has always looked with an indulgent eye on such diversions as these. In fact, only a fanatical reformer could object to such harmless pastimes. By these means moreover, it hopes finally to annex the negro vote throughout the country once its present candidate has become the occupant of the White House.

For years the Tammany mayors have recognized the power of the black belt on election day. The present wise-cracker who fills the office of mayor when he is not touring Europe and the United States has started off the campaign to enlist the negro vote for Al Smith by paying a personal visit to Harlem and oftsoaping his audience in approved Tammany fashion. The following description of the affair was published in the New York Times of August 16 last:

"With more than 500 negro delegates from all over the country attending, the twenty-ninth annual convention of the National Negro Business League opened yesterday mornig at the Mother Zion A. M. E. church, 151 West 136th street.

"Mayor Walker welcomed the convention to this city at the evening session in the Abyssinian Baptist church, 132 West 138th street. The mayor's only reference to national politics came when he paused for a moment towards the end of his address and then concluded with a smile:

"'After the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November—I won't say what is going to happen—but I can assure you now that you will be as welcome in the White House as you are here in New York.'

"The mayor's remarks were cheered until he left to go to another engagement.'

Let us hope that the southern Democratic statesmen who are so ardently championing the cause of the Tammany candidate for president will be as welcome at the White House as Jimmie Walker promises to make the negroes of the Harlem black belt.

(Copyright, 1928, The Country Editor Publishing Co., Inc.)

Publication Unknown
Wednesday, September 12, 1928

WHAT BEN DAVIS, NEGRO REPUBLICAN COMMITTEEMAN OF GEORGIA, THINKS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

"Sometimes we may vote for a Democrat because of the man, but we can never vote for the Democratic party, so long as it stands for ignorance, meanness and race hatred as exemplified in Memphis, Texas, Georgia and Mississippi. A vote for Al Smith is not a vote for the man, but a vote for the Democratic Party.

Al Smith is no better than the Democratic Party. His record does not disclose a single favor that he had done for Negroes in New York. He (the Negro) knows that the Democratic Party is his sworn enemy.

As infamous and as wrong and cowardly as lily-whiteism is, it is worse than the robbery and outlawry of the Democratic Party against the American Negro.

CHICAGO WOMEN LINE UP FOR SMITH

Publication Unknown
Date Unknown
Washington

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Colored women in Chicago are organizing to support Governor Smith. Mrs. Sophia Boaz, 6531 Eberhart Avenue, has been named chairwoman by the Democratic National Committee to work among the business and professional women of the race in Chicago. She reports that several influtnial colored women are working in behalf of the Democratic nominee.

A GOOD BUT NASTY CAMPAIGN.

Whether Governor Smith is elected President or not, his nomination has been a good thing for the country. For one thing it has aroused the South and caused it t oreally think out loud. Heretofore, the whole South just went along and never thought enough in National elections to have a difference of opinion among its citizens or if there were any differences, there was not the courage to express them. The result was the quality of citizenship, politically speaking was of the stereotype order. 'Tis different however this year, thanks to the nomination of Governor Smith. For once, there is a real campaign on in this section. There is great activity on everywhere to win over or hold in line those who heretofore have gone along without a question. This might be regarded as the good side of the situation. The other side however—the nasty side—is the tactics employed to whip in line or keep in line those men and women who presist in doing intelligent thinking themselves.

The old Negro bugaboo is worked over time. "Negro domination" is held up as a scarecrow. The days of Reconstruction are called to mind, embellished with all the luridness that little, mean imaginations can bring to bear. To listen to this line one could easily imagine that there has been no progress at all on the part of either the whites or the blacks. But surely 50 years of education and progress must mean something, or it must be admitted tha tthe brand of education in vogue this way is not capable of making people better as it does in the other parts of this country. That this kind of argument disturbs and has a tendency to break down the good will and kindly relations that christian men and women have been with much difficulty building up for many years is given no consideration. Cheap politicians consider nothing other than having themselves or their side prevail. The after results never cause a thought wave to enter their pates. This is the nasty side of the campaign as it is waged. Indeed, 'tis a good campaign but a nasty one. However, maybe the good in the end will outweigh the nastiness of it. Let us at any rate hope so.

Augusta, Ga., Herald
Friday, August 24, 1928

The Negro Voters

(From The Green ville, S. C., News)

The fact that a number of negro voters in various Southern states appear inclined to support the Democratic ticket in the presidential election this year has aroused considerable interest.

Democrats, of course, are glad to have the votes of all citizens who conscientiously desire to vote that way. The question, however, arises in the mind of the average citizen as to why these negro voters, who are supposed to favor the Republican program, should have decided to support the Democratic ticket.

A recent news dispatch from Washington by P. H. McGowan appears to make this clear. The negroes are resentful of the Republican party for sidetracking them now when it wants votes in the South, in favor of "lily whites."

The negroes have supported the Republican program in preference to the Democratic in the belief that party would give them greater recognition, and a bigger hand in political affairs. But they are finding now, in the South at least, that the Republicans have simply "used" them for its own purposes, and had no real interest in them, and that when it goes out seriously to get votes, it does not hesitate to pitch them out and put in white leaders.

The Democratic party has never promised anything to the negro in the way of political preferment or prestige. The negroes understand that very well. But like other human beings, they prefer candor and frankly fair treatment to false hopes that were never meant to be fulfilled.

Race Vote To Swing To "Al" By Thousands Says Ohioan

G. O. P. Under Hoover Has Cast Negro Aside Like An Aged Sheik Divorces A Faithful Wife For A Vamp

COLUMBUS, O.—Race Republicans in the south are swinging to Al Smith by the thousands, according to Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, former Minister to Liberia.

The reason is the Hoover program to make the G. O. P. in the south "lily white." Mr. Johnson said:

"The Republican party in the South, particularly in the States of Kentucky and Tennessee, never had a Republican victory except for the colored vote in those states. Since the war of the rebellion the Republicans have carried Kentucky several times for President, and have elected four Republican governors. Each time it was accomplished by the colored vote, which if it had been given to the other side, would have turned the election the other way.

In Tennessee

"In Tennessee, the Republicans have carried that state for President once, and they have elected the governor several times, besides numerous members of Congress, and other local officers. In Louisville, Kentucky, it is a well-known fact that but for the colored vote this city would be Democratic overwhelmingly.

"Now in return for all this local service, these loyal soldiers of the Republican party who have helped them win all their victories, are to be put aside like a faithful wife who is put aside for some trivial reason and another wife taken up.

Discovered In Time

"This has been discovered in time for the colored people to resent such treatment as this. Their votes are counted upon to deliver the states of Kentucky and Tennessee to Hoover, and then they are to be dumped bodily and receive no consideration whatever at the hands of the party they have sustained for half a century. I can imagine the Methodist and Baptist preachers of the colored people in the south reading this news with great pleasure, and I can imagine how enthusiastically they will preach to their congregations to vote for Hoover, who after all, is nothing but a renegade Democrat.

Democrats Owe Nothing

"The Democratic party in the south owes nothing to the colored vote because they have never given their votes to the Democratic party, but the Republican party, which has always received its vote, now proves its base ingratitude by allying itself with the movement to exclude the colored people from any participation in the councils of the Republican party.

In The North

"The Republican party managers in the National Committee are perfectly willing to throw overboard the colored votes in the south, forgetting that if the colored vote was removed from the Repubilcan column in New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Illinois, Missouri, Oklahoma, and ever so many states in the north, they would have absolutely no show whatever.

Will Desert

"What do you think the colored people of the north are going to say when they hear that the Republican party and its candidate for President have deliberately entered into a scheme to cast the colored voters overboard in the southland?

"I miss my guess if hundreds of thousands of them do not resent this, not only in the south, but in the north by casting their votes with the Democratic party headed by Governor Alfred E. Smith."

SOUTHERN NEGRO VOTING

From the New York Times.

That the Democratic anti-Smith movement in the South may make the question of Negro voting more acute than for years is indicated by the activity of Texas Negroes in trying to find a way in which to obtain political privileges. The theory behind Democratic white solidarity in the Southern states has always been the necessity of opening no space for the wedge of id South" is threatened by Bishop Negro voting. Now that the "sol-Cannon and his associates, many Negroes naturally see a possible opportunity to gain support in their desire to participate in primaries and elections.

The Texas Negroes asked for an injunction against the Democratic party committees so that they might vote in the Democratic primaries. They have been barred by the committee under the private powers (which the court sustained) to fix the qualifications for party membership. The court agreed that the committee is in no sense a government agency, and that the Texas statute conferring upon it the right to make membership qualifications is unsound. But as a political agency its rights are clear, thought the court, and even though the Negroes promised to abide by the decision of the primary and support Democratic nominees, the opinion sustained the act of the commmittee in barring them from participation.

This is one of the devices whereby Negroes are stopped at the first barrier, and it is a very effective barrier, because Democratic primaries in states like Texas are virtuallly elections, since a primary certificate is usually equivalent to election itself. State literary statutes and other tests effectively prevent most Negroes from voting in the South, but after the primary is held without them the right to vote is of very little value. That is why they addressed themselves to the primary. This election, however, is national, and if Negroes could obtain vote and support the Republicans, they could easily carry several Southern states. They are looking more and more to evangelical clergymen and laymen and to the militant drys, to help them in getting to the polls, since there would be no more effective way to defeat Governor Smith than to carry Southern states for Mr. Hoover.

The probability is—and that is what is behind much of the confidence in Southern Democratic victory expressed at headquarters here by Senator Harrison, of Mississippi—that the rising Negro activity will bring out a large White vote and checkmate any possible danger. However, the Fifteenth amendment may be in for a real test in the next few years.

SPEIGHT FINDS MANY NEGROES FOR GOV. SMITH

Asbury Speight, principal of the Fort Gaines colored public school, who has been spending his vacation in New York and New Jersey, returned home Friday last. He says politics is at a fever heat up there, and to his surprise many colored voters in each of those states are supporting Al Smith.

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

DID THE CHICAGO DEFENDER GET ITS PRICE?

The week of the 20th, it was noised about Chicago, that the Defender would take over Al Smith the current week. The prediction came true. It praised everything it could against Hoover, and loaded up with propaganda favorable to Al Smith; and since the flop, the question uppermost in the public mind has been, did the Defender get its price? It had been currently reported that the Defender was offering the Republicans space for five figures, and if the Republicans did not come across, it would pass to the party of disfranchisement, lynching and segregation.

Now, the public is wondering whether the Defender, having failed to get the price from the Republicans, flopped to the Democrats for whatever it could get; after the old axiom, "a half loaf is better than no loaf at all."

We do not vouch for the correctness of any of the rumors questioning the wisdom and integrity of our esteemed contemporary, the Defender. We will let the public judge for itself why the Defender, or any Negro can support the Democratic party in the light of its anti-Negro record. Until two years ago, the Defender supported the Republican party, because it was the party of freedom, that enfranchised us against mob law, segregation, jim crow cars and placed every law on the books that had been enacted in our favor over stubborn Democratic opposition and had opposed the Democratic party, because it had disfranchised, segregated and jimcrowed the Negro in every state where it controlled; because it was a white man's party; protected the mob and outlawed the Negro's rights in every possible form by legal subterfuges. This is a brief statement of the Defender's political record until it went over to George Brennan in 1926.

The Democratic party stands for the same infamies and outrages against the Negro today that it stood for when the Defender supported the Republican party and condemned the Democratic party.

If the Republican party has not done all for us the Defender thinks it should have done, it has done all for us that has been done, and the Democratic party that the Defender now lovingly embraces has done everything damnable to us that has been done. If the Democratic party has ever done anything for the Negro, except to buy the influence of a few high-powered Negro mercenaries among us for a few corrupt dollars, we call on the Defender to produce the proof.

The Defender cannot hope to serve the Race through the party of Blease, Heflin, Pat Harrison and Joe Robinson. Then if it doesn't hope to serve the Race, logically it sought to serve its own personal ends. The public may judge how and by what means it hopes to benefit.

No self-respecting Negro can vote, or serve the Democratic party, so long as the party poses as a white man's party, and publicly announces that no Negroes are wanted in the party, and those Negroes, who in spite of racial insults, continue to lick the white heels that stand on their necks are mercenaries unworthy of the confidence and respect of decent men and women, though they may have money, ride in fine cars and live on boulevards. Money does not necessarily make men, or develop character and manhood. It often develops a larger crop of fools, grafters and scoundrels than it does men and gentlemen.

ARGUING ISSUES IN MISSISSIPPI.

Neshoba, Miss.

To The Commercial Appeal:

As to the statements of Sen. Earl Richardson of Philadelphia in The Commercial Appeal on last Sunday relative to the meetings of anti-Smith Democrats in Neshoba County last week, in which Hon. Wm. D. Upshaw was invited to speak at several places in Neshoba County, I wish to make the following statements.

In the first place these meetings were not planned as joint debates. Mr. Richardson says that citizens of Neshoba invited him to answer Mr. Upshaw. I do not know any thing about this, and I live in Neshoba. I was told on Tuesday afternoon that the Democratic campaign committee would have some one there to answer Mr. Upshaw, and I suggested to Mr. Johnson that they be given a courteous hearing, notwithstanding the fact that these meetings were planned by the anti-Smith Democrats and all the expense paid by them.

As to what Mr. Richardson has said about the interruptions at Neshoba while he was speaking. One of their men in the audience called Mr. Upshaw "a little Georgia peanut," and Mr. Upshaw resented this and characterized it as a cowardly act on the part of the man who said it, as Mr. Upshaw is a cripple man. At this point many of the anti-Smith Democrats left the building, as did also some of the Smith supporters. Mr. Richardson called on Mr. Upshaw to furnish a man who could take his place, which was interpreted to be a threat to personal violence. Richardson did not answer any of the charges that Mr. Upshaw made against Al Smith, and twice misquoted statements that Mr. Upshaw made, one in which he claimed that Upshaw made reference to Al Smith kissing the toe of the pope. I see Mr. Richardson did not make this statement in his published statement in The Commercial Appeal. The other misquotation of Mr. Upshaw was with reference to the number of votes Governor Smith received in the State of New York. After Mr. Richardson had spoken for 30 or 40 minutes he introduced Sen. Brown Williams. Mr. Williams indulged in the most abusive language of Mr. Upshaw I have ever heard. Mr. Richardson has not denied this in his statement. Among the charges that Mr. Williams made against Mr. Upshaw was one in which he charged Upshaw of being paid by the Republican party. Williams did not offer any proof for this statement at this meeting nor at any other time so far as I have heard, and when Mr. Upshaw arose to deny the statement so much racket was made by Williams and his followers that no one could have spoken and been heard.

Mr. Williams characterized Mr. Upshaw as a hypocrite and a liar, and others say he called him a thief. I do not recall hearing this statement. At the close of the meeting, which broke up in a general riot, an attorney from Philadelphia announced that Governor Bilbo would speak in Philadelphia on Saturday, and gave an invitation to the public to attend this meeting. At this announcement I ask if Congressman Upshaw would be permitted to answer Governor Bilbo, and received the sarcastic answer that it was "a Democratic meeting," and was given to understand that we would not be welcomed in that meeting.

The citizens of Neshoba on both sides of the question resent the abusive language that was used by both of these speakers, and the ladies of the community are preparing a statement in which they denounce their tactics as un-American, and entirely unethical in even a political campaign. They claim that language was used in the presence of ladies which was not decent to be used in the presence of men.

As to the charge made that Mr. Upshaw credited all the Smith speakers with using abusive language, it is absolutely untrue. Mr. Upshaw made the public statement that he was treated with courtesy by Mr. Pierce and Mr. Blont at Shady Grove on Wednesday afternoon.

The statement that "the Democratic speakers so effectively answered Mr. Upshaw that he did not meet all his advertised speaking engagements in the county" is also untrue. The facts are that Mr. Upshaw was sick on Wednesday evening, and under the treatment of a doctor and could not meet his engagement at Bardale schoolhouse, at which time Mr. Hilman and Mr. Gillis, both of Philadelphia, spoke for Smith. The only other engagement he did not fill was at Forest Dale on Friday night, which engagement was cancelled by citizens of that county on account of a box supper, and even then some of the people of that community came to him on Friday afternoon and urgently requested that he speak any way, but because he did not want to be discourteous he declined to do so.

At Bond schoolhouse on Thursday the charge was made that they were afraid to challenge Mr. Upshaw to a public debate on the right kind of terms, based largely on the fact that Governor Bilbo had refused to debate with Mr. Upshaw. At this time Mr. Jerry Gillis of Philadelphia challenged Mr. Upshaw for a debate then and there, which was accepted. Mr. Gillis did not adequately answer any of Mr. Upshaw's statements. And when after the chairman had called time on him, he made a statement that "the preachers are being paid by the Ku Klux Klan," he was asked for some proof, he only went into a rage and demanded that the questioner "shut up."

At Bloomo schoolhouse on Friday afternoon Mr. Gillis and County Attorney Stribling were present to speak, but were refused a hearing by the citizens of that community. They said it was planned only for Mr. Upshaw, and they did not want to hear the others. Then they said they were indignant over the action of the Smith followers on Thursday night in Philadelphia. Upshaw spoke to a large crowd at Bloomo.

As to the Thursday night meeting in Philadelphia, they have been trying mighty hard to wiggle out of the responsibility for what took place there. For this we cannot blame them as it is entirely un-American, but the facts remain the same. A large number of them were present in the hall which had been rented by anti-Smith Democrats; they ask for a division of time, and as the chairman was trying to give them a courteous answer, they made so much noise that nothing could be explained, and finally he told them flatly they would not be allowed a division of time. As they started to file out I made them a proposition which I knew to be satisfactory to Mr. Upshaw and many others, that they would be given a division of time provided they would divide time between Mr. Upshaw and Governor Bilbo on Saturday. To this they refused and passed out.

About 15 minutes after they had left the building, and wihle I was speaking just before introducing Mr. Upshaw, a brickbat came hurling through the window from the east end of the building. Mr. Livingston, living near Neshoba, has the brickbat in his possession now. There were a goodly number of women and children in the building, and they knew they were there when they went out. They will have a hard time making the people of Neshoba County believe they did not throw the brckbat which came through the window, as well as some more which did not come through.

S. J. RHODES.

WOULD BE ASHAMED.

Memphis, Tenn.

To The Commercial Appeal:

You have published so much in the Voice of the People Column about the coming presidential election that I feel that I should voice my opinion. My territory extends as far south as Yazoo City, Miss., and in covering this territory I have heard all kinds of arguments about the qualifications and disqualifications of the presidential nominees. While I do not condemn any one for voting as his conscience dictates, I am at a loss to understand how any fair minded man who was born and reared in the south can feel justified in voting for a Republican for president. It seems to me that the past eight years of Republican rule featuring thievery and every conceivable form of corruption should be enough to turn any one against the Republican party.

Several radical newspapers have made much ado about some photographs of a negro commissioner of New York City dictating a letter to a white girl stenographer, claiming that this negro was appointed by Governor Smith, and asking the question, "Is this white supremacy?" It most assuredly is not, but that is in New York, where they have no race distinction. All we can do is disapprove of it. Some say that if Al Smith is elected the same thing will take place in the south. I do not agree with them. He is too smart a man to insult the southern people by appointing negroes to public offices in the south, for if he is elected he will know that the southern people elected him.

Quite a few people say they are going to vote for Hoover because Smith is a Catholic. I am frank to admit that I would be much better pleased with Smith if he were a Protestant, but he was the choice of the delegates we sent to the national convention, so I am going to support ihm. When a man who claims to be a Democrat votes against Smith because he is a Catholic, he is practicing the very thing for which he condemns the Catholics, intolerance. Besides being a traitor to the Democratic party he is a traitor to the principles for which our fathers fought and bled on the battlefields of the Civil War.

If I should vote for Hoover on Nov. 6 I would be ashamed to call myself a Democrat.

A. K. WILLIAMS.

McNinch Insists Al Smith Picked Negroes For Office

Anti-Smith Chairman Offers Literature to Substantiate Charges; Replies to Attack by Mull.

A more extended expose of Governor Smith and Tammany's political recognition of the negro in New York was offered last night by Frank R. McNinch, democratic state chairman, in answer to the attack on him and the democratic state anti-Smith committee by O. M. Mull, democratic state chairman, published in the press Friday morning.

As a part of his answer to the Mull attack, McNinch quoted from an official pamphlet issued by the Smith-for-President Colored League of New York City which credits Governor Smith not only with the negro Morton's appointment but with many other appointments of negroes to important public offices in the city and state of New York.

The Raleigh News & Observer was cited by him as authority for the statement that the Smith-for-President Colored League, which issued the pamphlet, recently received $15,000 from the democratic national committee.

He charged that the negro issue was first raised in the campaign by Smith speakers in North Carolina and that, since the anti-Smith forces had met it with facts, the Smith supporters are running from it.

Mr. McNinch made the following statement:

"The reckless assault upon the anti-Smith democrats made by Chairman Mull through the press this morning is one more clear and unmistakable illustration of the fact that he is putting the interests of Governor Smith in North Carolina above the welfare of the state, district and local democratic candidates.

"Thus far the only active support for the state ticket has come from the anti-Smith organization through the speeches of Senator Simmons and myself and others and the circulation by our committee of more than a million pieces of literature carrying appeals for the support of the entire democratic ticket with the exception of Governor Smith. Mr. Mull had better be expending some of his time and energy on behalf of our home ticket instead of in a futile, hopeless effort to make the democrats swallow Governor Smith and his Tammany, Raskob duPont nauseating political pill.

"Mr. Mull's frantic effort, born of desperation, to defend Governor Smith on the race issue is at best a plea by way of confession and avoidance. For he does not deny the facts but only attempts to excuse Governor Smith from responsibility for outrageous conditions in New York under Tammany Hall. Mr. Mull does not deny that Ferdinan Q. Morton, a negro, is now and has been for years one of the three civil service commissioners of New York city, under Tammany Hall administrations. He does not deny that Morton has a white woman secretary and many white men and women working under him. He does not deny that negro teachers teach white children in the public schools of New York. Indeed, Mr. Mull would not dare deny these statements for he is, of course, familiar with the recent telegram sent to the democratic chairman at Fayetteville by the Hon. George Gordon Battle, of New York, who has twice spoken in North Carolina on behalf of Governor Smith, in which telegram Mr. Battle said:

"'One of the three civil service commissioners of New York city is Ferdinand Morton who is a very respectable colored man, a graduate of Harvard and highly esteemed by all who know him, white and black'.

"Mr. Battle very discreetly said nothing about the charge that Morton has a white woman secretary and other white employes under him. And it is certain that he would have denied it had he not known these statements to be true. Neither did Mr. Battle deny that negro teachers teach white children which fact is notorious in New York city and has never been denied by anybody.

"But Mr. Mull says that Governor Smith is not responsible for Morton being in office as he was appointed by Mayor Hylan. Governor Smith supported Mayor Hylan who was the Tammany candidate for mayor and twice elected by Tammany. Governor Smith was then as he is now the real boss of Tammany for Senator Robinson said in his Charlotte speech: "Governor Smith tells Tammany what to do.' Being the real boss, though Charlie Murphy was the titular head of Tammany, it is an irresistable conclusion that Morton was appointed either at instance or with the approval of Governor Smith.

"It is true that after Mayor Hylan had refused to let Tammany Hall have complete control of his administration, Tammany and Governor Smith turned on him and defeated him in his third race for mayor by the election of Mayor Walker. Morton has been continued in office under Governor Smith's alter ego, Jimmie Walker. Will anybody believe that Governor Smith has not a direct and inescapable responsibility for Morton.

"It is certain that Morton has no misgivings about who is his political patron for he is now actively engaged in the campaign on behalf of Governor Smith appealing to negroes to vote for Governor Smith because of his recognition of their race.

"In a 20-page pamphlet containing on its front page a picture of Governor Smith addressed to colored voters and issued by the Smith-for-President Colored league of New York city, Morton, among other negroes, makes appeal to negroes to support Governor Smith for president. In Morton's appeal, he says:

"'For the first time since his enfranchisement the colored voter is confronted with an opportunity at a national election to use his suffrage for the advancement of his own cause . . . . I earnestly hope and firmly believe that at this election colored voters in overwhelming numbers will be found in the ranks of those Americans who are resolved to banish forever from this nation religious bigotry and racial hatred. The bigots, the morons, the prohibitionists, the Ku Klux Klanmen, the Bourbon democrats and the Lily White republicans in the south, in short all the forces of intolerance and hatred, are earnestly striving for the election of the republican candidate. The colored voter will not align himself with these sinister froces against the candidacy of Governor Smith.'"

"This is the insulting characterization laid upon the Christian men and women and the white democracy of the south by this negro Tammany politician, who by Tammany's patronage works white men and women under him.

"This negro Morton knows his master's voice and is acting upon the principle: 'Whose bread I eat his song I sing.'

"The negro organization publishing the pamphlet above referred to in the interest of Governor Smith is the same organization to which was contributed September 12, 1928, by Smith and Raskob's so-called democratic national committee the sum of $15,000 and to which another $15,000 was contributed by Raskob's committee as reported in the News and Observer of October 26.

"As a further evidence that Governor Smith himself recognizes his responsibility for the appointment of Morton and many other negroes to office, this same pamphlet, paid for by funds from the Smith-Raskob national committee, carries the following statement on page 9:

"'During Governor Smith's four terms of office, the democratic organization of New York has been responsible for the following appointment of negroes: a civil service commissioner (Morton), an assistant attorney general, several assistant district attorneys; a commissioner of decedent estates, waiver clerk in the state tax department, a deputy commissioner of funds for disabled veterns; several deputy sheriffs; four members of school boards; board of health inspectors; a superintendent of markets; two bonus investigators; a Harlem hospital staff composed almost entirely of negro physicians and over 500 other appointments, principally of teachers, policemen and firemen including one fire lieutenant. The liberal treatment of the negro by Tammany Hall is a fact of general knowledge among negroes throughout the country.'

"This same pamphlet, paid for by the Smith - Raskob committee's funds, further recites on page 12 that Clarence J. E. Robinson, a negro, being eligible, on August 18, 1926 for the position of New York state insurance examiner was passed over by the department of insurance in favor of a white man. But, adds the pamphlets, 'Governor Smith sent for the insurance commissioner and insisted that Robinson be appointed. It was the first appointment of a colored man in this department since its organization, sixty years ago.'

"It is evident that Mr. Mull has been imposed upon and is woefully ignorant of the campaign literature being circulated by the Smith-Raskob committee, under which he is working, for he does not seem to know anything about this important negro pamphlet nor is he informed about the true racial conditions under Governor Smith's administration, not only sponsored by Governor Smith himself in New York state, as illustrated by his interference in behalf of the negro as against a white man in the matter of the important office of insurance examiner of the state of New York. If Mr. Mull had taken the trouble to make the most cursory examination into the facts he would never have made the absurb and humorous statement that "in the employment of negroes by the state of New York under his (Governor Smith's) administration, this (appointing negroes) has been done only to fill such jobs as they are given in the south, to-wit, porters, janitors, charwomen, etc.'

"And surely his employment of the harsh term of 'liar' towards anti-Smith democrats was only to be accounted for through his ignorance of these many appointments to high-salaried and important office of negroes by the political organization controlled by Governor Smith. An intelligent electorate will not allow the Smith-Raskob coalition to make this published and widely circulated appeal for negro voters in the north and east based upon Governor Smith's political recognition of negroes and at the same time let them get away with attempted evasion of responsibility in the south for conditions so repugnant to southern democracy.

joint commission, Friday expressed this same hope for more active cooperation in extending the fraternal greetings to the group from the Protestant church.

"It was speakers in behalf of Governor Smith who raised the negro issue in this campaign. We knew it was a false cry and though we were then fully prepared to meet it we refrained for a long time in the hope that they would abandon it. But their continued pressing of this issue justified and made necessary that we meet the issue with the facts. Mr. Mull's intemperate statement shows that they are running from their own issue which has returned like a boomerange to their own camp with deadly effect.

"The anti-Smith democrats of North Carolina yield to no one in their severe condemnation of racial conditions which have existed in the past under whatever party and wherever such conditions obtained. What we are undertaking to do with all the power at our command is to prevent the national democratic party from being used by Smith and Tammany as an instrumentality to inaugurate in the national government the same policy of negro political recognition as now obtains in New York city and state under the political control of Smith and Tammany Hall.

MULL SHOWS FALLACY OF SMITH NEGRO TALE

Governor Never Had Colored Stenographer, Says North Carolina Democrat.

Raleigh, N. C., October 26.—(AP)—With the declaration that the republican and anti-Smith organization of North Carolina have raised the "negro issue" in this campaign and have portrayed Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee, as favoring equality of races in New York, O. M. Mull, chairman of the state democratic forces, tonight issued a statement.

"The democratic party is both able and ready to meet them on this issue," he declared in preface.

He then charged that the forces opposing Governor Smith were circulating in this state "a picture purporting to be that of Ferdinand Q. Morton, negro, member of the municipal service commission of New York city, dictating to a white stenographer."

Pointing out that the literature purports to "hold" Smith responsible for the negro's appointment, Chairman Mull declared that Morton was appointed to office by the administration of Mayor Hylan, whom Governor Smith opposed, and that his term of office has not expired since Mayor James J. Walker, Smith's candidate, took office. He added that negroes appointed to positions on school boards and similar controlling units, in New York were given office through laws enacted by the general assembly, which is "controlled by republicans." He also charged that the forces that appoint these negroes to office are now the forces "supporting Herbert Hoover" for president. He denied that Governor Smith has now or has ever had a negro stenographer in his office.

The statement, after pointing out other similar allegations and denying, them assured the voters that the record of the democratic party in this state speaks for itself and holds high the principle of "white supremacy."

He declared that the republican party has always courted the negro vote and that the Kansas City convention which nominated Mr. Hoover for president "was composed of negro delegates and white delegates."

Political – 1928

Party Affiliation,

LEADERS FROM EVERY SECTION VOICE PROTEST AGAINST HIS SELECTION TO LEAD AL SMITH FORCES

STATE LEADERS TURN DEAF EAR TO THOMPKINS' PLEA TO NAME HIS CHOICE

"Dummy" List Used To Screen Off Opposition As Battle Looms

Black Dispatch

"I'll vote the Republican ticket and endeavor to carry every Negro with me in the state," said Elijah J. Burnes, editor of the Trumpet, Democratic newspaper, and who has been active in local politics. Burnes was enraged Monday night at what he characterized as the arbitrary action of Mrs. J. B. A. Robertson, who had selected Dr. I. W. Young as head of the Negro Democratic forces of the state.

Black Dispatch

Young Re-enthroned.

Suppressed indignation ran rampant in every section of Oklahoma this week immediately following the news article in the Black Dispatch in its last issue telling that the czar of black Democracy had been re-enthroned by Chairman Key and Mrs. Robertson.

9-27-28

Thompkins Muddles Things.

The arrival of Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City, the regional head of the Al Smith clubs in the West, further complicated things last Thursday. Thompkins was in conference with Democratic leaders during the major portion of the day. It is known that he endeavored to dislodge Dr. Young from his position of advantage and that he contemplated placing his personal friend, Bud Brown of Tulsa, in the position that Young now holds.

Oklahoma City

Brown National Head.

Key and Mrs. Robertson are said to have stood their ground, and Thompkins retired from the scene as gracefully as possible, naming Brown as his personal representative in Oklahoma. Brown, who is connected with the Tulsa Eagle, announced through that paper this week that he would open national headquarters in Tulsa. Thompkins, when queried by a Dispatch representative as to the connection Brown would have to the state work, was noncommital.

Slush Fund.

Rumor has it that $3,200 has been allowed Young for state work. The state has been already flooded with copies of a letter from Mrs. Robertson announcing his selection.

Dummy Organization.

Immediately upon the confirmation of Young's appointment, he proceeded to hold a conference in the offices of Dr. Brooks, Thursday night and an elaborate list of officers were named, without regard to whether the persons named would affiliate with the organization under his leadership, and regardless of party alignment. Because of the storm of protest that arose locally, the Black Dispatch sent out a letter to many of those whose names had been used in the "dummy" list submitted to the public, in an attempt to make the Democratic State Central Committee believe that Young had the support of hundreds of Negroes of the state. The following persons have denounced the plan and refuse to have anything to do with the organization:

9-27-28

Dr. Bethel, Oklahoma City:

"In answer to your letter will say that I am for Smith and the entire Democratic ticket as an individual, but I shall not accept an office in the Smith Club, headed by Dr. I. W. Young or allow him to use my name in any way. Anyone connected with Young in any respect is a figurehead and I shall be a tool for no one. I am an administration man, while Young is an anti-administration man."

Oklahoma City

Dr. Bethel was named by Young as vice chairman.

"Take My Name Off"

Miss Effie Bullock of Rosedale, another whose name appeared on Young's dummy list of officials, came to Oklahoma City immediately following receipt of information that her name was included in such a list. "My, my, my, I'd have had a spell if my name had gone out to the people in that way," said Miss Bullock, who is one of the prominent teachers of McClain county. "Be sure to take my name from such a list," she continued.

Democratic.

Will Not Join Club.

"I am unequivocally for Smith but have joined no club, do not think it necessary and am an independent voter," telegraphed Dr. H. W. Conrad of Park Sanitarium, Guthrie, in answer to the query as to what connection, if any, he had with Young's club. Conrad was placed on the advisory committee by Young.

Don't Know Anything About It.

"I do not know anything about it and do not expect to be in any political club with Dr. Young," said Dr. E. B. Brooks of Oklahoma City. Brooks said he allowed the meeting to be held at his office at the request of Young. He did not stay and told Young that he could spend a more profitable evening at home with his wife than he could attending his meeting.

Snagged a Republican."

"You say, that I do not know anything about the Smith-for-President Club. I am a Republican and my grandfather would turn over in his grave if he even thought I had joined the Democratic party," writes Dr. W. S. Boyd of El Reno. Boyd was named as county chairman of Canadian county in the dummy list.

Frazier Hot.

"I had a letter from Young on this subject," telephoned Prof. Wm. Frazier of Wewoka. Frazier is a Republican. "I don't want my name on any of his literature," he shouted over the telephone.

Smith a Diplomat.

J. Bernard Smith of Muskogee, was more of a diplomat when he responded to the Dispatch query. Smith said in part: "I was elected state chairman of the Al Smith for President Clubs at a regular and stated meeting held in Muskogee some time ago. At this meeting delegates from a number of counties from over the state were present, and I am of the opinion that the call and the election as a result thereof was due and regular." Smith headed a protest delegation to Oklahoma City to see Chairman Key, Tuesday. It is reported that when he returned home the dove of peace was hovering over the Young and Smith camps, at least on the surface.

Lowe Still Adamant.

But Editor Lowe was not so easily modified and appeased as was Smith. Lowe, when he first arrived in the city, proceeded to explain that many of the Muskogee group would not endorse any program headed by Young. In the list of the bitter enders in Muskogee (but on Young's list) pointed out by Lowe, were: Mrs. Rebecca Turner Jackson, Atty. O. Ben Jefferson, Jacob J. Jones, G. W. Gatewood, D. M. Lewis. He also said that Mrs. Maggie Daniels of Oktaha and Prof. E. E. Weaver, all named by Young, had stated to him that they would not work under the Oklahoma City man's leadership.

Suppressed Rage Says Reed.

Frank Reed, Oklahoma City, said Tuesday night, that Thompkins had done more to make votes for Hoover, and he said that while many of the Democrats might submit openly to Young's leadership, under the cover every one of them would rebel against the Key-Robertson appointment.

Used Name Unwarranted.

Mrs. Rebecca Turner-Jackson of Muskogee, Grand Worthy Counsellor of the Court of Calanthe, and perhaps one of the most prominent and well known women in the state, writes: "I wish to say if my name has been used by anyone relative to any political propaganda it was unwarranted and without my consent."

Another Mistake.

Writing from Drumright in Creek county, J. H. Simmons, Republican war horse, says: "I am sorry that some one has mistaken me for a good old Democrat. As for Al Smith, I guess he is all right, but he does not happen to be on my ticket. I am a Republican and this will inform you that I am not serving as a member of an Al Smith Democratic Club. I am known all over Texas, Kansas and Arkansas as a staunch Republican. Please let it be known in your next issue that I am advocating the support of the entire Republican ticket. I am urging my people to stamp under the eagle and let him fly to Herbert Hoover's box." Simmons was to take charge of Creek county on the dummy list prepared by Young.

Tulsa Not Heard From.

Just how much opposition will develop in the state-wide meeting against Young, Saturday called by E. J. Burnes, is not known. Burnes said Tuesday that Dr. Motley of Tulsa, and several others from the East Side of the state had agreed to join with him in the protest meeting. The Tulsa group generally has not been heard from on the Young appointment, but it is safe to say that John Smitherman and Young have not broken bread together since the day when Tulsa's valliant deputy sheriff sought to cast Young out of a window during the progress of the last gubernatorial election.

McDonald Now Satisfied.

The threatened bolt of A. B. McDonald has subsided completely and the "silver tongued orator" (as he styles himself) has a commission in his pocket signed by Lewis T. (Bud) Brown of Tulsa, giving McDonald a commission as organizer at $50.00 per week and McDonald is ordered to go immediately to McAlester to commence activities for the Smith forces.

Young Barred From National Trough.

Just how many $50.00 per week men will be sent out in the state by Brown is not known, but the fact that Brown is sending out the men instead of Young, indicates that Thompkins intends to see that the national funds are distributed in the state thru his man. Young will be confined to state funds solely.

Lilly and Johnson Ignored.

Just how J. R. Johnson at Taft, and J. H. Lilly of the school at Boley, will enter into Young's program is not known. There has never been any love feast held between these gentlemen, and it was very noticeable that when the news story written by Thompson and Young first arrived at the Black Dispatch office, their names were not included in the organization. They were later included.

SMITH ORGANIZATIONS COMPLETED IN STATES

New York, Sept. 26.—State organizers of the Smith-for-President Colored League recently appointed were: Dr. Robert Williams, Connecticut; Morris Rozelle, Delaware; W. Ellis Stewart, Illinois; [illegible] Henry, Indiana; William Warley, Kentucky; Dr. S. E. Taylor, Massachusetts; Lincoln Clark, New Jersey; Arthur J. Black, Rhode Island, and Dr. C. F. Hanson, West Virginia.

National headquarters of the Smith-for-President League is now permanently organized, and an intensive campaign in the interest of the New York Governor's candidacy is under way.

Julian D. Rainey, national organizer, announces that Clinton A. Williams, of New York, has been named Supervisor of Smith-for-President Colored Independent Clubs.

NEW JERSEY CLUBS FOR SMITH

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 26.—Following are the officers of the Mercer County Colored Democratic League: Arthur Allen Disduke, president; Arthur Taylor, first vice president; William Turner, second vice president; Dr. W. S. Hayling, executive chairman; R. Clinton Rock, recording secretary; Miss Jackie Harris, assistant recording secretary; Charles T. Patterson, treasurer; the Rev. G. G. Morgan, chaplain, and Mrs. A. Swanson, organizer.

9-29-28

The Board of Directors are: Chester A. Wheeler, chairman; Capt. Henry Lee, Mrs. Lottie Madden, Mrs. Ethel Willcugh, Mrs. Jessie Thomas, Mrs. David Alexander, W. M. Jackson, Ethel L. Turner, and Rev. H. H. Gaines.

MINUTEST DETAILS PERFECTED IN SMITH-FOR-PRESIDENT CAMPAIGN

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE CALLS ARMORBEARERS TOGETHER

McDonald, the "Nation Rocker," Still On Board Of State Organizers

9-27-28 Oklahoma City

At a conference of the Executive Committee of the Democratic State Central Committee held at Oklahoma City, Wednesday afternoon, the following state organization of Colored Smith-for-President Clubs was presented and confirmed: I. W. Young, State Chairman for Oklahoma, Oklahoma City; A. P. Bethel, vice chairman, Oklahoma City; Frank Reed, vice chairman, Oklahoma City; Mrs. Rebecca T. Jackson, state chairman for women, Muskogee, Okla.; Mrs. Lottie Gentry, vice chairman, Tulsa; Leslie McMahon, secretary, Oklahoma City; R. S. Holmes, treasurer, Oklahoma City; Fred H. McNeil, publicity director, Oklahoma City; Atty. C. E. Corbett, director of speakers, Muskogee; W. E. Rowse, Ada; Bland Wharton, Muskogee; Atty. W. G. Moffit, Tulsa; Pat Hawkins, Dewey; Geo. Schott, Sapulpa; and A. B. McDonald, Oklahoma City, state organizers; Atty. O. B. Jefferson, chairman executive committee; B. C. Franklin, Tulsa; J. C. Evans, Okmulgee; Mrs. Carrie Tolliver, Oklahoma City; Mrs. Blanche McFall, Terlton; state national committeeman, Dr. J. A. Cox, chairman first district; John H. Smitherman, Tulsa, second district, A. L. Marchbanks, Taft, third district, Dr. R. W. Motley, Tulsa, fourth district, J. Bernard Smith, Muskogee, fifth district, J. E. Hardy, Tulsa, sixth district, I. H. Haws, Oklahoma City, seventh district, M. W. Hawkins, Oklahoma City, eighth district, Prof. C. R. Johnson, Taft, Prof. J. H. Lilly, Boley, national committeeman at large.

Executive Committee.

Atty. O. B. Jefferson, chairman, Muskogee; Dr. E. W. Williams, Altus; Rev. Wm. Lyles, Oklahoma City; Sam Ivey, E. B. Brooks, Oklahoma City; J. J. Jones, Rev. G. W. Gatewood, J. B. Fue, Muskogee; Frank Williams, Tulsa; D. M. Lewis, Muskogee; Mrs. Bernice Wilson, Oklahoma City; Mrs. Georgia Haws, Oklahoma City; Wm. A. Chandler, Wewoka; Wm. Hazel and Wm. S. Peters, Boley.

Advisory Committee.

Dr. A. P. Bethel, chairman, Oklahoma City; Dr. C. B. Wickham, Oklahoma City; Dr. H. W. Conrad, Guthrie; Dr. B. A. Wayne, Tulsa; Mrs. L. R. Thurman, Oklahoma City; C. P. Young, Boley; Atty. H. C. Hawkins, Oklahoma City; Dr. W. L. Haywood, Oklahoma City; W. D. Fuller, Langston; Zell Tatum, Oklahoma City; Dr. R. E. Wallace, Muskogee; Mrs. Maggie Daniels, Checotah; Miss Effie Bullock, Rosedale; Mrs. Addie Hill, Muskogee.

It was agreed at this conference to open state headquarters at Oklahoma City.

Dr. W. J. Tompkins, who is Regional Director for Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Iowa, was present together with representatives from the State Democratic Committee and they assured the workers that they would have all of the backing possible in putting over the program. All of the friends of the state, both white and colored, gave their unqualified endorsement.

From now on a vigorous campaign will be made to put the colored vote in the Smith column on the election day in November.

Steps have been taken to organize Smith-for-President Clubs in twenty-three counties by naming active workers in each of these counties, who in turn will organize a central county group, who will in turn carry the organization of Smith-for-President Clubs into every town and precinct in the county.

The following appointments have been made as county chairmen and workers: W. C. Rowse, Ada, Pototoc county; H. C. Clement, Langston, Logan county; Dr. H. W. Conrad, Guthrie, Logan county; Hon. J. C. Evans, Okmulgee, Okmulgee county; J. S. Wilson, Stroud, Lincoln county; Roosevelt Hill, Beggs, Creek county; N. J. Caesar, Shawnee, Pott. county; Wm. Callihan, Boley, Okfuskee county; Dr. W. S. Boyd, El Reno, Canadian county; Dr. G. W. Hill, Ardmore, Carter county; E. H. Dickerson, Chickasha, Grady county; Wfl R. Patterson, Hennessey, Kingfisher county; Mr. John Grant, Vernon, McIntosh county; Dr. W. A. Chandler, Wewoka, Seminole county; Prof. E. E. Weaver, McAlester, Pittsburg county; Prof. L. W. Smith, Purcell, McClain county; Dr. C. A. Griffin, Idabel, Choctaw county; Ralph A. Davis, Lawton, Commanche country; Dr. E. W. Williams, Altus, Jackson county; Prof. J. E. West, Claremore, Rogers county; Raymond Skelton, Ponca City, Kay county; Dr. A. E. Beatty, Bartlesville, Washington county; W. E. Ross, Ada; W. L. Jones, Boley; Prof. J. W. Sanford, Ardmore; J. H. Simmons, Drumright; Hon. C. E. Corbett, Muskogee; Prof. F. J. Hilburn, Chickasha; Dr. R. E. Wallace, Mrs. J. E. Guess, Okmulgee; Prof. Wm. Frazier, Wewoka; Miss Effie Bullock, Rosedale; Mrs. J. W. Perkins, Altus; Dr. Wm. Leefi Claremore; Prof. I. O. Garcia, Bartlesville; C. P. Young, Boley.

Believes Negro Should Remain In Republican Party

To the Editor, Journal and Guide:

Sir:—During these days of political activities, diabolical delusions, corrupt practices, daring encounters, death and destruction, such as never was before the franchise of the Negro is emboldened and is being sought by, may we say both friends and foes. As is said, 'every dog has its day and the cats, the night' may be [illegible] time is not yet. While the bear and the lion were in death grip over the carcass the fox looked on but when they lay utterly exhausted, Reynard had taken it away. This should serve as a smile to the Negro voter. He is, though secretly, being asked to align up with the Democratic party, a party as a rule which has no place or brief for him but as hewers of wood and drawers of water. Evolution, if may, has changed this routine to a certain extent but the axiom remains the same. The Negro's so-called rights ends where the Democrats begin, be it one half or all. The masses may never vote again, especially in the South, but the few that do are expected to vote the Democratic ticket. Should they rush in where angels fear to tread, "suspicious characters', are their stigma. The Democrats don't expect the Negro to vote that ticket, if so, they would not have disfranchised him. If they need and do get in office by his vote, 'No good', without it, 'Stand back.' To better illustrate; it is said that a lion, a bear and a fox quarreled over a carcass, the lion acting as arbiter divided the carcass into three parts. He claimed one part as his by right, the second as belonging to the king of beast, the third, touch it if you dare. The Republicans lets the Negro have what he may get, the Democrats takes away that he may seem to have. No Negro may be elected to an office in the South and if appointed to one can hs hold it unmolested. For that matter is it not the consensus of opinion that the Negro has passed or hasn't come for the Negro time to hold office anywhere on a party with the white man. Of two evils choose the lesser; the so-called lily-whites get the Federal offices, the Democrats wants and takes both Federal and state. It is needful and highly imperative that the Negro vote the National Republican ticket, alternative, but experience has taught that the hands has a tendency to leaven the whole lump.

—J. M. POWERS

TEXAS REPUBLICANS QUIESCENT

With the presidential, senatorial, congressional, state and county elections barely a month off, the Republican leaders in Texas have shown very little interest in the great political contest now engrossing the attention of the American electorate.

If Texas were a small state, making possible a whirlwind campaign in three or four weeks, there would be no cause for alarm at the present lethargy and quiescence of these party leaders; but Texas is the largest state in the union, and it requires considerably more time to effect a virile and functioning political or partisan organization in this state than it does in most of the American commonwealths.

The anti-Smith Democrats, or rather the Hoover-Democrats seem to be manifesting more interest in the election of Mr. Hoover than the regular Republican leaders of Texas who, up to hour of writing this editorial, have done little, if anything, to marshal the forces in this state favorable to the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors, and perfect and maintain the type of party organization so essential to party growth and success. 9-29-28

If Texas is to play an important part in the presidential race, it can not be accomplished by the Republican leaders sitting supinely by and depending upon the dissatisfied and disgruntled Democrats doing the work which the state G. O. P. leaders should, ought to and must do—that is, if the party wants to make a decent showing in Texas this year.

It is nonsense to ask Mr. Hoover and other outstanding Republican leaders to visit Texas and deliver speeches for the national ticket, when the Republican party leaders in the state are doing practically nothing for arousing interest in the campaign, nor in organizing their forces to register a record-breaking and record-making vote on Tuesday, November 6, 1928.

If one desires another person to take interest in his proposition and cause, the former must first show the proper concern and interest in his own venture or undertaking, before he can sincerely expect the other man to become interested in his proposition.

With some expenditure of energy and money, the Republican leaders of Texas can corral approximately 100,000 to 150,000 votes for the Hoover-Curtis ticket, if these state party leaders will become amenable to sane and sound advice for one time during their partisan careers.

Practically every state in the union has organized its forces and pitched its campaign in the presidential race, while the Republican party leaders in Texas seem to be engaged in the Alphonse-Gaston act.

Whether these Republican state leaders know it or not, the fact remains that every day which fails to note or record some organized movement effected in this direction, means the loss of votes for the Hoover-Curtis ticket; for people do not like to, neither will they follow men nor parties that fail to make a decent showing.

The Republican party leaders of Texas have been yelling themselves hoarse about building up a strong party and getting out a large vote for the presidential ticket, yet with the greatest opportunity in the history of the party in this state, these party leaders, for some reasons, do not seem the least concerned in trying to so coordinate and organize their forces as to poll a tremendous popular vote for their presidential ticket in the November general election.

Vote, if may, the National Republican ticket and of minute importance. In this we have no Federal Government when in the Republicans

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.

Democratic

WILL TEST LEGALITY OF "WHITE DEMOCRAT" RULE

Movement to Disfranchise Negro in Spite of Decision of U. S. Supreme Court Draws Fire

DR. A. L. NIXON AGAIN LEADS FIGHT FOR RIGHTS

Democratic Executive Committee Enacts Law Barring Negro Voters From Ballot

EL PASO, Tex., June 27.— Not to be frustrated by the action taken at Austin Wednesday over-riding a decision of the United States Supreme Court, disfranchisement of Negroes in the state will be put to a test by Race citizens, it was announced here Saturday.

Attorney Fred C. Knollenberg state that he has been engaged by Race voters to test legality of the action of the State Democratic executive committee restricting the ballot in the primaries to white Democrats.

Attorney Knollenberg stated that a colored American would attempt to vote in the primaries July 28 and then if the ballot is refused, the matter would be taken to the supreme court.

Knollenburg will represent L. A. Nixon, Race physician who was not allowed to cast a ballot two years ago, and who succeeded in having the U. S. Supreme Court held the Texas primary law unconstitutional.

Delegates Launch Many Fights After Smith Nomination

Convention Coliseum.—In direct contrast to the recent session of the Republican National Convention, held at Kansas City, Mo., June 12-15, the Democratic National Convention, now in quadrennial meeting here, has been full of circus stunts, hippodrome acts, fights, riots and other wild disorders so characteristic of Dixie Democrats.

Many of the delegates, particularly from Southern states, seem to be both belligerent and bellicose, and fights have been staged with painful regularity; even some of the Democratic leaders engaging in fist fights and threatening to "shoot it out" in heated discussions before the conventional committees. Chief among these ready warriors is Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who seems to possess some rather queer and odd notions about peace, order and constituted authority.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York had concluded his speech nominating Governor Alfred E. Smith for the presidency, at Wednesday night's session, bedlam and disorder broke loose and ran rampant. Fights, knockdowns, dragouts and near gun battles were so numerous that extra police officers had to be hurried into the convention hall to quell the Democratic rioters, many of whom had become potential mobocrats for the time being. Several of the battered and bruised Democratic defenders of religious tolerance and intolerance, who had attempted to settle the issue in a savage and semi-barbaric manner, soon realized the helplessness of such modus operandi, and the Houston peace officers finally subdued the belligerents.

If these Democrats will carry on like this in a mere convention trying to nominate presidential and vice-presidential standard-bearers, what could the country expect if such pugnacious politicians and sulphuric statesmen had charge of the national government?

The natives and visitors, who have been looking upon a Democratic national convention as an august assembly, have been sadly disappointed; for the meeting has been more of a circus or comedy than a national convention of a major political party.

Perhaps the presence of "Tex" Rickard, the famous Gotham fight promoter, has influenced the daring and dashing Democrats to start an elimination contest in order to compete in one of Rickard's "million dollar battles of the century." Just how many of these battling bourbons Rickard has signed up, has not been divulged as the anti-Smith and pro-Smith forces line up for the balloting, and the adoption of a compromise platform.

Though not engaged in these fisticuffs and barrel-house brawls, the 40 Texas delegates are literally at sea, with Governor Dan Moody, dry champion and peanut politician, in a very embarrasing situation.

Though Smith's nomination seems assured, the reaction of the dry and Protestant South to the candidacy of the wet and Catholic New York governor will be interesting to students of political economy.

There is much talk of placing Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, permanent chairman of the convention, on the ticket as vice-presidential candidate; while supporters and adherents of other "favorite sons," seeing that Smith will land the presidential nomination, are boosting the cause of their several candidates for second place on the ticket.

The out-of-town crowd attending the convention has been a keen disappointment, and special traffic rules, adopted for the week, were abolished Tuesday by official order, after one of those Texas rains had almost washed away the convention hall.

AL SMITH IS NOT RIGHT ON NEGRO ?, HEFLIN SAYS

Political Power Distorted By Negro Disfranchisement; Southern Oligarchy, Dictator Of Nation, DuBois Says

HOUSTON, Tex., June 29.—A thousand word telegram addressed to A. H. Carmichael, chairman of the Alabama delegation by Tom Heflin, Tuesday included a fiery tirade against Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

In the attack on Gov. Smith, among other things, Heflin said, the Democratic party must not and will not, be used to further the interests of the Roman Catholic hierarchy and political machine in the United States." "Instead of surrendering the things that the Democratic party has always stood for and accepting Tammany as its leader, the party must repudiate Tammany and forever separate itself from the principles and practices of that corrupt institution."

Smith Attacked

Asserting that Gov. Smith's position on the Negro question, the anti-lynching bill, the eighteenth amendment and the immigration problem "is directly opposed to the things that are near and dear to the Democratic South," the Alabama Senator said in his judgment "the southern delegates who vote for him at any stage of the proceedings at Houston will be and should be discredited and repudiated by the people at home."

"Can the Democratic delegates from Alabama and other southern states support in the convention at any time Gov. Smith in the face of these astounding facts?". He asked.

JOURNAL
MILWAUKEE, WIS.
JUN 21 1928

Southern Negroes for Al, Is Report

For the first time in history southern negroes are going Democratic in a presidential campaign, according to Dr. William T. Amiger, president of the American Baptist Theological seminary of Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Amiger, who is recognized as a leader by the negro race, is attending the convention of the National Baptist Young People's union here.

"Ever since their political enfranchisement negroes have tended to vote the Republican ticket in the solid Democratic south," Dr. Amiger said, "but now, after close study, I feel safe in predicting a sensational swinging over to Gov. Al Smith, the prospective Democratic nominee.

"My people have always resented the activities of the Ku Klux Klan in the south and this year it looks as though they were going to have a chance to vote for a man who has fought the klan and who has been repeatedly attacked by the klan and such men as Senator Heflin.

"They like Smith for his tolerance and liberality and I believe that even though Smith is wet he is going to poll a large vote from drys who consider his anti-klan attitude more important than his stand on prohibition."

DEM. CONVENTION TICKET TAKERS WERE PUT IN CAGE

Strutted Proudly In The Streets But Occupied Wire Cage In Hall

The Houston Informer, the Negro weekly published by C. F. Richardson at Houston, Texas, sheds an interesting sidelight on the real status of the Negro Democrats who were in attendance at the recent National Democratic Convention, and about whom certain flamboyant claims have been made by or for Congressman Royal H. Weller from the 21st New York Congressional District.

Declaring that the "four or five 'colored Democrats' attending" were "accorded the most disgraceful and humiliating accommodations imaginable," the Informer says:

"The four or five 'colored Democrats' here from West Virginia, Illinois and Missouri, who are here trying to put up a 'brave front,' and look wise and act otherwise, are proudly walking around the streets and and convention hall with their 'ticket taker' badges on, but upon entering the convention hall these 'colored Democrats' are placed behind the cage with the local 'black animules,'"

And the Informer charges that some of the leading Negro citizens of Houston, who would not contribute towards entertainment of visiting Pythians and Calantheans, a bigger thing to colored Houston than the Democratic assemblage, had given freely to the democratic fund, but when they were ready to use the tickets admitting them to the hall, "these selfsame colored brethren and the female members of their families were caged in and set apart like lepers or criminals."

NEWS
RICHMOND, VA.
JUL 10 1928

TEXANS MASS TO BATTLE G. O. P. RACE EQUALITY

Democrats Say Election of Hoover Means Wiping Out Color Line

DALLAS, Tex. — (ANP) To forestall any possibility of a "Southern Landslide to Hoover" during the forthcoming presidential election, Democrats in this section have marshalled their forces and have already sounded the initial note reeking of race prejudice and the bugaboo of "Social Equality" in federal departments and public schools.

At a meeting held here Thursday, Democrats who have announced that they were going to support the candidacy of Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee, were threatened with being read out of the Democratic party and were warned that Hoover's election would mean the breaking down of Southern traditions which includes Jim Crowism. Much stress was placed upon the elemination of segregation in the department of commerce, under Hoover as secretary and his persistency in granting Negroes representation on the flood commission.

National Committeeman Jed C. Adams of this city led the attack on the "Hoover Democrats" and declared:

"Those who decline to vote the democratic ticket will find themselves going into the party which has always been the enemy and oppressor of our people, whose nominee shortly before he was named as their standard bearer saw fit to issue an order requiring that whites and blacks in his department should occupy the same desks in Washington City.

"If the Republican party remains in power under existing conditions a sufficient length o ftime the great question which will agitate the minds of the people, at least of the South, in the coming years will b whether our Jim Crow laws shall be repealed; whether or not prohibition of the inter-marriage between races shall be repealed; in a word, I want to say to th Democrats of Texas, that in a little while it is entirely possible that there will be little color line drawn as far as your public schools are concerned and your children, if they attend the public schools, will attend only those where black and white alike are entitled by law to come."

NEGRO LEADERS TO WORK FOR SMITH

Club Formed Here to Support Democratic Candidate to Offer Services.

The Negro voters who recently formed a club to promote the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, for the presidency met last night in Haye's hall on North Second street, to complete the organization of the club and to plan the campaign throughout Virginia in behalf of the Democratic nominee.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. Allen E. Bowles, president of the club, and a number of new members were enrolled.

Reports were received from a number of Negro leaders, all of whom expressed themselves in sympathy with the object of the club and pledged their active supports in behalf of the movement.

A committee was appointed to confer with persons favorable to the Smith candidacy and ascerttain how the club can best serve.

The members of the committee are M. A. Norrell, Dr. L. A. Reid, Dr. Allen E. Bowles and C. A. Mckenzie.

JOURNAL
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
JUL 0 1928

Hoover Democrats

One group of dry Democrats will meet at Asheville, North Carolina, next week to talk about a possible third ticket. Other dry Democrats will attend a Chicago conference called for a similar purpose.

More practical, however, is the course of the Texans who, desiring to bolt the Houston ticket, look about them for no futile third party, but march openly into the Hoover camp. "Hoover Democrats," they call themselves, and an unbiased observer can scarcely discern political treason in either their label or their stand.

It was Governor ALFRED E. SMITH himself who, deliberately and forethoughtedly, chose to give the liquor issue a conspicuous place in the Democratic canvass. So he and his advisers cannot well criticize or condemn a bolt by Democrats who regard the continuance of prohibition as something even more important than the success of their party at the polls.

And if these bolters really desire to prevent the success of the Smith ticket, how much more sensible a full vote against that ticket, cast in the Republican column, than a half vote cast in a third column!

Nothing disgraceful about going over into the rival party to vote against a ticket that does not satisfy. Cleveland Republicans twice helped the Democrats to success. Gold Democrats generally voted for MCKINLEY, instead of throwing their ballots away on PALMER. And Wilson Republicans in California and other Western States certainly defeated HUGHES in 1916.

The argument for a third ticket is, of course, that white Southerners are deterred from voting for a Republican Presidential nominee through their traditional fear of Negro domination.

A foolish fear, an outdated fear, a vague hangover from the dark days of Reconstruction. If election of a Republican President and a Republican Congress really meant Negro domination in the South, then Negroes today would sit in the chairs of power in some of the Dixie Capitols, and would have been sitting there most of the time in the last fifty years. For in all but sixteen of those years Republican Presidents have occupied the White House.

Is it reasonable to suppose that a Republican President, elected with the aid of Southern white votes, would be less sympathetic toward the desires of Southern white voters, than a Republican President elected against the opposition of Southern whites?

Southern white fear of a Republican President is plumb foolish. Since the Reconstruction days, there has been a whole procession of Republican Presidents, but the Southern whites have had little or nothing at which to take offense in the official acts of those Presidents.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

Democratic.

Gallatin, Tenn., Democrat-Sun
Monday, April 23, 1928

THOROUGH-GOING REPUBLICAN

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, is a thorough-going Republican newspaper but finds cause for serious distress in the events that have recently occurred showing up appointment methods in selection of postamsters by the dominant party:

"Further light is seemingly needed on the case of Postmaster L. S. Peterson, Democrat, of Douglas, Ga., who murdered one of the appointees of his office and committed suicide, following an official investigation of his office resulting in his removal.

"He left writing in which he charged that the financial irregularties that apparently had caused his removal were due to a species of blackmail under which, out of a salary of $2700 a year, he had been compelled to contribute $2000 in five years to the campaign funds of the Negro Republican National Committeeman from the state. The Douglas office belongs to that class of offices supposed to be under full merit system protection and a man who had been its Postmaster for twelve years should have known his immunities and the safeguards he was entitled to invoke.

"Nevertheless we know that strange things happen in that part of the Union where Republican majorities are never cast and where the only Republican incumbents of public positions are appointees named from Washington when Republican administrations are in power. The restraints that would be felt in the presence of a considerable body of local party opinion, shared by at least some fraction of the representative citizenship, are lacking. Party funds in some amounts are probably needed, despite the one-sided election contests, and from time to time during the past two or three years charges have been made as to questionable and even coercive methods used in obtaining contributions to such funds from Postmasters and other United States appointees. It has been aserted that organized systems existed for collecting these funds in each of several rather large units or districts of the South and that little accounting of the money was made after it had been collected.

"With politics as it is in that section, probably there will be a problem, but a great improvement has been made in recent years and it should not stop now. That particular class of Southern delegates that often formed a disturbing and a purchasable element in Republican national conventions has been materially reduced in numbers and in influence. Great as have been the benefits elsewhere from the extension of the civil service standards to further and still further classes of postal employes, the benefits have been especially marked in the South, where one party sometimes lacked competent as well as really reputable citizens for preferment in not a few communities.

"Postmaster Peterson seems not a little at fault himself, but Postmaster General New should look into the tragic case. The Civil Service Commission has a particularly duty to perform. It should take precautions against political blackmail and make Postmasters generally understand that, if ever caught in such a tangle as that in which the desperate Mr Peterson, said he was caught, there is an authority on which they may call for protection.

"If the facts are as the man said they were, when he was about to die, they form a shocking scandal."

Newport News, Va., Times-Herald
Thursday, May 10, 1928

COLORED VOTERS SILENT AS TO THEIR TICKET

Inquiries Among Prominent Negroes Failed to Reveal any Hint of Names of Three Candidates Endorsed at Recent Mass Meeting of Colored Voters of City.

Efforts to ascertain the names of the three councilmanic candidates whom the negro voters will support in the election to be held here on June 12 proved ineffectual this morning.

The leaders in the colored community had nothing to say other than that the negro vote would go "solidly for three men, with party principles eliminated." They said: "We are going to cast hundreds of votes for the men whom we think will serve the city of Newport News to the best interests of all concerned, regardless of party affiliations."

At a rally held last night, attended by hundreds of the negro voters, the candidates were discussed and the announcement made that shortly before the election the solid colored vote would be placed behind three men. One rumor has it that they will vote for the Republican candidate, R. M. Motley, and the Independent, I. M. Goldberg, leaving the three Democrats "out in the cold." Another has it that the negroes will "go Democrat, to the man," casting their votes for the Democratic nominees, R. W. West, T. B. Jones and W. C. Stuart, Jr.

When asked this morning concerning the many and conflicting reports, one of the colored leaders said: "You can say on authority, that the colored vote is going to swing in the direction which is deemed the best for all and that the attitude of the 'black belt' will be formally announced about midnight of June 12, when the votes have been counted."

Richmond News Leader
Thursday, May 17, 1928

~~Negro Democrats~~ To Hold Convention

A convention of independent Democratic voters, called by Negro Democrats of Virginia, is slated to meet in Petersburg tonight at 7 P. M., and several hundred Richmond Negroes are expected to attend.

Among the measures that may be considered by the convention is the Byrd program, it is said. The convention also may be asked to voice an opinion on the forthcoming presidential election.

The meeting was called in connection with the state convention of the Negro Elks' organization now in session in Petersburg.

NEWS
RICHMOND, VA.
MAY 17 1928

Negro Democrats To Hold Convention

A convention of independent Democratic voters, called by Negro Democrats of Virginia, is slated to meet in Petersburg tonight at 7 P. M., and several hundred Richmond Negroes are expected to attend.

Among the measures that may be considered by the convention is the Byrd program, it is said. The convention also may be asked to voice an opinion on the forthcoming presidential election.

The meeting was called in connection with the state convention of the Negro Elks' organization now in session in Petersburg.

VIRGINIAN-PILOT
NORFOLK, VA.
MAY 13 1928

NEGRO DEMOCRATS CALL VIRGINIA CONVENTION

Richmond, May 12.—(AP)—The News-Leader says today that Leon A. Reid, Negro dentist of Richmond, has issued a call for a Statewide convention of "independent voters" to be held at Petersburg, May 17, for the announced purpose of effecting an organization of independent Democratic voters, including Negroes.

Upwards of 200 Negroes from Richmond and the State at large, the News Leader says, are expected to attend. The meeting will be concurrent with the State convention of the Negro Elks in Petersburg.

The convention call is a Negro movement but white independents are invited to attend, it was said.

NEW YORK TIMES
MAY 20 1928

URGE SMITH CHOICE BY ACCLAMATION

Southerners Lead in Movement for New Yorker, but Success Is Not Likely.

REED A STUMBLING BLOCK

Washington Gives Governor 592 Certain Votes, Including Oregon's, With More to Switch.

254 DEFINITELY OPPOSED

Hoover's Negro Segregation Order Causes Prediction Tennessee Will Stay Democratic.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—With the apparent victory of Governor Smith in the Oregon Democratic Presidential primary, thus adding ten delegates to the impressive following of which he is already assured in the Democratic National Convention, efforts were renewed today to bring about an arrangement by which he will be nominated by acclamation.

This movement is chiefly of Southern origin. The prospects are that it will not meet with success, but it is indicative of the very general acknowledgment that Governor Smith will be the party's candidate for President.

It is understood that some pressure is being brought to bear to induce Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, the runner-up in the Democratic contest, to withdraw and declare for Smith, but Senator Reed's attitude is such that he is not likely to yield. He holds, as he stated after Governor Smith's victory in the California primary and the withdrawal of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, that a good general does not surrender his army when "his skirmish line" is driven back. That seems to be his position today.

Early Nomination Predicted.

Then there is the bloc of State delegations which is opposed to Smith because of his religion, although some of the leaders in this movement seek to give the impression that his wet views are the reason for the opposition. With these combined with the following of Senator Reed, there will be enough delegates to keep Governor Smith from getting the nomination on the first ballot, but the generality of political opinion is inclined to accord to Smith the prize in the very early stages of the voting for a Presidential choice, perhaps on the second ballot.

Smith's strength has an additional moral buttress in the desire of certain leading Southern Democrats to have the nomination go to him while they appear, on the surface, to be opposed to his candidacy. This public opposition is a concession to what they conceive to be the anti-Catholic sentiment of their constituencies.

They are convinced, however, that not only will Governor Smith be nominated but that he is the best man the Democrats can pick for a Presidential candidate. Their general view is that he is the only Democrat who will have more than a fair chance of becoming President.

Hoover's Negro Order Cited.

Great joy has been given to Democratic Senators and Representatives of this point of view by Secretary Hoover's order abolishing the practice of segregating negro from white employes in the Department of Commerce. In this connection the story is circulated that the order was due to the wish of President Coolidge, although no formal instructions from the President have been made public.

Segregation has also existed in the Treasury Department since William G. McAdoo was Secretary, and Secretary Mellon is credited with having managed to overcome the difficulties in the way of carrying the new departure into effect by calling in certain of the higher ranking colored employes of the department and seeking their views. The result, it is understood, was that these colored men indicated that they did not care to have any change made.

Why Secretary Hoover's order abolishing segregation in his department has brought such satisfaction to Southern Democrats in Congress is best understood by the private remark of a Senator.

"Bless the Lord," he said, "we can now go to our people when Al Smith is nominated to run against Hoover and say to them: 'Yes, Smith is a Tammany man, a Catholic and a wet, but would you rather not have him in the White House than a President who compels white men and white women to associate with negroes?' "

Predictions are being made that if Smith and Hoover are the contenders for the Presidency, the Hoover anti-segregation order will keep Tennessee in the Democratic column.

Smith Strength Appraised.

An appraisal of the Democratic pre-convention outlook, which takes an extremely conservative view as far as Smith is concerned, gives the following line-up of delegates at this time:

Votes already certain for Smith, 592.

Delegates not yet chosen, in which there are contests, 50.

Delegates classed as definitely anti-Smith, 254.

Delegates nominally opposed to Smith but not expected to stand out against him if he gains strength, 158.

Delegates chosen but claimed by Smith and anti-Smith forces, 46.

The State delegations which are listed by Smith's opponents as definitely opposed to his nomination—the so-called bitter-enders—are:

Alabama, 24 delegates; Florida, 12; Georgia, 28; Kentucky, 26; Mississippi, 20; Missouri, 36; South Carolina, 16; Tennessee, 24; Texas, 40; Utah, 2; Virginia, 24.

That this bitter-end contention will not stand up is apparent from the prevalence of second-choice sentiment for Smith in several of these delegations. If, for example, Representative Cordell Hull, for whom the Tennessee delegation will vote, should have a superior chance of being nominated for Vice President, it would be in order for some or most of the Tennessee delegates to vote for Smith.

Status of Smith Opposition.

The foregoing list of die-hard anti-Smith delegations does not include North Carolina, which is yet to choose its delegates. In that State the recognized organization is bitterly opposed to the nomination of the New York Governor.

Senator F. M. Simmons is the head of the organization, and has been for thirty years. His effort to prevent Governor Smith from obtaining the nomination is being resisted by many of the younger element in the party, who contend that it is about time for Senator Simmons to let others take command. Their opposition to his domination has been increased intensively since Governor Smith's recent vacation in their State.

On the present showing, the number of Smith opponents who will be delegates in the Houston convention will be in the neighborhood of 400. It takes 367 votes to prevent a nomination under the two-thirds rule. The Smith delegates in sight now, under the most conservative estimate made, are classified as follows:

Arizona	6	New York	90
California	26	North Dakota	10
Connecticut	14	Oregon	10
Delaware	6	Utah	6
Idaho	8	Vermont	8
Illinois	50	Pennsylvania	56
Iowa	26	Rhode Island	10
Louisiana	20	Washington	14
Maine	12	Wisconsin	26
Massachusetts	36	Wyoming	6
Michigan	30	Alaska	6
Minnesota	24	Dist. of Columbia	6
Montana	8	Hawaii	6
Nevada	6	Philippines	6
New Hampshire	8	Porto Rico	6
New Jersey	28	Canal Zone	6
New Mexico	6	Virgin Islands	6
		Total	592

Many Votes Ready to Switch.

This is an extremely conservative claim. The table gives Governor Smith 56 Pennsylvania votes, but, according to Joseph Guffey, Democratic National Committeeman of that State, he is assured of 69½ of the 76 votes of the Keystone delegation, and it may be accepted that 56 is entirely too low.

Maryland's sixteen delegates are certain to go to Smith after a complimentary ballot has been given to Governor Albert C. Ritchie. It is already apparent that there will be a break in the Nebraska delegation after a ballot has been cast for the State's favorite son, former Senator G. M. Hitchcok, with eight of the delegates certain to be in the Smith column and a good prospect that the others will join them.

The Kansas delegation may give a complimentary ballot to Representative William A. Ayres, but whether it does or does not the delegation will be behind Reed at the outset. There is much Smith sentiment in the delegation, however. No doubt is felt that many of the Missouri delegates will go to Smith if Senator Reed releases them.

The Ohio delegation is likewise unlisted in the Smith column, but a majority is for Smith. In the recent primary contest forty-seven of the forty-eight delegates were instructed to vote for former Senator Atlee Pomerene for first choice and one for Smith for first choice, the second choice of the entire delegation being George White, who was Chairman of the Democratic National Committee in the Cox-Harding campaign of 1920.

30 to 40 Likely in Ohio.

Unless there should appear to be a chance for Governor A. Vic Donahey for a dark horse nomination, at least thirty of the Ohio delegates will shift to Smith. Some estimates have it that there are forty out and out Smith supporters in the delegation.

There is controversy over how the uninstructed Arkansas delegation stands, but according to a canvass made at the time the delegates were chosen, from three-fourths to nine-tenths would like to vote for Smith. This estimate is denied by Reed supporters, who assert that not more than three of the eighteen in the delegation are for Smith.

That half of Colorado's twelve delegates will be in the Smith column is the belief of experienced Democratic politicians of that State.

George Brennan, head of the Chicago Democratic organization, has listed fifty-seven of the fifty-eight Illinois delegates chosen in April as for Smith, but it is being asserted that the remaining delegate will come into the Smith camp. In the list given above Smith is credited with only fifty delegates from Illinois.

Indiana Support Possible.

The thirty delegates from Indiana, instructed to vote for Evans Woolen for Presidential choice, are likely to stand out against Smith because of the fear of injecting the religious issue in a State where Ku Kluxism has been rampant, but it is significant that predictions are made by those acquainted with the Indiana situation that as many as twenty of the thirty Democratic delegates will break to Smith if he makes a near approach to the two-thirds vote necessary to the choice of a Presidential nominee.

It will be seen from these prospects that Governor Smith is assured of much greater strength than appears on paper. One of the greatest assets he has is the belief in the party that he has a better chance than any other Democrat to win the Presidency. This is having considerable effect, which is obvious among a good-sized segment of Southern Democratic politicians, who outwardly are opposed to having him nominated.

BOWING THE KNEE

THE CHIEF ARGUMENT of the Negro Democrat in New York has been the difference between Tammany Hall and the Southern Democracy. Statistics have been adduced to show that while the Southern Democrats were hostile to the Negro, Tammany Hall was consistently liberal in its patronage and appointments; that Tammany Hall was independent of the national Democracy, which is dominated by the South.

THIS ARGUMENT is losing force. The actions of Tammany in the past year have shown nothing but truckling to the South. No Northerner of equal prominence has made more numerous and propitiating visits to the South than Mayor Walker, and no one was more prominent than he at the dedication of the Robert E. Lee memorial in Georgia. A toddling descendant of Lee was made an aide of the Mayor wearing the uniform of the Confederate army, which spent four years trying to destroy the Union. It was announced in all the newspapers that no Negro delegates would be sent from New York to the Democratic convention at Houston. Last week a statement was published to the effect that District Attorney Banton, a Texas Protestant, was in line for the Democratic nomination for Governor of New York, to succeed Smith, should he get the nomination for President.

THIS LAST ITEM alone would be enough to show how far the New York Democrats have gone and how much further they are prepared to go in the hope of conciliating the South. For the most liberal city in the nation to be governed by a man from the most illiberal section of the country is an unpleasant prospect, not only for the Negro, but for all who believe in tolerance.

AS A GENERAL THING, in politics and elsewhere, concessions are made on both sides for the sake of harmony. The New York Democrats, on their side, have made open and repeated concessions. But the Southern Democrats have made none and do not intend to make any. With the convention at Houston only two months away, a Negro was lynched in Texas last week and no action was taken against the members of the mob. The present policy of Tammany is a striking case of tolerance bowing the knee of bigotry. It is the more humiliating because it is unnecessary. One can understand a Republican who caters to the South in the hope of breaking its political and cranial solidity. A Democrat does not need to, for the South will go Democratic no matter who heads the ticket.

Political- 1928.

Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

MANCHESTER
N. H.
ISSUE OF

NEGRO DELEGATE ROUSES TAMMANY

Southern Friends of Smith Warn Color Line Will Injure Chances

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON.

(Special Correspondent of Union Leader)
(Copyright, 1928, By The Consolidated Press Association)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—There will be a quiet meeting of negro Democratic leaders in Harlem Tuesday to discuss the Tammany decision to include no negro in its delegation to the national Democratic convention at Houston. Negro publications have expressed resentment, recalling that a negro delegate was named four years ago, and asking why the color line has been drawn.

The incident is causing some embarrassment to Tammany leaders, as the Republicans have named a negro delegate to the Kansas City convention and have been at no pains whatever to conceal this fact from the Harlem voters.

Vote Is Considerable.

It is only within the last four or five years that the negro vote has figured noticeably in the Tammany lineup. In the 1924 campaign Governor Smith received a huge vote in the black metropolis, and Tammany, in its usual workmanlike manner, proceeded to consolidate its gains. Civil Service Commissioner Morton proved an efficient negro Democratic leader, and a large slice of Harlem was chalked up as dependable Tammany territory.

There are now nearly 250,000 negroes in Harlem and they have been gradually becoming politically articulate to a degree which has engaged the close attention of both Democratic and Republican leaders here. Both parties have made repeated friendly overtures and each has built its own Harlem organization.

It is understood here that the Tammany decision not to select a negro delegate was due to friends of Governor Smith in the South, who insisted that the governor's chances at Houston would be seriously impaired if a negro were sent to Houston. Judge George W. Olvany, Tammany leader, and Mayor James Walker are now in the South, the former in Florida, and the latter making a "good will" tour of various Southern cities. It is said here that Judge Olvany was greatly displeased when the negro delegate issue arose, but was unable to suggest any solution.

The Republicans announced today that Rev. Richard M. Bolden, pastor of the First Emanuel Independent church, has been named delegate to the Kansas City convention, from the twenty-first assembly district. Assemblyman Abraham Grenthal, delegated by a conference of Republican leaders to choose a delegate, said, after naming Rev. Mr. Bolden, that the negroes were entitled to a delegate, and that they were going to have one. He pointed out that the Republicans had elected two negroes to the board of aldermen, and insisted that they must look to the Republican party for their political rights. Dr. Paul A. Collins, negro delegate to the Madison Square Garden convention four years ago, said he had no information as to whether Tammany would select a negro this year.

Interesting Shifts.

Since the South began sending its negroes north and the North began sending its capital south, there have been various interesting shifts in sectional political alignments, which may be reflected in the present campaign. Various observers have prophesied that the flow of capital to the South would eventually wipe out the Mason and Dixon line, and extend through the South, instead of cleavage between the industrial East and the agrarian West. Up to now, the Northern Democracy had made rapid progress in taking over the incoming negroes, of Republican tradition, but the oncoming presidential campaign has complicated things considerably. Not only in New York, but in other cities the question of the political attitude toward the negro voter has arisen. George E. Brennan, Democratic leader of Chicago, also has been urged not to send a negro delegate to Houston.

Tammany's present embarrassment over the negro delegate issue comes at a time when the braves are trying to pacify indignant Irish leaders, who complain because the Houston delegation is predominantly non-Irish. Since the war, Tammany has had the task of working many new elements into its organization, and its enemies insist that the "new Tammany" wears a coat of many colors.

TIMES

Florence, Ala

FEB 16 1928

Saloon and Negro Suffrage Tammany's Offering

The corrupt and pernicious Tammany organization in New York is notoriously provincial and selfish in its political acts. It has never been loyal to the Democratic party in national affairs, but has repeatedly cast its votes as seemed most expedient for its immediate local interest.

In developing and maintaining its hold upon the political destinies of New York city it has in recent years found the thousands of new negro immigrants who have settled in the Harlem district of New York a fruitful source of additional political power and has turned these new voters to its own uses. To win the favor of the Harlem district it has appeared necessary to Tammany leaders to make overtures to these voters which have had the effect of winning them at the expense of antagonizing other sections of the country.

One of these overtures has been a series of threats of negro domination against the South and the enforcement of the spirit of the negro suffrage amendment of the federal constitution unless New York is let alone to make its own interpretation of the Eighteenth amendment. This may have been pleasing to local negro leaders in Harlem and may serve the local purpose of the Tammany organization, but it shows how far apart the political views of the South and the dominant Eastern organization which is putting forward Al. Smith as its candidate for the presidency.

In face of the Tammany attitude upon the negro suffrage question that organization has unlimited effrontery to ask the South to aid it in bringing about the nomination for the highest office in the land of its leader and political pet. With a record of advocacy of the open saloon and a wide open nation for liquor and of advocacy of universal negro suffrage Tammany is presumptionous to ask the South for support in its corrupt and malicious program.

It is a program to which the south will never surrender. The South wants no affiliation with an organization which stands for return of the open saloon and which advocates universal negro suffrage. It can never be brought to give endorsement to Al. Smith who is the outstanding Tammany figure in the eyes of the nation. Its political methods and political bent of mind are repulsive to all the better sentiments of the South.

This matter is a real and present issue in Alabama. This state is soon to select delegates to represent the Democratic party at the Houston national convention. Concerted efforts are being made to send delegates who will vote for Smith for president when they get there. The campaign so far has been covert and in most respects secret. It is indicated that the candidates who will vote for Smith will attempt to make their race for the delegation without announcing how they stand and giving the voters a fair opportunity to pass upon them. It is hoped to accomplish by this means what could not be accomplished in a fair and open campaign.

With this situation before them the voters have a duty of insisting that all candidates for places upon the Alabama delegation declare unequivocally whether they will vote for Smith and the carrying out of Tammany's hopes for an open saloon and negro suffrage or whether they will vote first, last and all the time against Al. Smith as the Democratic presidential nominee. There is now little question but that the Tammany cohorts have decided to make Alabama a central battleground to capture the first state on the national roll call and to enlist this state under the Al. Smith saloon banner. Voters must reach the solemn determination that it shall never be, and the first step they may properly take in guarding against it will be to demand of every candidate whether he is for Smith or against him. This must be a campaign of open declarations openly arrived at.

The Fourteenth is second with a total of 8,638, of which 5,779 are men and 2,859 are women, the largest women's registration in the city.

The total registration of Democrats in other wards follows: First ward 3,051, of which 1,965 are men and 1,086 women.

Second ward, 2,691; men 1,789; women 902.

Third ward, 8,321; men, 5,834; women, 2,487.

Fourth ward, 4,963; men 3,462; women 1,501.

Fifth ward, 5,913; men 4,414; women 1,499.

Sixth ward, 3,384; men, 2,430; women 954.

Seventh ward, 6,994; men, 5,309; women 1,685.

Eighth ward, 6,696; men 4,911; women 1,785.

Tenth ward, 4,799; men 3,140; women 1,659.

Eleventh ward, 5,240; men 3,580; women 1,660.

Twelfth ward, 6,984; men 4,702; women 2,282.

Thirteenth ward, 6,085; men 4,178; women 1,907.

Fifteenth ward, 4,157; men 2,879; women 1,278.

Sixteenth ward, 3,334; men 2,218; women 1,116.

Seventeenth ward, 4,417; men 3,177; women 1,240.

'Lily-White' Republican Defeated In Fight For U. S. Judgeship Place In Arkansas As Democrat Is Named

Wallace Townsend, 'Lily-White' Leader, Applicant For Bench, Is Exposed To President By Scipio A. Jones of Little Rock

By RIENZI B. LEMUS

Washington, D. C.—Scipio A. Jones, great lawyer and greater race man of Little Rock, Ark., labored not in vain here late last fall to block appointment of a 'lily-white' Republican as U. S. Judge for Arkansas. Pres. Coolidge, assisted by Senate Democrats, "lammed" the Arkansas "lilies" right in the eye when the President appointed to, and the Senate immediately confirmed for, the vacant Judgeship, Gov. John E. Martineau, Democrat, of Arkansas.

Judge Martineau is a friend of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who seems to have discovered in the former governor an able executive during the period of last spring when the Arkansas and White Rivers flooded the place without regard to either namesake of state or color, and from the Negro viewpoint appointment is regarded as a significant victory—on the ground that even if Judge Martineau as governor was bad the "lily-white" Republican candidate was and is immeasurably worse.

"Lily-Whites" At Sea.

Arkansas Republicans are wholly "lily-white," but seem unable to account for President Coolidge's selection of a Democrat in preference to their leader, Wallace Townsend. This "reaction," however, is wholly pretended; for Scipio Jones, who fought Townsend's leadership, and exposed his methods of holding meetisgs, conventions, etc., of the "lily-whites" where Negroes were barred ipso facto, came to Washington early in last November and never left until he had thoroughly organized formidable opposition to Mr. Townsend's far-fetched candidacy.

Mr. Jones was forced to leave sooner than he intended to by illness, aggravated by the sudden death of his friend, Bishop I. N. Ross of the A. M. E. Church. Mr. Jones left Bishop Ross in Arkansas when he came to begin his ultimately successful fight against Townsend.

Jones Deserves The Credit.

The daily press attempts to give Secretary Hoover and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Senate, all credit for the Martineau appointment. Insofar as the matter of selection goes this is probably making the place availab. ever, full credit cannot be Scipio Africanus Jones, who, in his submission to President Coolidge, after furnishing Townsend's un-American record in relation to a half-million Negro Americans of Arkansas, pointed out: "It is axiomatic that he who cannot do justice to his fellows, cannot administer justice between and among them."

Mr. Jones' great work in keeping out Townsend and thus paving the way for a Democratic judicial selection by a Republican President, closely parallels the naming of Federal Judge Jones, Democrat, of Alabama, by Booker T. Washington through President Roosevelt over a quarter of a century ago, and it is to be hoped that Judge Martineau, like the late Judge Jones, will never give reasonable cause of regret for the conditions precedent to his appointment.

Judge Martineau suceeds to the vacancy left by the death of Judge Trieber, whom Mr. Jones regarded as upright and just.

Mobile, Ala., Regist.

FEB 25 1928

THE RECORD OF A THREAT

On the editorial page of the New York Times of February 21, column two, the following quotation, taken from the statement of the campaign manager of a negro candidate for congress in the First Illinois district, is used:

The issue of paramount importance is not whether the Eighteenth Amendment should be enforced, but whether or not the necessary legislation shall be enacted to make the Fifteenth Amendment effective in spirit and letter. It is my firm conviction that lynching, peonage, jim-crow cars and disfranchising would shortly disappear if every citizen was protected in the exercise of his franchise. This right would not be denied if deprivation of representation in congress would be the unfailing penalty of such denial.

In the Montgomery Advertiser of February 14, in the course of editorial comment, the following statement is made

Senator William Cabell Bruce, of Maryland, has been represented in Alabama as one of those who have "threatened" the South. The fact is that Bruce, a Virginia-born Democrat, has gone no further than to twit his prohibitionist colleagues from the South by remarking upon their inconsistency in defending the practical nullification of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments by ingenious legislative devices. . . . . Bruce is, of course, right and all that his dry, Southern colleagues can do when he twits them in this way is to splutter and turn purple with senseless rage. Dry senators from the Southern states have not appeared to advantage in their debates with Bruce on this question. Reason and Southern-made precedent are on his side.

In the Montgomery Advertiser of February 22, in the course of editorial comment on the clause of the Fourteenth Amendment which declares that "no state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States," the following statement is made:

We of the South did evade this clause in the Fourteenth Amendment and we have been repeatedly threatened with reprisals by means of a reduction of representation in congress on account of it.

Are the people of Alabama going to follow the leadership of a newspaper capable of uttering these libels against this state for the low purpose of aiding Al Smith and his liquor allies?

Are they going to join in this Tammany conspiracy to coerce the respectable people of this state, and of other states of the South, into swallowing a candidate for president of this republic wholly out of harmony with their opinions, sentiments and fundamental beliefs?

Are they going to forget the bitterness of black dangers thrust upon them in 1866, to follow an unwise leadership back to the muck and misery of the liquor wallow?

The Montgomery Advertiser has a right to pick its company; it can lay its ample jowl over on the cheek of the Tammany Tiger, if it likes, and join in all the efforts of men in Chicago and elsewhere who are seeking to alarm the South; but it is dreaming vain dreams if it thinks it can tempt the people of Alabama to follow it into these errors. The thoughtful men and women of Alabama will remain unmoved in the presence of these ugly threats of reprisals against this state and other states of the South, for always right and righteousness are unafraid.

TRIBUNE
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

MAR 25 1928

ONLY 3000 G.O.P. VOTES QUALIFY

Total Net Registration in City 97,713, Including All Parties

TOTAL DEMOCRATIC STRENGTH 94,389

Fewer Than 5,000 of Foreign Birth Found In Orleans

Fewer than 3,000 Republican voters have qualified in Orleans parish to participate in the general gubernatorial election April 17, according to a compilation made by C. S. Barnes, registrar of voters, at the request of James J. Bailey, secretary of state

The total net registration, including all parties in the city is 97,713, of which 69,053 are men and 28,660 women, showing a somewhat smaller registration of women under the new registration which opened January a year ago than in the old registration. The total Democratic registration is 94,389, divided as follows: 66,328 men and 28,061 women.

Of the 2,924 Republicans who registered, the colored Republicans outnumbered the whites by approximately 700. A total of 1,217 white Republicans registered as against 1,707 colored Republican voters.

Not One Socialist

There are a number of very interesting facts shown in the compilation which Registrar Barnes completed on Saturday. In the first place the report shows that there is not one Socialist registered in New Orleans, that is none who have stated their party affiliation as such.

The report shows there are 19 colored Democrats of which 18 are men and one woman.

Independents and others registered total 381.

Of the net total registration of 97,713, fewer than 5,000 are foreign born, the exact figures being 4,344 male foreign born and 640 female foreign born.

The compilation shows that only 187 persons out of the vast number who registered could not write their names and indicated their mark with an X. Of these 161 were men and 26 women.

Seventh Ward Leads

The largest number of Republicans registered is from the Seventh ward with a total of 514, both white and colored. The colored however outnumber the white Republicans in that ward, the total colored registration alone being 435.

The Fourteenth ward leads in the number of white Republicans registered with a total of 142 to 22 colored Republicans.

The First and Second wards have the smallest number of colored Republicans registered, the total for the Four ward in the city, and the Four Six teenth, which has been showing a steady increase in registration in the last few years.

The total Democratic registration in the Ninth ward, leading the Third ward, which former in the Ninth is 8,722, of which 6,561 both the record as the banner men and 2,161 women.

The First ward being 26 and the Twelfth, 230; Fourteenth, 164; Second ward 80. The Republican Fifteenth, 114; registration in the other wards follows: Third, 219; Fourth, 213; Fifth, 91; Seventeenth, 79. The largest Democratic registration is in the Ninth ward, leading the Third ward, which former in the Ninth is 8,722, of which 6,561 both the record as the banner men and 2,161 women.

Sixth, 99; Eighth, 107; Ninth, 191; Tenth, 163; Eleventh, 191

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation.

THE BATTLE IS ENDED BUT THE ISSUES CONTINUE ON

In a silent warfare of ballots, the registered voters of the several states declared in overwhelming numbers to bear the ills they have rather than fly to others they know not of, Tuesday, November sixth. It was a momentous decision. We worked and thought it would have been otherwise. We have no apologies to make for our position, or our defeat.

It is one of the most sacred privileges of this life, to hold opinions as the affairs of the nation, and to express and work for the adoption of leaders who shall enforce them as laws. Men and women value such a privilege all too lightly.

It holds the power over life, liberty and property, for politics is but the handmaid of economics.

The issues upon which we fought against the success of the winners, are as live and unsettled to-day, as when we first conceived them. We shall continue to harrow those who hold the reins and are responsible for the continuance of affairs.

The War amendments are still unenforced. We do not get the national recognition we should have. The men of our race who were treated so disgracefully by the party which they had served, have not been reinstated into favor. Our representative women still rest under the implied insult of the Ackerson letter. Nothing has been altered.

We congratulate Mr. Hoover upon his success. Loaded down with the gratitude which he must feel toward those groups which elected him upon race hatred and bigotry, he has before him no easy task to guide our country amidst the selfish aims of those who are organized to exert their will to power regardless of justice and the law.

We are not surprised at the break in the party allegiance of Florida, Virginia and Texas. Those states have come under the magic influence of Northern capital. They are the rich man's playground in winter, and the principles of the Republican party more than those of Governor Smith, appealed to them.

Governor Smith advocated reforms which would have benefited the people, the masses, and would have upset the privileges of vested interests, perhaps. Antagonism to such a program was inevitable. The people had the power of choice; they chose as wisely as the people always do, and we abide by the result in sincere loyalty to our country and belief in its great future.

Our heads may be bludgeoned, but they are unbowed and unashamed.

THE REVOLT IN HARLEM

WITH the organization of a Ferdinand Q. Morton Association in New York's Negro colony, the Harlem colored folk throw down the gauntlet to Tammany Hall. With 23,000 Negro votes in the upper Manhattan district, the boss of Tammany Hall has stated that they are not important. The Negroes are accordingly offended. Added to this insult is the injury they feel they have suffered at the hands of the Tammany machine by its failure to appoint a Negro to its inner council.

They want to take the control of the Democratic organization in Harlem out of the hands of Tammany Hall and put it into the hands of Negroes. This is right and proper. Tammany Hall has not treated Morton right. It has shorn him of much of his power. He used to dictate appointments but does so no longer. White men now have the power over the 200 jobs that go to the district. Certainly if Negroes are the controlling power in the district they should also control the patronage. This is the law of ward politics, state politics and national politics. Why should the law be ignored in a Negro district?

This holds true for other communities, too. Elsewhere than Harlem there are populous Negro districts where white men control the patronage and consequently control the district. It is an odious situation. There ought to be revolts in other places than Harlem against this practice. Since the future of the Negro in politics in this country lies largely in the black wards of our cities, we want to see to it that there at least the Negro gets all that is coming to him.

Democratic.

Morning Messenger
Sunday, October 22, 1928

500 Madisonville Negroes In Independent League for Smith

John Gipson, chairman of the Hopkins County Colored Wide Awake Independent Voters League said Monday that more than 500 negro voters of Madisonville had enrolled under the Al Smith banner and were supporting his candidacy for president. The league has established headquarters in West Center street, has elected a full set of officers numbering some of the most influential colored citizens and is prepared to carry on an active campaign for the democratic national ticket, A. J. Turner, secretary, said.

Turner said a great many colored women voters had enrolled in the league, a majority of them living in Madisonville, but a great many from other sections of the county. "They are coming into headquarters every day pledging their support to Governor Smith," the secretary said.

Efforts are being made to secure nationally known orators from Louisville and St. Louis with a view to opening a speaking campaign this week, according to John Gipson who said a message was sent Monday to democratic state headquarters asking that colored speakers be sent to Madisonville.

EVERY EVENING
WILMINGTON, DEL.

OCT 25 1928

NEGRO DEMOCRATS MEET THIS EVENING

Robert J. Nelson Sees 60 Per Cent of Colored People for Smith.

The "solid Republican" ranks of the Negroes of this city will be broken tonight at the National Theatre, when three of the leading colored orators in the country will take the platform for Democracy.

In the history of this city never has there been such interest manifested on the part of the colored citizens in the Democratic Party. Headed by Robert J. Nelson, regional director of the Middle Atlantic States, and business manager of the Washington Eagle, a Negro weekly, an organization has been effected throughout this state that must be reckoned with. He declared yesterday that 60 per cent of the Negroes will vote the Democratic ticket.

The principal speaker tonight will be the Rt. Reverend Reverdy C. Ransom, bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, who is heading the speakers' bureau among Negroes throughout the country. The bishop's activities in the present campaign, which are not in harmony with the position of the majority of his colleagues, have swung a large number of Negro voters on the Democratic side.

Another speaker will be J. Finley Wilson, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Colored Elks, who recently declared himself for Governor Smith. Mr. Wilson is a fine orator and is considered one of the most influential Negroes in the country. Julian D. Rainey, of Boston, national director of the activities among the colored group in the United States, will also speak. Robert J. Nelson will preside.

TO ADDRESS COLORED DEMOCRATIC RALLY

J. Finley Wilson, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Colored Elks, will deliver one of the addresses at a rally of colored Democrats in the National Theatre tonight.

EVERY EVENING
WILMINGTON, DEL.

OCT 18 1928

NEGROES URGED TO SUPPORT SMITH

Handbills Distributed in Sussex County by National Colored League.

(Special to Every Evening.)

Georgetown, Oct. 18.—The following is a handbill entitled, "An Appeal to Colored Voters of Sussex County," being distributed through Stanford Davis, colored official representative of national "Smith for President Colored League," in Sussex county:

"Being a member of the National Colored Voters, "Smith for President League," with headquarters in Washington and New York City, officially selected to represent the league here in Sussex county, I take great pleasure in saying that I am one of you and have your interest at heart; our civic cause is common. What harms me and what helps you helps me, and if ever unity was needed with the colored voters of Sussex county it is needed for the coming election day of November 6, to prove that we are not political property to be bought and sold by dealing office seekers who pat you on the shoulders and tell you beautiful stories and deep down in their hearts hate you because you are poor, helpless and have a tint of Negro blood coursing through your veins.

"The Hon. Robert J. Nelson, regional director of the Middle Atlantic States for the League, is fighting the fight of his life for the recognition of your rights as American citizens.

"State Director Maurice Rouselle of Wilmington, is anxious to know of your political needs and ready to come at the faintest whisper to aid you and give you light; and I am here to plead your cause to them, laboring with you, to help fight down these conditions that exist to our discouragement and impede our progress as a struggling people.

"The issues that concern you are your civil rights and representation in Delaware. We have no time to be fighting anyone's religion; exercise your franchise to your best advantage. The Hon. P. S. du Pont believes to the fullest extent that Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, is the ideal American for President. Shall we fight against our great benefactor who has given over $2,000,000 for modern schools to educate our children of Delaware with the best, the founder of a public school system that has startled the world, equal for all and partial to none, and be used as tools by the party of our forefathers we once loved, but which we must foresake if we rise?

"Go to the polls on election day and vote as men and women on principle for Alfred E. Smith, for president; Thomas F. Bayard, for senator; John M. Richardson for congressman and Dr. Wharton for governor."

Cooks With Eyes Shut 16 Hours to Pay Election Bet

FREDERICK, Md. — Nelson Howell, chef at the Frederick Hotel, cooked for "Al" Smith when he was traveling in the "Capitol Limited," the B. and O. train-de-luxe.

A Smith booster, he paid an election bet by cooking in a Tuxedo dinner outfit for 16 hours with his eyes closed.

NEW YORK TIMES
NOV 11 1928

OBSERVATIONS FROM TIMES WATCH-TOWERS

SOLID SOUTH IN FLUX

Defections From Smith Seen to Call for Realignment of Democrats.

NEW PARTY MAY BE BORN

Political Leaders Expect Industrial Growth of Region to Be Prime Factor in Developments.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Editorial Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Hardly had the results of the national election become known before comment of politicians and political observers in various parts of the country, but more pronouncedly in Southern States, took the slant that desertion of Governor Smith's candidacy by four of the ten States of the Democratic Solid South had laid the foundation for a new Democratic Party alignment or perhaps the formation of a new party.

This comment has not gone beyond the nebulous stage and may be due to nothing more than the enthusiasm of victory on the part of those Southern Democrats who bolted their party's national ticket. It is obvious also that Northern workers in Governor Smith's cause are deeply resentful of the Southern defection, and it is easily conceivable that this resentment may eventuate in a refusal of many Northern Democratic organizations to have any future dealings with their bolting Southern brethren, and thus further an inclination among the latter to engineer a new party deal.

That the organization of the Republican Party in the Solid South on a more substantial basis would not be without its benefit to the Democratic Party both in that section and nationally, in the view of many Democrats in Southern States, is another interesting aspect of the situation. The maintenance of the single party system in the South has been irksome to growing numbers of Southern Democrats. They feel that the domination of one party has worked in various ways to the detriment of their area, not only in politics but industrially.

Opinion exists among them that the existence of a second strong party in the South, either a Republican Party recast to suit Southern ideas or a new party which would attract Northerners, or an amalgamation of sympathetic elements obtained from both major parties, would work to the advantage of the whole country.

In other words, a good deal of sentiment exists among Southerners nominally loyal to the Democratic Party that an opposition party in the South, founded on principles and party organization attractive to them, would help the South in many ways. It is doubtful, however, that large numbers having that point of view would be sympathetic to bringing into such a party those Democratic politicians who bolted the Democratic national ticket this year because of opposition to Governor Smith on account of his wetness and his membership in the Catholic Church.

***

Racial and Dry Issues Present.

The bugaboo of possible negro domination has been employed effectively by Southern Democratic politicians in holding their fellow-citizens to their traditional Democratic allegiance, and this is, perhaps, the most compelling reason for having kept the South's vote solid for more than fifty years. But its influence among a considerable number of Southerners who are active and successful in the professions, commerce and industry, has been waning. A remark common to Southerners of that general class is that they vote for Republican Electors in Presidential elections and for Democartic candidates for Congressional and State offices.

In this early period following Tuesday's election, before the thoughts of politicians and those interested in political developments have had opportunity to be applied to the meaning of the heavy Democratic losses, there nevertheless is enough suggestion of new political alignments to justify the belief that something along that line will be undertaken out of sheer necessity.

While former Representative Upshaw of Georgia has not sufficient standing in his constituency to make his ideas of great value, it is evident that he is reflecting a fairly wide opinion of bolting Democratic Southerners in a statement which amounts to the contention that anti-Smith Democrats in the South can neither affiliate any longer with what he calls the "wet Tammany" Democrats of the North nor join the Republican Party. He proposes a new political alignment under some such name as the Constitutional Democratic Party.

This connotes, it is presumed, a party in the South which will be independent both of the Republican and Democratic Parties in local political contests and will amalgamate nationally with those organizations, political and otherwise, which are opposed to modifying the Volstead act. The Upshaw party would work hand and glove with the Anti-Saloon League, which Mr. Upshaw served as a paid lecturer.

"Let your conscience be your guide," he wrote to the Anti-Saloon League management in leaving to it the amount of compensation he should receive for furthering its endeavors.

***

Business Viewpoint Is Appearing.

It is conceived, however, that no new party would make much headway if based chiefly or almost entirely on adherence to prohibition, and, judging from what happened in the Presidential campaign, opposition to any Catholic candidate for public office. More substantial foundation for a new political organization in the South is found in the aspirations of those professional, business and industrial leaders and newspaper editors of Democratic affiliation, who feel that the one-party system is injurious to their section.

Men of that tendency in the ten States which comprise the Solid South hold that the hitherto unwavering adherence of these States to the Democratic Party has put the Solid South between the upper and nether millstones of politics. The Democratic Party as a national organization has seemed to take the position, some of them say, that because the South could be depended upon to support Democracy in any circumstances there was no occasion to cater to it, especially when it came to the distribution of favors, while the Republican Party has felt that the South hostility placed it outside the pale of consideration.

For these reasons and others, among them the fact that the tremendous strides made by the South in industry have built up a sympathy for the Republican Party in its high protection policy and its closeness to "big business," the foundation is there for building up a political party in the South which would affiliate either with the Republican Party nationally or, if a separate organization of anti-Smith Democrats is formed, with that wing of the Democratic Party which gave loyal support to Governor Smith's Presidential candidacy.

Politically, the traditionally Democratic South has been torn asunder by the apostasy of Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Texas. In North Carolina, the most conspicuous Democratic power, Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, whose following is impressively large, has parted company with the Northern Democracy and especially with the Democratic organization in New York. Largely through his influence North Carolina gave its electoral vote to Hoover.

But it is not to be overlooked that many conspicuous North Carolina Democratic politicians, most of them former lieutenants of Simmons, declined to follow him in opposition to Governor Smith. Among them are Mr. Simmons's colleague, Senator Lee Overman, and the Governor of the State, Angus McLean, whose political fortunes were furthered by Senator Simmons's O. K. Another is Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy in President Wilson's Cabinet.

These men, while pronounced prohibitionists opposed to any modification of the Volstead act, went so far in advocacy of Governor Smith's election that it is difficult to conceive their return to leadership in any party organization headed by Mr. Simmons. Their inclination would be to maintain their affiliation with the Democratic organization of the North and West which worked valiantly against great odds for Governor Smith's election.

***

Republican Action Anticipated.

In Florida, the foundation for a substantial Republican Party organization is afforded by the large numbers of Northern and Western Republicans who were attracted there by the real estate and building boom and have become permanent residents. In Texas, Governor Dan Moody and Senator Morris Sheppard, who upheld Governor Smith's candidacy but failed in their effort through the defection of anti-Smith Democrats led by Thomas B. Love and other chiefs of the McAdoo wing, are confronted by a movement to force them out of their party leadership. Moody was re-elected Governor on Tuesday, but was "scratched" by 60,000 Democrats who voted for the Hoover electors.

In Virginia, the Democratic Party organization, led by Governor Byrd and Senators Glass and Swanson, finds itself defeated by the insurgent element headed by Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, whose influence may be such that many of the Democratic politicians who remained regular will be afraid to follow Byrd and the two Senators in State policies unless Bishop Cannon assents in each case.

That Mr. Hoover intends to take advantage of the situation produced in the South by his success there in Tuesday's election is well understood. But his plan of building up a substantial Republican organization in Southern States probably will not be to the liking of many active Southern Republican politicians. Some of these, whose interest in the party has seemed to be confined to getting Federal jobs for themselves and their friends, appear to be in for troublous times after Mr. Hoover becomes President. That he contemplates cleaning them out and substituting other men in their places, perhaps drawing from the ranks of Democratic business and industrial leaders who are inclined toward the national policies of the Republican party, is regarded as within the bounds of probability.

One of the reasons given for the reported widespread opposition to Mr. Hoover's candidacy among negroes was the belief that he wishes to do away with the so-called "black and tan" Republican organizations in the South and recognizes "lily white" organizations of his own forming. This would mean that negroes would have no part in Republican Party activities in States where the race question furnishes an acute issue.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

TRIBUNE-CAPITAL
DES MOINES, IA.

OCT 23 1928

THE NEGRO VOTE

BY CHARLES P. HOWARD, IN THE BYSTANDER.

The announcement was made through the press some days ago that 75 per cent of the Negroes of the country would vote the democratic ticket or that in substance and that the same was true locally. Of course nobody can estimate the per cent of any group that will vote either way. However, since the announcement I have attempted to check on the statement locally to determine its merits and find it to be grossly inaccurate. I have been present in approximately fifteen groups of twenty or more Negroes since this announcement. I have studied the conversation and asked for a showing of hands of persons who intend to vote for Al Smith and the largest number that I have found in any one group has been two, and a reasonable amount of discussion of the merits and demerits of the two parties will have its effect on the few half-hearted Smith supporters. After this check I am unable to estimate how many Negroes locally will vote for Smith, but am satisfied that if Smith is snowed under as badly by the other voters in Polk county as he will be by the colored voters he will be the worse beaten candidate that ever ran for the presidency. As to the truthfulness of this statement nationally, I have two mediums from which to draw. There comes to my desk weekly Negro newspapers from every section of America. After religiously studying the sentiment as therein expressed there can be no question but what sentiment throughout the country with reference to the Negroes' party affiliation this year will be overwhelmingly republican. I attended a meeting of Negro political leaders from every section of the country in Chicago during the latter part of August. In spite of the fact that it was almost a protest meeting, yet the sentiment was overwhelmingly republican after a deliberate discussion of the entire situation. I consider these two mediums truly indicative of Negro sentiment and they unquestionably pointed republican. This statement about 75 per cent of the Negroes voting the democratic ticket is simply whistling in the cemetery.

LOWELL, MASS.

Courier

OCT 23 1928

Massachusetts has more than 20,000 colored voters who, if any of them are inclined to go Democratic, ought to read Dr. W. E. B. Dubois's account of Governor Smith's present unwillingness to say a word for the Negro. It appears that Dr. Dubois and other prominent New York colored men have endeavored vainly in the past few weeks to get an expression of Mr. Smith's personal reaction toward the political rights of the Negro and toward appointment of qualified Negroes to public office. Probably because he already has troubles enough of his own in the South the Democratic candidate refuses to add to them by saying one little word favorable to his Negro fellow citizens, now very numerous and politically well organized in New York city. He is apparently willing, if necessary, to forfeit the whole black vote of Harlem rather than give offense to the sensibilities of the southern states. This may be good politics, for he will carry Gotham anyway, but it is not the mark of a fearless leader such as Governor Smith has sometimes been supposed to be. It incidentaly ought to entitle Mr. Hoover to get every last vote of a Massachusetts Negro.

Asheville, N. C., Times
Sunday, October 21, 1928

45,000 NEGRO VOTERS IN DEMOCRATIC CLUB

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 20.—(UP)—Democratic central regional headquarters here announced Saturday that "more than 45,000 negro voters in Missouri and Oklahoma have been enrolled in the 92 clubs of the Smith-for-President Colored League." Other similar organizations are being formed in Nebraska, Kentucky, and Tennessee, according to Dr. W. H. Thompkins, regional director of the League.

JOURNAL
Jersey City, N. J.

OCT 24 1928

Negro Dems to Meet Tonight

A mass meeting of colored Democrats is to be held tonight at Public School No. 29, Claremont and Rose avenues.

Among those on the list of speakers are Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom, Julian B. Raney, Professor B. Alexander, J. Leroy Jordan, John B. Davis, Mayor Frank Hague, U. S. Senator Edward I. Edwards, and Motor Vehicle Commissioner William L. Dill.

The meeting is under the auspices of the United Colored "Al. Smith For President" Club.

EVERY EVENING
WILMINGTON, DEL.

OCT 19 1928

COLORED DEMOCRATS TO RALLY AT LEWES

Lewes, Oct. 18.—A meeting of colored voters of Sussex county, interested in the success of the Democratic ticket on November 6, will be held here tomorrow evening in Robinson's Colesium.

John C. Clinton, colored, prominent Washington attorney, and candidate on the Democratic state ticket, will address the meeting.

N. Y. SUN

OCT 26 1928

Negro Weekly for Smith.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—The Afro-American Weekly yesterday announced that it will support Gov. Smtih for President instead of Hoover because of the latter's acceptance of Ku Klux Klan support in the South. The paper circulates among negroes in the East from New York to the Carolinas.

JOURNAL
Jersey City, N. J.

OCT 26 1928

Independent Colored Democrats Organize

A new independent colored Democratic organization was organized by Samuel H. Branch, exalted ruler of the Bayonne Lodge of Colored Elks, who was honored with the presidency of the association. By working independently of the regular Democratic organization Branch and his followers feel that they will be able to obtain greater recognition for their people. Final plans for their activities on Election Day will be made at a meeting to be held Sunday afternoon in the Colored Elks' clubhouse.

While Branch and his followers have been affiliated with Mayor Daly's Democratic organization in the past, there was an indication that they may sever their relations with the present leadership, although they will support the Democratic candidates in November. Branch was given the right to repudiate the present leadership should he be of the opinion that such action would result beneficially to his people. He said yesterday that while certain promises made by the local leaders have not been kept he is hopeful that whatever differences exist soon will be rectified.

Democratic.

DISPATCH
COLUMBUS, O.

NOV 5 1928

A PORTSMOUTH COLORED VOTER'S VIEWS.

To the Editor of The Dispatch:

Sir: I notice that those colored voters who say they will vote the Democratic ticket this time claim that they have not been treated right by the Republican party. I do not know just what they mean by that. Is it a job they are talking about?

Al Smith and his clique are all tarred with the same stick as Jeff Davis and the rest of the rebels of the South. When I hear of a colored man or woman voting, or saying they are going to vote for a Democrat on a national issue it makes my blood boil. I have no patience with them at all. I have voted and worked for the Republican party my entire life and call it a privilege and duty. I know that the Democrats of the South hate our race as they hate a snake, and far be it from me to do one thing to advance their cause in any way. They would gladly put us in bondage again if they could.

Al Smith wants an Underwood tariff or something built on that line. What they want is booze and more booze to please the New Yorkers. The rest of the United States may be damned.

Now, go on colored man, and vote for Al Smith and then go jump into a pot of quick lime so you will be no more. I am ashamed of my race.

Walter Eubanks,
492 11th street, Portsmouth, Ohio.

JOURNAL
CHICAGO, ILL.

OCT 22 1928

NEGRO VOTE SPLIT AIDS AL

Predict Governor Will Run 50-50 with Hoover Here

By M. L. MUNIE

Deep-seated political rebellion in Chicago's "black belt" has the national, state and local republican leaders really worried for the first-time since the hearty segregation of negroes in the First, Second and Third wards became an established fact.

Gov. Al Smith's reputation for fair dealing with the great masses of negroes congregated in the Harlem district in New York city his appointment of negroes to important places in the state government, coupled with the friendly relations the democratic administration of New York city has established with the New York negro populace has inspired Chicago negroes in great numbers with a militant determination to vote for Al Smith for president.

Like the negro in the south, those who migrated north know that prohibition got its start in the southern states and was aimed at the negro only.

Resent "Lily White" Plans

Added to this grievance is the Hoover declaration that the republican party proposed to see that only the "lily white" element will have a voice in G. O. P. matters south of the Mason and Dixon line in the future. The work of eliminating the negro from national republican councils in the south began in the Kansas City convention which nominated Hoover. It has been carried forward in efforts to jail southern negro leaders in various states.

This is resented, especially by the younger and more educated colored men and women.

There is more outspoken support and enthusiasm for Al Smith in Chicago's "black belt" today than has even been felt for any democratic candidate for president. Predictions are freely made that Smith will split the negro vote fifty-fifty with Hoover on Nov. 6.

The "black belt" went for Len Small against Lou Emmerson in the G. O. P. governorship primary because Mr. Small gave the negroes substantial recognition and because he was backed by Mayor Thompson, who had just been elected over Mayor Dever practically by the solid negro vote.

Honored Thompson Leaders

Small put Ed Wright on the state commerce commission. When Wright stepped out on account of ill health and a quarrel with Mayor Thompson, Small put Oscar De Priest and Dan Jackson, Thompson leaders, on the same body, where they now are.

This situation is causing the democratic forces to make a determined effort in the "black belt" with a reasonable hope of cutting down the usual huge G. O. P. majority.

J. H. SCAMBLER NOW RECTOR

Succeeds Rev. A. E. Johnstone at Trinity in Belvidere

Announcement was made today of the appointment of Rev. John H. Scambler as rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Belvidere, succeeding Rev. A. E. Johnstone, who recently poined the Episcopal City Missions staff at Church of the Epiphany, Chicago. Rev. Mr. Scambler is a graduate of De Paul university, and the General Theological Seminary, New York.

HERALD

Selma, Ala

OCT 6 1928

THE RACE QUESTION.

The Manufacturers Record, the editor of which has recently come out in support of the Republican presidential ticket, admonishes the leaders of both parties in the south to refrain from raising the race issue during the campaign. The Record should make its appeal to northern not to southern leaders, to extremists in his party north of Mason and Dixon's line, not to those who have settled that question to their own satisfaction in the southern states within the terms of the federal consitution as interpreted by the highest court in the land. The journal should direct its admonitions to the Dyers and the Moses and others who are telling he Negroes of their section that they purpose in some manner to pass a law that will nullify all state laws limiting the privilege of the ballot and thereby enfranchise every black man in the south regardless of his qualifications.

Virginia settled the race question by constitutional enactment more than twenty-five years ago and all the rest of the southern states, including even Texas, we believe, have done likewise. Certain restrictions have been thrown around the suffrage privilege that make it impossible for the illiterate to register and therefore vote. There being more illiterate colored voters than white more of them suffered from the terms of this law. But the younger ones coming on are qualified to register and are gradually being absorbed into the electorate without being noticed as the process is slow. Not enough of them have thus far enrolled as voters to make them a factor in county elections even in the so-called black belt. That was the object of the law which was intended not to penalize him because of his race or color but to eliminate the illiterate and unfit from the exercise of a privilege that was harmful to the state and to society in general. There is nothing in the election law of any southern state that will eliminate any qualified man black or white, from the electorate and there is nothing in the law the requirements of which cannot be met.

When Representative Leonidas C. Dyer, of the twelfth Missouri district, declares that he proposes if possible to enfranchise those of the southern population who are not qualified to comply with the present election laws of Virginia, he is a nullifier of the spirit of the constitution at least which leaves the regulation of the suffrage privileges to the individual states. If he knew conditions in the south and the pleasant relations that have grown up between the races here since the Negro ceased to be the tool of intriguing white politicians who sought to ride into office on his back, and realized that there is no friction between the white and colored people and therefore no race question longer in the south, he might cease this palaver about enfranchising some millions of colored voters. The colored race is growing in intelligence and illiteracy among them is disappearing. They are acquiring homes and land and are becoming prosperous. Employment is open to them at every point it is open to white people. He is denied no inherent right nor any privilege he can meet. He is filling his place and showing especial adaptability in many lines. He competes with his white neighbor on an equal basis. He would be satisfied but for the meddlers of the north like Representative Dyer who does not understand either the social or political problems of the south. Therefore, this newspaper believes that appeals should go out to the northern Republicans whose dream is a shattered solid south as a political entity, to allow the two races solve their own problems without agitation. But the south for the present at least should not take any risks about this thing and should not grow careless about the situation. It has been openly threatened with the passage of the anti-lynching bill which Mr. Dyer asserts will require the literal enforcement of the fourteenth amendment. Those are the people who will if they can, revive the old antagonisms and race hatreds that happily have disappeared in the south.

AMERICAN

Robertsdale, Ala

NOV 3 1928

Democrats Value South's Vote Less Than Negro Vote

The National Democratic Committee has placed a mighty low estimate on the value of the South's vote as compared to that of the negro vote.

According to the New York Times last week Alabama was given $5,000 by the Democratic committee, Florida $5,000 and Mississippi only $1,165. At the same time the Smith-for-President Colored League was given another $15,000. The same colored league two weeks ago received $30,000.

The negro vote is worth $45,000 to the National Democratic Committee while the votes from the states of Alabama, Florida and Mississippi, three outstanding and important Southern states, are only valued altogether at a little over $10,000.

In other words, the vote of one member of the Smith-for-President Colored League is worth nine times the amount in money more than the vote of a Southern man in either Alabama or Florida, and forty-five times more than the vote of a man in Mississippi.

The Democratic National Committee has thus placed its estimation of the value of the Southern vote. How does it appeal to you?

EAGLE

Dothan, Ala

NOV 5 1928

A DEMOCRAT'S TEN REASONS

I am supporting Smith and Robinson:

1. Because I am a Southern man and can never support the Republican party that was born of hatred to the South, its institutions and its people, and that both reviled and persecuted the South and its people during the days of "reconstruction" in a viocious and criminal effort to "put the bottom rail on top" in the South.

2. Because I am a white man and can never support the "black and tan" party that is captained in the state by the negro, Ben Davis, and the malatto, Mamie Williams.

3. Because I know that in this race question the Republican leopard has never changed its spots, and I do not believe it ever will or ever can. Herbert Hoover, its candidate for President, in his effort to get negro votes in the Ohio primary, revoked the rate-segregation "order" in his Department, leaving white women to work under negro "bosses" and the two races to use indiscriminately the same closets and rest rooms. This was done the week before the Ohio primaries. Whatever may be the view of other Southern white men or white women, I cannot possibly bring myself to vote for the man who did it.

4. Because I can never support the party that sneers at and over-rides local self-government as an antiquated and exploded doctrine, and that continually and continuously aggrandizes federal power at the expense of the states.

5. Because I believe in honest and equal taxation and can never persuade myself to support the party of special interests and picked favorites.

6. Because I can never support the party that while professing devotion to all of the constitutional provisions "until they are changed" has undertaken and is now undertaking, in a secret and undrehanded way in this very contest to wage a campaign of prejudice and intolerance against the Democratic nominee because of the religious faith of that nominee.

7. Because I can never support the party, or its Cabinet officer, that for the past eight years has furnished to the country the most amazing spectacle of graft and corruption, of inefficiency and dis-honesty that ever disgraced American history.

8. Because I had infinitely rather support for President of the United States a publican under Harding and Coolidge; League of God, red-blooded American citizen, even if he did come up from poverty and obscurity, among Nations Man under Wilson, anti-League of Nations "the sidewalks of New York" than a 50 percent. man under Harding and Coolidge, internationalist Englishman, who has spent most of his life and capitalist all the time.

9. Because I had rather support an honest, sincere man like Al Smith even if I do not always agree with him, than a trimmer, a dodger, a twister and a coat-turner, like Herbert Hoover. Smith is the same man, yesterday, today and tomorrow. Hoover is Democratic under Wilson, Republican under Harding and Coolidge; League of Nations under Wilson, anti-League of Nations under Harding and Coolidge, internationalist and capitalist all the time.

10. Because old-fashioned Democracy as Jefferson taught it and as Jackson practiced it, is good enough for me. It is like "old-time religion," good enough for me. In all reverence, I pray God, fellow citizens, it may also be good enough for you.—Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia.

HERALD

Suffolk, Va

OCT. 6 1928

THE RACE QUESTION.

The Manufacturers Record, the editor of which has recently come out in support of the Republican presidential ticket, admonishes the leaders of both parties in the south to refrain from raising the race issue during the campaign. The Record should make its appeal to northern not to southern leaders, to extremists in his party north of Mason and Dixon's line, not to those who have settled that question to their own satisfaction in the southern states within the terms of the federal consitution as interpreted by the highest court in the land. The journal should direct its admonitions to the Dyers and the Moses and others who are telling he Negroes of their section that they purpose in some manner to pass a law that will nullify all state laws limiting the privilege of the ballot and thereby enfranchise every black man in the south regardless of his qualifications.

Virginia settled the race question by constitutional enactment more than twenty-five years ago and all the rest of the southern states, including even Texas, we believe, have done likewise. Certain restrictions have been thrown around the suffrage privilege that make it impossible for the illiterate to register and therefore vote. There being more illiterate colored voters than white more of them suffered from the terms of this law. But the younger ones coming on are qualified to register and are gradually being absorbed into the electorate without being noticed as the process is slow. Not enough of them have thus far enrolled as voters to make them a factor in county elections even in the so-called black belt. That was the object of the law which was intended not to penalize him because of his race or color but to eliminate the illiterate and unfit from the exercise of a privilege that was harmful to the state and to society in general. There is nothing in the election law of any southern state that will eliminate any qualified man black or white, from the electorate and there is nothing in the law the requirements of which cannot be met.

When Representative Leonidas C. Dyer, of the twelfth Missouri district, declares that he proposes if possible to enfranchise those of the southern population who are not qualified to comply with the present election laws of Virginia, he is a nullifier of the spirit of the constitution at least which leaves the regulation of the suffrage privileges to the individual states. If he knew conditions in the south and the pleasant relations that have grown up between the races here since the Negro ceased to be the tool of intriguing white politicians who sought to ride into office on his back, and realized that there is no friction between the white and colored people and therefore no race question longer in the south, he might cease this palaver about enfranchising some millions of colored voters. The colored race is growing in intelligence and illiteracy among them is disappearing. They are acquiring homes and land and are becoming prosperous. Employment is open to them at every point it is open to white people. He is denied no inherent right nor any privilege he can meet. He is filling his place and showing especial adaptability in many lines. He competes with his white neighbor on an equal basis. He would be satisfied but for the meddlers of the north like Representative Dyer who does not understand either the social or political problems of the south. Therefore, this newspaper believes that appeals should go out to the northern Republicans whose dream is a shattered solid south as a political entity, to allow the two races solve their own problems without agitation. But the south for the present at least should not take any risks about this thing and should not grow careless about the situation. It has been openly threatened with the passage of the anti-lynching bill which Mr. Dyer asserts will require the literal enforcement of the fourteenth amendment. Those are the people who will if they can, revive the old antagonisms and race hatreds that happily have disappeared in the south.

AMERICAN

Rockville, Ala

NOV 3 1928

Democrats Value South's Vote Less Than Negro Vote

The National Democratic Committee has placed a mighty low estimate on the value of the South's vote as compared to that of the negro vote.

According to the New York Times last week Alabama was given $5,000 by the Democratic committee, Florida $5,000 and Mississippi only $1,165. At the same time the Smith-for-President Colored League was given another $15,000. The same colored league two weeks ago received $30,000.

The negro vote is worth $45,000 to the National Democratic Committee while the votes from the states of Alabama, Florida and Mississippi, three outstanding and important Southern states, are only valued altogether at a little over $10,000.

In other words, the vote of one member of the Smith-for-President Colored League is worth nine times the amount in money more than the vote of a Southern man in either Alabama or Florida, and forty-five times more than the vote of a man in Mississippi.

The Democratic National Committee has thus placed its estimation of the value of the Southern vote. How does it appeal to you?

EAGLE

Bessemer, Ala

NOV 5 1928

A DEMOCRAT'S TEN REASONS

I am supporting Smith and Robinson:

1. Because I am a Southern man and can never support the Republican party that was born of hatred to the South, its institutions and its people, and that both reviled and persecuted the South and its people during the days of "reconstruction" in a viocious and criminal effort to "put the bottom rail on top" in the South.

2. Because I am a white man and can never support the "black and tan" party that is captained in the state by the negro, Ben Davis, and the malatto, Mamie Williams.

3. Because I know that in this race question the Republican leopard has never changed its spots, and I do not believe it ever will or ever can. Herbert Hoover, its candidate for President, in his effort to get negro votes in the Ohio primary, revoked the rate-segregation "order" in his Department, leaving white women to work under negro "bosses" and the two races to use indiscriminately the same closets and rest rooms. This was done the week before the Ohio primaries. Whatever may be the view of other Southern white men or white women, I cannot possibly bring myself to vote for the man who did it.

4. Because I can never support the party that sneers at and over-rides local self-government as an antiquated and exploded doctrine, and that continually and continuously aggrandizes federal power at the expense of the states.

5. Because I believe in honest and equal taxation and can never persuade myself to support the party of special interests and picked favorites.

6. Because I can never support the party that while professing devotion to all of the constitutional provisions "until they are changed" has undertaken and is now undertaking, in a secret and underhanded way in this very contest to wage a campaign of prejudice and intolerance against the Democratic nominee because of the religious faith of that nominee.

7. Because I can never support the party, or its Cabinet officer, that for the past eight years has furnished to the country the most amazing spectacle of graft and corruption, of inefficiency and dis-honesty that ever disgraced American history.

8. Because I had infinitely rather support for President of the United States a real honest-to-God, red-blooded American citizen, even if he did come up from poverty and obscurity, among "the sidewalks of New York" than a 50 percent. Englishman, who has spent most of his life and made all his fortune abroad.

9. Because I had rather support an honest, sincere man like Al Smith even if I do not always agree with him, than a trimmer, and a dodger, a twister and a coat-turner, like Herbert Hoover. Smith is the same man, yesterday, today and tomorrow. Hoover is Democratic under Wilson, Republican under Harding and Coolidge; League of Nations Man under Wilson, anti-League of Nations man under Harding and Coolidge, internationalist and capitalist all the time.

10. Because old-fashioned Democracy as Jefferson taught it and as Jackson practiced it, is good enough for me. It is like "old-time religion," it is good enough for me. In all reverence, I pray God, fellow citizens, it may also be good enough for you.—Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

Columbus, Ga., Dispatch
Friday, October 26, 1928

THIS IS PRETTY PIFFLE!

Early in this campaign, when Mrs. Marvin Williams made her appeal to the negro women of the W. C. T. U. to register and vote for Hoover, The Telegraph said that it would be the worst thing that could happen to the negro would be to drag him into the campaign—Macon Telegraph.

Could one imagine a more ridiculous expression than this—from a paper which has been accusing, belittling, besmirching and tongue lashing a woman like Mrs. Marvin Williams in connection with Ben Davis politcal activities in Georgia as long as the Macon Telegraph has been doing that thing? And when in this campaign did Mrs. Marvin Williams make her appeal to the negroes to register and vote against Tammany and Al Smith—except in the imagination of the Macon Telegraph? Mrs. Williams in the interest of betterment for the negro everywhere in Georgia, has for a long time done what she could to help the negro schools and churches by advancing the cause of temperance among them. That has been true of her long before ever she had to face the monstrous—perilous—abhorrent—democratic Smith and Tammany wet campaign for the presidency.

Somewhere—it will not be always—somewhere the man who writes that stuff in the editorial columns of the Macon Telegraph will have to pay for his folly. Retribution never fails. Sooner or later that man's meanness will engulf him. The law of compensation is inexorable! The man who stands up and drives at the voters in an effort to impose Smith and Tammany on them is going to pay for it in future. He thinks the bolters will pay for bolting—we have to see yet what a voter has to suffer for following the dictates of his own conscience in seeking to support the better man for the office. That's democracy—true democracy—was true democracy before ever Al Smith and Tammany rose to tell us what it is.

Let the Georgia voter keep in mind that the real sources of danger from the negro in politics is from the Smith and Tammany ticket. This section has the negro question settled. It can give no trouble if let alone. The negro when dragged back into politics by Al Smith and the Tammany political gangsters, is going to prove trouble all over again—and they are dragging the negro back—all over southern democrats against their protest—agains their better judgment—even to democratic regulars. The same party bosses in the south who are trying to force Georgians to follow the Tammany masters and their social equality practices in politics, know very well how impossible isthat thing in the south.

Remember, voter, Smith and Tammany are the real negro menace. The republican party has been forced in the past to take negro representation in the south, but Herbert Hoover has clared decks of all negro representation and the Georgia republican party today is wholly free from negro political contamination. It is the domination of the national democracy by Smith and Tammany that is forcing a dangerous negro admixture upon us. This is a social equality product that has always been the most obnoxious. If we follow Smith and Tammany, we may look for the wirst in the dragging of the negro into our national politics.

Southerners who represent us in Washington will be a thousand times embarrassed in having a Tammany negro put over them in the administration of the federal government if Smith is elected. This must not happen. A vote for Herbert Hoover this time is a vote in the direction of preventing it. We're for white supremacy—a fair deal for the negro here among us—but no negro pickaninny tootsie wootsie from Tammany's Harlem "negro heaven" can ever call a white woman "ma" and a negro man "pa" or a negro woman "ma" and a white man "pa" very long and get by with it—in the south—in Georgia—and we must steer clear of Smith and Tammany Hall if we are sure we care about these things. A vote for Smith means just that in November—that you endorse it—that you believe in it—that you are willing to give up a white man's country for social equality with anything that Smith and Tammany offer—and they offer negro social equality —practice it—believe in it—vote it regularly—and sneer at the southern white man who cannot swallow it—and smile!

Columbus, Ga., Times and News
Thursday, September 27, 1928.

"HOOVER DEMOCRATS"

Ben Davis, negro national committeeman of the Republican party in Georgia, is busy writing editorials in his Atlanta Independent in support of the Democratic party.

No, he is not in the pay of the Democratic party, nor is he willingly helping the party. He is the man who sells Republican patronage in Georgia at so much per postoffice, and who will be out of a paying job when Al Smith becomes president. Ben Davis is fighting to hold his job, and is helping to throw himself out of it.

But while he is in the fight, he is telling some facts which need to be told, and they are important facts because they cannot be disputed when they come from him—he speaks with authority. He is the big spokesman for the Republican party in Georgia. He knows what a Republican is, and he names a few of them in his Independent.

In the editorial columns of his paper he carries every issue this ticket:

"NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET

For President: Herbert Hoover, of California.

For Vice-President: Charles Curtis, of Kansas.

Electors

At-large: Mrs. Mary Harris Armour, Eastman; Charles Adamson, Cedartown.

First District: Frank Durden, Savannah.

Second District, J. M. Patterson, Putney.

Third District: Charles E. Brown, Cordele.

Fourth District: Henry O. Lovvorn, Carrollton.

Fifth District: Mrs. Marvin Williams, Atlanta.

Sixth District: George S. Jones, Macon.

Seventh District: D. C. Cole, Marietta.

Eighth District: C. A. VerNooy, Athens.

Ninth District: W. A. Carlisle, Gainesville.

Tenth District: E. J. Forrester, Sparta.

Eleventh District: Dan T. Cowart, Waycross.

Twelfth District: J. H. Bush, Lumber City.

This is interesting matter, because it shows the colors some of our white friends are sailing under—white friends who call themselves "Hoover Democrats." Ben Davis brands them as part of the "National Republican Ticket," and they can't squirm that off.

And then Ben Davis goes on with his endorsement of the "National Republican Ticket" in these words:

The Democratic party is anti-negro and has been from its very incipiency.

It was and is the party of slavery and opposed the adoption of the thirteenth amendment, which abolished slavery. It opposed the adoption of the fourteenth amendment which made us citizens and clothed us with the right to vote and hold property, instead of being property and sold sold like cattle. It opposed the fifteenth amendment which promised us protection at the ballot box.

It has disfranchised us in every state by ingeniously designed unconstitutional amendments to state constitutions, and nullified every decision of the supreme court of the United States declaring these amendments null and void.

In every Democratic state in the Union the negro has been jim-crowed on the train, segregated where he lives, discriminated against in business, disfranchised and denied equal protecton of the law. In every Democratic state the negro is shut out of the Democratic primary by force or court injunction. He is told everywhere that the Democratic party is a white man's party and negroes are not wanted. If the World or any other negro wants to support the Democratic party in the light of this cratalog of crime against the race, we'll content ourselves to be one hundred per cent. Republican under Hoover-Curtis leadership.

In no state in the Union where the Republican party controls is there a jim-crow, disfranchising, or a segregating law. In no Republican state is there any separation of the races on public carriers, or shutting the door of political opportunity in the negro's face.

The Republican party enfranchised the negro. It voted for and passed the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the federal constitution which prohibited slavery, made the negro a free man, gave him the right to hold property instead of being a chattel, and placed the ballot in his hands to protect himself in the enjoyment of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

We are one hundred per cent. Republican because there is not one line of discriminating legislation on the books of any state in the Union placed there by the Republican party. but on the contrary there is special legislation on the books of every Democratic state in the Union outlawing the black man's rights and put on there by the Democratic party over the protests and votes of Republicans.

Ben Davis is not only "100 per cent. Republican"—he is 100 per cent. negro as well. We are glad he is both.

NEGRO BISHOPS SUPPORT WHISKEY TRAFFIC AND TAMMANY HALL

It is to be seriously regretted that two of our Negro bishops have announced their intention of supporting the liquor ring and Tammany Hall corruption. The whiskey traffic is the most deadly foe to morality and destructive force to good health and prosperity in the world. It is destructive to both the moral and economic welfare of the people. It has destroyed more lives and created more poverty and woe among the people of the earth than all the wars recorded in history; and the man, or political party who encourages the sale of alcohol in any form, or strength, is a deadly foe to Christian religion, and promoter of immorality and poverty among the people.

There could be no greater sin and disgrace perpetrated against the Church of God, than a bishop of the Protestant Church advocating the election of a candidate to preside over all the people, who believes in and agitates the sale of liquor in any form, and who supports the most corrupt political machine conceived for the promotion of vice, crime and immorality.

The church that fails to unfrock a bishop who is so immoral and corrupt in his conception of Christian leadership, lessens its usefulness, and destroys its power for good among the people.

It is reported that Bishop R. C. Ransom, of the A. M. E. Church, and Bishop G. C. Clemmons, of the A. M. E. Zion Church, are outspoken in their support of Governor Smith, the candidate of the whiskey interests and who is a creature and representative of Tammany Hall.

Nobody expected anything better of Bishop Ransom, for his record for doing the odd stunt, is familiar to the public; but many of us thought better of Bishop Clemmons. But there is just about as much filth and graft in the religious school, in which these oddities were trained, as there is in corrupt politics today. The world has but little more respect for the church than it has for the ordinary political party. The church has about condescended to the level of dirty politics, and many of those at the head of our Protestant churches are just as dirty, corruptible, ignorant and mercenary as the average ward-heeler. The people are beginning to judge the usefulness of the church by the rascals in high places who use their position in the church to fill their pockets with graft and stolen dollars.

Tammany Hall offers the Negro nothing in return for their support, except dives, dance halls, vice joints and protection in their avocation of gambling and running immoral joints. With this record, two of our bishops elect to support this institution of corruption.

Every Negro in this country who thinks, believes that these bishops and every other Negro who deserts the Republican Party for the Democratic Party, went over for a price, and none of us believe that they are actuated by a desire to better their race's condition, but for the one purpose, filling their own pockets with lousy dollars. Any preacher, or bishop who announces that his object was for the betterment of his people is a lie out of the whole cloth, and should be unfrocked that he may no longer misrepresent the House of God.

Ogletharpe, Ga., Citizen
Friday, September 28, 1928

AL SMITH'S RECORD AS VIEWED BY BEN DAVIS

From Bainbridge Post-Searchlight:

Ben Davis, a negro Republican National Committeeman for Georgia, is leading the fight for Hoover in this state, and allied with him are a number of white white men and women, who have heretofore been classed as Democrats. It is charitable to believe that these white men and women either are in ignorance regarding the history of the South, or have forgotten all the traditional standards of white supremacy, or it may be that some of them were born north of the Mason and Dixon line. It is to be hoped that white men and women raised in the South will remember history made by their forefathers which is dear to every true Southerner, and bear in mind the truth rather than accept the poisionous propaganda that is being spread throughout the South by agents of the Republican party. Ben Davis, in addition to his other political activities, as Editor of a negro paper known as the Independent. In this paper he prints the names of the republican candidates for electors, including those of two white women, Mrs. Mary Harris Armor and Mrs. Marvin Williams. It is safe to say that this is not pleasing to the great majority of Southern women and Southern men to see the names of respectable Southern women, paraded in a negro paper and endorsed as the favored candidates of a negro politician. Would to God that we could wipe this distressing incident off of the slate of Southern political history. In the same issue of his "Independent" Ben Davis makes some editorial comments that ought to be interesting to those who contemplate leaving the Democratic party and going over to the party of Ben Davis. He says: "We can never vote for the Democratic party as long as it stands for ignorance, meanness and race hatred. A vote for Al Smith is not a vote for the man, but a vote for the Democratic party. Al Smith is no better than the Democratic party. His record does not disclose a single favor that he has done for negroes in New York. As infamous and as wrong and cowardly as lily-whiteism is, it is no worse than the robbery and outlawry of the Democratic party against the American negro."

This unsavory subject leaves a bad taste in a white Democratic mouth. It makes us doubt that there can be many Georgians who will join the party of en Davis rather than accept the counsel of one of the nation's greatest statesmen, Senator Walter F. George

Decatur County Democratic Club.

Swainsboro, Ga., Forest-Blade
Thursday, September 27, 1928

IS WHITE SUPREMACY IN DANGER?

(Metter Advertiser)

The argument of the few Al Smith supporters in this section — Metter especially—is that in the event Herbert Hoover is elected President of the United States the negro would eventually be put in power over white people. This is the poorest argument ever advanced, unless some of Al's negro lieutenants gain ground in the South as they have in New York City.

"If you vote for Herbert Hoover you will be supporting Ben Davis," is the cry of the supporters of the candidate who has laughed in the face of the Democratic Party for, lo these many years, and instead of accepting the platform at the convention held in Houston, Texas, he drew a platform of his own and called himself the nominee of the party whose organization—Tammany Hall — has fought from the day of Tilden down through the campaign of the Hon. John W. Davis.

With the announcement that Jack Johnson, negro, former heavyweight champion of the world, would stump the South in the interest of "Al Smith for President of the United States," is further proof of the statement made several weeks ago that there were Negro Al Smith Clubs being formed throughout the nation. Is white supremacy in danger if the Republican Party is victorious in November? Has white supremacy been in danger during the past eight years? White supremacy is NOT in danger, and those who are making such absurd statements know it is untrue; their only hope is that some poor, ignorant, little narrow-minded person will believe such 'bunk" and vote for Drinking Al in November.

If white supremacy is in danger in Georgia just because Ben Davis has been affiliated with the Republican Party, what about the black Municipal Civil Service Commissioner in New York city who has a white American-born woman as his private secretary? Is white supremacy in danger in New York? If Al Smith followers in this section do not know that such a condition exists in New York city today, just investigate for yourself. His name is Ferdinand Q. Morton, and his salary is $7,500 a year. Now laugh that off. The board of Civil Service Commissioners of which Morton is a part, is composed of three a Roman Catholic, Jew, and Negro.

Here's the line-up: Jack Johnson the husband of a white woman. Ferdinand Q. Morton whose private secretary is a white woman; Mrs. Moskovitz, a Russian Jew; J. J. Raskob, something besides an American citizen, and various others we could mention, who are conducting the campaign of liquor-loving Al.

We have always taken great pride in calling ourselves a Democrat until the party degraded itself to the extent of allowing Al Smith to be its standard-bearer, then and there we severed our relationship and cast our lot with the party who has as its standard-bearer one of America's most highly respected citizens, and one in whom the American people CAN and WILL put their trust.

Again, we ask the question, is white supremacy in danger? — (ADVERTISEMENT).

Elberton, Ga., Star
Friday, September 28, 1928

THE NEGRO NOT AN "ISSUE"

Depreciation by the Richmond News Leader, an ardent supporter of Governor Smith, of the "negro menace" in the South as a campaign issue is so sane and opportune that true friends of the South will hope other Southern editors will emphasize this point, regardless of their party affiliations. "The negro is not an 'issue' in this campaign," says the News Leader, and in that pronouncement it speaks truly.

In that period of Reconstruction, negro domiantion was unquestionably the most vital danger and issue in the South. Largely through the work of sterling Southern men and organizations that evil in time was eradicated, and never again, it seems safe to say, will the people of the United States permit recurrence of such frightful conditions. Times have changed and we have entered on a new era. That the issue was kept alive since, through the appointment of some negroes to Federal offices in the South, is unfortunate; but indications are strong, that this policy will be abandoned, because flatly it is "bad politics." Indeed, as is shown daily, the danger of unduly elevating the negro now rests in the Democratic national party, rather than the Republican.

Left to themselves, the white people and the negroes of the South will dwell together in amity and mutual benefit economically. This is a fact that the leaders of both great political parties must grasp, and thus refrain hereafter from pormoting the "race issue" or the "negro menace." In the heat of a political campaign of a few weeks duration they must be careful not to undo all that individuals and organizations have brought about in the creation of a spirit of harmony between the races in the Southern States.—Manufacturers Record.

BROOKLYN TIMES
OCT 4 1928

COLORED DEMOCRATS TO MEET

The Regular Colored Democratic Association of Kings County will hold a Smith-Robinson mass meeting in its headquarters, 905 Fulton st., tomorrow night. Local and State candidates will speak. Wesley L. Young, the veteran leader of the colored Democrats, who attended the convention at Rochester, will preside.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

ANTI-SMITH PAPER PROMISES BIG SENSATION

Republican State Chairman Part Owner Of Sheet That Will Denounce Negro

Sworn statement appearing in the October 5th issue of The Fellowship Forum, anti-Catholic and Ku Klux Klan organ, that R. H. Anderson, chairman of the Virginia Republican State Committee, is a stockholder in the company that publishes the Forum gives special interest and significance to the announcement appearing in the same issue of the Forum that its issue of October 20th will carry a "Sensational Expose of Al Smith and Negro Equality in New York." Negro Republicans everywhere will read the following announcement from the Forum with much interest and concern:

During the present campaign The Fellowship Forum has published some "warm" editions. Many special articles have played havoc with the prospects of Al Smith's election. One of the most damaging features released so far by this newspaper was the picture of F. Q. Morton, Tammany Negro boss. In this picture the Tammany Negro pet—Gov. Al Smith's political attache and sufficiently a personal associate of the governor to call him "Al"—was shown in his private office in New York City, dictating letters to his WHITE lady secretary—for which work Tammany allows him to reap a $7,500 a year salary.

But the really BIG story is yet to come!

After considerable research, THE ONE GREAT SENSATION OF THE CAMPAIGN—from the Tammany-Smith-Negro angle—is ready for release. Only a few minor details remain to be worked out on this story preparatory to its publication. The story itself will be supported by illustrations and documentary proof that will startle all WHITE voters in the country—especially WHITE DEMOCRATS of the South. For this startling article will be the clinching proof of Tammany Al Smith's catering to Negro voters on the grounds that he is the exponent of absolute equality—social, civil and political—of the White and Black races. This will not be any "hearsay" evidence—but documentary proof, proof both of Gov. Al Smith's appealing to Negro voters as the advocate of Negro equality, and Negro official-

Macon, Ga., News
Sunday, October 7, 1928

How to Annex Negro Vote in North Hard Problem for Smith

Organizers Busy, but Al Tries to Keep Facts From Southern Newspapers

Special to The News

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—One of the most difficult of the problems of the Democratic presidential campaign managers this year is how to handle their active solicitation of negro votes in the North, without giving offense to the rank and file of white Democracy in the South.

The efforts thus far made to corral the colored votes in the great centers of population in the east, where the negroes constitute no small population factor, seem already to be having an unfavorable reaction south of the Mason and Dixon line.

But regardless of this, the Smith effort to capture the negro vote in the North continues with unabated zeal, although there is great anxiety to keep it out of Southern newspapers.

The line being taken by the Smith negro organizers is that, if elected, Governor Smith would "bring the South to a recognition of the error of its ways." Editorials in Smith negro newspapers hail him as "the greatest hope that has appeared on the political horizon since emancipation," and negro speakers are telling the voters of their race that "it is not the party, but the president that is in the White House" that counts.

At the same time, Democratic headquarters are taking no step to hinder the effort being made in the South to portray Republican Nominee Hoover as a foe of white supremacy. The plan apparently is to try to win the Northern negroes for Smith, because of Smith's record, and to turn Southern white Democrats away from Hoover because of allegations of Hoover's alleged unfriendliness to the negroes. This effort to ride two horses has thus far met with fair success, although of late there have been some evidences of Southern dissatisfaction at the attempt to corral Northern negroes for Smith.

The most conspicuous incident in this connection in the last month occurred when Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, telegraphed National Chairman John J. Raskob to know whether it was true or not that Jack Johnson, famous negro prize fighter, is actively working for Gov. Smth among the negroes of the land.

Chairman Raskob telegraphed back that "Johnson is not connected with this committee in any capacity." While technically true, the Raskob reply was evasive in that it did not disclose that Jack Johnson is working ocally in Chicago for Governor Smith.

Last December the former heavyweight champion of the world was made a Democratic committeeman in the Second ward of Chicago. The theory of the Brennan group, which gave him his post, was that Johnson, one of the most famous negroes of all times, could do a great deal to organize Chicago's black people Democratically in the fashion in which Harlem negroes had been so successfully organized by Tammany Hall. Johnson accepted the position, and the next month made a statement in which he said that he was "glad to state that we are meeting with wonderful success" and that "members are coming in daliy glad for a chance to receive their long-delayed political justice." He continued with a tribute to Tammany Hall, in its connection with the negro, in these words:

"Knowing as they do the fair policy of Tammany Hall, they are throwing their loyal support to our organization, far beyond our most sanguine expectations. I shall in the future as in the past do my full duty to my country and my race."

Thus, while Chairman Raskob's denial to Senator Glass was technically true, it is being pointed out here that what Mr. Raskob denied was that Jack Johnson was an official of the Democratic national committee. In view of Johnson's colorful career, which includes many incidents other than his ring battles, Mr. Raskob's anxiety to deny his connection with the national committee is understandable. It will be remembered that for many years Jack Johnson was a fugitive from the United States because of charges in connection with the white slave trade, particularly involving a white mistress he had while prize ring champion in the United States.

An indication of the zealous efforts the Democrats are making to corral the negro votes is shown, it is pointed out here, in a financial statement of the Smith for President Colored league, with headquarters in New York city, as of September 1. This statement, filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives of Washington on September 12, showed that the Democratic national committee had already turned over $15,000 to pay the expenses thus far incurred by the national Smith negro organizers. Disbursements by the Smith for President Colored league in August alone amounted to $4,443.

This organization is headed by Ferdinand Q. Morton, most prominent of the negro Democratic bosses in New York city. Morton has been active throughout the country organizing units of the Smith for President Colored league wherever he can. Reputed to be the highest paid negro public official in the United States, he has been a Tammany appointee for many years, and at present is one of the three members of New York city's municipal civil service commission, at a salary of $7,500 per year.

Morton started out in New York as one of the numerous assistants on the staff of the local district attorney. Charles F. Murphy, successor of Richard Croker as Tammany boss, and the Tammany leader from 1903 until his death in 1924, discovered Morton's political ability and recognized him as the Tammany leader of the negroes in Harlem. This district, the so-called "negro paradise," is constituted by the Nineteenth assembly district and those adjoining it. Manhattan borough, which embraces Harlem, contains over 109,000 negroes, most of them in Harlem itself.

Since Murphey's death, Morton has had to fight harder to maintain his leadership of the negro Democrats of the state, because of attempts of certain minor Tammany Democrats to urge the negroes of each district to recognize the official Tammany leader of that district rather than any particular boss of their own race.

However, Morton has fought them all, and has managed to maintain his supremacy. He is still municipal civil service commissioner and is still the head of the United Negro Democracy of Harlem, an organization thirty years old, claiming a membership of about 30,000. The club recently has shown signs of prosperity, for it has lately moved from quarters on Seventh avenue with a shabby ground floor entrance to spacious rooms at 222 West 145th street. The entry here is a stairway, ending at the sidewalk and so richly fitted with brass rods and other ornaments that it might well be a companionway for a private yacht. The second story quarters, besides an assembly-and-ball room, present a ladies' room expensively and fervidly furnished, and a large private room or headquarters for Boss Morton, which, though not yet furnished, reveals walls, paneled and tinted, that promise much luxury.

Tammany has given recognition to negroes among New York city officialdom by many appointments other than that of Boss Morton. For instance, there is a negro deputy assistant district attorney, Thomas B. Dyett, by name. A partner or former partner of Dyett's Sylvanus H. Hart, is a state tax examiner.

Among other negro officials of New York are Wiliam H. Jackson, filing clerk of the board of aldermen; Harry Bragg, chief warrant clerk of New York city, and Cornelius W. McDougold, a member of the state's commission to revise the inheritance laws and a former special assistant attorney-general.

Harlem is likewise favored by a large and up-to-date armory, housing the 369th infantry regiment of the New York national guard. The atmosphere of this armory is surprisingly exclusive. A series of negro privates, corporals, etc., halt and delay the white visitor in his progress towards the office, say, of the regimental adjutant, a mulatto captain named Lucas. Successive explanations must be made to each subhost, and conversation with the captain when achieved, will be interrupted by another series of negroes. The captain, moreover, is curt and disobliging. The highest officers of the army and navy can be more readily interviewed at Washington, in fact, and may be relied upon to display far more courtesy than this captain of a negro militia regiment that has long resented the presence of whites among its officers.

But the Harlem negroes are not satisfied with their present military control of the district, nor with a great preponderance of negroes among the city policemen in the Harlem streets. Even white women, driving cars thereabout, are dependent upon the courtesy of negro traffic officers. The negroes have repeatedly secured the passage of legislation to a certain stage at Albany which, if successful, would enable them to elect their own municipal judges; and thus enable them to support, through a negro bench, the regulation and protection of the whites that remain in the district.

The fashion in which New York negroes are being appealed to in behalf of Gov. Smith is shown by a negro newspaper of that city. One of the arguments being made is that if Gov. Smith is elected he will "bring the South to a recognition of the error of its ways" in regard to the negro race.

This particular statement is contained in an editorial of the Negro World, published in New York City, in its issue of August 25 of the present year. It printed this perfervid appeal on the ground that Smith would bring a better deal to the negroes of the South. The editorial read, in part:

"Smith or Hoover. Between them the choice must be made. And it is the part of common sense in 1928 for the negro to make a choice. Hoover must be rejected. Then let us choose Smith, an excellent man, a man of understanding and large-heartedness and great humanity; a man, as it seems, destined among other things to bring the South to a recognition of the error of its ways. Be sure and support Smith. He is the only hope—the greatest hope that has appeared on the political horizon since the emancipation."

But the Democratic national committee's efforts to attract negro voters to the Smith banners are by no means confined to New York City. In truth, the New York work is more notable only because it has been in progress for so many years under the careful direction of Tammany. Great store is being laid with expected gains on negro votes in Missouri, especially in view of the nomination for Congress in Missouri of a negro Democrat.

This man's name is Joseph L. McLemore. If he should be elected, which Missouri Democrats think possible, and which Smith headquarters here in New York think more than possible, McLemore will be the first negro to be elected to Congress for nearly thirty years. The negro Democratic nominee in the St. Louis district was formerly an employe at the United States capitol in Washington. He was appointed an elevator operator in that structure upon the recommendation of Representative L. C. Dyer, of St. Louis, the Republican incumbent of the congressional seat the negro Democrat is now seeking to win.

When McLemore was appointed an elevator operator, he was listed as a Republican. Some surprise has been expressed in Washington that the man who received his appointment at Representative Dyer's hands as a Republican should now be Democratic nominee for Congress and running against the man who secured him the job. McLemore got his Democratic leanings while finishing a law course at New York university seven years ago.

McLemore's nomination, however, is being stressed by negro speakers all over the country, who are on the stump for the Smith-Raskob ticket. It is expected by Democratic headquarters to have a powerful effect in lining up negroes for Smith not only in Missouri, but also in Kentucky, Ohio, Maryland and Tennessee—in fact, in all the border and Southern states in which the negroes vote.

McLemore has declared his confidence that he will defeat his white opponent. He says that his district—the Twelfth Missouri congressional district—has a 65 per cent negro vote, and that he will swing three-fourths of it, in addition to getting the votes of white Democrats. He likewise is confident that he can carry the negroes of his district over to Al Smith.

"Most of the Democratic vote is white. In the past the negroes here have been voting the Republican ticket, but this year Gov. Al Smith is going to be a big drawing power among the negroes, and many of those who formerly supported the Republican ticket are going to vote the Democratic ticket straight—from Smith on down.

"The trouble is, the negro has been too strong a Republican. As a result, the Republicans count the negro vote ahead of time and they don't do anything for him. In New York city the negroes vote Democratic and consequently the negro gets recognition there with an occasional office."

Nomination of a negro as Democratic candidate in St. Louis caused a great stir among politicians of all races in that city. Many negroes there believe that it will be a powerful factor in carrying Missouri for Smith. Here is the way Joseph E. Mitchell, editor of the St. Louis Argus, a negro newspaper, views it:

"A sentiment for Smith has developed among numerous colored Republicans, because of his attitude on prohibition. The thinking class in our race feels the negro has not received a square deal from Republican leaders." McLemore himself believes that "colored people are gradually awakening to the fact that Smith is one of the fairest men in the country," and added that "it is not the party, but the president that sits in the White House" that counts.

Another negro leader of St. Louis George B. Vashon by name, declared that one of the chief reasons for the negroes voting for Smith is that the negroes are principally wet.

The extent of the negro vote in the northern states is being pointed out by the negro papers of the North, and shows readily the anxiety of the Democratic, national committe to corral so many of these votes.

An article in the St. Louis Argus recently claimed that there are 5,583,500 negroes of voting age in the United States, and added that "there are a sufficient number in many of the pivotal and in some of the border states to determine the result in a close election."

It added this analysis of negro voting strength, based upon the 1920 federal census:

"New York, 142,544; New Jersey, 75,671; Pennsylvania, 191,226; Illinois, 128,090; Indiana, 53,935; Ohio, 126,940; Tennessee, 245,395; Kentucky, 143,881; Missouri, 121,328, and Maryland, 141,991.

"Of the total of 5,522,524 negro voters in 1920, 2,792,006 were men and 2,730,274 women.

"There are other states where the negro is by no means a negligible factor in politics. For example, there was a colored population of more than 149,000 in Oklahoma in 1920, and of these more than 76,000 had attained the voting age.

"Kansas had 79,725 negroes within her borders in 1920, and of the number 37,000 were entitled to vote. In New England the 1920 population of negroes was:

"Massachusetts, 45,466; Connecticut, 21,046; Rhode Island, 10,036; Vermont, 572; New Hampshire, 621, and Maine, 1,310."

Thus it is easy to see why the Democratic national committee is devoting so much energy and money to the task of organizing the negro vote in the United States. It is having more success at doing this than in keeping the fact quiet so far as the South is concerned. For the national committee headquarters are receiving an increasing number of demands from the South that these negro activities cease. Thus far they have sought to pacify these protesters by soft answers, but whether this method of answering queries from the South can continue sucessfully or not is another question.

Rocky Mt. News
DENVER, COLO.

OCT 3 1928

DENVER NEGROES FORM DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

Organization of a Negro Democratic committee was perfected last night at a meeting in the Negro Democratic state headquarters, 718 E. 26th ave.

An executive committee was named, to include C. L. Lawson, Mrs. O. T. Jackson, Mrs. J. M. Anderson, Mrs. S. Caldwell, Mrs. Ruth Jones and Henry Hinkle.

The speakers' bureau will include Sanford Caldwell, Mrs. Mary Clinksdale, Mrs. Effie Walden, Mrs. Lovey Stone and Mrs. Irene Barbee. Dr. S. A. Huff presided at the meeting.

EVE. NEWS
DENVER, COLO.

OCT 3 1928

NEGROES ORGANIZE TO SUPPORT DEMOCRATS

Denver Negroes today will open a statewide campaign in behalf of the Democratic state and national tickets, following organization last night of an executive committee of Negro Democrats at 718 E. 26th ave. The committee comprises C. L. Lawson, Mrs. O. T. Jackson, Mrs. J. M. Anderson, Mrs. S. Caldwell, Mrs. Ruth Jones and Henry Hinkle. A speakers' bureau was also organized, composed of Sanford Caldwell, Mrs. Mary Clinksdale, Mrs. Effie Walden, Mrs. Lovey Stone and Mrs. Irene Barbee.

BROOKLYN EAGLE

OCT 6 1928

SMITH INDORSED BY NEGRO BODY

Association Hits Republicans as the "Grand Oil Party."

The Smith - Robinson - Roosevelt Democratic ticket will receive the support of the Negro race in Brooklyn at the polls on Nov. 6 because of the position of the head of the ticket on the issue of religious and racial intolerance, according to Walter Lofton, who scored the G. O. P. as the "Grand Oil Party" last night at a rally of the Regular Colored Democratic Association of Kings County.

More than 200 men and women attended the meeting, which was held at the county headquarters, 905 Fulton st. As a result of the work of Mrs. Margaret Quarles, the county body granted charters to four new Negro Democratic clubs. Two of the new groups are located in the 17th A. D.; one is in the 16th A. D., and the fourth organization is established in the 22d A. D.

Not Seeking Special Favors.

In supporting Governor Smith, the Negro race is not seeking any special favors but is insisting on the square deal in politics, Lofton said. Upon motion of Wesley L. Young, 76-year-old Democratic leader of the Negro forces in the county, the organization, which includes representatives of the 23 Assembly Districts in Brooklyn, indorsed the action of the Houston and Rochester conventions.

The issues of the campaign were discused by Charles H. Johnson, Mrs. Luti Power, a lawyer; George E. Hall of the National Colored Democratic Smith-Robinson League, Elmer Baker and William Lucas.

SMITH MEETINGS BEING HELD IN SEVERAL STATES

New York, Oct. 31—Large and enthusiastic meetings are being held in twenty-eight states under the auspices of the Smith-for-President Colored League. Never before in history have Negroes shown so friendly an interest in a Democratic Presidential nominee. Some of the country's leading orators are speaking for Governor Smith and are advancing convincing arguments why the New York Executive should be sent to the White House. Even G. O. P. managers can see thousands of colored voters have become Smith adherents.

Prominent among the speakers touring the country are: Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom, Civil Service Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton, J. Finley Wilson, Julian D. Bailey, Mrs. Bessye J. Bearden, Mrs. Ruth Whitehead Whaley, Thomas H. R. Clarke, Neval Thomas, Armond W. Scott, Jas. C. Thomas, the Rev. Noah W. Williams, the Rev. Charles Sumner Williams, Dr. C. C. Aller, the Rev. Spencer W. Carpenter, Dr. E. Duval Colley, the Rev. E. J. McCoo, W. Ellie Stewart, Dr. O. H. Sweet, the Rev. W. S. Williams, Edward H. Carrey, C. E. Kimbrough, Dr. William Worthy and Dr. Andrew H. Lattimore.

Negro Question Raised To Side-Track the Main Issues, Says This White Voter

To the Editor, Journal and Guide:

Sir,—Your article in Virginian Pilot interested me. Please give me space in your paper to say to your Negro readers and all who read that the Negro question in this Presidential Campaign is not taken seriously by persons of good common sense. All this propaganda is brought into the political campaign to side track, or evade, the truthful facts.

It is a deplorable disgrace that a city the size of Norfolk has not a newspaper who will be unbiased, and tell facts, and current events as they arise. They edit a one sided Campaign in all civic, and political questions.

Here is the whole truth to this campaign: We are at the "parting of the Ways." It is a battle of ballots to say whether the United States is to be run by "Tammany Tigers" or a harmless Donkey or an Elephant.

Tammany Hall was first organized by a lot of Irish immigrants. It dates back to 1789. It was a counter weight to the Society of Cincinnatti. Tammany is the patron saint of America. This order has always been Democratic, and political main spring of New York politics. They won in the first election of Greater New York. They have been active, spreading out politically from the beginning. All the immigration from Central Europe they have converted into their Kingdom because most all are Roman Catholics. Citizens in the United States do not all sleep with the coming of a great storm. Some do, and they are the class of citizens that the poor Negro is flaunted in their faces, as a warning to get their vote. When the Tammany Tiger is let loose, they will have their scalp torn off.

History repeats itself. All nations have needed leaders, since the day of "Joshua" with his battle with the Amorites. When the "Sun stand thou still" upon Gideon; and thou Moon in the Valley of Ajalon. There was no day like that before, or after it. Only for Joshua the history of the World would have read very differently. So will it be read quite differently for ages to come if Tammany wins out in this election. We can all take a back seat all who are not of their faith or political belief. It is a great question and a great many of our citizens do not understand its meaning, which is "Complete Political Control," Prohibition, Immigration driven to the tall timbers, and our nation flooded with the spewing of all the whole world. What a wild dance Tammany Tiger would have with a dance hall from Atlantic to Pacific, from Canadian borders to Gulf of Mexico. The American Negro is a faithful citizen. We can depend on him, but we cannot depend upon a population of citizens who owe allegiance to other nations whether political or religious.

Following the teaching of the lowly "Nazarene," Jesus, is the last thing that ever comes in their minds. It is not a question of serving God, according to their own belief. It is a question of serving the devil, and on the 6th day of November, we will sidetrack the devil with a battle of ballots.

I do know every voter in Northern states that is a Roman Catholic will vote for Smith. I do know that Protestants, all of no Church organization will vote for Hoover. I do know from living in northern states until ten years ago, and I am now 68 years of age, that the consistent inroads of Roman institutions of untaxed property have alarmed the citizens and tax payers. And I do know that they want taxpayers to pay for their Roman Catholic schools just as public schools; and I do know there were a whole lot of teachers fired out of public schools in Chicago for teaching Catholic Catechism in schools. I do know that their inroads of invasion have no limit.

I never heard a dissenting voice in the North about Negroes attending public schools. There are so few there it does not pay to have separate schools. We have compulsory education in the North. The Negro must go to schools such as are provided for them there. It's quite different in the South. It's the home of the Negro—and the South could not get along without them. Beautiful schools are provided for them.

despite all this political agitation, we are happy together. The Tammany Tiger will go back to his den to get a rest and a new start four years from now.

—ELIZABETH SUTHERLAND YOUNG
311 W. 26th St., Norfolk, Va.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation

Democratic.

THE NEGRO VOTERS IN REVOLT!

By KELLY MILLER, Howard University, Washington, D. C.

Negro voters are bolting and revolting against traditional party lines as they have never done before. Negro Smith organizations, North, South, East and West, are about as numerous and as active as those for his Republican opponent. According to my personal observation and the best information I can secure, about three colored men out of five, when approached as to their preference, openly declare for Smith or remain noncommittal. If the Republican contingent is better organized and coordinated than the Democratic rivals, it is by reason of the fact that the Grand Old Party has built up a more competent staff of professional politicians who are adepts at the game. There is but one practical remedy for this restlessness and dissatisfaction, which the Republican party is not willing to apply. As long as the Grand Old Party ignores the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, flirts with lily whites and crucifies the Negro participants, it cannot expect that self-respecting Negroes will support its cause with enthusiasm and gladness. If Charles Sumner and Thaddeus Stevens had been delegates to the Kansas City convention they would have walked out the moment the party refused to stress the human rights amendments. Every Negro delegate would have followed them. The race is left no positive reason for supporting the glorious party of the olden day. Its moral granduer has departed. Its only appeal to Negro support is comparative and negative.

If the colored votor bolts the Republican party whither will he go? The Democratic rival certainly does not offer anything better; and in some respects the prospect is decidedly worse. Shall the Negro, then, remain forever in the Republican party and allow himself to be reduced to a political nullity by his own acquiescence? Shall he espouse the Democratic cause with all of its past record of political unfriendliness? Or shall he, acting independently, support this or that party, either or neither, according to the dictates of the racial interest and welfare?

There are at least two million qualified or qualifiable Negro voters in the North and in the South. Herein lies a latent power of incalculable potentiality. How can this potential power be translated into dynamic energy? Certainly not by slavishly following the fortune of the Republican party which is gradually reducing the race to a political cypher. Certainly not by falling uninvited into the arms of the Democratic party before it has even exprssed penitence for its past sins. Where then is political wisdom to be found? To me the answer is plain and simple. Let the Negro voter support sound moral principles, on whichever side of the political line they may fall. I supported John W. Davis in the last election because he openly declared his opposition to the Ku Klux Klan, and stated with convincing candor that, elected, he would do the best of his ability to enforce the constitution of the United States. When asked if he intended to include the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, he answered in the emphatic affirmative. Mr. Coolidge on the other hand was silent on the Ku Klux Klan and inarticulate and inert on the human rights amendments to the constitution. I never did believe that Mr. Davis could be elected, but that did not affect the principles upon which he stood. The orthodox, patented, stamped and standardized Negro politicians, then as now, shouted until they were hoarse: "Long live Coolidge and the Republican party." They carried the day. Verily, verily, they have their reward.

In the present campaign, I can see but one essential principle that distinctifies the two parties and the two candidates—and that is the principle of prohibition. While I regret to say that the Republican party is not unequivocally committed to the moral principle of prohibition, yet the Democratic adversary stands for its immediate or ultimate destruction. Mr. Hoover believes that the noble experiment should be carried out constructively; Mr. Smith thinks that the experiment is vicious in principle, and should be frustrated without further trial. The Negro can justify his vote for Hoover on the ground of the constitution, law, order and temperance. A vote for Smith counts in the contrary direction. This he can do, with self-respect, notwithstanding Kansas City, Perry Howard and lily whites. He must never, however, give Mr. Hoover or the Republican party to understand that because he is voting the ticket he is insensible to the outrageous treatment received and receiving at their hands.

The colored press has commented widely upon my open letter to Mr. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, in which I urged that the movement of political revolt which he headed should vote for Hoover on the temperance issue, but hold the party's feet to the fire for its past and present transgressions. Some said that I argued for Smith and concluded for Hoover; others that I was carrying water on both shoulders—a rather delicate compliment to the performer's steadiness and poise. This I apprehend is far preferable to the attempt to carry water on one shoulder and beer on the other as the wet Negro Republican are essaying to do. Still others mistook open mindedness for double mindedness. The old line politician never did comprehend the moral significance of the utterance of the Christ. This applies only to the sharply contrasted issues of right and wrong, truth and error, righteousness and sin. Neither the Democrats or the Republicans are all right or all wrong on great public questions. There is a strange and confusing mixture of vices and virtues in both camps. The Kansas Republicans are dry, the New York Republicans are wet. Mr. Work strikes hard for the Negro vote in the North but soft peddles the fifteenth amendment in the South. The voter must select for himself the political or moral issues which he deems vital.

In my letter to Mr. Wilson, I drew up a partial bill of indictment against the Grand Old Party which I urged him to keep alive in the mind of the Negro voter and before the Republican rulers. The campaign season is the psychological moment for any aggrieved group to emphasize its wrongs. Those who seek his support will naturally by soft persuasion urge him to forget them until the issue is settled. "Help us win the war, and we will remedy your complaints after the victory is won." The gullible Negro has listened to this artful guile with amazing credulity for ten quadrenniums. It is with astounding effrontery to the Negro's intelligence that the same old trick is still resorted to. If the Negro consents to forget his grievances while the campaign is on, the winning party will surely ignore them when the campaign is over.

Thinks Race Still Indebted To Republican Party

To the Editor, Journal and Guide:

Sir:—Every now and then some would-be political mentor of the race rises up and with a rhetorical flourish declares that, "The Negro has paid in full the debt of gratitude which he owes to the party of Lincoln and Sumner for what it accomplished in the days of its pristine moral grandeur." Perhaps, but let's see.

In doing so I would not for one moment, as I said in a previous article, condone the political sins of the Republican party in its present day treatment of its Negro constituency. However, let us strike a balance.

Before doing so, as a preliminary to what I am about to say, I believe I state a fact which cannot be successfully contradicted, that those political preceptors, who spasmodically are in the habit of asserting that the Negro owes the Republican party nothing are either post-bellum Negroes, or are descendants of what was termed free Negroes during the slave period, or are those who never experienced the cruel wrongs of bondage and its "fetters gall."

If you can show me today an ex-slave who is bold enough to say that he owes the Republican party nothing; one who can recall "the torturing lash" of the brutal overseer, "which scamed his back with many a gash," then I'll show you something new under the sun, which on one occasion the wise man, Solomon, said there wasn't.

9-29-28

But let's get down to brass tacks. What is the record of the two major parties on slavery?

In 1840, when Martin Van Buren was renominated for the second term of the presidency by the Democratic party, owing to the fact that the Abolitionists were "perniciously active" in waging war on slavery at that time, the leaders of the parties felt compelled to incorporate as one of the principal planks in its platform a resolution denouncing the efforts of the Abolitionists "to induce Congress to interfere with questions of slavery." The herculean struggles between the forces of freedom and slavery and the platforms of the Democratic and Whig parties, respectively, the next few years following, showed the emergence of the dominant issue (slavery) which was to be definitely settled only by the stupendous blood-letting of the Civil War.

The first Republican National Convention was held at Philadelphia in June 1856. The outstanding plank in its first platform was that, "It is both the right and duty of Congress to prohibit in the territories slavery and polygamy—twin relics of barberism."

Four years later Abraham Lincoln was nominated by the Republican party for the presidency and elected. . From that time, on until he became a victim of an assassin's bullet, hostilities never ceased until the 4,000,000 bondsmen in this country were set free.

When Mr. Lincoln was re-elected in 1864, before entering upon his second term, the Democrats denounced the usurpations of power by the Republican administration and demanded that, "immediate efforts be made for a cessation of hostilities."

When however, the slave oligarchy wouldn't assent to President Lincoln's overtures for peace, in substance he emphatically declared that he was willing, if it be God's will, for the war to continue until every drop of blood drawn from the back of a slave by the lash of the brutal overseer should be compensated for by the drenching of this land in blood.

You who are acquainted with the history of the conflict know the result.

My only apology for resurrecting a dead issue perhaps, and one not germane to those of the present campaign is that, we may keep the records straight as Kipling says:

"Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Less we forget, less we forget."

Furthermore, if there is any Negro who sincerely believes he has paid the last farthing of indebtedness to the Republican party, by what process of reasoning does he satisfy his conscience that he owes the National Democratic party anything, when he takes into account its consistent record of opposition to the political and civil rights of his race?

—CHARLES H. MOORE

Greensboro, North Carolina

Durham, Dec. Record
Wednesday, August 29, 1928

Negro Urges Race To Vote For Smith

Washington, D. C.—Assailing the treatment accorded by the republican organization to Perry Howard, of Mississippi, and Ben Davis, of Georgia, negroes, and until recently republican national committeemen, C. S. Cuney, negro leader and lawyer here, advised members of his race to turn to the democratic party.

Cuney's uncle, Wright Cuney, long was known as the "colored boss" in Texas, and was collector at the Port of Galveston. The younger Cuney always has voted the republican ticket.

Since the days of Roosevelt, Cuney argues, the negro race has lost such national recognition as the positions of auditor of the navy department, ministership to Haiti, register of the treasury, collector of customs at Charleston and many other positions of trust.

MAIL

SEP 1928

T. G. NUTTER DENIES SUPPORT OF SMITH

Says He Was Not Present at Negro Meeting

T. G. Nutter, Charleston Negro attorney has written a letter to the editor of the Charleston Gazette denying that he was present at a meeting of Negroes who will support Al Smith for president. The writer declares that he is for Hoover and states his reasons for being. His letter follows:

"The Editor
"The Charleston Gazette

"In your issue of Wednesday, September 12, an article appears under the caption "Negro Voters Turn To Smith." In this article it is stated that West Virginia colored citizens are being organized into a "Smith for President Colored League" which is to have its state headquarters at Charleston, and that among those present and who took active interest in the meeting was T. G. Nutter. The statement that I was present at the meeting was absolutely false and without foundation. I was not present. I passed the place where the meeting was being held and opened the door and waved my hand at Mr. Earl B. Dickerson, a fraternity brother, and passed on. I was not present for the good and sufficient reason that I am not in sympathy with the movement.

"I would not support Governor Smith under any circumstances for president of the United States for three good reasons. First, I believe that in Mr. Hoover there has been presented to the American voters one of the most constructive statesmen in the history of the nation, and that his election will best conserve the interest of the people in general.

"Second, I am absolutely opposed to anyone who is in favor of the modification of the prohibition amendment or the Volstead act, by increasing the alcoholic content as advocated by Governor Smith. My entire life has been a protest against strong drink. If you will examine my record as a member of the legislature, you will find that I voted for every law that attempted to strengthen the prohibition amendment and stamp out strong drink. In my judgment, the prohibition amendment is the most constructive piece of legislation ever placed upon the statute books in America. As grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of West Virginia for the last ten years, I have had an opportunity to visit practically every city, town, village and hollow in the state, and I have had a chance to witness the great good that has been done by the adoption of the prohibition amendment. I have noticed a wonderful change wrought for good in saving the boys and girls from the damnable effect of the saloon, and I would not support for president, or any other office, anyone who advocates a change in the prohibition amendment or the Volstead act. Instead of adding to the alcoholic content, if it were left to me, the percentage of the same would be absolutely nil.

"Third, I would not support Governor Smith because he has done absolutely nothing, during his four terms as governor of New York, that would justify any Negro in supporting him in preference to Mr. Hoover.

"I trust that you will give this article the same prominence as you did the article that represented my presence at said meeting."

DRIVE THEM OUT

The regulations governing party primaries in Georgia are said to justify the Democratic committee in excluding anti-Smith democratic candidates from the party ticket, and assuredly bolters ought to be such formally and officially as well as in fact—Valdosta Times

But that will not stop them. There isn't any power inside or outside the democratic party association of political bosses that can hold the democrats to the abhorrent thing offered in the Smith program—a thing separate and apart—entirely different from what the convention at Houston wrote into its platform. That was bad enough, but what the party nominee offers on his own responsibility—what he represents as the Tammany ticket head—is the limit.

If that is the democratic ideal and fundamental principle, then we are no democrat and will never be. We are in the hands of renegade republicans—Raskob, Dupont, Nicholas Murray Butler—if we support Smith. Hoover, who is a humanitarian first, a man with a clean record in public morals, the most competent statesman and leader the republicans have put forward in a quarter of a century, save Charles E. Hughes, will make this nation a far better chief executive. If we must take republicans, let us have the best of them—that's Hoover. Raskob, Dupont, Butler and their kind may tell Smith is great— and our party bosses, whip in hand, may seek to drive us into it, but it will not get them anywhere in the direction of holding the rank and file under subjection.

We know Al Smith and Tammany—have known them for years. We also know the fundamental democratic principles as taught by our forefathers. Our fight for the preservation of this republic and the ideals of good government shall be guided by conscience first. If that heaps upon us the anathemas of the party bosses, we cannot help it. We are regretful that it is so, but democrats who understand what is represented in the Smith and Tammany ticket have chosen to bear the stigma of it and still stick to the candidate who promises an escape from it.

We will continue to have the perfume of the negro squirted on us, but those who do not mean to be driven are prepared to face it and make the most of it. Georgia democrats—real, high-minded, courageous contenders for the right—will not swerve or relent—nor will they ever have cause to repent.

Nor will they be driven out of the democratic party. They will not take Smith and Tammany, but they will hold their grounds. A vote for Hoover in this election is a wise choice and will count far more than to stand aside.

HERALD

SEP 8 1928

Near Jacksonville, Fla., a Negro who had announced his intention to vote for Smith and Robinson was taken out by three white men and flogged. From another part of the country comes a story of Hoover speakers at a political meting who were pelted with eggs. Such demonstrations are inspired by the same spirit—narrowness with which it is impossible to argue, but which reminds us what small rooms with grated windows and steel doors are for.

CARMICHAEL MAKES IMPRESSIVE APPEAL

Covington Democrats Urged To Stand By Party And Southern Traditions

ANDALUSIA, ALA., Oct. 30.—(Special)—A. H. Carmichael, outstanding Democratic leader in Alabama, made a clarion call and unimpassioned but most impressive appeal, according to those who heard him, at the courthouse here yesterday. Five hundred Democratic men and women representing all sections of Covington County, were urged to take their stand with the party of their fathers which party has proven its friendship to the South and which has been the only means of maintaining white supremacy in a section toward which the Republican party for 60 years has shown a manifest enmity and hostility.

The meeting was presided over by T. A. Goodwin of Florala, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee, who called the meeting to order and in behalf of the Democrats of Covington County, expressed his thanks to Mr. Carmichael for bringing to Covington County his appeal for the support of the national ticket.

Oscar M. Dugger, editor of The Andalusia Star, introduced Mr. Carmichael, who began his speech in a conversational tone and throughout his address of an hour and a half he trusted more to the power of reason, sound logic and unimpassioned appeal than to any of the tricks of the orator, according to those present at the meeting.

No Negro in Houston Convention

His hearers listened with rapt attention as he discussed first the proceedings at Houston in the great convention which nominated Smith. He described the train in which he traveled, the welcome that the delegates received in this great cotton marketing city. He then described the convention, the decorations and the flags, and then, with a flourish of hand and a pause to invite the closest attention, he said, "and there was not a negro in all that assembly." This statement was roundly applauded.

He discussed prohibition and reviewed his own party record as a Democrat and a prohibitionist.

Was Author of First Dry Law

"I was the author of the first prohibition law which gave Alabama statewide prohibition," said Mr. Carmichael. "I opposed Gov. O'Neal who ran on a platform to bring back the sale of liquor in Alabama and I knew that his election would mean the return of the saloon. But when he got the nomination in the primary, I gave him my support in the election," said Mr. Carmichael. "I went as your delegate to Houston and fought to get the nomination for some other standard bearer. But it was a hopeless and futile fight. Smith was finally nominated. He could have been as easily nominated the first day as he was the third day. But there was no hurry. Orderly procedure was had and Smith won the nomination by an overwhelming majority and as such nominee is justly entitled to the vote of every Democrat who participated in the presidential primary in Alabama," continued Mr. Carmichael.

He discussed prohibition, the power question and Catholicism. On the question of water power, he said there is no division in the Tennessee Valley. "We are practically all for Smith up there because of his stand on the development of Muscle Shoals," said Mr. Carmichael.

Points Out Danger

He discussed the negro question and gave his views as a lawyer upon the probable threat to the South that is contained in the 14th and 15th Amendments and then read Congressman Dyer's speech showing what he has in mind as a means of breaking the solid South passage by Congress of the United States of a law which will mean the enfranchisement of 100,000 negroes in Alabama.

He appealed to the voters not to stray away and join the enemies of the South. He pleaded for a continuation in power of the party which has maintained white supremacy in Alabama.

COURIER
CAMDEN, N. J.
OCT 13 1928

COLORED SMITH CLUB FORMS IN BURLINGTON

Burlington, Oct. 13.—A Smith for President Club was organized here last night among the colored men. Hans Froelicher, Jr., of Moorestown, one of the county Democratic leaders, effected the organization.

A street parade headed by a colored band from Philadelphia preceded the organization. This is the first time in the history of Burlington politics that a colored Democratic club has been organized.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

F. Q. MORTON ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

THE OBJECTS AND PURPOSES OF THIS ASSOCIATION ARE THE FOLLOWING:

TO TEACH COLORED CITIZENS THE VALUE AND POTENCY OF THE BALLOT AND THE NECESSITY FOR ITS INTELLIGENT USE.

TO CREATE, PROMOTE AND MAINTAIN INTEREST IN THE USE OF THE SUFFRAGE.

TO CONVINCE AND PERSUADE COLORED CITIZENS, PARTICULARLY THOSE RESIDING IN HARLEM, THAT THE INTEREST AND WELFARE OF OUR COMMUNITY IMPERATIVELY REQUIRE THAT THOSE WHO ARE ELIGIBLE TO VOTE SHALL REGISTER AND ENROLL IN A POLITICAL PARTY. MORE PARTICULARLY TO CONVINCE AND PERSUADE THEM THAT THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY, BEING THE DOMINANT ONE IN NEW YORK CITY, OUR INTEREST AND WELFARE REQUIRE THAT THE MAJORITY OF COLORED VOTERS BE ENROLLED IN THAT PARTY TO THE END THAT WE MAY CONTROL THE PARTY MACHINE IN THOSE DISTRICTS WHERE THE COLORED POPULATION PREPONDERATES.

TO STIMULATE INTEREST AND ENTHUSIASM, PARTICULARLY AMONG CLEAN, ABLE YOUNG MEN, IN CIVIC AFFAIRS.

TO ESTABLISH AND MAINTAIN THE PRINCIPLE AND POLICY THAT COLORED PEOPLE IN THIS COMMUNITY SHOULD BE REPRESENTED IN PARTY ORGANIZATIONS BY MEMBERS OF THEIR OWN GROUP AND OF THEIR OWN SELECTION, TO THE END THAT THEIR INTERESTS AND THEIR HOPES AND ASPIRATIONS SHALL BE REPRESENTED WITH SINCERITY, INTELLIGENCE, DIGNITY AND EFFECTIVENESS, AND TO THE FURTHER END THAT IN CIVIC AND POLITICAL AFFAIRS THE COLORED CITIZENS SHALL ENJOY EQUALITY OF OPPORTUNITY.

THAT THE NAME OF THE ASSOCIATION SHALL BE THE F. Q. MORTON ASSOCIATION.

Local Democrats Form Strong Organization of, by, and for Negroes

On Friday evening, September 28, 1928, the new headquarters of the F. Q. Morton Association was opened at 222 West 145th Street. The Club occupies the upper floor of the building at that address and is elaborately decorated and furnished.

Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton, a member of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, addressed the group of nearly one hundred representative Negoes.

The keynote of the address by Mr. Morton was the necessity of colored people registering and enrolling in the Democratic Party in order that Negroes can control the dominant political party in Harlem. Out of approximately three hundred thousand colored people in Harlem, less than one-twelfth of them vote, and hardly one-third of that number are enrolled Democrats.

Mr. Morton said that Judge Olvany decided only recently that no longer should colored people be represented by a leader of their own selection, but instead by the white District Leader. This decision was made despite Judge Olvany's promises to continue the policy of his predecessors, Mr. Croker and Mr. Murphy, and recognize the leader selected by our group.

Negroes, however, should support the Democratic ticket despite this drastic decision, because the standard bearer of democracy, Governor Al. E. Smith, is the candidate of fair play and tolerance, Mr. Morton said. Intolerance, religious and racial hatred are the opponents of Governor Smith and Negroes should ally themselves against them.

This organization is not only political, but civic and its objects and purposes strike at the foundation of our society. The right to vote is one thing, but the right to say who to vote for is another. Only by controlling the political machinery in our community can we do this, and that only by enrollment in the Democratic Party.

Dr. Godfrey Nurse made a motion to name the organization the F. Q. Morton Association. He approved of the objects and purposes, and urged the support of Gov. Smith by money as well as votes.

Dr. Matthew V. Boutte, Temporary Chairman of the Committee on Organization, in urging the support of the Association, stated that our failure to support our Negro leaders was cause for our failure to get anywhere politically.

Dr. Louis T. Wright suggested the necessity for Negroes whole-heartedly supporting the organization, so that they might demand protection in their community. He said for the past five (5) years, the community has been deteriorating, and we have no means of correcting the evil. We must exercise our rights intelligently. Enroll as Democrats in large numbers and demand what you want.

Mr. Sol Riley stated that tho inexperienced in politics he saw the necessity for an organization such as this for the purpose of taking care of the needs of the community. He said, "Without Negro leadership you can expect no measure of success. White men will not recognize the qualifications and fitness of individuals, but those seeking personal gain will be chosen to represent us." Cooperate with each other, build up a united organization and with that strength you can demand what you need.

Attorney Charles E. Toney urged support of the organization financially and by individual efforts obtain members. Seek to have Negroes enroll as Democrats and on Primary Day go to the polls and elect your leaders.

Attorney William F. Andrews said that this organization was the awakening of the Negro to his potential power and strength. We have been in no better position than our Southern brother, he said, because we have not voted intelligently.

W. T. R. Richardson, an old Democrat, said Negroes have been serving two masters. Judge Olvany told him he recognized Mr. Morton as leader of Negroes, but jobs were given to District Leaders. He urged co-operation of all Negroes with this new association and support to its representatives.

Dr. E. P. Roberts in supporting the movement expressed a doubt as to the sincerity of Judge Olvany in making his decision. He believed that a mistake was made and suggested a committee of representative citizens wait on him and urge the continuance of the former policy of Tammany Hall. It is his belief that that request will be granted.

Attorney John William Smith expressed his approbation of the objects and purposes of the organization. He said, Assemblyman Grossman in speaking of his chances for election expressed a desire not to work too hard among our group this year, because of the fear that too many would join the ranks of the Republicans, and help to defeat our ticket. The desire of District Leaders in Harlem is not to encourage Negroes to vote, but rather to keep them away. He suggested that strenuous efforts be made to get out as many as possible to register so as to exercise the right to vote. Make out membership large and we can defeat them on Primary Day, he said.

Mr. Charles Washington thought Judge Olvany's decision was the best thing that could happen, because now we can realize our plight. His arbitrary ruling has forced us to act in self-defense.

Attorney George Hall stated in his opinion we had two tasks—one, getting out a large enrollment and obtaining an equally large membership.

Mr. John H. McNeil spoke at length on the necessity of action along the line of the meeting. He stated that he was unequivocally in favor of Negro leadership. That the Negro could achieve his civic and political rights only in the Democratic Party, and he urged all Negroes to register and vote as Negroes in self-interest and defense.

One of the most interesting characters present and a most enthusiastic supporter of the movement was Chief Edward E. Lee, Founder of and First Leader of the United Colored Democracy.

Among those present in addition to the above speakers were: Dr. Paul A. Collins, Mr. H. G. Bragg, Dr. H. B. Delany Jr., Mr. Howard Bearden, Dr. Wiley M. Wilson, Mr. Elmer Carter, Mr. Elmer Sawyer, Attorney Ralph H. Mizelle, Mr. Charles Payne, Mr. Burgess Holland, Dr. Farrow Allen, Mr. John C. Carey, Mr. W. K. Saunders, Dr. Allen B. Graves, Mr. Melville Frazier, Dr. Edward Lowry, Mr. Clifford Collwood, Mr. J. F. Hill, Mr. Roger Griffin, Dr. Valentine Thomas, Mr. Leon B. Crutcher.

Several other persons present spoke in approval of the project and urged all Negroes who had their community and the welfare of colored people at heart to join this organization.

The temporary officers elected were: Ferdinand Q. Morton, Temporary Chairman; Chauncey M. Hooper, Temporary Secretary.

Committee on Organization: Dr. Matthew V. Boutte, Temporary Chairman.

Committee on Finance: Dr. Albert S. Beasley, Temporary Chairman.

House Committee: Dr. Ed. Wilson, Temporary Chairman.

The next meeting will be Friday, October 5, at 9:00 o'clock p. m. Everyone is welcome.

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation.

Democratic.

F. Q. MORTON ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

THE OBJECTS AND PURPOSES OF THIS ASSOCIATION ARE THE FOLLOWING:

TO TEACH COLORED CITIZENS THE VALUE AND POTENCY OF THE BALLOT AND THE NECESSITY FOR ITS INTELLIGENT USE.

TO CREATE, PROMOTE AND MAINTAIN INTEREST IN THE USE OF THE SUFFRAGE.

TO CONVINCE AND PERSUADE COLORED CITIZENS, PARTICULARLY THOSE RESIDING IN HARLEM, THAT THE INTEREST AND WELFARE OF OUR COMMUNITY IMPERATIVELY REQUIRE THAT THOSE WHO ARE ELIGIBLE TO VOTE SHALL REGISTER AND ENROLL IN A POLITICAL PARTY. MORE PARTICULARLY TO CONVINCE AND PERSUADE THEM THAT THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY, BEING THE DOMINANT ONE IN NEW YORK CITY, OUR INTEREST AND WELFARE REQUIRE THAT THE MAJORITY OF COLORED VOTERS BE ENROLLED IN THAT PARTY TO THE END THAT WE MAY CONTROL THE PARTY MACHINE IN THOSE DISTRICTS WHERE THE COLORED POPULATION PREPONDERATES.

TO STIMULATE INTEREST AND ENTHUSIASM, PARTICULARLY AMONG CLEAN, ABLE YOUNG MEN, IN CIVIC AFFAIRS.

TO ESTABLISH AND MAINTAIN THE PRINCIPLE AND POLICY THAT COLORED PEOPLE IN THIS COMMUNITY SHOULD BE REPRESENTED IN PARTY ORGANIZATIONS BY MEMBERS OF THEIR OWN GROUP AND OF THEIR OWN SELECTION, TO THE END THAT THEIR INTERESTS AND THEIR HOPES AND ASPIRATIONS SHALL BE REPRESENTED WITH SINCERITY, INTELLIGENCE, DIGNITY AND EFFECTIVENESS, AND TO THE FURTHER END THAT IN CIVIC AND POLITICAL AFFAIRS THE COLORED CITIZENS SHALL ENJOY EQUALITY OF OPPORTUNITY.

THAT THE NAME OF THE ASSOCIATION SHALL BE THE F. Q. MORTON ASSOCIATION.

Local Democrats Form Strong Organization of, by, and for Negroes

On Friday evening, September 28, 1928, the new headquarters of the F. Q. Morton Association was opened at 222 West 145th Street. The Club occupies the upper floor of the building at that address and is elaborately decorated and furnished.

Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton, a member of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, addressed the group of nearly one hundred representative Negoes.

The keynote of the address by Mr. Morton was the necessity of colored people registering and enrolling in the Democratic Party in order that Negroes can control the dominant political party in Harlem. Out of approximately three hundred thousand colored people in Harlem, less than one-twelfth of them vote, and hardly one-third of that number are enrolled Democrats.

Mr. Morton said that Judge Olvany decided only [illegible]ently that no longer should colored people be [illegible]esented by a leader of their own selection, [illegible]nstead by the white District Leader. This [illegible]n was made despite Judge Olvany's pre[illegible]ecision to continue the policy of his pre[illegible]rs, Mr. Croker and Mr. Murphy, and rec[illegible] the leader selected by our group.

[illegible]oes, however, should support the Demo[illegible] ticket despite this drastic decision, because [illegible]ndard bearer of democracy, Governor Al[illegible] Smith, is the candidate of fair play and tolerance, Mr. Morton said. Intolerance, religious and racial hatred are the opponents of Governor Smith and Negroes should ally themselves against them.

This organization is not only political, but civic and its objects and purposes strike at the foundation of our society. The right to vote is one thing, but the right to say who to vote for is another. Only by controlling the political machinery in our community can we do this, and that only by enrollment in the Democratic Party.

Dr. Godfrey Nurse made a motion to name the organization the F. Q. Morton Association. He approved of the objects and purposes, and urged the support of Gov. Smith by money as well as votes.

Dr. Matthew V. Boutte, Temporary Chairman of the Committee on Organization, in urging the support of the Association, stated that our failure to support our Negro leaders was cause for our failure to get anywhere politically.

Dr. Louis T. Wright suggested the necessity for Negroes whole-heartedly supporting the organization, so that they might demand protection in their community. He said for the past five (5) years, the community has been deteriorating, and we have no means of correcting the evil. We must exercise our rights intelligently. Enroll as Democrats in large numbers and demand what you want.

Mr. Sol Riley stated that tho inexperienced in politics he saw the necessity for an organization such as this for the purpose of taking care of the needs of the community. He said, "Without Negro leadership you can expect no measure of success. White men will not recognize the qualifications and fitness of individuals, but those seeking personal gain will be chosen to represent us." Cooperate with each other, build up a united organization and with that strength you can demand what you need.

Attorney Charles E. Toney urged support of the organization financially and by individual efforts obtain members. Seek to have Negroes enroll as Democrats and on Primary Day go to the polls and elect your leaders.

Attorney William F. Andrews said that this organization was the awakening of the Negro to his potential power and strength. We have been in no better position than our Southern brother, he said, because we have not voted intelligently.

W. T. R. Richardson, an old Democrat, said Negroes have been serving two masters. Judge Olvany told him he recognized Mr. Morton as leader of Negroes, but jobs were given to District Leaders. He urged co-operation of all Negroes with this new association and support to its representatives.

Dr. E. P. Roberts in supporting the movement expressed a doubt as to the sincerity of Judge Olvany in making his decision. He believed that a mistake was made and suggested a committee of representative citizens wait on him and urge the continuance of the former policy of Tammany Hall. It is his belief that that request will be granted.

Attorney John William Smith expressed his approbation of the objects and purposes of the organization. He said, Assemblyman Grossman in speaking of his chances for election expressed a desire not to work too hard among our group this year, because of the fear that too many would join the ranks of the Republicans, and help to defeat our ticket. The desire of District Leaders in Harlem is not to encourage Negroes to vote, but rather to keep them away. He suggested that strenuous efforts be made to get out as many as possible to register so as to exercise the right to vote. Make out membership large and we can defeat them on Primary Day, he said.

Mr. Charles Washington thought Judge Olvany's decision was the best thing that could happen, because now we can realize our plight. His arbitrary ruling has forced us to act in self-defense.

Attorney George Hall stated in his opinion we had two tasks—one, getting out a large enrollment and obtaining an equally large membership.

Mr. John H. McNeil spoke at length on the necessity of action along the line of the meeting. He stated that he was unequivocally in favor of Negro leadership. That the Negro could achieve his civic and political rights only in the Democratic Party, and he urged all Negroes to register and vote as Negroes in self-interest and defense.

One of the most interesting characters present and a most enthusiastic supporter of the movement was Chief Edward E. Lee, Founder of and First Leader of the United Colored Democracy.

Among those present in addition to the above speakers were: Dr. Paul A. Collins, Mr. H. G. Bragg, Dr. H. B. Delany Jr., Mr. Howard Bearden, Dr. Wiley M. Wilson, Mr. Elmer Carter, Mr. Elmer Sawyer, Attorney Ralph H. Mizelle, Mr. Charles Payne, Mr. Burgess Holland, Dr. Farrow Allen, Mr. John C. Carey, Mr. W. K. Saunders, Dr. Allen B. Graves, Mr. Melville Frazier, Dr. Edward Lowry, Mr. Clifford Collwood, Mr. J. F. Hill, Mr. Roger Griffin, Dr. Valentine Thomas, Mr. Leon B. Crutcher.

Several other persons present spoke in approval of the project and urged all Negroes who had their community and the welfare of colored people at heart to join this organization.

The temporary officers elected were: Ferdinand Q. Morton, Temporary Chairman; Chauncey M. Hooper, Temporary Secretary.

Committee on Organization: Dr. Matthew V. Boutte, Temporary Chairman.

Committee on Finance: Dr. Albert S. Beasley, Temporary Chairman.

House Committee: Dr. Ed. Wilson, Temporary Chairman.

The next meeting will be Friday, October 5, at 9:00 o'clock p. m. Everyone is welcome.

OBSERVER

Hoboken - N.J.

SEP 22 1928

COLORED DEMOCRATS SAID TO BE SULKING

That there is much disaffection among the Negro Democrats of the state, and that many of them in the next week or so will organize Hoover clubs, was reported today by friends of Counselor Robert S. Hartgrove, colored lawyer of Jersey City, and foe of Mayor Frank Hague. The lawyer is one of the most active and earnest supporters of Civil Service Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton of New York, who is credited with being the leading negro Democrat in the United States.

Commissioner Morton had charge of the negro end of the campaign for Davis in 1924 and gathered around him many able colored men, including former assistant Attorney-General William H. Lewis of Boston. He has been shelved for the Smith campaign. Negroes throughout the state are watching for the next move that Hartgrove will make politically.

Causes for the disaffection among the negro voters, it is reported, are several. Among them is the action of the Democratic National Committee under the leadership of Chairman John J. Raskob in locating the Colored Democratic Bureau in a loft building at 142 West Forty-sixth street, New York, instead of in the main office of the committee in the General Motors Building. To the negroes this looks like a sort of "Jim Crow" arrangement in line with the separation of white and negro at the Houston convention. Then there is feeling over the selection of William Gaston, a white Massachusetts Democrat, instead of Commissioner Morton, as the head of this bureau. Gaston is said to be surrounding himself with colored assistants of a type that is not liked by the better element, Hartgrove's friends here say.

The action of Chairman Raskob in selecting Gaston and approving his policy in conducting the campaign among the colored voters of the country, it is reported, is the idea in the main of Judge George W. Olvaney, Tammany leader; Mayor Hague, John J. Hoey and Senator Pat Harrison, who have backed up Raskob. They believe that more can be gained by catering to the southern Democrats, who do not like to see colored voters active in politics, than b yconsidering the feelings of the millions of colored voters in the north. The disaffected negroes, it is claimed, will vote for Hoover and the Democratic National Committee in the nation or Mayor Hague in New Jersey will be powerless to stem the tide to Hoover, the disgruntled ones say.

GAZETTE

Charleston, W. Va.

SEP 16 1928

Beckley Negro Voters Form Al Smith Club

(Special to The Gazette)

BECKLEY, Sept. 15.—The "Smith For Presidnet Colored Club" was organized here last week by a large and enthusiastic gathering. At the initial meeting 175 charter members were enrolled who unanimously expressed their faith in the election of the Democratic Presidential candidate. An interesting program was provided and the following officers were elected:

Dr. P. E. Pannell, chairman; Roy CVlemens, vice-chairman; Prof. J. Q. Jefferson, secretary; Julian Norris, treasurer; S. N. Nichols, assistant secretary.

The following were chosen as the campaign committee: Boyd James, J. Phoenix, A. Goins, James Cox, Thomas R. Brown, E. D. Burgess, R. D. Pierce, John Smith, Ludy Duff, Sam Ethridge and Baxton Dun.

Reverend T. C. Glashen was elected chairman of the speakers' bureau of the club.

It was decided to hold the next meeting Monday night, September 17, at 8:30 o'clock at the Pioneer Realty Building.

Macon, Ga., Telegraph
Thursday, September 20, 1928

NEGROES FOR AL, BOLTER ASSERTS

Alexander and Mrs. Armor Fulminate Against Smith

TAMMANY HALL BELABORED

An estimated audience of 2,000 persons in the municipal auditorium last night heard Gov. Al Smith, the "present" Democratic party, Tammany hall and liquor, all affiliated, it was said, sweepingly denounced. With that the state convention of so-called Hoover-Democrats came to a close.

The speakers were Hooper Alexander, recently nominated for the state legislature on the Democratic ticket, and Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, W. C. T. U. lecturer.

Tammany Hall and "the political manipulators of Al Smith," according to Mr. Alexander, "have secured the Catholic vote, and are now seeking the Negro vote. And I think they have succeeded."

"You'll find out before this thing is over, that every Negro in the United States will vote for Al Smith," was the "indictment."

The anti-Smith rally, an outgrowth of the day sessions which saw the formulation of "the Anti-Smith Democratic Party of Georgia," was held at the municipal auditorium. Barry Wright, attorney of Rome, Ga., and permanent chairman of the new party, presided, assisted by R. F. Burden and R. L. McKenney, of Macon.

Won't Attack Church, But—

After the song, The Tammany Cat, by Mrs. A. B. Cunyus, musical director of the state W. C. T. U., an introduction of Mr. Wright by Mr. Burden, Mr. Alexander was presented.

The latter declared the "propaganda" relative to the "failure of the prohibition law," "influenced by Al Smith," is "in violation of his oath of office."

He continued into a discussion of the "manipulations of Tammany Hall, which now controls the Democratic party," the Roman Catholic church and "liquor" newspapers.

"I have never undertaken to attack the Roman church," he began, "and I am not going to tonight. But I want to tell you a few facts.

"The Roman Catholic never departs from an announced doctrine, and the cardinal principle of the church is that the Pope is entitled to temporal power.

"While most people now know that the temporal rule of the Pope is impossible, the illiterate masses of New York believe it."

Quotes Mayor Walker

Mr. Alexander charged Mayor James Walker, of New York with declaring "that if Al Smith is elected he will take his orders from Rome," at a meeting June 4. Later his reference was worded: "Jimmie Walker said that he hoped to God if Al Smith was elected he will take his orders from the Pope of Rome." The quotation, he said, appeared in the New York press.

"Tammany Hall and "political manipulators" hold out "political and social equality" to the Negroes,(according to Mr. Alexander. Later he declared "they are succeeding" in getting the Negro vote, but that the Negroes are being fooled.

Mr. Alexander referred to Governor Smith's stand on prohibition as "infamous," and that his telegram to the Houston convention accepting the nomination for the presidency "violates a sacred pledge of the convention." The Democratic party has been made the "laughing stock of the world," he said.

He charged John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, with "attempting to starve the ministers of the South by asking the congregations to withhold their support," and cited it as an "example of Raskob's idea of religious freedom."

Can't Understand Loyalty

Mr. Alexander throughout paid his respects to the press, declaring that "newspapers not only suppress the facts, but distorting them." In closing, he said he "could not understand" both Senator Harris and Senator George "abandoning the people at this time." The speaker was given thunderous applause.

Mrs. Armor confined her discussion to the "wetness" of Governor Smith and the "rottenness" of Tammany Hall.

With reference to the Democratic nominee, Mrs. Armor declared that "if he doesn't get drunk, I don't see why not, unless he has anything up here (she tapped her head) to get drunk on." She added that "he takes seven or eight drinks a day."

"I am here on business for my King," Mrs. Amor opened.

"Put Decent Man In"

"We never had to apologize for Grover Cleveland; we never had to apologize for Woodrow Wilson; and we'll never have to apologive for Alfred Smith," she declared.

She asked the audience "to dig up every decent man or woman and get them to think Hoover, pray Hoover, speak Hoover . . . and put a decent man in the White House."

"Charlie" Curtis, she said, is dry in principle and act, "while Joe Robinson is willing to be the fish-bait for Al Smith."

Tammany Hall drew a lengthy denunciation. She closed her attack with: "I, a lady, would not tell to an assembly of women alone the dirty things I know about Tammany Hall." She appealed to "kill the Tammany Tiger."

Getting Out of Party

"Vote for Hoover, if you want to; vote for Al Smith if you want to, but you'll have to answer to God Almighty for it."

Mrs. Armor was given an ovation. Applause was enthusiastic throughout.

In a brief introductory address, Mr. Wright repeated his remarks of the earlier sessions relative to The Macon Telegraph, The Atlanta Constitution and ex-Senator Thomas W. Hardwick "owning the Democratic party."

"One thing is certain," he added, "if the Demorcratic party is owned by The Atlanta Constitution, The Macon Telegraph and Tom Hardwick, the quicker we get out of it and into another party, the better off we'll be."

Millen, Ga., News
Thursday, August 30, 1928

New York Times

That the Democratic anti-Smith movement in the South may make the question of negro voting more acute than for years in indicated by the activity of Texas negroes in trying to find a way in which to obtain political privileges. The theory behind Democratic white solidarity in the Southern states has always been the necessity of opening no space for the wedge of negro voting. Now that the "solid South" is threatened by Bishop Cannon and his associates, many negroes naturally see a possible opportunity to gain support in their desire to participate in primaries and elections.

The Texas negroes asked for an injunction against the Democratic Party committees so that they might vote in the Democratic primaries. They had been barred by the committee under private powers (which the court sustained) to fix the qualifications for party membership. The court agreed that the committee is in no sense a government agency, and that the Texas statute conferring upon it the right to make memmership qualifications is unsound. But as a political agency its rights are clear, thought the court, and, even though the negroes promised to abide by the decision of the primary and support Democratic nominees. the opinion sustained the act of the committee in barring them from participation.

This is one of the devices whereby negroes are stopped at the first barrier, and it is a very effective barrier, because Democratic primaries in states like Texas are virtually elections, since a primary certificate is usually equivalent to election itself. State literacy statutes and other tests effectively prevent most negroes from voting in the South, but after the primary is seld without them the right to vote is of little value. That is why they addressed themselves to the primary. This election, however, is national, and if negroes could obtain the vote and support the Republicans, they could easily carry several Southern states. They are looking more and more to the evangelical clergymen and laymen, and to the militant drys, to help them in getting to the polls, since there would be no more effective way to defeat Governor Smith than to carry Southern states for Mr. Hoover.

The probability is—and that is what is behind much of the confidence in Southern Democratic victory expressed at headquarters here by Senator Harrison, of Mississippi—that the rising negro activity will bring out a large white vote and checkmate any possible danger. However, the fifteenth amendment may be in for a real test in the next few years.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

A QUEER SOUTHERN ALLIANCE.

Postmaster General Harry S. New has informed the Brookhart Senate Committee that an impartial investigation made by his department has revealed an alliance between white Democrats and colored Republicans of the South who have a common interest in bartering Federal offices.

One Postmaster, one white Democrat, was discharged for helping a colored Republican fleece an applicant for the job of rural carrier. All would have gone well had the applicant passed the Civil Service test. But he failed and then demanded back his $350. Prominent Democrats sought the reinstatement of the Georgia Postmaster, described as a "good Democrat." But Mr. New told members of the Committee: "I saw no difference between the white man with the halo of respectability and the Negro—a poor farmer."

Secretary New presented a list of Post Office appointments in Georgia to show that sixty-two per cent. were made after consultation with Democratic members of Congress.

It is a common talk that some sort of a working agreement existed between Senator Pat Harrison and Perry W. Howard, Negro Republican National Committeeman, in which the Senior Senator from Mississippi enjoys the prerogative of selecting Postmasters in Mississippi with the sanction of Howard.

As Postmaster New frankly told Chairman Brookhart and colleagues, both parties in the South have been guilty of assessing Federal office holders on one pretext or another. And he might have added that despite all we hear in the North about fiery race-hating Southern politicians, they are not so anti-Negroid and prejudiced behind closed doors and when political plums are in sight.

The Age does not condone the bartering of public office and gladly welcomes the present investigation. But we take exception to the zeal displayed by the Attorney General's office at Washington in directing most of its attention to Georgia and Mississippi where Negroes dominate the Republican Party. Texas, South Carolina, Florida and other Southern States where white men are National Committeemen are not above reproach and suspicion.

As is usually the case, in these sporadic waves of moral and political reform it is the Negro race which gets much of the undesirable publicity. If the Brookhart Committee and the Attorney General's Office are bent on getting the truth, they should such permit fair-minded men as Secretary New tell all they know. We venture to predict that the valuable information secured will show that both white and colored, Republicans and Democrats, are guilty of many of the practices complained of in the South and are tarred with the same stick.

A QUIET AFTERMATH

SINCE the adjournment of the national conventions of the two major political parties, things are as quiet and as free of dissention as a picnic of the descendants of Erin's Isle or an initiation on a Saturday night by the Sons and Daughters of the Rising Moon. Nothing much seems to have happened or is happening. Radio broadcasting stations have been released from the strangle-hold of political high-binders as well as spell-binders and restored to the catch-as-catch-can embraces of jazz, light and airy gibberish, and static.

All is quiet except that Mrs. Clem, recalcitrant, vocal and rebellious, has walked out of feminine democracy and, like Lucifer, dragged many of the angels with her to dry land. Mr. Clem Shavers, internationally known incidentally as the ex-chairman was so embarrassed by the deflection of his spouse that he too was forced to retire from the limelight into the twilight between suns, and because of sundry requests of wrathful wet sons of Soottocracy.

Josephus, like the Daniels that he is, dares to take a stand in the Tiger's den, unafraid. McAdoo has donned the silencer, the Bishop's Cannon seems to have been spiked. He still struggles to keep his powder dry in a wet cause. Senator Jim, a reed shaken by the wind plumb out of the presidential plum tree, still breathes imprecations against the elephant. Carter Glass has returned to Virginia and his gas-blowing.

Upshaw, unable to upset the donkey, subsides. Heflin hides out. Senator Simmons of the Tar Heel state, who made signs before he could talk, ditto's on the dotted line. Blease for once, ceases to bleat.

Al has resumed his petting of the Boy Scouts and patronage of the newsboys in the hope they will be old enough to vote by the time a United (?) democracy unites. Blind Senator Gore is busy writing the campaign literature of his party in which will be included postscripts to his famous "Kissing in the Dark" epic at Houston and in which he will show, though blind, how southern democrats, for centuries, have been forcibly kissing dusky women in the dark and why they yet persist in it. Democracy was fully demonstrated when the Afro-Americans were made the caged favorites at Houston.

Burnished republican delegates at Kansas City, with the "you first my dear Alphonso" air, obligingly boot each other out to make room for lily whites. The Chicago Tribune, besoaked and besotted by contact with wet bed-fellows, shouts with liquored breath for Al, while endeavoring to make its wobbly, unsteady legs pilot itself aboard the dry republican band wagon. Nicholas Murray buts his soaked high brow against Borah's dry plank, only to discover that he is a goat on the horns of a political dilema for his pains.

The quiet, however, is only the calm before the stormy campaign of the early fall.

News-Gazette
Thursday, July 12, 1928

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

"You expressed my position exactly in your statement last week about supporting Al Smith as the head of the Democratic ticket for president. I do not agree with him on the prohibition question and I wish he was a protestant but I cannot swallow Ben Davis, the negro boss of the Republican party in Georgia." Thus spoke a citizen of Lamar county and he represents many another citizen perhaps in the present campaign. If there was a respectable Republican party in Georgia and the south the situation would be entirely different but as long as the Republican party ignores the white people of the south and caters to the negroes there will be few white people voting the Republican ticket.

—o—

"Stop my paper. I don't want no paper that advocates Al Smith," and this is the reaction of another citizen, equally entitled to his opinion and of exercising his pleasure in the matter of casting his vote. In the beginning of the campaign it is just as well for everybody to recognize the rights of others in choosing their own course and following it to the end. The choosing, however, should be without prejudice, intolerance and after a fair consideration of all the facts obtainable. Grant to other people the same right you ask for yourself.

—o—

Al Smith is a catholic, and so is Senator Curtis, the republican candidate for vice president, or he has been, and Hoover, the republican candidate for president, was married by a catholic priest. So that's that whatever that is.

—o—

If the old saying that a "bad beginning makes a good ending" this year will have to get a real hustle on it, particularly for the farmers, as they have had an unusually bad time of it so far. Of course, it can so end and it is worth hoping and working that it may.

—o—

Senator Walter F. George made a good impression on the country through his candidacy for the democratic nomination for president and all Georgians have reason to be proud of the vote he obtained at the Houston convention.

The Political Complex of the South

The brightest minds of the South admit that one-party government is the chief handicap in the development of the South's resources, industrially, economically and commercially—that if the South could free itself from the state of moral cowardice and intellectual slavery it has fallen into, as a legacy from slavery, in fifty years, the hub of business in this country would switch from the North to the South.

There is no greater check on development and businesss, or the natural resources of a country, than political and economic slavery. In that country or section of country where two parties exist and all the people are permitted to think and act according to the dictations of their conscience without fear of molestation from any source that country or section is richest in wealth—material and immaterial.

It is the common consensus of opinion in every section of our country that two-party government is better than one-party government. The best men and journals in the South confess it, but neither of them have the moral courage to move in that direction. When the South is asked why it does not free itself from the body of death that retards its progress and development, it invariably answers, "The Negro is the Jonah. What the South needs is two white political parties." This answer is both unfair and dishonest. The Negro is not the complex. The complex is the South's unwillingness to give the Negro a square deal—to give him a man's chance in the struggle for the top.

The crux of this question is, the white man's prejudice. Two parties would grow in the South and act as a check one upon the other, as they do in every other section of this country, if the white man had enough faith in his own ability to survive in the struggle of the fittest under the constitution.

Two political parties in the South is an economic necessity, and it is the white man in the way of their development and growth and not the Negro. If the Negro was permitted to exercise the ballot in the South, without fear of bodily harm, he would build up an opposition party in the South that would have to be reckoned with in the making of government policies.

If the personnel of two parties in the South must be white, why don't the white people divide into two parties as they do in Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Nevada and Arizona? There are more white people in Georgia than there are in either group of states.

No, it is not a question of principle, but one of race prejudice. And political questions, like all other questions, must be settled right, if settled at all, or they will not be settled when you think you have them settled. If you do not settle them right they will up like "Banquo's Ghost" to plague you.

If the Southern white man is waiting for the day to come when he can have two white parties in the South and the Negro is as completely excluded from participation in parties as he is now excluded by the white primary, he'll wait always. He'll wait until Judgment Day—such a day will never come, and he had just as well continue to throw principle overboard and line up on racial lines.

Government should be as clean of race prejudice as it is of religious prejudice. Neither of these spirits of bigotry and intolerance should be permitted to pollute the springs of free government.

The inexhaustible resources of the South will never be developed if their development depends upon race parties, and the South will continue to grow poorer and poorer in wealth, intelligence and statesmanship.

Talk is not going to bring the millennium about —nothing but the confession of our sins and a policy of equal and exact justice to all and special privileges to none will do the job.

The milk in the coconut is the South's prejudice and not the Negro's presence. An awakened conscience some day is going to rise up in the South and free the Negro from political bondage and economic slavery. It is just as true now in politics as it was in slavery, when Lincoln said, "This government can not long endure, half free and half slave." Freedom must in the fitness of things come to all of the people or we all will die slaves and the principles of free government perish from the face of the earth.

The truth of this two-party proposition is no new philosophy. It is the same old story of the unwillingness of a part of the people to give the other part of the people the rights and privileges under the law they arrogate unto themselves—and there lies the ever-present crux. And until the South learns and practices the principles of the Golden Rule, her resources will remain undeveloped, her schools in poverty and her people bringing up the rear of the material progress of America.

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation.

General

Is the Bolt a Real Bolt?

The South is unusually and unnecessarily alarmed in apprehension of an organized bolt from the Democratic ticket in November. We do not believe that the bolt is any more than skin deep—and will soon adjust itself without serious deflection from either party.

The South is as solidly Democratic as the Negro is Republican, and has no more reason to remain solid than the Negro has to vote the Democratic ticket as long as the Democratic party stands for race hatred and political intolerance.

Upon the surface there is a threatening volcano in the body pent up that is likely to erupt any moment; but the alarmists have not taken into consideration the one fundamental, that the South's race prejudice and political intolerance are much stronger than its wisdom and statesmanship; and when these two forces engage in conflict one against the other, wisdom usually yields to prejudice.

The bolt is largely imaginary and propagated to mislead and divert the attention of the people from the real issue.

Before the conventions you could near nothing except an uprising in the corn belt against the Republican party, and if the Republicans nominated Hoover the Middlewest would go over, body and boots, to the Democratic party.

The Republican party did that very thing, and you hear nothing of a bolt in the corn belt or a deflection of Republicans from the Republican party to the Democratic party.

Since the conventions the bolting talk has been most turbulent in "Dixie," but, as it did in the Middlewest, it will soon adjust itself and on election day the Republicans will carry the Middlewest by their usual majorities.

The causes underlying the unrest in the West are quite different from the causes underlying the unrest in the South. The causes in the West are purely economic, but the causes in the South are racial and intolerance. When better crops and better prices for farm products are in sight, the West has no further troubles and soon settles down to normalcy.

But the South has its ever home-made race problem. It is not a question of abundant crops, better prices for farm produce or a living wage for labor, but how can we keep the Negro from voting and how can we starve him by shuting every door of gainful employment in his face? How can we keep him out of office and disfranchise him or reduce him to a peon or serf?

You cannot take the South at its word; hence the bolt is not dangerous, and the demagogues who preach white supremacy to frighten men from voting according to their consciences know it. "The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak, and in the struggle for the mastery of the man the flesh usually overcomes."

The South, like Ephram of old, on election day will be found joined to its idols. Then the South is afflicted with a press that is not intelligent enough to differentiate between a principle of government and a Negro's rights.

In spite of all the bolt talk you hear now, on election day you will find the South at Tammany Hall's table voting for rum, Romanism, Tammany graft and unrestricted immigration. If great churchmen like Bishop Candler straddle the fence on a moral question, what can you expect of the average "cracker" who loves his yard dog better than he does a Negro?

The South makes no appeal to reason, but to race prejudice, religious bigotry and political intolerance. White supremacy is the merest rot, but the common weapon of the Southern politician and demagogue.

Much of the daily press in the South is a disgrace to Christian civilization and we wonder how long the white people in Dixie will be held in moral cowardice and intellectual slavery by the squeak of the blanton demagogue, who tells them that the paramount issue in the impending campaign is white supremacy. That if they vote for Hoover they'll have Negro postmasters, judges and complete Negro domination. We wonder if there is a white person in Georgia fool enough to believe such infamous nonsense?

At present there is not a federal officeholder in the state of color above clerk carrier in the post office, not a single Negro employee in the department of justice, revenue or customs service above a janitor; in the state service not a Negro employee above a porter, at the state capitol or county court house. In our city government Negroes are not allowed to drive a trash cart or motor vehicles belonging to the city. What more supreme white supremacy can be than is today? Georgia has had less than a half a dozen postmasters in fifty years and not a single presidential appointment in the federal service since McKinley's day, 32 years ago.

Yet the Atlanta Constitution, Macon Telegraph and a little branch of country weeklies bleat every day if you vote for Hoover you'll overthrow white supremacy and set up Negro domination to plague and insult our women.

The demagogue who preaches this inflammatory rot is an undesirable citizen, and a fit subject for the mad-house, and the poor, misguided creatures who believe it are to be pitied and ought to have a guardian.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY TO WIN

The two major political parties have selected their strongest men for the presidential campaign this campaign year. Each side is apparently as well satisfied with its selection as it could be. These are two strong but different personalities opposing each other. There are also two platforms vaguely worded on the questions that absorb public interest, and thousands of suggestions as to why one or the other should be defeated. Notification ceremonies will take the center of the stage in the month of August and then, perhaps, one will hear something about why one or the other should be elected. The difficulty has been to develop an issue and it looks now as though the Republicans must depend on the personality of their candidate. Truly, the Republicans have a record of unprecedented prosperity and the Democrats have a candidate of unprecedented personality. It is true also that the record of Mr. Hoover for service has no parallel; with him the knack of getting things done amounts almost to a habit and the range of his services covers a field of national and international achievement. The record of Mr. Smith, while it does not cover such a variety of activities, is an intensely interesting one and cannot be gainsaid. Stripped of the uncertainty of the feeling that might arise from agitation of the prohibition question or other would-be issues trying to get started, there is a record of achievement by the individual and a record of achievement by the party to be selected, on the one hand, and the record of achievement by the individual and a record of party failures on the other hand to be selected by the American voter. The hard-headed man of means and affairs will ponder well before doing anything to affect a change and jeopardize his business interests. Whether he is a Democrat or a Republican personalities mean but little as compared with records for success.

There are thousands who feel that a candidate's attitude toward the prohibition question is a sufficient guarantee for national popularity because to them, it appears that prohibition is nationally unpopular. There are other thousands who for different other reasons have attitudes unusual to themselves and who find themselves watching for an opportunity or the issue of some controlling sentiment on which to make up their minds. Then, there is the growing weakness of the Democratic party since the World War as shown by the results of the 1920 and 1924 elections. Whether the small electoral vote was a result of the weakness of the candidates or of dissatisfaction with the party's management of the government is not so much a question when it is remembered that the standard bearers each had as much to their credit in the way of personality and record for service as the party's present candidate.

Remembering, too, that the Republican party in the 1924 campaign had a third party split and a dynamic progressive wing, and that the party carried the country with the exception of the ten states known as the Solid South and one other state in 1920 and the Solid South and two other states in 1924, its chances for success in this campaign are emphasized by its united strength and its opponent's divided weakness. So far the eastern States, nominally Republican strongholds, are refusing to get excited about agricultural measures for relief, believing that they have a chance to get a better law. The state of New York also is nationally Republican and has fallen into the Democratic column in recent national campaign years only when there was a split in the Republicans.

Mr. Smith's fighting chance to win must appear only when he turns the trick of the country and adds New York to the already conceded Solid South, if the Solid South may be still conceded. Following this feat, he must bag at least the border states and take a good slice of New England and something in the West that has not been in the Democratic column, at least, since before the war.

The assumption that large cities will materially increase the chances of the Democratic candidate is more of a feeling or a hope expressed for psychological effect on the urban population by those large dailies supporting the Democratic candidate. If the assumption carries the inference that large cities may hope to continue to defy the prohibition regulations and increase the traffic, it may be remembered that there is more organized opposition to the traffic in wines in large cities than elsewhere and that the hope of pandering to the vanity of the urban population will likely be offset by industrial considerations influenced by large financial interests.

The 114 electoral votes of the Solid South with the addition of the border states and the state of New York would leave their Democrats yet the task of winning several normal Republican states in a year when party solidarity in the Republican ranks is firmer than it has been for years and the division in the Democratic ranks is threatened in territory that has never been in dispute. The Republican party therefore will be continued in power except the Democrats perform a political miracle, the like of which has not been performed in many, many years.

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation.

Is the Bolt a Real Bolt?

The South is unusually and unnecessarily alarmed in apprehension of an organized bolt from the Democratic ticket in November. We do not believe that the bolt is any more than skin deep—and will soon adjust itself without serious deflection from either party.

The South is as solidly Democratic as the Negro is Republican, and has no more reason to remain solid than the Negro has to vote the Democratic ticket as long as the Democratic party stands for race hatred and political intolerance.

Upon the surface there is a threatening volcano in the body pent up that is likely to erupt any moment; but the alarmists have not taken into consideration the one fundamental, that the South's race prejudice and political intolerance are much stronger than its wisdom and statesmanship; and when these two forces engage in conflict one against the other, wisdom usually yields to prejudice.

The bolt is largely imaginary and propagated to mislead and divert the attention of the people from the real issue.

Before the conventions you could near nothing except an uprising in the corn belt against the Republican party, and if the Republicans nominated Hoover the Middlewest would go over, body and boots, to the Democratic party.

The Republican party did that very thing, and you hear nothing of a bolt in the corn belt or a deflection of Republicans from the Republican party to the Democratic party.

Since the conventions the bolting talk has been most turbulent in "Dixie," but, as it did in the Middlewest, it will soon adjust itself and on election day the Republicans will carry the Middlewest by their usual majorities.

The causes underlying the unrest in the West are quite different from the causes underlying the unrest in the South. The causes in the West are purely economic, but the causes in the South are racial and intolerance. When better crops and better prices for farm products are in sight, the West has no further troubles and soon settles down to normalcy.

But the South has its ever home-made race problem. It is not a question of abundant crops, better prices for farm produce or a living wage for labor, but how can we keep the Negro from voting and how can we starve him by shuting every door of gainful employment in his face? How can we keep him out of office and disfranchise him or reduce him to a peon or serf?

You cannot take the South at its word; hence the bolt is not dangerous, and the demagogues who preach white supremacy to frighten men from voting according to their consciences know it. "The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak, and in the struggle for the mastery of the man the flesh usually overcomes."

The South, like Ephram of old, on election day will be found joined to its idols. Then the South is afflicted with a press that is not intelligent enough to differentiate between a principle of government and a Negro's rights.

In spite of all the bolt talk you hear now, on election day you will find the South at Tammany Hall's table voting for rum, Romanism, Tammany graft and unrestricted immigration. If great churchmen like Bishop Candler straddle the fence on a moral question, what can you expect of the average "cracker" who loves his yard dog better than he does a Negro?

The South makes no appeal to reason, but to race prejudice, religious bigotry and political intolerance. White supremacy is the merest rot, but the common weapon of the Southern politician and demagogue.

Much of the daily press in the South is a disgrace to Christian civilization and we wonder how long the white people in Dixie will be held in moral cowardice and intellectual slavery by the squeak of the blanton demagogue, who tells them that the paramount issue in the impending campaign is white supremacy. That if they vote for Hoover they'll have Negro postmasters, judges and complete Negro domination. We wonder if there is a white person in Georgia fool enough to believe such infamous nonsense?

At present there is not a federal officeholder in the state of color above clerk carrier in the post office, not a single Negro employee in the department of justice, revenue or customs service above a janitor; in the state service not a Negro employee above a porter, at the state capitol or county court house. In our city government Negroes are not allowed to drive a trash cart or motor vehicles belonging to the city. What more supreme white supremacy can be than is today? Georgia has had less than a half a dozen postmasters in fifty years and not a single presidential appointment in the federal service since McKinley's day, 32 years ago.

Yet the Atlanta Constitution, Macon Telegraph and a little branch of country weeklies bleat every day if you vote for Hoover you'll overthrow white supremacy and set up Negro domination to plague and insult our women.

The demagogue who preaches this inflammatory rot is an undesirable citizen, and a fit subject for the mad-house, and the poor, misguided creatures who believe it are to be pitied and ought to have a guardian.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY TO WIN

The two major political parties have selected their strongest men for the presidential campaign this campaign year. Each side is apparently as well satisfied with its selection as it could be. These are two strong but different personalities opposing each other. There are also two platforms vaguely worded on the questions that absorb public interest, and thousands of suggestions as to why one or the other should be defeated. Notification ceremonies will take the center of the stage in the month of August and then, perhaps, one will hear something about why one or the other should be elected. The difficulty has been to develop an issue and it looks now as though the Republicans must depend on the personality of their candidate. Truly, the Republicans have a record of unprecedented prosperity and the Democrats have a candidate of unprecedented personality. It is true also that the record of Mr. Hoover for service has no parallel; with him the knack of getting things done amounts almost to a habit and the range of his services covers a field of national and international achievement. The record of Mr. Smith, while it does not cover such a variety of activities, is an intensely interesting one and cannot be gainsaid. Stripped of the uncertainty of the feeling that might arise from agitation of the prohibition question or other would-be issues trying to get started, there is a record of achievement by the individual and a record of achievement by the party to be selected, on the one hand, and the record of achievement by the individual and a record of party failures on the other hand to be selected by the American voter. The hard-headed man of means and affairs will ponder well before doing anything to affect a change and jeopardize his business interests. Whether he is a Democrat or a Republican personalities mean but little as compared with records for success.

There are thousands who feel that a candidate's attitude toward the prohibition question is a sufficient guarantee for national popularity because to them, it appears that prohibition is nationally unpopular. There are other thousands who for different other reasons have attitudes unusual to themselves and who find themselves watching for an opportunity or the issue of some controlling sentiment on which to make up their minds. Then, there is the growing weakness of the Democratic party since the World War as shown by the results of the 1920 and 1924 elections. Whether the small electoral vote was a result of the weakness of the candidates or of dissatisfaction with the party's management of the government is not so much a question when it is remembered that the standard bearers each had as much to their credit in the way of personality and record for service as the party's present candidate.

Remembering, too, that the Republican party in the 1924 campaign had a third party split and a dynamic progressive wing, and that the party carried the country with the exception of the ten states known as the Solid South and one other state in 1920 and the Solid South and two other states in 1924, its chances for success in this campaign are emphasized by its united strength and its opponent's divided weakness. So far the eastern States, nominally Republican strongholds, are refusing to get excited about agricultural measures for relief, believing that they have a chance to get a better law. The state of New York also is nationally Republican and has fallen into the Democratic column in recent national campaign years only when there was a split in the Republicans.

Mr. Smith's fighting chance to win must appear only when he turns the trick of the country and adds New York to the already conceded Solid South, if the Solid South may be still conceded. Following this feat, he must bag at least the border states and take a good slice of New England and something in the West that has not been in the Democratic column, at least, since before the war.

The assumption that large cities will materially increase the chances of the Democratic candidate is more of a feeling or a hope expressed for psychological effect on the urban population by those large dailies supporting the Democratic candidate. If the assumption carries the inference that large cities may hope to continue to defy the prohibition regulations and increase the traffic, it may be remembered that there is more organized opposition to the traffic in wines in large cities than elsewhere and that the hope of pandering to the vanity of the urban population will likely be offset by industrial considerations influenced by large financial interests.

The 114 electoral votes of the Solid South with the addition of the border states and the state of New York would leave their Democrats yet the task of winning several normal Republican states in a year when party solidarity in the Republican ranks is firmer than it has been for years and the division in the Democratic ranks is threatened in territory that has never been in dispute. The Republican party therefore will be continued in power except the Democrats perform a political miracle, the like of which has not been performed in many, many years.

Essential Party Differences

AN EDITORIAL

ASK THE AVERAGE MAN what is the essential difference between the Republican and the Democratic parties, and he will say, "The Republicans are the party of big business and the Democrats are the party of the common men." Another will tell you that the Republicans are for a high tariff and the Democrats are for a low tariff. The average Negro, of course, will say that the Republicans freed the Negro from slavery and the Democrats tried to keep him in slavery.

ALL THESE REPLIES are true enough, but they give results rather than causes. They do not touch the essential difference, the line of cleavage that separated these parties before either of them was known by its present name. The Republican party, as such, was born in 1856, with John C. Fremont as its candidate, and dedicated to the destruction of slavery. But the elements of which it was composed, the Whigs, Free-Soilers and Federalists, date from the beginning of the nation. The Democratic party became associated with the perpetuation of slavery, but it had its real beginning in the Constitutional Convention of 1787.

THAT CONVENTION met to draw up a constitution for the new nation which had just won its freedom from England. The Revolutionary War, ending in 1783, had left the country a group of states scattered along the Atlantic seaboard, with different and often conflicting interests, customs and ambitions. They had nothing in common except the fact that they had banded together against England, and when the danger was over they separated again. The Articles of Confederation, under which they had been united during the Revolution, were not strong enough to hold them together. Thus there was no central power.

CONGRESS had no power to compel obedience: in case of war it could only ask the states to furnish troops, which the states would do only if they felt like it. Congress could not even raise money by taxation; any state with impunity could refuse to contribute money to the Government. There was no central law or authority. Thus the financial credit of the nation sank to nothing; the Continental, as the Government dollar was called, was worth two and a half cents. That is the origin of the expression "Not worth a Continental."

IN MASSACHUSETTS a thousand veterans of the Revolution, angered because the money paid them was worth nothing, and seeing their farms and cattle taken away to satisfy debts, formed an army under the leadership of Daniel Shay and drove the judges out of the court houses. This rebellion, which was finally put down, so alarmed Washington and other leaders that they decided to convene at Philadelphia and organize a government that would save the country from chaos.

AT THIS CONVENTION arose the questions that agitate the nation to this day. More than once the meeting was on the point of breaking up, and delegates had put on their hats to go home. The first and greatest fight that came up was over the question of sovereignty. Which was to be the stronger, the Federal Government or the state governments? The delegates from South Carolina contended that men from a distant state like Massachusetts could not make laws governing South Carolina, and vice versa. Washington, who presided, was worried at their implacable attitude, and it looked as if there were to be no United States. But after long wrangling the decision was made that in all things pertaining to the nation as a whole the central power should be supreme, and that the states should be allowed to govern their local affairs. But no state was to pass a law, even in its own affairs, that contradicted the Federal law. For instance, New York cannot have a law forbidding women to vote in New York City elections, for the federal law gives women the right to vote in all elections.

THAT WAS THE REAL BEGINNING of the Republican party—the necessity for a strong central government. The struggle, however, was not ended, and it is not ended today. The trouble came when the Government tried to apply that provision of the Constitution. Some states complained when their private interests were hurt by laws passed for the good of the whole nation.

WHEN THE FIRST TARIFF BILL was passed in 1861 to protect American manufacturers from ruinous European competition, the South objected bitterly. As the South had slave labor, it could produce goods as cheaply as Europe, which gave it a great advantage over the North, and enabled it to deal profitably with Europe. The passing of the tariff bill meant that the South, along with the rest of the nation, would have to pay higher prices for European goods and thus lose its trading advantage. South Carolina refused to let the customs officers collect the tariff, and openly nullified the tariff bill. Andrew Jackson, then President, threatened to send troops to South Carolina and hang John C. Calhoun, the leader, higher than Haman. South Carolina said she would secede from the Union, that any state had the right to leave a Union whose laws were unjust and oppressive to her. That was the famous doctrine of states' rights, to which the Democratic party has adhered ever since.

THE STATES' RIGHTS DOCTRINE, having its economic roots in slavery, naturally came to stand for the defense and perpetuation of slavery, and the Democratic party was, of course, the pro-slavery party. After slavery was abolished the Democratic party clung to its old creed, and it still argues for states' rights. The more power the states have, the more chance will the South have to work its will in local affairs, especially with regard to the Negro. If the question of peonage, for instance, were left to the states instead of the Federal power, the victims of peonage would have no redress.

THUS, coming down through American history, we see the essential difference between the Republican and the Democratic parties. The Republicans hold to the idea of a strong central government as a necessary condition for national unity and stability; the Democrats want strong state governments with ever lessening responsibility to the central government. The Democrats want liberty; the Republicans, in the words of Daniel Webster, want liberty and union, now and forever.

Essential Party Differences

AN EDITORIAL

ASK THE AVERAGE MAN what is the essential difference between the Republican and the Democratic parties, and he will say, "The Republicans are the party of big business and the Democrats are the party of the common men." Another will tell you that the Republicans are for a high tariff and the Democrats are for a low tariff. The average Negro, of course, will say that the Republicans freed the Negro from slavery and the Democrats tried to keep him in slavery.

ALL THESE REPLIES are true enough, but they give results rather than causes. They do not touch the essential difference, the line of cleavage that separated these parties before either of them was known by its present name. The Republican party, as such, was born in 1856, with John C. Fremont as its candidate, and dedicated to the destruction of slavery. But the elements of which it was composed, the Whigs, Free-Soilers and Federalists, date from the beginning of the nation. The Democratic party became associated with the perpetuation of slavery, but it had its real beginning in the Constitutional Convention of 1787.

THAT CONVENTION met to draw up a constitution for the new nation which had just won its freedom from England. The Revolutionary War, ending in 1783, had left the country a group of states scattered along the Atlantic seaboard, with different and often conflicting interests, customs and ambitions. They had nothing in common except the fact that they had banded together against England, and when the danger was over they separated again. The Articles of Confederation, under which they had been united during the Revolution, were not strong enough to hold them together. Thus there was no central power.

CONGRESS had no power to compel obedience: in case of war it could only ask the states to furnish troops, which the states would do only if they felt like it. Congress could not even raise money by taxation; any state with impunity could refuse to contribute money to the Government. There was no central law or authority. Thus the financial credit of the nation sank to nothing; the Continental, as the Government dollar was called, was worth two and a half cents. That is the origin of the expression "Not worth a Continental."

IN MASSACHUSETTS a thousand veterans of the Revolution, angered because the money paid them was worth nothing, and seeing their farms and cattle taken away to satisfy debts, formed an army under the leadership of Daniel Shay and drove the judges out of the court houses. This rebellion, which was finally put down, so alarmed Washington and other leaders that they decided to convene at Philadelphia and organize a government that would save the country from chaos.

AT THIS CONVENTION arose the questions that agitate the nation to this day. More than once the meeting was on the point of breaking up, and delegates had put on their hats to go home. The first and greatest fight that came up was over the question of sovereignty. Which was to be the stronger, the Federal Government or the state governments? The delegates from South Carolina contended that men from a distant state like Massachusetts could not make laws governing South Carolina, and vice versa. Washington, who presided, was worried at their implacable attitude, and it looked as if there were to be no United States. But after long wrangling the decision was made that in all things pertaining to the nation as a whole the central power should be supreme, and that the states should be allowed to govern their local affairs. But no state was to pass a law, even in its own affairs, that contradicted the Federal law. For instance, New York cannot have a law forbidding women to vote in New York City elections, for the federal law gives women the right to vote in all elections.

THAT WAS THE REAL BEGINNING of the Republican party—the necessity for a strong central government. The struggle, however, was not ended, and it is not ended today. The trouble came when the Government tried to apply that provision of the Constitution. Some states complained when their private interests were hurt by laws passed for the good of the whole nation.

WHEN THE FIRST TARIFF BILL was passed in 1861 to protect American manufacturers from ruinous European competition, the South objected bitterly. As the South had slave labor, it could produce goods as cheaply as Europe, which gave it a great advantage over the North, and enabled it to deal profitably with Europe. The passing of the tariff bill meant that the South, along with the rest of the nation, would have to pay higher prices for European goods and thus lose its trading advantage. South Carolina refused to let the customs officers collect the tariff, and openly nullified the tariff bill. Andrew Jackson, then President, threatened to send troops to South Carolina and hang John C. Calhoun, the leader, higher than Haman. South Carolina said she would secede from the Union, that any state had the right to leave a Union whose laws were unjust and oppressive to her. That was the famous doctrine of states' rights, to which the Democratic party has adhered ever since.

THE STATES' RIGHTS DOCTRINE, having its economic roots in slavery, naturally came to stand for the defense and perpetuation of slavery, and the Democratic party was, of course, the pro-slavery party. After slavery was abolished the Democratic party clung to its old creed, and it still argues for states' rights. The more power the states have, the more chance will the South have to work its will in local affairs, especially with regard to the Negro. If the question of peonage, for instance, were left to the states instead of the Federal power, the victims of peonage would have no redress.

THUS, coming down through American history, we see the essential difference between the Republican and the Democratic parties. The Republicans hold to the idea of a strong central government as a necessary condition for national unity and stability; the Democrats want strong state governments with ever lessening responsibility to the central government. The Democrats want liberty; the Republicans, in the words of Daniel Webster, want liberty and union, now and forever.

Political - 928 General

Party Affiliation.

AGAINST NEGRO DOMINATION

Webber Wilson's political courage and conviction led him to lead the fight in Congress against the domination of political patronage in Mississippi by a group of negroes. While others stood silent over this outrage, Webber Wilson took the floor of the House and delivered an indictment against the corruption in Federal patronage in Mississippi that brought consternation into the ranks of those negro republican leaders who, Wilson charged, have sold offices in Mississippi "like bales of cotton upon the open market."

Another outstanding work of Webber Wilson in Congress was his bill to prohibit obscene magazines from using the mails or other means of transportation in getting their lewd and lascivious publications distributed.

This fight brought Wilson the support of thousands of women's clubs throughout the United States, and especially in Mississippi.

One of the statements in his speech in Congress on this matter shows the high ideals for which he stands and for which he fights:

"Preachers have preached against this great evil, and have preached well; the good people have prayed against it, and have prayed with fervor; writers have written against the curs, and there has ben logic in their sentences; and some have even wept before the altar, and their tears have been sincere. But, gentlemen, the day has come when we should do something more than preach or weep. The tears and the arguments and the agitations should be crystallized into effective legislative action, and the iron hand of the law should take hold of this great evil and throttle it and hurl it back into hell whence it came. This deadly incubus has been hovering over our country for a long time. Like the upas tree, it has been breathing forth the breath of moral death and carrying in concentration the soul-destroying essence of hell itself.

"Let us start this movement to preserve and to protect the highest and best interests of our people by setting up this national board of magazine censorship, and then let those in authority on the board drive from our Christian land every salacious, indecent magazine, even as Jesus drove from His Father's houses those who sought to defile it."

Party Authority and Regularity the Only Issue Involved

There is but one issue involved in the settlement of the selection of the National Committeeman in Georgia, and that one issue is, whether the delegates elected and instructed to the National Convention to vote for a certain nominee have the right to disregard their instructions, and vote independently of the expressed wishes of their constituents who selected them, for a consideration, or otherwise.

First. If the people are supreme, and the state sovereign, the delegates are the chosen representatives of the state and the people and are bound to carry out the expressed will of the people at the time of their election.

Second. But, if the delegates are greater than the people who created and instructed them to carry out their expressed wishes, then the delegates have a perfect right to disregard their instructions, and vote as they please, for a consideration, or otherwise.

Independent 6-28-28

The rules of the National Convention, at the time of the selection of the delegates from our state to the National Convention, provided, "If nominations be not made in accordance with law, instructions by State and District Conventions to delegates to the National Convention shall be obeyed and if not obeyed, may be made operative by a vote of the National Convention."

Athens, Ga.

Now, if this rule means anything, it means that delegates when instructed to vote for a certain person for national committeeman, they must obey these instructions, and if they do not obey, then it is the duty of the National Convention to make the instructions operative.

The facts in the Georgia case are as follows: At the State convention the delegates and alternates were instructed unequivocably and unanimously to vote for B. J. Davis, for National Committeeman, and Mrs. Sarah Watson King, for National Committeewoman. These instructions were voted unanimously, with two exceptions—Clark Grier, of Washington, D. C., and J. L. Grant, of McIntosh County, voting no.

In eleven of the twelve districts, instructions, or endorsements, and in a majority of the districts specific instructions, were voted instructing the delegates and alternates to vote for B. J. Davis for National Committeeman at the National Convention in Kansas City, June 12, 1928. These instructions were binding, and the delegates had no discretion in the matter but to carry out the will of the people, as expressed at the time of their election. They were bound in spite of their own personal dislike of the nominee, or any other consideration that may have been offered them to vote contrarywise. So, the only question for the National Committee to decide, is, whether party integrity and party authority shall be maintained, or whether insurgency and corruption shall dominate the Republican Party in America.

If the National Committee licenses delegates to do as they please, and violate their instructions by deciding the Georgia and Wisconsin cases against the regulars, they will let down the gap for all kinds of corruption, duplicity, and double-dealing in future conventions. If a state instructs its delegates to support a certain candidate for President, National Committeeman, or otherwise, and the Committee, under its rules, does not compel those who are inclined to disregard the expressed wishes of their constituents to follow their instructions, they will open up the greatest flood gate for corruption imaginable. The mercernaries would accept money from one candidate, or his friends under instructions, and would go to the national convention, to which they had been elected, and disregard their instructions by selling out to the highest bidder. Thus, it would be impossible to maintain any kind of ethics in the selection of delegates.

In the case of Georgia, nothing has been discovered since the delegates were elected and instructed for National Committeeman that in any way affects the character, or usefulness of the nominee. When the insurgents' move first started against the party nominee, it was based entirely upon a money consideration. It was argued by the leaders that the National Committeeman had received certain sums of money, and had not divided it among the boys, but when it was disclosed that he had not received any great sum, they began other tactics, even charging that the National Committeeman was responsible for the suicide at Douglas, Ga., and that the organization in the state was corrupt, and that the delegates, though instructed, had become righteously indignant, and decided that the best interest of the Party was to join the Democrats in their efforts to put out the present National Cmmitteeman; put in a white man, if they could; and, if not, put in a Negro who would take his orders from a white man, and who would have no voice of his own.

But all of this is collateral, and is not germain to the issue. The issue is clear-cut and clean—one of party integrity, authority, and regularity. Are the people, themselves, supreme, or are their chosen representatives supreme. Has a delegate, elected by the people, the right to set aside the people's exprssed will, and do as he pleases for money, or otherwise We believe, as Senator Lodge ruled in the 1920 Convention, that the state is sovereign, and when their will is expressed, their representatives must carry it out. We believe, as the rules for the election of a National Committeeman provide, that when delegates are instructed, they shall carry out their instructions, and if they refuse to obey them, that the convention itself, may vote them operative.

DUBLIN
GA.
ISSUE OF
JUN 8 - 1928

A REAL DISTINCTION

The old controversy about the South setting aside the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments and New oYrk nullifying the Eighteenth amendment is trumped up again and again by the wets as a sweet morsel.

This has been answered both by Senator Glass ,of Virginia, and Senator George, of Georgia. As a matter of fact, the especial object of attack is the white primary in the Southern States, where none but Democrats are supposed to vote and where, as a rule, the negro vote is conspicuously absent.

The Supreme Court of the United States, as we understand it, has reviewed this particular point and has decided that the states have the right to make their own regulations and to provide their own primaries. The State Supreme Court has also reviewed the prohibition law and declared it the law of the land, and of course ought to be respected.

It seems to us that there is a great difference in the two positions. The South in recent presidential primaries has declared for prohibition; that is, has elected delegates in favor of a dry candidate. This includes the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas. The preferential elections have left no doubt about this; in other words, as The Savannah Press said some time ago, "The South stands for certain things and means what it says."

The retort has been made in answer to the verdict of the South that the states of this section have nullified the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments, while they are hostile to the state which has nullified the Eighteenth. One short-sighted pape rin Georgia has asked the question: "Are they less sacred than the Eighteenth?"

This has been answered very fully by various democratic states. The South stands for the la wof the aind, it is unnecessary to enumerate the other things it stands for. This is one principle it seems for which the South stands in spite of the efforts of certain opponents of prohibition to make it appear otherwise.—Savannah Press.

Party Authority and Regularity the Only Issue Involved

There is but one issue involved in the settlement of the selection of the National Committeeman in Georgia, and that one issue is, whether the delegates elected and instructed to the National Convention to vote for a certain nominee have the right to disregard their instructions, and vote independently of the expressed wishes of their constituents who selected them, for a consideration, or otherwise.

First. If the people are supreme, and the state sovereign, the delegates are the chosen representatives of the state and the people and are bound to carry out the expressed will of the people at the time of their election.

Second. But, if the delegates are greater than the people who created and instructed them to carry out their expressed wishes, then the delegates have a perfect right to disregard their instructions, and vote as they please, for a consideration, or otherwise.

The rules of the National Convention, at the time of the selection of the delegates from our state to the National Convention, provided, "If nominations be not made in accordance with law, instructions by State and District Conventions to delegates to the National Convention shall be obeyed and if not obeyed, may be made operative by a vote of the National Convention."

Now, if this rule means anything, it means that delegates when instructed to vote for a certain person for national committeeman, they must obey these instructions, and if they do not obey, then it is the duty of the National Convention to make the instructions operative.

The facts in the Georgia case are as follows: At the State convention the delegates and alternates were instructed unequivocably and unanimously to vote for B. J. Davis, for National Committeeman, and Mrs. Sarah Watson King, for National Committeewoman. These instructions were voted unanimously, with two exceptions—Clark Grier, of Washington, D. C., and J. L. Grant, of McIntosh County, voting no.

In eleven of the twelve districts, instructions, or endorsements, and in a majority of the districts specific instructions, were voted instructing the delegates and alternates to vote for B. J. Davis for National Committeeman at the National Convention in Kansas City, June 12, 1928. These instructions were binding, and the delegates had no discretion in the matter but to carry out the will of the people, as expressed at the time of their election. They were bound in spite of their own personal dislike of the nominee, or any other consideration that may have been offered them to vote contrarywise. So, the only question for the National Committee to decide, is, whether party integrity and party authority shall be maintained, or whether insurgency and corruption shall dominate the Republican Party in America.

If the National Committee licenses delegates to do as they please, and violate their instructions by deciding the Georgia and Wisconsin cases against the regulars, they will let down the gap for all kinds of corruption, duplicity, and double-dealing in future conventions. If a state instructs its delegates to support a certain candidate for President, National Committeeman, or otherwise, and the Committee, under its rules, does not compel those who are inclined to disregard the expressed wishes of their constituents to follow their instructions, they will open up the greatest flood gate for corruption imaginable. The mercernaries would accept money from one candidate, or his friends under instructions, and would go to the national convention, to which they had been elected, and disregard their instructions by selling out to the highest bidder. Thus, it would be impossible to maintain any kind of ethics in the selection of delegates.

In the case of Georgia, nothing has been discovered since the delegates were elected and instructed for National Committeeman that in any way affects the character, or usefulness of the nominee. When the insurgents' move first started against the party nominee, it was based entirely upon a money consideration. It was argued by the leaders that the National Committeeman had received certain sums of money, and had not divided it among the boys, but when it was disclosed that he had not received any great sum, they began other tactics, even charging that the National Committeeman was responsible for the suicide at Douglas, Ga., and that the organization in the state was corrupt, and that the delegates, though instructed, had become righteously indignant, and decided that the best interest of the Democrats in their efforts to put out the present National Cmmitteeman; put in a white man, if they could; and, if not, put in a Negro who would take his orders from a white man, and who would have no voice of his own.

But all of this is collateral, and is not germain to the issue. The issue is clear-cut and clean—one of party integrity, authority, and regularity. Are the people, themselves, supreme, or are their chosen representatives supreme. Has a delegate, elected by the people, the right to set aside the people's exprssed will, and do as he pleases for money, or otherwise We believe, as Senator Lodge ruled in the 1920 Convention, that the state is sovereign, and when their will is expressed, their representatives must carry it out. We believe, as the rules for the election of a National Committeeman provide, that when delegates are instructed, they shall carry out their instructions, and if they refuse to obey them, that the convention itself, may vote them operative.

Independent
6-28-28
Atlanta, Ga.

DUBLIN
GA.
ISSUE OF
JUN 8 - 1928

A REAL DISTINCTION

The old controversy about the South setting aside the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments and New oYrk nullifying the Eighteenth amendment is trumped up again and again by the wets as a sweet morsel.

This has been answered both by Senator Glass ,of Virginia, and Senator George, of Georgia. As a matter of fact, the especial object of attack is the white primary in the Southern States, where none but Democrats are supposed to vote and where, as a rule, the negro vote is conspicuously absent.

The Supreme Court of the United States, as we understand it, has reviewed this particular point and has decided that the states have the right to make their own regulations and to provide their own primaries. The State Supreme Court has also reviewed the prohibition law and declared it the law of the land, and of course ought to be respected.

It seems to us that there is a great difference in the two positions. The South in recent presidential primaries has declared for prohibition; that is, has elected delegates in favor of a dry candidate. This includes the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas. The preferential elections have left no doubt about this; in other words, as The Savannah Press said some time ago, "The South stands for certain things and means what it says."

The retort has been made in answer to the verdict of the South that the states of this section have nullified the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments, while they are hostile to the state which has nullified the Eighteenth. One short-sighted pape rin Georgia has asked the question: "Are they less sacred than the Eighteenth?"

This has been answered very fully by various democratic states. The South stands for the la wof the ahd, it is maintained, for. This necessary to enumerate the other things it stands in spite is one principle it seems for which the South stands to make of the efforts of certain opponents of prohibition it appear otherwise.—Savannah Press.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

General.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN NOVEMBER

Perhaps, it is not necessary to wait to see what the Democratic platform will be to make sound predictions of Republican success. The Republican platform is written. Its candidates are selected with a view to giving assurance that the planks are firm and its sentiment is genuine.

The Democratic platform cannot raise a vital issue not already disposed of. The name of Hoover has stood for fair, honest and efficient administration for the past decade.

Reporter

There is a record of achievement behind the man and a record of achievement behind the administration to which he will succeed if elected. There are unchallenged records of progress in internal improvement, conservation of national resources, commercial, industrial and financial expansion. These are the basic effects of administrative accomplishments. They largely eliminate the element of chance in the succession of government policies when the policies have been successful.

6-30-28

An administration that had carried these policies to success must find itself in the favor of citizens of all parties whatever their differences on less important issues might be. And the probability of making a good thing worse by a change of policies is always increased in the minds of those whose profits are based on these policies and whose experiences have taught them the expensive lessons suffered in the process of adjustment as well as the high probability for failure coming from untried hands.

Birmingham Ala.

Republican success at the polls in November is predicted on the basis of better conditions than have prevailed for either party in the last two decades. Besides the phenomenally sound success of the party in the last eight years and the high character efficiency and universal popularity of the candidates, there is the weakness of the opposing party by reason of the poor selection of issues and the support of questionably unpopular policies in the past, coupled with this the foremost candidate of the Democratic Party, and, perhaps, the best one, has caused the party to be openly committed to a policy of doubtful popularity and raised questions on which internal divisions alone would make party success improbable without any other handicaps.

In the face of its own fine record and strong candidate and the weak opposition, the possibilities for Republican Party success in November are better than they have been in two decades past and the Republican majority will either be one of the largest in history or the vote will be considerably smaller than it should be on account of the cock-sure feeling of the Republican voter for success or the vote-for-nobody feeling of the Democrats who will not vote for their own candidate and feel that they cannot afford to vote for any other.

LET'S KEEP THE RECORD STRAIGHT

I have always tried to refrain from newspaper controversies but an article appearing in the Savannah Morning News of last Sunday's edition, written by Dr. B. W. S. Daniels, of Savannah, was so contrary to fact that I am forced to take issue.

Dr. Daniels

6-24-28

The National Convention, in many respects, was one of the greatest ever held.

Atlanta

As many know, the First Congressional District of Georgia had two factions: The James-Lemon faction and the Scott-Daniel faction. I represented the Lemon faction and Daniel the Scott faction.

Upon our arrival in Kansas City, I was informed by Colonel Walden that Daniels wanted to compromise on half vote. After some reluctance I agreed to do so purely for reasons of harmony. Daniels then pledged his word to support Hoover as the nominee for President and B. J. Davis for National Committeeman. We also made a tentative agreement relative to the district organization. Chairman Butler of the National Committee ruled that such an agreement was not binding; anyway, ere the cock crowed thrice Daniels had broken his pledge. So we now have two separate and distinct district organizations. Which of these that shall be regarded as regular remains to be seen. I feel perfectly safe as to the outcome as the Lemon faction is the one that is now recognized by the state organization.

As to the National Committeeman, I am not sure just how the vote would have stood had the roll been called, as three of our delegates promised to support both Davis and Watson, conspicuous among these three was Daniels The National Convention seeing this unsettled condition, by a vote of more than two to one referred it to the National Committee, who in turn referred it to an executive committee. Ben Davis is by far the most capable man that we have for the pasition, and there should not be, and I do not believe there will be, any question as to whether or not he will be retained.

After the convention was over Daniels told Dr. Harris, in the presence of several, including myself, that he and the other two doubtful brethren would have certainly supported Davis. If this was true, Davis would have won easily.

I make this statement because I believe the people are entitled to the facts, not conditions, as some would like to have them be.

Signed: William James.

DES MOINES

IOWA

Cor. Ed.

JUN 16 1928

Negroes at Kansas City

BY JAMES B. MORRIS IN THE BYSTANDER.

All the big Negroes are here; Perry Howard and Ben Davis, national committeemen; Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Boaze, national committeewomen; Oscar DePriest, congressional nominee from Chicago; J. John R. Hawkins and hundreds of lesser light too numerous to mention. Charles Howard has been pretty busy among the gang and has succeeded in landing a place on resolution committee from our group which is asking that the platform committee include an honest-to-goodness-plank on the enforcement of civil rights amendments. John Thompson and his son, Nelson are here moving among friends. Negro newspapermen are to be entertained by the press of Kansas City Friday night.

I had to meet DePriest not only because he is the republican nominee for congress but also because as a delegate from his home state he is a real worker, high up in party circles, has real influence and knows the game of politics. You can't beat that combination and I am convinced that he will make a creditable showing in congress.

There are lots of Negro delegates from the south entirely too many frock coats. Mencken says that they are decreasing at each convention. I hope the day will soon come when there will be none. The average fellow looks upon these Negro delegates as purchasable influence. 'Tis true of some of them; 'tis true of some of the white but as a matter of fact the southern Negro delegates seek patronage and influence for their friends and some cash in return for the support of a cause the same as a northern white delegate.

The Iowa group re-elected Senator Rawson as its national committeeman. A finer thing could not have been done. Senator Rawson is well liked, works well with the powers that be and takes care of his constituents at home. No Iowan has been kept out of the convention if either Senator Rawson or P. R. Baldridge knew about it.

While this is my first national convention, I can realize that Negroes are playing stronger roles in the delegations from the northern and border states. It means much.

I cannot close this article without saying a word for Kansas City. There are lots of Negroes here and they are doing big things. The Kansas City Call is remodeling its plant, installing new equipment and has a splendid corps of workers on the job. The American has a fine plant also. Negroes are pretty well employed over a wide range of vocations and do well. It does a fellow good to see them.

Greensboro, Ga., Herald-Journal
Friday, June 8, 1928

Hoover came to Atlanta, breakfasted with Ben Davis. He passed through Savannah and was met by the fat, negro committeewoman, to whom Hoover bowed and scraped. Hoover paid Ben Davis over $2,000 and now, of course, the Georgia negroes are for Hoover.

Political 1928.

Party Affiliation.

General.

BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.

NEGRO POLITICAL CLUB ORGANIZED

An independent nonpartisan club of Nashville Negroes was organized Friday at the Whitfield Grocery Company, 1122 Cedar street, when the club enrolled a large number of Negroes who have registered and paid their poll tax.

After permanent organiaztion was effected, the name selected was Nonpartisan Civic Welfare and Registration Club, and the object and purpose of the club was stated by Dr. J. W. Whitfield "that voters who pay poll tax and register are American citizens, while those failing to do so may be considered as aliens, supporting neither school nor government.

"That the poll tax helps to eliminate ignorance and that the outstanding object of the club is to point out to the large number of colored men and women who fail to register or vote that they not only disfranchise themselves, but also hinder the cause of education, better schools and good government.

"That thousands of dollars are lost annually to the school fund of the state by failure of enforcement for payment of poll tax. That those exempted by age from poll tax should register and vote, thereby demonstrating their civic pride in citizenship."

The following officers were elected: Louis K. Thomas, president; William McGee, first vice president; S. J. Tennor, second vice president; H. E. Cole, secretary; Dr. J. W. Whitfield, chairman of the publicity department the Rev. A. L. Pinkston, chaplain and Dr. L. A. Bowman, treasurer. The meeting was adjourned to meet Monday night.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

Press

SEP 5 1928

VOTERS ORGANIZED

Negro Women of North Side Effect Non-Partisan Organization.

At the Tabernacle Baptist church, Buena Vista st., North Side Negro women voters met last night to perfect a temporary organization under the auspices of the women's auxiliary of the Federation of Citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county.

The organization is non-partisan and decided to invite speakers of both major parties to address its meetings. Mrs. W. M. Gaudy was elected chairman.

RAISING OF RACIAL ISSUE DENOUNCED BY SOUTHERNERS

Manufacturers' Record Admonishes the Party Leaders to Refrain From Use of Race Issue

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 18.—Political leaders in the South, irrespective of party, are admonished to refrain from further raising the race issue, in an editorial appearing in the Manufacturers' Record, published in this city by Col. Richard H. Edmonds. The Record agrees with the Richmond News-Leader that "the Negro is not an issue in this campaign," and expresses the hope that the newspapers on both sides will emphasize this fact in the interest of the general welfare.

Independent

10-18-28

The following quotations from the editorial set forth the Record's view:

Atlanta, Ga.

"Deprecation by the Richmond News-Leader, an ardent supporter of Governor Smith, of the 'Negro menace' in the South as a campaign issue is so sane and opportune that true friends of the South will hope other Southern editors will emphasize this point, regardless of their party affiliations. 'The Negro is not an "issue" in this campaign,' says the News-Leader, and in that pronouncement it speaks truly.

"Left to themselves, the white people and the Negroes of the South will dwell together in amity and mutual benefit economically. This is a fact that the leaders of both great political parties must grasp, and thus refrain hereafter from promoting the 'race issue' or the 'Negro menace.' In the heat of a political campaign of a few weeks duration they must be careful not to undo all that individuals and organizations have brought about in the creation of a spirit of harmony between the races in the Southern states."

Negro In Cabinet If Smith Is Electetd Says K. K. K. Paper

Therefore All Democrats Are Urged To Vote Against New Yorker

What Will Negroes Say About This?

Let Thoughtful Negroes Who Care, Read This.

New York, Sept. 19.—Disclosures that the Ku Klux Klan, Lily White Republicans and bolting Southern Democrats are using the Negro in their propaganda to discredit Alfred E. Smith have aroused widespread resentment among colored Americans irrespective of party affiliation. Conclusive proof that a plot exists to jointly vilify the Governor and egroes is apparent on every hand.

9-22-28

A pamphlet is being circulated which reads that a Negro occupies a position of Civil Service Commissioner under Tammany Hall, and that if Smith is elected "this Negor will be made a member of Smith's cabinet.

In big headlines charging Governor Smith of catering to the Negro, the Fellowship Forum, national organ of the Ku Klux Klan, said in a recent issue.

"In addition to Negro fraternities, the Negro press is coming to the aid of Al Smith. The signs are unmistakable. All the un-American and anti-American elements are flocking to the banner to which they naturally belong. In the meantime, the friends of American institutions continue to rally to the Hoover standards."

Senator Tydings of Maryland, Chairman of the Democratic Speakers Bureau, has received word that Negroes in Easton, Md., were being hired to ride in automobiles on the sides of which ae displayed streamers bearing the words, "Al Smith."

At Foley, Ala., a preacher by the name of Showt, recently speaking at a Ku Klux Klan fish-fry, declared that Governor Smith's stenographer was a Negro wench and that Smith had placed thousands of Negroes on the pay-roll in New York State.

"White Supremacy as Practiced by Tammany" is the caption over a four column cut appearing on the first page of the Fellowship Journal of September 15, in which Civil Service Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morton is shown dictating a letter to a white stenographer. Under the picture is another capion—$7500 a Yea Tammany Negro Boss anad White Secretary."

The Sensational Weekly, another Ku Klux, Lily White organ published in Ramer, Ala, has the following headlines on the first page of its issue of September 1: "Tammany Hall in all its Hideousness—Made up of Crooks, Murderers, Thugs, Bums, Bootleggers, White-slavers, Nigger-lovers, Niggers, Gamblers, Counterfiters, Foreigners, Hi-jackers, Pimps, Catholic Church and Al Smith."

"Al Smith the Negro Lover" is the heading of a one page advertising appearing in the Luverne, Alabama Journal and News, which goes to tell of white and black children being indiscriminately mixed in public schools of New York with Negro teachers in large numbers teaching white as well as colored pupils. Tammany Hall is held directly responsible for these "unspeakable conditions' and Al Smith is spoken of as owing his entire career to Tammany Hall.

These unwarranted scurrilous attacks against Lily-Whiteism and Ku Kluxism and making many votes for the Democratic candidate for President.

NEW YORK
Illustrated News

OCT 28 1928

COLORED VOTE AN ELECTION ENIGMA

BOTH PARTIES PUZZLED OVER NEW ATTITUDE

By ORVILLE WELSH.

For the first time since the colored section of our population has been voting, its attitude is genuinely in doubt in a presidential campaign.

The colored vote in the northern and border states always has been Republican, because a Republican administration freed the slaves. In the deep south, of course, very few colored persons exercise the franchise.

In a number of northern and border states the colored vote has been the deciding factor in state and presidential elections. In other words the Republican margin frequently was less than the colored vote.

The number of colored voters in the northern states is listed as follows: Illinois 100,000, Indiana 50,000, Ohio 65,000, Pennsylvania 100,000, Massachusetts 30,000, Delaware 15,000, New York 125,000, New Jersey 50,000, Connecticut 10,000, Maryland 60,000. Only in New York, under the guidance of Tammany Hall, have these got in the habit of voting Democratic.

This year, however, there is a fairly widespread revolt against the Republicans among the colored people, though no one can forecast how deep. Leaders of the race are disappointed in the recognition shown them by the recent Republican administrations, and angry at the G. O. P. failure to take federal action against lynchings and against non-enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments in the south.

Needs Solid Vote.

Add to this the colored citizen's hatred of the Ku Klux Klan, which is opposing the Democratic national ticket, and it is apparent why the Republicans have some reason to be worried this year.

There is also the indictment of Perry Howard, assistant U. S. attorney general, for trafficking in federal patronage in the south, and the displacement of Ben J. Davis as national committeeman from Georgia. Both these colored politicians—Howard long has been Republican committeeman in Mississippi—had delivered their delegates to Hoover at the Kansas City convention. Colored people were friendly then toward Hoover because he had abolished segregation in the commerce department.

But at Elizabethton, Tenn., Hoover made a statement about appointing the best qualified citizens to public office, which was interpreted throughout the south as meaning that whites only would get the federal jobs in the south under a Hoover administration. This, coupled with a general purging of the Republican state organizations and electoral tickets in Dixie of the colored politicians during this campaign at least, undoubtedly has gained Hoover much white support, but correspondingly shaken his colored adherents.

And Hoover, to carry the border states, needs the solid colored vote as well as white Democratic converts.

Clarence Darrow, recognized as a friend of the colored people, has advised them to vote Democratic this year. Their political consciousness has been accentuated by the certainty of having a colored congressman—Oscar De Priest, regular Republican candidate to succeed the late Martin Madden of Chicago. In Missouri the Democrats have nominated a colored man for congress.

Editors of colored papers queried by THE NEWS differ widely on the extent of the defection from the Republicans, depending possibly on the sympathies of the editors and the policy of their papers. According to James E. Washington, editor of the Western World, published in Memphis, the vast majority of the 90,000 colored vote of Tennessee will go for Hoover unless Robert R. Church, unquestioned colored leader of the state, remains inactive in the campaign. "In which case, the intensive campaign the Smith people are making will give them an even break." Church was offended by the attitude of the Republican national managers during the Hoover visit to Elizabethton.

But the Nashville Globe reports no noticeable defection from the Republicans, and can't see Smith getting more than a 15 per cent. break. Both these Tennessee papers are listed as independent politically.

In Kentucky William Warley, editor of the Louisville News, independent, predicts 25,000 colored votes for Smith out of a total possible 120,000 in the state.

Conflicting Views.

Smith will get 30 to 45 per cent. of the colored votes in Maryland, according to the Baltimore Afro-American, independent, which adds: "Hoover's lily white policy in the south, his liaison with the Klan and Coolidgean silence on campaign issues have lost him colored votes."

On the other hand, W. T. Andrews, editor of the Baltimore Herald - Commonwealth, Republican, says that Hoover will receive 60,000 of the 70,000 colored votes in Maryland.

Z. H. Bagby, editor of the Gary Sun, estimates from a survey that Smith will get 65 per cent. of the 50,000 colored votes in Indiana. In a close election, such as is expected in Indiana this year, that percentage might cost the Republicans the state.

Election day will show which of these opposing estimates is correct.

Oscar De Priest

Perry Howard

De Priest is the regular Republican candidate to succeed the late Martin Madden of Chicago in Congress. Perry Howard is the colored assistant U. S. attorney general who was indicted for trafficking in federal patronage in the south.

SOME MORE FACTS

Last week the Defender gave its readers some pertinent facts on the present political situation. Without attempting to instruct those who read this newspaper because they wish to be informed on subjects which affect them most as to how they shall vote, the Defender has pointed out to them the main issues by which every intelligent voter should govern himself. It is a service which a newspaper must render to its readers if it is to hold the confidence they place in it. It is a duty that devolves upon a newspaper by virtue of its position which makes it possible for the newspaper to come into possession of facts that are not always available to the general public.

In the last issue of the Defender, the two political parties were discussed at length. The object was to make known some facts concerning our governmental machines and the manner in which they operate. It was pointed out that time has served to alter the Republican and Democratic parties to such an extent that there is hardly a difference between the one of today and the other of yesterday, and vice versa. What the Democratic party stood for 40 years ago the Republican party stands for today, and what made the Republican party famous two score years ago characterizes the Democratic party of today.

How this state of affairs came about can be explained only by an astute student of our American society—that this is the state of affairs can hardly be disputed by the most careless politician.

We as a group are unique in America. While overtures are being made by both the Republicans and Democrats to every other group, racial or national, in this country, we remain the football of both. It is either cocksureness that prompted the Republican organization to open its campaign to drive us out of the party, or it was the great contempt for our feelings in the matter. On the other hand, the Democrats have remained Democrats throughout the campaign. That is, they have followed for the most part the pattern which our own attitude toward them justified, and which we have expected them to follow.

Again, the campaign is now in its last stages. Both the Democratic and Republican candidates have been in the South. But it was the Republican candidate who handed out the choice morsel to southern bigots by the declaration that the Republican party and the southerners to whom he was speaking had the same ideals and aspirations, while the Democratic candidate, almost at the same time, was paying tribute to Abraham Lincoln at his shrine and praying for the wisdom that guided that great Republican. He was also denouncing the Ku Klux Klan, a group that thus far has done its utmost on behalf of the Republican candidate.

The things which we have pointed out should be superficial were it not for the fact that we are so deeply concerned. Tariff, labor and prohibition are issues that will be met by either party as 118,000,000 Americans shall dictate. But the racial issue must be pushed by us and by us alone if it is to be considered. When a candidate for the presidency of the United States decides to insult and humiliate us before election, we should know what to expect if he is elected.

Facts are facts, and cannot be successfully refuted. The Defender operates on the theory that if its readers know these facts they will act for their best interest. We want our readers to weigh every act and deed well—study every issue carefully—balance the one party against the other and accept the one with less "lily-whiteism," bigotry, chicanery, intolerance and Kluxism, which are the things most inimical to our welfare. We must vote whether we care to or not, and whether we vote to our own interests depends entirely upon whether we vote sanely or sentimentally!

The Manufacturers' Record means what James Weldon Johnson said some years ago — that a "gentlemen's agreement" exists between the democratic and republican parties (and if Mr. Johnson were wide awake he would include the socialist party) —a "gentlemen's agreement" under which it is pledged that all capitalist political parties will silently co-operate to suppress every issue raised by the Negro masses against their oppression, double exploitation, segregation, lynching and disenfranchisement. This "gentlemen's agreement" tacitly includes the "reform" parties of capitalism, for in 1924 the LaFollette party followed the unwritten law in suppressing William Pickens, the Negro leader who came to appeal to its convention, and remained silent on the issues of life and death to the Negro masses. And now the socialist party which boasts of inheriting the remnants of the LaFollette movement, while putting up a few Negro speakers as a "store front," carefully abstains from demanding full social equality for the Negro masses.

And so, as far as these capitalist and these "reform" parties, which also support "American (Jim Crow) Institutions," are concerned, it is true that "the Negro is not an issue in this campaign."

But—look beyond these parties of capitalism, and you see the Communist candidate for president of the United States arrested at Wilmington while his running mate, candidate for vice-president is forcibly ejected from his meeting hall at Houston and threatened by a posse of would-be kidnappers or lynchers in Arizona—because the party of these candidates fights for a certain position on the Negro issue!

So what the Manufacturers' Record means is:

The Negro would not be an issue in this campaign except in-so-far as the Communists make the Negro an issue.

Never since the last gun was fired in the Civil War has the Negro had a political party as his champion—until the Communist Party came on the scene. To the ruling class of Texas, Arizona and Delaware, the "Negro menace" has become a reality just to the extent that the Communist Party has penetrated the South. That is why Foster is attacked by the police in Wilmington and Gitlow is attacked by police and "posses" in Texas and Arizona. The "Negro menace" becomes identified with the Communist "menace." The Workers (Communist) Party, being the revolutionary working class party, cannot but be also the party of the Negro masses. So the Southern ruling class press is screaming that the Workers (Communist) Party is "the Nigger Party." And we accept the honor with joy.

The ruling white bourgeoisie of the South wants "the white people and the Negroes" to be "left to themselves," so that they "will dwell together in amity and mutual benefit economically." But this "amity" means disenfranchisement and slavery and lynching, and the "mutual benefit economically" means the one-sided benefit of the idle exploiters and the beastly exploitation of the Negro workers and tenant farmers. By "the spirit of harmony between the races," the Southern aristocrats mean the spirit of slavery on the part of the Negro masses and the spirit of the arrogant parasite on the part of the white employers and bankers, the ruling class.

But for the Workers (Communist) Party the Negro would not be a recognized issue in this campaign. But the Workers (Communist) Party, as the party of the working class, takes up the battle for the Negro masses—and forces the issue into the campaign.

The "Negro issue" has already played a tremendous part in the history of this country, and it will play a still bigger part in the future liberation of the working class. The toiling masses, black and white, will march together through their struggles and, fighting fearlessly as equal comrades, will defeat the ruling class.

The Workers (Communist) Party is the common party of Negro and white workers alike. It alone can unite them and lead them to victory.

NEGROES PROTEST BIAS IN CAMPAIGN

'Unfair' Treatment This Year Worst Since Civil War, Their Leaders Say.

LIST HARMFUL UTTERANCES

Appeal Issued by Colored People's Association Calls for Public Repudiation of Prejudice.

A protest against race prejudice, which it is charged, has been injected into the Presidential campaign by both the Republican and Democratic parties, was made yesterday in an appeal, issued by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, for a public repudiation "of this campaign of racial hatred." The appeal is signed by leading negroes throughout the country, headed by Robert R. Moton, Principal of Tuskegee Institute; W. E. B. Du Bois, editor of The Crisis, and Dr. John Hope, President of Morehouse College.

The signers of the appeal include Republicans, Democrats and Socialists. All are "united in the solemn conviction that in the Presidential campaign of 1928, more than in previous campaigns since the Civil War, the American negro is being treated in a manner which is unfair and discouraging." The appeal warns that, "bad as religious hatred and evil personal gossip are, they have not the seeds of evil and disaster that lie in continued unlimited and unrestrained appeal to race prejudice."

The statement characterizes as "an appeal to the lowest and most primitive of human motives" the "emphasis of racial contempt and hatred which is being made in this campaign. Among the objectionable utterances of "partisans of the leading candidates" are listed the following:

"That negro voters should not be appealed to, or their support welcomed by the advocates of just causes.

"That colored persons should not hold office, no matter what their character may be nor how well they do their work nor how competently they satisfy their constituents.

"That the contact of white people and black people in government, in business, and in daily life, in common effort and cooperation, calls for explanation and apology.

"That the honesty and integrity of party organization depend on the complete removal of all negroes from voice and authority.

"That the appointment of a public official is an act which concerns only white citizens, and that colored citizens should have neither voice nor consideration in such appointments."

Let The South Beware

IT must be apparent by this time to thoughtful leaders of the South that the intolerances and prejudices both religious and racial which afflict their section have a stranglehold upon its throat, retarding its physical and spiritual development in the affairs of the Nation and the world. It is apparent to thoughtful Southern leaders who have been permitted a measure of world contact and observation that they have never been able satisfactorily to explain to enlightened Christendom these prejudices and intolerances, and for harboring them their section is embarrassed and abashed before the bar of civilized mankind.

Let the South be reminded that Northern politicians who are putting out racial rancor in this political campaign do so in relation to their estimate of the South's intelligence and social principles, believing that it is the only kind of political pap that matters in this section. They know that it is political garbage of ancient vintage, but they also understand that it is a sort of political garbage relished among the masses in the South.

Circumstances have so framed it that for many years to come much of the material development of this section will be contingent upon the peaceful relations of our dual raciality. For that reason, if no other, Southerners as a matter of self interest are morally bound to fight the racial bugaboo among themselves and to resist as impudence any attempt of Northern politicians to kick it into their territory as a political football, to stampede them into renewed racial hate with further arrests of material growth.

Political — 1928

General.

Party Affiliation

ABSENCE OF PARTY FACTOR IN GEORGIA POLITICS DEPLORED

Millard Reese Scores Lack of Partisan Unity in Address to State Bar Association.

Savannah, Ga., May 31.—(AP)—Lack of party government in Georgia has brought about a political situation in which personalities so far overshadow principles that "the election of a governor settles nothing and means nothing so far as the law-making bodies are concerned," members of the Georgia Bar association were told here today by Millard Reese, Brunswick, president.

Speaking before the annual lawyers gathering on "The Relativity of Law," the speaker termed the state of Georgia "a striking illustration of a state without party government."

"There no longer seem to be issues in Georgia, only personalities," he said. "A race for governor is between or among men who cherish the personal ambition to have the recognition and honor the office carries with it.

"A candidate makes the race as a personal undertaking, and not because he has been called as the representative of a group standing for certain principles. It follows that the election of governor settles nothing and means nothing so far as the law-making bodies are concerned.

"There is nothing akin to responsible leadership in either branch of the legislature. The only leadership is self-asserted and is developed by sheer force of personality, which, of course, may be aided by experience gained by long service.

"Pet Measure" Tactics.

"Every member of each branch is a free-lance, and may propose whatever he may care to in the way of legislation, knowing that if he can make himself popular enough or useful enough, can assist enough other members in getting through their pet measures, he has a good chance of getting his own pet measure or measures passed.

"From time to time loosely organized blocks may develop, for instance among the members who have state-supported institutions in their respective communities. But after these have cooperated on the particular measure or measures which bring them together, their community of interest ceases. There is no organized party to take a position on any question of general interest or importance, to see that measures are well considered and are drafted by competent persons and if passed would effect the purpose intended, and to see that any bill offered without the sanction and approval of the party leaders never comes up for passage.

"On the other hand there is no organized opposition, always objecting and protesting, to see that full discussion is had on every important measure, to raise the question of its wisdom, to point out its defects, to show that its probable consequences are not those claimed by its advocates.

"I have known the Georgia legislature fairly well for about 20 years. It is a body of representative men, of more than average intelligence and of better than average character—a cross-section of the state's better citizenry. When I consider the severe handicaps under which it works, I give it as my calm and deliberate opinion that the wonder is that it accomplishes as much of real value as it does."

The speaker declared the opinion that the failure of state legislatures to enact needed laws in reform of legal procedure is due in large part to the indifference of lawyer-members of the assemblies, whose interest in such reform, he said, is not generally as keen as that manifested by private parties in measures touching their interests.

With reference to poorly prepared laws he said "Loosely drawn, poorly expressed, inaptly stated, awkwardly framed statutes and decisions are responsible for no little confusion in our laws."

Dealing with the merits and demerits of the jury system, the speaker declared that "with all its faults and weaknesses—and it has many—the jury system is the best approach to a solution that has been found." One refinement suggested was that of doing away with the general verdict in civil cases, and substitution of the plan of framing questions for the jury to answer, under simple instructions, with the judge applying the law to the facts so found.

Discussing further the merits and faults of the jury system, the speaker declared:

"In small places improper elements, arising from personal, family or business relations between parties and their counsel on the one hand, and jurors on the other, find their way into the jury box and are bound to continue so to do. In the larger places, aye, even in the nation's capital, worse things occur. Oil-man Sinclair, on trial for conspiring with former Cabinet Member Fall to defraud their government, and charged with having besmirched the executive arm of the government, proceeds through Detective Burns to practice espionage upon his peers serving as jurors in his case, apparently with the intention of debauching the judicial arm of the government through his bribe-giving.

"My words are carefully considered and weighed when I say that I never have known of a more superlative instance of arrogant insolence, of a more outrageous flaunting of contempt toward the government and the courts of the United States than Sinclair and his hirelings have been guilty of.

"But in spite of such occurrences I still believe that the system of jury trial, weak and defective as it is, is the best system yet devised or suggested for the settling of disputed facts in a large proportion of cases."

Believes Laws Are Just.

In conclusion, Mr. Reese said:

"A growing country such as America has been since colonial days could not have made the wonderful strides in peaceful pursuits of all kinds that have been made if her system of jurisprudence had been fundamentally bad. A growing state such as the state of Georgia has been since the dawn of the new day after the dark night of war and the darker night of reconstruction, could not have shown the quickening response to progress and civic improvement that has been shown if her system of law was fundamentally defective, or if her administration of law was weak or vicious.

"That there are inherent defects and deficiencies in man's conception of law, in his enactment of law, in his construction of law and in his administration of law, necessarily is true; that many curable defects and deficiencies and excrescences exist all of us who know are ready to concede, but it also is true that upon the whole our laws are wise and our administration of law is fair and just."

A brief business program in the morning and a boat ride down the Savannah river to the Atlantic ocean in the afternoon and evening, featured the opening program today of the three day session of the association. Announcement was made of more than fifty new members who have been elected to the association.

Tomorrow's session will be featured by discussion of the report on the incorporation of the bar, which will be explained by Judge Orville Park of Macon. Joseph A. Crook, of Savannah, will lead the opposition to making the bar a self governing body. A vote on adoption or rejection will be taken after the discussion.

Reports of standing committees and addresses by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, Fulton superior court; Hon. Marcus W. Beck, presiding justice of the Georgia superior court; and Judge Roscoe Luke, of the court of appeals, also will be heard. Hon. Finis J. Garrett, minority leader of the house, will make the principal address at the annual banquet which will be inaugurated tomorrow night.

THE PEOPLE MAKE THE ISSUES

Whoever says that one party is going to fight out the 1928 campaign with tariff as the issue, forgets that the people are going to talk about just what suits them—prohibition, farm aid, Nicaragua or anything else that pleases them, except tariff. Once upon a time, "infant industries" was a potent political battle cry. But with the United States lending money abroad "infant industries" is to laugh. Even the democratic platform could be used by the republicans, so much are the two parties committed to protection today. Call 5-13-28

But Nicaragua rises to shame the American conscience; liquor will not down and stay down; farmers are sure they get too little return; these are issues and no convenience of party managers is going to shift the people away from them. It is this sort of insistence on matters that interest which we keep urging on Negroes. We share all the general issues, of course. And then we have the special ones. No one else will fight our battles. We must fight them ourselves. By hook or crook, we must get what we want talked about. If the talking does not lead to anything we have lost nothing. On the other hand, if we ever get what we want, it must first be talked about.

Negroes who are so fearful that they will be counted race conscious if they speak out, need to look about at other people. The farmer speaks for the farmer, and does not care a hoot if transportation and manufacturing are content. A certain self-interest is expected and understood. Now, when issues in the 1928 campaign are flux, is our time.

REPUBLICANISM VS. DEMOCRACY

This is presidential year, and the two great parties, the Republican and the Democrat, have held session and selected their standard bearers for the November election. They have written the party platform and the outstanding planks in each one is said to be on the liquar question as defined by the Eighteenth Amendment, but no matter what the party leaders may say, and political heads may write, this great nation of ours has come to the point where the Constitution is to be properly interpreted.

At last there is to be a decision, not on the issue of religious tolerance, neither whether this country should be wet or dry, BUT the most vital question in the world that has never yet been properly settled, which is whether this great nation is a strong and potential central government with each state subordinate to the sovereignty of the Union, or whether the states are sovereign unto themselves. It is a clearly defined issue upon "STATE RIGHTS," and the Republican party, according to its principles, could not do otherwise than stand for the full enforcement of the law according to the Constitution and its amendments, while the Democrats, in making the campaign upon a wet issue, are simply following out the principles of their party, the rights of each state to deal with the conditions within its own borders and make laws to govern the same without interference from the Union.

We are again facing the same situation that confronted us in the election of Abraham Lincoln, and the same issues are before the voters of this great country, and if Al Smith, nominee of the Democratic party, is elected to the office of Chief Executive of this nation, it will be upon the votes cast by a majority of the American voters, who will by a casting of such ballots declare themselves in favor of states' rights.

The Republican party must again save the Union in order to save themselves, and it is up to the leaders to lay down a campaign in such a manner that it will inspire the confidence of all of its old adherents and supporters to the point that when Herbert Hoover is elected he will become the president of all the people and utilize his good office for the full enforcement of the Constitution and its nineteen amendments.

CONSTITUTION
ATLANTA, GA.

JUL 17 1928

White Republican Leader Attacking Negro Leadership Holds Democrats Responsible

Cedartown, Ga., July 16.—(Special.)—Charles Adamson, prominent cotton mill manufacturer of Cedartown, who for the past several years has been conspicuously identified with the movement to establish a white republican party in Georgia, in a statement just issued deals sharply with the present republican organization in Georgia headed by Ben Davis and praises Senator Harris and Senator George for what they have done in the effort to stop "the bleeding of postmasters, rural carriers and other federal appointees."

He terms the fear of negro domination, however, a "bugaboo" and calls for a break in the democratic party ranks to Mr. Hoover and the republican organization.

Mr. Adamson says.

"For nearly 40 years I have been working for the building of Cedartown and for Georgia.

"Living in Georgia has taught me, as nothing before, to be a citizen of the United States of North America, and not merely a party man or a citizen of any particular state.

"I am much opposed to any unfit set of men having the distribution of the patronage of any state (for instance Tammany in New York). Furthermore, there is no man living in Georgia today, or for that matter in any southern state, who has the slightest fear of negro domination. Out of 44,144 votes cast in Georgia at the time of Harding's election there were only 1,700 colored votes.

"With the white primary, the grandfather's clause, etc., etc., the negro, be he republican, democratic or independent, is practically disfranchised in the southern states and it is my belief that he is used simply as a straw man to overcome the growing discontent within the democratic party and the rules of that party by showing the picture of Henry Lincoln Johnson or Ben Davis, with the question: 'Would you vote for a negro?'

"Party rules made 60 or 65 years ago were probably necessary at that time but not now. These rules have resulted in keeping the dominant party in the southern states in power with the consequent detriment to the growth of their states, particularly Georgia.

Today there is a minimum of votes at a general election and a nomination in a white primary is tantamount to an election.

"I attended a state convention of the republican party about eight years ago. We had permission to hold our meeting in the house of representatives in Atlanta. The bulk of the delegates were in the hall at 10 o'clock waiting for the meeting at high noon.

"The doorkeeper had instructions not to allow anyone to enter who did not present his credentials as a properly elected delegate. The police came and ordered the doors opened to the public, with the result that 200 or 300 colored men of Atlanta, headed by Henry Lincoln Johnson, came in singing and raising Cain. The orders to open the doors to the public could only have been given under direction of the state authorities—as they were.

"At another state convention of the republican party Ben Davis had two city policemen stationed at the gate, the entrance to the hall where the meeting was to be held, with instructions not to let anyone in who did not present a blue ticket issued by Ben Davis. Could he have made these policemen obey his orders without orders to the policemen from the city authorities?

"It was the democratic state and city authorities that gave these orders in both cases which came under my own personal observation.

"Why persist in holding up the negro bugaboo to the public of Georgia when he is to all intents and purposes disfranchised?

"Senator Harris and Senator George are doing magnificent work in stopping the bleeding of postmasters, rural carriers and other federal appointees.

"In doing this they are helping to clean up the so-called republican state committee for which they have my unqualified thanks.

"The Atlanta Constitution of July 10 states that the indexed cards of John Martin showed that the money paid by postmasters went into the state republican treasury. The testimony which I heard, I respectfully submit, did not say this. It went to pay salaries to Ben Davis, John Martin and others.

"I again quote from The Constitution: 'Davis being asked by Senator Harris how much money he had sent to the republican national committee, replied that he had sent none; all his funds were disbursed in the state,' I say to himself, Martin and others, as Martin testified.

"With the exception of the four-year periods, when a republican or democratic convention is to be held, the so-called republican state committee of Georgia does not function—excepting to make postmasters, rural carriers and other federal appointees of the government contribute, if possible, to furnish salaries for whoever is supposed to be the distributors of federal patronage.

"I maintain and insist that the democrats back these men as before stated for the purpose of making believe that the republican party is under the domination of the negro and thereby preventing any break in the democratic ranks.

"Lastly, since the republican convention in Kansas City, there is no republican national committeeman, white or colored, and no national committeewoman, white or colored. Since that convention there is no chairman of the so-called central committee. The only possible officer remaining is the so-called treasurer, and he won't last much longer to enjoy the emoluments of the office after the members of the investigating committee or any one of them reach Washington.

"Therefore, let the coming campaign be conducted without straw figures to knock down or without rancor or animosity. Let us consider only what is best for our state and our beloved country."

Thinks Negro Will Get Social Equality if Democrats Bolt

The following letter taken from the Birmingham News of July 8th, indicates the optimism prevalent in the East where the few Hoover supporters believe that if he is elected the negroes of the South will immediately be placed on social equality with the whites. The letter follows:

A LETTER TO THE REV. DR. PATTERSON

Editor of the Birmingham News:

The following letter has been mailed to the Rev. L. D. Patterson, of Birmingham by G. W. Gaines of Brooklyn N. Y.:

Rev. L. D. Patterson, Pastor South Avondale Methodist Church, South Birmingham, Ala.:

Reverend Sir—It was with a deep feeling of gratification that I read in the press dispatches last week that you, along with many of your Southern brethren of the ministry, have decided to cast off the yoke of Democracy and vote for the Hon. Herbert Hoover for president of the United States. This step will prove the opening wedge in establishing equality for the people of all classes in the South, which will be brought about by breaking what is called the solid South.

I assume that this has all been figured out to a mathematical nicety. And it bespeaks much for the splendid Christian character of you and your Christian associates that you have the courage to openly advocate this step. Of course you understand that I refer to the 15th and 14th amndments of the constitution, so long flouted by the people of your section.

The breaking of the solid South, of course, will pave the way for a strict enforcement of these two amendments, thus insuring civil and political equality for the people of the colored race. They will at least be accorded equal rights in hotels, restaurants, railway coaches, street cars, theaters, churches, in business life and in professions.

It is glorious to reflect that when this shall have been accomplished we shall have taken one more step toward the coming of the millennium.

G. W. GAINES.

Brooklyn, N. Y. July 3, 1928.

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.

General

Friday, August 17, 1928

NEGROES PLAN TO HAVE OWN PARTY TICKET

Republicans And Democrats Scrap Over Large Colored Vote.

(Copyright, 1928, Consolidated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 16.—Another unique note was added to this campaign this week when it became known here that in all probability a "negro race ticket" for president and vice president of the United States would be named next week in Chicago by a convention representing almost half a million colored men and women. The delegates to the convention are expected to number more than three thousand.

The organization which they will represent is the Independent Order of Elks, one of the two great fraternal orders existing among colored people.

The Grand Attorney of the Independent Order of Elks, now contemplating this entry into national politics by the negro race as a race, is the nationally known character, Perry Howard. Howard is Republican national committeeman from the state of Mississippi. He has been an assistant attorney general of the United States. He is under suspension from that post because of having been federally indicted in Mississippi on charges of selling federal offices.

His indictment has been widely attacked in the negro press on the ground of "discrimination." White men, it is said, who are equally guilty of selling federal offices have remained "unmolested" while Howard, being a negro, has been "persecuted." Therefore, Howard as "grand attorney" of the Independent Order of Elks will be portrayed to the convention at Chicago as a "race martyr."

850,000 Negro Voters

The Howard affair is one of hundreds—or even thousands—of incidents and situations which have been currently exploited in the negro press and in the negro pulpit as alleged proofs of "intolerable hostility" to the negro by political parties.

The total number of negro voters—who not merely exist but who actually voted—in the close and doubtful states of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, and Oklahoma is responsibly estimated this year to exceed eight hundred and fifty thousand. In each of the states the colored ballot is a conceivably decisive factor.

In these circumstances unprecedented efforts are being made by both Republicans and Democrats to gain or regain possession of that factor and to prevent the formation of a special independent "negro race party."

A new "negro national democratic league" has been organized which has penetrated even into Arkansas where at Little Rock not long ago a local branch of two hundred and fifty negroes was formed to support Governor Smith's candidacy. William McDonald (more distinctively known as "gooseneck Bill") a veteran negro leader of Republicanism in Texas, has announced his defection from Hoover and his transfer of his allegiance to Smith.

Dispute Rages

Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom of the Afro-American Methodist Episcopal Church has preached to the effect that "Smith is more promising to the negroes than Hoover." John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has authorized earnest Democratic speaking campaigns in negro quarters. Ferdinand N. Morton, a negro member of the New York City civil service commission has traversed many states expounding in detail the recognition given to negroes in New York municipal offices by Tammany Hall.

The Republicans are countering by asserting that the recognition given to negroes in New York City by Tammany Hall has not been duplicated by Governor Smith in the state capitol at Albany. They allege that Smith himself at Albany has given to negroes no recognition at all. They also dwell upon the chicken wired cage in which negro spectators in the gallery of the Democratic national convention at Houston were "segregated," and "Jim Crowed." Their tone is pitched on the general theme of a recent editorial in the "Herald and Commonwealth," of Baltimore, a negro weekly which declares that Smith would turn the negro over to the Robinsons, the Bleases, the Heflins and the other demagogues of the South who delight to bellow "nigger" on the floor of the United States Senate.

With both parties thus determined to capture the negro vote of the northern states and of the border states, it remains to be seen if the negroes who will meet in Chicago next week will be able to escape long enough to establish a party of their own.

The "National Negro Party" Scare

Midsummer in Presidential Campaign years is always the full season for political alarmists and scare-crows. It is the full tide of opportunity for all those who think themselves out to batter their way in. This is true of every group and of every faction of every group. This is part of our political system. It is the warp and woof of political finesse and strategy. Every community and every state has its political lunatics, striving might and main to disrupt the established order of things. We must differentiate between those who have a rightful claim for consideration to represent causes which demand a hearing, who have in their hearts the wrongs of people that must be redressed. The need of colored people this country over, within the Republican party, within the Democratic party, the Socialist party and the Communist party is to speak out loud and bold and demand a square deal not only in the division of the spoils but even in the deal itself. Unless they can be satisfied that their parties are proceeding under the proper principles and are cognizant of their cause, they have no hope when the issue is settled at election that this issue will be settled right. We are at a loss to understand the occasion for the threatened bolt of J. Finley Wilson and his following among the Order of Elks. Exalted Ruler Wilson we can assure his many friends has not been left out of the equation. The vital service that he can and must render to the Republican party has all along been recognized. Fearless and progressive and popular as is no other fraternal leader of his race, his is a force to be reckoned with and respected. We do not believe that Mr. Wilson gave the ultimatum to the National Republican Committee as it has been stated that he must either run the campaign among colored people or nothing. Mr. Wilson's convictions are far too strong as to the necessity of the Democratic party being routed in November. He is too well aware of the danger that lies in Democratic success to attempt to throw a monkey wrench in the brakes of his race's and his country's progress at this time. We cannot believe that in the wildest dreams he could conceive of a National Negro Party with himself nominated as President and with other alleged disgruntled leaders as candidates for minor political offices could either be effective strategy or common sense procedure. The need now is for all leaders as well as laymen to unite in a solid militant phalanx to move forward along progressive lines to the end that the Republican Party when elected must appreciate the vital help their race has rendered and must accept their program for a square deal as entitled not only to respect but adoption. We are no less insistent that the party respect the claims of those whom Mr. Wilson represents than he is, that those claims be respected. In the race's discord lies its danger, in the union lies its peace and progress.

POLITICAL PERPLEXITIES

Republicans will spend quite as much in an effort to hold the Northern Negro vote. One thing at least is certain: Negroes are experiencing a change of political faith. They are neither adhering religiously to the Republican Party, as of yore, nor are they rushing head first into the Democratic Party. They are beginning to see politics more realistically and to demand concrete rewards rather than vague promises. It is this critical attitude that is proving rather perplexing to the general staffs of both parties; and it is precisely this spirit of independence that may win greater consideration for Negroes everywhere. No politician can say exactly how any section, except the bigotry belts of the far South, is going to vote this year, nor can he swear that any person, black or white, will vote thus and so. With this wave of political independence among the voters of the country, it is rather unfortunate that the opportunity for expression on real issues of vital importance to the future of the nation is lost in vague talk of Wet and Dry.

FOR the first time in many years the leaders of the two dominant political parties are confronted with many perplexities. Not a day passes but reports drift in telling of the desertion of this or that notable personage to the opposite political group. Each day newspapers bring reports of disaffection in territory which has hitherto been considered "solid" for either the Democrats or the Republicans. The staffs of both Hoover managers are making a pendence to dent in the Solid South while the Smith men, alarmed over the everywhere possibility of losing some of the border states, pour more money except the and propaganda into that section than is customary. The farm year, nor belt, an erstwhile Republican stronghold, is sounding the drums vote thus of revolt, while promises of a large Republican vote come from sweeping the disgruntled "Dry" districts of Virginia, North Carolina that the and Texas. Nobody seems to be "staying put," and it is this portance wave of political independence and insurgency that is perplexing the master minds of the two old parties.

Nor is this spirit of revolt restricted only to white citizens. Sufficient insurgency has been manifested by Negroes to cause the Democratic Party to spend large sums to swing black citizens over to Smith, the Democrats are making a greater effort than ever before to win the support of Northern Negroes. There are, on the other hand, evidences that the

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.

General

Friday, August 17, 1928

NEGROES PLAN TO HAVE OWN PARTY TICKET

Republicans And Democrats Scrap Over Large Colored Vote.

(Copyright, 1928, Consolidated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 16.—Another unique note was added to this campaign this week when it became known here that in all probability a "negro race ticket" for president and vice president of the United States would be named next week in Chicago by a convention representing almost half a million colored men and women. The delegates to the convention are expected to number more than three thousand.

The organization which they will represent is the Independent Order of Elks, one of the two great fraternal orders existing among colored people.

The Grand Attorney of the Independent Order of Elks, now contemplating this entry into national politics by the negro race as a race, is the nationally known character, Perry Howard. Howard is Republican national committeeman from the state of Mississippi. He has been an assistant attorney general of the United States. He is under suspension from that post because of having been federally indicted in Mississippi on charges of selling federal offices.

His indictment has been widely attacked in the negro press on the ground of "discrimination." White men, it is said, who are equally guilty of selling federal offices have remained "unmolested" while Howard, being a negro, has been "persecuted." Therefore, Howard as "grand attorney" of the Independent Order of Elks will be portrayed to the convention at Chicago as a "race martyr."

850,000 Negro Voters

The Howard affair is one of hundreds—or even thousands—of incidents and situations which have been currently exploited in the negro press and in the negro pulpit as alleged proofs of "intolerable hostility" to the negro by political parties.

The total number of negro voters—who not merely exist but who actually voted—in the close and doubtful states of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, and Oklahoma is responsibly estimated this year to exceed eight hundred and fifty thousand. In each of the states the colored ballot is a conceivably decisive factor.

In these circumstances unprecedented efforts are being made by both Republicans and Democrats to gain or regain possession of that factor and to prevent the formation of a special independent "negro race party."

A new "negro national democratic league" has been organized which has penetrated even into Arkansas where at Little Rock not long ago a local branch of two hundred and fifty negroes was formed to support Governor Smith's candidacy. William McDonald (more distinctively known as "gooseneck Bill") a veteran negro leader of Republicanism in Texas, has announced his defection from Hoover and his transfer of his allegiance to Smith.

Dispute Rages

Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom of the Afro-American Methodist Episcopal Church has preached to the effect that "Smith is more promising to the negroes than Hoover." John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has authorized earnest Democratic speaking campaigns in negro quarters. Ferdinand N. Morton, a negro member of the New York City civil service commission has traversed many states expounding in detail the recognition given to negroes in New York municipal offices by Tammany Hall.

The Republicans are countering by asserting that the recognition given to negroes in New York City by Tammany Hall has not been duplicated by Governor Smith in the state capitol at Albany. They allege that Smith himself at Albany has given to negroes no recognition at all. They also dwell upon the chicken wired cage in which negro spectators in the gallery of the Democratic national convention at Houston were "segregated," and "Jim Crowed." Their tone is pitched on the general theme of a recent editorial in the "Herald and Commonwealth," of Baltimore, a negro weekly which declares that Smith would turn the negro over to the Robinsons, the Bleases, the Heflins and the other demagogues of the South who delight to bellow "nigger" on the floor of the United States Senate.

With both parties thus determined to capture the negro vote of the northern states and of the border states, it remains to be seen if the negroes who will meet in Chicago next week will be able to escape long enough to establish a party of their own.

The "National Negro Party" Scare

Midsummer in Presidential Campaign years is always the full season for political alarmists and scare-crows. It is the full tide of opportunity for all those who think themselves out to batter their way in. This is true of every group and of every faction of every group. This is part of our political system. It is the warp and woof of political finesse and strategy. Every community and every state has its political lunatics striving might and main to disrupt the established order of things. We must differentiate between those who have a rightful claim for consideration to represent causes which demand a hearing, who have in their hearts the wrongs of people that must be redressed. The need of colored people this country over, within the Republican party, within the Democratic party, the Socialist party and the Communist party is to speak out loud and bold and demand a square deal not only in the division of the spoils but even in the deal itself. Unless they can be satisfied that their parties are proceeding under the proper principles and are cognizant of their cause, they have no hope when the issue is settled at election that this issue will be settled right. We are at a loss to understand the occasion for the threatened bolt of J. Finley Wilson and his following among the Order of Elks. Exalted Ruler Wilson we can assure his many friends has not been left out of the equation. The vital service that he can and must render to the Republican party has all along been recognized. Fearless and progressive and popular as is no other fraternal leader of his race, his is a force to be reckoned with and respected. We do not believe that Mr. Wilson gave the ultimatum to the National Republican Committee as it has been stated that he must either run the campaign among colored people or nothing. Mr. Wilson's convictions are far too strong as to the necessity of the Democratic party being routed in November. He is too well aware of the danger that lies in Democratic success to attempt to throw a monkey wrench in the brakes of his race's and his country's progress at this time. We cannot believe that in the wildest dreams he could conceive of a National Negro Party with himself nominated as President and with other alleged disgruntled leaders as candidates for minor political offices could either be effective strategy or common sense procedure. The need now is for all leaders as well as laymen to unite in a solid militant phalanx to move forward along progressive lines to the end that the Republican Party when elected must appreciate the vital help their race has rendered and must accept their program for a square deal as entitled not only to respect but adoption. We are no less insistent that the party respect the claims of those whom Mr. Wilson represents that he is, that those claims be respected. In the race's discord lies its danger, in the union lies its peace and progress.

POLITICAL PERPLEXITIES

FOR the first time in many years the leaders of the two dominant political parties are confronted with many perplexities. Not a day passes but reports drift in telling are they are experiencing a change of political faith. They are neither of the desertion of this or that notable personage to the opposite political group. Each day reports of concrete rewards rather than vague promises. It is this critical attitude that is proving rather perplexing to the general disaffection in territory which has hitherto been considered religiously to the Republican Party, as of yore, nor "solid" for either the Democrats or the Republicans. The staffs of both parties; and it is precisely this spirit of independence that may win greater consideration for Negroes Hoover managers speculate over the possibility of making a beginning to see politics more realistically and to demand pendence that may win greater consideration for Negroes dent in the Solid South while the Smith men, alarmed over the everywhere. No politician can say exactly how any section possibility of losing some of the border states, pour more money except the bigotry belts of the far South, is going to vote this and propaganda into that section than is customary. The farm year, nor can he swear that any person, black or white, will belt, an erstwhile Republican stronghold, is sounding the drums vote thus and so. With this wave of political independence of revolt, while promises of a large Republican vote come from sweeping the voters of the country, it is rather unfortunate the disgruntled "Dry" districts of Virginia, North Carolina that the opportunity for expression on real issues of vital importance to the future of the nation is lost in vague talk of and Texas. Nobody seems to be "staying put," and it is this wave of political independence and insurgency that is perplexing the master minds of the two old parties. Wet and Dry.

Nor is this spirit of revolt restricted only to white citizens. Sufficient insurgency has been manifested by Negroes to cause the Democratic Party to spend large sums to swing black citizens over to Smith, the Democrats are making a greater effort than ever before to win the support of Northern Negroes. There are, on the other hand, evidences that the Republicans will spend quite as much in an effort to hold the Northern Negro vote. One thing at least is certain: Negroes

ONE NECESSARY POLITICAL STEP

THE country is in the midst of one of its greatest political campaigns and Negro voters, in the excitement of the main struggle between Smith and Hoover, are apt to forget that for them there are more important considerations Whether the Democrats or Republicans direct the administration of the country for the next four years is admittedly important, but electing Negro Congressmen from New York, Chicago and St. Louis is much more so. Whatever party gets control of the Federal Government, there are likely to be a few minor appointments given to Negroes prominent in this campaign on either side, none of which can possibly approximate a Congressman in importance. Our group is badly in need of sincere champions and spokesmen in Congress. The white men who have come from districts largely populated by Negroes have, even in the best of cases, only half-heartedly spoken up for the black man. And when they have done so there has often been a suspicion that the expressions have found their source in cold calculation rather than in warm sympathy bred of knowledge and understanding.

So the one necessary political step of Negroes in this campaign, where possible, is to support some Negro candidate for Congress, no matter on what party ticket he is running. As was stated, it is a simple matter for Negroes to do this in St. Louis, Chicago and New York. It is also not unlikely that in some other communities Negroes hold the balance of power and by unifying their forces may be able to dictate nominations, at least for aldermanic and state legislative offices. Naturally this cannot be done unless Negroes vote. Wherever they can vote, what excuse is there for them if they do not vote? If Negroes were as zealous about voting in political campaigns as they are in fraternal meetings and conventions, there would probably be three or four times more Negroes than there are in the various state legislatures and at least three Negroes in Congress.

This accordingly introduces consideration of the Negro woman voter. It will be readily conceded that she has not taken full advantage of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution. There are tens of thousands of Negro women in the North, East and West who are now eligible to vote. but do not vote. Here is a job for the women's clubs and fraternities. Voting is not merely a right; it is a duty and a solemn one at that. It is easy to see what effect the entrance in force of Negro women into politics would have in spurring up the non-voting males of our group. With the full force of all male and female voters of our group, in every sizeable community where they are permitted to vote, behind some Negro candidate, we ought to have a much greater representation politically after the next election. It must always be kept in mind that one black man in a legislative chamber is worth a half dozen friendly whites, and exceeds the value of ten tons of propaganda.

THE POLITICAL DILEMMA.

From reports the country over the Negro faces conditions that have no parallel in his existence as citizens. Shall he support the Republicans or the Democrats is the question that is receiving his most thoughtful attention. It is a fact that all the advantages he possesses as citizens have come from Republicans, while all the laws which seek to humiliate and set him apart as a pariah have come from the Democrats. But the advantages given came from the Republicans of another day. The only difference between the present day Republican and Democrat is the one is hypocritical and the other open.

Politically the Democrats owe the Negro nothing and if he gets nothing from its, nothing is lost. On the other hand, the Republicans have always received his most loyal support and for that, what does he get but a deal of pre-election promises? No wonder, thousands of colored voters are pondering the question as ot whether it might not be the part of wisdom to support the Democrats, and if they win with his support, they may change their attitude. Certainly the Republicans would receive a jolt which would wake them out of their complacency. Parties want to win and if the Democrats were to win by reason of colored votes, they would not be such fools as not to be considerate enough to cultivate that support. For once they would owe the colored voter something. Under such a happening, the Republicans would realize that no longer is the Negro the trusting, believing thing that he has all too long been. Future political contests would see a different attitude toward the colored man. Nor can there be any doubt but that greater consideration would be given him in his every day existence. That it's a bad habit to become wedded to any party simply because one's ancestors were so inclined is seen by the practice of both the Negro and the South, the one Republican and the other Democratic and not much attention given to either by their respective parties. But will the colored man dare? Aught he? No wonder, there is such a diversity of opinion. Much is involved in whatever decision the voters finally make

THE NEGRO IN POLITICS—

Before we go any further, let's get one item in the day's chatter straightened out. In the North the negro is in politics in both the Democratic and the Republican parties. In the South the negro is in politics only in the Republican party. Above the Mason and Dixon Line, and in the West, Democrats vie with the Republicans for the colored vote. In the South in the Democratic party the negro is, to all intents and purposes, effectively disfranchised. In the South he is traditionally Republican. In the Republican party in the South the negro occupies most of the high places, does most of the wire pulling, garners most of the graft.

Northern Democrats respect the South's attitude toward the negro. Northern Republicans do not. Up to the present time the Republicans haven't made a great many negro appointments in the South, but they have permitted the negro to name appointees. We have no negro postmasters in Georgia, Alabama or Mississippi for the very good and sole reason that negroes do not dare to accept such appointments, not because Republican politicians would not make them. But recent investigations in Georgia and Mississippi show that negroes do dictate post-office appointments and extort blood money from postal employees.

Most of us know that no such plan as this could operate under a Democratic regime. We also know that this state of affairs is not getting better, but threatens to grow worse under the continued Republican regime. Mr. Hoover sees no reason why white Democrats in the South should be pampered by any concessions to their racial prjudices. Mr. Hoover and his wealthy associates in the North and West do not come in contact with the Northern negro. Nor do the residents of California, Mr. Hoover's home State, see much of the negro, although California has dealt more rigidly with the Japanese, a race superior in most respects to the African, than the South has with the negro. Mr. Hoover's wealth and position draw the racial line for him in so far as he is concerned personally. Why should he give heed to a problem in the Far South other than to make the most of it politically? It is a law in politics that the faithful shall be rewarded, and Mr. Hoover knows that the only way the Republican party can be held together in the South is by giving a large share of the patronage to the negro.

Democratic administrations do not try to pass force and anti-lynch bills. Only five years ago Senator Underwood had to resort to the filibuster to defeat a Republican force bill. Senator Lodge's pet political measure, when he was not expending his energies hating Woodrow Wilson, was a federal law which would send the federal army into the South on election days to take charge at the polls. The Democratic party believes that individual Southern States can handle the lynching problem, but not so with the Republicans. They are on record in their 1928 platform as demanding a negro-inspired federal law which would place the liberty and property of Southern citizens under the control of federal courts. It would be within the authority of President Hoover to appoint negro lawyers to federal court benches in the South.

The Wiregrass Farmer repeats that it is not concerned particularly with what is done about the negro question in the North. We don't live up there, where only the poorer classes of white people are brought into contact with the negro, anyway. We know—it seems childish to make this reiteration—that the Northern Democrat and the Southern Democrat are in hearty agreement as to the place the negro shall occupy in the South. And we know further that the Republican party knows no race distinction, in so far as the masses are concerned, North or South. It seems a futile thing to reiterate this knowledge common to us all.

How a few disaffected preachers, who themselves drew the color line a few years ago when unification of the Methodist churches North and South as rejected—how these Methodist preachers, allied as they are with a politico-fraternal order which rests its appeal somewhat, we believe, upon white supremaacy—how this combine can urge us to jump our ticket and vote for a broadening and a widening of the negro's influence in the South—we repeat that we don't see either the consistency or the plain commonsense of any such program

DIVISION OF BEHAVIORAL SCIENCE RESEARCH

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

General.

WHAT SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS WHO VOTE REPUBLICAN MUST FORGET

Let Democrats of Dothan and the Wiregrass who say they intend to vote for Hoover read the following bit of historical musing from The Albany Herald before they actually mark their tickets:

"When the Civil War ended it was uncertain what the political attitude of the South would be on national issues. There were many white Republicans in this section, and there were almost as many Democrats as Republicans in the North. Had Pres. Lincoln lived to complete his second term, his policy of conciliation—his earnest, honest desire to heal the wounds his country had suffered and bring the sections together as he longed to do—would have spared the states that had formed the Confederacy the lingering horrors of Reconstruction.

"For the Republican party, through its full control of the federal government delivered the South to its tormentors to be pillaged and plundered, to be humiliated and degraded, to have its leaders imprisoned and threatened with death.

"The carpetbag regime was the darkest period of Southern history. The Southern states were denied representation in the government of which they had been forced to remain a part. Federal bayonets bristled in every Southern capital and hundreds of other Southern communities. Negroes filled our legislative assemblies, and in some of the states were even placed on the bench—ignorant ex-slaves who had no more conception of what they were supposed to be doing than did their infant children.

"Presiding over the degradation of the South were the Republican party's representatives—men who invaded the South not while war was raging but after the flags of the Confederacy had been furled. They came to superintend the "putting of black heels on white necks." Backed by federal bayonets, they took charge of the public offices, looted state treasuries, intimidated Democrats who were politically active, and announced it as the settled policy of their party to keep the South under Republican rule—which meant Negro rule—for all future time.

"In the halls of Congress that attitude of the Republican party toward the South was repeatedly proclaimed. President Johnson, a Southern-born Republican, struggled vainly to have the South spared the horrors he foresaw. He vetoed numerous measures designed to prevent the white people of the South from participating in the reconstruction of their own state governments, only to have his vetoes overriden. The white voters of the South were disfranchised. Their state governments were turned over to Republican carpetbaggers from the North and ignorant ex-slaves who had been clothed with full privileges of citizenship. Strenuous efforts to enforce social equality between the races were made in every Southern state. Governor Jenkins, of Georgia, was removed from office for opposing the Republican party's harsh and humiliating measures of Reconstruction in this state, and Governor Humphreys, of Mississippi, suffered a similar fate. Men accused of civil crimes were tried before military tribunals, federal bayonets bristled all over the South, and the Southern white man who challenged the shameful order imposed by the Republican party did so at peril of his liberty, or even his life.

"For ten years the South fought for its freedom—fought to restore the government of Southern states to white control; fought to establish once and forever the racial integrity and social supremacy of the white man in a white man's land; fought to make white civilization safe where the white man had planted and nourished it.

"Then, when in 1876 the Democrats elected Samuel J. Tilden to the presidency, the Republican party, through as shameful a manipulation of partisan advantages as ever disgraced a civilized government, stole enough electoral votes, including those of South Carolina, Louisiana and Florida, to give Rutherford B. Hayes, the Republican candidate, a majority of one in the electoral college.

"Why? Because the South had been made solidly Democratic by the Reconstruction policy of the Republican party, and the Republican North was unwilling to permit the party to which the South had turned for help and sympathy, in the years of its nominee in the White House!

"The attitude of the Republican party toward the South has never changed. It is today as it was from 1865 to 1876. The white man controls in the South today simply because he fought his political oppressors till they wearied of the struggle realizing that the spirit of independence—the spirit of states' rights—could never be conquered in the men who had followed Lee and Jackson and Gordon, and in their sons.

"These are the things a Southern Democrat must forget, must ignore, when he votes the Republican ticket in a national election.

"We can't do it."

POLITICAL LIBERTY, PLEASE !

PERHAPS few people of all the world plead for Liberty quite as much as does the colored American. He wants liberty of action, liberty of speech, liberty of this and liberty of that. He wants to be free to do and to act as he pleases. He resents any interference of his liberty—so much loved and so much sought.

But he has such peculiar notions about liberty. It seems almost racial with him to want liberty, freedom and a free course, until a political campaign breaks upon the country. As soon as a national campaign breaks, the Negro begins to forget liberty. He immediately calls for bondage, political bondage. He gets mad, loses his reason and throws one fit after another if he thinks a single Negro reserves the right to make a political decision. There is no such thing as liberty when it comes to politics, he thinks.

Leaders, or would-be leaders, rise up and begin to froth at the mouth about partisan politics and candidates. It is almost dangerous for any Negro to assert any independence. If white people divide in politics, that is regular and quite proper. But if Negroes talk of dividing, then the leaders begin to call them fools, idiots and other vile names. If the Negro is to listen to some leaders, he can vote neither the Democratic ticket nor the Republican ticket. He must do absolutely nothing, if he is to listen to some leaders. These leaders forget all about liberty of action. They want all Negroes to be slaves and fools, sitting by with folded arms, doing nothing whatever to better the general condition.

Suppose some Negroes desire to vote the Democratic ticket? What of it? Let them do it. Let us concede them the liberty we talk so much about. Suppose others desire to support the Republican ticket? Let them do it. Give them the liberty we are always talking about, year in and year out.

The only thing for each and every Negro to decide is, how can he or she better the general condition by a proper use of the ballot. When this is determined, the voter should cast his or her ballot in a determined effort to bring that improved condition to pass. This is political liberty. Every man and woman must have this liberty, or we are slaves to useless propaganda and false leadership.

Defections from the Republican party need not disturb those who are Republican. Likewise, defections from the Democratic ranks need not disturb those who are Democratic. There can be a great deal more accomplished, if we concede to everyone the liberty of political decision we desire for ourselves.

Negroes who want to join Blease, Heflin, Pat Harrison, Simmons, George and Glass ought to be allowed to do so. Perhaps they see some way to serve the improved condition we seek in this country. If, on the other hand, they awake to find themselves disappointed and defeated, they, like the prodigal, will return. We have enough Negroes to spare a few who desire to wander off to the party of the blood-hound and the mob. If we can get rid of them in that way, we should be willing to see them go.

One thing remember! Hoover and Curtis will be elected without a shadow of a doubt. Those who want to wander off for some new experiences will have four years to find their way back to civilization and safety. We predict and promise that there will be more room in the Republican party for those who remain with it, after November 6. Let political liberty have its day.

Patrick Henry said, "Give me Liberty or give me Death.' He got BOTH!

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation

General

Dothan, Ala., Eagle
October 4, 1928

WHAT SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS WHO VOTE REPUBLICAN MUST FORGET

Let Democrats of Dothan and the Wiregrass who say they intend to vote for Hoover read the following bit of historical musing from The Albany Herald before they actually mark their tickets:

"When the Civil War ended it was uncertain what the political attitude of the South would be on national issues. There were many white Republicans in this section, and there were almost as many Democrats as Republicans in the North. Had Pres. Lincoln lived to complete his second term, his policy of conciliation—his earnest, honest desire to heal the wounds his country had suffered and bring the sections together as he longed to do—would have spared the states that had formed the Confederacy the lingering horrors of Reconstruction.

"For the Republican party, through its full control of the federal government delivered the South to its tormentors to be pillaged and plundered, to be humiliated and degraded, to have its leaders imprisoned and threatened with death.

"The carpetbag regime was the darkest period of Southern history. The Southern states were denied representation in the government of which they had been forced to remain a part. Federal bayonets bristled in every Southern capital and hundreds of other Southern communities. Negroes filled our legislative assemblies, and in some of the states were even placed on the bench—ignorant ex-slaves who had no more conception of what they were supposed to be doing than did their infant children.

"Presiding over the degradation of the South were the Republican party's representatives—men who invaded the South not while war was raging but after the flags of the Confederacy had been furled. They came to superintend the "putting of black heels on white necks." Backed by federal bayonets, they took charge of the public offices, looted state treasuries, intimidated Democrats who were politically active, and announced it as the settled policy of their party to keep the South under Republican rule—which meant Negro rule—for all future time.

"In the halls of Congress that attitude of the Republican party toward the South was repeatedly proclaimed. President Johnson, a Southern-born Republican, struggled vainly to have the South spared the horrors he foresaw. He vetoed numerous measures designed to prevent the white people of the South from participating in the reconstruction of their own state governments, only to have his vetoes overriden. The white voters of the South were disfranchised. Their state governments were turned over to Republican carpetbaggers from the North and ignorant ex-slaves who had been clothed with full privileges of citizenship. Strenuous efforts to enforce social equality between the races were made in every Southern state. Governor Jenkins, of Georgia, was removed from office for opposing the Republican party's harsh and humiliating measures of Reconstruction in this state, and Governor Humphreys, of Mississippi, suffered a similar fate. Men accused of civil crimes were tried before military tribunals, for federal bayonets bristled all over the South, and the Southern white man who challenged the shameful order imposed by the Republican party did so at peril of his liberty, or even his life.

"For ten years the South fought for its freedom—fought to restore the government of Southern states to white control; fought to establish once and forever the racial integrity and social supremacy of the white man in a white man's land; fought to make white civilization safe where the white man had planted and nourished it.

"Then, when in 1876 the Democrats elected Samuel J. Tilden to the presidency, the Republican party, through as shameful a manipulation of partisan advantages as ever disgraced a civilized government, stole enough electoral votes, including those of South Carolina, Louisiana and Florida, to give Rutherford B. Hayes, the Republican candidate, a majority of one in the electoral college.

"Why? Because the South had been made solidly Democratic by the Reconstruction policy of the Republican party, and the Republican North was unwilling to permit the party to which the South had turned for help and sympathy, in the years of its nominee in the White House!

"The attitude of the Republican party toward the South has never changed. It is today as it was from 1865 to 1876. The white man controls in the South today simply because he fought his political oppressors till they wearied of the struggle, realizing that the spirit of independence—the spirit of states' rights—could never be conquered in the men who had followed Lee and Jackson and Gordon, and in their sons.

"These are the things a Southern Democrat must forget, must ignore, when he votes the Republican ticket in a national election.

"We can't do it."

POLITICAL LIBERTY, PLEASE !

PERHAPS few people of all the world plead for Liberty quite as much as does the colored American. He wants liberty of action, liberty of speech, liberty of this and liberty of that. He wants to be free to do and to act as he pleases. He resents any interference of his liberty—so much loved and so much sought.

But he has such peculiar notions about liberty. It seems almost racial with him to want liberty, freedom and a free course, until a political campaign breaks upon the country. As soon as a national campaign breaks, the Negro begins to forget liberty. He immediately calls for bondage, political bondage. He gets mad, loses his reason and throws one fit after another if he thinks a single Negro reserves the right to make a political decision. There is no such thing as liberty when it comes to politics, he thinks.

Leaders, or would-be leaders, rise up and begin to froth at the mouth about partisan politics and candidates. It is almost dangerous for any Negro to assert any independence. If white people divide in politics, that is regular and quite proper. But if Negroes talk of dividing, then the leaders begin to call them fools, idiots and other vile names. If the Negro is to listen to some leaders, he can vote neither the Democratic ticket nor the Republican ticket. He must do absolutely nothing, if he is to listen to some leaders. These leaders forget all about liberty of action. They want all Negroes to be slaves and fools, sitting by with folded arms, doing nothing whatever to better the general condition.

Suppose some Negroes desire to vote the Democratic ticket? What of it? Let them do it. Let us concede them the liberty we talk so much about. Suppose others desire to support the Republican ticket? Let them do it. Give them the liberty we are always talking about, year in and year out.

The only thing for each and every Negro to decide is, how can he or she better the general condition by a proper use of the ballot. When this is determined, the voter should cast his or her ballot in a determined effort to bring that improved condition to pass. This is political liberty. Every man and woman must have this liberty, or we are slaves to useless propaganda and false leadership.

Defections from the Republican party need not disturb those who are Republican. Likewise, defections from the Democratic ranks need not disturb those who are Democratic. There can be a great deal more accomplished, if we concede to everyone the liberty of political decision we desire for ourselves.

Negroes who want to join Blease, Heflin, Pat Harrison, Simmons, George and Glass ought to be allowed to do so. Perhaps they see some way to serve the improved condition we seek in this country. If, on the other hand, they awake to find themselves disappointed and defeated, they, like the prodigal, will return. We have enough Negroes to spare a few who desire to wander off to the party of the blood-hound and the mob. If we can get rid of them in that way, we should be willing to see them go.

One thing remember! Hoover and Curtis will be elected without a shadow of a doubt. Those who want to wander off for some new experiences will have four years to find their way back to civilization and safety. We predict and promise that there will be more room in the Republican party for those who remain with it, after November 6. Let political liberty have its day.

Patrick Henry said, "Give me Liberty or give me Death.' He got BOTH!

A GREAT NEW ENGLANDER AND THE SOUTH'S GREAT VIRTUES

It was the late Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, who pointed out after 40 years of intimate study of Southern life and Southern character, as both were reflected in the country's government in his day, that the Southern people have great and abiding virtues. Of these he judged of highest value the quality of steadfastness that marked the South in its devotion to its social and political ideals. In season and out of season, said he, the Southern people had the capacity of clinging to one distinct, definite policy, or pursuing one single and paramount purpose until both that purpose was achieved and that policy was adopted. He also noted that, supplementing this great virtue of steadfastness, was the South's discriminating sense of values, particularly of political and social values. By this he meant that the South was not easily either beguiled, or cajoled, or misled, or intimidated into relinquishing its adherence to certain principles that in the South's judgment were then, as they are still, fundamental and determinative of this section's attitude toward national questions. Southern temper and Southern character, whether in peace or in war, were essentially unalterable. All these high qualities, he recorded in his "Reminiscences," were embodied in the late Gen. Walthall, of Mississippi, with whom Mr. Hoar was associated for a great many years in Congress—first in the House and later in the Senate. When Mr. Hoar, later in his "Reminiscences," drew a portrait of "the ideal American senator," it was Gen. Walthall, of Mississippi, who was named by the scholarly New Englander for that distinction.

* * *

In Gen. Walthall's day, even as nowadays, men lacking in discrimination and lacking also in character failed to exemplify in the South the great virtue of steadfastness to principle and persistency of purpose that evoked from Senator Hoar his tribute to Southern life and Southern character. In some cases their fault was of the head; in many cases their fault was of the heart. Not a few of them lacked the mettle "to change velvet for homespun and to endure the pinch of honorable poverty." Their excuse for yielding to the beguiler, the cajoler and even the bully was that their wives and children were in need of food, or shelter or raiment. For these the South had only pity and pity uncompounded with contempt. But the great majority of the so-called and justly termed "scalawags" who struck hands with the carpetbaggers in exploiting the impoverished South were men plainly lacking in the moral fiber, or nice sense of discrimination, which were later commended by Senator Hoar. In breaking with their people, these faint-hearted or feeble-minded people of the South merely chose "to go the easy way"—the way that is recurringly suggested not by intelligent patriotism but rather either by prejudice or by profit.

Once more, apparently, temptation arises in the South for men easily misled to emulate the tragic example set by the undiscriminating and unsteadfast in Reconstruction days, and later when the noxious growth of Populism was in flower. Now, as was the case then, the need of clear perspective once more becomes imperative. Now, as then, the South needs to discriminate between the tried-and-true friend and the foe of unrelenting hostility. It is a mere truism to state that, since its origin, the Republican party has framed its policies with scant considerateness of the South's economic needs. Invariably, that party has framed not a few of its policies in calculated hostility to the social structure and the political fabric of the South's life. In its latest platform, it repeats this grevious offense, and repeats it for the 60-year-old purpose of pandering to a vicious element of the electorate of the North and to irritate the South by inflaming an identical element of citizenship in the South's own household. No candid man here may justly deny that the proposed federal usurpation of state authority in administering criminal justice is a blow aimed directly at the South's social and political order. No candid mind may justly deny that the Republican presidential nominee—not merely in words but in well-thought-out acts as well—has sanctioned this pandering aggravated this irritation and revived once more this ever-imminent peril.

* * *

On the day following the nomination of Gov Smith as the Democratic presidential candidate a significant coincidence was reported in the newspapers. On that day, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson dispatched from Houston to Albany a message of warm congratulation, expressing her gratification over Gov. Smith's nomination and her heartfelt hope and wish that he would be elected. On that day, the Republican candidate, Mr. Hoover, was reported closeted at Washington in counsel with the president of Tuskegee Institute. Mr. Hoover was not called upon on that day by the head of the University of Alabama, Dr. Denny; or by the head of the Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Dr. Knapp; or by the head of the Woman's College of Alabama at Montevallo, Dr. Carmichael. Of none of these does Mr. Hoover now seek counsel. It is to Tuskegee, it would seem, that Mr Hoover now looks for advice respecting Alabama, just as in Mississippi and in Georgia and in Louisiana in the pre-convention campaign, Mr. Hoover looked, not to white men and white women of high character to obtain delegate support, but rather to men and women of a quite different background and a quite different culture. It is in connection with his pre-convention efforts that the reported conference should be viewed. Tuskegee Institute and its principal, Dr. Moton, have rendered fine service to the South in a particular field of education for negroes. In these efforts they have had and will continue to have the hearty support of this newspaper. As far as is generally known, Mr. Hoover has no connection with the institute and its work. The reported conference, it would seem, may logically be regarded as having been political in its nature. It is that phase of the matter, taken in connection with his order abolishing segregation of negro employes in his department and the distribution of Hoover money among Southern negroes prior to the convention, that is of vital interest to the people of Alabama.

* * *

These are not accusations against Mr. Hoover; these are merely and clearly—facts. They are facts that no discriminating voter in Alabama—mindful of actual conditions here—can contemplate with complacency. It is these facts that should give pause to every voter here who may now be tempted by undisciplined minds and untested hearts into breaking with their people—into going the easy, or the unwise, way. Plainly the hour strikes when this state's solid sense should rule it—when this state's steadfastness of character should prevail.

"Wayward brothers and wayward sisters, too, go in peace!" should be the farewell to be given them by this state's men and this state's women who are now resolved to be steadfast—resolved to protect the ancient faith that is theirs, to protect the civilization that has here been built up by patience, and alertness, and sacrifice of no little blood and no little treasure. In case these willful persons leave the party of their fathers, they should understand that they go with eyes wide open out of a party that has immemorially been this state's understanding friend, a party that has been this state's sympathetic defender; and they go to a party which, in its origin as well as now in its decadence, has not only denied the South economic justice but attacked its fundamental political structure and assailed its elemental social fabric.

* * *

It is with the keenest regret that this newspaper reminds Alabama's people of the tremendous issue that is now at the fore—an issue that has been wantonly raised not by the Democratic South but by the Republican platform and designedly by the Republican candidate. What the outcome is to be in Alabama can no be doubted by anyone mindful of the temper and character of this state's people, as that character and that temper were understood by George Frisbie Hoar.—Birmingham News.

Gainesville, Ga., Times
Friday, July 20, 1928

WHITE SUPREMACY.

In the pending national campaign the question of white supremacy is paramount, and supercedes every controversial issue.

It strikes at the very hearthstone of every white man's home in the south.

In Georgia the problem is peculiarly acute. Within the past few days, in the disgraceful disclosures as to juggling federal patronage by a negro referee, this burning question, on which hinges the hope of the south, as it hinged in the dark days of reconsruction, has been accentuated.

In Mississippi, where a negro patronage referee has, as alleged, auctioned postmasterships and other federal jobs, the conditions are so "astonishing," as expressed by members of the senate investigating committee, that a grand jury, rather than a congressional group, has undertaken the investigations. Thus it is all over the south.

And what is to be expected should Secretary Hoover be elected to the presidency?

He is entitled to his racial ideas. It is not charged that he is influenced in them by political expediency. They were made plain during the world war, when, as food administrator, he brought the blacks and whites together, in his numerous division headquarters and office rooms in Washington—men and women of every shade and color—to work side by side, feed from the same tables, and use the same rest rooms.

It was only after the segregation order of President Wilson that such a condition was remedied. That order remained in effect, in all governmental departments, and with entire satisfaction, the white and black employees being properly separated until a few months ago when upon the initiative of negro politicians of Boston, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, Secretary Hoover abrogated the order as to the department of commerce, and all its branches, and today the same conditions exist as prior to the Wilson segregation order ten years ago. Today the white and black employees, men and women, in all branches of that department, work side by side, use the same rest rooms, and in no respect is there any racial segregation.

There is no purpose to reflect upon the character, or the statesmanship or the business ability of the republican candidate for president. He has never lived in the south. He has only stopped in Georgia for a brief period, and in waiting for his schedule in Savannah the fact that he received as his guest on his private car the negro national committeewoman may have had more political than racial significance. At that time his candidacy for the nomination was brewing.

He lived the most of his adult life in London and in other European capitals. There social and racial conditions are different.

But that does not alter, nor extenuate the situation in this country.

While the racial question is inbred, it is sacred, it is crucial.

The negro is equal to the white before the law, and the administration of the law, in his, and in other states in the "old black belt" gives to him freely and correctly that equality.

He is encouraged to become useful in citizenship, in the trades, in industry, in agriculure.

He is educated through the public school system on a parity with the whites, and the expenses are paid by taxation which accrues largely from the whites.

Every upstanding citizen believes in justice, full and complete, to the negro.

But that does not mean a reliquishment of white supremacy, for which the best blood of the south was shed to maintain, and which the upstanding thought of Americans, in every state recognizes to be right.

It does not mean social equality, or negro political domination, as the latter is today in the juggling of federal jobs in Georgia and other states. Will this negro political domination not expand and be made more intolerable if Secretary Hoover becomes the nation's executive?

It is time to think seriously of this question. Mr. Hoover is entitled to his views. Domocratic malcontents and insurrectionists who want to join him, and the negro republican dictators in the south, may find comfort in such company, but white supremacy is the hope of the south. For it we fight!

Former Governor Brough, of Arkansas, speaking before the Press association of this state made this plain when he said the real issue in this national campaign is "Anglo-Saxon supremacy."

Elsewhere in The Constitution today is a communication from Wright Willingham, prominent attorney of Rome Ga., in which he mades the issue plain The Constitution:

A negro of Rome is a dispenser of federal patronage, and with Bre'r Davis of Georgia-at-large, and Bre'r Howard, of Mississippi-at-large, and others, hold the republican throttle in the south.

Party Affiliation

THE TURNING POINT

Senator Bruce, a Maryland Democrat, in a heated speech before the United States Senate last Monday, excoriated the southern states for their policy of disfranchising the ex-slaves and then interrogated them as to their inconsistency in supporting the enforcement of the Volstead Amendment. Southern Senators immediately projected themselves into the dispute and answered back that the south does not "disfranchise the Negroes, but they fail to come up to the educational and property qualifications." Senator Borah, Idaho Republican, then precipitated himself in the wrangle and declared that he had gone thru the southern states and was unable to discover where any of them violated the fifteenth amendment to the Constitution. Senator Borah further asserted that the law is applied to white and blacks alike in Mississippi. Senator Bruce, however, was firm in his conviction and thundered that the time had come when the south should become more tolerant with the Negro and should divest itself of its marked intolerant spirit.

These are hectic days in the Senate and issues of race, religion and southernisms are gradually being brought before the public. Heflin assails Roman Catholicism and fastens on Governor Al. Smith, New York's Governor, who is a candidate for President, the charge of "Rum and Romanism." "No Catholic can ever be elected President," bellows Heflin, as he hurls his invectives against Governor Smith. Only last week Senator-elect Frank L. Smith was denied his seat in the Senate as the southern Democrats and so-called radical Republicans voted against him because Illinois capitalists aided in financing his campaign. They declared that Mr. Smith was tainted with corruption and fraud. It has been freely predicted all along that some day the action of the Southern Democrats in this matter would react against them. Now it is beginning to appear that the course of affairs are headed in that direction. Bigotry, intolerance and political intrigue as practiced by the south cannot be winked at forever and the time harkens near, for Senator Bruce, who is a notorious opponent of the liquor amendment, charges that the southerners and his fellow Democrats are nullifiers of the Constitution and proves his case by citing the Fifteenth Amendment which conferred suffrage on the black people.

One of the most amazing phases of the dispute in the Senate was the attempt of the Republican Borah to defend the actions of the Southerners. Borah for sometime has been regarded as the best debater in the Senate and a clear thinker, but on this so-called "Negro Question" his views have been consistently warped and twisted. He opposed the Dyer Anti-Lynching bill, he fought Walter Cohen when Mr. Cohen needed his vote to get the appointment as Comptroller of Customs for the Port of New Orleans. Borah has stated that it is his belief, that Congress erred when it conferred suffrage on the black people at the time when the Fifteenth Amendment was adopted. Senator Bruce is in agreement with Mr. Borah on that point, and for that matter hundreds and thousands of others are too, but Borah also stands out in this enlightened age and asserts that we are not disfranchised in the South.

It is undoubtedly true that the Southern states have some fairly good laws on their statute books and a distinguished English lawyer stated some years ago that the Alabama legal system was among the finest in the country, but he, like Borah, should have known that these laws are not equitably enforced. Every sensible American knows that while the Southern States do not deny us the right to vote by passing unconstitutional laws they do the same thing by trickery, force, chicanery, intimidation and murder. The State of Florida took no official action when printed notices were published warning black people to stay away from the polls and the whole country knows how we have been driven away from the ballot boxes by shot and shell. In our opinion Borah knows these things and he also knows that we are disfranchised thru just such methods. These systems must change and the change is eminent.

Such issues as religion, race, liquor and nullification emanating from the south will sooner or later result in some amazing revelations that will shake the foundations of the solid south. Representation in Congress will either be cut down or we will be permitted to exercise our constitutional rights. When a Democrat states before his fellows and in earshot of the press galleries that the south must become more tolerant and less hypocritical, then we have every reason to believe that ere long the kaleidoscope will soon turn even tho Borah may bray much like a dog baying at the moon.

ST. LOUIS, MO.

JAN 18 1928

Negroes Form Stewart Club.
Two hundred negroes have formed a Stewart-for-Governor Club here and will have permanent headquarters at room 329 in the People's Building, Jefferson avenue and Market street. Ralph A. Turner is president and Miss Marie Wilburn, secretary.

Wooing the South

THE NEGRO voter has often been erided for his loyalty to the Republican party through thick and thin. It has been said that the Republican party was not giving him a square deal and that he should retaliate by voting against it; that as long as he acted the part of a political slave he would be treated as one.

THIS ADVICE has its merits, for the Republican party has not been treating the Negro right. But what is the Negro to do? If the Democratic party lived up to its professions of democracy, the Negro would do well to join it; but ever since Jefferson's day the Democrats have been getting farther and farther away from their professions. More and more the National Democratic party has been coming under the domination of the South. Grover Cleveland was the only great Democratic leader who did not cater to the South; Woodrow Wilson preached about the "new freedom" and it turned out to be the old slavery; and now comes Governor Smith with a Jackson day letter subscribing to every principle of the Solid South. 1-18-28

GOVERNOR SMITH'S letter advocates "the greatest degree of local self-government by the states," which is just what the Southern Democrats want. It means, in so many words, no interference with lynching, no agitation against the nullification of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments, no objection to the South's doing as it pleases with the Negro. It means that the divergence between the Northern and the Southern Democrats, which gave some hope to the Negro in local elections, is to be smoothed away in the interest of Democratic harmony. As is shown by the selection of Houston, Texas, for the National Democratic convention, Democratic harmony means Southern domination. Any eye that can see a chance for justice to the Negro in the National Democratic party is either more or less than human.

A TEAPOT TEMPEST

SENATOR BRUCE of Maryland, stirred up some dust, aroused the ire of some barbon southern democrats, excited some credulous people and put out to the fore the prohibition and disfranchisement questions as news of the day. For the wet Maryland senator, argued because the wets of the north have been unable to devise some scheme for evading the Eighteenth Amendment without punishment as has the Southerners the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, with impunity and immunity, sought to crucify the south rather for its successful evasion of the law than for its sins against the law. Therefore we doubt the motives of Senator Bruce were sincere insofar as he desires to see justice done the southern Negroes, but that in reality he is aggrieved and affronted by the attitude of the dry south toward the wet north on the prohibition question, and that he takes this means to get back at the south in retaliation.

See Issue of 5/22/28

However, that may be the fact that all of the senators engaged in that debate, Bruce, Borah, Glass, Swanson and others, let slip some truths which can be used against the southern system of disfranchisement when a real move is made to end that situation and not a jesture as has been done formerly.

Even though it was a teapot tempest in favor of the wets and to put over their propaganda, much that is good material to be used by the Negro for his full constitutional rights was brought out, particularly in the statement of Senator Swanson reported as follows:

Senator Swanson took up the argument that even if there be no violation of the Fifteenth Amendment, congress, under the second section of the Fourteenth Amendment, should reduce the representation of the south in the house of representatives and also curtail the power of the south in the electoral college.

"The Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments left unchanged the exclusive jurisdiction of the states representing the exercise of the right of ote," he declared. "It is the purpose of the second section to induce the south to confer suffrage upon the Negroes who had been freed by the Thirteenth Amendment by providing for representation in the house based on population of the respective states, and for reduced representation in the proportion that citizens of the United States might be denied or abriged in their right to ote in a state except for crime or treason.

"The south was presented with this proposition: Enfranchise the Negro and you will have full representation on the basis of your entire population; disfranchise him and your representation in congress will be reduced to the extent of the Negro population. It was hoped by those who supported this proposition that the states of the south would enfranchise the Negro thus obtain unrestricted representation and not disfranchise him and suffer reduced representation.

"The southern states refused to confer suffrage on the Negro, declining to be bribed by the offer of complete representation in congres, knowing full well the ineitable demoralization and disaster that would follow. Disappointed at the attitude of the south, congress submitted to the states for aproval the Fifteenth Amendment. This was intended as a statement of Negro suffrage in the south.

"Can there be any question that the solution of the problem effected by the second section of the Fourteenth Amendment was discarded and another solution found by the Fifteenth Amendment, and that accordingly, in substance and in effect, the provision relative to sufferage in the earlier amendment was repealed by the latter amendment?"

This is a contention for which the Negro has long fought, the reduction of the south's representation in congress as Senator Swanson urges should be done where the Fifteenth Amendment is violated.

More oil shoulde be added to the conflagation raging between the northern wets and the southern drys. It is smoking out some of our northern Republican friends (?) like Senator Borah, and disclosing some of our wet democratic enemies (?) such as Bruce.

Who can say that the Negro, the innocent bystander may become the target of solicitation, goodwill and the ultimate beneficiary of the new order when the guns of the battling wet and dry forces have died and tolerance will pervade the land.

The Negro himself, may not directly have a hand in the solution of his political problem of the south, just as he played a small part in his own emancipation, but indications seem to point to the fact that the thieves are about to fall out. When this truly happens, the innocent citizen deprived of his may come into his own. May we continue to fiddle while senators burn with righteous (?), indigration. Perhaps we may then dance without having to pay the fiddler. In any event it looks like a war to a finish or of extermination between factions of the Nordics.

Newport News, Va., Times-Herald
Sunday, May 19, 1928.

COLORED VOTERS PLAN FURTHER RALLIES HERE

Leaders Among Negroes of City Announce That Several More Rallies Will Be Held Between Now and Election Day, June 12; Silent as to Candidates.

Two or three more colored political rallies are scheduled to be held between now and the general election of June 12, according to negro political leaders, who aver that never in the history of this city have they known the negro voters to display such interest in an election.

On June 12 three members will be elected to serve on the city council for a period of four years. There are five candidates in the field, three Democrats, one Republican and one Independent. One of the most influential men in the colored community stated this morning that the colored vote would be cast in a block, for the issuance of bonds to erect a new colored school and administration building, which is also included in the ticket, and for three councilmen, whom they have already fixed upon. Various rumors as to which of the candidates will receive the colored vote have proved to be nothing more than rumors, for those in close touch with the situation state that they "don't tell names and tales, too."

Several meetings have been held and special workers detailed to make a canvass of the colored community to insure a full vote being cast.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

General.

AS IN A LOOKING GLASS

Alice Dunbar-Nelson

WELL, it was a glorious victory, as old Caspar said in the Battle of Blenheim. And like young Caspar, we ask what it was all about, but arrive at no other conclusion than that it was a glorious victory. Said victory being signalized by skulls and bleaching skeletons on the battle field.

And now that the "tumult and the shouting dies," we may return to normalcy, pick up the tattered threads of our daily life and get about the real business of existence. What would the United States do without the quadrennial upheaval? It sets in motion all kinds of interesting literature, plenty of emotional excitement, lots of money, opportunities for travel and socializing, oodles of oratory, argument and contention, chances for women-folk to burst into print, and for the men-folk, big and little to strut their small preening on the stage of futility. Altogether, win or lose, a pleasant time is had by all, particularly the Brother. He gets a thrill of importance out of the campaign that he does not experience for another four years. The fact that he is such small potatoes and so few in a hill, and getting smaller and fewer every hour, does not concern him. The main thing is that at this time he feels an importance that helps to conserve his self-respect for the remaining four years when he is kicked around as the football of the nation.

* * * * * * * * *

EVERY now and then—to revert to the recent cataclysm—we are reminded that Kelly Miller wields by and large the most pungently pointed pen of any of our columnists. As for example this last article, "As the Negro Goes to the Polls." Note this paragraph:

"If the Negro, as a race, supports the Grand Old Party in the present election and in the next ten elections to come, there is no apparent likelihood that his political lot would be improved thereby. The Negro acquired an initial momentum for the party of freedom and equality in the early days which it is admittedly difficult to reverse.

"Those past middle age, the over-optimistic, who somehow believe that the spirit of Abraham Lincoln will be reincarnated in the Grand Old Party, the timid and hesitant, who rather endure the ills they have than risk those they know not of; those of the slavish Uncle Tom type of temperament, the cunning and crafty, who hope to gather in the crumbs of favor which fall from the white master's table, will adhere to the Republican standard, though the dry land turn to sea.

"On the other hand, the forward-looking, the progressive, the radical, the new Negro, the intelligentsia, will revolt against the Republican recreancy, and will risk whatever expediency which may promise change. It must be conceded that the Democratic party does not hold out a promising prospect; but protest against a false friend often incidentally results in benefit to an avowed enemy?"

NEWS
CHARLESTON, S. C.

NOV 5 1928

If the Negroes Be Let In—the Responsibility

In Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Missouri, Kentucky and a few other states the negro vote has great weight.

Republicans and Democrats do what they can to get the support of the negroes in the North. There is no doubt about that. The Republicans usually get the support of the Northern negroes. The Democrats would get it if they could.

The principal difference between the two parties in respect of the negro vote is that the Republicans insist upon the right of negroes to vote in the South and the Northern Democrats now, as always, are insistent that the Southern white people be left unmolested in control of the affairs of their states.

Never with a Democrat in the White House does or will the danger of the appointment of negroes to office in the South arise.

If we should have two white parties in South Carolina, and in other Southern states, both will try to get negro support. Therefore, negroes will be protected in voting. That is about as plain as it is that two and two make four.

When the negro vote shall be an important part of the vote of a successful party in South Carolina, negroes will not be denied a share of the offices. Mr. David Lawrence has brought to attention that, once negroes are voting in numbers in the South, they, in combination with Northern negroes, may hold the balance of power in American affairs.

A white man of South Carolina has a perfect right to vote the Republican ticket. The News and Courier would be the last voice to question the right of the citizen's political independence.

Those white people who withdraw from the national Democratic party will make the breach that will admit the negroes to the polls. When they split the party they and they alone will be responsible for the results. If they split it tomorrow, they may not be able to mend it the next day or the next year.

The results will not be pleasant. In this state are nearly as many negroes as white people. Twenty-five years ago negroes were still voting in many South Carolina town elections. Liquor and beer flowed freely when even fifty negroes voted in a town having 500 voters. So great was the corruption, the disorder, the shame, that all the towns were compelled to adopt the white primary plan and keep the negroes out of politics altogether.

The dirt, the filth, the "wetness", of those town elections would be repeated on a statewide scale, if 100,000 or 50,000 negroes should vote in general elections.

When the negroes were voting in South Carolina, the NEGRO WOMEN were not voting. The negro women will have the ballot if the negroes begin again to vote.

The News and Courier denies to no man the right to vote for Hoover tomorrow, and questions the conscientiousness of none so voting who did not vote in the Democratic primary and has not shared in Democratic party activities.

Those white men who vote for Hoover tomorrow blaze the way for a new party in South Carolina. We cannot have two parties without having two parties for negroes. Those men should know what they are doing. No matter what party thereafter might control the bulk of the negro vote, once it shall be let in, theirs will be the responsibility for letting it in. If it should convert South Carolina into a "wet" state, the white men voting for Hoover will have the responsibility for making it "wet.".

The News and Courier prints this editorial on this, the day before election day, for purposes of record. If trouble comes in the later years from what shall be done tomorrow, it will be a record to which we can refer.

For it will show that we straightout Democrats, who support the nominees, state and national, Smith and Robinson and the state, congressional and county candidates, wash our hands of all responsibility for a split in the solid white party, and put on the heads of those who, calling themselves Democrats, vote for Hoover, the esponsibility for letting the negroes in.

North Emporia, Va., Messenger
Friday, November 2, 1928

Is White Supremacy Challenged?

The Democratic party does not, in this campaign, desire to emphasize White Supremacy in the South as an issue, but since Governor Smith's enemies, notably The Fellowship Forum, have sought to create the impression that Alfred E. Smith and the present leadership of the Democratic party are out of line with the traditional party policy on the question of White Supremacy in the South, the Smith - Robinson - Swanson - Drewry club of Greensville County feels itself entirely justified in submitting the following for consideration by the white people of this county:

Under date of September 20th, 1928, The Atlanta Independent, a Negro Republican paper, owned by Ben J. Davis, Negro National Republican Committeeman from Georgia, carrried an editorial from which the following are extracts:

"We are Republicans and offer no apology for our faith."

"In no State in the Union where the Republican party controls is there a Jim Crow, disfranchising or segregating law. In no Republican State is there any separation of the Races on public carriers or shutting the doors of political opportunity in the Negro's face."

"We are 100 per cent Republican because there is not one line of discriminating legislation on the books of any State in the Union placed there by the Republican party, but, on the contrary, there is special legislation on the books of every Democratic State in the Union outlawing the black man's rights and put on there by the Democratic party over the protests and votes of Republicans"

And in October 4th, 1928, in an editorial in this same paper, Davis quotes from the Philadelphia Tribune to prove Governor Smith's unwillingness to appoint negroes to office, and declares that Smith and Raskob hold to the ideas of the Southern people with respect to White Supremacy in the South.

This Negro newspaper owner, Davis, is the official spokesman for the Republican party in the State of Georgia.

Perry Howard, a negro lawyer is the Republican National Committeeman from the State of Mississipi. Howard has been appointed by the Republican Attorney General as Assistant Attorney General of the United States, and his department will be charged with the enforcement of Federal laws aimed at the South such as Congressman Dyer's proposed anti-lynching laws and the Force bills which Dyer is trying to have enacted.

Mr. Hoover, in his speech of acceptance, says that he advocates strict enforcement of the 14th. and 15th. amendments (the negro amendments) to the constitution of the United States. He can only mean that he intends to use his influence to undo all that the Democratic party has done to insure White Supremacy in the South.

The negro, F. Q. Morton, a member of the Civil Service Commission of New York, was not appointed by Governor Smith. The Fellowship Forum in giving publicity to Morton's appointment, and, by implication, charging Governor Smith with responsibility therefor, did not see fit to inform its readers that Morton was actually appointed by Mayor Hylan a bitter political enemy of Governor Smith.

We respectfully submit the above for the consideration of Democrats who are told that it makes no difference to the South whether Southern people leave the Democratic party or not.

—SMITH - ROBINSON - SWANSON-DREWRY CLUB OF GREENSVILLE COUNTY, VIRGINIA.

Hoover, Lily White--Smith Hostile Says Dr. DuBois

"Crisis" Editor Advocates Voters for a Third Party In November

First. Black men of the South should no vote for Herbert Hoover because he favors the Lily White domination of the Republican Party in the South; because he has always been silent as to lynching; because he has stood for the subjugation of Haiti; and because he has done nothing and advocated nothing toward the enforcement of the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments.

Al Smith

Second. Negroes should vote for Al Smith because in twenty-five years of public service he has never in any way recognized any Negro by appointment or by assenting to laws which Negroes wished enacted; because he is the running mate of an Arkansas Democrat who may succeed him to the Presidency; because he has made no protest against lynching and his political obligations to the South are such that the Negro cannot expect from him as President the slightest consideration of which the dominant bourbon South does not approve.

Organized Wealth

Third. Both Smith and Hoover represent in their parties and organization, organized wealth, industrial monopoly, and the exploitation of the poor.

Volstead Act

Fourth. The Volstead Act could be modified without changing the 18th Amendment. If the 18th Amendment were repealed, some persons might be encouraged to attempt the repeal of the 15th Amendment. It is doubtful if the corporations which have taken refuge under the 14th Amendment would elect the repeal of that law, and while many people would like the repeal of the 13th Amendment, the opposition of white labor would stop them.

Third Party

Fifth. If the Negro does not vote for Smith or Hoover, what should he do? He can vote for the candidate of the Tihrd Party — for Norman Thomas, the candidate of the Socialists, or for the Nominees of the Farmer-Labor Group or the Prohibitionists. This will be in effect throwing a vote away, because no Third Party candidate can be elected as long as the minority party can depend upon the rotten boroughs of the Solid South. Nevertheless, a vote for the Third Party in this election is a moral protest, and moral protests are of importance, even in the United States of America and in the year of Grace, 1928.

Chronicle-Telegraph
PITTSBURGH, PA.

SEP 2 1928

FLAYS NEGRO POLITICIANS AS TRAITORS

Rev. A. V. B. Hightower Urges Race to Unite and Wipe Out Vice, Other Evils

Civic ills of the Negro race are largely of their own making, the Rev. A. V. B. Hightower declared at the annual meeting of the Supreme Council, Afro-American Brotherhood, held Friday night in Payne's chapel, 2701 Wylie avenue.

He flayed Negro politicians who he said have sold out the voters to the politicians, the police for their failure to clean up "the Hill" and their disregard of the rights of Negroes in Police Court cases.

He demanded united action by the Negroes of the city to wipe out evils and obtain better housing conditions.

The address, in part, follows:

OUR OWN FAULT

"The lack of interest by our own group is detrimental both to the race and the community. And the lack of interest in ourselves is one of the main faults that is causing the Negro to suffer through industries, labor difficulties, politics and commercialized vice. The fault is our own and it is our duty to remedy it ourselves. To this end the Afro-American Brotherhood of the World requests increased efforts of its members and 100 per cent co-operation of all good Negro citizens.

"Our chief aim is to help the Negro help himself, and to depend upon himself instead of upon his white brethern. The large majority of our people complain of the lack of opportunity. This is largely the fault of some unqualified leaders who, through lack of intellectual qualifications give a good bit of their time in preaching the errors of a few white people against Negroes as an index of the whole, resulting in the loss of friendship of our white neighbors as well as a loss of co-operation in some respects. Misguiding leadership creates crime and vice, disorder and strife in any community regardless of race, creed or color.

"There is another class of Negroes, politically known as 'vote getters.' They work for the "powers that be" to be the recognized leader of the Negroes. Therefore, to assume their services, these are given jobs swinging mops and bailing paper for the city and county at $120 to $140 per month. And then they become obligated to swing the Negro votes to those in power. Others go down to the bosses to get a concession to operate a "speakeasy" or brothel. This is a deplorable condition and we must wipe it out ourselves because it is our fault that it exists. When you go down to the front office seeking better conditions, you are told you are getting along all right. 'Haven't we given you privilege to run a joint—what more do you want?'

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

Hoover, Exploiter of Coolies, Serfs and Slaves

John Sullivan, President of the New York State Federation of Labor, has issued a statement sponsoring grave charges against Herbert Hoover.

He piles up a whole series of facts to prove that Hoover got his millions out of the most ruthless exploitation of Chinese coolies, Indian slaves, and Russian half-serfs.

In India, Hoover, as chairman of the Burma Corporation, Ltd., employed 20,000 men, whom official British documents called "compulsory free labor."

In China, mines operated by Hoover forced 40,000 coolies "with the bayonets and soldiers of your partner, the Empress of China, under conditions of semi-slavery."

In Tzarist Russia, Hoover was engaged in the operation of railroads, copper and sulphur mines, and "among the number of employed some 30,000 of them were serfs and convicts with cossacks using the whip and rifle to force compulsory employment in the financial interest of you and your partners, the Romanoff royal family."

These charges put forward by Mr. Sullivan are very serious, and throw a powerful searchlight on the activities of the presidential candidate of finance capital.

But Mr. Sullivan, as an experienced and notorious labor faker, does not tell the whole truth. He keeps quiet about the following fundamental facts:

1. That not only Hoover as an individual but the whole American master class is engaged in the same kind of ruthless exploitation of coolies in China, peasants in Latin America, and half-slaves in the various colonies.

2. That Hoover and the whole capitalist class of this country is exploiting not only Chinese coolies and Burmese slaves and Mexican peasants, but are with all their force and strength for the perpetuation of wage slavery in the United States and for the maintenance in virtual slavery of the Negroes of the South.

3. That Al Smith, Mr. Sullivan's favorite candidate, is by no means better than Hoover; that he, just as Hoover, stands for the exploitation and oppression of the toilers here in America.

4. That Mr. Sullivan and his labor-fake colleagues, the whole American Federation of Labor, are not putting up any resistance to defend the colonial peoples or the workers of this country against exploitation and oppression.

5. That there is only one political force the Workers (Communist) Party of America, which fights for the liberation of the colonial peoples, for the overthrow of capitalism, for the abolition of wage slavery, for the emancipation of the Negroes.

Workers, Vote Communist! Send your contribution of at least one dollar today direct to the National Election Campaign Committee, Workers (Communist) Party, 43 East 125th St., New York City.

General

Macon, Ga., Telegraph
Monday, October 22, 1928

Leave the Negro Out of It

Forty-five Southerners who yesterday issued a protest against dragging the Negro question into the present presidential campaign are exactly correct in their attitude. The Negro is poor enough and bears the brunt of enough ills and evils just as he is, without having all the good work that has been done by him and in his behalf upset and putting him at the bottom of the ladder again, just because the white people of the South have fallen out over politics and some of them have appealed to him to come in and settle their differences for them. If he takes sides or gets mixed up in their squabble, it is bound to result in antagonism and revival of old antipathies, with all the old-time evil consequences. Evidences of the Negro's progress and uplift can be seen every day and on every hand, but once let him become embroiled in the white man's politics and he will fall or be pushed right back to where he was in former days. He needs the sympathy and help and encouragement of every man, and for him to take sides will alienate all of those against whom he takes action. And this is too big a price for him to pay, or for the white man to let him pay.

The most conspicuous example of the efforts of the whites to drag him into the present melee was the speech of the outstanding W. C. T. U. worker, Mrs. Marvin Williams, who was quite conspicuous as having accepted credentials as a delegate to a Democratic convention after she had participated in a meeting where resolutions were adopted saying she would not support Smith if he were nominated, and when it was apparent on every hand that he would be nominated. She came back from Houston and repudiated the action of the convention of which she had been a part, began organizing everything that was organizable against the Democratic candidate, and topped off her loyalty by going before a Negro meeting at Adel and appealing to the Negroes there to vote with her for Mr. Hoover. Somebody or some thing had the good sense to stop Mrs. Williams in her madness, but she showed quite clearly just how desperate she was in her efforts to destroy the Democratic party and nominee. It was commented at the time of her Adel appearance that the thing she was doing was one of the evils for the cure of which the original Ku Klux was organized in the sixties, and at that time Mrs. Williams would have been the inspiration for some very serious attention by that body.

Some of the Democratic speakers have been very bitter in their arraignment of the Negro and have made distinct appeals to prejudice against him in order to get or save votes. But The Telegraph has deplored and condemned these efforts, holding that this was a white man's fight, and that no white person could be excusable for fomenting strife and racial hatred. The furthest we have gone in discussing the Negro and his relation to the present situation was to say that no one could object to a self-respecting and law-abiding Negro going about his business and casting his vote as he saw fit. This is a privilege that is given him under the law, and there would be the least reaction against him for exercising his privilege. But if he is foolish enough to mix up with white people and get into their quarrels, he is going to be the sufferer when they get back together, as they will.

The Telegraph has criticized Ben Davis for peddling of postoffices while acting as Mr. Hoover's national committeeman, but has not berated him as a Negro. It has condemned the Republican party for using the Negroes in Georgia and the South to bolster their cause among Negroes of the North. It has stated that the only threat to white supremacy is in the fact that the white people are divided now and some of the more or less unthinking and unscrupulous whites will appeal to the Negro for settlement of their questions, because it follows inevitably that when the white people bolt their primaries the Negro has the balance of power and runs the government and everything else. Ben Davis and a few of his followers have either through ignorance or viciousness tried to make it appear that The Telegraph was endeavoring to scare Hooverrats with the white supremacy bug-bear, but it has not done so. It knows the plan that has worked will work, it being only a matter of how much upset it may be subject to before it can be readjusted and put to work again. It wishes the Negro well, and believes his best chances for success and improvement lie in keeping out of the white man's difficulties, no matter how much the latter may try to induce him to take a hand.

The inter-racial association behind the forty-five prominent Southerners has wrought well in issuing the caution to both whites and blacks, but it is of more value and importance to the latter and should be heeded by them. It will be awfully hard for the whites to do them any harm if they refuse to be inveigled.

WOULD NOT BE CLASSED WITH BILBO.

561 N. Third St., Memphis.

To The Commercial Appeal:

Since Mr. Bilbo is so anxious to have Mr. Hoover answer if he thinks it would be offensive to you (Mr. Hoover) or indecent, infamous or disgraceful for you to come in contact with or dance with a woman of the negro race—"

I would also ask Mr. Bilbo: If you did not think it would be offensive, indecent, infamous, or disgraceful.

Please, why did you think to tell the people of Memphis that Mr. Hoover danced with Mary Booz?

Were you trying to help Mr. Hoover?

According to the papers you did not use the word rumor.

Poor ole State of Miss.

As Mr. Sunday said, "Al Smith is without a party," so is Mississippi without a governor.

And in my deep sympathy I would suggest that if Mary Booz is really a good Methodist (regardless of color) that the good people of Miss. call a special session of the Legislature and appoint Mary Booz governor until they can do better.

Now, I am not a Republican by any means, but I would vote for Hoover now if for no other reason than to keep from being classed with the Bilbo bunk.

When the Democrats nominate a Democrat I'll vote for him.

Imagine New York State 600,000 Republican with a real Democrat governor. I can't.

J. W. EAGLIN.

A PAWN OF BOTH PARTIES

The negroes of the South and elsewhere may have cause to regret this year's political campaign and its violent agitations, in which the black man is being used as a threat by both parties. Curiously enough, there is effort to show that the Democrats are more friendly to the political and social aspirations of the negro than are the Republicans. A full-page advertisement in some Southern newspapers headed "Al Smith, Negro Lovers," details alleged favors shown by Governor Smith to New York negroes and declares in large type that "Al Smith is the worst foe of white supremacy in public life in the United States today."

On the other hand, there are Southern charges that Mr. Hoover removed certain segregation relations in his department at Washington, compelling closer relations than formerly among the white and black employes. In his Tennessee speech Mr. Hoover said: "I believe in the merit system of the civil service, and I believe further that appointinve offices must be filled by those who deserve the confidence and respect of the communities they serve."

Literally this statement is above criticism, but Mr. Hoover's Southern friends interpret as a promise not to appoint negroes as postmasters, United states marshals or federal collectors of internal revenue, and that under him as president the Southern Republican party will be "lily white." This employment of the black man as a threat by both parties is intended for temporary purposes only, but it will leave behind it lasting effects.

Nutter Brothers Split, One Democrat, Other Republican

Neutral "Ma" Nutter Won't Ride In Md. Jim Crow Cars

(Special To The AFRO)

CHARLESTON, West Va.—"Ike has gone over to the Democrats. Of all the Nutter children, Ike and I have been the closest; so you may imagine how I feel about Ike's defection."

Thus commented T. Gillis Nutter, Past Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, head of West Virginia Pythians, former member, West Virginia legislature, prominent Charleston attorney and banker, on the bolt of his famed younger brother, Isaac Nutter, of Atlantic City, hitherto most prominent Republican Jersey leader, to Governor Smith and the Democrats.

T. Gillis Is 52 Years Old; Isaac Is 50

It was during presentation of Rienzi B. Lemus of Boston, head of the dining car cooks' waiters-union, principal speaker at an overflow Republican rally in Kanawha County Court House here on October 26.

Mr. Lemus somewhat facetiously observed that Mr. Isaac Nutter, by quitting the Republican party, brings about a situation somewhat akin to that due to the opposing political affiliations of the Taylor brothers—"Bob" and "Alf" of Tennessee, respectively Democrat and Republican, who several times opposed each other as gubernatorial candidates. Each has licked the other, their mother remaining neutral. No matter which one wins, victory is in the family.

"Ma" Nutter has not visited her daughter in Princess Anne for 20 years because she's too proud to ride in Maryland's jim crow cars.

Political Necessity For a Solid South

Artesia, Miss.

To The Commercial Appeal:

The solid south sprang from the turmoil and labor and suffering of the days of Reconstruction. It knew the rule of the carpetbagger, the scalawag and the negro. It saw its men disfranchised and helpless. It saw its women terrorized, living under a dread of what might happen. It had its laws made and enforced by ignorant negroes, directed by degraded white men. It had its property confiscated by taxation to satisfy the greed of hungry office-holders. This common anguish, this common necessity for self-preservation, this common danger—always with us—to white supremacy, made of these southern states a solid political unit; and until this danger is removed, either by constitutional repeal—or a long time yet an idle dream—or by the scattering of the negro race in equal proportion in all parts of this Union, the south must remain solid. It is no academic question. It is the question of race protection and race supremacy.

To The Colored Voters of Maryland

Tuesday, November 6th is the day set apart by the Constitution of the United States to elect a President.

The one thing which I desire to call to your attention is that the matter of who is elected President is of secondary importance, since Congress makes the laws. This fact makes it indispensable that we send our friends to this legislative body.

Senator Wm. Cabell Bruce, who is up for reelection, has demonstrated in the Senate and in private life that he is a friend of our people.

A vote to return Senator Bruce to the Senate will be a vote cast to help reelect the fairest man in public life on the most mooted question before the American public, which is the race problem.

HENRY F. ARNOLD.

AS A CHASER?

Kosciusko, Miss.

To The Commercial Appeal:

Our heads are sick, our brain fatigued, and our stomachs are weak. If we Mississippi Democrats are forced to swallow Bob Church, Perry Howard and Mary Booser for God's sake give us a little alcohol to soak them in.

Thanks for the prescription.

N. W. GIBSON.

Twenty-five years ago the advocacy of the repeal of the Fifteenth Amendment was thundered throughout Mississippi. All were in accord as to the desirability of this doctrine. All prayed and hoped for the day in which it might come. But there were many who knew that not in the memory of that generation or the next was there a glimmering chance for the enactment of such legislation. They felt secure under the franchise clause of the Mississippi constitution of 1890—an eternal monument to Mississippi's foremost statesman, Gen. James Z. George.

Here was a man who had fought through the Civil War. He had given the best of his young manhood in defense of the doctrine of states' rights. He had returned from Appamattox to take up the work of rebuilding a shattered country. He had known the humiliation of disfranchisement. He had lived under laws passed by the ignorant under the domination of renegades. He had seen Mississippi womanhood cowering and shuddering from a fear that walked with it day and night. And, out of all this, and from all this, his great brain evolved a remedy that gave Mississippi a solution of the problem for so long as the white people of this state remained solidly in one party. And this remedy has been copied by the other southern states.

Little did he ever dream that the day would come when any Mississippi woman, a deluded follower of Republican propaganda, would seek to overturn this protection which he had built up for the protection of Mississippi womanhood! Little did he think that any Mississippi man would ever unthinkingly aid in such a movement!

Let those who are running after strange gods, disguised in the garments of moral sentiments, pause and consider. Like Jason, they are sowing the dragon's teeth from which will arise an army of social ills. Like Pandora they are opening a closed casket to liberate a thousand ills to plague and vex us.

If the majority of our people have become converts to the Republican party, then let us all be Republicans. If the majority are still Democratic, then let us all remain Democrats. But under no conditions, under no circumstances, let us be divided, when our happiness and our safety rest on the bedrock of political solidity.

SAUNDERS WILBURN.

"Please wire collect answer to the following which is being sent to all members of Congress. Do you hold that all provisions of the Constitution should be impartially enforced? If so, will you introduce or vote for a bill to carry into effect the second section of the Fourteenth Amendment?"

Substantially the same telegram was sent to the new candidates for the 34 Senate seats and the 435 House seats which are being filled at this election. Altogether, the query was sent to more than 900 persons.

Thus far 128 answers have been received. Of these 57 are from present members of Congress, 11 being from Senators and 46 from representatives.

Of the senators, eight declare for enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment, two are against it and one is evasive. Of the representatives, 37 are for enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment, seven are against and two are evasive.

The 71 answers received from new candidates include three from Senate nominees and 68 from House nominees.

Of the new senatorial candidates, two are for enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment and one is evasive.

Of the new House candidates, 63 are for enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment, two are against and three are evasive.

Congress is overwhelmingly dry. It is presumed that the next Congress also will be.

Legislation to put more teeth into the Volstead Act for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment will have easy sailing.

Will the dry Congress show equal zeal in promoting legislation to make the second section of the Fourteenth Amendment effective?

Representation of the Southern States in the House would be reduced by about 33 if it were cut down in proportion to the disfranchisement of negroes in these states, according to a recent estimate. Nearly all of the present members of Congress from Southern states are dry and any reduction in representation under the terms of the Fourteenth Amendment would tend to weaken the dry majority besides limiting the influence of those states in the national law-making body.

Answers thus far received tend to show a solid lineup in the South against enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment. A number of drys in the North and West have responded in favor of its enforcement, but most of their leaders in the present Congress are yet to be heard from.

Will 'Drys' Make Equal Efforts To Enforce 14th, 18th Amendments?

By ARTHUR CRAWFORD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Does Congress favor impartial enforcement of all provisions of the Constitution?

Are its members as ready to carry out the mandate in the second section of the Fourteenth Amendment as they are to support measures for the enforcement of th Eighteenth Amendment?

How do the drys, who regard the prohibition amendment as sacred, justify their failure to take steps as directed by the second section of the Fourteenth Amendment toward the reduction in the representation in Congress of Southern States which have disfranchised the negro?

In seeking light on these questions, The Chicago Tribune through its Washington bureau, has propounded an inquiry to all present members of Congress and to all candidates in the coming election.

The following telegram was sent during the past week to all members of the Senate and House:

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

General.

NEGRO OWES REPUBLICAN PARTY NOTHING, SAYS THE GREAT CHURCHMAN, BRYANT

Editorial Note: That there is pronounced and effective division on the part of the Negro people of America in national politics, is again asserted in a lengthy opinion by Mr. Ira T. Bryant, secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School Union of the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

It is Mr. Bryant's opinion that the Republican Party is not dealing fairly with the Negro and that he could lose nothing by showing interest in the election of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the standard-bearer for democracy. Mr. Bryant properly calls attention to the attitude of office-holding Negroes and party leaders. He uses very plains terms when referring to the two parties as major political institutions, and, one would get the thought that the eminent and influential churchman will cast his vote and use his influence for the election of Governor Smith.

Here is what he says:

NEGRO OWES REPUBLICAN PARTY NOTHING

(By Ira T. Bryant)

Yes, Negroes in this election, as in others, will be standing in large numbers loyally behind the nominee of the Republican Party. It's not so much a question of party policies as it is of early environments and training. The spell-binders will literally shell the woods with their hackneyed bunk about the debt of the Negro to the "Grand Old Party." Much will be said about the freeing of the Negro, but precious little about the infinitely greater freedom that came to the white man and to this country as a result of the Civil War. Civil freedom, as great as it is, means nothing as compared with a freedom of conscience, with its accompanying satisfaction of having done right in the sight of God. Such a glorious accomplishment for the white man in the sum totals of the reconstruction struggles is the very crux of the victory—freedom to the slaves a mere by-product. The party of Lincoln saved itself and the country as well in destroying human slavery; the Negro, by his valiant deeds in the field of battle, assisted not only in freeing himself, but in saving the Union. 'Tis known that Lincoln believed with all his soul that no country that boasted the traditions of the Revolutionary period could keep its self-respect and expouse a policy of "half free and half slave," but in what he did and said he was impelled by his interest in the country rather than any special love or consideration for the Negro as such.

IRA T. BRYANT

The Negro poured his life into the struggles of the Union with such freedom and alacrity as to win the admiration of the world and the party of Lincoln sought to reward his fealty and loyalty to the stars and stripes by clothing him with the full mantle of American citizenship. It was that spirit of gratitude, (crystalized in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution of the country), and not the natural consequences of the war, as these salaried spell-binders would have us believe, that placed the Negro under obligation to the Republican Party. Proof of that fact lies in the fact that up until very recently every Republican Party platform has clearly renewed its allegiance to the principles and purposes that gave rise to these two amendments of the Constitution. As meaningless and as false as that stereotyped piece to catch the Negro has been, our Republican brethren have grown so cold and indifferent as to delete that little morsel from the party's declaration of principles.

LET'S READ WHAT LINCOLN WROTE W. H. SEWARD, SECRETARY OF STATE, IN THE SPRING OF 1862

"I would save the Union. I would save it the shortest way under the Constitution. The sooner the national authority can be restored, the nearer the Union will be "the Union as it was." If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time save slavery, I do not agree with them. If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time destroy slavery, I do not agree with them. My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union, and is not either to save or to destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without freeing any slave, I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves, I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing some and leaving others alone, I would also do that. What I do about slavery and the colored race, I do because I believe it helps to save the Union; and what I forbear, I forbear because I do not believe it would help to save the Union. I shall do less whenever I shall believe what I am doing hurts the case, and I shall do more whenever I shall believe doing more will help the cause."

President Harding's Advice

It was in that memorable address which Warren Harding made in Birmingham, Alabama, that he advised the Negro to cease voting as one great block for the Republican Party. Think of such advice coming from the head of the party—the president of the United States! This same "head of the party" follows up that advice with the declaration that he "would not appoint to Federal office any Negro where the appointment must be confirmed by the United States Senate. Shades of Roosevelt! Does any sane Negro need any clearer proof of the real attitude of those who have taken over the reins of the Republican Party? And Calvin Coolidge has during his term of service followed words with action. No Negro has been elevated to a position of honor because Coolidge has adopted the policies of Harding. Mr. Douglass once said something about "the Republican Party is the ship; all else is sea." But what would Mr. Douglass say if he were here now and could see how the captain and other high officers have thrown us overboard?

Why Vote For Hoover?

The Negro spell-binders are all at a loss for some reason to give why Negroes should vote for Mr. Hoover. In private they will plainly tell you so. They formerly argued that "the Democrats do not want us," but they grow silent when you point to the incontrovertible proof that the Republican Party is not one whit better in that respect. If the Democratic Party NEVER wants us, the Republican Party speaks to us only once every four years. Between the two, to some of us the attitude of the former is considerably more honorable.

They say we should vote for Mr. Hoover because we were "caged-off" at the Convention at Houston, but they forget that before we were caged-off at the enemy's meeting in Houston we were Jim-Crowed in the meeting of our friends at Kansas City.

The treachery within our ranks that recently brought about the beheading of Ben Davis in Georgia, Cohen in Louisiana, and Perry Howard in Mississippi was undoubtedly inspired by white Republican Party leaders in their bid for Ku Klux Klan votes in the South. Think of a party that condones upon the leader before Mr. Roosevelt. After he had finished Mr. Roosevelt's calmly replied in this manner: "The Negro in that state keeps up such of like ilk presuming to talk about official decency in anybody! In fact it's calmly organization as there is. You white people made a big fight to keep them hard for some of us to believe that Harding himself was not personally yourselves. Why shouldn't you be willing to do something for them? involved in some of the shabby work of his appointees.

But the most cowardly aspect of this Republican treachery to the Negro race is found in Secretary Work's recent statement in Washington reflecting the upon the integrity of Negro political leaders of the past and his effort to do ance of the sloven hand by the veiled promise of great things to come to the one race by reason of a "new leadership among Negroes." Such rot deceives no one. The truth is the men of the race now managing the affairs of the party are not one whit better in any respect than those of other days. Politics is politics, whether yesterday, today or tomorrow. With rare exception, those in it are there for what they can get either money or prestige. Whatever happens in Georgia or Mississippi is exactly what happens in every other state, although possibly with a different background. It takes money to maintain organizations and it certainly stands to reason that those who will hold the offices should pay upkeep of the party organization.

Some white man once tried to work up a feeling against the head of a Negro organization who happened to be a Negro, and made a vigorous attack upon the leader before Mr. Roosevelt. After he had finished Mr. Roosevelt's calmly replied in this manner: "The Negro in that state keeps up such of like ilk presuming to talk about official decency in anybody! In fact it's calmly organization as there is. You white people made a big fight to keep them hard for some of us to believe that Harding himself was not personally yourselves. Why shouldn't you be willing to do something for them? involved in some of the shabby work of his appointees.

But the most cowardly aspect of this Republican treachery to the Negro race is found in Secretary Work's recent statement in Washington reflecting the upon the integrity of Negro political leaders of the past and his effort to do ance of the sloven hand by the veiled promise of great things to come to the one race by reason of a "new leadership among Negroes." Such rot deceives no one. The truth is the men of the race now managing the affairs of the party are not one whit better in any respect than those of other days. Politics is politics, whether yesterday, today or tomorrow. With rare exception, those in it are there for what they can get either money or prestige. Whatever happens in Georgia or Mississippi is exactly what happens in every other state, although possibly with a different background. It takes money to maintain organizations and it certainly stands to reason that those who will hold the offices should pay upkeep of the party organization.

Some white man once tried to work up a feeling against the head of a Negro organization who happened to be a Negro, and made a vigorous attack

Negro Should Divide Vote

This writer believes there is merit in the Harding advice to Negroes to divide their votes. Aside from that we stand for the election of Smith (1) because he stands for something, and (2) because he has the guts to say without being prodded, just what he does stand for. In this respect he is in mark contrast with Hoover, the man of indecision, the sphynx of the looking-both-ways variety. He has never boasted any party affiliation and just after

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

General.

NEGRO OWES REPUBLICAN PARTY NOTHING, SAYS THE GREAT CHURCHMAN, BRYANT

Editorial Note: That there is pronounced and effective division on the part of the Negro people of America in national politics, is again asserted in a lengthy opinion by Mr. Ira T. Bryant, secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School Union of the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

It is Mr. Bryant's opinion that the Republican Party is not dealing fairly with the Negro and that he could lose nothing by showing interest in the election of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the standard-bearer for democracy. Mr. Bryant properly calls attention to the attitude of office-holding Negroes and party leaders. He uses very plains terms when referring to the two parties as major political institutions, and, one would get the thought that the eminent and influential churchman will cast his vote and use his influence for the election of Governor Smith.

Here is what he says:

NEGRO OWES REPUBLICAN PARTY NOTHING

(By Ira T. Bryant)

Yes, Negroes in this election, as in others, will be standing in large numbers loyally behind the nominee of the Republican Party. It's not so much a question of party policies as it is of early environments and training. The spell-binders will literally beat the woods with their hackneyed bunk about the debt of the Negro to the "Grand Old Party." Much will be said about the freeing of the Negro, but precious little about the infinitely greater freedom that came to the white man and to this country as a result of the Civil War. Civil freedom, as great as it is, means nothing as compared with a freedom of conscience, with its accompanying satisfaction of having done right in the sight of God. Such a glorious accomplishment for the white man in the sum totals of the reconstruction struggles is the very crux of the victory—freedom to the slaves a mere by-product. The party of Lincoln saved itself and the country as well in destroying human slavery; the Negro, by his valiant deeds in the field of battle, assisted not only in freeing himself, but in saving the Union. 'Tis known that Lincoln believed with all his soul that no country that boasted the traditions of the Revolutionary period could keep its self-respect and expouse a policy of "half free and half slave," but in what he did and said he was impelled by his interest in the country rather than any special love or consideration for the Negro as such.

IRA T. BRYANT

The Negro poured his life into the struggles of the Union with such freedom and alacrity as to win the admiration of the world and the party of Lincoln sought to reward his fealty and loyalty to the stars and stripes by clothing him with the full mantle of American citizenship. It was that spirit of gratitude, (crystalized in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution of the country), and not the natural consequences of the war, as these salaried spell-binders would have us believe, that placed the Negro under obligation to the Republican Party. Proof of that fact lies in the fact that up until very recently every Republican Party platform has clearly renewed its allegiance to the principles and purposes that gave rise to these two amendments of the Constitution. As meaningless and as false as that stereotyped piece to catch the Negro has been, our Republican brethren have grown so cold and indifferent as to delete that little morsel from the party's declaration of principles.

LET'S READ WHAT LINCOLN WROTE W. H. SEWARD, SECRETARY OF STATE, IN THE SPRING OF 1862

"I would save the Union. I would save it the shortest way under the Constitution. The sooner the national authority can be restored, the nearer the Union will be "the Union as it was." If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time save slavery, I do not agree with them. If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time destroy slavery, I do not agree with them. My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union, and is not either to save or to destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without freeing any slave, I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves, I would do it;; and if I could save it by freeing some and leaving others alone, I would also do that. What I do about slavery and the colored race, I do because I believe it helps to save the Union; and what I forbear, I forbear because I do not believe it would help to save the Union. I shall do less whenever I shall believe what I am doing hurts the case, and I shall do more whenever I shall believe doing more will help the cause."

President Harding's Advice

It was in that memorable address which Warren Harding made in Birmingham, Alabama, that he advised the Negro to cease voting as one great block for the Republican Party. Think of such advice coming from the head of the party—the president of the United States! This same "head of the party" follows up that advice with the declaration that he "would not appoint to Federal office any Negro where the appointment must be confirmed by the United States Senate. Shades of Roosevelt! Does any sane Negro need any clearer proof of the real attitude of those who have taken over the reins of the Republican Party? And Calvin Coolidge has during his term of service followed words with action. No Negro has been elevated to a position of honor because Coolidge has adopted the policies of Harding. Mr. Douglass once said something about "the Republican Party is the ship; all else is sea." But what would Mr. Douglass say if he were here now and could see how the captain and other high officers have thrown us overboard?

Why Vote For Hoover?

The Negro spell-binders are all at a loss for some reason to give why Negroes should vote for Mr. Hoover. In private they will plainly tell you so. They formerly argued that "the Democrats do not want us," but they grow silent when you point to the incontrovertible proof that the Republican Party is not one whit better in that respect. If the Democratic Party NEVER wants us, the Republican Party speaks to us only once every four years. Between the two, to some of us the attitude of the former is considerably more honorable.

They say we should vote for Mr. Hoover because we were "caged-off" at the Convention at Houston, but they forget that before we were caged-off at the enemy's meeting in Houston we were Jim-Crowed in the meeting of our friends at Kansas City.

The treachery within our ranks that recently brought about the beheading of Ben Davis in Georgia, Cohen in Louisiana, and Perry Howard in Mississippi was undoubtedly inspired by white Republican Party leaders in their bid for Ku Klux Klan votes in the South. Think of a party that condones such characters as Fall, Dougherty, Denby, Forbes and others upon the leader before Mr. Roosevelt. After he had finished Mr. Roosevelt of like ilk presuming to talk about official decency in anybody! In fact it's calmly replied in this manner: "The Negro in that state keeps up such hard for some of us to believe that Harding himself was not personally organization as there is. You white people made a big fight to keep them involved in some of the shabby work of his appointees. yourselves. Why shouldn't you be willing to do something for them?

But the most cowardly aspect of this Republican treachery to the Negro When this writer was an employee in the Government Printing Office race is found in Secretary Work's recent statement in Washington reflecting the more than two thousand journeymen printers sought an increase of one upon the integrity of Negro political leaders of the past and his effort to dodollar per day in salary. They put their case in the hands of two Senators, ance the sloven hand by the veiled promise of great things to come to the one race by reason of a "new leadership among the Negroes." Such rot deceives no one Republican and one Democrat. They got the increase, but not till each The truth is the men of the race now managing the affairs of the party printer had signed a note promising to pay twenty-five dollars in the event are not one whit better in any respect than those of other days. Politics is carty the bill went through. That's what happened "right under the dome of the politics, whether yesterday, today or tomorrow. With rare exception, those is capitol."

in it are there for what they can get in either money or prestige. Whatever happens in Georgia or Mississippi is exactly what happens in every other divise

Negro Should Divide Vote

This writer believes there is merit in the Harding advice to Negroes to state, although possibly with a different background. It takes money to divide their votes. Aside from that we stand for the election of Smith (1) maintain organizations and it certainly stands for reason that those who because he stands for something, and (2) because he has the guts to say hold the offices should pay upkeep of the party organization. without being prodded, just what he does stand for. In this respect he is in mark contrast with Hoover, the man of indecision, the sphynx of the looking-

Some white man once tried to work up a feeling against the head of a both-ways variety. He has never boasted any party affiliation and just after the organization who happened to be a Negro, and made a vigoruos attack the war there was considerable talk of making him the nominee of the Democratic Party. Undoubtedly a genius for organization, he may have accepted place in the Coolidge cabinet upon condition that certain things would come to pass.

Oh, they tell us he struck a blow at segregation in his department. Maybe so, but not until he became a candidate in Ohio against Senator Willis for the Convention delegates and a committee of Negroes had informed him that Negroes in Ohio knew about and resented the segregation in his department.

But, say they, Negroes should support him in his remarkable stand for prohibition and the amendment. Remarkable is indeed the word, when we recall that for so long he seemingly did not know how he stood on the question and the meaningless statement he did finally make came as a result of being "smoked out."

He said he stands for the Eighteenth Amendment and is opposed to any effort at modification. That's the identical stand of Harding and Coolidge. The peroration of his acceptance speech was a wonderful tribute of endorsement for Coolidge policies. Under the administration which he underwrote the prohibition program of the government has been a mighty force to which every school boy can testify. These must must know that open and above board violation of laws tends to break down every fabric of orderly government and to breed a general disrespect for lawful authoriyt. They bow to a public clamor with such promises as they know to be meaningly and absurd.

But, say his friends, the fact that he is powerless to bring about the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment does not necessarily divorce him from his interest in it and his belief in its efficacy. Certainly not, but isn't his wholehearted approval of the Coolidge administration an endorsement of the latter's effort at enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment? And in the light of that fact hasn't one the right to presume that his effort to enforce this law will be just about as strong as has been those of Coolidge? But if the purpose of this stand on the Eighteenth Amendment was a mere feint to gratify the whims of a bunch of dreamers reaching out for what is impracticable, why have they in their platform and other documents withheld from the Negro this similar little bait which they have quadrennially poked under his nose about the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments? Certainly he knows they mean nothing (just about what Hoover means about the Eighteenth) but somehow we just look for it and indeed like to hear them make their lies about what they think of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments.

The Man Al Smith

We shall cast our vote for Mr. Al Smith if for no other reason than to show to the Republican party that they cannot insult all the Negoes with impunity and still keep us in line. We owe Mr. Smith nothing and to be perfectly fair the party that Mr. Smith represents owes us nothing, politically speaking. We have been their consistent enemy, and if there was anything they stood for that we did not oppose it was because we did not know of it. It might help us some to remember that this Southern Democrat which some Northern Negroes delight so to villify, has been a very pronounced enemy to the Northern White Republican and has said some pretty hard things about him. As a matter of fact the hatred within the breast of the Southern white man was aimed more at the Northern white man than at the Negro. The latter was just a victim of circumstances. But in spite of what the Southern white man has done and said, in spite of his open insults, we find the Republicans of the North literally burying their feelings, throwing the Negro allies overboard int othe mercies of the enemy, forgetting the past and taking on the spirit of such earnest wooing as would bring blush to the hero of a love plot.

The white man knows that if you would have friends you must show yourself friendly and he acts accordingly and advances. The Negro, seemingly, stands back, nursing his grievances of the past, consistently lines up against those from whom he must get his daily bread, and starves.

But, say our Negro Republican "whoopers," "the Negro has nothing to expect from Smith's election." That's merely an opinion. Certainly past performances do not bear out the statement. The Negroes for such support as they have given Mr. Smith in New York have received (comparatively) considerably more in the form of political recognition than they have gotten from any Republican president since Roosevelt's time.

Let it be understood this writer is not in politics, neither is he in touch with any one who is in politics, and what is more he is among the last of our group who could be referred to as an "Uncle Tom" type of Negro. He does not drink liquor and would suffer no inconvenience if there should not be made another drop of the vile stuff. But we are opposed to such prohibition humbuggery as now confronts the country. We believe more in the modification program of Mr. Smith than in the one of nullification represented by Mr. Hoover. We believe as now constituted infinitely more harm than good has come from the effects of the Eighteenth Amendment. We believe that real peace, where there are strong contending parties, comes only from a spirit of compromise. We greatly admire the courage of Mr. Smith in contending for some neutral ground upon which these two strong contending forces can meet.

It's silly to compare the question of slavery with that of prohibition. Wrong is inherent in slavery; with liquor the harm comes from the use to which one puts it. And finally we can imagine some things happening that are fraught with more danger to the race than the ascendency of Senator Robinson to the office of President in the event of Al Smith's death. Let others vote and do as they please, but as for us we shall vote for Mr. Smith, first for the purpose of showing our contempt for the Republican party and the hypocrites in power, and for the additional reason that we believe that the hope for the rank and file of our people, particularly those of the South, depends largely upon their success in making friends with those among whom they must live and from whom they must get their living; and the race goes a long step in that direction when it sets in to ferret out and to point out some of the good qualities of the Southern white man as well as his bad traits.

But come what will or may, let us see to it that there be no strife and quarrel among our group if perchance any considerable number should accept the advice of Mr. Harding and put a "little something" on both horses, so that we can "sit pretty" matters not who wins.

G. O. P. FILES EXPENSE ACCOUNT

Baltimore Afro-American

Democrats Also Give Account Of Money Spent For Publicity

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8.—The Republican colored voters division filed no report of its campaign receipts and expeditures with the clerk of the House of Representatives. The report of the Republican national committee contains the expenditures charged against the budget allowed the colored voters division.

According to the report of the Republican national committee the payroll of the colored voters division included the following weekly payments:

Robert L. Mays, Chicago, $50; Frank A. Byron, Chicago, $50; Mrs. Myrtle Foster Cook, Chicago, $125; Mrs. Lethia C. Fleming, Chicago, $125; Mrs. Grace Evans, Chicago, $75; J. A. Josey, Chicago, $50; George W. Lee, Chicago, $75; Carey B. Lewis, Chicago, $75; Homer G. Phillips, Chicago, $125; A. H. Roberts, Chicago, $125; P L. Prattis, Chicago, $50; C. R. Richardson, Chicago, $125; Roscoe C. Simmons, Chicago, $125.

Rienzi B. Lemus, Washington, $70; George W. Harris, New York, $125; Mrs. Addie W. Hunton, New York, $100; Charles E. Mitchell, New York, $70; Fred R. Moore, New York, $125;; R. L. Vann, expense account, Washington, $125; Ernest T. Attwell, New York, $125; William T. Andrews, Washington, $100; Mrs. Daisy E. Lampkins, Washington, $100; West A. Hamilton, Washington, $75; Claude A. Barnett, Washington, $150; John T. Risher, Washington, $75; Miss Jeannette Carter, Washington, $50; Mrs. Sarah Pelham Speaks, Washington, $50; W. H. C. Brown, New York, $75.

Neither John R. Hawkins, chairman of the Republican colored voters division, nor Albon L. Holsey, its secretary, is listed as having received any salary. Mr. Hawkins refused his expenses.

Mrs. Amy Garvey, New York, wife of Marcus Garvey, is listed as having received $35.

The following editors are listed in the report of the Republican national committee as having been paid as follows for their news service:

E. W. B. Isaac, Nashville, Tenn., $200; T. Edward Hill, Keystone, Dayton, O., $250; W. P. Dabney, Cincinnati, O., $250; Jacob Tipper, Chicago, Ill., $250; A. M. Davis, Chicago, Ill., $250; J. A. Josey, Milwaukee, Wis., $200; J. E. Mitchell, St. Louis, Mo., $100; N. B. Young, Jr., St. Louis, Mo., $150; E. M. Bryant, St. Louis, Mo., $150; C. A. Franklin, Kansas City, Mo., $1,000.

John Albert Williams, Omaha, Neb., $250; C. C. Galloway, Omaha, Neb., $250; James B. Morris, Des Moines, Ia., $250; S. B. Wilson, Nashville, Tenn., $300; S. W. Broome, Memphis, Tenn., $150; Benjamin J. Perkins, Memphis, Tenn., $150; C. F. Richardson, Houston, Tex., $100; Zenobia Alexander, Buffalo, N. Y., $100; Harry C. Smith, Cleveland, O., $150; G. B. Dailey, Newark, N. J., $300, and Joseph D. Bibb, $150.

The Democrats bought space for their candidate with the following editors:

The Baltimore Afro-American, $2,000; the Louisville News, $375; the Norfolk Journal & Guide, $600; the St. Louis Argus, $1,475; the Washington Eagle, $602.50; the Boston Chronicle, $250; the Cleveland Call & Post, $250; the Kansas City American, $100; the Associated Publisher's Representatives, 3423 Indiana avenue, Chicago, $850; The Boston Guardian, $50, and its editor, William Monroe Trotter, $50; the Gary Sun, $50; the Milwaukee Defender, $50; the Negro World, $50; the Omaha Monitor, $50; the Kansas City Call, $150; the Fraternal Review, $100; the Newark Herald, $100; the West Indian Committee Journal, $100; the National Crusader, $50; Robert L. Vann, $500; New York Contender, $500; West Indian Times, $175; West Indian News, $100; and Interstate Tattler, $525.

Bishop Ransom

Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom of Julian D. Rainey, chairman of Walton, W. Va., $400; Roscoe Dungee, Oklahoma City, Okla., $500; John Rice, Dallas, Tex., $200; A. M. Houghton, Boston, Mass., $350; W. A. Hamilton, Washington, D. C., $100; Roy C. Garvin, Kansas City, Kan., $100; George W. McDade, Knoxville, Tenn., $120; James E. Washington, Memphis, Tenn., $150; T. J. Johnson, Memphis, Tenn., $400.

I. Willis Cole, Louisville, Ky., $400; Webster L. Porter, Knoxville, Tenn., $500; Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh, Pa., $1,000; W. T. Andrews, Baltimore, Md., $500; P. B. Young, Norfolk, Va., $200; F. Morris Murray, Washington, D. C., $400; E. Washington Rhodes, Philadelphia, Pa., $500; Arthur Lynch, Philadelphia, Pa., $300; George W. Harris, New York City, $500; Fred R. Moore, New York City, $500; William H. Davis, New York City, $800; William Monroe Trotter, Boston, Mass., $250.

William J. Robinson, Detroit, Mich., $250; Cornelius Edwoods, Toledo, O., $250; Norman McGhee, Cleveland, O., $250; John Rives

Colored Smith-for-President League, received a salary of $200 a week; Mr. Mizelle, $125 a week, and Mr. Nelson, $150 a week. Other salaries were Lester A. Walton, director of publicity, $150 a week, according to the report.

Salaries

the African Methodist Episcopal Church, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Smith-for-President the Colored League, is listed as having expended about $5,000.

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation

Republicans And Democrats Swap Horses

News

March 4th, 1929, We'll Say, "Goodbye Cal", Howdydo "Al"

Louisville, Ky.

9-22-28

The Republican Party And The Ku-Klux-Klan

By JOSEPH C. MANNING.
58 West 119th St., N. Y. C.
Former member of the Alabama Legislature and former leader of the Populist-Republican fusion party of Alabama and the South.

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS SWAP HORSES.

There has been, arising from the action of the national conventions of the two great political parties, a tremendous shifting of party policies and of party alliances.

Party control of the national Democratic party ceases to abide with the former "South in the saddle" Democratic party. New leadership and a change of front have transpired as to issues.

At Kansas City, the Republican party took up what has been discarded by the national Democratic party and has appropriated all of the intolerance and all of the bigotry, all of the race-hating riff-raff, that has been associated with the former "South in the saddle" Democratic party. The existing Republican party certainly ought to have an ass as an emblem.

Negro-hating, Southern-church shouting fanatics and hypocrites of the Anti-Saloon League and Ku Klux, since the Eastern and Western Democrats nominated Smith at Houston, find their haven of rest in Hooverism.

Every Ku Klux in the East and West, every twin of the Ku Klux, constituting the Anti-Saloon League in the East and the West, is now in and lined up with the so-called Republican party.

What the J. Thomas Heflin, Alabama Ku Klux and Anti-Saloon League Democratic party has always been in Alabama, this poor white trash, Negro Lynching, Alabama Democratic party, just so has become in spirit the Republican party upon its taking to its bosom at Kansas City precisely those things long dominant in Alabama.

The Democratic party in the States of the East and the West, through taking up the leadership of Smith, has overcome and repudiated these un-American agencies of disruption of the peace, welfare and security of our national Government, while the so-called Republican party has become absorbed by them.

General.

No Lincoln Republican has any business in the Hoover political camp, unless possessed of willingness also to become a renegade Republican and fight tolerance and human freedom side by side with the supporters of the Ku Klux and Anti-Saloon League.

The Ku Klux and Anti-Saloon League, working together, have made a political condition in the South with which even the Southern Democratic party has nothing to compare. Shall these agencies dominate the North, through the so-called Republican party of the East and the West? is the issue in the present campaign.

The forces of bigotry, of intolerance, of race prejudice, of religious fanaticism and hate are predominant in shaping the platform policies and in fluencing the party organization and leadership of the so-called Republican party in the East and the West, while these forces have no such power in the Democratic party in the North.

The influence of the Ku Klux sentiment of the East and West and of the North, upon the Republican party ought to be readily comprehended by the colored people of the country, since it is this influence which has had most to do with the failure of colored people to receive Federal patronage of consequence during the Harding and the Coolidge administrations. Not only has this sentiment within the so-called Republican party accomplished this. It has also kept colored people from civil service appointments in smaller Government positions in Washington, although their names have reached the high rating essential under civil service examination. Demotions, because of color, and no promotions, have become the practice, together with increased segregation. This, too, under both Harding and Coolidge. All of this, also, because of a desire to placate the anti-Negro Ku Klux Republicans. It is believed by the so-called Republican party leaders that colored men and women voters are so servile and subservient that they will not, as other peoples do, register a vote of protest whatever lack of consideration or insult is given them. They are practically considered as owned by the so-called Republican party. The only way for colored America to be respected and heard by these recreant Republican leaders is to throw them down from their continuing power as hard as they have thrown down the colored people and their just deserts.

All of this Republican "hokum" about Prohibition does not interest anyone who knows that those insisting upon the enforcement of the 18th Amendment, because it is in the Constitution, have stood by for years, while the 15th Amendment has been lynched. Laws cannot make people good. Pails and penitentiaries will fail to make "shouting Methodists" and those Southern preachers who do not believe that the Gospel of Jesus is sufficient to save sinners, stay in their pulpits, get out of the political rostrum, and discontinue trying to be in the Christian ministry and in hypocritical and dirty Anti-Saloon League and Ku Klux politics at the same time.

One who engages in the intemperate use of liquor, gets drunk, but sobers up. The intemperance of intolerance and race hate has been on a spree in the South for fifty years, without sobering up for once, until the fangs of fanaticism have reached into the Republican party, capturing it, pulling it from its moorings, gutting it of its principles. Smash it and all of its works. Smash it in 1928!

The fanatics of the Ku Klux and Anti-Saloon League of the South, who are opposing Smith and shouting "Smith and Satan," ought to know, and would know, that but for the ignorance of this poor trash, Satan is not in a bottle nor a jug, but finds lodgment in many human hears and minds. If the devil does not reign supreme in the heads and minds of those who revel in lynching, boast of race hate and glory in keeping the Negro down, more devil than could be crammed in a flask or a jug, then we are no judge on the subject of devil, big or little. One drunk loves everybody, another wants to fight. The spirit of each was in the heart and mind before liquor hit the stomach. Lynchers go forth in the South, not liquor drunks, but on that fifty-year drunk of oSuthern intolerance and race hate. These Anti-Saloon League and Ku Klux preachers in the South are yet drunkards of this type, together with their blinded followers, and they walk in the darkness of hate. It is time to strike at the growth of this influence in the North and the only way to do it is to defeat the so-called Republican party, which has become an ally of it. Elect Smith, who is opposed to it.

Those Republican political flimflammers who are showing that Tammany will dominate Smith ought to understand that it is preferable to have a Tammany-supported President than a Ku-Klux-Klan elected President.

A city Democratic party committee organization, known as Tammany, its political machinery conducted as any other party machinery is conducted, ought not, by any stretch of mental exaggeration be brought to comparison with a hooded, secret and outlaw order that is nurtured by intolerance and has incited flogging and led to church-burning.

Those of the leaders of the Republican party who wish to make the local city politics of New York City a national issue in a presidential campaign are they who fail to drive the Ku-Klux-Klan out of the national capital or its nation wide influence out of the Republican party in which it now is a determining factor in its control, and dominating it in such State as Indiana!

If the choice shall be Smith and Tammany or Hoover and Ku Klux, then for me, it is Smith and Tammany!

Tammany governs because the human equation is in Tammany. This city is so long ruled by Tammany because, with Tammany, the human equation and the human heart throb has been uppermost. These are the facts as to its power. All these years, too, New York City has grown in greatness. It stands out, unchallenged, the greatest city on earth.

The human heart throb of Tammany is preferable to the hooded thugism of a Hoover Ku Klux.

Already hypocritical Republican orators, insensible to the blight of graft in the highest circles of the Federal government, rant about Tammany, while Ku Klux politics and Ku Klux politicians hang around their necks with the deadly weight of mill-stones as they flounder in a sea of political and official corruption. The Ku-Klux-Klan, hung around the neck of the Republican party and the Hoover candidacy, is a nation-wide menace to the liberty guarantees of the Contstitution of the United States.

What of Tammany, anyhow, and all its works? The City of New York is the largest and the greatest city in the world. Its public institutions are typical of the highest order of American civilization. Its educational instiutions challenge comparison with any anywhere. Its hospitals, its humane and benevolent provisions for the afflicted bespeak the loftiest step of human welfare and ministration to the suffering. Its parks, its places of amusements, its galleries of art—all of these acclaim the topmost of achievement. Here, side by side, in human tolerance and sympathetic accord, live peoples from every part of America and from every country and clime. Here is equal opportunity for all.

CROSBY MAN WITHOUT PARTY, BILBO SAYS

Jumped Democrats; Negro Republicans Repudiate Him.

RAP DEVELOPMENT BODY

Mississippi's Governor Calls to Mind Fable of Striped Animal in Flaying "Piccayunish Twin" Who Announced Support of Herbert Hoover.

Special to The Commercial Appeal.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 28.—Branding L. O. Crosby, president of the Mississippi state board of development, L. J. Polse, manager,

NEGRO NOT ISSUE, SAY SOUTHERN DAILIES

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 18.—Political leaders in the South, irrespective of party, are admonished to refrain from further raising the race issue, in an editorial appearing in the Manufacturer's Record, published in this city by Col. Richard H. Edmonds. The Record agrees with the Richmond News Leader that "the Negro is not an issue in this campaign," and expresses the hope that the newspapers on both sides will emphasize this fact in the interest of the general welfare.

The following quotations from the editorial set forth the Record's view:

"Deprecation by the Richmond News Leader, an ardent supporter of Governor Smith, of the 'Negro menace' in the South as a campaign issue is so sane and opportune that true friends of the South will hope other Southern editors will emphasize this point, regardless of their party affiliations. 'The Negro is not an "issue" in this campaign,' says the News Leader, and in that pronouncement it speaks truly. * * *

"Left to themselves, the white people and the Negroes of the South will dwell together in amity and mutual benefit economically. This is a fact that the leaders of both great political parties must grasp, and thus refrain hereafter from promoting the 'race issue' or the 'Negro menace.' In the heat of a political campaign of a few weeks duration they must be careful not to undo all that individuals and organizations have brought about in the creation of a spirit of harmony between the races in the Southern states."

and Lamont [illegible] manager of state Republican headquarters in a variety of adjectives, Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo addressed the following message to the people of Mississippi tonight:

"My attention has just been called to a telegram sent to Hon. Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate for president, by that prince of a fount[illegible] masquerouflaging, double-crossing, uncouth, traitorous bolter and deserter, L. O. Crosby, one of the Picayune-ish twins from Picayune, Miss. In this telegram Crosby brands all true, loyal and white Democrats in Mississippi as the "riff raff" of the state. Ye gods, think of this unbathed ass branding the great Democrats of Mississippi like Pat Harrison, John Sharp Williams, Judge Robert Powell, Judge Truly, Stone Deavers, Noel White, Percy Quinn, Will Collier, and more than 250,000 stalwart Democratic men and women in all walks of life as the "riff raff" of the state.

Even Negroes Don't Want Him.

"Crosby is so sorry, undesirable and reprehensible that even the negro leaders of the negro Republican party of Mississippi have already rushed into print as shown by the statement of Eugene Booze, from Mound Bayou, hubby of Mary, that they don't want him—they don't need him in their business—he can't be used to an advantage even in a black and tan Republican organization where recent developments show that power and pelf are about only excuses for its existence in Mississippi. Crosby's only status and condition just now reminds me of the story of the hard luck that the pole cat had in trying to participate in an animal convention. It is said that when all the animals had gathered and the pole cat appeared they at once disbanded, going in every direction. After several meetings and being dispelled every time by the appearance of the pole cat, the pole cat finally approached a wise old coon and asked why the other animals of the kingdom did not want him to be present—the pole cat remarking that "I am beautiful in shape and size, and have a beautiful tail, handsomely decorated. I make a good appearance—I have disturbed no one—I haven't anything to say and I can't understand why I am not welcome in these animal conventions." Whereupon, the coon replied, "You are undesirable not for what you have done, but it is the great fear that we have of what you may do."

"Crosby's recent announcement that he has quit the Democratic party and is now supporting the negro Republican party of the south and is going to vote for the Englishman Herbert Hoover, the man who forced the white girls, some of them Mississiypi girls, to work as secretaries and stenographers for negro bosses and force them to use the same towels, soap, toilets and rest rooms with negroes in the Department of Commerce at Washington, while he, Hoover, was a member of the corrupt and disgraceful Harding cabinet, is no surprise to the people of Mississippi; especially to those who have been in a position to know the real Crosby. He has been a strutting fraud from the very beginning and it is well remembered that he met Perry Howard in New Orleans and tried to buy him out as the official Republican pie dispenser in Mississippi. Perry Howard may have sold public offices, as he is charged, within an indictment in the federal court at Biloxi, but be it said to his credit, he would not sell himself and his position to a man like Crosby. For this the white people [illegible] solid ten.

The entire south is stirred as never before in this generation. Even those who are supporting Smith are at odds with him on many points and are moved only by a sense of party loyalty, and often by the feeling that white supremacy might be endangered by a Republican victory in the south this year.

Admire His Achievements.

Smith's supporters in the south quite generally disagree with him on prohibition and there is deep antagonism to his church. They do not like his Tammany background. Many genuinely admire some of his legislative achievements and his courage.

The anti-Smith forces are moved by deep emotions and many of them are not breaking with the party of their fathers without keen pangs. The Democratic party is something more to the south than just a political party. To many it stands for the spirit of the south which was crushed under the tyranny of the reconstruction. To many the Republican party still is the political organization which crushed their grandfathers and fathers in the days when negroes and carpetbaggers ran riot over the desolated south.

So when the average man in the south breaks with the Democratic party, he is breaking with this tradition. And it is so hard for most of them to do it that thousands will refuse to vote for Smith but will not vote for Hoover. They cannot bring themselves to vote for a Republican, no matter who he may be. This deep-seated loyalty to the Democratic party is fundamental to all politics in the south.

G. O. P. a Small Pebble.

The result of this feeling has been that in many states the Republican party has not existed. In Texas, Mississippi and in most of the solid ten, Republicans do not put up state tickets. Only scattered groups of federal office holders, and their associates often negroes, vote for the Republican presidential ticket in some places in the south. In many counties there are less than a dozen Republican votes.

The Democratic party has the superior organization in every southern state—often the only organization. In this campaign Republicans and anti-Smith Democrats have hastily thrown together organizations.

For the most part these will be inadequate to compete with the Democratic organizations on election day. Some states like Georgia and North Carolina do not have the secret Australian ballot in many counties and the open ballot works in favor of the Democrats. Anti-Smith Democrats and Republicans intend to man precincts this time to insure a fair count. Feeling is high and some fear disorders at the polls.

Democrats Intact.

In all of these states the Democratic organization has remained practically intact except for the bolt of Senator Simmons in North Carolina and the bolters have been individuals, ministers and defeated officeholders with no future in the party organization. In every southern state the Democratic organization is functioning practically 100 per cent for Smith. Neither Simmons nor Heflin have carried away any of the organization.

Following is a brief survey of these states:

Arkansas—12 electoral votes. Home state of Senator Robinson, vice presidential candidate. No Republican has publicly claimed Hoover had a chance there.

Alabama—9 votes; home of Senator Heflin. Democrats have been obtained to stand as Hoover presidential electors. Gov. Bib Graves, elected governor, by the klan it is said, is supporting Smith. Republicans are making no claims.

Florida—6 votes. An influx of northern Republicans has built up a large prospective Hoover vote. Some Democrats are uneasy and while sure of victory they fear a close vote.

Party Affiliation

Montezuma, Ga., Georgian
Thursday, July 19, 1928

WHITE SUPREMACY.

In the pending national campaign the question of white supremacy is paramount, and supercedes every controversial issue.

It strikes at the very hearthstone of every white man's home in the south.

In Georgia the problem is peculiarly acute. Within the past few days, in the disgraceful disclosures as to juggling federal patronage by a negro referee, this burning question, on which hinges the hope of the south, as it hinged in the dark days of reconsruction, has been accentuated.

In Mississippi, where a negro patronage referee has, as alleged, auctioned postmasterships and other federal jobs, the conditions are so "astonishing," as expressed by members of the senate investigating committee, that a grand jury, rather than a congressional group, has undertaken the investigations. Thus it is all over the south.

And what is to be expected should Secretary Hoover be elected to the presidency?

He is entitled to his racial ideas. It is not charged that he is influenced in them by political expediency. They were made plain during the world war, when, as food administrator, he brought the blacks and whites together, in his numerous division headquarters and office rooms in Washington—men and women of every shade and color—to work side by side, feed from the same tables, and use the same rest rooms.

It was only after the segregation order of President Wilson that such a condition was remedied. That order remained in effect, in all governmental departments, and with entire satisfaction, the white and black employees being properly separated, until a few months ago when upon the initiative of negro politicians of Boston, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, Secretary Hoover abrogated the order as to the department of commerce, and all its branches, and today the same conditions exist as prior to the Wilson segregation order ten years ago. Today the white and black employees, men and women, in all branches of that department, work side by side, use the same rest rooms, and in no respect is there any racial segregation.

There is no purpose to reflect upon the character, or the statesmanship or the business ability of the republican candidate for president. He has never lived in the south. He has only stopped in Georgia for a brief period, and in waiting for his schedule in Savannah the fact that he received as his guest on his private car the negro national committeewoman may have had more political than racial significance. At that time his candidacy for the nomination was brewing.

He lived the most of his adult life in London and in other European capitals. There social and racial conditions are different.

But that does not alter, nor extenuate the situation in this country.

While the racial question is inbred, it is sacred, it is crucial.

The negro is equal to the white before the law, and the administration of the law, in his, and in other states in the "old black belt" gives to him freely and correctly that equality.

He is encouraged to become useful in citizenship, in the trades, in industry, in agriculure.

He is educated through the public school system on a parity with the whites, and the expenses are paid by taxation which accrues largely from the whites.

Every upstanding citizen believes in justice, full and complete, to the negro.

But that does not mean a reliquishment of white supremacy. for which theb est blood of the south was shed to maintain, and which the upstanding thought of Americans, in every state, recognizes to be right.

It does not mean social equality, or negro political domination, as the latter is today in the juggling of federal jobs in Georgia and other states. Will this negro political domination not expand and be made more intolerable if Secretary Hoover becomes the nation's executive?

Former Governor Brough, of Arkansas, speaking before the Press association of this state made this plain when he said the real issue in this national campaign is "Anglo-Saxon supremacy."

Elsewhere in The Constitution today is a communication from Wright Willingham, prominent attorney of Rome, Ga., in which he mades the issue plain.

A negro of Rome is a dispenser of federal patronage, and with Bre'r Davis, of Georgia-at-large, and Bre'r Howard, of Mississippi-at-large, and others, hold the republican throttle in the south.

It is time to think seriously of this question. Mr. Hoover is entitled to his views. Domocratic malcontents and insurrectionists who want to join him, and the negro republican dictators in the south, may find comfort in such company, but white supremacy is the hope of the south. For it we fight!

The Constitution:

Atlanta, Ga., Constitution
Sunday, July 15, 1928

WHITE SUPREMACY.

In the pending national campaign the question of white supremacy is paramount, and supercedes every controversial issue.

It strikes at the very hearthstone of every white man's home in the south.

In Georgia the problem is peculiarly acute. Within the past few days, in the disgraceful disclosures as to juggling federal patronage by a negro referee, this burning question, on which hinges the hope of the south, as it hinged in the dark days of reconsiruction, has been accentuated.

In Mississippi, where a negro patronage referee has, as alleged, auctioned postmasterships and other federal jobs, the conditions are so "astonishing," as expressed by members of the senate investigating committee, that a grand jury, rather than a congressional group, has undertaken the investigations. Thus it is all over the south.

And what is to be expected should Secretary Hoover be elected to the presidency?

He is entitled to his racial ideas. It is not charged that he is influenced in them by political expediency. They were made plain during the world war, when, as food administrator, he brought the blacks and whites together, in his numerous division headquarters and office rooms in Washington—men and women of every shade and color—to work side by side, feed from the same tables, and use the same rest rooms.

It was only after the segregation order of President Wilson that such a condition was remedied. That order remained in effect, in all governmental departments, and with entire satisfaction, the white and black employees being properly separated, until a few months ago when upon the initiative of negro politicians of Boston, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, Secretary Hoover abrogated the order as to the department of commerce, and all its branches, and today the same conditions exist as prior to the Wilson segregation order ten years ago. Today the white and black employees, men and women, in all branches of that department, work side by side, use the same rest rooms, and in no respect is there any racial segregation.

There is no purpose to reflect upon the character, or the statesmanship or the business ability of the republican candidate for president. He has never lived in the south. He has visited it only a few times. He has only stopped in Georgia for a brief period, and in waiting for his schedule in Savannah the fact that he received as his guest on his private car the negro national committeewoman may have had more political than racial significance. At that time his candidacy for the nomination was brewing.

He lived the most of his adult life in London and in other European capitals. There social and racial conditions are different.

But that does not alter, nor extenuate the situation in this country.

While the racial question is inbred, it is sacred, it is crucial.

The negro is equal to the white before the law, and the administration of the law in this, and in other states in the "old black belt" gives to him freely and correctly that equality.

He is encouraged to become useful in citizenship, in the trades, in industry, in agriculture.

He is educated through the public school system on a parity with the whites, and the expenses are paid by taxation which accrues largely from the whites.

Every upstanding citizen believes in justice, full and complete, to the negro.

But that does not mean a relinquishment of white supremacy, for which the best blood of the south was shed to maintain, and which the upstanding thought of Americans, in every state, recognizes to be right.

It does not mean social equality, or negro political domination, as the latter is today in the juggling of federal jobs in Georgia and other states. Will this negro political domination not expand and be made more intolerable if Secretary Hoover becomes the nation's executive?

Former Governor Brough, of Arkansas, speaking before the Press association of his state made this plain when he said the real issue in this national campaign is "Anglo-Saxon supremacy."

Elsewhere in The Constitution today is a communication from Wright Willingham, prominent attorney of Rome, Ga., in which he makes the issue plain.

A negro of Rome is a dispenser of federal patronage, and with Bre'r Davis, of Georgia-at-large, and Bre'r Howard, of Mississippi-at-large, and others, hold the republican throttle in the south.

It is time to think seriously of this question. Mr. Hoover is entitled to his views. Democratic malcontents and insurrectionists who want to join him, and the negro republican dictators in the south, may find comfort in such company. But white supremacy is the hope of the south. For it we fight!

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

General.

COMPARISON OF VOTE IN THE 14TH. WARD COLORED DEMOCRATS MAKE VERY POOR SHOWING

In analyzing and comparing the votes cast for Smith and Hoover for President it is shown that the attempt to throw a large Negro vote in that ward to Al Smith was not a success.

The proof shown by comparing the vote of the precincts of the 14th Ward are repeated and verified by analysis of the white and colored vote of other wards.

Herald - Commonwealth

The total white and colored vote registered and the vote for Smith and Hoover are shown in the following table:

11-17-28

14TH. WARD—Precincts Having White Majorities:

Precinct	White	Colored	Smith	Hoover
1	496	18	290	152
2	461	12	207	201
3	436	3	217	154
4	374	35	205	134
5	368	100	193	188
20	362	118	184	164
21	421	8	202	162
22	371	3	169	152
	3289	297	1767	1303

Precincts Having Colored Majorities

Precinct	White	Colored	Smith	Hoover
6	124	243	81	179
7	17	290	55	157
8	13	421	73	248
9	1	330	37	211
10	85	295	92	185
11	27	384	56	192
12	137	193	108	120
13	2	399	62	220
14	4	327	32	197
15	28	241	31	142
16	32	339	72	134
17	45	279	77	161
18	26	347	76	180
19	8	287	32	153
	547	4375	878	2479

It will be noticed that in every precinct having a majority of white voters Smith received a majority and every precinct showing a colored majority of voters Hoover received an overwhelming majority.

CAMPAIGN LEADERS OF BOTH PARTIES WORRIED OVER NEGRO VOTE

But Neither Raskob nor Work Dares to Discuss the Importance of Race Ballots, Says Magazine Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The leaders of both Democratic and Republican parties are "up in the air" over an element which neither dares make a public issue for fear of exciting the ire of the "solid south.

T. R. B., a Washington correspondent for the New Republic magazine makes the comment that: "it is beginning to be plain to those who look below the surface that the Democratic chances rest very largely on the prospective support of two classes of voters which in the past have been almost uniformly Republican. One of these is the Negro, and the other the Germans. The first has always been a fundamental Republican asset, and the second overwhelmingly Republican since the War.

"The real uncertainty lies with the two groups mentioned, nad in that fact lies one of the most extraordinary features of the whole fight."

T. R. B. then goes on to make the point that from these two sources and these alone is there any hope of making up Smith's loss through the bigots of his own party—a serious loss in every state. Each party has been forced to recognize this fact.

He says neither party is in a position to talk about this phase of the situation, but both are exerting forceful efforts to concentrate upon the problem.

Acording to him the fact that Negroes are leaning toward Smith seems fairly easy of explanation. For one thing he says, Smith is anti-Klan, and fro another the Negro has no feeling of kinship for the candidate Hoover as he has had for the ordinary Republican presidential candidate. And as to the Germans who are admittedly wet, the writer is of the opinion there is no denying that the persistent painting of Hoover as pro-English has haid its effect. Among both Negroes and Germans, Raskob agents said to be "well heeled" with cash, are active and numerous.

The writer points out that in Missouri especalily are the Republicans alarmed. It is well known that Missouri is a vital state for Smith—well night as vital as New York state. It is hardly possible to figure out 266 electoral votes for him without the 18 from Missouri. The concentration of money and effort on both sides grows more intense daily.

The Germans and the Negroes constitute a large proportion of the vote, the magazine states, and the inroads being made among them by Smith agents would seem to indicate that the Democrats will carry the state.

By means of blackboards and voters' schools the Democrats are demonstrating to the Negroes and to the Germans the possbiility of voting the whole Republican ticket with the exception of the presidential nominee; how they can remain Republicans and still vote for a Democratic ppresident.

The Republicans on their part are using the fact that Smith, if he is elected, might die, which would leave the very southern Joe Robinson in the White House, thing which is calculated to strike terror into the hearts of the colored people who dread the effects of a "cracker" as president. The magazine writer regards this sort of campaign argument as "silly" but says it is "practical politics."

NEWS
HAMILTON, O.

SEP 28 1928

COLORED VOTERS LEAGUE FORMED

Enthusiasm Marks Meeting at Middletown—Chief is Capt. G. A. Kinney

Plans for taking part in the Presidential campaign and for the endorsement of candidates were made Thursday evening at a meeting of the Butler County Colored Voters' League held in the Community House at Middletown. The meeting was attended by a number from Hamilton.

Capt. G. A. Kinney, Hamilton, vice president, presided in the absence of Dr. W. T. Darnell, the league president. A business meeting was held at which the following officers were named: President — Capt. G. A. Kinney, Hamilton; Vice-President—Charles A. Walker, Hamilton; Secretary—Thomas A. White, Middletown; Corresponding Secretary —E. A. Banks, Middletown; Treasurer—Dr. W. T. Darnell, Middletown. These with Matthew Russell, Middletown, R. L. Penick, and Albert Gilmore, Hamilton, constitute the executive board.

Several addresses that had the effecet of stimulating the enthusiasm were made. Among those speaking [illegible] Hagans, Hamilton, who dis[illegible] future course of the league. His suggestions were strongly supported by Thomas A. White [illegible] Russell, Middletown. Charles A. Walker in an arousing talk urged support of the Republican ticket from President down to the last man on the county ticket.

The next meeting of the league will be held in Hamilton at the Rescue Home, 138 Pershing avenue, Wednesday evening, Oct. 3. At this meeting it is expected the league will take formal action endorsing party candidates.

The secret scarecrow of both parties is the Negro vote

As The Negro Votes

By KELLY MILLER

For the first time since reconstruction, the Negro goes to the polls next Tuesday emancipated from his emancipators. He has thrown off the thralldom which has held him like a vice to the fortunes of the Grand Old Party. The old Negro may indeed feel bound by ties of eternal gratitude to the party of Lincoln and Sumner, but the young Negro does not. There is a limit beyond which gratitude ceases to be a virtue. The American colonies stung into revolt by injustice and tyranny, quickly forgot the deep debt of gratitude which the struggling daughter in the wilderness owed to her generous and genial mother across the sea. No manly people can ever pledge its love and loyalty in perpetuity under change of time and circumstances. The present election is held in 1928, and not in 1872. The Negro who places his back to the future and his face to the past will continue to vote the Republican ticket to the end of time. The flesh pots of Egypt are always more enticing to the timid and the imorous than the dangers and vicissitudes of the untried desert. I have just scanned in a widely circulated and influential Negro paper, a paid advertisement in two parallel columns, of the goodness of the Republican party and the badness of its Democratic rival. But these contrasted lists of good and evil refer to the things that are past and gone. There is not one absolute or relative word about future prospect and promise. So far as the Negro is concerned, the Republican party is like the potato, the best part is under ground.

If the Negro, as a race supports the grand Old Party in the present election and in the next ten elections to come, there is no apparent likelihood that his political lot would be improved thereby. The Negro acquired an initial momentum for the party of freedom and equality in the early days which it is admittedly difficult to reverse. Those past middle age, the over optimistic who somehow believe that the spirit of Abraham Lincoln will be reincarnated in the Grand Old Party, the timid and hesitant who rather endure the ills they have than risk those they know not of, those of the slavish Uncle Tom type of temperament, the cunning and crafty who hope to gather in the crumbs of favor which fall from the white master's table, will adhere to the Republican standard, though the dry land turn to sea. On the other hand, the forward looking, the progressive, the radical, the new Negro, the intelligentia will revolt against the Republican recreancy, and will risk whatever expediency which may promise change. It must be conceded that the Democratic party does not hold out a promising prospect; but protest against a false friend often incidentally results in benefit to an avowed enemy. If the Negro, North or South expects to make any further political progress, he must by some means overcome the hostility of the Democratic party which effectively blocks his advancement whichever party is in national ascendency. It is abundantly demonstrated that this cannot be done by aligning the race in solid political array against that party. He cannot vote either way without humiliation. No Negro who bears in mind the backward trend of the Republican party for the past thirty years and who is sensible of and sensitive to the renunciation of Kansas City, the crucifixion of Perry Howard, and the olive branch to the lily whites, the alliance with the Ku Klux Klan, the religious bigots and the race intolerants, can vote for the Grand Old Party except with great compunction.

I had hoped to rally the race around the standard of prohibition under the banner of Hoover. But the candidate himself sent down word that prohibition was not to be discussed His influential wet supporters in the East forbade. The Grand Old Party of ancient idealism has harked back to the stand pat doctrine of Mark Hanna. It now proclaims the glad tidings of prosperity and the gospel of guts. None of these things appeal to a people smarting under a sense of moral wrong. You cannot cure the hurt of the soul by proffer of a full dinner pail.

Hereafter, no one will be able to tell, the colored man's political affiliation by his race. This, I hope, will attone for all of the humiliation which the Negro is forced to suffer at the hands of both parties. More Negroes will cast their ballot next Tuesday than at any time since reconstruction. Each voter must decide for himself. In the language of the Chicago Defender, it is to be hoped that he will vote, "sensibly, and not sentimentally." There will be something like two million Negro voters, but no Negro vote.

The secret scarecrow of both parties is the Negro vote

As The Negro Votes

By KELLY MILLER

For the first time since reconstruction, the Negro goes to the polls next Tuesday emancipated from his emancipators. He has thrown off the thralldom which has held him like a vice to the fortunes of the Grand Old Party. The old Negro may indeed feel bound by ties of eternal gratitude to the party of Lincoln and Sumner, but the young Negro does not. There is a limit beyond which gratitude ceases to be a virtue. The American colonies stung into revolt by injustice and tyranny, quickly forgot the deep debt of gratitude which the struggling daughter in the wilderness owed to her generous and genial mother across the sea. No manly people can ever pledge its love and loyalty in perpetuity under change of time and circumstances. The present election is held in 1928, and not in 1872. The Negro who places his back to the future and his face to the past will continue to vote the Republican ticket to the end of time. The flesh pots of Egypt are always more enticing to the timid and the imorous than the dangers and vicissitudes of the untried desert. I have just scanned in a widely circulated and influential Negro paper, a paid advertisement in two parallel columns, of the goodness of the Republican party and the badness of its Democratic rival. But these contrasted lists of good and evil refer to the things that are past and gone. There is not one absolute or relative word about future prospect and promise. So far as the Negro is concerned, the Republican party is like the potato, the best part is under ground.

If the Negro, as a race supports the grand Old Party in the present election and in the next ten elections to come, there is no apparent likelihood that his political lot would be improved thereby. The Negro acquired an initial momentum for the party of freedom and equality in the early days which it is admittedly difficult to reverse. Those past middle age, the over optimistic who somehow believe that the spirit of Abraham Lincoln will be reincarnated in the Grand Old Party, the timid and hesitant who rather endure the ills they have than risk those they know not of, those of the slavish Uncle Tom type of temperament, the cunning and crafty who hope to gather in the crumbs of favor which fall from the white master's table, will adhere to the Republican standard, though the dry land turn to sea. On the other hand, the forward looking, the progressive, the radical, the new Negro, the intelligentia will revolt against the Republican recreancy, and will risk whatever expediency which may promise change. It must be conceded that the Democratic party does not hold out a promising prospect; but protest against a false friend often incidentally results in benefit to an avowed enemy. If the Negro, North or South expects to make any further political progress, he must by some means overcome the hostility of the Democratic party which effectively blocks his advancement whichever party is in national ascendency. It is abundantly demonstrated that this cannot be done by aligning the race in solid political array against that party. He cannot vote either way without humiliation. No Negro who bears in mind the backward trend of the Republican party for the past thirty years and who is sensible of and sensitive to the renunciation of Kansas City, the crucifixion of Perry Howard, and the olive branch to the lily whites, the alliance with the Ku Klux Klan, the religious bigots and the race intolerants, can vote for the Grand Old Party except with great compunction.

I had hoped to rally the race around the standard of prohibition under the banner of Hoover. But the candidate himself sent down word that prohibition was not to be discussed. His influential wet supporters in the East forbade. The Grand Old Party of ancient idealism has harked back to the stand pat doctrine of Mark Hanna. It now proclaims the glad tidings of prosperity and the gospel of guts. None of these things appeal to a people smarting under a sense of moral wrong. You cannot cure the hurt of the soul by proffer of a full dinner pail.

Hereafter, no one will be able to tell, the colored man's political affiliation by his race. This, I hope, will attone for all of the humiliation which the Negro is forced to suffer at the hands of both parties. More Negroes will cast their bailot next Tuesday than at any time since reconstruction. Each voter must decide for himself. In the language of the Chicago Defender, it is to be hoped that he will vote, "sensibly, and not sentimentally." There will be something like two million Negro voters, but no Negro vote.

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.

General.

MICHIGAN GOVERNOR URGES NEGROES TO SUPPORT THEIR OWN CANDIDATES

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 8.—(A. P P.)—Speaking to the huge audience gathered at the mass meeting of the Wolverine Lodge Number 72, of the O. B. P. O. E. of W., here Saturday evening, Governor Fred Green paid tribute to the progress which Negroes have made in America and urged them to support Negro men and women for legislative offices declaring: "Michigan will be greatly helped by having representatives of the colored group in the House and Senate".

The text of the governor's address was as follows: Reporter

"I hope what I have to say here this evening will be accepted not in a state of flattery, but in the manner of encouragement. It comes from one who is interested in you as a group. You need encouragement because you are striving against great handicaps. There is not a group in our country who has had to overcome the obstacles you as a race has had to overcome in the last sixty years. No man or woman in your group needs to apologize for the achievements which your race has achieved in the last fifty or sixty years.

8-11-28

"I know of no group anywhere, that has made the marvelous progress in the reduction of illiteracy. In 1890 when the first census was taken, nearly sixty per cent of your group could not read or write. During the period between 1890 and 1928 you have reduced that number from sixty to sixteen per cent, and in the face of the fact that the great majority of your people have as much ability and imagination as any race, and all you need to do is develop the will to make further achievements so that you will achieve in reality the political as well as the economical equalities to which you are justly entitled as citizens of this republic. This meeting tonight seems to me to be the best argument and the best evidence of the value of organization for your group. Individually you can do nothing, but collectively you can do a great deal. This is an age of organization, and what has been achieved by other races has been through the medium of organization, therefore, yours must come through the same medium and the same method.

"If you have a common purpose, you will find that the people in power will listen to your wants and requests with respect. Men who occupy political offices will listen to your group if it is organized, because they know that your ballots will be counted for or against them on the election day. And I notice here particularly tonight that you have seen the wisdom of selecting men of your group for public office. I hope you will go further and go to the extent of working for them so that after the election is over they may take their place in the legislature offices in Lansing. Michigan will be greatly helped by having representatives of the colored group in the House and Senate.

"Your group has certain problems which are particular to your group. Someone ought to voice the interests and aspirations of your group and no man or woman is able to voice them than the man or woman from your group who knows the problems from the inside.

"I want to say to you that I am happy to be here. I want to say something to you which will give you a better impression of how it looks looking from the outside in. It helps to give more encouragement and probably a broader perspective and a greater encouragement on the inside to those who are struggling to get out. You need not apologize or be ashamed of the achievements you have made. You have made wonderful progress against handicaps. Ability and intelligence is not a matter of color, nationality or religion. All people have a common origin. It comes to one and all. Political independence is a matter of circumstance. No one knows what the history might have been over your group had it not been altered by experiences and forces over which you have had no control, and I am confident that as we go on, and as you men and women take their places in the field of science, business, and education, it will not be long before you have economical independence in reality as you now have it in spirit. I hope to see a time when the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments will be just as effective as all other laws.

"I have watched and have taken an interest in your group because it has afforded an interesting study. I know greater progress can be achieved and from now on the load is going to be easier than the pioneers have realized. I hope you take these things which I have said not as a matter of flattery, but as sincerity and encouragement, which comes from one who is interested so that you can make greater and greater progress."

Dr. Dubois and Prof. Kelly Miller

Kelly Miller takes Dubois to task for the assertion that, "Any Negro who votes for Hoover is a fool." Miller does not give any reason for denying the statement except that he is no fool and he is going to support Hoover. In our judgment that proves the correctness of Dubois' position. Now we take it that there are several grades of fools. There is among us the educated fool,—that is the Negro who has gone through all the schools and had his brains squeezed out. He is full of degrees and high sounding titles; but if a Republican tells him the moon is a big cake of cheese, he is ready to swear he can see the skippers on it. There is the half-educated fool who has gone as far as the second reader and launched his bark on the sea of life without compass or astrolable—he is merely drifting with the tide—ready to follow the herd under the whip of the "Big Boss." He is the loudest rooter for the Grand Oil Party.

There is the fool absolutely illiterate who work around "big white folks" mostly Republicans, and he catches a ear-full of their idle vaporings and he comes down among his peopel saying, "I am Sir Oracle, and when I speak let no dog bark."

Now, we do not believe that so learned a man as Dr. Dubois meant just what he is accused of having said. All the Negroes that are for Hoover are not fools! Those only are fools who are intelligent enough to know all the facts and circumstances and yet are for him—they are fools.

Down here in Kentucky then are a great number of upright men and women who don't know any better than to vote for a "yaller dog" if he back Republicanism. Thousands of them do not know that Theodore Roosevelt was the "Last of the Mohicans." Many do not know that Taft shut the door of opportunity in the Nergoes' face and poured the slops on him from the windows. Many of us never heard that Harding went down South and told the poor devils down there, "Make your peace with the Southern white man for we are going to drop you." Many of them do not know that Coolidge was a Klu Klux Klan sympathizer and was the only President that allowed those "lousey rats to march down Pennsylvania avenue in the Capital of the Nation." Many of us never heard the Republican Bosses sent Mrs. Hildebrandt down South to unhorse and to relegate to the rear, all Negro leaders. Many never heard of C. Bascomb Slemp, who has out-hellified Heflin in persecuting the Negro, has been given charge of the border states to plait the short hair of the Negro.

Don't call us all fools. We are just merely ignorant. Kelly Miller, Bob Church, Walter Cohen, and such intellectuals who have been crucified and yet are shouting for Hoover, they are the fools.

Many Negroes who are for Hoover, don't know that Hoover was a Democrat ten years ago. They think him a life-long Republican. Many of us don't know that Al Smith is the best friend our race has had since Lincoln. Many of us don't know that Al Smith cares nothing for race, creed or color, but places his favors upon those who love their fellowmen and who are de-American life.

Many of us are ignorant that Smith has appointed Negroes to voted to the higher ideals of higher places in the state of New York than Coolidge appointed in the United States. Many of us do not know that the "Copperheads" of the South opposed Smith because he said: "Give the colored man a chance.

Dr. Dubois and Prof. Miller, if our people knew the facts set forth in the foregoing statement, Al Smith would get every Negro vote in the country.

The Republican party is honey-combed with the K. K. K., that wicked and infamous organization that terrorized our mothers and fathers. Oh, in God's name why should we support Hoover who is beneficiary if not actually the champion and protector of this gang.

Do what you please but put the Louisville News and its coworkers down forever for right, justice and charity to all men without regard to race, color or creed.

HERALD-EXAMINER
CHICAGO, ILL.

SEP 7 1928

G. O. P. WARDS IN CHICAGO SHOW DRIFT TO SMITH

Negro Third Leaves Governor Only 22 Behind; Given Big Lead in Esposito District

Further evidence of Smith strength in Chicago districts hitherto dominated by Republicans were revealed yesterday in The Herald and Examiner straw poll.

In the Third Ward, where Republicanism among the Negro residents has been a tradition for years, the poll showed 1,026 for Herbert Hoover and 1,004 for Governor Al Smith. Among the voters polled, there were 593 Republican and only 88 Democratic votes in 1926.

A similar but less surprising showing is made in the Twenty-fifth Ward, former stronghold of "Diamond Joe" Esposito, Deneen Republican chief, assassinated before the primary.

In that district Hoover polled only 321 to 463 for Smith. The voters polled showed a Democratic plurality in 1924 of 374 to 362.

Governor Smith's lead in the city-wide poll increased slightly yesterday. Totals were:

HOOVER.

Men.	Women.	Total.
8,114	7,615	15,729

SMITH.

10,141	7,179	17,300

In 1924, there were 16,386 Republican votes and 7,292 Democratic votes among the men and women polled thus far in the city.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

General

"BETWEEN CATHOLICISM AND NIGGERS"

—o—

The South finds itself in the predicament of having to choose in the 1928 presidential campaign "between Catholicism and the Niggers," as a Tennessee daily newspaper puts it. The admission proves again that no question of public policy is ever settled until it is settled right.

Discrimination, in the law and by public officials based upon religion and race, is contrary to the Constitution. In the case of the Negro, the South has taken little pains to hide its intent to apply the law of unequality. Its statesmen have gloried in its course even in Congress. Its unfairness and injustice to us is a known condition. Yet the South after making its choice finds itself in a predicament so serious to it, that the southern newspapers actually count it first page news to report that local democratic nominees are going to support the national democratic ticket. The South may be solid in 1928 as it has been in all the past, but at least it trembles, notwithstanding the K. K. K. and its black laws should have made Catholics and Negroes the least of its worries.

The trouble with the South is that it flies in the face of human experience. It persists in being guided by feelings rather than by brains. It has followed the business methods which have kept it impoverished, just as it has trailed along in its politics because it was handcuffed by a party label. A southern planter, living in the Mississippi delta, America's rival of the famous Nile valley for fertility, prefers to steal from the Negro laborers who cultivate his acres in a half-hearted way, rather than give them a man's chance and himself a huge profit. Southern white communities organize to maintain "white supremacy." They waste the time which would put their leadership so high it could not be doubted. Southern leaders of business and public life, with the knowledge that nearly half their population is black and a still larger percentage of their labor, flout human experience and try to keep Negroes ignorant, as though communities profit the more the lower the human standards.

The South is in a predicament because of its wilful folly in choosing to spend time in devising a web of hate instead of building a commercial empire big enough for all its inhabitants to share.

Pullbacks, even of such ancient and honorable lineage as the Old South, are just so much dead weight who, thanks to Providence, go to make heavier the fly wheel of a busy world. A pull-back South will come to be used some day by industrial leaders just as it is now the tail on Al Smith's political kite. That leadership will come, possibly of foreign birth, the Catholic religion or even the Negro race. Hate cannot permanently stop progress.

WHAT THE NEGROES WANT

The leading negro newspaper of the United States is The Chicago Defender. Here is its platform for the American negro, as proclaimed from the top of its editorial page:

1—The opening up of all trades and trade unions to blacks as well as whites.

2—The appointment of a member of the race to the president's cabinet.

3—Men of our race in police departments over entire United States.

4—Engineers and firemen of our race of all American railroads, steamships, and government controlled industries.

5—Government schools open to all American citizens in preference to foreigners.

6—Motormen and conductors of our race on street railways throughout the United States.

The Chicago Defender is wise enough not to add social equality to the list of things for what it is contending, but it is seeking that purpose nevertheless.

Furthermore, if the Hoover ticket wins in the presidential campaign this year the negro race will be a fair way to get many of the things for which The Chicago Defender is battling.

If you favor the above platform go ahead and vote for Hoover.

"NOT RELIGION—PLAIN MEANNESS."

Ex-Governor Cameron Morrison of North Carolina speaking to a gathering of his fellow citizens to support Governor Al Smith for President got off the following: "Can a Catholic citizen be required to serve his nation in war, pay taxes and undertake the other obligations of citizenship and then be disfranchised because of his religion? That is not religion. That's just plain meanness." With those sentiments, we believe, most fair-minded people will agree. Catholics perform their fair share of the duties and responsibilities incumbent upon them as American citizens. When this country ten years ago was in the midst of the great war, the question of whether a man was a Catholic or not was given no consideration. When Catholics drop their dollars in the form of taxes in the government coffers, no question about those dollars are asked. Truly then to require and accept the performance of duties, then deny the privileges "is not religion" but "just plain meanness." But so far, so good. Religion then should not be a dividing line. What about race? Can a Negro citizen be required to serve his nation in war, pay taxes and undertake the other obligations of citizenship and then be disfranchised because of his race? Of course, it's being done—nine millions of them—but is it right, is it religion? Governor Morrison does not think of that side but every fair-minded, intelligent man must say, "That's not religion. That's just plain meanness." To justify such by weak excuses does not make it right either. Slavery was so justified but in the end at a fearful price was ended. And ended because it was wrong, the excuses to the contrary notwithstanding. What kind of man is he anyway that demands for himself the very things he denies his fellow man?

Just as this country could not endure half slave and half free so in the end will it be found out that it cannot endure with half upholding the rights and privileges of American citizens and half denying it. The demarcations of religion and race have no real abiding place in the scheme of American theory of government

HONORABLE J. A. HOLLOMAN OF THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Atlanta Constitution 8-3-28

According to the religious philosophy of Honorable J. A. Holloman, the man who writes the Negro-hating and intolerant editorials in the daily Constitution, and for which the Honorable Clark Howell must bear the responsibility, Christian leaders have no place in American politics. The bootlegger, grafter, gambler, dive-keeper and prostitute have a voice to vote, and lecture to those who agree with them that they ought to vote for men who will keep their illegal and immoral businesses running, but a minister of the gospel, whose duty it is to denounce sin wherever it is found has no right to speak in the interest of good government, or advise their congregations that they have a moral duty, as well as a civic duty to perform, as citizens as well as Christian ministers.

The preacher who says stay out of politics has the right to speak according to Mr. Holloman's philosophy, but the minister who says that it is the duty of every American citizen to speak out against sin, graft and immorality is a disturber of the public peace and ought to be suppressed. A strange doctrine, but you cannot expect any better of an alien. According to the doctrine of Mr. Holloman, all preachers who disagree with Al Smith, Rome and intemperance ought to be disfranchised if they should speak out in open meeting against that which conflicts with their conscientious convictions.

Bishop Candler is right when he straddles the question, but Bishop Cannon is all wrong when he say stand on the side of the Bible and morality.

RACE PROBLEM SOUTH'S FIRST

Woman Speaker At Institute Declares it is Chief Reason for Our Solidarity

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 9—(AP)—The South is a distinct section and must be reckoned with accordingly, Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, member of the Virginia house of representatives, declared here tonight in her address, "The Solid South—Its Cause? Its Future?" before members of the institute of public affairs of the University of Virginia. The race question is the chief reason for the South remaining sectional, Mrs. Fain said.

"It is a grave problem," she continued. "It has been the cause of the South's greatest woes. It will require the thoughtful consideration of our forward looking citizens until a satisfactory solution is reached. Time may solve it but a definite policy must be found."

Before the war between the states, Mrs. Fain said, the South occupied a leading place in the industrial life of the nation, and she believes now that the South is entering an area that will ultimately result in achieving an even greater position in industrial leadership. While it has taken many years to overcome the ravages of that war, Mrs. Fain said, the South is striking a rapid progressive stride. A new generation, she said, is now catching a vision of the opportunity of the South, of its resources and its superior advantages.

"Nothing more significant is happening," she continued, "in this country than the rise to power and influence of groups of liberal leaders in the South. The South is experiencing a remarkable economic development and an even more remarkable intellectual renaissance. It is at this moment in the throes of political unrest, the results of which no one can foretell."

SECTIONAL EVIL NARROWS VISION

Lounsbury Points Out South's Weakness.

SUCCESS CANKER

American Voters Declared More Concerned for Victory Than Principles by Speaker.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 8 (By A. P.)—"The South has been the compound victim of its political solidarity. Few national policies are shaped with it in view; not until by its self-emancipation from political tradition it becomes an essential battleground for party victory would hope seem emminent for the consideration, which is otherwise its due."

Thus declared Dr. Ralph R. Lounsbury, prominent New York lawyer and lecturer on constitutional law, in an address on "Sectionalism and National Politics" today before the Institute of Public Affairs being held here at the University of Virginia.

The gravest evil of sectionalism lies, not in having a special problem, not in the nature of the problem; but in the disregard of national good and in the method of its treatment," continued Doctor Lounsbury.

The greates evil, he said, lay "in the insistence that one group or section is entitled to special governmental favor, or that it may rightfully gain an advantage over, or so utilize its political or economic or financial power as to prejudicially affect the right of other groups or sections, or of the nation as a whole."

"We are still far from exhibiting a national spirit in this country," Doctor Lounsbury declared. "A sort of sectional astigmatism afflicts us all. That we do not readily submit to deprivation of what we call our local rights is quite as it should be when there is danger of seriously disturbing the constitutional balance between state and national power, but it has bred a narrowness of outlook and an isolated purpose, where questions of power or right or not at all involved. . . . Members of congress are, or ought to be, more than delegates from the states or districts from which they come. They represent, or should represent, the nation in its entirety, which means that what is beneficial for the whole, rather than the part, should be their first concern."

Success Complex.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 8 (By A. P.)—American voters of today care more about winning than anything else, in the opinion of several speakers, who voiced their beliefs at the round table on party politics at the University of Virginia's institute of public affairs this afternoon. This round table discussion was conducted by Prof. Arthur R. Hatton of Northwestern university.

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, chairman of the woman's national Democratic club and formerly vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, declared that "Americans measure a thing by its success, and they are not inclined to take positions merely on principle and to a large extent the desire to win plays an important part."

"Political parties follow public opinion and do not support new issues unless forced to do so," she continued. "Naturally the commercial politicians who want to win want to straddle issue."

Don C. Seitz, former business manager of the New York World, agreed with Mrs. Blair.

"In America," he said, "our elections have become sporting events. They are a sort of manifestation of the competitive spirit; issues have faded out, and we have these contests largely in the sporting sense."

The round table on Latin-American relations continued today with several taking part in the discussion. Doubt as to whether there is in Mexico a true movement toward nationalization of oil lands was expressed by Dr. Frank Crone of Lima, Peru. He said that if oil rights held by Americans in Mexico were to be abandoned, they would be granted to other foreign capitalists.

The agricultural problem came in for varied discussion at the round table on this question led by Prof. John D. Black of Harvard university.

Eric Eglund of the United States department f agriculture emphasized the magnitude of the farm problem. It was his contention that federal aid to agriculture stimulated local initiative and encouraged local control, supplemented rather than diverted money and did not complicate tax distribution.

Racial Problem.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 8 (By A. P.)—The South is a distinct section and must be reckoned with according to Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, member of the Virginia house of burgesses declared here tonight in her address "The Solid South—Its Cause?—Its Future?" Before members of the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia. The race question is the chief reason for the South's remaining sectional, Mrs. Fain says.

"It is a grave problem," she continued. "It has been the cause of the South's greatest woes. It will require the thoughtful consideration of our forward-looking citizens until a satisfactory solution is reached. Time may solve it, but a definite policy must be found."

Political - Party 8

Party Affiliation.

General

Calhoun, Ga., Times
Thursday, July 19, 1928

NEGROES HI-JACKING GEORGIA POSTMASTERS

PARTICULARLY for the benefit of those who have decided that they will bolt the Democratic party this fall because of the "moral issues" involved, it is well to consider the testimony adduced before the Senate committee investigating patronage sales in Georgia, in the first day of its session. This testimony justifies every charge that has been made in connection with the hi-jacking methods employed by the Republican organization in this state to blood both Democrat and Republican holders of federal office.

If we [illegible] that:

1. [illegible]

2. [illegible]

3. [illegible]

4. [illegible]

5. A card index system is used, under which a new employe's name is entered into the card file and each month's "contribution" is recorded on his card.

6. When a federal employe drops behind in his payments he receives a letter from the treasurer asking him if it is his intention to make any further contributions.

7. Postmasters have been forced to pay money to retain their places.

8. Applicants have been forced to make large contributions to the Republican party, although they may be Democrats, to secure places. In the first day, it was brought out that such "contributions" had been made by the postmaster at Sardis, at Stockbridge and at Nahunta.

9. The postoffice department, presided over by a Republican cabinet member, knew about this hi-jacking and in the Nahunta instance told Ben Davis it could not receieve any Nahunta recommendations from the patronage referee of that county. It did not appear that the Republican cabinet officer had made any investigation to see whether that was the general situation.

10. Ben Davis, the Negro Republican national committeeman, had received these complaints, but had done nothing about it.

Several conclusions are inevitable. In the first place, political parties do not pay the men who run their affairs. They pay the stenographers and the clerks who do the work, but the state chairman and the national committeemen and the other officers work for their party because they are patriotic, or because they are interested in politics, or because they hope for personal advancement thereby. In Georgia, the Republican leaders have introduced the high-financing method of sustaining themselves. Like overlords, they demand tribute from every the humblest federal employe in the state. They say these "contributions" are voluntarily, but the card-index record belies that claim. That record shows that postmasters in the same class, drawing the same salary, contribute the same monthly amount. It is not humanely possible for 50 people, in widely separated parts of the state, to make a "free will" offering in the same amount each month. Plainly, the postmasters are assessed. Plainly, they are told what they are expected to give.

Plainly, also, the money is extorted from them. If it was not extorted, if their jobs did not depend upon the contributions, Democrats would not be found contributing to the support of the well-fed Ben Davis in the sum of $250 a month. These men who "contribute" are not even making a "contribution" to the Republican party. Not a cent of what they give goes into the coffers of the national Republican party; not a cent of it is spent to perpetuate in office the party that gives them jobs. All of it goes to sustain the carrion crows who feed upon their vitals as soon as they are put upon the payroll of the federal government.

Not only the monthly contributions made—totalling in a year more than $14,000—but the applicant for a postmastership must pay his toll. Mrs. Wilson, at Stockbridge, paid $75 to the organization so that her husband might have the postmastership, but he got it only after he had paid another $50. Instance after instance of that has occurred in the state.

Those who are interested in "moral issues" may find the reports of the patronage probe to be interesting reading.

Douglas, Ga., Progress
Thursday, July 19, 1928

WHITE SUPREMACY

In the pending national campaign the question of white supremacy is paramount, and supercedes every controversial issue.

It strikes at the very hearthstone of every white man's home in the south.

In Georgia the problem is peculiarly acute. Within the past few days, in the disgraceful disclosures as to juggling federal patronage by a negro referee, this burning question, on which hinges the hope of the south, as it hinged in the dark days of reconstruction, has been accentuated.

In Mississippi, where a negro patronage referee has, as alleged auctioned postmasterships and other federal jobs, the conditions are so "astonishing," as expressed by members of the senate investigating committee, that a grand jury, rather than a congressional group has undertaken the investigations. Thus it is all over the south.

And what is to be expected should Secretary Hoover be elected to the presidency?

He is entitled to his racial ideas. It is not charged that he is influenced in them by political expediency. They were made plain during the world war, when, as food administrator, he brought the blacks and whites together, in his numerous division headquarters and office rooms in Washington—men and women of every shade and color—to work side by side, feed from the same tables and use the same rest rooms.

It was only after the segregation order of President Wilson that such a condition was remedied. That order remained in effect in all governmental departments, and with entire satisfaction, the white and black employees being properly separated, until a few months ago when upon the initiative of negro politicians of Boston, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, Secretary Hoover abrogated the order as to the department of commerce, and all its branches, and today the same conditions exist as prior to the Wilson segregation order ten years ago. Today the white and black employees, men and women, in all branches of that department, work side by side, use the same rest rooms, and in no respect is there any racial segregation.

There is no purpose to reflect upon the character, or the statesmanship or the business ability of the Republican candidate for president. He has never lived in the south. He has visited it only a few times. He has only stopped in Georgia for a brief period, waiting for his schedule Savannah the fact that he received as his guest on his private car the negro [illegible] national committeeman may have had more political than racial significance. At that time his candidacy for the nomination was brewing.

He lived the most of his adult life in London and in other European capitals. There social and racial conditions are different.

But that does not alter, nor extenuate the situation in this country.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

General

Calhoun, Ga., Times
Thursday, July 19, 1928

NEGROES HI-JACKING GEORGIA POSTMASTERS

PARTICULARLY for the benefit of those who have decided that they will bolt the Democratic party this fall because of the "moral issues" involved, it is well to consider the testimony adduced before the Senate committee investigating patronage sales in Georgia, in the first day of its session. This testimony justifies every charge that has been made in connection with the hi-jacking methods employed by the Republican organization in this state to bleed both Democrat and Republican holders of federal office.

It was developed during the first day that:

1. The Republican organization in Georgia has a monthly payroll and expense account of $87,500.

2. [illegible] John Martin gets $250 a month, Ben Davis [illegible] chairman of the state committee [illegible] a month.

3. Contributions are made monthly by practically all postmasters in the state.

4. Contributions are made monthly by practically all federal employes, including postmasters and rural free route carriers.

5. A card index system is used, under which a new employe's name is dropped into the card file and each month "contribution" is recorded on his card.

6. When a federal employe drops behind in his payments he receives a letter from the treasurer asking him if it is his intention to make any further contributions.

7. Postmasters have been forced to pay money to retain their places.

8. Applicants have been forced to make large contributions to the Republican party, although they may be Democrats, to secure places. In the first day, it was brought out that such "contributions" had been made by the postmaster at Sardis, at Stockbridge and at Nahunta.

9. The postoffice department, presided over by a Republican cabinet member, knew about this hi-jacking and in the Nahunta instance told Ben Davis it could not receieve any Nahunta recommendations from the patronage referee of that county. It did not appear that the Republican cabinet officer had made any investigation to see whether that was the general situation.

10. Ben Davis, the Negro Republican national committeeman, had received these complaints, but had done nothing about it.

Several conclusions are inevitable. In the first place, political parties do not pay the men who run their affairs. They pay the stenographers and the clerks who do the work, but the state chairman and the national committeemen and the other officers work for their party because they are patriotic, or because they are interested in politics, or because they hope for personal advancement thereby. In Georgia, the Republican leaders have introduced the high-financing method of sustaining themselves. Like overlords, they demand tribute from even the humblest federal employe in the state. They say these "contributions" are voluntarily, but the card-index record belies that claim. That record shows that postmasters in the same class, drawing the same salary, contribute the same monthly amount. It is not humanely possible for 50 people, in widely separated parts of the state, to make a "free will" offering in the same amount each month. Plainly, the postmasters are assessed. Plainly, they are told what they are expected to give.

Plainly, also, the money is extorted from them. If it was not extorted, if their jobs did not depend upon the contributions, Democrats would not be found contributing to the support of the well-fed Ben Davis in the sum of $250 a month. These men who "contribute" are not even making a "contribution" to the Republican party. Not a cent of what they give goes into the coffers of the national Republican party; not a cent of it is spent to perpetuate in office the party that gives them jobs. All of it goes to sustain the carrion crows who feed upon their vitals as soon as they are put upon the payroll of the federal government.

Not only the monthly contributions made—totalling in a year more than $14,000—but the applicant for a postmastership must pay his toll. Mrs. Wilson, at Stockbridge, paid $75 to the organization so that her husband might have the postmastership, but he got it only after he had paid another $50. Instance after instance of that has occurred in the state.

Those who are interested in "moral issues" may find the reports of the patronage probe to be interesting reading.

Douglas, Ga., Enterprise
Thursday, July 19, 1928

WHITE SUPREMACY

In the pending national campaign the question of white supremacy is paramount, and supercedes every controversial issue.

It strikes at the very hearthstone of every white man's home in the south.

In Georgia the problem is peculiarly acute. Within the past few days, in the disgraceful disclosures as to juggling federal patronage by a negro referee, this burning question, on which hinges the hope of the south, as it hinged in the dark days of reconstruction, has been accentuated.

In Mississippi, where a negro patronage referee has, as alleged auctioned postmasterships and other federal jobs, the conditions are so "astonishing," as expressed by members of the senate investigating committee, that a grand jury, rather than a congressional group has undertaken the investigations. Thus it is all over the south.

And what is to be expected should Secretary Hoover be elected to the presidency?

He is entitled to his racial ideas. It is not charged that he is influenced in them by political expediency. They were made plain during the world war, when, as food administrator, he brought the blacks and whites together, in his numerous division headquarters and office rooms in Washington—men and women of every shade and color—to work side by side, feed from the same tables and use the same rest rooms.

It was only after the segregation order of President Wilson that such a condition was remedied. That order remained in effect in all governmental departments, and with entire satisfaction, the white and black employees being properly separated, until a few months ago when upon the initiative of negro politicians of Boston, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, Secretary Hoover abrogated the order as to the department of commerce, and all its branches, and today the same conditions exist as prior to the Wilson segregation order ten years ago. Today the white and black employees, men and women, in all branches of that department, work side by side, use the same rest rooms, and in no respect is there any racial segregation.

There is no purpose to reflect upon the character, or the statesmanship or the business ability of the Republican candidate for president. He has never lived in the south. He has visited it only a few times. He has only stopped in Georgia for a brief period, waiting for his schedule Savannah the fact that he reserved as his guest on his private car the negro [illegible] may have had more political than racial significance. At that time his candidacy for the nomination was brewing.

He lived the most of his adult life in London and in other European capitals. There social and racial conditions are different.

But that does not alter, nor extenuate the situation in this country.

While the racial question is inbred, it is sacred, it is crucial.

The negro is equal to the white before the law, and the administration of the law in this, and in other states in the "old black belt" gives to him freely and correctly that equality.

He is encouraged to become useful in citizership, in the trades, in industry, in agriculture.

He is educated through the public school system on a parity with the whites, and the expenses are paid by taxation which accrues largely from the whites.

Every upstanding citizen believes in justice, full and complete, to the negro.

But that does not mean a relinquishment of white supremacy, for which the best blood of the south was shed to maintain, and which the upstanding thought of Americans, in every state, recognizes to be right.

It does not mean social equality, or negro political domination, as the latter is today in the juggling of federal jobs in Georgia and other states. Will this negro political domination not expand and be made more intolerable if Secretary Hoover becomes the natiion's executive?

Former Governor Brough, of Arkansas, speaking before the Press association of his state made this plain when he said the real issue in this national campaign is "Anglo-Saxon supremacy."

A negro of Rome is a dispenser of federal patronage, and with Bre'r Davis, of Georgia-at-large, and Bre'r Howard, of Mississippi-at-large, and others, hold the Republican throttle in the south.

It is time to think seriously of this question. Mr. Hoover is entitled to his views. Democratic malcontents and insurrectionists who want to join him, and the negro Republican dictators in the south, may find comfort in such company. But white supremacy is the hope of the south. For it we fight!—Atlanta Constitution

Memphis, Tenn., Commercial-Appeal
Friday, July 27, 1928

Corrupt Politics Is the Enemy Within the Gates of Memphis

It is difficult to appreciate the extent that Memphis has bee retarded in its growth and progress through domination by corrupt politicians and because of corrupt government.

The recent repudiation of the Chicago gangsters leaves Memphis the darkest spot in the United States.

There is some question as to whether in its palmiest day Chicago was as bad as Memphis.

It is not a pleasant thing to say. The Commercial Appea laments the existence of such conditions. However, it is not going to cover up.

It purposes to expose rottenness until public conscience has been sufficiently stimulated to revolt.

It is regrettable that Memphis has the highest homicide rate of any city in the world. The evil is not going to be corrected by arguing with the statisticians.

Memphis will make a better showing when fewer persons are murdered and more murderers are punished.

The affliction under which Memphis labors is traceable directly to political conditions. Bootleggers, gamblers, handbook operators and distillers are the backbone of the machine.

They provide the financial resources. They pay tribute regularly. Special assessments are levied in political campaigns.

It would surprise the commissioner of police to know how contemptuously the lawless element is operating. It has the sanction and direction of the allies of vice who take refuge in individual respectability.

We brought a great college to Memphis with the hope of awakening the moral conscience of the community.

The state of Tennessee is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in Memphis for the erection of magnificent buildings.

We build great churches. We offer excellent schools as inducement for good people to come to Memphis.

In the face of these things the community is dominated by a corrupt gang and honey-combed with graft and fraud.

The Commercial Appeal is not alone in its fight to remedy the situation. It has the sympathy of a large and increasing number of people in Memphis who hope for better days.

How the people outside of Memphis feel is expressed by a letter from one of the finest citizens of Mississippi and one of the state's ablest lawyers and business men. He says:

> I am very much interested in what an Englishman would call the "narsty fight" you are having in local politics in your county, and I sincerely hope that Horton may be elected governor. Your Shelby County brand of politics is a disgrace, not only to your section, but to the whole country. The idea of bringing back the negro in politics, as it seems the crowd is doing, is one of the most reprehensible, unpardonable things that can be done, and I am surprised that the decent and respectable element of Memphis and Shelby County will stand for such a thing.

We regret that our neighbors have such a low opinion of us. We are embarrassed that such opinion is justified.

There will be no let-up in the fight. Law, order and decency eventually will triumph.

The first step is an honest election.

The most important thing at this time is to prevent the gang from herding negroes to the Democratic primary to vote for McAlister for governor.

Last fall a school for negroes was conducted to teach them how to vote in an election.

They have already learned how to vote in white Democratic primaries. "Colored McAlister Democrats" voted 6,000 strong two years ago in what the Press-Scimitar described as "wholesale vote stealing when the county machine attempted to count Austin Peay out of the governor's chair and put in their own candidate, Hill McAlister."

Corrupt politics is the greatest obstacle to the growth and progress of Memphis.

Athens, Ala., Banner-Herald
Sunday, July 15, 1928

SLUSH FUND FOR ENFRANCHISEMENT OF THE NEGRO.

Fired with enthusiasm over the outbreak of supposed democrats in the South, joining the ranks of "Hooverism," the leaders of the republican party are plannig a campaign for the enfranchisement of the negroes in this section of the country. It is a well known fact that the republicans are in possession of the largest "slush" fund that party has ever distributed during a presidential election year. Encouraged over the activities of the so-called Hooverites, recruited from the ranks of the democratic party, the republican leaders are planning a political amalgamation of the races that is hoped will lead to the breaking of the "solid" South. To bring about such a condition however, it will be necessary for the new "lily-white" members of the republican party to co-operate and cast their ballots with the negro republicans. Even with a solid vote of those who may desert the democratic party along with the vote of the negro, loyal democrats do not believe that the use of the "slush" fund for the enfranchisement of the negro will overcome the democratic vote for the nominee—Governor Smith. However, it is a problem that can only be determined after the election and the votes counted. Should the political amalgamation process of the races prove successful it is but natural to presume that the negro would be restored to power and a period of reconstruction days, following the Civil War, enacted in every state of the South, carried by the republican candidate Hoover.

Recalling the scenes of the reconstruction period when federal bayonets guarded the ballot boxes and the flower of southern manhood and citizenship were disfranchised, the action of southern women in organizing and voting the republican ticket is inconceivable. To desert a political party that freed them from negro domination; from the rule of the carpet-bagger and from attempted force of negro equality is beyond a sane conception of duty they owe to their children and to the people of the South. If our womanhood forget the principles of democracy, which is dear to the hearts of every loyal southerner, what hopes can we have for the preservation of white supremacy? Southern members of the Anti-Saloon League; the W. C. T. U., should scorn the dictates of these organizations to desert the democratic party on the grounds of prohibition enforcement. The wise leaders of the republican party, who are not friends to the prohibition cause, have capitalized these organizations for their use in deceiving the sentimental and blind dry forces of the South.

Those who desert the democratic party in the coming presidential election make themselves a party to restoring the dark days of the reconstruction period, when carpet-baggers ruled the South and negro domination reigned supreme.

The responsibility rests upon the voters of the South. Which shall it be? Negro domination and Hoover—or white supremacy and Smith?

While the racial question is inbred, it is sacred, it is crucial.

The negro is equal to the white before the law, and the administration of the law in this, and in other states in the "old black belt" gives to him freely and correctly that equality.

He is encouraged to become useful in citizership, in the trades, in industry, in agriculture.

He is educated through the public school system on a parity with the whites, and the expenses are paid by taxation which accrues largely from the whites.

Every upstanding citizen believes in justice, full and complete, to the negro.

But that does not mean a relinquishment of white supremacy, for which the best blood of the south was shed to maintain, and which the upstanding thought of Americans, in every state, recognizes to be right.

It does not mean social equality, or negro political domination, as the latter is today in the juggling of federal jobs in Georgia and other states. Will this negro political domination not expand and be made more intolerable if Secretary Hoover becomes the natiion's executive?

Former Governor Brough, of Arkansas, speaking before the Press association of his state made this plain when he said the real issue in this national campaign is "Anglo-Saxon supremacy."

A negro of Rome is a dispenser of federal patronage, and with Bre'r Davis, of Georgia-at-large, and Bre'r Howard, of Mississippi-at-large, and others, hold the Republican throttle in the south.

It is time to think seriously of this question. Mr. Hoover is entitled to his views. Democratic malcontents and insurrectionists who want to join him, and the negro Republican dictators in the south, may find comfort in such company. But white supremacy is the hope of the south. For it we fight!—Atlanta Constitution

Memphis, Tenn., Commercial-Appe
Friday, July 27, 1928

Corrupt Politics Is the Enemy Within the Gates of Memphis

It is difficult to appreciate the extent that Memphis has bee retarded in its growth and progress through domination by cor rupt politicians and because of corrupt government.

The recent repudiation of the Chicago gangsters leaves Mem phis the darkest spot in the United States.

There is some question as to whether in its palmiest day Chicago was as bad as Memphis.

It is not a pleasant thing to say. The Commercial Appea laments the existence of such conditions. However, it is not going to cover up.

It purposes to expose rottenness until public conscience has been sufficiently stimulated to revolt.

It is regrettable that Memphis has the highest homicide rate of any city in the world. The evil is not going to be corrected by arguing with the statisticians.

Memphis will make a better showing when fewer persons are murdered and more murderers are punished.

The affliction under which Memphis labors is traceable directly to political conditions. Bootleggers, gamblers, handbook operators and distillers are the backbone of the machine.

They provide the financial resources. They pay tribute regularly. Special assessments are levied in political campaigns.

It would surprise the commissioner of police to know how contemptuously the lawless element is operating. It has the sanction and direction of the allies of vice who take refuge in individual respectability.

We brought a great college to Memphis with the hope of awakening the moral conscience of the community.

The state of Tennessee is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in Memphis for the erection of magnificent buildings.

We build great churches. We offer excellent schools as inducement for good people to come to Memphis.

In the face of these things the community is dominated by a corrupt gang and honey-combed with graft and fraud.

The Commercial Appeal is not alone in its fight to remedy the situation. It has the sympathy of a large and increasing number of people in Memphis who hope for better days.

How the people outside of Memphis feel is expressed by a letter from one of the finest citizens of Mississippi and one of the state's ablest lawyers and business men. He says:

> I am very much interested in what an Englishman would call the "narsty fight" you are having in local politics in your county, and I sincerely hope that Horton may be elected governor. Your Shelby County brand of politics is a disgrace, not only to your section, but to the whole country. The idea of bringing back the negro in politics, as it seems the crowd is doing, is one of the most reprehensible, unpardonable things that can be done, and I am surprised that the decent and respectable element of Memphis and Shelby County will stand for such a thing.

We regret that our neighbors have such a low opinion of us. We are embarrassed that such opinion is justified.

There will be no let-up in the fight. Law, order and decency eventually will triumph.

The first step is an honest election.

The most important thing at this time is to prevent the gang from herding negroes to the Democratic primary to vote for McAlister for governor.

Last fall a school for negroes was conducted to teach them how to vote in an election.

They have already learned how to vote in white Democratic primaries. "Colored McAlister Democrats" voted 6,000 strong two years ago in what the Press-Scimitar described as "wholesale vote stealing when the county machine attempted to count Austin Peay out of the governor's chair and put in their own candidate, Hill McAlister."

Corrupt politics is the greatest obstacle to the growth and progress of Memphis.

Atlanta, Ga., Constitution
Sunday, July 15, 1928

SLUSH FUND FOR ENFRANCHISEMENT OF THE NEGRO.

Fired with enthusiasm over the outbreak of supposed democrats in the South, joining the ranks of "Hooverism," the leaders of the republican party are plannig a campaign for the enfranchisement of the negroes in this section of the country. It is a well known fact that the republicans are in possession of the largest "slush" fund that party has ever distributed during a presidential election year. Encouraged over the activities of the so-called Hooverites, recruited from the ranks of the democratic party, the republican leaders are planning a political amalgamation of the races that is hoped will lead to the breaking of the "solid" South. To bring about such a condition however, it will be necessary for the new "lily-white" members of the republican party to co-operate and cast their ballots with the negro republicans. Even with a solid vote of those who may desert the democratic party along with the vote of the negro, loyal democrats do not believe that the use of the "slush" fund for the enfranchisement of the negro will overcome the democratic vote for the nominee—Governor Smith. However, it is a problem that can only be determined after the election and the votes counted. Should the political amalgamation process of the races prove successful it is but natural to presume that the negro would be restored to power and a period of reconstruction days, following the Civil War, enacted in every state of the South, carried by the republican candidate Hoover.

Recalling the scenes of the reconstruction period when federal bayonets guarded the ballot boxes and the flower of southern manhood and citizenship were disfranchised, the action of southern women in organizing and voting the republican ticket is inconceivable. To desert a political party that freed them from negro domination; from the rule of the carpet-bagger and from attempted force of negro equality is beyond a sane conception of duty they owe to their children and to the people of the South. If our womanhood forget the principles of democracy, which is dear to the hearts of every loyal southerner, what hopes can we have for the preservation of white supremacy? Southern members of the Anti-Saloon League; the W. C. T. U., should scorn the dictates of these organizations to desert the democratic party on the grounds of prohibition enforcement. The wise leaders of the republican party, who are not friends to the prohibition cause, have capitalized these organizations for their use in deceiving the sentimental and blind dry forces of the South.

Those who desert the democratic party in the coming presidential election make themselves a party to restoring the dark days of the reconstruction period, when carpet-baggers ruled the South and negro domination reigned supreme.

The responsibility rests upon the voters of the South. Which shall it be? Negro domination and Hoover—or white supremacy and Smith?

General.

Party Affiliation

Afraid of the Dark

By Frank R. Kent

The Republicans and Democrats are worried. And no small part of the worry is caused by uncertainty regarding the colored brothers' vote. Meanwhile, the political doctors are frantically prescribing. So says Mr. Kent, one of the country's ablest political reporters, who turns up a few interesting points you may not have considered

IT IS the undercurrents in politics that really count. Most of the time the vital things upon which elections turn do not get to the surface at all. Most of the time the party orators and organs never dive deep enough to know what tides are flowing and where. Most of the time the "under cover" campaign work is only cloudily suspected.

Very often the things that matter most do not get talked of at all.

For example, it is generally assumed that the voters vote for somebody and in favor of something. It is a completely false assumption. Clear-headed politicians know better. They know that so far as the great bulk of the common people are concerned when they go to the polls in this country—and probably everywhere else—they go to vote against things, not for things.

They know that prejudices, not principles; emotion, not reason; feeling, not thought, are the controlling factors with the ballot-using boys and girls not rigidly bound by the party tie. The exceptions are not numerous enough to matter.

Collier's

In those distant June days when the nominations of Hoover on the one side and Smith on the other first became inevitable practically everybody agreed that this campaign would be unlike any other. The unparalleled personalities of the presidential candidates assured that for one thing. Their clear-cut divergence on prohibition did for another. The fact that one was a Catholic did for a third. The amazing lack of cleavage between the platforms and the extraordinary contrast between the men did, for a fourth. It was easy early to see that the standards by which other fights have been gauged would be valueless this time—and they are. The old political mile posts and sign boards have been swept away. Here in the last month, however confident they appear publicly, in private the really astute fellows on both sides are filled with disquieting uncertainty, and no political prognosticator with a reputation worth preserving is making a prognostication that can be pinned on him after November 5th.

Only the completely uninformed are sure about the result this time.

An Unforeseen Hazard

The truth is that while the presence of unprecedented prejudices marked this campaign from the beginning as unique in American history no one quite foresaw the turn which things have taken or the extraordinary situation that has developed.

The revolt against the wet, Catholic Smith among the dry, prejudiced Protestants of the Democratic South was of course foreshadowed by the Heflins, the Cannons and the Stratons. It was one of the recognized hazards of the Smith nomination.

What was not foreseen, however, was that there would develop in the Republican camp a secret sorrow sufficiently poignant to deprive that party of the comfort and pleasure it might otherwise derive from contemplation of the distressed condition of the Democrats in such states as Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma and a general election has become interesting for the first time in more than 50 years.

Yet that is exactly what has happened and it is not without its humorous phase. The fact is that, hide it as they may, the Republican management is genuinely worried about the colored vote, worried more than ever before, worried far more than they let on.

It Sounds Like a Joke

When you consider the unshakable Republican adherence of the Negroes for half a century that sounds like a joke, but it isn't.

Publicly at Republican National Headquarters they scoff at the idea there is any real trouble among the Negroes. Privately the more candid and less inert among these so-called party leaders admit the colored brother—and sister too—is dangerously on the loose in this campaign, that the Negro vote is less securely tied into the Grand Old Party than ever before, that there are certain menacing signs not lightly to be ignored, that work and money—more work and more money than ever before—are going to be necessary to keep the Negro firmly fixed in the position to which he seemed permanently assigned—the corner stone of the Republican party.

In New York it is conceded that Governor Smith has had a very large Negro vote every time he has run. In recent years Tammany has intensively cultivated the Harlem district, gone openly after the colored vote—and with considerable success. It has for some years past had a number of regularly employed Negro workers. This time it is said there are twice as many as in any previous campaign. By November, it is predicted, there will be from three to five times as many at work in Harlem.

But it is not so much the Democratic flavor of the New York Negro that disturbs the Republican management. That is more or less an old story; but this time from state after state there come well-authenticated reports of a disposition among the Negroes to vote for Smith such as has not been evinced for any Democratic candidate since 1861.

The drift is recognized by practical men on both sides. It is the particular care of the "under cover" boys. It is the subject of some of the most intense and confidential headquarters conferences. It will be the subject of a good many more—because, however strange it may seem, the fact remains that both sides take this Negro business this time with unwonted seriousness—more seriously than either is willing to admit.

Several reasons are given for the situation. One is that the colored vote is largely wet and the idea has pretty well percolated that if Smith wins they will get their gin and beer easier and cheaper than now, and that it will be better. Another is that Smith is the arch foe of the Ku Klux and the Ku Klux the bitter enemy of Smith. The colored voter has an idea that the Negroes and the Catholics are linked together against the Klan. He thinks if Al is elected he will kill the Klan. He is for that. Another reason is the assiduously spread report that Mr. Hoover favors a "Lily White" Republican party in the South from which Negro leaders will be largely eliminated.

It is a funny state of affairs. In some sections Democrats are ardently courting the Negroes, competing with the Republicans for their support. In others the effort is made to whip the Southern bigots into line by picturing the horrors of "Negro Dominion" which it is alleged would be bound to follow a split in the solid South.

A Wonderful Joke

On the Republican side the real idea they seek to convey to the great masses of Negroes is that if they do not stick to the Republican party they will certainly be disfranchised and probably sold back into slavery. Nor are they allowed to forget that it was Abraham Lincoln who freed them.

The idea that the colored voter has in 50 years progressed much beyond these arguments is yet to be proved. Some of them have but not many.

Probably it won't happen but it would certainly be a wonderful joke on the Republicans if they should succeed this time in breaking the solid South and then lose the election by having their fundamental asset, the Negro vote, run out on them.

There are more than 100 000 colored votes in Illinois, 50,000 in Indiana, 65,000 in Ohio, 100,000 in Pennsylvania, 30,000 in Massachusetts, 15,000 in Delaware, 125,000 in New York, 50,000 in New Jersey, 10,000 in Connecticut, and 60,000 in Maryland.

There is, it is true, nothing in past elections to encourage the idea that any considerable number of Negro votes can be broken away from the Republican party, and despite the signs it is a slender hope to cling to. None the less it is pretty well the only one that would salvage the situation should the Southern revolt lose the Democrats one or more states, which is a distinct possibility. Clearly it is the only way in which Republican states—not doubtful states—could be swung into the Democratic column, and if he should lose, say, Virginia and North Carolina, Smith cannot be saved by the doubtful states and the New York group—he must carry Republican states as well. The simplest analysis of the electoral vote figures is enough to prove that.

For example give Smith the 10 states of the solid South, which is 111 votes. Give him all five of the border states—Maryland, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma—61 votes. That makes 175, or 91 short of the 266 necessary to elect. Give him the New York group—New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island—70 votes, which makes the total 245, or 21 short of the 266. Throw in Massachusetts—18 votes—which makes it 263—and Delaware—3—which makes 266, just enough to make the grade with not a vote to spare.

Clearly Smith has here been given about all that on form can reasonably be given—and some that will seem to Republicans very unreasonable. If he slips on any of these, South or East, he is sunk unless he can carry Republican states which in the last two elections have given literally appalling Republican majorities. That is what Smith has to do to win and that is exactly what he counts upon doing. Further, there is no doubt at all that the Negro vote is counted upon to help him do it.

As to the appalling majorities in these great Republican states they are nothing like so appalling when they are considered on the precinct basis.

For example take Indiana—a state carried by Mr. Coolidge by approximately 200,000 majority. That is enough to make it apparently hopeless for the Democrats but not when you reduce your figures to the smallest unit—the precinct—as the basis for calculation. There are in Indiana approximately 4,000 precincts. A change of 25 votes to a precinct this time would completely wipe out that 200,000 majority, a change of 26 votes would give the state to the Democrats.

Of course this precinct method of calculation—which is the only sound one—applies on the other side as well. In Virginia there is a normal Democratic majority of 40,000, but a change of 13 votes to the precinct would turn that state over to the Republicans, provided of course they could get the votes counted as cast. Concerning this there is naturally an element of doubt in states where there is no such thing as a bi-partisan election board, which is the case all over the South.

The nearest thing the Southern states have to bi-partisan election machinery are boards composed of two Democratic and one Republican judge, and it is not always possible to find a white Republican to serve as minority representative.

In most of the Southern states no pretense at minority representation is made. It would be physically impossible to secure it unless Negroes were used, which would from the Southern angle be utterly unthinkable.

These facts are stated not with the idea of imputing to the politicians of the South any greater degree of dishonesty than that possessed by those of any other part of the country but simply to show the situation and incidentally to remark that machine politicians in one section do not differ in any way from machine politicians in another.

But be that as it may, it must be admitted that there exists today an amazing and unprecedented situation. Here we have one party, the Democratic, threatened—and seriously so—in its heretofore impregnable stronghold, the South, by a religious prejudice unknown in any other national campaign and abhorrent to every American tradition. Conceal it as they may, camouflage it as much as they want, no posted person doubts that the bigots are the real menace to Smith in the South, and that his wetness is used merely as a cloak.

If This Should Happen—

On the other side, though they laugh the idea off, it is unquestionably a fact that the more informed and intelligent Republican politicians tremble lest the peculiar appeal of the Smith candidacy to the colored vote sap their foundations in ordinarily safe Republican states.

If the South should break and the Northern Negroes stick to the Republican party as they always have before, then Smith's defeat is inevitable.

If the South should hold fast to its Democratic moorings, even by the thinnest majorities, and the Negroes break away from the Republican party, Smith could—and probably would—be elected.

If both the break in the South and the wholesale Negro drift to Smith should develop, a perfectly astounding condition is created. All calculations would be up in the air.

If neither the Southern break nor the Negro defection occurs, then, the odds would still be with the Republicans as the normally majority party.

Perhaps one other thing should be mentioned as tending to make things more interesting this trip. With the exception of the two Wilson campaigns, the Democrats for the first time in more than a generation will have "adequate" money in the precincts on election day will be able at least to match the Republicans dollar for dollar. In the past—in 1924 and 1920 for instance—the Republicans showed up on election day with anywhere from $7 to $10 to the Democratic $1.

For the benefit of those without precinct experience it probably should be explained why money in the precincts on election day is infinitely the most important money of all; how extremely hard, not to say impossible, it is to carry an election without it.

Where Presidents Are Chosen

The precinct is the smallest political unit. There are about 600 voters registered to a precinct. Not more than 450 of these vote. Now in every precinct, counties as well as cities, there are anywhere from five to twenty men who look upon election day as an opportunity to make a little extra money. They do not exactly sell their votes. What they do is seek employment by the precinct executives.

They are known as "floaters" and every intelligent precinct executive knows exactly who they are and what they are worth in his precinct. He does not bother about the unmarried ones. The ideal "floater" for precinct purposes is a man with a wife, a married son or daughter, a couple of married brothers-in-law and sisters, and a few cousins. In other words, one with large family connections—embracing about 10 voters, all living in the precinct.

Such a man the precinct executive employs at anywhere from $5 to $20 for the day and calls him a runner, a worker or a messenger, according to the terminology of the section. All the runner has to do to earn his money is to deliver his family vote early.

Now of course, if the Republican precinct executive has $100 for his precinct on election day and the Democrat has about $7, which has in the past been about the proportion, the Republican gets all the "floaters."

Say there are ten of them in the precinct, they ought to be worth at least 70 or 80 votes, maybe more. If there is any contest at all, what that means in a precinct where the total vote is 450 can be easily grasped. It simply means the difference between carrying the precinct and losing it.

The "floaters" only vote their convictions when neither side will employ them. That only happens when the rival precinct executives, being not really rivals but friends, conclude that it is ridiculous to compete for the floaters and that the sensible thing is to keep the money themselves.

Of course when both sides have adequate or equal precinct money for election day, and the precinct executives are fighters—and most of them are—then there is a real contest for the floaters and they are divided.

That means a lot. The more it is considered the more it is seen to mean. Because, after all, it is in the precincts that Presidents are chosen.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

General

We Can't Be Bought By Democratic Money Nor Bulldozed By Lily White Republicans

The Negro World edited by Marcus Garvey but published in New York was out in a long disjointed, illogical editorial last week, taking the Atlanta Independent to task for being one hundred per cent Republican, and giving editor Davis a scathing rebuke for his continued loyalty to the party in the teeth of the party's treachery to him.

In discussing the three Negroes who got together in Valdosta, Georgia and announced themselves an Al Smith Club for president, our esteemed contemporary remarked:

"The present political editorial policy of the Independent is one of the mysteries of the ages. It is a safe guess that there isn't a Negro in the country, with the possible exception of Mr. Davis, who can advance one good reason why the Atlanta Independent is today 100 per cent Republican. The Republican party has given the editor of the Atlanta Independent one of the worst snubs ever delivered a national Negro leader. It has seemingly turned its political back upon him, but, true to the code of the old-time Negro, to caress the striking hand, he continues to worship at its shrine—even at the price of making himself the laughing stock of the political world. Many Negro newspapers have refrained from commenting on his predicament because of the tragedy behind the comedy, and, emboldened by their silence, he has mustered the supreme nerve to jump with both feet upon the most courageous Negro political group that has raised its head in Georgia since the campaign has opened."

Our contemporary says "it is a safe guess that there is not a single Negro in the country with the possible exception of Mr. Davis, who can advance one good reason why the Atlanta Independent today is one hundred per cent Republican".

We answer that the Independent is one hundred per cent Republican because it cannot be bought by the democrats' money or be bulldozed out of the party by lily-white bastard republicans and commercialized Negro grafters, who would sell their wives and daughters into political slavery and economical ruin, for pelf and plunder. We will enter into no endless quarrel with the World, but will content ourselves to give reasons for the faith that is in us. We have no quarrel with the Republican party, and if we have been mistreated as alleged by the World, it is a family affair within the Party, and it is no alien's business.

Party differences must be settled inside, not outside the Party.

We are Republicans and offer no apology for our Faith. The Independent has the same right to go along with the Republicans inside the organization that the World has to trail the democratic Party outside of the ranks, with the hope of receiving a few crumbs from the hands of Heflin, Blease, and Pat Harrison. We are not going to get out of the ship into the sea. We are Republicans and no man inside the party black or white can make us forsake its pruciples, because of real, or imaginary grievances. Let come what may, our houses and we, are going to fight it out aboard the Republican ship.

The personal flings and innuendoes aimed at us in the editorial do not rise to the dignity of our attention, and we shall address ourselves to further reasons why the Independent is one hundred per cent Republican. The democratic party is anti-Negro and has been from its very incipiency. It was and is the party of slavery and opposed the adoption of the thirteenth amendment, which abolished slavery. It opposed the adoption of the fourteenth amendment which made us citizens and clothed us with the right to vote and hold property, instead of being property and sold like cattle. It opposed the fifteenth amendment which promised us protection at the ballot box.

It has disfranchised us in every state by ingeniously designed unconstitutional amendments to state constitutions, and nullified every decision of the Supreme Court of the United States declaring these amendments null and void.

In every democratic state in the Union the Negro has been jimcrowed on the train, segregated where he lives, discriminated against in business, disfranchised and denied equal protection of the law. In every democratic state the Negro is shut out of the democratic primary by force or court injunction. He is told everywhere that the democratic party is a white man's party and Negroes are not wanted. If the World or any other Negro wants to support the democratic party in the light of this catalog of crime against the race, we'll content ourselves, to be one hundred per cent Republican under Hoover-Curtis leadership.

In no state in the Union where the Republican party controls is there a jim-crow, disfranchising, or a segregating law. In no Republican state is there any separation of the races on public carriers, or shutting the door of political opportunity in the Negro's face.

The Republican party enfranchised the Negro. It voted for and passed the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the federal constitution which prohibited slavery, made the Negro a free man, gave him the right to hold property instead of being a chattel, and placed the ballot in his hands to protect himself in the enjoyment of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

We are one hundred per cent Republican because there is not one line of discriminating legislation on the books of any state in the Union placed there by the Republican Party, but on the contrary there is special legislation on the books of every democratic state in the Union outlawing the black man's rights and put on there by the democratic party over the protests and votes of Republicans.

The Independent has never criticized or denounced Marcus Garvey. Whether we agreed with him or not we have granted him honesty of intention when every Negro Paper in the Union attempted to crush him; and we reserve the same right to be honest in our opinions, that we granted him, whether our position is the mystery of the ages or otherwise.

We insist that the Negro press no longer refrain from comment on our plight or position because of the tragedy behind the comedy. We can take care of ourselves. We have no case against the Republican party. We were not betrayed by it, but by a quintet of mercenary Negroes, as culpable as the race traitors who betrayed Garvey because they couldn't control him.

Editor Davis is not a political victim of the Republican party, but of a combination of lily-whites and mercenary Negroes who would sell heaven for a dollar, a mug of beer or bottle of bootleg whiskey.

-:- Negro Voters in Revolt

By KELLY MILLER

NEGRO voters are bolting and revolting against traditional party lines as they have never done before. Negro Smith organizations, North, South, East and West, are about as numerous and as active as those for his Republican opponent. According to my personal observation and the best information I can secure, about three Negro men out of five, when approached as to their preference, openly declare for Smith or remain non-committal. If the Republican contingent is better organized and co-ordinated than the Democratic rivals, it is by reason of the fact that the Grand Old Party has built up a more competent staff of professional politicians, who are adepts at the game.

— Kelly Miller —

There is but one practical remedy for this restlessness and dissatisfaction, which the Republican party is not willing to apply. As long as the Grand Old Party ignores the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, flirts with "lily whites" and crucifies the Negro participants, it cannot expect that self-respecting Negroes will support its cause with enthusiasm and gladness.

If Charles Sumner and Thaddeus Stevens had been delegates to the Kansas City convention, they would have walked out the moment the party refused to stress the human rights amendments. Every Negro delegate would have followed them. The race is left no positive reason for supporting the glorious party of the olden day. Its moral grandeur has departed; its only appeal to Negro support is comparative and negative.

If the Negro voter bolts the Republican party whither will he go? The Democratic rival certainly does not offer anything better; in some respects the prospect is decidedly worse. Shall the Negro, then, remain forever in the Republican party and allow himself to be reduced to a political nullity by his own acquiescence? Shall he espouse the Democratic cause with all of its past record of political unfriendliness? Or shall he, acting independently, support this or that party, either or neither, according to the dictates of the racial interest and welfare?

There are at least two million qualified Negro voters in the North and in the South. Herein lies a latent power of incalculable potentiality. Let the Negro vote support sound moral principles, or whichever side of the political line they may fall. In the present campaign, I can see but one essential principle that distinguishes the two parties and the two candidates—and that is the principle of prohibition. While I regret to say that the Republican party is not unequivocally committed to the moral principle of prohibition, yet the Democratic adversary stands for its immediate or ultimate destruction.

Mr. Hoover believes that the noble experiment should be carried out constructively; Mr. Smith thinks that the experiment is vicious in principle, and should be frustrated without further trial. The Negro can justify his vote for Hoover on the ground of the Constitution, law, order and temperance. A vote for Smith counts in the contrary direction. This he can do, with self-respect, notwithstanding Kansas City, Perry Howard and "lily whites." He must never, however, give Mr. Hoover or the Republican party to understand that because he is voting the ticket he is insensible to the outrageous treatment he has received and is receiving at its hands.

The Negro press has commented widely upon my open letter to Mr. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, in which I urged that the movement of political revolt which he headed should vote for Hoover on the temperance issue, but hold the party's feet to the fire for its past and present transgressions. Some said that I argued for Smith and concluded for Hoover; others, that I was carrying water on both shoulders—a rather delicate compliment to the performer's steadiness and poise. This I apprehend is far preferable to the attempt to carry water on one shoulder and beer on the other as the wet Negro Republicans are essaying to do. Still others mistook open-mindedness for double-mindedness.

Neither the Democrats nor the Republicans are all right or all wrong on great public questions. There is a strange and confusing mixture of vices and virtues in both camps. The Kansas Republicans are dry; the New York Republicans are wet. Mr. Work strikes hard for the Negro vote in the North, but soft pedals the Fifteenth Amendment in the South. The voter must select for himself the political or moral issues which he deems vital.

The campaign season is the psychological moment for any aggrieved group to emphasize its wrongs. Those who seek Finley Wilson's support will naturally by soft persuasion urge him to forget his grievances until the issue is settled. "Help us win the war and we will remedy your complaints after the victory is won." The gullible Negro has listened to this artful guile with amazing credulity for ten quadrenniums. It is with astounding effrontery to the Negro's intelligence that the same old trick is still resorted to. If the Negro consents to forget his grievances while the campaign is on, the winning party will surely ignore them when the campaign is over.

Party Affiliation

SOCIALIST PARTY IS NOT BUSY ENOUGH

NEW YORK—The Socialist Party is not doing enough for the Negro in America, the Daily Worker declared Wednesday.

Following the address of M. Ford, colored delegate from the United States to the 6th session of the World's Congress of the Communist International, now in session in Moscow, Russia, Ford declared, "The American Party is not yet paying sufficient attention to work among Negroes. In spite of intolerable exploitation of millions of Negroes nothing has been done to bring these workers closer to the party."

MOVE ON TO BREAK THE 'SOLID SOUTH'

Republicans Count on Fusion With Disaffected Rivals to Carry Several States.

Republicans, with the aid of disaffected Democrats, intend to make a strong effort this year to break the solid South and carry several Southern States for Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for President, it was learned yesterday. The movement, which already has gone far enough to indicate the possibility of fusion among Republicans, dry Democrats and those opposed to Governor Smith because he is a Roman Catholic, contemplates that the Republicans shall refrain from nominating State tickets, county tickets and Congressional candidates in certain States and districts so as to centre the fight on President and Vice President.

Oliver D. Street of Birmingham, Republican National Committeeman from Alabama, according to information received here, was named as sponsor of a movement to refrain from nominating Republican State and local candidates as a bait to dry Democrats. This movement was said to be in its incipiency as yet, but belief was expressed by both Democrats and Republicans that it might develop into a menace to Governor Smith's chances of carrying such States as Alabama, Texas, Florida and possibly North Carolina and Virginia.

Development of this movement will await the result of the dry conference at Asheville, N. C., this week. According to an Alabama Democrat, it shows signs of being effective in Alabama, where, in his opinion, a combination of Republicans, dry Democrats and members of the Ku Klux Klan might endanger Governor Smith's chance of carrying the State.

The difficulty in this program, according to the Alabama Democrat, is what to do with the negro Republicans in the South for it is virtually certain that no white Democrats, however dry, will fuse with a Republican organization controlled by negroes. In Alabama, the control of the Republican organization is with the white members of the party.

At the Smith headquarters, it was said that little concern was felt regarding the States of the South, but that developments in the situation there would be dealt with as they arose.

Dr. S. E. Nicholson, Associate Superintendent of the New York State Anti-Saloon League, denied yesterday reports published on Sunday and credited to officials of the Smith campaign that the league was opposing Governor Smith because he was a Roman Catholic on account of Klan influence. In a letter to John J. Raskob, Democratic National Chairman, Dr. Nicholson said:

"The campaign is yet young, but the Smith headquarters needs to understand that the only basis of opposition to Governor Smith on the part of the Anti-Saloon League or the Anti-Saloon Campaign Committee is the opposition of the Governor and his managers to prohibition. The Anti-Saloon League is not a part of any 'whispering' campaign and when it speaks, it speaks in the open and by the record, and will not submit now or at any other time for any falsification of its position without determined protest."

EVERY EVENING
WILMINGTON, DEL.

JUL 3

PLANNING AL SMITH CLUB FOR NEGROES

Dr. L. E. Farrell, Rescue Mission Head, Lauds Governor's Stand.

Rev. Dr. L. E. Farrell, colored, president and manager of the Rescue Mission for Colored People, headquarters at 639 East Sixth street, is endeavoring to form an Al Smith Club among the colored people in this city. He spoke at a meeting of rescue workers last evening in the mission.

He told the gathering that the leaders today want men, not parties. "Many absorbing questions should demand our best thought today in order that we might best work out the problems which involve the future of the race to which we belong," he said. "We are now just upon the threshold of one of the greatest political campaigns to be waged in the history of our republic, and are interested in what the outcome will mean to the faithful Negro. Ask those men who want your support how they stand on enforcement of the 13th, 14th, 15th and 18th amendments in the event of their election.

"There is no excuse for any so-called Republicans ignoring this most important question, so vital to our future welfare and the stability of our beloved republic. It is up to the thinking men of our race to stop following political parties like cattle and sheep and to vote for men instead of measures, and for men only, whatever their political affiliation may be, who stand for equal justice and equal rights.

"We want men who will not only swear to uphold the Constitution of the United States, but who will rightly interpret it, and be courageous enough to see to it that every man who swears allegiance to that flag and supports the Constitution, be he high or low, rich or poor, Gentile or Jew, white or black, shall not only be guaranteed, but be protected in the enjoyment of rights, privileges and the duties guaranteed under the Constitution."

THE NEGRO A CAMPAIGN ISSUE.

Although the platforms of neither party made the Negro an issue, yet the South seems more concerned about him than any other question. Farm relief, prohibition and economic questions cut but little ice along side of that peculiar phrase "white supremacy." Of course, it means nothing in reality but it is used to scare the ignorant, unthinking and narrow. The triumph of the Republican party does not mean that "white supremacy" will be endangered nor a defeat of the Democrats a destruction of this "white supremacy." Indeed, if such supremacy depended upon such contingencies, it would be a shame for even a demagogue to mouth such foolishness. It is rather a disappointment to intelligent people—yes, intelligent colored people—to realize that the South has not grown much politically in the past twenty-five or more years, and nothing shows that fact more than the cry all over this section of "Nigger, Nigger." It would seem that America is interested or at least ought be in questions of real import.

There are thousands of Negroes in the North, East and West who think well of the Democratic party; thousands of them have voted that ticket; but they would be unadulterated fools to vote such a ticket if that party has as its slogan: "white supremacy." As much as they may hate the hypocrisy of the Republican party in much of its treatment of their race, yet a decent regard for themselves demands that they one and all hold their noses and cast their ballot for the Republican nominees. If they want to know just how they are regarded; they ought by all means subscribe for and read a few of the leading Southern papers from now on. No doubt, the campaign spell-binders are and will keep well informed along these lines. "Tis true, 'tis pity and pity, 'tis 'tis true."

G. O. P.'S FEDERAL ANTI-LYNCHING PLANK EXPECTED TO ALIENATE SOUTHERNERS

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

WASHINGTON.—By insisting that the plank in the Republican national platform reviving the bitter fight over the old Dyer anti-lynching bill shall not be ignored in the presidential campaign, Southern Democratic leaders are causing Hoover managers considerable embarrassment in their plans for conducting an intensive drive to capture States of the Solid South from Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the November elections.

On account of the Republican plank, aimed particularly at the South and at the same time designed to bring out the negro vote in doubtful Eastern States, word is brought to Washington that an unfavorable reaction has already set in against the Hoover candidacy among those Southern drys who were first counted upon to form the basis of any Democratic deflection.

As the campaigns of both major parties get actively under way it seems to be reasonably certain, insofar as the Southern Democracy is concerned, that the old Dyer bill will be one of the chief issues. Leaders of the section are serving notice that they do not intend to sit quiet and allow the Republicans to agitate the prohibition question in an effort to draw attention from the "force bill" plank.

For every move the Republicans make towards exploiting the traditional dry sentiment of the South, the Democrats will counter with a repetition of charges made against the sponsors of the Dyer bill at the time it passed the lower house of Congress a few years ago. And it will be emphasized that the Republican party stands committed in its Kansas City platform to seek enactment of the same or a similar measure in the event of its succession to power.

Text Of Platform

That section of the Republican platform bearing on the subject reads as follows:

"We renew our recommendation that the Congress enact at the earliest possible date a Federal anti-lynching law so that the full influence of the Federal Government may be wielded to exterminate this hideous crime."

Southern Democratic leaders recoil at the plank, not because they do not deplore the evils of lynchings as much as anyone, but because of the stringent measures and provisions incorporated in the Dyer bill and the preceding Lodge force bill for enforcing the act. Dire consequences and gross inequalities would follow in the South if the Federal Government were given authority to step in and assume jurisdiction in cases of the kind, it is asserted.

Moreover, and most important of all, perhaps, is the charge that is made that enactment of such a law would prove a further incentive to crimes of the most shocking sort, the perpetrators of which are usually the victims of lynchings. On this point Representative John E. Rankin, of Mississippi, had some pertinent things to say during the debate on the Dyer bill in the House in 1922:

"The vicious negroes will understand from this bill," he said, "that they are protected in their crimes. They will see that by its terms they are assured of the protection of the Federal Government."

Passed In Bitter Fight

Passage of the bill was effected in the lower House after one of the bitterest fights over a legislative proposal witnessed in years. Democrats from the Southern States opposed it practically unanimously, but the Republicans, fresh from their landslide of 1920, had a large margin of votes to spare. The measure would have succeeded in the Senate and in turn received the approval of the President but for the sympathetic filibuster conducted by Southern Democrats under the leadership of Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama.

The filibuster is declared to have been the most effective ever waged in the halls of Congress. Not only were the Republicans unable to bring the bill to a vote, but they did not even succeed far enough to get it actually before the Senate. Roll calls, readings of the journal, amendments to the journal, the insistence on absolute accuracy in every Parliamentary detail, together with every known filibustering move were brought into play in wrecking the carefully laid plans to press the legislation to a conclusion. Finally, after about ten days of complete legislative deadlock, the Republicans withdrew the bill.

Due to the closed rules of the House the measure can be passed there most any time while the Republicans command a majority, and Democrats fear that a substantial reduction of their numbers in the Senate might result in similar action there. They are therefore determined that no inroads be made on the Solid South, if possible, particularly with Mr. Hoover, through his party platform pledged to sign it.

One of the gross inequalities charged by Southern leaders was the section calling for penalties on counties in which lynchings occur. Such counties would be fined the sum of $10,000, to be paid to the family of the person lynched, "no matter how atrocious the crime may have been," to quote from Congressional debate on the subject.

Two Sections Of Bill

Two sections of the bill pertaining to penalties and fines, having been offered by former Representative Volstead, father of the dry enforcement act bearing his name, read:

"Section 5. That any county in which a person is put to death by a mob or riotous assemblage shall forfeit $10,000, which sum may be recovered by an action therefor in the name of the United States against such county for the use of the family, if any, of the person so put to death; if he had no family, then to his dependent parents, if any; otherwise for the use of the United States. Such action should be brought and prosecuted by the district attorney of the United States of the district in which such county is situated in any court of the United States having jurisdiction therein. If such forfeiture is not paid upon recovery of a judgment therefor, such court shall have jurisdiction to enforce payment thereof by levy or execution upon any property of the county or may compel the levy of a tax therefor. . . . and any officer of such county or other person who disobeys or fails to comply with any lawful order of the court shall be liable to punishment as for contempt and to any other penalty provided by law therefor.

Section 6. That in the event that any person so put to death shall have been transported by such mob or riotous assemblage from one county to another during the time intervening between his capture and putting to death, the county in which he is seized and the county in which he is put to death shall be jointly and severally liable to pay the forfeiture herin provided."

Criticisms Registered

Severe criticism of the latter section was registered by the opponents of the bill, who charged that it was without justification and unconstitutional to levy a penalty on a county that might be entirely innocent of a mob coming within its borders from just across a county line for the purpose of a lynching.

Representative Thomas M. Bell, of Georgia, along with every other member of the State Congressional delegation, took an active part in the debate on the floor over this section, declaring, according to old files of the Congressional Record:

"In my judgment, the bill now being considered, if it should be adopted, would be without avail, dangerous and fraught with many consequences. We are drifting too much to Federal control of our affairs, and the day is coming, in my judgment, when the nation will suffer on account of our tendencies and activities. We must halt.

"I think the proposition to penalize a people of one county because a crime has been committed in another county is the most outrageous proposition ever presented to an intelligent body. Under the provisions of this bill a half dozen counties in a State could be penalized in the sum of $10,000 each, and yet be as innocent of any knowledge of the crime committed and as innocent of any dereliction of duty as any of the proponents of this bill."

Judge Brand Speaks

Judge Charles H. Brand, of Athens, was another member of the Georgia Congressional group to denounce the legislation in harsh terms.

"The truth is," he told the House, "this proposed legislation is partisan and political. It is a blow at the white people of the South—nothing more nor less. The bill was introduced and is being prosecuted in order to promote the welfare of many Republicans in this House. It was introduced and is being sponsored at the insistence of their negro constituents, among others, and the negro societies of the North, who are not so much interested in preventing lynchings of negroes for assaults upon our white women as they are for establishing social and political equality with the white people.

"This is the expected climax of their activities," Judge Brand continued. "This is the fruitage which they hope and pray may grow out of the agitation of the negro question and the result of pending legislation. Human villainy has sounded no greater depths than is here fathomed in this political effort to bring about such an infamous heritage. The negro societies and the Republicans who are encouraging these conspirators are doing the white and colored races of the South an irreparable injury. Those of you who are actors upon this stage for these negroes are playing with lightning. You are sowing to the wind, when the harvest will be revolution."

People Against Lynching

Congressman Brand concluded by saying "the people of Georgia, notwithstanding the denunciation received on this floor, are against lynching." "The courts, the press, the pulpit and the bar of the state are a unit in opposition to lynching," he declared, "and all these classes are using their brains, their talents and influence to put an end to it. But this does not mean that they will stand for or submit to the social equality for which these negro agitators and their Republican brethren are longing."

In a speech made on the floor of the House about the same time, Represenettive William C. Wright, of Georgia, described the two sections quoted as "absurd, ridiculous, and nothing short of a monstrosity," pointing out that the measure defined a "mob" to mean "an assemblage composed of five or more persons acting in concert for the purpose of depriving some person of his life without legal authority . . ." Another provision which he denouced roundly was that which said officers of the law who fail to protect the life of a person against such a "mob or riotous assemblage" are guilty of a crime as well as persons participating in such "mob or riotous assemblage."

These are by no means the only members of the State Congressional group taking part in the bitter fight to defeat the old Dyer bill. The measure was fought by practically every Southern member of Congress in both Houses.

Representative Leonidas Carstarphen Dyer, of St. Louis, Mo., is the Republican author of the bill. He represents a district in St. Louis that is dominated by colored voters. They are said to be so completely in control of the political machinery that one of their race could be elected to Congress over Dyer any time. It has therefore, been generally charged that his sponsorship of the bill is intended as "sop" to his negro district.—Atlanta Journal.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Observer

SEP 18 1928

LeGette in Back-Fire.

To the Editor of The Observer:

Please allow me space in your Open Forum to reply to C. G. W., of Hickory, and Mr. E. Winston, of Charlotte.

To C. G. W. I wish to state that his friend Jack Johnson has no authority from Democratic headquarters to stump for Al Smith and never will be given the authority. He says he hopes that Jack Johnson will be sent to the rock-ribbed Republican counties beyond the Blue Ridge mountains. I would not care if they sent him up there either. He would probably feel quite at home among so many Republicans. Thirty-five years ago practically the entire Republican party of North Carolina was composed of negroes, carpet-baggers, and deserters of the Confederate army. They represented the scum of the earth. Today the Republican party of this State, due to its contact with the Democrats, has grown to be almost respectable. C. G. W., don't forget that it was the Democratic party that restored white supremacy to your State.

Mr. E. Winston says that I recently gave the names of several great Americans stating that they were Catholics. What Mr. Winston says is quite true. Each person I said was a Catholic was a Catholic. I challenge Mr. Winston to prove that the persons named as Catholics were members of other churches. He can't do it.

Mr. Winston says he wonders where I was educated and suggests that probably I received my education in a parochial school. The history I quoted was correct, and to satisfy Mr. Winston's curiosity I wish to state that I received my education in the public schools of North Carolina and at the University of North Carolina, where I spent five years, the last year being spent in historical research.

Oh, we hear so much about the great Al Smith. Nobody ever mentions the meatless, wheatless, sweetless Hoover. Everything is about Al Smith. Everybody is either for or against Al Smith, nobody seems to know or care much about the so-called great moral leader Mr. Herbert Hoover. Clyde Hoey was certainly right when he said of Mr. Hoover: "If Hoover sat in the Cabinet with a gang of thieves and did not know it at the time, then Hoover is incompetent to be President. If he knew it and said nothing, he is unworthy to be President." Morals! Al Smith has the morals of Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson, Angus McLean, Max Gardner, Lee S. Overman, Clyde Hoey and Henry Van Dyke, while Herbert Hoover has the morals of Clarence Darrow, Andy Mellon, Big Bill Thompson, Roach Straton, and Mary Booze.

ANTHONY R. LeGETTE.

Lexington, Sept. 15.

General.

EXAMINER

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

SEP 9 1928

800 WORKERS FETE NOMINEE AS FAREWELL

Commerce Department Employes Present Their Former Chief With a Grandfather's Clock

BY ARTHUR HACHTEN,

Staff Correspondent Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Stirred by reports of a heavy drift of negro votes to Governor Al Smith, Republican chieftains today applied high pressure methods to curb this mighty lion, and hold the bulk of the colored vote for Herbert Hoover in the Presidential race.

Democratic leaders were reported driving wedges in the Republican colored vote, especially in the larger northern cities. Defections to Al Smith were reported in Ohio.

PLAN COUNTER MOVES

The G. O. P., in past Presidential elections has counted the colored vote as safe for its nominee. Orders went down the line today from Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee, to make counter moves to offset the Democratic inroads.

He announced appointment of Harry E. Davis of Cleveland, Ohio, as a member of the executive committee of nine, of the colored voters' division, to help in the Hoover-Curtis campaign.

Davis, a college graduate and former member of the Ohio General Assembly, is a director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The announcement said:

"His loyalty to the Republican party and the interests of his race are well known and his services will be of inestimable value to Chairman John R. Hawkins, and those associated with him as members of the executive committee of the Colored Voters' Division."

800 AT FAREWELL DINNER.

Hoover was given a farewell dinner by about 800 employes of the commerce department here tonight in appreciation of his seven years as Secretary of Commerce.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Walter H. Brown on behalf of 2,200 employes of the department, presented the Presidential nominee a grandfather's clock. It was sent to Hoover's home and a book containing the autographs of the 2,200 contributors was handed to him tonight.

William P. MacCracken, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aviation, acted as toastmaster, and brief remarks in praise of Hoover were made by Secretary of Commerce William F. Whiting and bureau chiefs.

INJECTION OF RACIAL QUESTION PROTESTED

45 Prominent Southerners Voice Disapproval of Tactics.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

A protest against what it termed the injection of the race question in the presidential campaign by partisans of both major political parties was voiced in a public statement issued here Friday bearing the signatures of 45 prominent Southerners.

"The undersigned citizens of the south, some of them supporters of the one presidential candidate and some of the other, desire unitedly to voice this public protest against the injection of the race question into the present political campaign," it said.

"Had either political group alone been responsible for raising this subject we would hesitate to make this statement lest it be thought partisan. But it is being raised by partisans of both sides, who for the purpose of driving voters into their respective camps, are, in our judgment, reopening the healing wounds of bitterness and hate.

Appeals Irrelevant.

"We believe these appeals are both irrelevant and dangerous. It is our hope that no one will be deterred by them from calmly considering the real issues and voting his honest convictions; and certainly that no one will allow them to inflame his mind with antagonism toward our negro neighbors, who too long have been pawns in the game of politics. Any attempt to influence men and women with an issue so untimely is unworthy of the white man and unjust to all. If taken seriously, it is the sowing of dragon's teeth of which future generations must reap the harvest.

"Happily, we believe it will not be taken seriously. We believe our citizenship is too intelligent and too fair-minded thus to sacrifice the cause of interracial peace and progress. We therefore call upon the leadership of the south—the pulpit, the press, the platform—and upon every right thinking man and woman among us to disclaim, discourage and discountenance such appeals to prejudice and fear, to the end that the gains of recent years in interracial good will and understanding may not be sacrificed to the passing interests of a political campaign."

Prominent Signers.

Among the signers were: Dr. H. M. Edwards, pastor of Independent Presbyterian church, Birmingham; Robert C. Alston, Atlanta attorney; Dr. Plato T. Durham, of Emory university, Atlanta; Bishop F. F. Reese, of the Episcopal church, Savannah; Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, Atlanta; Judge Robert Bingham, editor of the Courier-Journal, Louisville; Colonel P. . Callahan, Louisville business man; Dr. D. M. Key, president of Millsaps college, Jackson, Miss.; Bishop T. D. Bratton, of the Episcopal church, Jackson; Dr. Howard Odum, of the University of North Carolina; Mrs. T. W. Bickett, Raleigh, N. C.; Dr. W. P. Few, president of Duke university; James G. Hames, manufacturer, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Colonel Henry M. Fries, Winston-Salem, N. C., business man; Dr. W. L. Poteat, Wake Forest college; Dr. W. C. Jackson, North Carolina College for Women; Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, president Furman university; Dr. E. O. Watson, editor of the Christian Advocate, Columbia, S. C.; Bishop K. G. Finlay, of the Episcopal church, Columbia; Dr. H. N. Snyder, president of Wofford college; Dr. J. H. Kirkland, chancellor of Vanderbilt university; Dr. John L. Hill, Southern Baptist book editor, Nashville; Dr. J. D. Blanton, president of Ward-Belmont college, Nashville, Tenn.; George F. Milton, editor of the Chattanooga News; Dr. C. B. Wilmer, University of the South; George B. Dealey, publisher of the Dallas News; Dr. George W. Truett, pastor of the Baptist church, Dallas; Dr. E. A. Alderman, president University of Virginia; Dr. R. E. Blackwell, president Randolph-Macon college; John Stewart Bryan, publisher of the Richmond News-Leader.

Register

MOBILE, ALA.

ISSUE OF

OCT 14 1928

THE NEGRO ISSUE

Who made the negro race one of the outstanding issues of this national campaign? Not the people of the South. Nor can all of the blame be put upon either of the major political parties. Both parties are making an energetic bid for the negro vote in certain states where these voters are sufficiently numerous to turn the scales in close contests. Not unnaturally Herbert Hoover's friends are doing all they can to keep the negroes in the Republican party, where they have always voted; and Governor Smith's friends, too, are making a bid for the negro in localities where they think it may be of value to their candidate.

The truth of the matter is that more negroes will vote the Democratic ticket this year than ever before in the history of the country; indeed close political observers will be surprised if the Democratic nominees for president and vice president do not receive more negro votes in November than the Republican candidates. What has wrought this change in the political alignment of the negro race? Why has the negro vote assumed such importance in the national campaign this year? The assumption of the New York Times that the people of the South are alarmed over the race issue, and that they are taking a rather too serious view of it is only partly justified, for the people of the South, regardless of anything that either Smith or Hoover might do or say in the campaign, or hereafter, have solved this problem, so far as the South is concerned, and they solved it in circumstances more trying and more difficult than any either of these can devise.

There is no danger of racial social equality in these Southern states, no danger of negro domination or negro supremacy; the negroes of the South know it, and the intelligent leaders of the negro race do not desire either racial social equality or supremacy, for the intelligent members of the black race still look to the white race for leadership and for help in the solution of all problems which involve the welfare and progress of the negro, individually and collectively.

No matter how it happened, or who is to blame for it, it is unfortunate that the negro should have become an issue in this national campaign. Obviously the prime reason for the appearance of the negro as an issue in the campaign is in the fact that the Democratic party, for the first time in its history, is making an appeal for the negro vote in such states as New York, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Maryland and a few other states where the vote may be of importance in the event of a close vote between the two major parties in November.

But in any event, and regardless of the outcome in November, the relation of the races in the South will not be altered, though on account of the stupidity of some of the newspapers of the South that have accused Southern states of nullifying the Fifteenth Amendment, and part of the Fourteenth Amendment, we may have to face some of the old issues in congress, in spite of the fact that the supreme court of the United States repeatedly has sustained the suffrage laws of these states. The white people of the South, however, are unafraid in the presence of these possible issues. They have solved the negro problem, and it will remain solved, no matter who may be elected president of the United States in November.

TEXT AND PRETEXT

BY M. ASHBY JONES

Bigotry and Prejudice.

Personally I am convinced that whichever party wins in the November election, the United States will have an excellent man for president during the ensuing four years. For this reason, while I have my preference as between the two, I have no anxiety about the result. I am deeply anxious, however, about the manner and the spirit in which our next president shall be elected. In a fierce partisan political campaign, we forget that we must live together after the campaign is over, and live in the social atmosphere created by the political contest. Shall bigotry and prejudice be the determining factors in our coming election?

Not Protestantism vs. Catholicism.

Of course on the one hand, I am thinking of the opposition to Governor Smith on account of the fact that he is a loyal member of the Roman Catholic church. A campaign conducted against one on account of his religious convictions, is almost sure to be of such partisan passion that distorted and exaggerated statements will be made. In the age-old controversy which has been waged between Catholicism and Protestantism, the bitterest passions of human nature have been aroused. Charges and countercharges have been made, until it is difficult for men to see clearly, and think calmly on the issues involved. To bring this controversy into the political field is hurtful to every interest of our democracy, and it is utterly unfair to Governor Smith. Instinctively the Protestant begins to identify Governor Smith with what he conceives to be the history of the Roman Catholic church, and every objection which he has to that church, becomes his objection to the personality of the candidate.

I insist as a citizen and as a representative of religion, that this political contest is not legitimately a contest between Catholicism and Protestantism, and that we should not be called upon to vote for or against the teachings or the record of the Roman Catholic church. The contest is in a very real way one between the teachings and the records of Mr. Alfred Smith and Mr. Herbert Hoover. Alfred E. Smith has a right to be judged by the interpretation which he himself gives, of what it means to him to be a loyal Catholic, and not by the interpretation that the pope or some archbishop may make of the meaning of a loyal Catholic. Because it is Alfred E. Smith, and not some Catholic prelate, who is offering himself for the presidency, and it is his own conviction of loyalty, which is significant to the voter.

Revival of Racial Hatred.

On the other hand I am disturbed and distressed by the efforts to revive the bitterness of racial prejudice and hatred, in order to defeat Mr. Hoover. Why is it that we should be willing, in order to gain what we believe to be an immediate advantage, to inflict such permanent injuries upon our social life? For generations now the people of the south have been prevented from thinking clearly upon any social or economic question, by the cunningly contrived bogey of negro domination. The question of the political relations of the two races in the south is not even remotely involved in this election, and the attempt to drag it in for partisan purposes can only result in the undoing of the patient and delicate work of the best leadership of the south, in striving for a constructive cooperation between these two peoples, who must live together in the years to come.

Nothing is more needed in this country than a gospel of good sportsmanship. We must learn to play the political game earnestly and honestly, but in good temper, so that when the issue is decided, we may shake hands, and go back to the day's work with decent friendliness and clear-eyed intelligence. Herbert Hoover and Alfred Smith are two well-defined personalities, with records open to the public. An intelligent and earnest discussion of these records is in order. Sharp differences of opinion are inevitable and wholesome. Let us not make either a church or a race the victim of our partisan passions. Let us have religious tolerance by all means, but let us also have human and intellectual tolerance.

CITY VOTE—CONGRESS.

Manhattan.

District.
11—Prall (Dem.), 44,632; Simonson (Rep.) 22,129; Dearing (Soc.), 564. Plurality for Prall 22,503.
12—Dickstein (Dem.), 14,792; Beier (Rep.) 3,321; Beardsley (Soc.), 766. Plurality for Dickstein, 11,471.
13—Sullivan (Dem.), 15,961; Rosenberg (Rep.), 4,072; H. Claessens (Soc.), 630. Plurality for Sullivan, 11,889.
14—Sirovich (Dem.), 16,402; Ehman (Rep.) 11,693; A. Claessens (Soc.), 1,796. Plurality for Sirovich, 4,716.
15—Boylan (Dem.), 30,837; Kaplan (Rep.), 8,280; Hughes (Soc.), 638. Plurality for Boylan, 22,557.
16—O'Connor (Dem.), 28,468; Lanzer (Rep.), 12,301; Fine (Soc.), 810. Plurality for O'Connor, 16,167.
17—Berolzheimer (Dem.), 32,697; Pratt (Rep.), 36,140; Mailley (Soc.), 1,461. Plurality for Pratt, 3,443.
18—Carew (Dem.), 29,551; Katzen (Rep.), 9,563; Volk (Soc.), 774. Plurality for Carew, 19,948.
19—Bloom (Dem.), 47,659; Steinhardt (Rep.), 30,505; Crosswaith (Soc.), 2,266. Plurality for Bloom, 17,154.
20—Dickheiser (Dem.), 10,878; LaGuardia (Rep.), 12,022; Caspe (Soc.), 377. Plurality for LaGuardia, 1,144.
21—Weller (Dem.), 56,518; Johnson (Rep.), 44,827; Brown (Soc.), 3,914. Plurality for Weller, 11,691.
22—Griffin (Dem.), 34,899; Burke (Rep.), 12,872; Dewitt (Soc.), 1,483. Plurality for Griffin, 22,027.

Bronx.

23—Oliver (Dem.), 127,982; Spitz (Rep.), 52,214; Gisnet (Soc.), 9,381. Plurality for Oliver, 75,768.
24—Fitzgerald (Dem.), 62,839; Fairchild (Rep.), 25,896; Painken (Soc.), 6,783. Plurality for Fitzgerald, 36,943.

Brooklyn.

3—Lindsay (Dem.), 27,130; Nicosia, (Rep.), 9,323; Weil (Soc.), 1,125. Plurality for Lindsay, 17,807.
4—Cullen (Dem.), 34,362; Winnie (Rep.), 10,541; Bromberg (Soc.), 807. Plurality for Cullen, 23,821.
5—Black (Dem.), 49,651; Lee (Rep.), 34,775; Smith (Soc.), 2,261. Plurality for Black, 14,876.
6—Somers (Dem.), 71,131; Lotsch (Rep.), 53,363; Riley (Soc.), 7,031. Plurality for Somers, 17,768.
7—Quayle (Dem.), 30,360; Gehris (Rep.), 13,318; Oneal (Soc.), 2,667. Plurality for Quale, 17,042.
8—Carley (Dem.), 107,185; Blank (Rep.), 65,189; Feigenbaum (Soc.), 10,553. Plurality for Carley, 41,996.
9—O'Connell (Dem.), 34,965; Wagner (Rep.) 26,920; Robinson (Soc.), 2,641. Plurality for O'Connell, 8,045.
10—Celler (Dem.), 30,948; Bushell (Rep.), 18,325; Shiplacoff (Soc.), 3,620. Plurality for Celler, 12,623.

Queens.

1—Cuff (Dem.), 27,272; Bacon (Rep.), 31,602; Christenson (Soc.), 274. Plurality for Bacon, 4,330.
2—Brunner (Dem.), 136,379; Visel (Rep.), 78,562; Wolf (Soc.), 2,291; Klein (Ind.), 1,230. Plurality for Brunner, 57,817.

WHO RAISED THE ISSUE?

We heartily agree with the "protest of 45 prominent southerners" that the racial issue should not be injected into this campaign.

The two races live side by side in peace and harmony, and the negroes of the south know that their best friends, in every way, are the white people of the south.

The everyday life in the south for generations has demonstrated this.

They have had every service of government on an equal basis.

They have their schools maintained from the public treasury.

Their hospitalization, housing, social betterment, are all provided for.

They are encouraged, helped, strengthened.

They are paid living wages.

Skilled colored laborers draw the same wages as those equally skilled among the white laborers.

There are no economic discriminations.

There is no disfranchisement. If a negro in Georgia is qualified to vote he can vote and should vote, and a great many of them do.

There are no "grandfather clauses" in our election laws. There are no differences in the qualifications prescribed. They apply to all races alike.

A citizen is a citizen in this free country, whether white, brown or black.

Who raised this racial issue in this campaign?

Doesn't the Kansas City platform endorse the Dyer bill?

What party or organization issued a series of racial cartoons to prejudice white voters against Governor Smith, one of them showing a negro civil service commissioner in New York dictating letters to white stenographer?

Who appointed that civil service commissioner? A democratic mayor? No! But the cartoon carried the implication that he was appointed by Governor Smith.

The fact is Governor Smith, during four terms, has never appointed a negro to office.

A great many negroes in Washington, and in New York and other states, hold clerical positions through the test and maintenance clauses of the civil service regulations. And there can be no objection. There should be none—

But there should aways be racial segregation.

Who abrogated the Wilson segregation order in the department of commerce upon the mandate of negro politicians from Ohio?

Who put negro politicians in charge of federal patronage in Georgia and other southern states?

Who raised the racial issue in this campaign? We agree sincerely that it should not have been injected. It should be ingored. But let's be fair about it to all concerned.

Has any one heard Governor Smith say one word, even by indirection, about the racial issue?

STATES
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
NOV 1 1928

96,697 DEMOCRATS ARE REGISTERED

Only 3155 Republicans, 1776 of Whom Are Negroes

The net registration in New Orleans, as compiled by M. J. McKay, registrar of voters, shows 100,256, of which number 96,697 are Democrats and 3155 Republicans. The balance are Socialists, independents, etc.

There are 70,580 men and 29,676 women registered, the men being more than double the number of women. White male Democrats registered are 67,623, with 29,049 white women Democrats, against 1095 white male Republicans and 284 white women Republicans.

Among the registered negroes are 1483 male Republicans and 293 female Repubilcans, 23 male Democrats and two female Democrats.

Party Affiliation.

SOCIAL AND POLITICAL EQUALITY BETWEEN THE RACES IN TAMMANY HALL

Both parties are much worried over the Negro line-up in the impending Presidential campaign. The Democrats recognizing that there is approximately three hundred thousand Negro voters in the border states of Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee and Missouri, and they are moving heaven and earth to get the vote, notwithstanding the Atlanta Constitution's "white supremacy" demagogy. The Northern Democrats know of the Southern Democrats feeling towards the Negro, but he is brushing aside his Southern brothers' prejudice and flirting with the Negro for his vote 100 per cent each day. He socializes and fraternizes with the Negroes whenever necessary to control his vote. Under Tammany Hall social and political equality between the race, is the order of the day.

The Republicans are worried because of the activity of the lily white in the South and their demand that the Negro be relegated. The Republicans fear that the Senatorial investigations that are now being made, and seemingly aimed at the Negro by wholesale indictments of Negroes, may react and cause a nation-wide revolt against the party.

In Deleware, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Oklahoma, the Negro holds the balance of power, and as they vote these states go. In the East, including New York, and in the Middle West, the Negro holds the key to the situation, and as he votes the election goes. The South wants to know whether Tammany Hall is the Negroes' friend—statistics show that there are 276 Negroes holding offices in New York under Tammany Hall and drawing salaries from $2,000 to $7,500 per annum.

But let William Hard tell the story as he told it in Sunday's Atlanta Journal.

Tammany Negro's Friend

The headquarters of favorable and equal treatment of the Negro politically by Democrats in the North has been for a long time Tammany Hall. It is claimed by Tammany leaders that two hundred and seventy-six Negroes now hold New York City political or civil service positions with salaries in each instance of more than eighteen hundred dollars a year. It is indeed claimed by them that Negroes hold more really good and lucrative positions under the New York City government alone than under the whole federal government throughout the United States.

Ferdinand Q. Morton, a member of the New York City civil service commission and said to be the highest salaried Negro officeholder in the country, with those other New York city officials of his race visited Washington last week on a tour through this country westward for the organizing of "Al Smith-Joe Robinson Negro clubs" in all important centers of Negro voting activity.

Negroes in several cities in "border" and Northern states have recently become much accustomed to voting the Democratic ticket in local elections. This has been true often in a considerable degree in certain sections of New York and Chicago. It has been true in Baltimore under the leadership of "Tom" Smith a locally extremely powerful Negro politician. It has been true also in Memphis under the leadership of Robert R. Church, one of the ablest and most outstanding Negro characters of the country, who is a staunch Republican nationally but who in local affairs has been a frequent and welcomed ally of the local Democratic "boss."

Even in Arkansas, a state of the "solid South," the chairman of the State Democratic Committee, J. S. Utley, has now under consideration a project for "Smith and Robinson clubs" among Arkansas Negro voters.

Bishop Ransom For Smith, Bishop Gaines For Hoover

Smith offers greater promise than Hoover, Bishop Reverdy C. Ransome told the College Students' Club at St. James Presbyterian Church, in New York, Sunday.

Bishop Ransome, of the A. M. E. Church, heads the Thirteenth Episcopal District, including Louisiana and Oklahoma.

Bishop Gaines

Bishop A. L. Gaines, Baltimore, in charge of the Second Episcopal District, including Baltimore, Virginia and North Carolina conference, when notified of Bishop Ransome's stand by the AFRO-AMERICAN Monday, said:

"I am for Hoover."

Bishop Ransome in his address declared that there was little to choose between the platforms of the two parties and the personality of the candidate will be the decisive element in the campaign.

"That being so, Smith is more heartening and attractive. We cherish no illusions with regard to the Democratic party. It's the same old Democratic party.

Not G. O. P.

"But the party Mr. Hoover represents is not the Grand Old Republican party. The Republican party wrote the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments into the Constitution. If they have long since been evaded and nullified by the southern democracy it is because the long succession of Republican administrations in full control of every department of the government have silently acquiesced in these evasions.

"Republicans inserted a spineless plank in their platform in regard to the Eighteenth Amendment, while they are silent on the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments which go to the roots of our Republican form of government—namely, the right to vote.

Can't Be Swayed

"Republicans will find in this campaign that the Negro vote cannot be swayed as of old, by conjuring with the name of Abraham Lincoln, while there stands before us in the person of Governor Smith, a man who in sagacity and the common touch of human sympathy is more like Lincoln than any candidate for President since Lincoln's day.

Conventions

It is not to the advantage of the convention in Kansas City to contract it with the conventions at Houston, Texas, in its treatment of the Negro. At Kansas City the Republicans had as much segregation as could possibly be crowded into a city that far north. But worse they showed just how highly they value the Negro element in their party, by displacing every Negro leader (save one who is doubtless relied upon to return a republican majority from the Sovereign State of Mississippi) on the National Committee and turning the entire political authority and control over to the Lily White Republicans of the South. Now as between poltical huxters and freebooters, known as "Lily Whites" give me a good straight, dyed-in-the-wool, southern democratic every time.

Among Democrats

Seventy per cent of the Negro population of the United States lives and shall continue to live, in the South, among these same Democrats. Regardless of race, it takes votes to place, or hold, a political party in the seats of power. So far as the Negro is concerned, there is no hypocricy, or concealment in the attitude of our southern democracy. Self-respecting black men an women should turn from the political faithlessness and contempt of the Republican party and demonstrate to the Democratic party that the Negro voter is not a menace, but the most dependable poltical asset in American politics.

"The attitude of Governor Smith toward the Negro has never been patronizing or that of a demagogue. With him theve are just a part of the folk, counting for what they are worth. Under him there is a brighter day for hope for all classes of American citizens."

The Atlanta Constitution Kids Itself With a 'White Supremacy' Editorial

By H. S. Murphy.

On Sunday morning, July 15, the Atlanta Constitution transferred its funny section to its editorial page. Then and there the editor began to blow both hot and cold on "white supremacy" because the solid ivory of the melting South can't stand on a Smith platform without umbrella, raincoat and rubber boots. We had heard of the Negro standing between the whites and the hot sun; we had heard of his standing between the whites and hell fire; but to turn him into this sort of protection from the wet and incidentally have him feed a lot of hungry Democrats—this is indeed both ingenuius and novel.

This mudspatteerd, blind angel, guilty of apologizing for all sorts of stealing of Negro privilege and suffrage, who can see no spots on the Tammany tiger, wants to clean up Southern politics, but not having the mentality to decide whether it wants it cleaned wet or dry, runs to the tombstones of its grandfather, and having gorged its maw on its rotten logic, whoops to the non-thinker that "in the pending national campaign the question of white supremacy is paramount and superseded every controversial issue."

Ben Davis is the big bogey. Whew! If he looms so large as all that, ye gods of Mount Olympus, run here quickly, help us to desert Stone Mountain! We don't need any monument as long as we can dig up our grandfathers to think for us. What we need is a collossus of Davis, with one gigantic foot on Tybee and one on the mainland, his face turned away from the rising sun toward the dark hills of Georgia and across his breast the inscription (for whites only):

"This gobblin' 'll git yer if yer don't watch out!"

So, old lady Constitution is all het up because Mr. Hoover called together men and women "of all shades and colors to work, feed at the same table, and use the same rest rooms in Washington." While we doubt the authenticity of this statement, knowing Washington as we do, we are wondering how many white young Southerners will swallow this grandfather argument without taking the trouble to find out that Al Smith has done the same thing " east side, west side, all around the town" of New York. Nobody took to tall timber when F. Q. Morton or C. W. Anderson, colored politicians, were present, and both Hoover's and Smith's children, if married, are safely married to whites.

Calling on Democracy to make the country safe for white man by sound segregation, it says that segregation under Wilson was entirely satisfactority! So they told Neval H. Thomas, of Washington, when he and not Negro politicians from Boston and Philadelphia, as the Constitution says, fought segregation on the grounds. But they didn't ask the Negro, yet the only place he can be finally left out in settling anything in this country is on a funny page like the editorial page of the Constitution.

But that the chameleon stunt of throwing up a little sop to Hoover by excusing him because he has lived in Europe where "social and racial conditions are different" is a scream! It's different only because they are exposed to evolution of thought—a very unnecessary commodity in the South because the white South's grandfathers have done all the thinking necessary for the next century at least and it does not admit of editing or revising. And so this latest inspiration of the Constitution says fear Negro domination as exemplified by Davis. Next Sunday we may expect a horrible story of how some ambitious bullfrog swallowed an unthinking elephant when the hopeless animal wasn't looking!

But the biggest joke of all is the Constitution's doclaration that "the Negro is equal to the white before the law." Holy Moses! Gilbert T. Stephenson, of North Caroline, has written a four-hundred-page book on "Race Distinctions in American Law." Mr. Stephens says "American" only because he wants to minimize the number of times the white South makes itself look like the paternal ancestor of a mule. This "equality-before-the-law" argument reminds you of the monkey's settling the two cats' argument about the size of the cheese, with the sense of fairness in favor of the monkey rather than the South.

We wonder if the Cnstitution can sing a duet, or go in two directions at once. In this editorial, deprecating Ben Davis' activities, it says: "He (the Negro) is encouraged to become useful in citizenship, in the trades, in industry, in agriculture." How useful? we ask. Enough to add to the white man's power without getting any of his own. His present progress has been made in spite of and not because of the general attitude of the white South.

But the closing paragraphs let the cat out of the bag. The Constitution realizes that the Democratic Party is in a whale of a fix, with the defection of the Ku-Klux Klan (which, by the way, makes no racket as it busies itself with preparation to defeat Smith), and of such men as Hooper Alexander and ex-Congressman Upshaw, Bishop Cannon and others, somebody wants to know, as Champ Clark did in the early days of Wilson at Baltimore, "I wonder where's my hound dog gone?"

Quite by accident we came across this little rhyme a few days ago. We are innocent of its origin, but it smells kind o' Klannish:

"When the Jackass learns to sing tenor
And the Rattlesnake walks on legs,
When the Razor-Back Shote grows feathers
And the Milk Cow sets on eggs,
When the Bluebird mates with the Woodpecker
And the Hoot Owl mates with the Wren,
When the Bull Frog sails on snowy wings
And the Sapsucker chums with the Hen,
When Cotton grows on Fur Trees
And Apples hang from the Rose,
When the Catholics rule the United States
And the Jew grows a straight nose,
When Pope Pius is head of the Ku-Klux Klan
In the land of Uncle Sam,
Then Al Smith will be President
And our country won't be worth a Damn."

Boy, page Mr. Clark Howell, Senior. Tell him that Thomas Jefferson was on very familiar terms with Benjamin Banneker, Negro meterologist; tell him that Andrew Jackson was not only very familiar with his black soldiers before New Orleans, but said some mighty complimentary things about them. And, boy, tell him to let his immediate forbears rest in peace, for if he digs them up to do his thinking it will not only prove ineffective, but that present day problems can't be solved by filling our nostrils with "the flaccid tissues of long dead issues offensive to God and mankind."

And finally, boy, wake him up if you find him asleep to the demand of the thinking young white Southerner, as you most surely will. Tell him he classes the fSouth with England's out-of-date generals who lost the Boer campaign and whom Kipling has made to say:

"Oh, the lamp of our youth shall be utterly out—
But we shall exist on the smell of it,
And whatever we do we shall fold our hands
And suck our gums and think well of it;
O, we shall be perfectly pleased with ourselves—
And THAT is the perfectest hell of it!"

Political - 1928

Independent Colored Voters' League.

Party Affiliation

TEXAS NEGROES WILL CONFER AT DALLAS, MAR. 24

Waco, Texas, March 6, 1928.—According to a statement issued by the Independent Colored Voters' League of Texas, one of the most epochal statewide meetings in the history of this state, as it relates to Negro citizens, will be held in Pythian Temple, Dallas, Texas, Saturday morning, March 24, 1928, 10:30 o'clock. Leaders from all sections of the state have been invited and are expected to attend this conference.

At this parley definite decision will be rendered as to the course the colored voters of Texas will take in the political conventions and elections of 1928, and, statewide organization will be perfected to see that no American citizen in this state is denied his elective franchise right due to his color.

A long list of notables will grace the occasion with their presence, among whom are Drs.. J. T. Walton and C. A. Whittier of San Antonio, Dr. D. W. Porter of Sherman, Dr. R. C. Riddle, Denison, Geo. W. Johnson, Prof. G. W. Jackson, and Rev. J. S. Adair of Corsicana, Prof. J. J. Burnett of Cleburne, W. S. Willis, Judge A. S. Wells, Dr. R. T. Hamilton, J. W. Rice and C. F. Starks of Dallas, Judge R. D. Evans of Waco, president of the league; A. G. Perkins and Rev. R. C. Barbour of Galveston, T. J. Harris of Brenham, R. B. Goosby of Bryan, L. D. Lyons of Austin, Geo. M. Guest of Paris, Virgil G. Goree of Texarkana, R. A. Hester of Brownwood, Solomon Devaull of Ballinger, Rev. W. F. Bledsoe, Sr., and Pat F. Dennis of Marshall, H. L. Price of Cuney, W. G. Bell of Beaumont; Nathan Johnson, Editor D. F. Grimes, O. C. Crook and H. B. Hardee of Fort Worth; Editors R. G. May and J. A. James of San Antonio; H. P. Carter, James T. Ewing, Profs. C. H. McGruder, B. H. Grimes, Rev. E. L. Harrison, N. Dudley, Jr., and Editor C. F. Richardson of Houston, league secretary-tresurer; Mack Hannah of Port Arthur; Dr. A. L. Hunter of Marlin; Dr. T. C. Redwine of Tyler; J. H. Howard of Jacksonville; G. W. Elliott of Mt. Pleasant, Rev. M. M. Haynes of Bastrop; F. R. Bluestein of Orange; E. Green of Dayton, Prof. A. W. Jackson of Rosenberg; Prof. J. A. Kirk and Dr. A. S. Jackson of Waco, Prof. Wm. Anderson, Smithville, and many others.

Statewide Conference, Dallas, Mar. 24

The moving spirits in the Independent Colored Voters' League of Texas, which played such an important part in encouraging and urging colored Texans to qualify in order to vote in the 1928 elections, have decided that the Negroes of Texas, without regard to political affiliation or presidential preference, should hold a statewide conference in some centrally located Texas city in the immediate future, and there take cognizance of and assume some definite attitude towards the present political situation as it confronts and concerns the Negroes of this state.

To that end, President R. D. Evans, well-known Waco attorney and leader, has issued a call for a statewide conference under the auspices of this organization at the Pythian Temple, 2549 Elm Street, Dallas, Texas, Saturday morning, March 24, 10:30 o'clock.

3-10-28

Outstanding race leaders from all sections of the state have been invited and are expected to attend this parley, which will not only issue a public statement to the Texas electorate, but which will lay and perfect plans for the full and free exercise of the elective franchise right by every citizen in this state, particularly those of Negro extraction.

Having lived in partisan serfdom and political bondage for the past decade or two, the Negroes of Texas can effect their partisan freedom and political emancipation during 1928, or make a mighty good start in that direction, if they will only organize their forces, select true and tried leaders and wage incessant battle against those persons and forces that seek to deprive and deny American citizens of their constitutional rights merely because of color.

There can be no appreciable headway made against any oppressive or obnoxious movement where the people thus oppressed are unwilling to coordinate their forces, pool their interests, financial and otherwise, and contend manfully, legally and sensibly for complete exercise and enjoyment of such inalienable warranties.

As a racial unit, we are too quick to take "cold feet;" too prone to lose heart and decide that the "game is not worth the ammunition;" apparently failing to bear in mind that "he who would be free, himself must strike the first blow."

In a democratic republic, the voter is sovereign, and the man without a ballot, or the man with a vote who refuses to cast it, is not only voiceless, but helpless and wellnigh hopeless!

With one possible exception, Negroes in all other Southern states are actively engaged in politics; and, even though they have met with rebuffs and defeats on previous occasions, they are determined to "carry on" until victory finally perches upon their standards and the cause of right ultimately prevails.

Are Texas Negroes quitters? Are we made of stuff any less stern than that of our racial brothers in other sections of the country?

Are we afraid or too timid to contend with might and main for the rights guaranteed and vouchsafed to us through constitutional provisions and mandates, both national and state?

The infant learns to walk by repeated efforts and trials, receiving many falls and sustaining some injuries in the attempts, but finally mastering the art of physical locomotion.

Any race, which is so obsessed with the characteristics of weaklings—with the "inferiority complex"—as to fall flat in its tracks at the least noise or opposition, and refuse to even make any effort to rise after such fall or reversal, is worthy only of the disrespect and contumely of red-blooded and courageous men of all races and nations!

If the leading Negroes of Texas—not the worn-out, repudiated and discredited race politicians—will attend this Dallas conference with a spirit and zeal to get somewhere in partisan politics in this state, 1928 has the possibilities of being a "year of jubilee" for Texas Negroes, politically speaking.

The Informer wishes to commend the Independent Colored Voters' League of Texas for calling this statewide conference on Saturday, March 24, at Dallas, and takes this occasion to urge and request a large attendance of Negro leaders and citizens at said parley.

Let's make some little sacrifice of time and money and take one day from our labor to counsel and plan for the best interests of our race, our state and our nation.

We owe this holden duty not merely to oureslves, our partisan organization and the social fabric, but this is an obligation which our families and posterity are expecting us to fulfill and execute.

On to Dallas, Texas, Saturday, March 20, one hundred (100) or more strong, to perfect a statewide organization for the express purpose of regaining our lost political ground, and reclaiming our party heritage which has been taken from the race surreptitiously by partisan usurpers, political interlopers and designing Negrophobes!

Negro Voters To Hold Political Rally Here

It was learned this morning that the colored voters of the city will hold a mass meeting tomorrow night at the colored Y. M. C. A. to establish definitely their stand in the coming general election, at which three members will be elected for the City Council, from a field of five candidates.

Several days ago, authoritative information was received to the effect that the colored vote was split and that efforts were being made and would be made to block the vote and swing it solid in one direction or the other. No predictions have been made as to which way the ballot will swing. Some reports have it that they will vote solidly for the Republican candidate, while others have it that they have cast aside national party principles and will vote for the Democratic candidates for the Council, of whom there are three, two being incumbent.

One of the arguments heard in substantiation of the rumor that the colored citizens will go Democratic is that the local Republicans are regarded as "lily whites" in their local political views. It has been stated that whichever way the negro vote goes, it will go solidly, the colored citizens voting as a unit, with but few insurgents to bolt the ticket.

REPUBLICAN
SPRINGFIELD, MASS

MAY 2 1928

HARLEM THE CENTER OF NEGRO INFLUENCE

Signs of Progress in a Community of 350,000 People —Political Strength

To the Editor of The Republican:—

I had not been in Harlem very long before questions arose as to my political purpose, it having been observed that I was as frequently with Republicans as with Democrats. But an incident in which Mark Twain figured suggested itself. He was in the company of friends who were discussing heaven and hell, and when they asked why he was silent, he replied, "It is necessary, as I have friends in both places."

Not since the presidential campaign of 1884, when James G. Blaine was at the hight of his career, has New York state been so centripetal as it is today. For should the Democrats of the country have the courage to give to Gov Smith the nomination of their party, he could undoubtedly be elected next November. The spirited contest of two years ago between the governor and Col Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., points the way. Because, aside from the governor's wide personal popularity, the Democratic party has made substantial inroads upon the upstate electorate, while Col Roosevelt himself has aroused tremendous enthusiasm in New York city as well as in the Bronx. The slightest change, therefore, in either party may determine the vote of the state.

Out of the very bosom of Manhattan modern Harlem has arisen. It comprises an estimated area of nearly 10 square miles lying between One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street on the north; Ninety-sixth street on the south; Fifth avenue on the east and Amsterdam avenue on the west. More than 350,000 Negroes live in this congested district. A majority of this population follows the fortunes of Judge Olvany and Tammany hall, but there is also a stalwart Republican rivalry, as shown by the recent election of Fred R. Moore and John Clifford Hawkins in the 19th and 21st aldermanic districts respectively.

New Type of Leadership

The thing which impresses at this writing is the rapid disappearance of the type of political leader who was wont to deliver his following to the highest bidder, and the rise of leaders who seek for Negroes the same things which other groups covet. One leader at the close of a recent election on being asked what job or position he sought, replied, "I desire no job or position; I only want to be left alone and allowed to conduct my business without the unnecessary interference of persons seeking graft."

There are many beautiful and expensive church edifices, stores, office and apartment buildings owned and controled by Negroes. In fact, the material prosperity of Harlem is admittedly great, but it is the intellectual leadership of its people from which Harlem derives its chief claim to distinction. Here flourish intelligent religious and spiritual teachers who point to higher worlds and lead the way. In addition to the active political leaders like Charles W. Anderson, Ferdinand Q. Morton, Fred R. Moore, Cornelius W. McDougal, Clifton T. A. French, George W. Harris and many other lights of lesser leading, are to be found such educational leaders as W. E. B. DuBois, James Weldon Johnson, Eugene Kinckle Jones, Roscoe Conkling Bruce, Countee Cullen, Miss Jessie Faucet, William Pickens, William H. Ferris, A. Philip Randolph, and others who move and sway their people as they were never stirred before. New York city is, besides, the home of the Crisis and Opportunity publications, regarded as the best monthlies of their kind published today. These two publications alone reach and influence more than 300,000 readers distributed in every section of the country. Within a radius of two city blocks are the offices of three of the best known Negro weeklies, the New York Amsterdam News, the New York Age and the New York News, the former being regarded by its contemporaries as the leading Negro newspaper. There is also the Negro World, the organ of the Garvey movement. Marcus Garvey, though not now in America, has left a trail of apostles who yet have dreams of the promised land.

Effective Organizations

New York city is also the home of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the National Urban league, two of the most effective organizations conceived since reconstruction. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, of which A. Philip Randolph is the spokesman, with its present membership of over 7500 porters carrying their passengers into every state of the Union, had its beginning in a small dining room on One Hundred and Thirty-first street, William H. DesVerney being the promoting genius of the organization. The diversity of citizenship and density of the population offer fertile sod for the cultivation and growth of these humanitarian movements. And the force of these agencies argues convincingly against any attempted experiments by the managers of either of the great political parties even suggestive of Ku Klux, Jim Crow or segregated treatment of its followers. Harlem is not the Utopia of which More wrote, but it is at least a land of opportunity where composite peoples may work out the practical problems of democratic self-government with the least possible friction.

Regardless of the outcome of the election it is to be hoped that the better element will prevail; that manhood right will be recognized and respected in January as well as in November; that for the sake of a few petty jobs no Jim Crow annexes to the national committees will be continued or created; that lynching shall constitute a crime in law as well as one of conscience, and that the proportionate representation in the affairs of government will be accorded to persons of character, training and courage, regardless of race, creed, color or previous condition of servitude.

LUCIUS SUMNER HICKS.
New York city, April 28, 1928.

LEDGER-DISPATCH
NORFOLK, VA.

MAY 13 1928

Independent Negro Voters Called To Meet May 17

Richmond, Va., May 12.—(AP)—The News-Leader says today that Leon Reid, Negro dentist of Richmond, has issued a call for a state-wide convention of "independent voters" to be held at Petersburg May 17 for the announced purpose of effecting an organization of independent Democratic voters, including Negroes.

Upwards of 200 Negroes from Richmond and the state at large, the News-Leader says, are expected to attend. The meeting will be concurrent with the state convention of the Negro Elks in Petersburg.

The convention call is a Negro movement, but white independents are invited to attend, it was said.

LEDGER-DISPATCH
NORFOLK, VA.

SEP 4 1928

NEGRO VOTERS INDEPENDENT

Adjourned Meeting Will Be Held In Norfolk On Sept. 16

Negro voters who convened yesterday at Buckroe Beach to discuss their attitude in the presidential campaign passed a resolution encouraging an independent spirit, and decided to hold an adjourned meeting in Norfolk September 16.

It was stated that no effort would be made to dictate to colored voters as to their choice for president.

J. Thomas Newsome, of Newport News, stated that there was a decided leaning toward Smith, and that only four votes were cast by Hoover enthusiasts out of a large number of votes balloted.

Representatives were present from the entire state, which numbered more than 350 persons.

Interracial Independent Political Party.

Political—1928

Party Affiliation.

HERALD
VICKSBURG, MISS.

JUN 28 1928

A MIXED TICKET

The presidential campaign of 1928 presents one unique feature at least. It is that of a white man running for president and a negro candidate for vice-president on the same ticket—that of the Interracial Independent Political Party.

Possibly a good many of our readers have never heard of this party, but its leaders claim that fifteen million negroes are favorable to it; a ridiculous claim, of course.

But many have heard of its presidential candidate, who is none other than "General" Jacob S. Coxey, leader of "Coxey's Army" of 1894, composed of jobless men who marched to Washington to obtain relief, but accomplished little except to call attention to the widespread unemployment then existing. Some of them were even arrested for trespassing on the Capitol grounds.

Coxey, who is now 74, operates a silica sand company in Ohio and also has oil interests in Oklahoma. The negro vice-presidential candidate is Simon P. W. Drew, a preacher and real estate operator.

Thus again is illustrated the saying that "politics makes strange bed-fellows."

Political - 1928

National Inter-Racial Independent Political Party.

Party Affiliation.

VICE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE HERE

Rev. Simon P. W. Drew On Ticket With General Coxey

PARTY IS INTERRACIAL

Candidate Visits Pastors. Will Return Monday

The Rev. Simon P. W. Drew, of Washington, D. C., candidate for vice-president on the National Inter-Racial Independent Political Party ticket was in the city this week.

The party was organized June 4, 1928, with General Jacob S. Coxey, of Ohio, of Coxey's Army fame, as the nominee for president.

Rev. Mr. Drew is known as the president of the White Cross Real Estate Company, the National Ministers' Alliance, American White Cross Employment Bureau and is pastor of Cosmopolitan Baptist Church, 2125 Eleventh Street, northwest, Washington.

While in the city Sunday, he visited the Rev. W. W. Allen, the Rev. Harold C. Stepteau, the Rev. D. G. Mack, the Rev. J. W. Jones and the Rev. W. J. Winston.

The Rev. Mr. Drew declared he will visit the Baptist Ministers' Conference, next Monda-

After official notification ceremonies, Monday, August 6, the Rev. Mr. Drew said a nation-wide political campaign will be planned.

Visitor
Audubon + Haddon Hts. N. J.

JUL 12 1928

A Mixed Ticket

The presidential campaign of 1928 presents one unique feature at least. It is that of a white man running for president and a negro candidate for vice president on the same ticket—that of the Interracial Independent Political Party.

Possibly a good many of our readers have never heard of this party, but its leaders claim that fifteen million negroes are favorable to it; a ridiculous claim, of course.

But many have heard of its presidential candidate, who is none other than "General" Jacob S. Coxey, leader of "Coxey's army" of 1894, composed of jobless men who marched to Washington to obtain relief, but accomplished little except attention to the widespread unemployment then existing. Some of them were even arrested for trespassing on the Capitol grounds.

Coxey, who is now 74, operates a silica sand company in Ohio and also has oil interests in Oklahoma. The negro vice presidential candidate is Simon P. W. Drew, a preacher and real estate operator.

Thus again is illustrated the saying that "politics makes strange bedfellows."

Enquirer
Gt. Mild - Comm

JUL 12 1928

A MIXED TICKET

The presidential campaign of 1928 presents one unique feature at least. It is that of a white man running for president and a negro candidate for vice-president on the same ticket—that of the Interracial Independent Political Party.

Possibly a good many of our readers have never heard of this party, but its leaders claim that fifteen million negroes are favorable to it; a ridiculous claim, of course.

But many have heard of its presidential candidate, who is none other than "General" Jacob S. Coxey, leader of "Coxey's Army" of 1894, composed of jobless men who marched to Washington to obtain relief, but accomplished little except to call attention to the widespread unemployment then existing. Some of them were even arrested for trespassing on the Capitol grounds.

Coxey, who is now 74, operates a silica sand company in Ohio and also has oil interests in Oklahoma. The negro vice-presidential candidate is Simon P. W. Drew, a preacher and real estate operator.

Thus again is illustrated the saying that "politics makes strange bed fellows."

Phila. S. C. Times
Thursday, July 26, 1928

The presidential campaign of 1928 presents one unique feature at least. It is that of a white man running for president and a negro candidate for vice president on the same ticket—that of the Interracial Independent Political party. Possibly a good many have never heard of the party, but its leaders claim that 15 million negroes are favorable to it. But many have heard of its presidential candidate, who is none other than "Gen." Jacob S. Coxey, leader of "Coxey's army" of 1894, composed of a handful of jobless men who marched to Washington to obtain relief, but accomplished little except to emphasize the widespread unemployment then existing. Some of them, including Carl Brown, Coxey's first lieutenant, were even arrested for trespassing on the capitol grounds. Coxey, who is now 74, operates a sand company in Ohio and also has oil interests in Oklahoma. The negro vice presidential candidate in Simon P. W. Drew, a precaher. Thus again is illustrated the saying that "politics makes strange bedfellows."

ENTERPRISE

Lemoore Cal

JUL 6 1928

A MIXED TICKET

The presidential campaign of 1928 presents one unique feature at least. It is that of a white man running for president and a negro candidate for vice-president on the same ticket—that of the Interracial Independent Political Party.

Possibily a good many of our readers have never heard of this party, but its leaders claim that fifteen million negroes are favorable to it; a ridiculous claim, of course.

But many have heard of its presidential candidate, who is none other than "General" Jacob S. Coxey, leader of "Coxey's Army" of 1894, composed of jobless men who marched to Washington to obtain relief, but accomplished little except to call attention to the widespread unemployment then existing. Some of them were even arrested for trespassing on the Capitol grounds.

Coxey, who is now 74, operates a silica sand company in Ohio and also has oil interests in Oklahoma. The negro vice-presidential candidate is Simon P. W. Drew, a preacher and real estate operator.

Thus again is illustrated the saying that "politics makes strange bed-fellows."

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

National Negro Voters League.

The Negro Voters' League Has Stirring Session In First Gathering At Chicago

Leaders Assail the Democratic and Republican Parties. See Need for Negroes to Become Independent of Unfaithful

Argus

CHICAGO, Aug. 29. —Assailing the Democratic party for its failure to enforce the Fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the national constitution and condemning the Republican party for deposing of Southern Colored leaders and unfaithfulness to colored voters, the National Negro Voters League held a stirring session here winding up in the organizing of an independent party with J. Finley Wilson Grand exalted ruler of the Elks as its head. More than 200 Race political leaders from all parts of the country attended the meeting.

The call to the meeting, as read by C. P. Howard, of Des Moines, recited the ineffectual attempt of colored voters to get an expression from leaders of either of the major parties on which to base intelligent action in the forthcoming campaign.

Assails Republicans

William V. Hueston, municipal judge at Gary, Ind., demanded an explanation for the unseating of Perry Howard as Republican national committeeman for Mississippi and his indictment later on charges of selling federal jobs.

"Why was Assistant Attorney General Mabel Willebrandt sent from Washington to Mississippi when the investigation could and should have been made by the United States district attorney there?" he asked.

"Bear in mind that it is dangerous for a Negro to speak to a lady in Mississippi and death to dispute her."

He added that the charges of permitting liquor to be landed brought against Walter Cohen, customs collector at New Orleans, was intended to destroy his twenty years influence in Louisiana.

The Republican party was charged with acquiesence in violations of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments in encouragement of "lily whiteism" in the South; in discrimination in the Civil Service, and in segregation in all of its activities as a general policy. Wilson scored both parties heavily for negligence of duty toward colored citizens, expressing bitterness against William Howard Taft personally for introduction into Federal Government of many of the evils complained of.

In this connection, he showed that the forces now in control of the Negro wing of the Republican party at Washington were formerly or are now administrative officers at Tuskegee Institute, where Mr. Taft is a trustee, and are objectionable because they acquiesce in his policies, which the National Negro Voters League would repudiate.

To Fight Disfranchisement

The keynote address was made by Judge W. C. Hueston, of Gary, Ind. chairman of the national committee of the new league. His program called for full enfranchisement of the Negro throughout America, North and South, for a determination of the Negro's political status with reference to advisability of future affiliation with the Republican party and for the ousting from public office of race traitors, thru pitiless publicity.

"Our race," he said, "not handicapped by religious prejudice. It can, therefore, as easily vote for a Roman Catholic as for a white Protestant." He advocated appointment of a committee of nine to wait on the presidential candidates and national committee chairmen of the two major parties, a suggestion which met with favor. Wilson will name the committee.

Other officers of the Voters League include J. C. Brown, Iowa secretary; William McDonald, treasurer; Caesar Blake, North Carolina, assistant secretary; William C. Hueston, Indiana chairman of the executive committe.

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.

National Negro Voters League.

NATIONAL NEGRO VOTERS LEAGUE TO HOLD CONVENTION IN CHICAGO TO DISCUSS RACE WRONGS

Gary, Ind., Aug. 11.—Judge Hueston, chairman of the executive committee of the National Negro Voters League, which holds its first meeting in Chicago at Fandell Phillips High School August 24, has been receiving so many inquiries made the following statement Saturday, August 11:

"The meeting of the National Negro Voters League which will be for one day only will be a new departure in Negro Conventions. In the first place the meeting will last for one day only and therefore meets for action, not for lengthy speeches and long resolutions. It will be entirely open and will be presided over by that indefatigible worker and enthusiast, J. Finley Wilson, which insures that this effort shall not die aborning."

Judge Hueston, continuing, announced the purposes of the league and meeting, namely:

"1. To work for the full enfranchisement of the American Negro.

"2. To ascertain where the Negro stands in the Republican party and to scourge those who betray the race for political advancement.

"This assures that the meeting will be full of purpose and pep."

Judge Hueston stated further: "This meeting is not for the purpose of attempting to lead the American Negro in or out of any political party, but it is for the purpose of taking stock and balancing the race's political accounts. The prime purpose is to permanently organize the National Negro Voters League and to arrange to have said league function throughout the entire United States to the end that every Negro man and woman of voting age will not only have the right to vote but will use that right at every opportunity, for it is known that the ballot is the safe guard of human rights. The National Negro Voters League believes that it is the duty of Negroes who live in states where they vote, to use that right in such a way that it will benefit the Negroes who live in the states where race prejudice denies them the opportunity because they are black and the members of the league committee themselves to vote only for those who declare themselves publicly and privatly for universal suffrage."

It appears that for a number of years the Republican party has not been as vigilant in the preservation of the Negro's rights before the law as at the birth of the party, and some recent happenings have served to emphasize this attitude. It is the purpose of this league to do everything possible to ascertain where the Republican party stands on the full enfranchisement of the American Negro everywhere in the United States; the removal of all humiliating race laws and full and free education of the American Negro everywhere.

The National Negro Voters League accepts the position that the Titular head of the party and the Republican National Committee is authorized to speak for the party.

The third matter to be considered at the coming meeting is the race loyalty of those of the group who have assumed to act for the race at political conventions and seemingly auired in adverse race decisions by said conventions. As announced by the call, all who come to represent any race group political or otherwise shall have a part in the meeting, and it is hoped that many from all sections of the country will be present.

"Lists of delegates are already being sent to me," said Judge Hueston "and a large delegation is indicated."

COLORED VOTERS MEET

Finley Wilson is One of Leaders in Move to Find Negroes' Status

MAY BOLT G.O.P.

To Demand Direct Answers From Republican Campaign Heads

Representatives of colored voters in 40 states will attend the meeting of the National Negro Voters' League at the Wendell Phillips High School, Chicago, Ill., August 24, J. Finley Wilson, its president, declared Monday.

The purpose of this meeting, he said, is to find where the Negro stands in the Republican party. Negro voters, he stated, are disturbed at the treatment accorded Walter L. Cohen, a Republican leader in Louisiana; William (Gooseneck Bill) McDonald, of Texas; Benjamin Jefferson Davis Republican national committeeman for Georgia until the Kansas City convention, and Perry W. Howard Republican national committeeman for Mississippi.

Lily-white delegations were seated at the Kansas City convention over mixed delegations headed by Cohen and McDonald. Davis was deposed at Kansas City. Howard was indicted shortly after the convention by a special Federal grand jury in Mississippi for alleged trafficking in Federal patronage.

"All Republicans"

"We are all Republicans," said Mr. Wilson, "but we want to find out whether we are going to be allowed to stay in the party.

"The 'boys' decided at Kansas City," he stated, "that we had better get together and find out our status." Mr. Wilson was referring to a group of colored delegates and voters who met in Kansas City and formed a temporary organization and decided to call this meeting in Chicago to form a permanent organization.

He explained that this is an independent movement of colored Republicans.

"We believe in the party of Lincoln," he said, "and we love its traditions." He added, however, that "we also believe that we should have some man at sometime, somewhere, to act like Lincoln, Sumner, Conkling, Foraker and Roosevelt.

To Abandon Us

"We think that by holding this meeting some of the responsible heads of the Republican party will tell us whether they want our support or whether they are going to abandon and bar us.

"Both major parties declared for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. Neither would discuss or write anything about the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments.

"We believe with Andrew Jackson that 'to the victors belong the spoils,' and we feel that when our party is in power our loyalty to it should be recognized by appointment to Federal offices requiring confirmation by the Senate instead of our being slaughtered in the house of our friends.

"We believe that both Mr. Hoover and Governor Smith are high class men, but neither of them has spoken out on the Civil War amendments to the Federal constitution, and that is one of the reasons for our meeting."

The call for the meeting is signed by Mr. Wilson, Charles P. Howard, a lawyer, of Des Moines, Iowa and William C. Hueston, a municipal judge, of Gary, Ind.

It sets forth as one of the grievances of the refusal of the Republican party to put into its platform planks declaring for the protection of colored citizens in all their rights ,civil and political; srtict enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, and application of the civil services rules to all persons alike without regard to race or color.

Mr. Wilson is the grand exalted ruler of the Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World, which has a membership, including women, of nearly 500,000. Four-fifths of the Elks' membership, Mr. Wilson says, live in voting states.

Negro Voters To Protest Against Alleged Wrongs

By The Associated Press

Chicago, Aug. 23.—A permanent organization of the National Negro Voters' league is to be former Friday at a conference of negro leaders from 40 states called together by J. Finley Wilson, negro, to protest against what he termed "mistreatment of negro voters at the hands of the national republican party."

The meeting will be a sequel to a conference held at Kansas City after the republican convention at which a territory organization was formed.

"The purpose," Wilson said, "is to find out where the negro stands in the republican party. We are all re-

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation

National Negro Voters League

Negro Voters League Leans Towards Smith For President

Draft Questionaire To Both Candidates

Speeches Favor New York Governor

CHICAGO, August 25.—Pursuant to a call to all voters of the race who are deeply interested in the political and civil welfare of the Negro to meet and discuss the situation, over 200 delegates met in Wendell Phillips' High School here Friday, August 24. They were not merely politicians who were looking for a handout but they were substantial men and women who for the most part have not aspired for political honors or positions.

They gathered because of a feeling that the race and the nation is facing a crisis and the time has come for intelligent, non-partisan, unbiased discussion of what is best for the Negro and the nation. Delegates were present from Washington in the Northwest to California and from Massachusetts to Florida—men and women who had come at their own expense, neglecting their own personal affairs.

J. Finley Wilson presided and was made permanent chairman of the permanent organization of the National Negro Voters League, which is to meet yearly. The organization is independent, holding allegiance to no political party.

Other notables were present and a list of officers were chosen. The sum total of the meeting was a list of demands made to be submitted to Mr. Hoover and Mr. Smith. The idea being that the candidate giving the cleanest clear-cut answer should have the support of this organization and as many as it could inuence.

The striking phase of the meeting was the pro-Smith sentiment and anti-Republican sentiment that was exhibited. Men and women, who have been Republicans all their lives declared they were tired of Republcan hypocrisy, of Kui Klux Klanism and would vote for Smith for President. Many others expressed admiration for Gov. Smith but declared they were afraid of Robinson, his running mate. They figured if Smith died Robinson would succeed him and they declared he was a rank Negro hater who would be influenced by Cole Blease and Pat Harrison.

Many notable speeches were made. Mrs. Grace Evans of Indiana, militant Republican worker, declared she could not support a party that would spend millions to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment which had to do with men's appetites and would not spend a cent to enforce the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments which had to do with men's souls and lives.

Webster L. Porter, editor, Knoxville Tenn., made a great speech for the Republican and denounced Robt. R. Church of his State for an alleged statement he would not follow "Negro Leadership." Mr. Porter dwelt on Mr. Church at length, although many present did not know what he was talking about.

Another great speech was made by "Bill" Crowell of Virginia. Mr. Crowell declared the Negro ought to stand by the Republican party despite its faults and short comings.

Mr. A. Brown of Pennsylvania, who preceded Mr. Crowell, had urged the Negro to vote for Al Smith and teach the Republicans a lesson once and for all. He said the G. O. P. was throwing the Negro overboard and catering to Ku Kluxism and lily whitism and should be defeated. He said he had been a Republican worker for forty years but this year he and his house would vote for Al Smith. Mr. Crowell followed Mr. Brown and turning to all who leaned toward Al Smith, recited a parody on "Bye-Bye Blackbird." To all Negroes leaving the G. O. P. he said, "Bye-Bye Blackbird." Mr. Brown is an "unbleached American." William Warley, of Louisville, Ky., made a talk that was well received, the tenor of which was he was not for Hoover nor pro-Smith but was first last and all the time pro-Negro.

Messrs. Finley Wilson and Judge W. C. Hueston made speeches which covered the history of the Republican party from its beginning. The Negro has had the Lincoln League, the Sanhedrin, the Spo-American Council and scores of organizations but this meeting stands above them all for earnest, conscientious endeavor to serve the race.

Another meeting will be called before election to hear what Mr. Hoover and Mr. Smith have to say in answer to the questions put to them by the National Negro Voters League.

The meeting was called for the purpose of forming a permanent organization and agreeing upon ways and means of carrying out the objects of the league. These objects are the full enfranchisement of the Negro and the ascertainment of the attitude of the Republican and Democratic party toward him.

Began Furiously

The convention began furiously enough. J. Finley Wilson, the temporary chairman, and William C. Hueston, the chairman of the executive committee, made speeches condemning both political parties.

"I see no hope for our political advancement in either one of the major parties," Mr. Wilson declared "and I deem it highly important as well as vital to our racial welfare that we take counsel of each other, to the end that in our combined wisdom we may so direct the political activities of our racial group that when the campaign is over, the votes counted, and the President is inaugurated, we may have a better day."

Mr. Hueston in his speech called upon Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee "to lead in the securing for the American Negro of his guaranteed rights under the Constitution."

Gets Down To Business

After this flurry of oratory the convention got down to business. The temporary chairman appointed the committees on credentials and resolutions. While these committees were out, there was more oratory. Speeches were made in praise and in condemnation of the Republican party. Other speakers counselled against bolting the Republican party as a means of settling grievances. Still others urged that the Negro vote for Al Smith, not as a Democrat, but as an independent voter.

Mr. Hueston submitted the report of the committee on resolutions. The committee recommended that the chairman be empowered to appoint a committee to draft a questionaire dealing with the enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments for submission to the candidates. It also recommended that a permanent organization be formed.

The resolutions declared for the full enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, appointments to civil service positions solely upon merit and the elimination of the filing of photographs with applications for civil service positions, and the abolition of segregation in government departments. They also condemned efforts to emasculate Negro leadership and also lily whiteism in party affairs.

The resolutions were adopted without debate. The resolutions committee consisted of Mr. Hueston, Charles P. Howard, the temporary secretary of the convention; J. C. Bankett, of Indiana; Mrs. Lethia C. Fleming, of Ohio; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, of Indiana, and Isaac H. Nutter, of New Jersey.

Officers Elected

The following officers were elected: J. Finley Wilson, president; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, vice-president; Charles P. Howard, secretary; William McDonald, of Texas, treasurer, and William C. Hueston, chairman of the executive committee.

According to the report of the credentials committee, 144 delegates were present. Letters and telegrams wre receivd from 30 othrs.

Mr. Wilson did not name the committee to draft the questionnaire. He says he will make public his selections this week.

Among some of the prominent persons seen at the convention were Isaac H. Nutter, of Atlantic City; William C. Hueston, Gary, Ind.; Perry W. Howard, Washington, D. C.; Benjamin J. Davis, Atlanta, Ga.; W. H. C. Brown, Newport News, Va.; C. Tiffany Tolliver and W. B. F. Crowell, both of Roanoke, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Fleming of Cleveland ,Ohio; Clarence R. Vena, Toledo; Charles E. Mitchell, Institute, W. Va.; Webster L. Porter, Knoxville, Tenn.; William Warley, Louisville, Ky.; Thomas H. Brown, Connellsville, Pa.; Dr. C. V. Freeman, Jacksonville, Fla.; John L. Webb, Hot Springs, Ark.; Ceasar R. Blake, North Carolina; Dr. J. E. Gregg, Cleveland, O.; Cornelius R. Richardson, Richmond, Ind.; Charles P. Howard, Iowa; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, Terra Haute, Ind.; Dr. H. R. Butler, Atlanta, Ga., and Sidney B. Thompson, Cleveland, O.

LEAGUE MEET A 'DUD'

"Speeches," That's All, Characterize Convention

LEADERS HESITANT

Special To Journal and Guide

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 28—The meeting of the National Negro Voters League at the Wendell Phillips High School last Friday fizzled out. Out of it came no declaration for the guidance of the voter in this presidential election.

The leaders of the movement chose a middle course, condemning neither the Republican nor the Democratic party. In a resolution, which was adopted by the convention, some of the political ills from which the Negro suffers were recited, but no means of remedying them were offered.

LEAGUE MEET IN CHICAGO IS "FIZZLE"

"Nothing Happens" After Day Of Speeches and Resolutions; Officers Are Elected.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 30.—The meeting of the National Negro Voters' League at the Wendell Phillips High school last Friday fizzled out. Out of it came no declaration for the guidance of the voter in this Presidential election. It was a sort of pre-Elk convention—Elks being in the majority.

The leaders of the movement chose a middle course, condemning neither the Republican nor the Democratic party. In a resolution, which was adopted by the convention, some of the political ills from which the Negro suffers were recited, but no means of remedying them were offered.

The meeting was called for the purpose of forming a permanent organization and agreeing upon ways and means of carrying out the objects of the league. These objects are the full enfranchisement of the Negro and the ascertainment of the attitude of the Republican and Democratic party toward him.

The convention began furiously enough. J. Finley Wilson, the temporary chairman, and William C. Hueston, the chairman of the executive committee, made speeches condemning both political parties.

Mr. Hueston in his speech called upon Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee, "to lead in the securing for the American Negro of his guaranteed rights under the Constitution."

Mr. Hueston submitted the report of the committee on resolutions. The committee recommended that the chairman be empowered to appoint a committee to draft a questionnaire dealing with the enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments for submission to the candidates. It also recommended that a permanent organization be formed.

The resolutions declared for the full enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, appointments to civil service positions solely upon merit and the elimination of the filing of photographs with applications for civil service positions, and the abolition of segregation in government departments. They also condemned efforts to emasculate Negro leadership and also lily whiteism in party affairs.

The following officers were elected: J. Finley Wilson, president; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, vice president; Charles P. Howard, secretary; William McDonald, of Texas, treasurer, and William C. Hueston, chairman of the executive committee.

Mr. Wilson did not name the committee to draft the questionnaire. He says he will make public his selections this week.

Among some of the prominent Elks and other persons seen at the convention were Isaac H. Nutter, of Atlantic City; William McDonald, of Texas; J. Finley Wilson, Washington, D. C.; William C. Hueston, Gary, Ind.; Perry W. Howard, Washington, D. C., Benjamin J. Davis, Atlanta, Ga.; W. H. C. Brown, Newport News, Va.; C. Tiffany Tolliver and W. B. F. Crowell, both of Roanoke, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Fleming, of Cleveland, O.; Clarence R. Vena, Toledo; Charles W. Mitchell, Institute, W. Va.; Webster L. Porter, Knoxville, Tenn.; William Warley, Louisville, Ky.; Thomas H. Brown, Connellsville, Pa.; Dr. C. V. Freeman, Jacksonville, Fla.; John L. Webb, Hot Springs, Ark.; Ceasar R. Blake, North Carolina; Dr. J. E. Gregg, Cleveland, O.; Cornelius R. Richardson, Richmond, Ind.; Charles P. Howard, Iowa; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, Terre Haute, Ind.; Dr. H. R. Butler, Atlanta, Ga., and Sidney B. Thompson, Cleveland, O.

VOTERS LEAGUE FIZZLES OUT IN CHICAGO

Blustering Independents End Up In Mild Censure Of Both Parties

ME'T STARTS FURIOUSLY ENDS IN LOVE FEAST

Committee to Take Enforcement Plank To Hoover And South

CHICAGO, ILL. — The meeting of the National Negro Voters League at the Wendell Phillips High School last Friday fizzled out. Out of it came no declaration for the guidance of the voter in this presidential election.

The leaders of the movement chose a middle course, condemning neither the Republican nor the Democratic party. In a resolution, which was adopted by the convention, some of the political ills from which the Negro suffers were recited, but no means of remedying them were offered.

The meeting was called for the purpose of forming a permanent organization and agreeing upon ways and means of carrying out the objects of the league. These objects are the full enfranchisement of the Negro and the ascertainment of the attitude of the Republican and Democratic party toward him.

Begins Furiously

The convention began furiously enough. J. Finley Wilson, the temporary chairman, and William C. Hueston, the chairman of the executive committee, made speeches condemning both political parties.

"I see no hope for our political advancement in either one of the major parties," Mr. Wilson declared, "and I deem it highly important as well as vital to our racial welfare that we take counsel of each other, to the end that in our combined wisdom we may so direct the political activities of our racial group that when the campaign is over, the votes counted, and the President is inaugurated, we may have a better day."

Mr. Hueston in his speech called upon Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee, "to lead in securing for the American Negro of his guranteed rights under the Constitution."

Down To Business

After the flurry of oratory the convention got down to business. The temporary chairman appointed the on credentials WD. .... committees on credentials and resolutions. While these committees were out, there was more oratory. Speeches were made in praise and in condemnation of the Republican party. Other speakers counselled against bolting the Republican party as a means of settling grievances. Still others urged that the Negro vote for Al Smith, not as a Democrat, but as an independent voter.

Mr. Hueston submitted the report of the committee on resolutions. The committee recommended that the chairman be empowered to appoint a committee to draft a questionaire dealing with the enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments for submission to the candidates. It also recommended that a permanent organization be formed.

14th and 15th Amendments

The resolutions declared for the full enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, appointments to civil service positions solely upon merit and the elimination of the filing of photographs with applications for civil service positions, and the abolition o. segregation in government departments. They also condemned the efforts to emasculate Negro leadership and also lily whiteism in party affairs.

The resolutions were adopted without debate. The resolutions committee consisted of Mr. Hueston, Charles P. Howard, the temporary secretary of the convention: J. C. Bankett, of Indiana; Mrs. Lethia C. Fleming, of Ohio; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, of Indiana, and Isaac H. Nutter, of New Jersey.

Officers Elected

The following officers were elected: J. Finley, president· Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, vice-president; Charles P. Howard, secretary; William McDonald, of Texas, treasurer; and William C. Hueston, chairman of the executive committee.

According to the report of the credentials committee, 144 delegates were present. Letters and telgrams were receivd from 30 others.

Mr. Wilson did not name the committee to draft the questionaire. He says he will make public his selections this week.

At the Convention

Among some of the prominent persons seen at the convention were: Isaac H. Nutter, of Atlantic City; William McDonald, of Texas; J. Finley Wilson, Washington, D. C.; William C. Hueston, Gary, Ind.; Perry W. Howard, Washington, D. C.; Benjamin J. Davis, Atlanta, Ga.; W. H. C. Brown Newport News, Va.; C. Tiffany Tolliver and W. B. F. Crowell, both of Roanoke, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Fleming, of Cleveland, Ohio; Clarence R. Vena, Toledo; Charles E. Mitchell, Institute, W. Va.; Webster L. Porter, Knoxville, Tenn.; William Warley, Louisville, Ky.; Thomas H. Brown, Connellsville, Pa.; Dr. C. V. Freeman, Jacksonville, Fla.; John L. Webb, Hot Springs, Ark.; Caesar R. Blake, North Carolina; Dr. J. E. Gregg, Cleveland, Ohio; Cornelius R. Richardson, Richmond, Ind.; Charles P. Howard, Iowa; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, Terre Haute, Ind.; Dr. H. R Butler, Atlanta, Ga., and Sidney B. Thompson Cleveland. Ohio.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Negro Independent Progressive Party of Florida

Miami, Fla., Post
Saturday, August 4, 1928

NEGROES TO MEET TO ENDORSE SMITH

Convention of 'Progressives' Called For Tampa Aug. 31 to Lay Plans

TAMPA. — Convention of the Negro Independent Progressive Party of Florida, which supported LaFollette and Wheeler four years ago, has been called for Tampa August 31 at which time it will come out in support of Al Smith, according to a statement by Dewey A. Richardson, state chairman.

The statement was issued following a meeting of the state executive committee.

The chairman said negro political leaders will be called to the convention from all counties to map out a campaign. Smith for President Clubs will be organized in all negro districts and members will be urged to pay their poll taxes so they can vote. The executive committee authorized Richardson to write an article setting forth the reasons why the negroes should support Smith.

Negro followers of Smith from New York city are expected to come to Florida to assist in organization of negroes in support of Smith.

Times
Tampa - Fla
Sept 1 W

Negroes Organize Independent Party

More than 200 negro voters assembled here yesterday from the state to reorganize themselves into an independent political party and to hear an address by C. E. Tucker well known negro lawyer, of Chicago, which featured the meeting

The convention was held in the Marti Maceo Cuban hall.

There were no contests for seats of delegates when the credentials committee submitted its report The resolutions committee bound the delegates to a progressive program and also committed them to support those candidates endorsed by the organization's executive committee.

NEWS

Palmetto Fla

W

AUG 10 1928

The negro independent progressive party of Florida, which supported LaFollette and Wheeler four years ago, has called a state convention in Tampa Aug. 31 at which it will come out squarely for the Democratic ticket headed by Governor Smith.

Dewey A. Richardson, state chairman, in making this announcement yesterday, said that details were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee held here Tuesday. This committee declared for Smith and the Democratic platform, as adopted at the Houston convention.

"We endorsed the Democratic platform," Richardson said, "because of its liberal attitude toward the farmer; for its pledge to enforce the eighteenth amendment, and because of the courageous statement of Governor Smith that he will enforce all laws as long as they remain on the statute books. It is our honest opinion that prohibitionists are afraid of Governor Smith because if elected he will enforce the eighteenth amendment. We believe the best way to have the prohibition law modified is to strictly enforce the law so it will stop the flow of liquor to all violators."

Richardson said negro political leaders will be called to the convention here from all counties to map out a campaign. It will be the first time since the Civil war, he added, that negro speakers will appeal to their race to vote the Democratic ticket. Smith-for-President clubs will be organized in all negro districts. Members will be urged to pay their poll taxes so they can vote. The executive committee authorized Richardson to write an article setting forth the reasons why the negroes should support the Democratic ticket and platform.—Tampa Tribune of Friday, Aug. 3rd.

Political-1928.

Party Affiliation.

People's Progressive Political League.

PHILADELPHIA NEGROES ORGANIGE INDEPENDENT PARTY.

(By The Associated Negro Press.)

Philadelphia, Pa., July 2.—Local Negro appear to be keenly alive politically. The unprecedented act of William O. Harper, the independent who opposed Hon. David A. Reed for the Republican nomination for the office of United States Senator, at the April primary election, has resulted in the People's Progressive Political League that sponsored Harper's candidacy to yield to the demands of colored independents from many states for a conference.

7-3-28

At a meeting held in the Galilee Baptist Church, which was packed to overflowing, delegates were present from many Eastern, Western, and Southern States. Some state that the large attendance is evidence of a growing dissatisfactino among the colored electorate throughout the country. The treatment accorded the Negro by the National Republican Organization during the last four years was the chief topic of discussion.

The headquarters of the organization is at 1508 Lombard Street.

Party Affiliation

TIMES
TRENTON, N. J.

APR 18 1928

NEGROES SUPPORT STOKES CANDIDACY

South Trenton Colored Republican Club Formed—Turner Is Chairman

A large and enthusiastic gathering of Negroes of South Trenton met at the old fire house on South Warren Street Monday evening and organized themselves into the South Trenton Colored Republican Club. J. C. Turner was chosen chairman, and G. T. Turner chairman of the executive committee.

Mrs. Agnes L. Kemp addressed the meeting, urging support for Governor Stokes for the senatorial nomination. Lester Crowell also spoke. Attorney Robert Queen organized the club and installed the officers, and then told them of the ability of Governor Stokes to hold the office to which he aspires and the great necessity of having such an able man in the Senate to represent all the people of New Jersey.

He said in part, "I do not hold Governor Stokes out to you as a race champion, nor as a martyr, but I do believe that he is a man who will stand for American principles and the safeguarding of the rights of all the people of the United States any time and every time he is called upon to do so. He believes in the enforcement of the Fifteenth Amendment with the same force as the Eighteenth."

The Rev. John Ross also spoke and moved that the club go on record as endorsing ex-Governor Stokes, which motion was passed unanimously.

NEWS

Blakely Ga.

APR 24 1928

IT'S THE SAME OLD STORY, BUT THE NEGROES CAN'T SEE.

Ben Davis, Negro Republican committeeman from Georgia, reminds us of the monkey,—"the higher he climbs,"—but you know the story. The following editorial taken from the Macon Telegraph illustrates to what extent he would climb:

Two months in advance of the Kansas City convention, the prospective Negro delegates to the Republican gathering are in a flurry over the proposed arrangements for their comfort when they have arrived in the Missouri city. The story has gone out that the Negroes are to be given quarters in the Negro Y. M. C. A. and the Negro hotels and a number of state leaders from the South have protested in behalf of their delegations. Among them is Ben J. Davis, who wrote that the eleven Negroes on the Georgia delegation of sixteen "would expect accommodations equal in all respects to those of white delegates" and that "rooms with bath and telephone were wanted." The Republican National Committee referred Davis' letter to the chairman of arrangements at Kansas City, who assured him that the Negro delegates would have the "same courteous and considerate treatment which we always show our Negro population."

The Negro delegates who went to Chicago eight years ago and to Cleveland four years ago were housed, The Outlook comments, in boarding houses and hotels for their own race. The "same courteous and considerate treatment which we always show our Negro population," as the chairman of arrangements puts it, is that same segregation which obtains in the South.

The Republicans have been playing a dishonest game with the Negro for many years and the cheap element of the race that lends itself to schemes the Republican national leaders are playing, has not been able to see it, or has been bought off by flattery and back-slapping. If mistakenly, the Democrats have honestly and openly barred Negroes from any participation in party politics, the Republicans have just as effectively barred them from any influence or actual voice in party councils. To keep them satisfied, the Republicans have held out always the chimerical hope of equality and the bait of social contact at conventions. As a substitute for any actual influence, they have rewarded the Negroes with the privilege of selling minor patronage positions. In major appointments, the recommendations of the Negroes have amounted to nothing. The judgeship of the Middle district is illustration enough of that.

In other words, the fundamental attitude of white Republicans is exactly that of white Democrats. Neither intends for the Negro to have social equality, even in political gatherings, and neither intends for the Negro to become a strong factor in party councils. The Democrats are simply more honest about it.

Republican.

LOUISIANA G. O. P. "LILY WHITES" LOSE COURT DECISION

New Orleans, May 2.—(AP)—An injunction to restrain Walter L. Cohen, negro comptroller of customs at New Orleans, and a number of his henchmen from naming delegates to the republican national convention at Kansas City was denied by Judge Walter L. Gleason in civil district court here today.

Constitution

The suit was instituted by M. E. Norman, chairman of the republican state committee. He announced today he would appeal to the Louisiana supreme court from Judge Gleason's decision.

5-3-28

Attorneys for Cohen argued that the court was without jurisdiction to issue an injunction against members of a political faction when they were not exercising a special public duty and when no money or property interest was involved.

The Norman faction recently held a convention at Alexandria and elected a slate of delegates to the national convention. Action against Cohen was instituted when he gave notice he and his followers would hold a convention to name delegates.

In the event the matter is not settled in the courts, two factions probably will go to Kansas City, which would impose upon the convention the duty of determining which one to recognize.

NEGROES GET G.O.P. POSTS; WHITES QUIT

Jackson, Miss., April 30.—(AP)—Four delegates at large from Mississippi were selected today at a state convention of independent republicans to represent Mississippi at the national convention at Kansas City and the Leflore county delegation withdrew from the meeting because two of the delegates were negroes.

Courier-Journal

B. F. Lambert, chairman of the Leflore county executive committee, announced withdrawal on the grounds that the delegates "were led to believe that the leaders would all be white persons."

5-1-28

Two groups of delegates were slated to go to the convention representing this state, since the republican state committee, headed by Perry W. Howard, negro, chairman of the committee, recently selected delegates. A contest over the seating of the two factions was in prospect.

Atlanta Ga

The delegates elected by the independent republicans today follow:

Charles U. Gordon, Greenville; George L. Sheldon, Petit; D. W. Herrod, negro, Meridian, and R. L. Johnson, negro, Jackson.

More than 150 independent republican voters from the state gathered in the convention over which Mr. Sheldon, former governor of Nebraska, was named permanent chairman.

The delegates were instructed to vote for Lamont Rowlands, Picayune, as national committeeman, and Mrs. Lida Oldham, Oxford, as national committeewoman.

Both delegations will go uninstructed so far as presidential nominees are concerned.

The Howard group was instructed to vote for the reelection of Howard as national committeeman from Mississippi and the reelection of Mary C. Booze, Mounds Bayou, negress, as national committeewoman.

The convention of the independent republicans was the outgrowth of a movement started by the republican party council in Mississippi, seeking to reestablish the party under white leadership, but with both races represented among its membership.

MISSISSIPPI REPUBS SEEK WHITE PARTY

Jackson, Miss., April 29.—(United News.)—The first attempt since reconstruction days to organize a white republican party in Mississippi will be made Monday when delegates from most of the counties of the state assemble here for a state convention.

Atlanta Ga

The organization will be in opposition to the one already in existence headed by Perry Howard, negro, who has been endorsed for republican national committeeman from Mississippi. The Howard faction chose its delegates to the national convention two weeks ago and the national convention will have to determine which group will be admitted.

Lamont Rowlands, of Picayune, Miss., has been chosen temporary chairman of Monday's convention. Rowlands probably will be supported for national committeeman. He owns extensive lumber interests in Mississippi and California.

George L. Sheldon, of Pettis, Miss., will be permanent chairman.

Twelve delegates to the national convention at Kansas City and 10 presidential electors will be chosen by the convention. Delegates from at least 76 of the state's 82 counties are expected to attend.

The Howard faction did not instruct its delegates and the convention Monday also will choose an uninstructed delegation, it is understood, but Herbert Hoover is believed favored by both factions.

INNES LOST BY HOOVER

PARKMAN TAKES WALTER POSTER AS ALTERNATE DELEGATE TO NATL. REPUB. CONVENTION —HOOVER ISSUE DEFEATED INNES, SAYS REPUBLICAN LEADER

Charles H. Innes, defeated for delegate to the Republican convention Tuesday night issued the following statement:

Courier-Journal

"It is apparent that the public desire not alone to instruct their delegates, but also to have them definitely committed to the candidate they prefer. The district is for Hoover for President. Mr. Meins and I did not commit ourselves to Mr. Hoover. Our opponents did, and their election followed. I had hoped to have the honor of representing the district this year at the Republican National convention and am, of course, disappointed at the outcome.

Bristol Va.

York, S. C., Enquirer
Tuesday, April 10, 1928

"Negroes Crack Whip to G. O. P."

Under ~~the~~ above title the Columbia Record quotes H. E. C. Bryant, veteran Washington correspondent, as saying that negro politicians throughout the North are abusing the Republican leaders because, as they allege, the Republican chiefs are "trying to eliminate the black man from party counsels."

The Record goes on to comment as follows:

"Southern people who have had the negro politician with them now and then for many years would be pleased to hear some of the Northern, Western and Eastern Republicans tell of the trials they are having with the 'new voters from Dixie.' In almost every State north of the Mason-Dixon line negroes are running for delegates to the Republican national convention. Every year they are demanding more and more, and threatening to bolt the party if demands are denied."

"No need at all for the negro politicians to worry about that particularly, as Al Smith, candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, and actively supported by the Record and News and Courier and a few of the hangers on in this state, stands ready to welcome the negro vote not only in Harlem, the Black Belt of New York city, but elsewhere in the North, if reports of the doings of Al and his Tammany gang are correct. All the negroes will have to do to have a place in the picture is to swing over to Al and tell the Republicans to go hang.

COURANT
HARTFORD, CONN

MAY 9 1928

John S. Taylor Heads Negro Voters League

John S. Taylor was elected president of the Colored Republican Voters League at a special meeting Monday night. The other officers elected were: Vice-president, Green A. Lee; second vice-president, Clara Thomas; secretary, Anna B. Reese; assistant secretary, Mrs. M. Killer; treasurer, C. W. Custis; executive committee, James M. Patterson, Esau Thompson, Holden Hayes, Minnie Glover and John Kelley.

MISSISSIPPI LILY WHITES ARE DENIED INJUNCTION

High Court Dissolves the Lower Court's Ban on the Howard Group

NO JURISDICTION RULING

Holds Court Cannot Interfere With Political Party's Procedure

JACKSON, Miss., May 16.— Attempt of Lily White Republican to exclude colored representatives from the party were finally defeated Monday. The Perry Howard Republican faction won a victory in the supreme court against Ex-Governor Geo. L. Sheldon, when the high court reversed and remanded the injunction case from Forrest County in which the Howard faction was enjoined from holding their primary elections under a call from the Howard State Republican executive committee.

Judge Smith, delivering opinion of the court, division A sitting, reaffirmed the former decisions of the court, holding that the courts have no jurisdiction to interfere in procedure of political party machinery under the primary election laws, even though the rights of members of the party may be infringed.

Judge Smith quoted from a specially concurring opinion of Judge Whitfield in which he said the courts would defeat the very purpose of the law if they undertook to interfere with and hold up elections, the time for which would pass before the case could be finally adjudicated.

The Hoover Payroll.

Disclosures make it obvious that money is the root of much of the evil in Republican politics.

Revelations made before the Senate investigating committee Thursday will do the cause of Herbert Hoover no good in his contest for the presidential nomination.

It is possible, of course, that Hoover may be in the position of the innocent bystander, just as was former Gov. Lowden of Illinois in the campaign eight years ago. The governor, who aspired to be the nominee of his party in 1920, knew nothing of the huge sum of money being expended to further his cause, but he suffered because of it, nevertheless.

The Hoover payroll, according to the revelations made to the Senate committee, is almost equal to that made up in Lowden's behalf in 1920, and money is being poured into the southern states in an effort to secure the delivery, through negro political leaders, of delegates who will agree to support Hoover for the nomination.

The handful of Republicans in the solid south group of states can do nothing, of course, toward helping to elect the nominee, but they are an influence to be reckoned with in grabbing the nomination for this candidate or that.

The dispenser of federal patronage in any of the southern states is a powerful factor in corralling votes among those who vote the Republican ticket. If it were not for the jobs to be filled there would hardly be enough Republicans in the solid south states to maintain an organization. Therefore the pie distributor is the one to whom candidates turn when convention votes are needed.

No one familiar with Republican politics in the south will be surprised to learn that the Hoover campaign managers were looking to negro leaders to deliver the delegates of certain states in this section. In more than one locality south of the Ohio River do the white Republicans make obeisance to a negro political boss.

However, the seriousness of the situation, as regards Mr. Hoover's campaign, is not in the selection of those who are to deliver the delegates, but in the fact that a fund of such huge proportions has been raised for the purpose of paying for the delivery.

As said, Mr. Hoover may know nothing of what is transpiring or to what lengths his sponsors are going, but what has been brought to light regarding the Hoover payroll is not going to enhance the cause of the man it was intended to help.

HERALD

Summit - N.J.

MAY 11 1928

COLORED REPUBLICANS

The formation of a "Colored Republican Union" in this city is to be welcomed, as a means of arousing a numerous element of the population to a more active sense of civic duty. We believe in such organizations in politics, just as we believe in church organizations in religious life.

To carry the analogy further, we might wish that all Republicans, of whatever race, were united in a single club, just as it is to be wished that all Christians were united in a single church. But as the latter has never, since the time of Paul and Apollos, been practicable so the former may never be anything more than a pious aspiration. Nevertheless we may expect the same fellowship, harmony and co operation for a common end to prevail in the one case that are found in the other.

We shall be pleased to record from time to time the progress and the effective activities of the new organization.

State Repubs Go For Hoover

State Convention Opens This Morning

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., May 15.—(AP)—Alabama Republicans meeting in six district conventions today chose six delegates to the national Republican convention pledged to support Herbert Hoover for the presidential nomination. In addition the other Alabama districts in previous conventions instructed their delegates for the commerce secretary, giving him nine of Alabama's 15 votes.

In only one of the six districts today did the Republicans fail to give their support to Hoover, when the Tenth District named one uninstructed delegate.

District One, the only remaining district, will hold its convention and name its delegate tomorrow immediately preceding the state convention, in which four delegates at large will be named.

Of Alabama's 15 votes, one is selected from each of the ten districts excepting the Seventh, which chooses two.

O. D. Street, Republican national committeeman for Alabama, said tonight he was sure Alabama would send 14 votes to the convention pledged to support Hoover.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., May 15.—(AP)—With more than 300 state delegates expected to be in attendance, Republicans of Alabama will open their convention here tomorrow for the purpose of perfecting a new organization and to name four delegates at large to the national convention of the party in Kansas City.

Three of Alabama's 15 delegates to the national convention already have been selected with instructions to support the candidacy of Secretary of Commerce Hoover for the presidency and that of O. D. Street as national committeeman from the state.

Eight other delegates from congressional districts will be named tomorrow at meetings here and in Montgomery, Decatur and Jasper.

Delegates from the seventh and ninth districts were named Saturday. T. J. Kennamer, of Birmingham, will represent the ninth district and Charles B. Kennamer, of Guntersville and B. L. Noojin, of Gadsden, the seventh district.

Street some time ago expressed the belief that the entire Alabama delegation would support Hoover although there have been vague reports that efforts are to be made at the convention here in behalf of former Gov. Lowden, of Illinois.

Former Gov. W. L. Harding, of Iowa, will be the principal speaker here.

SECOND FAVORS HOOVER

The second district Republican convention in session in Montgomery Tuesday indorsed Herbert Hoover for president, selected Frank Barchard, Sr., of Foley as a delegate to the Kansas City convention pledged to him and endorsed the administration of National Committeeman O. D. Street and State Chairman J. S. Swan.

Maj. J. I. McKinney, of Montgomery was elected alternate to the Kansas City convention. Frank Simmons, of Evergreen, presided over the convention as chairman with J. P. Knabe, of Montgomery, as secretary. Both Mr. Simmons and Mr. Knabe were reelected.

Twelve delegates will represent the second district at the state Republican convention in Birmingham Tuesday and they are all pledged to Herbert Hoover for president, to O. D. Street for national committeeman and to J. S. Swan for state chairman.

NEGROES GET G.O.P. POSTS, WHITES QUIT IN MISSISSIPPI

Lily Whites Quit When Two Negroes Are Put on as Delegates of Anti-Howard Faction.

Miss., May 3.—Four t large from Mississippi were selected to convention of independent Re-
licans to represent Mississippi
the National Convention at Kansas
City and the Leflore County delegation withdrew from the meeting because two of the delegates were Negroes.

B. F. Dulweber, chairman of the Leflore County executive committee, announced withdrawal on the grounds that the delegates were led to believe that the leaders would all be white persons."

Two groups of delegates were slated to go to the convention representing this state, since the Republican State Committee, headed by Perry W. Howard, Negro, chairman of the committee, recently selected delegates. A contest over the seating of the two factions was in prospect.

The delegates elected by the independent Republicans today follow:

Charles U. Gordon, Greenville George L. Sheldon, Petit; D. W Sherrod, Negro, Meridian, and R L. Johnson, Negro, Jackson.

More than 150 independent Republican voters from the state gathered in the convention over which Mr. Sheldon, former governor of Nebraska, was named permanent chairman.

The delegates were instructed to vote for Lamont Rowlands, Picayune, as national committeeman, and Mrs. Lida Oldham, Oxford, as national committeewoman.

Both delegations will go uninstructed so far as presidential nominees are concerned.

The Howard group was instructed to vote for the re-election of Howard as national committeeman from Mississippi and the re-election of Mary C. Booze, Mounds Bayou, as national committeewoman.

The convention of the independent Republicans was the outgrowth of a movement started by the Republican Party council in Mississippi, seeking to re-establish the party under white leadership, but with both races represented among its membership.—Atlanta Constitution.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

National Negro Voters League to Hold Meet

Gary, Ind., July 25.—In Kansas City, Mo., on the 14th day of June, 1928, in the Elks Rest of the Improved, Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks of the World, there gathered race men from many sections of the country to consider the general and political welfare of the Negroes of the United States. The reason for this meeting being that the following resolutions which were presented to the platform committee of the Republican National Convention with the request that these resolutions or the substance thereof be made a part of the platform of the Republican party. This request was refused.

Resolution.

Whereas, The provisions of the Constitution of the United States, viz, the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, are being openly and flagrantly violated in this, to-wit: that the colored citizens of the United States are being deprived of life, liberty, property and the pursuit of happiness, and

Whereas, An anti-lynching bill has been repeatedly defeated, and

Whereas, There appears to be a disposition and concerted effort on the part of the Lily White element of the Republican party to eliminate the colored citizen by discrimination, intimidation and chicanery; and,

Whereas, There has been discrimination on account of race and color in the classified service under the rules and regulations of the Civil Service Laws in respect to appointments when positions have been won by competitive examination; and,

Whereas, Segregation and discrimination in governmental departments in Washington, D. C., are still being practiced, now therefore, it is

Resolved, That we, the undersigned committee, appointed at an open meeting of delegates to the Republican National Convention and citizens of the United States representing the colored voters and citizens of the United States, do hereby petition the Republican National Convention at Kansas City, Mo., to encouch the following plank in its platform:

First, to protect the colored citizens in all their rights, civil and political.

Second, for a strict enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution, in letter and in spirit.

Be it further resolved, That the Republican party go on record as protecting all citizens alike in the strict enforcement of the civil service laws of the United States.

The Committee: Earnest G. Tigington, Ind.; Geo. W. Lee, Tenn.; Olando J. Smith, Minn.; Chas. P. Howard, Iowa; Mr. Lewis, Illinois; G. A. Gilmore, Texas; Bishop A. J. Carey, Ill.; Oscar De Priest, Ill.; C. H. Valloway, Mo.; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, Ind.; Dr. Redmon, Miss.; James M. Burr, Texas; P. R. Crutchfield, La.; J. Finley Wilson, D. C.; Fred Dabney, Mo.; W. C. Hueston, Ind.

The second cause of the meeting was the precedent established by the Republican party at this convention in what was known as "The Texas case." This case presented in brief the question of whether party managers had the right to call conventions to select delegates to the Republican National Convention in State Conventions as a whole, or to follow the previously established rule of selecting some by district and some at large. It being made clear that to establish the rule of selecting all in State Conventions bars the Negroes in the Southern States from participation in these party matters and certainly prevents him from becoming delegates to party national conventions.

In the establishing of this race destroying precedent, many of the Negro delegates following factional leadership voted in the affirmative to the dismay of those who stand for race equality, by party and before the law. After due consideration, it was decided at the above meeting to form an organization to be known as the National Negro Voters League.

That said league should justify its existence as follows:

1. To have for its purpose the full enfranchisement of the American Negro.

2. To ascertain where the Negro stands in the Republican party.

3. To play with pitiless publicity upon those of our race who vote in political conventions and elsewhere against the race interests and then seek prominance and priority as the price therefor.

The meeting organized and elected temporary officers, and instructed said officers to issue a call for a meeting to be held in the City of Chicago, Illinois, for permanent organization and to agree upon and announce ways and means to carry out the purpose of the league.

Pursuant to this order a meeting of National Negro Voter's League is called to meet in the City of Chicago, Ill., on the 24th day of August, 1928, at 10 a. m., at Wendell Phillips High School. Said meeting to be composed of all those who were members of the temporary organization and those who come with a certificate of election from any church, political or socia club, lodge, subordinate or Grand, o who may be placed upon the temporary roll by the temporary officers.

Elected delegates are to send a copy of credentials to W. C. Hueston, chairman of executive committee, 1901 Broadway, Gary, Ind.

National Negro Voters League.

J. Finley Wilson, President, Washington, D. C.; Chas. P. Howard, Secretary, Des Moines, Ia.; W. C. Hueston, Chairman of Ex. Comm., Gary, Ind.

CHOICE OF G O P CAMPAIGN HEAD HAS BEEN MADE

No Definite Announcement Until Secretary Work Approves

HAWKINS SLATED TO HEAD COMMITTEE

Phillips, Simmons, Barnett, Holsey In Organization With Vann

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Compromise Personnel of Hoover Republican Campaign Committee:—

John R. Hawkins, Emmet J. Scott, Judge James A. Cobb, Albon Holsey and Claude Barnett Conferred with Walter F. Brown, white, Wednesday.

Their personnel as agreed on is John R. Hawkins to be chairman of executive committee having supervisory complete end of colored campaign. Albon Holsey, Ala., secretary; Wm. H. Lewis, Mass.; Louis B. Anderson, Ill.; Mrs. A. W. Hunton, N. Y.; Mrs. Myrtle Cook, Wr. Emmett J. Scott, D. C., J. D. Nail, N. Y.; and R. R. Church, Tenn., and other members.

Field Organizers

Homer Phillips, St. Louis is field organizer of the West with Chicago Headquarters.

Ernest Atwell, Phila., is Eastern organizer, working out of D. C. office.

Speakers Bureau

Roscoe Smimons, Chicago, heads speakers' bureau with Chicago office.

Claude Barnett, Chicago, is contact man working out of D. C.

Advisory Committee

There will be an advisory committee of fifty.

On Paid Status

Report is that Holsey and Barnett have been on paid status for several months before the Kansas City convention making a survey of the voting states.

They returned to D. C. and submitted a memoranda containing plans and personnel for conducting the campaign, declaring it based on sentiment prevailing in states visited by them.

This program was takin into account and names suggested will be added to complete personnel which Moton and Scott factions have agreed on.

Robert Vann, Pittsburgh is to handle publicity committee.

Karl Phillips and Charles Hall are on the general committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A definite announcement of the scheme of organization for the handling of the Hoover campaign among colored voters is expected this week from Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican national committee.

Tentative Draft

It was learned that a tentative draft of plans and personnel is in the hands of Walter F. Brown, white, assistant Secretary of Commerce, who was one of the Hoover chieftains in the preconvention fight. Mr. Brown is to have general supervision of the work among colored voters, it is said. Horace Mann white, who is functioning in the Munsey building as the director of campaign activities in certain southern states, has been relieved of the duty of supervising the colored work.

As a coincidence, with the selection of Brown to supervise the colored work, Clarence R. Vena, of Toledo, Ohio, his colored political ally arrived here. Mr. Vena first came up on the political scene here when Mr. Brown was appointed an assistant Secretary to help direct the Hoover fight for the nomination.

REPUBLICAN NAT. COMM. PLAYING UP TO K. K. K.

Propaganda on Racial and Religious Prejudice Sent From Mann's Office

The Republican party is conducting a campaign of bigotry in the South, notwithstanding the high-sounding declaration of Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican national committee when he assumed command that the Hoover campaign would be pitched on a high plane. It is playing with the Ku Klux Klan.

This discovery was made by two correspondents for daily newspapers when they visited the offices of Horace A. Mann in the Munsey building. Mr. Mann is seeking to lure disgrunted southern Democrats to the support of Mr. Hoover.

Publicity for southern newspapers appealing to racial and religious prejudices is being prepared in the offices of Mr. Mann, it is reported. This matter is distributed to the smaller newspapers in the South by the Fellowship Forum, a Klan organ.

Playing for White South

There is nothing to show that the matrices, plates, cuts and publicity in other forms being distributed by the Fellowship Forum to small southern newspapers comes from the Republican national committee. But Mr. Mann is working for the committee and the preparation of this matter in his office under his direction is conclusive proof that it has the sanction of the Republican committee.

The distribution of this propaganda by the Klan organ is a part of the scheme to break the "Solid South." The Hoover campaign management has been led to believe that there is a possibility of Republican success in Virginia, North Carolina and Florida.

To Eliminate Negro

The condition upon which this could be accomplished, however, was stated to be the elimination of the Negro from leadership in the party in southern states. Walter L. Cohen, Republican leader in Louisiana for a quarter of a century, was deposed at the Kansas City convention. This was the first move to make the party in the South "lily white."

Following swiftly upon the adjournment of the Kansas City convention, Perry W. Howard, Republican natinoal committeeman for Mississippi, was indicted for alleged trafficking in Federal offices in his state. The Republican convention had already refused to confirm the selection of either Benjamin Jefferson Davis or Joseph H. Watson, both colored men, as national committeemen for Georgia.

The party having been stripped of its Negro leadership, the next move was the call of C. Bascom Slemp, one of the leaders of the lily white" movement, to headquarters for work in southern states.

Memphis, Tenn., Commercial-Appeal
Monday, July 23, 1928

Slemp Ought to Be Safe.

Our Washington correspondent, R. M. Gates, says it seems to be the opinion around Washington that C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, should function with finesse as an advisory director of the Republican fight to capture some of the southern states in November. Slemp functioned very effectively in lining up the negro delegates at the 1924 Republican convention. He had a large hand then in the distribution of patronage, and he held a whip even over the negro bosses who have been for some years now collecting money from white men and women who wanted to get and to hold federal jobs.

Some few years ago ugly charges were made against Slemp himself in connection with his patronage distribution, charges of a nature similar to those that have been brought out in Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee. But this was before the passage of the law under which the indictments have been returned in Mississippi. So, obviously, Slemp is safe even if the allegations made against him for some years ago were true. The present law is not retroactive and previous laws may be barred by the statute of limitations.

Slemp has had plenty of experience in lining up negro delegations and this experience should serve him admirably in fighting for a political party that has maintained negro political supremacy in the southern states ever since it was returned to power almost eight years ago.

RECORD
COLUMBIA, S. C.

JUL 26 1928

Republicanizing The South.

The Minneapolis Journal, a Republican newspaper, is among the Hoover organs which are trying to merge the South into the negro column, so far as effect is concerned, but leaving the negro out of the picture in wording, in order, of course to make the pill acceptable.

The drive in Texas is illustrative. Texas is both a Western State and a Southern State. It has, as a matter of fact experienced considerable infiltration of Northern men and capital, and the scheme they are trying to capitalize upon this year is led by former Governor O. B. Colquitt, who has not only bolted the Democratic party but is trying to lead the anti-Democratic parade.

He proposes to substitute anti-Democratic electors for straight out Republican electors, thus giving opportunity for the Democratic poison squad to knife Governor Smith and the Democratic party, and yet remain in the Democratic party. This is the scheme generally endorsed in the North and openly advocated by Southern Democrats who favor Hoover.

From a moral standpoint, any Democrat who would betray the Democratic party while that party is on the firing line is exactly in the same boat as the soldier who goes over and volunteers to fight with the enemy on the battle field. We have faith in Texans sufficient to convince us at this time at least that they will not participate in this sort of shady deal to any alarming extent.

Lovett Supporters Very Active

Malone Still Holds Lead

CITIZENS LEAGUE MEETS AT FRANKFORT

The Citizens League Met at Frankfort, Ky., July 19 and Passed the Following Resolutions. Read Them.

Be it resolved by the Citizens' League assembled in convention in Frankfort, Ky., this the 19th day of July, 1928:

FIRST: That we indorse the Hon. Herbert Hoover and Hon. Charles Curtis for president and vice president of the United States, and that we heartily endorse the splendid services rendered by our delegates in bringing about their selection at the Republican National Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

SECOND: That we view with mingled pride and gratification the services rendered by Dr. W. T. Merchant, delegate-at-large from our racial group from Kentucky, and that we feel that no mistake was made by the state in their selection.

We further feel proud of the splendid work accomplished by Dr. S. H. George, delegate from the 2nd Congressional District and also, that of Hon. I. Willis Cole, of Louisville, who served so acceptably as alternate from the State-at-large THIRD: That we believe that it is not only possible, but probable that the electoral vote will be cast for Mr. Hoover for President. We pledge ourselves to do our utmost to accomplish this end.

FOURTH: That we feel assured of the necessity of a thorough organization of Colored Republican of Kentucky in order that the state may be placed reliably in the Republican column. However, we feel there are certain matters which if properly adjusted, will contribute largely to our success. We refer to the necessity of a colored organization manned and controlled by colored officials and charged with the responsibility of managing the campaign not only as to organization, speakers and publicity, but also to control its finances.

We further wish to call attention to the fact that the colored organization will be somewhat embarrassed at its inception unless settlement is made of some outstanding debts of the late gubernatorial campaign. Through an oversight on the part of the State Campaign Committee, these obligations were not settled, thereby, creating dissatisfaction in some quarters, which if not adjusted, might give couse for apathy. We have been assured by proper authority that these matters will be attended to and we feel that they will.

We feel that a colored organization is in better position to control affairs among our racial group than a white organization. And we hereby earnestly request and insist that the entire management of our campaign this year shall be so placed.

In view of the fact that Kentucky is now placed in the doubtful column we feel there is a real necessity that every vote be gotten to the polls. While it is true that 125,000 of our racial group go to the polls and vote the Republican ticket ,there are possibly an excess of 25,000 who do not go to the polls ,and we hope to have an organization to arouse these votes. We feel that if our advice is

Despite the intense heat with the subsequent temptations to accord as much as possible work of any kind, the interest in the Board of Education race is still unabated. Persons favoring Mr. Malone. Mr. Lovett and Mr. Frank are still hustling for these candidates. Other candi- who were named without their knowledge continue to receive votes, but their sponsors have not shown the enthusiasm of the three leaders' workers. These latter are getting for the men they favor.

This week, persons who favor Mr. Wilson Lovett as the Colored candidate, got busy and are making a dead heat of the race. Mr. Malone still leads, but his main supporter slacked up this week. Mr. Frank wants to retire, as his letter elsewhere shows. But his friends say they will prevail on him to remain in the race. The vote this week stands:

E. C. Malone, 586
Wilson Lovett, 497
John Frank, 301
J. Everett Harris, 191
Dr. M. A. Blackburn, 178
Lee L. Brown ,103
Mrs. Nellie Frye, 115
A. L. Garvin, 100
Len Haley, 99
Herley Pope, 75
Dr. A. C. McIntyre, 70
J. Bridgeford Sims, 83
Mrs. Nora K. Bell, 65.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

The Negro at Kansas City

By KELLY MILLER

THERE were fifty Negro delegates and alternates at the recent Republican Convention. A goodly proportion came from Northern districts. Their interests were mainly segregated and racial. The dominant issues of prohibition and farm relief did not arouse their emotions, nor stir their enthusiasm. After the manner of the Southern plan, the Negro representatives were shut in by domiciliary segregation.

The Negro delegates did not seem to figure in any effective way in the general procedure of the convention. In the main, they were lined up on the winning side—long in advance! The Afro-American has an instinct for picking the winner and getting on the bandwagon. The chief concern of the Negro political leaders was to secure the insertion of a plank insisting upon the enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. They were not even able to have these amendments bracketed with the Eighteenth, whose enforcement was especially stressed as a party policy. But, true to the verbal traditions of the party, some slight reference had to be made to the Negro and his claims. The insertion of the splinter of a plank on lynching was only a complimentary gesture. It serves to remind the race that the Grand Old Party has not altogether forgotten the black ally.

A Negro delegate was assigned to make one of the four or five-minute addresses, seconding the nomination of Secretary Hoover. This he did creditably. I believe that this is the only instance where a Negro functioned conspicuously in the proceedings. The race undoubtedly impressed less influence upon the Kansas City Convention than upon any like session since enfranchisement.

— Kelly Miller —

We can hardly believe that in 1884 John R. Lynch was chosen temporary chairman. As late as 1912 the late Henry Lincoln Johnson held the fate of the convention in the hollow of his hand. It was the emphatic and unswerving attitude of this bold black leader that determined the issue between Roosevelt and Taft, which put the Grand Old Party out of luck for the ensuing eight years.

But there is a darker semblance yet. The Negro was all but eliminated as a dominant force in any of the States. Walter Cohen, the little pelican war horse, was dethroned in favor of white leadership. He was personally allowed to retain his seat as a delegate merely to save the regnant party from throwing out a leading Negro without courtesy or consideration. Ben Davis lost the committeemanship in Georgia. Perry Howard alone survives, but even his temporary success has no assurance of permanency. The fact remains that throughout the South the lily whites are in the ascendancy.

The race owes President Harding an unrecognized political debt of gratitude. All had once before been lost to the Negro. When Judson Lyon was thrown off the national committee by Lincoln Johnson there was not a single Negro representative left in that august body. Lincoln Johnson fought his way to chieftainship. But when President Harding seized the reins of power, he decided to turn over to Negro control the States of Mississippi and Louisiana.

The national committeeship in Louisiana belonged to Cohen who, by abnegation, gave it to the very white man who has brought about his unhorsing. Such is political gratitude; but the outstanding fact remains, the Negro has been practically eliminated from trusteeship of the Grand Old Party.

There is little likelihood that this power will be restored. The great Republican Party is a practical body and, excepting the Roman Catholic Church, it is the most efficient organization on earth. It has no sentiment that will stand in the way of efficiency. It desires to build up a functioning Republican party in every State of the Union. Nowhere has this yet been accomplished under Negro leadership, certainly not since the days of Wright Cuney of Texas.

Negro leaders, for the most part, seem satisfied to traffic in delegates rather than build up strong local organizations which will induce every Republican to vote in local as well as national elections, even under restrictions by revised constitutions. In politics, as elsewhere, it is a case of the survival of the fittest.

Now we face the coming campaign with eyes wide open. There must be devised an entirely new set of reasons and arguments for racial support of Hoover and the Grand Old Party. Appeals to Lincoln and Sumner and Grant will not sway Negro votes as it did aforetime. Extravagant prophecy of what the new administration is going to do for the Negro has been done to death in previous campaigns, with sad disillusionment.

There are sufficient sound reasons and good-sense why the Negro should, in this campaign, prefer the Republican to the Democratic party, why Hoover should be chosen rather than Smith. But the Negro spellbinder must learn new speech. The one which he has used for the past forty years has lost its spell and potency.

"Gooseneck" McDonald Retires From Politics

Fort Worth, Texas, June 22.—William M. "Gooseneck" McDonald, veteran politician, on his return from the national Republican convention at Kansas City, Mo., stated that the granting of power in the South to lily-white factions of the Republican party has caused him to forsake politics. He will in the future devote his entire time to his business interests. Mr. McDonald fought bitterly against the seating of the Texas lily-whites and caused a furor when he appeared before the seating committee and denounced delegates from his state and the South who were seizing power without authority and rights.

"They have turned me down. I am going home and stay there and let the Republican party alone. The actions of the executive committee and the credentials committee show me conclusively that they do not want Simon-pure Republicans in the party. They have resigned themselves to a new custom of wanting only a patronage machine in the southern states," said Mr. McDonald.

FAIR PLAY

By Reporter.

We have read with regret the terrible predicament that Georgia G. O. P. was left in at the Kansas City convention, simply because the delegates elected by the people at home would not carry out the will of the people that elected them. Now, a word to the delegates that caused this disgraceful state of affairs. Why, you did not express yourselves in the state convention? You say Ben Davis has gobbled up all the jobs in the organization. Why did you not take him to task at home and not wait till you got to the national convention to kill him as national committeeman, and also, by your double dealing, cause your colored brother to lose out in politics for years to come. No, you sat down in the state convention and indorsed Davis with the rest of the delegates with a knife up your sleeve to kill him, also stifle the will of the people at the national convention.

Well, "Mr. Delegate to the National Convention," you have succeeded well in your unfair fight to unhorse Davis and, incidentally, while you were unhorsing Davis you unhorsed the Negro in politics in Georgia.

We call it an unfair fight because you knew well that as soon as you started a fight on Davis you would have the aid of the lily white, the Democrats and the Democratic press to aid you. You knew Davis would be a thousand miles away from his friends and you would be nurtured and succored by the lily whites from all over the country. You did not care about the consequences. If the public will read the names of the men they will see that the ones that betrayed Davis are the ones that have lived off their earnings, and have been made rich in their lifetimes by holding office in secret orders. What care they about consequences? They are living comfortably, so why worry?

We do not blame any man for aspiring, but we do not believe in a man resorting to dirty tricks and betraying an innocent people into the hands of a hostile enemy

Georgia Negro Repub Among Leaders Called In Office Sale Probe

ATLANTA, GA., June 29.—(AP)—Subpoenas were issued here today summoning Roscoe Pickett, chairman; John W. Martin, treasurer, and Ben J. Davis, negro secretary of the Georgia Republican State Executive Committee, to appear July 9 at 10 a.m. before the senate committee appointed to investigate alleged sale of postmasterships in the South.

The hearing will be held in Atlanta. The witnesses were ordered to bring committee records showing to whom, when monies were received and listing expenditures.

A senate resolution ordering the investigation was passed at the recent session of Congress following the suicide of a Democratic postmaster at Douglas, Ga., who left notes declaring that large "contributions" had been leved on him by the Republican state organization in return for the office. This charge was denied by the Republican state committee.

The investigating committee is composed of Senators Brookhart, Iowa; Lochner, Ohio, and Oddie, Nevada.

MOTON TO HEAD G. O. P. LEADERS

May Direct Personnel Of Campaign Among Race

GOES TO CAPITAL

Special to Journal and Guide

Washington, D. C., June 28—Robert Russa Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, successor of the late Booker T. Washington, looms as the probable dictator of personnel to direct the Republican campaign among colored voters. He arrived here Tuesday night for conferences with party leaders. His aid, Albon L. Holsey, has been here since last Saturday.

Dr. Moton became associated with Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee for President, in connection with the Mississippi flood relief work. He served as chairman of the colored advisory committee which assisted Secretary Hoover.

Special to Journal and Guide

Washington, D. C., June 28—The scene of intense Republican political activity shifted back here from Kansas City immediately following the close of the Republican national convention June 15.

Numerous Conferences

The meeting of the special committee of the Republican national committee with Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and Senator Charles Curtis, the Republican nominees for President and Vice President, last Thursday, afforded the opportunity for numerous conferences between the party leaders and Republicans from different sections of the country.

Georgians here for the meeting were Benjamin Jefferson Davis of Atlanta, Joseph H. Watson of Albany, and Dr. W. H. Harris of Georgia. They hoped to get the special committee to act on the contest between Mr. Davis and Mr. Watson for the place on the national committee for Georgia. The committee however, took no action.

Mrs. George S .Williams of Savannah was also here. She is the national committeewoman and got the assurance from Dr. Hubert Work the new chairman, that she would act in all Georgia matters until a national committeeman was chosen.

Perry W. Howard, the Republican national committeeman for Mississippi, broke a motor trip from Kansas City in order to be here for the meeting. He came from Chicago by train.

Others Here

Others who were here last week included N. K. McGill, of Chicago, and his brother S. D. McGill, of Jacksonville, Fla., who was elected on the Bean faction which was not seated; Roscoe C. Simmons of Chicago, Albon L. Holsey of Tuskegee Institute, Ala., and Claude A. Barnett, of Chicago.

The meeting of the special committee and the selection of an executive committee of the national committee were mere incidents. What colored Republicans are interested in mostly at this time is the selection of one of them to handle the colored end of the campaign.

Struggle For Post

The struggle for this post is desperate. There are three distinct groups fighting to control the selection. One is headed by Robert Russa Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, successor of the late Booker T. Washington. He is represented here by Mr. Holsey and Mr. Barnett. This group would have Homer G. Phillips, an attorney of St. Lous, Mo., to manage the colored end of the campaign. Mr. Holsey and Mr. Barnett conferred with Dr. Work's secretray last Monday.

The second group is headed by Emmett J. Scott, secretary-treasurer of Howard University. He is proposing John R. Hawkins, president of the Prudential Bank, who seconded the nomination of Mr. Hoover in Kansas City, to head the colored end of the campaign. Mr. Hawkins has conferred with Dr. Work, outlining the policy he would follow if he should be selected.

Third Group

The third group is led by Mr. Howard. He denies that he is seeking the post for himself. He says that by virtue of being a member of the national committee, he is a member of the campaign committee, the national committee having charge of the entire campaign.

Mr. Howard says that he favors a program that would include prominent party workers in every section. Besides those who would be in charge of eastern and western headquarters, he would have an advisory committee and would make use of the services of such men, he states, as Robert R. Church of Memphis, Robert L. Vann, of Pittsburgh, William H. Lewis of Boston, Dr. Scott, Mr. Hawkins, Robert S. Abbott of Chicago, S. D. McGill of Jacksonville, Charles H. Calloway of Kansas City, Charles E. Mitchell of Institute, W. Va., Fred R. Moore and George W. Harris of New York, Thomas W. Fleming of Cleveland, Dr. J. H. P. Westbrook of Denver, W. T. Andrews of Baltimore, Phil Dabney of Cincinnati, Rev. Cassius Ward of Boston. Oliver Randolph of Newark Dr. W. G. Alexander of Orange, N. J., Oscar DePriest of Chicago, J. Finley Wilson, Charles H. Vena of Toledo, and others.

There is one man mentioned in connection with the work who is not seeking a job. He is Mr. Church. It is believed that he would accept if it were offered him by Dr. Work. At a conference held here in December when the national committee was in session for the purpose of selecting someone for this work, Mr. Church was agreed upon. At that time he declined, his reason being that those who offered him the place were not in position to give it.

Mr. Church is in Memphis. He has not been here since the Republican national convention.

THREE LEADERS BATTLE FOR G. O. P. RULE

Dr. Emmet Scott, Perry Howard, Dr. R. R. Moton Would Direct Campaign

HOOVER TO SELECT POLITICAL LEADER

Church Of Tennessee Might Accept Post If Offered Him

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The meeting of the special committee and the selection of an executive committee of the National Republican Committee were mere incidents in the meeting here last week.

What colored Republicans are interested in mostly at this time is the selection of one of them to handle the colored end of the campaign.

The struggle for this post is desperate. There are three distinct groups fighting to control the selection. One is headed by Robert Russa Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, successor of the late Booker T. Washington. He is represented here by Mr. Holsey and Mr. Barnett. This group would have Homer G. Phillips, an attorney, of St. Louis, Mo., to manage the colored end of the campaign. Mr. Holsey and Mr. Barnett conferred with Dr. Work's secretary last Monday.

The second group is headed by Emmett J. Scott, secretary-treasurer of Howard University. He is proposing John R. Hawkins, president of the Prudential Bank, who seconded the nomination of Mr. Hoover in Kansas City, to head the colored end of the campaign. Mr. Hawkins has conferred with Dr. Work, outlining the policy he would follow if he should be selected.

The third group is led by Mr. Howard. He denies that he is seeking the post for himself. He says that by virtue of being a member of the national committee, he is a member of the campaign committee, the national committee having charge of the entire campaign.

Mr Howard says that he favors a program that would include prominent party workers in every section. Besides those who would be in charge of eastern and western headquarters, he would have an advisory committee and would make use of the services of such men, he states, as Robert R. Church, of Memphis. Robert L. Vann, of Pittsburgh, William H. Lewis, of Boston Dr. Scott, Mr. Hawkins, Robert S. Abbott, of Chicago, S. D. McGill, of Jacksonville, Charles H. Calloway of Kansas City, Charles E. Mitchell, of Institute, W. Va., Fred R. Moore and George W. Harris, of New York, Thomas W. Fleming of Cleveland, Dr. J. H. P. Westbrook, of Denver, W. T. Andrews, of Baltimore, Phil Dabney, of Cincinnati, Rev. Cassius Ward, of Boston. Oliver Randolph, of Newark, Dr. W. G. Alexander, of Orange, N. J., Oscar DePriest, of Chicago, J. Finley Wilson. Charles H. Vena, of Toledo, and others.

There is one man mentioned in connection with the work who is not seeking the job. He is Mr. Church. It is believed that he would accept if it were offered him by Dr. Work. At a conference held here in December when the national committee was in session for the purpose of selecting someone for this work, Mr. Church was agreed upon. At that time he declined, his reason being that those who offered him the place were not in position to give it.

Mr. Church is in Memphis. He has not been here since the Republican national convention.

Atlanta, Ga., Courier
Saturday, June 14, 1928

50 Negro Delegates Are Taking Part In Republican Meeting

Eleven Negro Alternates Also On Hand—They Come From Both North And South.

Fifty negro delegates and 10 alternates have seats at the Republican National Convention which is in session at Kansas City this week. This is a record. In previous years the Republicans in the South sent the most negroes to the National convention, but never before have so many States north of the Mason and Dixon line been represented by colored delegates. The migration of 700,000 negroes to the north, east and west after the world war has given Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and New Jersey a large colored voting population.

The number of negroes by states is: Arkansas, 3; Georgia, 11; Illinois, 2; Kentucky, 2; Louisiana, 5; Maryland, 3; Michigan, 1; Mississippi, 8; Missouri, 3; New Jersey, 1; Ohio, 1; Oklahoma, 1; South Carolina, 6; Tennessee, 1; and West Virginia, 2—Total, 50.

Alternates: Iowa, 1; Maryland, 3; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 1; New York, 2; and Pennsylvania, 2—Total, 10.

A majority of the negro delegates are for Secretary Hoover, but a stubborn minority is holding out for Lowden.

NEW YORK HERALD

JUL 28 1928

Georgia Negro Republican Claims Victory Over Foes

Davis, Ousted National Committeeman, Prints Story of Triumph

ATLANTA, July 27 (AP).—Ben J. Davis, Negro, ousted Republican national committeeman from Georgia, declares he has succeeded in removing his opponents from the state central committee.

"The Atlanta Independent," a Negro weekly newspaper edited by Davis, carried a story that Roscoe Pickett, of Jasper, Ga., had been displaced as chairman of the central committee, and G. F. Flanders, of Swainsboro, named to succeed him.

Seven other members of the central committee also were said to have been ousted and new members chosen to fill their places. The action was said to have taken place at a meeting last Monday, which was enjoined by Davis opponents from choosing Presidential electors.

Pickett fought the renomination of Davis at the Kansas City convention and Joe Watson, Albany Negro, one of those said to have been ousted from the committee, was Davis's rival. Pickett announced that Watson had been elected, but a Davis lieutenant challenged the vote and the convention finally referred the matter to the national committee. No announcement of a decision has been made.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

'BLACK AND TANS' MAY HOLD HOOVER'S FATE

Fight to Death Looms Over Southern Delegates.

LOWDEN THORN IN SIDE

Opening Battle for Seating Will Begin June 4, When the National Committee Will Meet—Contests Will Be Numerous.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING,
The Commercial Appeal-Chicago Tribune Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, May 18. — The Republican drama at Kansas City is to open with a spectacular struggle between Hoover and Lowden over possession of more than 80 delegates from southern states, where the Republican party exists on paper only.

Chairman William M. Butler called the Republican national committee today to meet at Kansas City June 4 to begin hearing contests of rival sets of delegates for seats in the temporary organization of the convention. The committee will decide the contests for the temporary roll of the convention. Then the credentials committee of the convention will hear and decide the contests all over again for the permanent role.

Settlement of these contests may determine the nomination as it did in 1912, when the national committee seated enough Taft delegates to control the temporary organization and the credentials committee upheld the decisions and thereby enabled the Taft delegates to control the permanent organization and renominate Taft over Roosevelt. There will be more delegate contests at Kansas City than in any convention since 1912.

Lily Whites Bob Up.

If Hoover should win all or nearly all the contests he would have close to a majority for the nomination. If Lowden should gain most of the disputed seats Lowden stock would go up tremendously and Hoover would suffer a setback.

Once more there will be aired as the prelude to the deliberations of a Republican national convention the clashes between the "lily white" and "black and tan" factions of the Republican party in the south. The lily whites are predominantly white, the black and tans predominantly black.

From Florida will come contests over the four delegates at large and over some of the district delegates. The principal scrap is over the manner of the selection of the delegates at large. There were two state conventions held, each claiming to be regular. The Hoover forces held one convention, which refused to recognize the leadership of George Bean, the national committeeman for Florida, because he would not line up for Hoover. This convention was directed from a neighboring hotel by Rush Holland, chief dispenser of Hoover money in the south. Bean, finding himself excluded from control, led his followers across the street and held another convention, which selected uninstructed delegates at large. The Hoover convention named Hoover delegates.

There are several contests in Georgia, the four delegates-at-large from which were instructed for Coolidge first and Hoover second. In Mississippi the zlack and tans, headed by Ferry Howard, negro national committeeman, are in conflict with the lily whites, led by former Gov. Sheldon of Nebraska and former Postmaster Charles U. Gordon of Chicago.

Howard "Double Crosser?"

The Lowden managers have been led to believe that Howard would deliver his delegation to the Illinois candidate, but it has been revealed within the last few days that Howard has been financed by the Hoover management.

In Louisiana the lily whites, under command of Emile Kuntz, national committeeman, have declared for Hoover, but the seating of this delegation will be contested by Walter Cohen, colored collector of the port of New Orleans, who heads the black and tan faction and is reputed to be favorable to Lowden.

The First District of Kentucky has three sets of delegates contesting for its two delegate seats. Kentucky has bene solidly for Hoover. The South Carolina delegate scrap is over the continued control of National Committeeman Joe Torbert. He has been favorable to the nomination of Frank O. Lowden for president.

In Tennessee the Third District contest, still officially before the committee, has been between two delegates supporting Hoover, but against the organization slate headed by Representative Taylor, national committeeman. It reported some weeks ago that this contest had been withdrawn and the Tennessee situation straightened out. Tse Tennessee delegation is reported to be foar Hoover. The Third District contest in Tennessee, the Memphis district, is a contest against Bob Church, negro, who long has been a power among the Republicans of that district.

The Texas contests involve the leadership of National Committeeman Creager, who is heading a Hoover delegation. The contest is made bv Representative Wurbach, Texas' sole Republican representative, and his supporters, who favor an uninstructed delegation.

Republican.

Springfield, Ga., Herald
Friday, April 20, 1928

Sixteen of the twenty-six delegates to the national republican convention from Georgia are negroes, so reports say, and we are wondering which one of the ten white delegates will have the honor of chumming with Ben Davis, the negro chairman.

WIDE INTEREST BEING SHOWN IN TEXAS CONTEST

Wurzbach, If Successful, Will Be Most Powerful Republican From Southern States.

(By Houston Chronicle Staff Correspondent)

Washington, D. C.—Much interest was shown here in the Texas Republican contest which will be heard in Kansas City next week.

With Representative Harry M. Wurzbach of Texas, only Republican congressman from any of the old Confederate states, pitted against National Committeeman R. B. Creager, who has enjoyed prominence since the advent of the Harding administration, it was believed the contest will be hard fought.

If Wurzbach is successful it will make him the most powerful Republican figure from the cotton states. If Creager is successful some observers believe that he has a chance to be in the next cabinet.

Creager occupies the strongest position held by any national committeeman in recent years, with exception of the late Cecil Lyons of Sherman, and if Creager should be unhorsed at Kansas City his career will be strangely like that if Lyons, the bosom friend of Theodore Roosevelt.

Lyons, in 1912, place his reliance on a state convention, at which he elected a solid delegation of 40 to the Chicago convention. The late Joseph B. Kealing of Indiana held that the state convention system employed by Lyons was irregular. He went to Texas and had conventions held in each of the 16 congressional districts then in the state.

Texas at that time had 40 votes in the Republican National Convention, but the number has since been reduced because of the small Republican vote in the Lone Star State.

H. F. MacGregor of Houston, headed the delegation which contested the Lyons delegation. The credentials committee recognized the district conventions and seated 32 of the 40 contesting delegates.

The MacGregor forces won the eight delegates-at-large and most of the district delegates. Lyons won the Third and Sixteenth District contests.

News stories carried in Eastern newspapers Wednesday of the tumultuous scenes at the convention at Dallas were reminiscent of 1912. Eugene Marshall, Dallas, one of the successful Taft delegates from the Fifth or Dallas district, told the national committee during the contest at Chicago, that a "riot call" had been turned in by the Lyons forces in order to prevent the Macgregor forces from presenting a minority report. Harry Beck was seated with Marshall as one of the delegates from Dallas.

The contest at Chicago in 1912 was bitter. Lyons, making his last ditch fight, asserted that the MacGregor district conventions were illegal and not in accordance with either the state law or the national convention call.

MacGregor, however, won and retained control until his death. He was succeeded by Mr. Creager, a MacGregor lieutenant.

Creager first played a major role in national Republican party affairs in 1920. Through his friend, F. C. Scobey of San Antonio, he was introduced to Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio and made a Harding seconding speech. He afterward entertained President-Elect Harding in Texas, and has been in practically complete charge of patronage matters in Texas under the Coolidge administration.

The Creager-Wurzbach feud has been in existence for several years.

TIMES DISPATCH
RICHMOND, VA.

MAY 8 1928

NEGROES TO DESERT G. O. P. FOR SMITH, IN OPINION OF LEADERS

Influential Members of Race Forecast Change in Vote.

ATTACK 'LILY WHITES'

Position Does Not Affect Suit in Recent Election.

By Earle Lutz.

Negroes of Richmond will desert the Republican fold in large numbers in the presidential election in November, according to influential members of the race. The switch in allegiance is contingent on the Democrats picking Al Smith as their standard bearer, it is stated.

Traditionally the Negro has been a Republican ever since he received the franchise. However, the Republican party has become as distinctly "Lily White" as the Democratic party and the Negroes here have come to the realization that they have nothing to gain from blind allegiance to either.

By voting for Smith, the Negroes do not hope to get recognition from the Democratic party. They know that they are not wanted by the dominant organization in Virginia. When they sought to participate in the Democratic primary for Mayor in April, they were met with a rebuff, the party plan proving a bar that was unsurmountable. Redress may come from the Federal courts, but this remains to be seen.

As an aftermath of the mayoralty primary, the United States District Court yesterday set for trial next fall a suit instituted by a Negro against three Richmond election officials who, it is alleged, denied him the ballot on April 3. This test case is for damages under a Federal statute. If the claimant wins out, the Democratic election machinery in Virginia must be revamped to meet new conditions.

The decision of the Negroes to vote for Smith has nothing to do with the mayoralty primary. The Negroes, according to some of their leaders, are of the opinion that the same organized forces opposing Smith are their foes, too. By voting for Smith they are fighting a common enemy, it is said.

Resentment of the Negroes against the Democratic party's action in the April primary cannot find expression at the polls unless an independent candidate offers against Mayor J. Fulmer Bright in the general election. It is not thought likely, however, tha the Negroes even then would go to the polls in any great numbers. Their 5,000 potential votes might play havoc, however, if organized for the purpose of scratching the Democratic ominee.

Just about half the quota for Richmond was elected at the primary in April. The Democratic State Central Committee prior to the election, passed a resolution that the delegates elected at the primary could fill the quota. The party plan specifies that the two camps together, but the way has not been smoothed as yet.

The delegates elected in April feel that they have authority to name their colleagues. The City Democratic Committee is of the opinion that the selection of the additional delegates is its job. Unless they get together, Richmond will send a contested delegation to Roanoke.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

'BLACK AND TANS' MAY HOLD HOOVER'S FATE

Fight to Death Looms Over Southern Delegates.

LOWDEN THORN IN SIDE

Opening Battle for Seating Will Begin June 4, When the National Committee Will Meet—Contests Will Be Numerous.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
The Commercial Appeal-Chicago Tribune Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, May 18. — The Republican drama at Kansas City is to open with a spectacular struggle between Hoover and Lowden over possession of more than 80 delegates from southern states, where the Republican party exists on paper only.

Chairman William M. Butler called the Republican national committee today to meet at Kansas City June 4 to begin hearing contests of rival sets of delegates for seats in the temporary organization of the convention. The committee will decide the contests for the temporary roll of the convention. Then the credentials committee of the convention will hear and decide the contests all over again for the permanent role.

Settlement of these contests may determine the nomination as it did in 1912, when the national committee seated enough Taft delegates to control the temporary organization and the credentials committee upheld the decisions and thereby enabled the Taft delegates to control the permanent organization and renominate Taft over Roosevelt. There will be more delegate contests at Kansas City than in any convention since 1912.

Lily Whites Bob Up.

If Hoover should win all or nearly all the contests he would have close to a majority for the nomination. If Lowden should gain most of the disputed seats Lowden stock would go up tremendously and Hoover would suffer a setback.

Once more there will be aired as the prelude to the deliberations of a Republican national convention the clashes between the "lily white" and "black and tan" factions of the Republican party in the south. The lily whites are predominantly white, the black and tans predominantly black.

From Florida will come contests over the four delegates at large and over some of the district delegates. The principal scrap is over the manner of the selection of the delegates at large. There were two state conventions held, each claiming to be regular. The Hoover forces held one convention, which refused to recognize the leadership of George Bean, the national committeeman for Florida, because he would not line up for Hoover. This convention was directed from a neighboring hotel by Rush Holland, chief dispenser of Hoover money in the south. Bean, finding himself excluded from control, led his followers across the street and held another convention, which selected uninstructed delegates at large. The Hoover convention named Hoover delegates.

There are several contests in Georgia, the four delegates-at-large from which were instructed for Coolidge first and Hoover second. In Mississippi the zlack and tans, headed by Ferry Howard, negro national committeeman, are in conflict with the lily whites, led by former Gov. Sheldon of Nebraska and former Postmaster Charles U. Gordon of Chicago.

Howard "Double Crosser?"

The Lowden managers have been led to believe that Howard would deliver his delegation to the Illinois candidate, but it has been revealed within the last few days that Howard has been financed by the Hoover management.

In Louisiana the lily whites, under command of Emile Kuntz, national committeeman, have declared for Grosvey, but the seating of this delegation will be contested by Walter Cohen, colored collector of the port of New Orleans, who heads the black and tan faction and is reputed to be favorable to Lowden.

The First District of Kentucky has three sets of delegates contesting for its two delegate seats. Kentucky has bene solidly for Hoover. The South Carolina delegate scrap is over the continued control of National Committeeman Joe Tolbert. He has been favorable to the nomination of Frank O. Lowden for president.

In Tennessee the Third District contest, still officially before the committee, has been between two delegates supporting Hoover, but against the organization slate headed by Representative Taylor, national committeeman. It reported some weeks ago that this contest had been withdrawn and the Tennessee situation straightened out. Tse Tennessee delegation is reported to be foar Hoover. The Third District contest in Tennessee, the Memphis district, is a contest against Bob Church, negro, who long has been a power among the Republicans of that district.

The Texas contests involve the leadership of National Committeeman Creager, who is heading a Hoover delegation. The contest is made by Representative Wurbach, Texas' sole Republican representative, and his supporters, who favor an uninstructed delegation.

Republican.

Savannah, Ga., Herald
Friday, April 20, 1928

Sixteen of the twenty-six delegates to the national republican convention from Georgia are negroes, so reports say, and we are wondering which one of the ten white delegates will have the honor of chumming with Ben Davis, the negro chairman.

WIDE INTEREST BEING SHOWN IN TEXAS CONTEST

Wurzbach, If Successful, Will Be Most Powerful Republican From Southern States.

(By Houston Chronicle Staff Correspondent)

Washington, D. C.—Much interest was shown here in the Texas Republican contest which will be heard in Kansas City next week.

With Representative Harry M. MacGregor, however, won and retained control until his death. He Wurzbach of Texas, only Republican congressman from any of the old Confederate states, pitted against National Committeeman R. B. Creager, who has enjoyed prominence since the advent of the Harding administration, it was believed the contest will be hard fought.

If Wurzbach is successful it will make him the most powerful Republican figure from the cotton states. If Creager is successful some observers believe that he has a chance to be in the next cabinet.

Creager occupies the strongest position held by any national committeeman in recent years, with exception of the late Cecil Lyons of Sherman, and if Creager should be unhorsed at Kansas City his career will be strangely like that if Lyons, the bosom friend of Theodore Roosevelt.

Lyons, in 1912, place his reliance on a state convention, at which he elected a solid delegation of 40 to the Chicago convention. The late Joseph B. Kealing of Indiana held that the state convention system employed by Lyons was irregular. He went to Texas and had conventions held in each of the 16 congressional districts then in the state.

Texas at that time had 40 votes in the Republican National Convention, but the number has since been reduced because of the small Republican vote in the Lone Star State.

H. F. MacGregor of Houston, headed the delegation which contested the Lyons delegation. The credentials committee recognized the district conventions and seated 32 of the 40 contesting delegates.

The MacGregor forces won the eight delegates-at-large and most of the district delegates. Lyons won the Third and Sixteenth District contests.

News stories carried in Eastern newspapers Wednesday of the tumultuous scenes at the convention at Dallas were reminiscent of 1912. Eugene Marshall, Dallas, one of the successful Taft delegates from the Fifth or Dallas district, told the national committee during the contest at Chicago, that a "riot call" had been turned in by the Lyons forces in order to prevent the Macgregor forces from presenting a minority report. Harry Beck was seated with Marshall as one of the delegates from Dallas.

The contest at Chicago in 1912 was bitter. Lyons, making his last ditch fight, asserted that the MacGregor district conventions were illegal and not in accordance with either the state law or the national convention call.

Creager first played a major role in national Republican party affairs in 1920. Through his friend, F. C. Scobey of San Antonio, he was introduced to Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio and made a Harding seconding speech. He afterward entertained President-Elect Harding in Texas, and has been in practically complete charge of patronage matters in Texas under the Coolidge administration.

The Creager-Wurzbach feud has been in existence for several years.

TIMES DISPATCH
RICHMOND, VA.

MAY 8 1928

NEGROES TO DESERT G. O. P. FOR SMITH, IN OPINION OF LEADERS

Influential Members of Race Forecast Change in Vote.

ATTACK 'LILY WHITES'

Position Does Not Affect Suit in Recent Election.

By Earle Lutz.

Negroes of Richmond will desert the Republican fold in large numbers in the presidential election in November, according to influential members of the race. The switch in allegiance is contingent on the Democrats picking Al Smith as their standard bearer, it is stated.

Traditionally the Negro has been a Republican ever since he received the franchise. However, the Republican party has become as distinctly "Lily White" as the Democratic party and the Negroes here have come to the realization that they have nothing to gain from blind allegiance to either.

By voting for Smith, the Negroes do not hope to get recognition from the Democratic party. They know that they are not wanted by the dominant organization in Virginia. When they sought to participate in the Democratic primary for Mayor in April, they were met with a rebuff, the party plan proving a bar that was unsurmountable. Redress may come from the Federal courts, but this remains to be seen.

As an aftermath of the mayoralty primary, the United States District Court yesterday set for trial next fall a suit instituted by a Negro against three Richmond election officials who, it is alleged, denied him the ballot on April 3. This test case is for damages under a Federal statute. If the claimant wins out, the Democratic election machinery in Virginia must be revamped to meet new conditions.

The decision of the Negroes to vote for Smith has nothing to do with the mayoralty primary. The Negroes, according to some of their leaders, are of the opinion that the same organized forces opposing Smith are their foes, too. By voting for Smith they are fighting a common enemy, it is said.

Resentment of the Negroes against the Democratic party's action in the April primary cannot find expression at the polls unless an independent candidate offers against Mayor J. Fulmer Bright in the general election. It is not thought likely, however, tha the Negroes even then would go to the polls in any great numbers. Their 5,000 potential votes might play havoc, however, if organized for the purpose of scratching the Democratic ominee.

Just about half the quota for Richmond Democrats was elected at the primary in April feel that they have authority to name their colleagues. The City April. The Democratic State Central Committee is of the opinion that the selection of the additional Committee prior to the election, passed a resolution that the delegates elected is its job. Unless they get State convention in Roanoke on June delegates is to fill the quota. The delegates elected in 21. An effort is being made to get at the primary could fill the quota for Richmond will send a contest, but the way the party plan specifies that the committee together, Roanoke. The two camps together, but the way the party plan specifies that the committee calling the primary shall fill has not been smoothed as yet.

Texas Solon's Bloc Is Given Hearing

Republican National Convention Will Accord Both Blocs In State Equal Status; Victory For Congressman.

Washington, D. C.—The Republican National Convention has given formal notice that it will hear the Texas contest involving four delegates-at-large and 18 congressional districts, or 26 seats in all.

The manner of the hearing was regarded as a victory for the Wurzbach following in that it agreed to take the cases up at large separately and to hear the districts one by one instead of hearing the case involving the entire 26 en bloc.

The Wurzbach faction elected by districts, and at large only in state convention, whereas he Creager faction elected the entire 26 in state convention.

A similar proceeding was followed in 1912 when the national convention heard the contests by districts and unseated the Cecil A. Lyons faction, all of whom were elected in state convention. So far as the printed statement given out is concerned, neither side is recognized as contestant or contestee, but the statement indicated that for the purposes of the hearing they are regarded as on equal footing.

Hearing of contests from Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, three from Tennessee, Texas and Porto Rico are to begin next Monday. Texas probably will be reached Wednesday or Thursday of next week or later, as the states are taken in alphabetical order.

Can Southern Voters Line Up With Hoover's Negro Leaders?

(From Houston (Tex.) Post-Dispatch)

The adage that "politics makes strange fellows" is well illustrated in the case of a few southern democrats who are serving notice they will support Commerce Secretary Herbert Hoover in the event Governor Al Smith is nominated by the democratic party.

For Mr. Hoover, personally and through his campaign managers, is catering assiduously to negro G. O. P. wardheelers and patronage dispensers throughout the south.

Only a short while ago, moved by the hope of winning states where the colored republican vote is heavy, Mr. Hoover abolished the segregation arrangements prevailing in the Washington offices of the department of commerce and threw the negroes indiscriminately among white workers, most of the latter being girls. Southern protests against the Hoover order abolishing segregation have been made in vain.

Among the campaign disbursements listed by Rush Holland, one of Hoover's organizers in the south, the heaviest handouts seem to have been made to negro bosses whose activities have been under fire in connection with patronage abuses.

In various other ways Hoover and Hoover campaign organization have shown a tender solicitude toward the colored vote. It is doubtful if any other republican presidential candidate of recent times has gone quite so far to emphasize views of social as well as political equality between to colored and white races. This yearning to pelase the negro appears to be newly-born in Mr. Hoover's mind. The fact that it is politically inspired does not make it less conspicuous.

Southern democrats who prefer to forget the color line rather than to support Al Smith in case he is nominated will have the privilege of contributing a Hoover campaign fund for negro bosses of the Perry Howard type to spend.

By dropping into the department of commerce offices at Washington, D. C., they can see the Hoover ideal of social equality at work. In the campaign they can glad-hand various negro national committeemen and other prominent colored members of the Hoover army. They can make an honest effort to deliver the southern states over to G. O. P. rule, which in nearly every instance is on a black-and-tan basis.

By his own official action, taken at the express demand of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples, Mr. Hoover has said that he believes in the breaking down of segregation rules which protect the colored as well as the white race.

By his action through authorized agents, Mr. Hoover has made it plain that he will go any length to secure the southern negro vote. Naturally, he will be constrained to deliver in patronage what he receives in support.

If Governor Smith and Mr. Hoover are nominated by the respective parties, some of the strangest partnerships ever witnessed in the south will be formed. Southern democrats, with the nightmare of reconstruction only one generation behind them, going over in at least an occasional instance to a republican candidate who prefers to obey orders from the Harlem Black Belt rather than to heed the protests of the south against the mingling of negro and white workers, elbow to elbow. Southern democrats working side by side in the south with negroes of the Perry Howard brand.

Truly, politics makes strange bedfellows.

Hoover Gains Strength With New Delegates

Butler, National Committee Chairman, Perplexes Secretary's Friends

Strategy Suggested

May Be Move To 'Draft Coolidge' Is Belief

KANSAS CITY, June 5.—(AP)—Seeking to assess the exact strength of Herbert Hoover in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination, those who will do the voting next week cast about tonight amid considerable perplexity in an effort to find out where William M. Butler stands.

The way in which he has expressed himself in the balloting on contested delegates has caused a great deal of discussion, and delegates already on the ground are watching the political weather vanes closely to see if forthcoming developments will give the secret away.

More than as chairman of the Republican National Committee, Butler's position seems to be of first importance to the delegates because they are taking into consideration his close friendship with President Coolidge. Until recently he was put foremost in that group which favored Mr. Coolidge for another term notwithstanding his declaration that he was eliminated from consideration.

When the first dozen or so ballots had been cast in the contest hearings, a number of views were expressed to explain Butler's consistent voting against the forces friendly to Secretary Hoover. But shortly most of these had to be scrapped because on several occasions during this afternoon's balloting, the chairman voted for the instructed Hoover delegates.

When his position on the earlier ballots was noted, the suggestion was put forward in some groups that Butler might be trying to clip Mr. Hoover's wings in order that he might not be brought out too far in front and thus foreclose the possibility of a "draft Coolidge" movement. Others, however, suggested that the Massachusetts man's action might be explained by his desire to see the Hoover forces well to the front in the hope that they would be able to nominate their candidate on the first ballot, leaving the way open for the Coolidge forces to rally to the president's support if they should be able to do so.

Whatever the explanation may be, Butler's action in voting against the Hoover forces on many occasions has left his friends in a state of perplexity. Some of them had expected that he would be the leader of the Hoover forces on the floor of the convention, but he has given no indication that he will do anything of the sort.

Although Butler, the close friend of President Coolidge, stood out against the Hoover delegates at large, he switched later, voting to seat Judson M. Grimmet, a Hoover man, as delegate from the Fourth Louisiana District.

Two contests filed by members of the Cohen faction against Louisiana district delegates were not pressed. They were those in the Third and Eighth Districts. Cohen had informed the committee that he was not opposed to any candidate and thought Southern delegates should be guided in their choice of a nominee by the prevailing sentiment among delegates from Northern states.

In the case of Lowery it was contended in his behalf that he had been regularly named, members of the Kuntz faction "voting" at the district convention, at which he was selected and later naming an opposition candidate of their own.

Hilles proposed the seating of Lowery and to the surprise of many committee members, Ralph E. Williams, of Oregon, who has been conducting the Hoover fight in committee, seconded his suggestion. Williams explained that the committee in its decisions yesterday, had established the precedent of refusing to recognize the credentials of voters.

Although Chairman Butler, the close friends of President Coolidge, stood out against the Hoover delegates at large, he switched later, voting to seat Judson M. Grimmet, a Hoover man, as delegate from the Fourth Louisiana District.

Two contests filed by members of the Cohen faction against Louisiana district delegates were not pressed. They were those in the Third and Eighth Districts.

Supporters Must Make Clean Sweep in G. O. P. Committee on Contests.

TEXAS DELEGATION IN HOOVER COLUMN

Three Georgia Votes Included in Disputes; Cabinet Officer's Backers Are Jubilant.

Kansas City, June 6.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover stands tonight greatly strengthened as a presidential candidate by the rulings of the republican national committee on delegate contests, the last of which have been decided.

Smothering opposition, his supporters in the committee came within an ace of making a clean sweep of it—losing only one seat where they made a fight, and picking up more than 60 sure votes. No other candidate benefited to any extent.

Those who are toiling to put the commerce secretary over on an early ballot in the national convention here next week were jubilant, not only over the additional strength amassed for their man, but over the effect they claimed it would have among any wavering leaders and delegates.

Foes of the cabinet officer conceded they had suffered a setback, but they insisted that Hoover was far from in and there was still enough water to go over the dam to wipe out his big lead for nomination.

Working through the dinner hour tonight, the national committee disposed of the last of the contests which in all involved 75 of the 1,089 convention seats. Before calling it a day, however, it took up the question of fractional voting and decided not to interfere with delegations which had been expanded in size by giving some or all members a part of a vote.

The Hoover forces wound up their fight over contested delegates with a show of strength which toppled every obstacle. A block of 26 votes from Texas, the entire delegation, was definitely put in the Hoover column in the face of perhaps the most stubborn fight conducted during the three days of hearings.

As the count stood after the last of the contests had been disposed of, Hoover had added these votes, originally challenged, to his string:

Florida—Nine, giving him the entire delegation of ten from that state.

Kentucky—Two, insuring him the support of the full 29 delegates.

Louisiana—Ten of 12.

Mississippi — Twelve, the entire delegation.

Tennessee—Three, indicating that he would have most of that state's 19 votes on the first ballot.

Texas—Twenty-six, the entire delegation.

All of these votes—61 in all—either are pledged or instructed for him. All had been in dispute, although most of them had been included in the claims of the Hoover managers which have put his convention strength near the 545 majority, needed for nomination.

In addition to the delegates he bagged for a certainty, Hoover is expected by his managers to have the support, along with other delegates from that state, of three district delegate votes from Georgia involved in the now settled contests.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

Republican

TEXAS SENDS TWO DELEGATIONS!

As a result of the split between the Creager-Nolte and Wurzbach-Littleton factions, the Republicans of Texas are sending two sets of delegates to the Republican National Convention, which meets at Kansas City, June 12, 1928, when candidates for president and vice-president of the United States will be nominated.

The Creager-Nolte delegation goes instructed to vote for Herbert C. Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination as long as there is a reasonable chance for the commerce secretary's nomination, while the Wurzbach-Littleton delegation goes uninstructed.

Despite the talk by Mr. Creager from the convention floor at Dallas, that he is not a "lily-white" and that he is not a Negrophobe, it is interesting to observe that out of the 26 delegates and 26 alternates chosen by the Creager bloc, not one single Negro was chosen; yet some of the leading colored Republicans of the state were active in the pre-convention campaign for Mr. Hoover, and a few of these black Hooverites sat as regular delegates in the Creager state convention.

In this connection it might be fitting to state just here that two or three of these colored Hoover supporters, who held seats in the Creager-Nolte parley, were urged to ally themselves with the Wurzbach-Littleton faction—even on the morning of the convention—with the assurance that they would be taken care of as delegates and alternates to the national confab on the Wurzbach-Littleton uninstructed delegation, notwithstanding the fact that the said colored delegates were Hoover partisans.

Contrasted with the attitude of electing an entire white, anti-Negro delegation by the Creager-Nolte combination, the Wurzbach-Littleton forces honored several Negroes with delegateships, one from the state-at-large and several from congressional districts where district conventions were held May 10, 1928, when the voters of these federal units, in keeping with Republican customs, laws and usages (even in Texas) elected their delegates and alternates to reprsent their districts at the Kansas City convention.

This action of the Wurzbach-Littleton forces, i. e., the election of congressional delegates and alternates, has placed the Creager-Nolte congressional delegates and alternates on the defensive; and instead of the Wurzbach-Littleton district delegates being contestants, they are the contestees; and the Creager-Nolte district delegates elected at the Dallas convention, due to the fact that the so-called "regular" organization did not call nor hold district conventions, will be styled as the contestants in the contests for seats from the eighteen congressional districts of Texas.

Mr. Creager and his partisan followers will have a very difficult job explaining to the national leaders of the Republican party—who had already insisted that Negro Republicans be given a fair and equitable representation on all delegations coming from Southern states—why no colored Republicans are on their "lily-white" delegation, and why there are so many such delegates represented on the Wurzbach-Littleton delegation!

To be perfectly frank, Mr. Creager's all-Nordic delegation is not representative of Texas Republicans; for there are over 750,000 colored citizens residing in this state, with perhaps one-fifth of this number qualified as regular Republican electors; while the vote cast for the Republican gubernatorial candidate in 1926, representing chiefly the white Republican vote in Texas, was barely above 30,000.

Running for reelection to the United States congress from the Fourteenth congressional district, Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach the only Republican elected to the highest legislative body in the nation from a purely Democratic state, received almost as many votes in his 1926 race in his district as the Creager-Nolte candidate for governor received throughout the entire Lone Star State.

The only real Republican organization in Texas, which gets out votes and makes a respectable and commendable showing, is in the Bexar County section, which has elected a Republican congressman biennially since 1920, when the Harding landslide swept the republic.

It was to assist and contribute some part in bringing about such a situation in Harris County and the Eighth congressional district that impelled The Informer to accept a local harmony movement and endeavor to work out a program which would make this county and district a powerful one in Republican affairs, both from a local, state and national standpoint.

The Informer knew that no strong, virile Republican party could be built up and maintained in this district without the Negro vote; for there are over 60,000 colored residents in Houston and Harris County alone, to say nothing of the large colored population in Fort Bend and Waller counties, which comprise this congressional district.

It was our hope that the same type of harmony program could be effected throughout Texas, and it is to be regretted that the Creager-Nolte regime is going to jeopardize the Hoover cause and candidacy merely because of the "rule or ruin" policy of its leaders, and their unwillingness to heed the advice of men who are more interested in party growth and perpetuity than in fussing and fighting over the spoils of office and distribution of federal patronage.

The Informer is not attempting to serve in the role of a seer or prophet, but this paper cannot see where the national leaders of the Republican party can refuse to recognize a delegation headed by the lone Republican congressman from said state, especially when it is borne in mind that the congressman's faction controls the votes of Texas, while the other faction merely controls the party machinery and federal offices.

The Wurzbach-Littleton faction believes in a Republican party to change its political complexion or partisan affiliations; but "of the people, by the people and for the people;" while the Creager-Nolte bloc holds tenaciously to the doctrine that the "Republican party in Texas must be a white man's party."

If the Republican National Convention, through its party leaders, does not want to see its standard-bearer led as a lamb to the slaughter in November (if the Democrats nominate Governor Alfred E. Smith at their Houston powwow), they will think twice, yea! thrice, before seating any all-white delegation, as against a mixed delegation, from any purely Southern state; for black voters in several of the Northern states constitute the balance of power, and they have organized their forces and agreed to back Al Smith, if the Republicans do not treat their Southern brothers right at the Kansas City convention.

The Informer is still a staunch supporter of Herbert C. Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination, and it is not trying this paper is merely giving expression to the sentiment of more than 150,000 Republicans in Texas, who have been disfranchised, outlawed, segregated and ostracised by the so-called regular Republican leaders in Texas for the past eight or twelve years.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

Republican

TEXAS SENDS TWO DELEGATIONS!

As a result of the split between the Creager-Nolte and Wurzbach-Littleton factions, the Republicans of Texas are sending two sets of delegates to the Republican National Convention, which meets at Kansas City, June 12, 1928, when candidates for president and vice-president of the United States will be nominated.

The Creager-Nolte delegation goes instructed to vote for Herbert C. Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination as long as there is a reasonable chance for the commerce secretary's nomination, while the Wurzbach-Littleton delegation goes uninstructed.

Despite the talk by Mr. Creager from the convention floor at Dallas, that he is not a "lily-white" and that he is not a Negrophobe, it is interesting to observe that out of the 26 delegates and 26 alternates chosen by the Creager bloc, not one single Negro was chosen; yet some of the leading colored Republicans of the state were active in the pre-convention campaign for Mr. Hoover, and a few of these black Hooverites sat as regular delegates in the Creager state convention.

In this connection it might be fitting to state just here that two or three of these colored Hoover supporters, who held seats in the Creager-Nolte parley, were urged to ally themselves with the Wurzbach-Littleton faction—even on the morning of the convention—with the assurance that they would be taken care of as delegates and alternates to the national confab on the Wurzbach-Littleton uninstructed delegation, notwithstanding the fact that the said colored delegates were Hoover partisans.

Contrasted with the attitude of electing an entire white, anti-Negro delegation by the Creager-Nolte combination, the Wurzbach-Littleton forces honored several Negroes with delegateships, one from the state-at-large and several from congressional districts where district conventions were held May 10, 1928, when the voters of these federal units, in keeping with Republican customs, laws and usages (even in Texas) elected their delegates and alternates to reprsent their districts at the Kansas City convention.

This action of the Wurzbach-Littleton forces, i. e., the election of congressional delegates and alternates, has placed the Creager-Nolte congressional delegates and alternates on the defensive; and instead of the Wurzbach-Littleton district delegates being contestants, they are the contestees; and the Creager-Nolte district delegates elected at the Dallas convention, due to the fact that the so-called "regular" organization did not call nor hold district conventions, will be styled as the contestants in the contests for seats from the eighteen congressional districts of Texas.

Mr. Creager and his partisan followers will have a very difficult job explaining to the national leaders of the Republican party—who had already insisted that Negro Republicans be given a fair and equitable representation on all delegations coming from Southern states—why no colored Republicans are on their "lily-white" delegation, and why there are so many such delegates represented on the Wurzbach-Littleton delegation!

To be perfectly frank, Mr. Creager's all-Nordic delegation is not representative of Texas Republicans; for there are over 750,000 colored citizens residing in this state, with perhaps one-fifth of this number qualified as regular Republican electors; while the vote cast for the Republican gubernatorial candidate in 1926, representing chiefly the white Republican vote in Texas, was barely above 30,000.

Running for reelection to the United States congress from the Fourteenth congressional district, Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach the only Republican elected to the highest legislative body in the nation from a purely Democratic state, received almost as many votes in his 1926 race in his district as the Creager-Nolte candidate for governor received throughout the entire Lone Star State.

The only real Republican organization in Texas, which gets out votes and makes a respectable and commendable showing, is in the Bexar County section, which has elected a Republican congressman biennially since 1920, when the Harding landslide swept the republic.

It was to assist and contribute some part in bringing about such a situation in Harris County and the Eighth congressional district that impelled The Informer to accept a local harmony movement and endeavor to work out a program which would make this county and district a powerful one in Republican affairs, both from a local, state and national standpoint.

The Informer knew that no strong, virile Republican party could be built up and maintained in this district without the Negro vote; for there are over 60,000 colored residents in Houston and Harris County alone, to say nothing of the large colored population in Fort Bend and Waller counties, which comprise this congressional district.

It was our hope that the same type of harmony program could be effected throughout Texas, and it is to be regretted that the Creager-Nolte regime is going to jeopardize the Hoover cause and candidacy merely because of the "rule or ruin" policy of its leaders, and their unwillingness to heed the advice of men who are more interested in party growth and perpetuity than in fussing and fighting over the spoils of office and distribution of federal patronage.

The Informer is not attempting to serve in the role of a seer or prophet, but this paper cannot see where the national leaders of the Republican party can refuse to recognize a delegation headed by the lone Republican congressman from said state, especially when it is borne in mind that the congressman's faction controls the votes of Texas, while the other faction merely controls the party machinery and federal offices.

The Wurzbach-Littleton faction believes in a Republican party to change its political complexion or partisan affiliations; but "of the people, by the people and for the people;" while the Creager-Nolte bloc holds tenaciously to the doctrine that the "Republican party in Texas must be a white man's party."

If the Republican National Convention, through its party leaders, does not want to see its standard-bearer led as a lamb to the slaughter in November (if the Democrats nominate Governor Alfred E. Smith at their Houston powwow), they will think twice, yea! thrice, before seating any all-white delegation, as against a mixed delegation, from any purely Southern state; for black voters in several of the Northern states constitute the balance of power, and they have organized their forces and agreed to back Al Smith, if the Republicans do not treat their Southern brothers right at the Kansas City convention.

The Informer is still a staunch supporter of Herbert C. Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination, and it is not trying

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

The Republican Convention which met Friday of last week was one of the best attended and most enthusiastic ever held in the State.

Among the delegates the utmost harmany and accord prevailed. Under the leadership of Mr. Roland R. Marchant and Mayor Broening all appearance of friction seemed to have disappeared and the entire slate of delegates proposed in a resolution by Mr. Geo. W. Lawson was elected without a dissenting voice.

Former Governor Goldsborough, the next U. S. Senator for Maryland, occupied the spotlight in the convention and was given repeated ovations. It was a convention of Republicans, militant Republicans and represented every class and race in Maryland. Colore dmen and women occupied seats in the convention and from the convention were sent to the National Convention to take part n the selection of Herbert Hoover as the party's standard bearer for president, and to re-elect former Senator Jackson as National Committeeman for Maryland.

We want to congratulate the Republicans of Maryland upon the splendid work of the convention and Mr. Marchant for his wise leadership and his ability to unite the factions and bring about a united party support which will mean the election of Gov. Goldsborough for Senator and the Hoover presidential electors.

When the campaign is opened an effort is to be made to secure votes for the Democrtic party from the Negro graup. It is reported that a Negro Club is to be formed or is forming to rally Negro voters for Al Smith and the Solid South that will dominate him. On June 26th the State Democratic Convention will mee in Baltimore; Negroes who may entertain a friendly attitude toward the Democratic party might do well to observe whether in the entire body of delegates that make up the Democratic convention in June there be a single Negro delegate and what recognition Negroes will receive in that convention.

The Republican Convention is now a matter of history of which we believe all Republicans will be proud.

Thomasville, Ga., Times Enterprise
Tuesday, April 10, 1928

BLEASE ATTACKS HOOVER FOR HIS NEGRO TACTICS

Declares Commerce Secretary Forbid Racial Segregation of Races in Census Bureau.

RAPS REPUBLICANS

For Patronage Methods and Defends Superiority of White Race in the South.

Washington, D. C., April 10. (AP)—Reading into the record today newspaper story which appeared several days ago that Secretary Hoover had ordered negro clerks in the census bureau to be located on tne floor with white persons, Senator Blease, Democrat, of South Carolina, declared such action would foreclose any hope of the Republicans breaking the "Solid South" at the next election.

The article appeared in the Washington Post and it was said today at the department that at the time a statement was issued explaining that a small census bureau divisional organization made up of negroes had been broken up in the bureau because racial segregation was forbidden.

Senator Blease had read a letter from a "white woman" whose name was not revealed complaining of the action and terming the negroes in the bureau in which she worked "Hoover chocolates."

"This is exactly what brought the Republican party into disrepute in the South," Blease said, "and made its name a stench in the nostrals of all white people.

"In the South we believe the white race superior to the negro race and we never expect to permit a social equality between the two. If this Hoover policy is continued there need not be any dreams among the Republicans of breaking the Solid South."

Blease also complained because the postoffice department had refused to remove a postmaster at Anderson, S. C., who he claimed was a resident of Savannah, Ga.

Referring to "Joe" Tolbert, Republican national committeeman in South Carolina, as the patronage boss in that state, Blease charged that Tolbert was receiving money from postmasters and declared "that's why they're holding their jobs." He also said he knew of a South Carolina rural mail carrier who had lost his job because he had refused to help pay the expenses of a delegate to the Kansas City convention.

Making much of the postmaster situation at Anderson, Blease accused both President Coolidge and Postmaster General New of violating the law by retaining a non-resident of the state as acting postmaster. He also charged assistant Postmaster General Bartlett had knowingly made untrue statements regarding the situation.

The South Carolina Senator told his colleagues that after the Anderson postmaster died last December, his son, who had been separated from his father since childhood, was brought into the state and made acting postmaster.

Declaring the postoffice department had no intention of calling for civil aservice examinations, Blease said it was the plan to keep the appointee on the job until December. By that time, he said, he would be a legal resident of South Carolina. Even at that Blease insisted, he is under thirty and ineligible for permanent appointment.

Four Thousand Dollars Buys Negro Race!

Correspondent Denounces Acceptances Ot Filthy Lucre By So-Called Leaders.

Daniel W. Chase
501 South 16th St.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Nation-wide interest is being developed among the respectable Negro leadership throughout the country, because of the information in the daily newspapers included in the report of the testimony by Rush Holland, former assistant attorney general, to the Senate Campaign Funds Committee, which involved two of the designated Negro leaders, Perry W. Howard and Ben J. Davis. Both of these Negroes are on the Republican National Committee, and Mr. Holland stated in his testimony that he had paid each of them two thousand dollars in his activities to influence sentiment in favor of the Hon. Herbert Hoover for president.

When the Senate Committee questioned Mr. Holland as to the money he had paid out, they asked "what is the money used for?" To which Mr. Holland's reply was: "I cannot say, but I can say that it was paid out."

Leading Negroes throughout the country are turning over in their minds the same question that the Senate Committee propounded. Now they know that two thousand dollars apiece was paid to their political leaders, they are interested to know how the money was used by the recipients. Their reaction is that the money was used, as usual; because neither of these leaders has any unusual reputation, so far as the public is aware, for distributing all they receive, if any of it. There were some little additional courtesies which Mr. Holland admitted to,—such as giving Perry W. Howard $200 per week for maintaining headquarters in Washington, which must indicate that Washington, D. C., is not the only headquarters for Mississippi Negro Republicanism, but for the northern, eastern and western states as well. Northern, eastern and western Negro leaders express themselves as questioning the judgment of the Hoover managers in being so gullible as to even suspect that the Mississippi and Georgia colored bosses have had or will have any influence on their attitude toward the presidential candidates.

The only part of the procedure that softened their mental impeachment is the insignificant price paid for the assumed promised delivery of the Negro voters. Some however, either hope or fear that the total award or reward may have been figured on a larger basis, and that the testimony thus far only exposes a first installment.

Many enthusiastic colored rooters for the Hoover cause feel that their efforts, although unbargained for, have been more far-reaching and effective than Mr. Holland's investment. Because considerable campaigning is going on among Negroes in favor of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Negro Smith enthusiasts welcome this revelation regarding Howard and Davis, believing it will add much toward influencing the major portion of the 5,600,000 Negro voters in Smith's favor when the real election battle begins. If Hoover is put "over" at the National Republican Convention in opposition to the drive to elect Al Smith for president, it is certain that Perry Howard's political activities will be investigated. At these surely need a thorough and much-needed cleansing. What a price for a race of men! all events, such episodes (?) as

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

REPUBLICAN CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE RULES OUT ALL PROTESTS AGAINST 'BOB' CHURCH

Kansas City, Mo., June 13.—R. R. ("Bob") Church, of Memphis, Negro politician, credited with being boss of the Negro vote in Tennessee Tuesday night retained his place as the only Negro on the Volunteer State delegation, but only after a brisk fight before the credentials committee of the Republican National Committee.

The committee voted unanimously to seat him after an effort had been made to declare his seat vacant, and to seat no delegate.

Church, coming from the Tenth District, and his alternate, were contested by Jim Quinn as delegate and Mrs. H. True, both of Memphis, as alternate.

The contest already decided in favor of Church by the national committee, was based on an agreement between Church, G. T. Taylor, ousted postmaster at Memphis, and H. O. True, now dead. The agreement was that each should appoint one-third of the delegates to the county committee which was to call a mass convention to name a congressional committee.

The contests, represented by John E. McCall, Memphis attorney, charged that Church had bolted the agreement after it was ratified by a county convention and after Taylor and True had each named his one-third of the delegates.

Church denied this, asserting he had abrogated the agreement, and that it was null.

DELEGATE J-CROWED

REPUBLICANS COMMITTEE APPOINTED LOCAL COLORED COMMITTEE AND REFERRED COLORED MEMBERS ELECTED ON DELEGATES TO THESE FOR SEPARATE HOTELS FROM THE REGULAR DELEGATION—SAME AS IN 1924—ELECTED COLORED SHOULD HAVE OBJECTED—WERE ELECTED OFFICIALLY BY VOTES—DR. B. E. ROBINSON AND OTHERS REFSED AND WON IN 1924

The Republican party in its Convention arrangements at Kansas City certainly did draw the color line in asking Colored delegates to take

DR. B. E. ROBINSON

Alternate who Refused Jim-Crowism in 1924

rooms apart from the regular delegation, just as in 1924. The method is shown by the following sample letter sent out to Colored delegates North as well as South, the body of which read thus:—

Dear Dr. Robinson,

Mr. Charles Nichols, Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts delegation has asked us to make reservations for you during the Republican National Convention.

We are reserving three rooms for your delegation in the residence of Mrs. Maude Olyden, 2333 Tracy for yourself, Mr. Monroe Mason and Mr. Walter Foster. These rooms will be $2.00 per day each.

Will you kindly confirm direct to Mrs. Olden your approval of this reservation and give the date of your arrival.

Yours very truly
HOUSING COMMITTEE,

By Myrtle Foster Cook,
Housing chairman for our Race

Dr. Robinson's Manly Stand in 1924 as Alternate

In 1924 Dr. B. E. Robinson of Boston took a successful stand for his rights. We give the correspondence. The first letter come unsolicited as follows:—

Hotel Lincoln, largest and best race hotel in Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. David Hawkins, Mgrs., 2473 East 40th St., Cleveland, Ohio,

Dear Friend:—

We are sending under this cover letter confirming reservations made for you by the National Republican Housing Committee at Hotel Lincoln and we assure you of rates and service that will be pleasing. Write particulars at once. We are

Yours obligingly,
HOTEL LINCOLN,
Per: D. Hawkins

National Republican Convention Committee for Cleveland, 705 Federal Reserve Bank Building, May 12, 1924.

Mr. Dave Hawkins, Manager, Hotel Lincoln, East 40th & Scovill, Cleveland, Ohio, Dear Mr. Hawkins:

Confirming telephone conversation of this morning, will you kindly arrange reservations at Hotel Lincoln for the accommodation of the following named persons during the period of the Republican National Convention in June: For Mr. Robert M. Stevens and wife, Pittsfield, Mass., one double room with bath. For Dr. Benj. E. Robinson, 440 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass., one room. For Mr. Munroe Mason of the Blue Helmet, a Boston newspaper, one room.

Kindly forward your contract for execution to each of the above gentlemen at addresses given, and conduct such further negotiations as may be necessary with the various parties direct.

Very truly yours,
A. J. KENNEDY,
Vice Chairman

Robinson Protests to Republican Chairman

Dr. Robinson at once protested to Chairman Butler as follows:

May 28, 1924

Hon. William F. Butler,
Chairman Republican National Committee, 70 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass.

My dear Mr. Butler:

I am in receipt of communications from Mr. A. J. Kennedy, Vice-Chairman of the Republican Convention Committee for Cleveland.

Mr. Kennedy has seen fit, without consultation, to make reservations for me at Hotel Lincoln in Clevelan. As a citizen of Massachusetts and a duly elected member of the delegation, I expect to remain with the same through the period of the Convention. Anything to the contrary, I shall expect immediate advices directly from you.

Very truly yours,
B. E. ROBINSON

Robinson's Reply to Colored Hotel Owner

May 28, 1924

Mr. D. H. Hawkins,
Hotel Lincoln,
2473 East 40th Street
Cleveland, Ohio

Dear Sir:

In reply to your communication of recent date, I am of opinion that reservations have been made at Hotel Hollander for our delegation.

Very truly yours,
B. E. ROBINSON

Chairman Butler "Came Across"

That Chairman Butler and the Mass. Republican Committee respected the protest is shown by the final letter for charges for the room at hotel with rest of delegation as follows:

Massachusetts Delegation Headquarters, The Hollenden, Cleveland, June 9, 1924.

Dr. Benj. E. Robinson,
Hollenden 255,

My dear Dr. Robinson:

The charge of your room furnished you in the Hollenden is $49. As I desire to get these charges out of the way before the train returns, will you please send a check to me at Room 578 Hollenden Hotel.

Very truly yours,
JESSE B. BAXTER,

(Treas. of Mass. Delegations at Cleveland)

The Guardian hopes, that Walter Foster, Esq., backed by the new leader, Mr. Parkman, stuck with the delegation to which he was elected by the voters of Massachusetts.

—G—

JUNIOR BUNION DERBY RUNNER HELPED GO BACK HOME

New York, N. Y., June 14, 1928.—A group of theatrical people headed by Bill (Bojangles) Robinson have arranged a special midnight benefit performance at the Lafayette Theatre for Tuesday, June 19, to aid T. Josephs, the 15 year old Negro boy who completed the C. C. Pyle cross-country race from Los Angeles to New York, secure funds to return to his home in California.

According to reports, young Josephs is a member of a large fmaily and his father is paralyzed and unable to support his family. It was this fact that induced young Josephs to enter the cross country race. He finished 15th and was therefore ineligible for a prize.

BOB CHURCH WINS FIGHT WITH WHITES

Kansas City, Mo., June 15.—The United States if continued to be controlled by a Republican administration plans to quit Haiti, stated Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio Tuesday in the keynote address before the National Republican convention in session here.

"When law and order become well established and assurance of a progressive government is [illegible] in the case of Cuba and Santo Domingo, we will withdraw," the senator declared.

The enforcement of laws is held fundamental by the Republicans, asserted the keynoter in stating that the Republican party stands for respect of law. "It condemns the violation of law. Its prosecutions are without respect to rank or party, and are conducted by the judicial branch of the government," Senator Fess stated.

Fifty delegates-at-large and ten alternates have seats in the session, which makes a record for Republican national conventions. In past years the South sent more delegates than it has here now, but never before have so many northern states been represented. The migration of 700,000 citizens to the East, North and West have given Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Illinois, Ohio and New Jersey a large voting population.

The number of delegates are divided among the states as follows:

Arkansas, 3; Georgia, 11; Illinois, 2; Kentucky, 2; Louisiana, 5; Maryland, 3; Michigan, 1; Mississippi, 8; Missouri, 3; New Jersey, 1; Ohio, 1; Oklahoma, 1; South Carolina, 6; Tennessee, 1, and West Virginia, 2. Total, 50.

Alternates—Iowa, 1; Maryland, 3; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 1; New York, 2, and Pennsylvania, 2. Total, 10.

A tremendous fight to rehabilitate the Republican party in the South and place control in white hands exclusively is expected before the convention closes. Sensing the situation, southern delegates who have power at present are preparing to resist the movement with a united front.

Indications point to a concentrated effort on the part of white members of the party in the South to universally establish lily white organizations in that section of the country. This plan, leaders point out, would be very difficult to carry out due to the increasing power of the party members in the North who are beginning to control the party policies.

Hearings before the credentials committee Tuesday night started the fireworks celebrating the defeat of southern leadership in the case of Walter L. Cohen, Louisiana party leader and customs comptroller for the port of New Orleans. The veteran politician was whipped in his second attempt to win 12 seats for his faction and the lily white delegation from Louisiana, headed by Emile Kuntz, national committeeman. Cohen gained a seat in the convention as a lone district delegate.

"Wil you take your fight to the floor?" he was asked. "No, I'm not a trouble maker," the veteran replied. "I see no reason for carrying the fight to the floor."

The real fight appeared when the lily whites of Tenessee opposed the seating of Robert R. Church, West Tennessee party leader. The credential committee ordered Church seated for the permanent roll. The seating of Church saved the Tennessee delegation from being all white. In the testimony of the white contestants for Church's seat, it was stated that Church had entered into political agreements with T. Will Taylor (white) for the disposition of political appointments, including the office of the recently deposed postmaster of Memphis. The power of the Tennesseean was demonstrated when the postmaster, a dark horse, was appointed at the suggestion of Church. Since then the lily whites have been at him with hammer and tongs. Further proof of his influence in his state was shown Tuesday night when A. V. McLane (white), delegate from Tennessee, told the committee that "Church must be seated if we are to carry Tennessee for the nominee and elect five Republican members of congress, as we hope. We need his support."

As the members in the Republican party in the South loses ground his brothers in the North, East and West gain. This is clearly shown by the attitude of convention managers toward delegates from the different sections.

The rows that come every four years over delegates from the states of South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and Florida irritate G. O. P. leaders. There is a great deal of talk here of a clean-up down there after this convention is over.

Supporters of Gen. Leonard Wood, it was stated here today, spent more than $40,000 trying to round up the southern delegates to the Chicago convention in 1920, and immediately after President Harding was inaugurated several active members of the Republican national committee representing western states, went to Atlanta and organized a party group to take over administration affairs there. This effort fell flat after a few months and the old crowd resumed control. The program launched then may be taken up and pressed again, and extended to three or four other States.

Any such plan will be opposed by Howard, Davis, Church and other leaders in the states involved, on the ground that it interferes with their rights to local self-government. That is a problem for the future, but it is receiving considerable consideration now.

In the meantime the delegates are in bad humor. They do not like the arrangements here. They tried to prevent segregation, but now find themselves parked at out of the way places, far from their white associates

NO PROFIT IN G. O. P. RACE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 14.—(A. N. P.)—The Negro has profitted little financially from espousing the cause of various candidates for the Republican nomination for the presidency of the United States, if the reports circulating here are true. This, too, has revived the old report that white politicians had made a "gentleman's agreement" that they would not spend money among colored politicians."

Whether there is any ground for the report this correspondent does not know, but it is a fact that the brethren have not been on the "receiving end to any extent. The Lowden group has spent literally nothing. In fact, it is said that their colored field agent, Melvin Chisum, was "donated" to them.

The Hooverites have shown a bit more liberality but the scant $2,000 which testimony revealed had been advanced Perry Howard and Ben Davis, which the daily press has been playing up, will do little toward paying the expenses of a campaign or a political convention, according to those who know. Perry W. Howard, Mississippi's astute national committeeman, presented expense accounts which showed that he was $4,000 "in the red" because of train fares, board bills, advertising bills, and the like which were necessary. On the other hand, Creager, the white committeeman from Texas, admits he received $7,500 from Hoover forces.

While little has been said about the matter, it is known that the leaders are not satisfied with the manner in which they have been ignored in doling out the finances, and are beginning to place credence in the legend of the "gentleman's agreement."

COHEN TO TAKE HIS BATTLE TO FOLKS AT HOME

Kansas City, Mo.—(ANP)—That Walter Cohen plans to take the fight to seat his entire deleagtion in the G. O. P. convention, to the country at large was indicated here Friday when friends of the Louisiana veteran urged Negroes throughout the country to take up the cudgel for him and injected the attitude that Cohen's defeat was an indication that the G. O. P. favored the lily-whites instead of the regular Republicans.

Cohen's faction lost the contest before the national committee of the Republican party, but he was granted a seat through the magnamity ofmfwyp seat through the magnanimity of National Committeeman Emil Kuntz, and he Hoover forces. The comptroller of the port of New Orleans was against Secretary Hoover and had instructed his delegation to oppose the nomination of Hoover. It was reported that Kuntz was the first to announce that he was with Hoover and this made it necessary for Cohen to seek another canditate.

Leaders who declare that the seating of the Kuntz faction is not a turn to the lily-whites, as the Kuntz faction has several Negroes in its number, among whom are some of the most prominent Negroes of Louisiana.

They also predict that the old warhorse from Louisiana will find little support among the "home folks" due to the report that he refused to take part in the organization of the Civic League, when he was asked o assist in the organization of the group which now boasts of several hundred members.

Kuntz and Cohen have been at each other's throats for some months and injunctions have been sought, received, and thrown out. The victory of the Kuntz faction, in spite of the show of generosity which gave Cohen a seat, has done nothing to alleviate the ill-feeling which has existed.

HOOVER REFUSES TO COMMIT SELF ON APPOINTM'TS

Tuskegeeans Attempt to Have Homer Phillips Head Colored Voters

The Tuskegee influence is seeking to make itself potent in national politics. The first major move was made Monday. Albion L. Holsey, secretary of Tuskegee Institute and representative of Major Robert Russa Moton, its principal and Claude A. Barnett, director of the Associated Negro Press, put forth Homer G. Phillips, a lawyer, of St. Louis, to head the work among colored voters in the next campaign in the event that Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, should be the Republican nominee for President. They sought the commitment of Mr. Hoover to this plan.

This move failed. Mr. Hoover, it is reported, would not commit himself. The choice of a colored Republican to direct the work among colored voters in the next campaign, they were told, would be left with the nert chairman of the Republican national committee. be left with the next chairman of the national committee will lie with the nominee. Usually he is the pre-convention campaign manager of the nominee. If Mr. Hoover should get the nomination at Kansas City, the choice may be among James W. Good, Dr. Hubert Work and C. Bascom Slemp.

Dr. Moton, Mr. Holsey and Mr. Barnett were associated with Mr. Hoover in his relief work among the flood sufferers. They were members of his colored advisory committee.

G. O. P. LEANS TO SOUTHERN LILY-WHITES

Cohen Faction Loses Out in Louisaiana Contest; Mississippi Seated

Decisions smacking strongly of forcing the Negro out of Republican leadership in the South were made this week by the Republican national committee in its hearings on the contests in Southern states.

The faction from Louisiana headed by Walter L. Cohen, comptroller of customs at that port, was denied seats in the convention Tuesday, and the "lily white" delegates headed by Emile Kuntz, national committee man from Louisiana, were seated.

Monday afternoon, the Florida delegation headed by national committeeman Bean, which contained several Negro delegates, was denied seats and a rival "lily white" faction seated.

Cohen Seated

So alarmed did white leaders become over the growing storm of dissatisfaction among the Negroes present that on Tuesday noon, following the denial of seats to the Cohen faction, Mr. Cohen himself was given a seat as a delegate from the First congressional district. This was done as a sop to Cohen and the colored delegates and was accomplished by persuading a "lily white" delegate to withdraw.

Negro Leaders with Lily White

The surprising aspect of the Louisiana fight, to the Negro spectators, was the fact that the four Negro members of the national committee voted against Cohen and for the lily white faction.

As soon as the time came to vote, Perry Howard, national committeeman from Mississippi; Ben Davis, national committeeman from Georgia; and Mrs. George S. Williams, national committeewoman from Georgia all left proxies with men who voted against Cohen. Mrs. E. P. Booze, committeewoman from Mississippi cast her own vote for the lily whites.

In the Texas hearing Wednesday, William G. McDonald, of Fort Worth, Tex., denounced the methods by which the Creager faction had selected delegates. Mr. McDonald was with the Littleton faction which was denied seats at the convention. The Creager faction is openly and avowedly "lily white".

Church Wins

In the hearing Wednesday morning, Robert R. Church, powerful Memphis leader, was seated by unanimous vote, the committee not even taking the trouble to go into a closed executive session. Mr. Church is the only Negro on the Tennessee delegation of nineteen.

The white speaker against seating Church (Mr. Church himself did not even go to the hearing) declared in one minute that Church had no power or influence in Tennessee and in the next breath said Church "knocked at the White House door and out came a federal judge; knocked at the White House door again and out came a postmaster."

The high point of the hearings was the speech of Mr. Cohen Tuesday morning in defense of his delegation. The comptroller arrived at the sessions late because, as he explained to the committee, other cases had been scheduled before his and he thought it would be three or four hours before he would be needed.

The little veteran took off his raincoat and plunged into the task of winning seats.

"All my life," he said, "I have served the Republican party. The men on the other side of this table are 'overnight Republicans'—many of them registered Democrats—who have been brought here to drive Negroes from the leadership in the South."

Mr. Cohen asserted the Kuntz delegates were elected at Alexandria, La., where Kuntz knew Negroes could not go. His wit and humor kept the committee laughing, even to Chairman Butler, while he drove home sharp logic in support of his contention. He is regarded as the most picturesque figure thus far revealed in the convention picture.

Political - 1928 Republican.

Party Affiliation.

LILY-WHITEISM WOULD DESTRO

Every Republican President who has underta[illegible] up a white man's party in the South, under the leade[illegible] whites, has failed and lost control of his party. Back in th[illegible]ys President Hayes, before we were born, there are echoes from [illegible]ose [illegible]stant days, that he attempted to reverse the policy of his immediate predecessors, and he is hardly spoken of in history among the Presidents, Democratic or Republican, who left a lasting impression on the public mind. Mr. Taft, who departed from the councils of his party and undertook to give patronage in the South as consideration to encourage white leadership and to invite white men into the Republican councils, made a dismal failure, and before he retired from office lost complete control of his party in the country. President Roosevelt, who tried to stage a come back with promoting and backings of the lily white stripe, is remembered in the party as the man who wrecked the institution, and gave the Presidency to the Democrats. The failure of the lamented Pres. Harding is of too recent occurrence to mention. It was he, who made the monumental failure, under lily white leadership, of all the Presidents since Lincoln; and had he lived, the party could not have wisely renominated him for the reason, he had altered the votes of fourteen million Negroes in this country from the party. They were the same old Republicans that loved Lincoln, and voted for the party because of its principles and policies, but they could not stand the Harding policies.

The lily whites are busy in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana in trying to displace the regular organizations, which Mr. Hoover must have, if he receives the nomination, and the election afterwards. These men, by here and there grabbing the Hoover popularity and converting it to their personal use, and claiming they are responsible for it, are trying to persuade the Secretary that if the Secretary is nominated, he can carry the South over Al Smith. This is purely political bunk propagated for the purpose of controlling Federal patronage in case of the Secretary's nomination and election. These self-appointed managers of the Hoover campaign in the South have two motives in view, one to express their hatred for the colored folks, and the other to get hold of the Federal patronage in the event of the Secretary's election.

They are representing to the Secretary's friends that the Ku Klux are intact, and that they will line up, to a man, against Al Smith, and as a result of this alienation Mr. Hoover can carry the South, or certain states as no other Republican aspirant can. They figure that they can make the Secretary's friends believe that the impossible can be done. Next to the lily whites, the Democrats hate the Negro most, and they do not hate Smith enough to vote for anything that looks like Negro political ascendency. They know, too well, that Republican success means Negro participation and party control in governmental affairs.

We are not blaming Secretary Hoover for these conditions. These conditions are being thrust upon his inexperienced friends, who are trying to nominate him. They are being imposed upon, and we can warn them that if they want the Southern Negro vote in the Kansas City Convention, the only way to get it, is through the state organizations as presently constituted, and if they want the votes of the fourteen million Negroes in America, they will have to steer clear of Lily Whiteism and Ku Kluxism, for these are two elements in our political life that the Negro steers clear of, and is afraid of anything that looks like them. It is written that any Republican candidate that alienates the Negro vote in this country will lose the Presidency, and any President who strays from the old, well-beaten path of Republicanism, blazed by Abraham Lincoln, and kept afresh by Republican Presidents, with a few exceptions since then, and fully and wholly maintained and perpetuated by Calvin Coolidge, will prove a failure as those have done who have gone on before him, who strayed from the path of equal opportunity and exact justice to all.

Lincoln lived, fought and died for a government for the people, of the people, and by the people; for the idea that there is no just government without the consent of the governed; and any Republican President who departs from these fundamentals of free institution is going to fail. The government knows no color, or religion. "A man is a man for a that" and that government which will specifically provide for one class of people at the expense of the other, will finally perish from the face of the earth.

The lily whites are like a man without a country. The Democrats [illegible]n't have them, because of their treachery, incompetency, and hy[illegible]sy, and the Republicans refuse to let them in their camp, for the [illegible] their Democratic contemporaries kicked them out of their back [illegible]

ORGANIZATION SCORES IN G. O. P. CONVENTION

County Convention Watches Well-Lubricated Machine.

JOHN FARLEY IS IGNORED

"Lily Whites" Given Places Among Names Submitted, But Merely to Appease Them. Spears' Name on All Lists.

Organization forces under R. R. (Bob) Church, negro, scored a complete triumph at the county Republican mass meeting at the courthouse yesterday.

The assembly room was packed with adherents of the "Grand Old Party," who came to say "aye." All things were approved with a smoothness and rapidity that spoke of days of careful planning.

Only two mild murmurings arose to disturb the serenity of the meeting, and the first offered from the floor of the convention was smothered in an avalanche of "ayes."

J. M. "Jim" Johnson called attention to the fact that it was a "harmonious" meeting, and that somehow or other the name of his friend, John Farley, attorney, had been omitted from the list of 74 delegates to the state convention at Nashville, May 2.

Is Roared Down.

Thomas Phelan, whose election as permanent chairman was put through in short order, called attention to the fact that Mr. Farley's name could not be added because the list of delegates had been completed. And the convention in a mighty chorus of "ayes" agreed with him. Mr. Farley and Mr. Johnson are identified with the "Lily White" group of the party here.

After the meeting E. M. Kinney requested the removal of his name from the list of delegates to the state convention, and it was so done by Lieut. George W. Lee, negro, who was re-elected secretary. One or two complained that they were supposed to be on "such-and-such" a list after the convention adjourned and they were told that thigs would "be straightened out."

An interesting development of the meeting was that Harry Spears, a "Lily White," was named as a delegate to the congressional convention to be held here Feb. 4, as a member of the county committee of 45 and as a delegate to the state convention.

The convention unanimously passed a resolution endorsing Congressman J. Will Taylor, national committeeman from Tennessee, an distributor of patronage in the state. They praised the administration of President Coolidge.

Committees Named.

These resolutions were read by Herbert L. Harper, assistant district attorney. Mr. Harper, Dave Hanover and W. H. Bentley were appointed by Mr. Phelan to compose the committee on resolutions. R. R. Church, Lester H. Brenner and George Poole were named on the committee on delegates and C. H. King, Lindsay B. Phillips and H. W. Wilkerson were named on the committee on organization.

Church read the lists of delegates and made a motion for their adoption and their adoption immediately followed. The Shelby County committee is the most important.

The following were appointed to the county committee, at least 32 of whom are "organization Republicans." A careful perusal of the list shows that a good many of Acting Postmaster G. Tom Taylor's strangest supporters were left off.

T. H. Phelan, C. H. King, H. L. Harper, G. T. Taylor, L. H. Brebner, Lindsay B. Phillips, Dave Marks, Dave Hanover, Arthur Brode, Winstead Johnson, Joe Marks, William Flowers, William Vorus, George Blagden, John E. McCall, John R. Walker, S. E. Murray, C. L. Hicks, Yandel Haun, Harry Spears, George Poole, C. C. Wagner, L. A. West, N. C. Clower, H. W. Wilkerson, Henry House, the Rev. S. Woodward, the Rev. R. J. Petty, T. H. Hayes, B. M. Roddy, M. B. Burnett, J. R. Wright, R. R. Church, A. M. McCullough, M. Thornton, G. W. Lee, secretary; G. L. Williams, R. Q. Venson, J. E. Walker, M. S. Stuart, B. C. Wright, George R. Jackson, G. W. Atkins, R. B. Wilson and T. Wade.

To Congressional Meet.

Delegates to congressional convention: R. L. Harper, L. H. Brenner, L. B. Phillips, A. Brode, Dave Marks, Dave Hanover, Joe Marks, C. H. King, George Poole, G. Tom Taylor, Thomas Phelan, William Flowers, John E. McCall, Harry Spears, L. A. West, G. W. Lee, H. W. Wilkerson, J. R. Wright, M. Thornton, R. B. Wilson, Thomas Wade, Guy L. Williams, R. R. Church, M. B. Burnett, B. M. Roddy, T. H. Hayes, S. Wood, Henry House, M. S. Stuart and Will Bentley.

State convention delegates: Joe Marks, Dave Marks, Dave Hanover, Arthur Brode, H. L. Harper, L. H. Brenner, Tom Phelan, George Poole, G. T. Taylor, Carroll Bell, S. E. Murray, Omar Jewell, L. B. Phillips, E. R. Wright, Joe Menke, J. N. Pumphries, Mrs. L. M. Geldert, Mrs. J. S. Shortle, Mrs. H. O. True, Mrs. Arthur Brode, Mrs. L. B. Phillips, Mrs. Dave Hanover, Mrs. S. E. Murray, Mrs. F. M. Kneeland, Mrs. R. B. Logan, F. P. Cooper, Mrs. Laura Jackson, Mrs. T. S. Brown, J. H. Ramsay, Ed Pass, William Vorus, George Blagden, William Flowers, John R. Walker, John E. McCall, J. M. Johnson, John Q. Eaton, Yandel Haun, Harry Spears, E. C. Swineheart and Ross Mathews.

All delegations will vote as a unit, the convention agreed.

It is interesting to note that the name of Ross Mathews, Republican election commissioner, is omitted from the county committee and the delegates to the congressional convention.

BROOKLYN EAGLE

JAN 9 1928

WILL THE NEGRO BOLT?

When a member of Congress, a Republican from the home State of a Republican President virtually advises negroes to bolt his own party, in an address in New York City, the descendants of abolitionists sit up and take notice. George Holden Tinkham is a lawyer, a Harvard graduate and so strong in his district, which is part of the City of Boston, that in the 1926 election the Democrats did not think it worth while to nominate a candidate against him. Mr. Tinkham says this at a meeting presided over by Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, editor of the Crisis:

> The day has come when national elections in the United States can no longer be half constitutional and half unconstitutional, if the negro will assert such rights and powers as he possesses by refusing to vote for a party which unconstitutionally and lawlessly allows his disfranchisement.

Mr. Tinkham has the enthusiasms of a Charles Sumner or a Wendell Phillips. He is consistent. Academically his logic is unanswerable. Under the Fifteenth Amendment Congress has the right to take from the Southern States such representation in the lower house and in electoral votes as is based upon populations that are no factor in the voting because of terrorization or juggled election laws. This right has not been exercised. It could have been exercised by the Republican party in the last session of Congress; an apportionment is long overdue. Conceivably it might be exercised in the present session, for on this issue the "insurgents" would certainly follow their party in the Senate as in the House. However, it will not be exercised. Mr. Tinkham knows that as well as the rest of us do.

Yet it is an unquestioned fact that every white man in the North is wronged by having his vote count for only half of what a white man's vote counts for in Mississippi or South Carolina, and in the makeup of the electoral colleges and of the House of Representatives, the Caucasians of the North are half disfranchised by existing conditions.

G. O. P. Ranks In State Split

Dawes, Hoover, Lowden Are Favorites

BY ATTICUS MULLIN

Republican ranks in Alabama are split wide open over the candidates for the Republican nomination for President. Dawes, Hoover and Lowden are the favorites.

Alabama will be entitled to fourteen delegates in the Republican convention at Kansas City. Each district in the state is entitled to one delegate except the seventh district which is entitled to two delegates. Three delegates will be named from the state at large. The reason the seventh district gets two delegates is because of the heavy vote in the seventh district.

The delegates are usually chosen by district conventions or district committees with three delegates at large to be named by the state convention.

Those who are familiar with Republican politics in Alabama express the opinion that the delegates who will represent Alabama at the Kansas City convention, will represent the Coolidge, or administration wing of th party in the event President Coolidge decides to throw his support to any particular candidate. It is pointed out that the office holders in the Republican party in Alabama, that is the ins, always control the delegates to national conventions.

One prominent Republican who is on the outside looking in, expressed the opinion in Montgomery Thursday that President Coolidge will take no hand in the selection of a nominee for the presidency. He says in that event there will be quite a scramble among the Lowden, Dawes and Hoover factions with the outcome in doubt. However, it is known that probably a majority of the office-holding Republicans are for Dawes for president in the event President Coolidge sticks to his "I do not choose."

It is regarded as certain that Republican National Committeman Oliver D. Street, of Guntersville, will wield the commanding influence in the selection of Republican delegates from Alabama to the Kansas City convention. Mr. Street, so far as is known, has not indicated who he will favor.

RACE RESENTS G.O.P. SLIGHTS

Ready to Forsake Republicans For Failure to Keep Promises

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 1.—What is characterized as slighting of the colored citizens of Philadelphia by the Republican party is being bitterly resented by colored political leaders here.

Warning has been issued that the Negro electorate of this city is ready to desert the Republican party in the coming Presidential and Senatorial campaign.

In a letter written to District Attorney John Monaghan by George H. Grant the tenseness of the situation was brought out.

The purpose of the letter was to remind the District Attorney of the fact that during the recent campaign John C. Asbury and G. E. Dickerson, colored attorneys told of an interview wherein he was reported as saying that if he were elected he would do something to satisfy the colored citizens.

Grant's letter read in part:

"While nothing has been published as to your complete selection of assistants as yet, may I respectfully ask you to consider the appointment of a colored man to such position in your office? It would be keeping faith that what Mr. Asbury and Mr. Dickerson led the colored people to believe would be done."

PERRY HOWARD COMES OUT FOR SECT'Y HOOVER

Assistant To Attorney General Declares Race Will Be Safe

TWO RACE MEN ON NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Benjamin J. Davis of Georgia and Mr. Howard Are Men Named

Hon. Perry W. Howard, Assistant to the Attorney General, member of the Republican National Committee for Mississippi, has just returned to Washington from a trip to Mississippi in the interest of the candidacy of Secretary Hoover for President.

Mr. Howard received an enthusiastic welcome from the people of his home State and he reports that next to President Coolidge, Secretary Hoover is Mississippi's choice.

He has announced himself for Hoover, declaring that the Secretary is an ideal candidate and believes that the interests of the Negro group will be safe in Mr. Hoover's hands if elected.

Mr. Howard and Hon. B. J. Davis, of Georgia, are the only two colored men on the National Committee. Mr. Davis has also declared for Hoover and says Georgia's delegation will cast a solid vote for the Secretary.

'Lily-Whites' Defeated in Party Plans

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 10.—"Lily white" Republicans were outmanuvered at the meeting of the Republican state committee of Mississippi here on Feb. 1.

They came into the meeting with a set of demands regarding the procedure to be followed in the election of delegates to the county, district, state and national conventions. Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman for Mississippi and state chairman, who presided, without permitting the reading of these demands, referred them to a special committee. This committee reported that the demands of the "lily white" Republicans were preposterous.

Seek Power in South

The avowed purpose of the "lily whites" is to gain control of the Republican organization in Mississippi and exclude members of the Race from participation in the councils of the party. They have secured a charter from the state. They sought recognition in Washington, but were advised that the organization, of which Mr. Howard is the head, is the regular Republican party in Mississippi.

The activities of the "lily white" Republicans have seemingly cemented all factions of the regular Republican party in Mississippi.

The latest coalition includes Dr. S. D. Redmond, Thomas I. Keys of Ocean Springs, Eugene P. Booze of Mound Bayou, W. L. Moon, E. L. Patton, George S. Goodman of Holly Springs, W. W. Phillips of Kosciusko, Dr. D. W. Sherrod of Meridian, T. G. Ewing of Vicksburg, Dr. R. L. Johnson, C. T. Butler of Meridian, Rev. P. E. Frisby of Cannonsburg, W. H. Holtzclaw of Utica institute, Dr. A. W. Dumas of Natchez and Diamond Cox.

State Meet Called

The Republican state convention was called to meet here on March 14. The eight district conventions will meet on March 13. Dr. Redmond, William Holtclaw, Prof. Goodman, Mr. Booze and C. A. Whittington (white) of Tutwiler were elected to fill vacancies on the state committee. The state committee passed resolutions indorsing the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination in the event that President Coolidge cannot be drafted. Mr. Howard will manage the Hoover campaign in Mississippi.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican,

11TH DISTRICT G.O.P. ENDORSES HOOVER PERSONS AND DAVIS

Convention Held at Waycross Elects E. W. Brinkens Delegate to National Convention.

Waycross, Ga., Feb. 29.—Herbert Hoover was unanimously indorsed for President of the United States by the Eleventh District Republican Convention, in session in Waycross Wednesday. Independent

The convention also gave a hearty indorsement to the administration of Calvin Coolidge.

Ben J. Davis, of Atlanta, was recommended as National Committeeman from Georgia. The following officers were elected: Chairman, T. C. Williams, of Waycross; vice chairman, L. W. Brown, of Screven; secretary, Dr. R. N. Jackson, of Brunswick. 3-1-28

E. W. Brinkens, of Camden County, was named as delegate to the national convention with Sam Purvis, of Irwin County, as alternate. Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. H. C. Scarlett, of Waycross chairman of the Ware County Republican Committee, was host. Ben J. Davis, editor of the Atlanta Independent and National Committeeman, was present.

The convention was held in the Ware County court house with more than a hundred present. Ogden Persons was unanimously indorsed for appointment as United States Judge for the Middle District of Georgia to succeed Judge W. J. Tilson.—Atlanta Constitution.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

Star

FEB 21 1928

A Negro Fourteenth Ward Hoover-for-President Club was organized last night at a meeting at 3400 Hardesty avenue. O. M. Scott was elected president. Other officers are Albert Nash, vice-president; Oley Jacobs, secretary, and Silias Bozier, treasurer. The organization, it was said today, was supporting the Hoover delegation filed Saturday by Judge George E. Kimball.

SUN
ATTLEBORO, MASS.

FEB 29 1928

The Negro in Ohio

On account of the great interest being manifested in the approaching Ohio election of delegates to the National Republican convention, to be held at Kansas City in June, every phase of the situation in the Buckeye State is being carefully analyzed.

Of the eighty-eight counties in the state there are 33 in which approximately 93 per cent of the colored voters live, and nearly 80 per cent of these live in sixteen counties, which rank, in importance, in the order named: Cuyahoga, Hamilton, Franklin, Montgomery, Mahoning, Clark, Summit, Lucas, Greene, Butler, Stark, Jefferson, Belmont, Loraine, Ross and Muskingum. Among the cities there are 45 having from 200 to 30,000 colored voters, and the total vote equals nearly 82 per cent of their voting strength in the state. About 68 per cent of these, however, live in the eight cities ranked in the order of their importance as follows: Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Youngstown, Springfield, Toledo and Akron.

In the state as a whole, Negroes of voting age, males and females, represent about 4 per cent of the total number of persons, all classes, 21 years of age and over, and about 11 per cent of the Republican vote as cast in the State at the Presidential election of 1924.

NEW YORK
HERALD

FEB 19 1928

Negro Selected By Republicans For Convention

Rev. Richard M. Bolden, Harlem Religious Leader, Is Slated as 21st District Delegate to Kansas City

Precedent Annoys Tiger

Democrats Embarrased by Decision to Send 'Lily White' Group to Texas

Following a conference yesterday of Republican leaders of the Assembly districts comprising the 21st Congressional District, which includes the bulk of the Negro population of Harlem, it was learned that the Rev. Richard Manuel Bolden, pastor of the First Emanuel Independent Church, of Harlem, has been agreed upon as delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Dr. Bolden is recognized as an outstanding religious leader of his race in this city, and his friends are sure that his selection as a delegate to the Kansas City convention will show the sincerity of the New York Republican County Committee in recognizing Negro voters.

Former Assembly Candidate

Dr. Bolden is executive chairman of the Denominational Preachers' Meeting of Harlem. He was once a candidate for member of the Assembly against Assemblyman Abraham Grenthal, who was instrumental in selecting him for delegate.

The Congressional district includes large portions of the 19th and the 21st and smaller portions of the 13th, 22d and 23d Assembly districts, and extends from West 125th Street to the northern end of Manhattan Island.

The selection of a Republican Negro delegate from the 21st is not unexpected, as the Republican Negro vote is steadily growing in Harlem, but Governor Smith and Judge Olvany, Tammany leader, are embarrassed by the precedent set by themselves in 1924.

Demand Precedent Be Kept

In order to gain favor with the Negroes four years ago, Governor Smith, the late Charles F. Murphy, then Tammany leader, and Civil Service Commissioner Morton, Negro Tammany leader of Harlem, selected Dr. Paul A. Collins as a delegate to the Madison Square Garden convention. The Negro Democrats now demand that Tammany shall adhere to this precedent. But the conditions this year make it doubtful about Tammany adhering to the precedent, for the Governor is doing his best, through trusted agents, to placate the none too friendly South. The Southern leaders would not welcome a Negro delegate at the Houston convention.

If the convention were again to be held in Madison Square Garden, probably a Negro delegate would be sent, but with Houston as the convention city it makes a great difference.

There is some talk in Tammany circles about the advisability of electing a Negro as delegate with a white alternate, and then let the alternate go to Houston, but such a subterfuge, it is thought, would merely aggravate the matter.

"That was an interesting and clarifying article in the Herald Tribune to-day about Tammany drawing the color line against a national convention delegate," said Dr. Bolden at his home, 105 West 130th Street. "The precedent set in 1924 by the Governor and his friends attracted wide attention, and resulted in thousands of Negroes voting for Smith for Governor.

"In New York, Chicago, Indiana, Cincinnati and New Jersey the Democrats of late years have sedulously cultivated the Negroes, assuring them that their place was in the Democratic party. They persuaded thousands to leave their natural affiliation. The Negro voters of the nation will set back and watch what Tammany Hall will do this time."

HOOVER AND DAVIS DELEGATES ARE ELECTED IN SIXTH

J. J. Wright and Sol Clemons Elected Delegates to National Convention by 6th District.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 29. — Last Thursday the Republicans of the Sixth Congressional District met in Bibb County court house, Macon, Ga., for the purpose of electing delegates to the Kansas City Convention, and the re-organization of the district for the next four years. The meeting was well attended and proved a harmonious and helpful session. Independent

Colonel J. J. Wright, of Forsyth, Ga., and Dr. Sol C. Clemons, of Macon, Ga., were elected delegates to the Kansas City Convention, and Prof. G. W. Drake, of Thomaston, Ga., alternate. 3-1-28

Dr. A. M. Wilkins, of Griffin, Ga., was elected district chairman, and Prof. G. W. Drake, secretary. The Coolidge administration was endorsed, and Secretary Hoover's candidacy was endorsed for President, the convention believing that Mr. Hoover came nearer reflecting the views of the President. The convention believed that he would carry out Mr. Coolidge's policies. Benjamin J. Davis was endorsed for National Committeeman, to succeed himself, and the delegates instructed to vote for him. The resolution was offered by the Hon. O. M. Duke, of Butts County. Mr. Duke has nominated Mr. Davis for National Committeeman every time he has been elected since the death of Colonel Henry Lincoln Johnson. Mr. Duke has been asked to prepare suitable resolutions to express the views of the Republicans of Georgia at the State Convention next Saturday.

Fifteen counties compose the district, and each county was represented. The convention was addressed by National Committeeman Davis and others.

EIGHTH DISTRICT REPUBLICANS MET LAST SATURDAY

Dr. W. H. Harris Elected Delegate to Kansas City and District Chairman. Meeting Harmonious.

Republicans of the Eighth Congressional District of Georgia met in the Clarke County court house today at noon and elected a delegate and an alternate delegate to the National Republican Convention which meets in Kansas City June the 12th, 1928. They also reorganized the Republican Executive Committee for the Eighth District. Independent

W. H. Harris was elected delegate and Prof. P. J. Blackwell, of Elberton, was elected alternate delegate to the Kansas City Convention. 3-1-28

W. H. Harris was elected chairman of the Executive Committee. W. P. Harris was elected vice chairman and E. D. Strand was elected secretary. G. A. Cuningham, treasurer. Atlanta, Ga.

The convention endorsed Cool-idge's administration and also endorsed Hoover's candidacy for the Presidency in the following resolutions:

Coolidge Endorsed

"Whereas the administration of Calvin Coolidge, having proved powerful in achievement, able in execution and broadly humanitarian, one of the greatest in the history of the American Republic,; therefore, be it

Resolved, that the Eighth Congressional District Convention of Georgia, in convention assembled hereby endorse his administration. extend to him our sincerest congratulations and pledge to him our full support. We also urge him to stand for re-election and call upon our delegate from this convention to vote for him if the opportunity comes to nominate him. In case he refuses to be nominated, then we urge our delegate to stand for that wonderfully equipped and broad-minded statesman Herbert Hoover, for President of the United States.

"Be it resolved, that we endorse our National Committeeman, B. J. Davis, and thank him for the wonderful work he has done and is doing to promote the interest of the Republican Party in Georgia.

"Resolved also that these resolutions be spread upon the face of our minutes and published in the leading journals of the state.

"Resolved further, that we urge every man and woman in the state who believes in the principles and policies of the Republican Party to register and vote in the coming election. A vote is a citizen's protection. Protest yourself with this weapon."

The convention was harmonious throughout. Both white and colored delegates entering heartily into the discussions which caused Republican enthusiasm to run high throughout the meeting.

The delegates felt that the Kansas City Convention will nominate the next President.—Athens Banner-Herald.

BAR NEGROES FROM MISS. G.O.P. MEETING

Injunction Signed. Order Restrains Colored Republicans From Active Participation

ACCUSE PERRY HOWARD

Leader's Faction Is Naming Delegates Illegally The "Lily Whites" Charge In Petition

Special to the St. Louis Argus.

GREENVILLE, Miss., Mar. 1.—An injunction restraining the Perry Howard faction of the Republican party from holding a convention in Leflore County Wednesday was served by Sheriff Sam Coleman Tuesday on J. A. Evans and C. H. Page, leaders of the faction which had called the meeting.

The injunction was issued at the instance of George Sheldon, now a planter living in Washington County, and former governor of Nebraska, who is taking a leading part in the efforts of the white Republicans in Mississippi to secure control of the party machinery.

The writ was issued from the chancery court of Forrest County and apparently part of a series of writs served in various parts of the state in the fight for party control.

Special to the St. Louis Argus.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Mar. 2.—Perry Howard, National Committeeman from Mississippi and his coterie lost the first round in their battle with Mississippi "lily-whites" Republicans Tuesday, when Chancellor T. P. Dale ruled that there was no illegality in a restraining order against them which he signed Monday.

What Faction Barred.

Mr. Howard is chairman of the Republican State Committee now in power in Mississippi, and his opposing faction's bill, on which the restraining order is based, charges that Mr. Howard to perpetuate himself and his associates in office has conspired to control and manipulate the affairs of the Republican party in Mississippi and to exclude all persons unfriendly to his faction. The bill asks not only the court order restraining them from holding or participating in the alleged beat or district conventions but that they be enjoined from representing themselves as the Republican party in Mississippi and electing delegates to the National Republican Convention and naming electors to be voted on as Republican presidential electors for Mississippi.

Negroes Feel Injustice.

Race Republican leaders throughout the state sorely wrought up over the restraining order which goes into effect just two days before the beat elections were to be held.

Arguments of counsels for the colored Republicans asking that the file be removed and the injunction destroyed on, the ground that the court had no jurisdiction over political party actions was heard by Chancellor Dale as were the arguments of complainants who include about 32 prominent white Republicans in this state who have organized a "lily-white" Republican committee.

Safer Than the Sec

IT HAS OFTEN BEEN SAID that the Negro, in order to be effective politically, should divide his vote, nationally as well as sectionally. It was argued that the Republican party would give the Negro more consideration if it were not so certain of his support; that even if the Negro were not strong enough to turn a national election he held the balance of power in many Congressional districts.

THESE ARGUMENTS, if addressed to any other group, would be sound enough. The trouble is that they do not fit the case of the Negro. Granting that the Negro has cause to be dissatisfied with the Republican party, where can he go if he leaves it? To the Democratic party? And what is there in the policy, program and conduct of the national Democratic party to attract the Negro?

LILY-WHITE REPUBLICANS OF NEW ORLEANS TAKE STEPS TO HALT WALTER COHEN

New Orleans, La., March 2.—The fight waged by the lily-white Louisiana Republicans, under the leadership of Emile Kuntz, collector of customs, against Walter Cohen, veteran politician and comptroller of customs, took a new angle last Thursday when Judge William H. Byrnes Jr. in the civil district court issued a preliminary injunction to restrain Cohen and ten of his followers from attempting to exercise the functions of members of the Republican state central committee or from attempting to select delegates to the National Republican convention at Kansas City, June 12.

Eleven members of Kuntz's lily-white faction last week obtained a temporary restraining order against the Cohen supporters and Cohen and the other defendants were cited to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not be issued. The lily-whites claim to have been elected members of the state central committee at a "convention" at Alexandria on Jan. 31.

Cohen, through his attorney, W. O. Hart (white), attempted to introduce evidence to show the meeting at which the committeemen were selected was illegal, but the bench ruled it out on the plaintiff's objections. Cohen contended that the committeemen were duly elected at the regular meeting of the organization, Feb. 6, in the L'Union Francaise building.

The court ruled that if the meeting was illegal and the plaintiffs were usurpers then it was up to the defendants to institute an intrusion into office suite because their rights to hold the offices could not be questioned in injunction proceedings.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

-:- The Political Desert -:-

By KELLY MILLER

GENERALLY speaking, the political movement of the Negro is retrograding. For the decades of the present century he has been sinking to lower and lower levels on the scale of political consideration. From Roosevelt to Taft was a great fall; from Taft to Wilson seemed like passing through zero in changing from a positive to a negative quantity; there has been little or no recurrent tendency under Harding and Coolidge.

The Negro himself is putting forth no effective effort to better the situation. Under the next administration he will do well to hold his own, albeit he has little to hold. The threadbare process of corralling delegates to the national convention every four years has all but worn itself to a frazzle. The delegates are not only becoming fewer and fewer in number but less and less in importance.

The national committeemen are accorded the secondary control of state patronage. Only white men may be appointed to important places in Mississippi and Georgia. Messrs. Howard and Davis have their say as between bad, good and indifferent white men. This gives them considerable influence which they undoubtedly use to advantage to the Negro group.

These two men are trustees of the Republican Party and are on the inside of the cup. Their effective power consists in helping to choose the candidate when the contest is close. In the gigantic battle now focusing between Hoover and the allies they must needs manoeuvre strategically. An unlucky decision will dislodge them from leadership. That either of them would have a Negro successor is extremely unlikely. Fragile as this thread is, it is the only hold the Negro has on national politics.

The Negro's influence on legislation or administration is weak to the point of impotency. We cannot induce Congress to enact laws for the enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, as under the Constitution it is its bounden duty to do. Affirmative legislation seems at present out of the question. We are unable to induce the administration to abolish departmental segregation or to fairly enforce the civil service law.

All of this may seem to be a gloomy picture, but it is painted from the facts with absolute faithfulness. And yet there are signs of promise in the sky. In the future the Negro will derive his power from local rather than from national political activity.

Like charity, political advantage and advancement will begin at home. Already Negroes vote unrestrictedly in all elections—local and national—in the great states of the North and West, as well as in the border states of Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri. In the South we have seen recently several hopeful indications.

1. For several years Negroes in several southern states have declared themselves Democrats and sought the rights of suffrage under party regulations.

2. The success of Robert Church in Memphis, Tenn., is the most encouraging indication which has manifested itself for several decades. Tennessee has no law restricting the franchise along racial lines; it requires a poll tax of white and black alike. Many whites, and many more colored voters, fail to meet this requirement and thus disfranchise themselves.

Under the stimulation of Mr. Church's influence, twelve thousand colored voters actually qualified and cast their votes for the least objectionable of two Democratic condidates.

3. We learn from Associated Press dispatches that for the first time since reconstruction the Republican Party in Louisiana has put in the field a full ticket in competition with its Democratic rival. This action is calculated to stimulate every Republican to qualify, even under restrictive conditions, and to cast his vote as elector for the officer by whom he is to be governed. It is only by means of rival parties that the Negro may hope to regain his vote in the South.

Where there is only one party the ordinary citizen hardly takes the pains to go to the polls, only to vote for the inevitable. Theodore Roosevelt saw this when he projected in 1912 to form a competing party in every southern state, under the leadership of competent and courageous men who had the standing and influence requisite to bring things to pass.

Herein Negro leadership has been a dismal failure. It has limited its endeavor wholly to corralling national delegates and becoming patronage mongers. It has never seriously undertaken to put a rival ticket in every state and county and encourage every citizen to qualify and vote for the official of his own choice.

For the traditionally Republican Negro to complain that he is shut out from the Democratic primary is grotesque enough. The protest against such discrimination is righteous to the extent that it infringes upon the fundamental rights of citizens. But fundamentally each state needs two competing political parties.

The organization and operation of political machinery are rather expensive. It becomes, therefore, rather difficult for Negro men to organize, manipulate and control such agencies. Nor have they generally the resources, the resourcefulness and contact to make such movements successful.

It seems to be in the South a choice between the leadership of the arrogance of the "lily whites" and the impotence of the black and tan. Here again Robert Church points the way. Tennessee is a state of great wealth where the whites constitute the bulk and strength of the Republican Party and yet he leads the black cohorts and is a power of recognized potency in the general council of the party. He fights "lily whiteism" to a standstill; points the way for every Negro to vote effectively: at the same time keeps in the front ranks of the party leadership. With no disparagement to the others, it seems to me that Bob Church is the noblest Roman of them all.

PERRY W. HOWARD OUTWITS LIL WHITES

PERRY W. HOWARD
Nat. Rep. Committeeman

Re-elected National Republican Committeeman.

The state and District Republican conventions of Mississippi have been held and the Lily-Whites snowed under.

The big four from the state this time is composed of two colored and two white with the four votes split into half and eight persons representing the state at large.

The eight are: Perry W. Howard, John H. Cook, L. [illegible]ese, E. E. Robertson, W. [illegible]hoon, S. D. Redmond, George F. McClellan, N. D. Robinson.

Five of the above are white and three colored.

But the delegation taken as a whole—district and state—there is an even number of colored and white.

Perry W. Howard was re-elected National Republican Committeeman and Mrs. Mary C. Booze was re-elected National Republican Committeewoman.

Some of the alternates at large are from among the foremost white women of the South—the same being true of the delegates at large.

The whole crux of the situation was whether or not the Lily-Whites could succeed in getting other injunctions to prevent the regular organization from holding its conventions in due time. But the Lily-Whites were unable to keep up the injunction business and now that the conventions were held there will be no question as to the regularity.

The district delegates are as follows: First, G. B. McCuen; second, G. S. Goodman; third, Eugene P. Booze; Fourth, W. W. Phillips; fifth, C. J. Hyde; sixth, Thomas I. Keyes; seventh, F. S. Swalm; eighth, A. M. Redmond and E. L. Patton

PLANS GO ON FOR SEGREGATION OF G.O.P. DELEGATES

Little Chance Seen For Any Change In Convention Plan Of Jim Crow Housing

KANSAS CITY, MO., April 18—There is little chance that the present plans for the segregation of colored delegates to the G. O. P. convention here will be changed, as all pains are being taken to provide separate housing facilities.

In a letter transmitting to members of the Republican national committee contracts for hotel accomodations for their delegates, Charles F. Curry, secretary of the local committee on housing arrangements, advised the national committeemen that the contracts he inclosed did not include arrangements for the accomodations of colored delegates.

Mr. Curry told the national committeemen that if there are any colored in their delegations, they should forward their names to him so that he could turn them over to a committee of local colored persons that has charge of the housing of colored delegates.

Has Accomodations

He stated that excellent accomodations in a colored hotel and the colored Young Men's Christian Association would be provided for colored delegates. The housing of delegates in the Street Hotel, a small place, and the branch of the Y. M. C. A., has the approval of the committee on arrangements of the Republican national committee.

Protests against the segregation of delegates have been received by the Republican national committee

Benjamin J. Davis, Republican national committeeman of Georgia, has written Conrad Mann, chairman of the local committee, that he and the other colored delegates from his state, comprising eleven of Georgia's sixteen delegates, would expect accomodations equal in all respects to those of white delegates and that "rooms with bath and telephone were wanted." A copy of this letter was forwarded to William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee.

"Applesauce"

Mr. Mann replied to Mr. Davis that "We desire to accord Negro delegates and visitors the same courteous and considerate treatment which we alway show our own Negro population.,, Colored Republicans regard this statemen as "applesauce."

At previous conventions there has been no segregation. In seeking the convention, Mr. Mann promised Mr. Davis and Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman for Mississippi, when he solicited their votes for Kansas City that there would be no segregation and they would be able to obtain any kind of hotel accomodations.

INJUNCTION IS SOUGHT BY 'LILYWHITES'

Say Cohen Faction Is Bent On Subverting Action Chosen Committee

NEW ORLEANS, LA., April 25—Charges the Walter L. Cohen, comptroller of customs, and a dissatisfied minority of Louisiana Republicans had entered into a conspiracy to commit illegal and fraudulent acts to subvert all legal actions and proceedings of the Republican state committee, were made last Wednesday by M. C. Norman, chairman in an application to Judge Walter L. Gleason of the civil district for a writ of injunction.

Judge Gleason signed an order for Cohen and 22 members of his faction to show cause on April 28 why they should not be enjoined and restrained from issuing a call for the purpose of illegally forming another committee, from holding any meetings, or doing any acts in cofiict with the duly constituted committee.

"Contemptuous Disregard"

Chairman Norman alleges that Cohen and his followers have "deliberately and with contemptuous disregard of the laws governing authorities of the Republican party, conspired together by illegal and fradulent acts to subvert every legal act and proceeding of the committee and to defeat the legal effect thereof."

Those made defendants in the injunction suit are: Walter L. Cohen, James L. Higgins, J. O. Kaelin, Victor J. Collins, Henry E. Braden, Frank Labit, Arnold L. Moss, Joseph Geddes W. E. Weeks, Gus Oetrling, and Frank B. Smith of New Orleans parish; C K. Miller, of Allen Parish; J. I. Lowery and Ernest Dulferes, Ascension parish; F. D. Benjamin, Avoydlies parish; J. Stewart Thompson, Calcasieu parish; H. F. Eddy, Cameron parish; Beverly V. Barranco, East Baton Rouge parish; C. W. Row, Oberville parish; Benjamin Freeman, Jefferson Davis parish; Mrs. Jane Perrin, St. Bernard parish; J. A. Richard, Targipahoa parish and Wade McGee, Washington parish.

Judges Cited

The districe judges of Ascension and East Baton Rouge parishes refused the injunctions to restrain C. H. Lowery and B. F. Barranco from attempting to exercise the functions of committeemen, and on Wednesday, attorneys representing the duly constituted committeemen applied to the supreme court for writs of certiorari and mandamus. The trial judges have been cited to show cause why the writs of mandamus should not be issued.

The effect of the order was to halt the "convention" called by the Trump committee, which met several weeks ago on call of Mrs. Perrin, former vice-chairman of the regular committee. The gathering of the Cohen faction to set up a convention organization was held at noon Thursday in the French Union hall. At the close of the convention the election of four delegates-at-large to the national Republican convention at Kansas City was announced. Delegates announced were J. L. Higgins New Orleans, ousted chairman of the state central committee; B. V. Barranco, of Baton Rouge; Mrs James Perrin and James Lewis, Jr., of New Orleans.

SAYS G.O.P. BETRAYS RACE

Failure To Enact Anti-Lynching Law Is Scored

DEMANDS ACTION

By JAMES HOWARD

Washington, D. C., April 24—Federal prosecution of citizens and officials who have any part in lynchings is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin. Citizens would be liable to five year imprisonments and $5,000 fines for taking part in a lynching mob, and police officials who deliberately fail to take necessary precautions to prevent lynchings would be liable to twice that penalty. Communities in which lynchings occur would forfeit $10,000 for each lynching.

Fail To Keep Promise

In an interview with Mr. Berger he made the following statement:

"Four years have elapsed since the Republican Party pledged itself to the enactment 'at the earliest possible date' of a federal anti-lynching law, so that the full influence of the federal government may be wielded to exterminate this hideous crime. During those four years, 100 were killed by lawless mobs, while the Republican party, with a majority in both houses sufficient to carry policies that were beneficial to special interest groups, failed to keep its promise to outlaw lynchings.

Voters Are Betrayed

"This betrayal of those whose votes the Republican leaders obtained by making this platform pledge is an encouragement to lawless communities to continue the barbarous practice. In 1927, 16 people, entitled to the protection of our laws, were lynched, seven of them in the State of Mississippi alone, which holds the record for the year. The first duty of a government is to maintain the authority of its laws over the territory it governs. That duty our government has failed to perform.

Law Is Needed

'I hope congress will not adjourn until a genuine effort is made to enact a federal anti-lynching law. While thousands of people are being paid to spy on those of their fellow citizens who may be taking an occasional drink, and millions of dollars are being spent annually to deal with this petty lawlessness, not an effort is made to punish acts which bring injury and death to people, many of whom are innocent, and all of whom are entitled to protection under our constitution.

"It is not only the duty, but it is clearly within the power of congress to enact this legislation. In the fifth section of the 14th amendment, congress is given the power to enforce constitutional guaranties, and that power is broad enough to authorize the enactment of the bill I propose My bill is stronger than other anti-lynching bills that have been proposed. There are teeth in it. But is is not any stronger than the exigencies of the situation require or the menace which it is intended to deal with justify."

A GEORGIA MARTYR

The late L. F. Peterson, former Postmaster of Douglass, Ga., raised himself to the rank of martyr when he committed suicide after killing his assistant, J. T. Kirkland. The late Mr. Peterson was short in his accounts with the government, was removed from Office and with Atlanta penitentiary staring him in the face preferred to shuffle off his mortal coil meanwhile en route also shuffling off his assistant's coil.

Before suiciding he wrote a letter to his Congressman blaming the Republican party, it is said, for his downfall and woes. And this, of course, is sweet morsel to the Hons. Harris and George, Senators of the White people of Georgia, because Ben Davis, National Committeeman for Georgia, is colored. They say nothing about the Republican State chairman because he is white. It appears that they want the country to believe that Ben Davis is the whole Republican party of Georgia.

Every four years just preceding the presidential campaign this howl about corruption is set up with always the Negro in the foreground. No effort is ever spared by Southern Democrats in Congress to abuse, vilify and slander the Negro whether in politics or not. Their first and chief labor is to destroy the confidence and faith of their Republican colleagues in Congress and the country at large in the Negro, eliminate him completely from politics and subordinate him entirely, completely, thoroughly, without redress or the right of complaint to the will of the white man of the South.

And to this end they work energetically and without ceasing. A crooked postmaster adds murder to his theft of government money then kills himself. He leaves a letter in which it is said he blames the contributions he was "forced" to make to the Republican party for his lapses. Watering at the mouth for an opportunity to attack the Negro those pure and holy Democrats, Messrs. Harris, George and Lankford rush into print in denunciation of Ben Davis for bringing about the death of the dead embezzler. Instead of waiting to investigate and learn how much poker playing, playing the ponies, prohibition bootleg and dallying with wantons may have brought their protege to the gates of the penitentiary they bellow about corruption, etc., and threaten investigation. We vote for investigation and hope Republican Senators will have the guts to couple with the corruption charged investigation of corrupt elections made so by disfranchisement of Negroes.

Politics

Republican

Party Affiliation

THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

Palmetto Leader Columbia S.C. 2-18-28

On the 9th of February, as great a farce in the name of a State Convention was pulled off as ever occurred in this state. Negroes had better keep in mind that they cannot afford to take part in or acquiesce in unfairness. "Boss" Joe Tolbert may be able to afford it—it pays him to keep up the farce of a Republican party. But everyone with any sense knows that there is no such thing as a Republican party in this State. There is nothing but a little organization maintained on ignorance and by the unblushing use of money—in many instances just a promise of money, for he doesn't even play fair with the poor ignorant devils after they have trustingly voted as he tells them to do. Some of "Boss" Tolbert's faithful henchmen tell us that we ought not expose the system. But wy shouldn't we? Is he not debauching and degrading our people? And that too with the aid of some Negroes who care nothing for real welfare and uplift of their own people. They are only concerned with a free trip to the national convention, or perchance, the "Boss" may back them with his money in running as a delegate from a district.

But to the convention: The "Boss" had spent money right and left in an effort to get the "right" kind of delegates to the State Convention in an effort to defeat Attorney N. J. Frederick, who was running as delegate at large without the permission of the man who who has grown so great that he boasts of owning the Negroes of South Carolina, or at least the faithful ones who, every four years in particular, he gathers together and orders them what to do or who to "elect."

"Electing" a man as temporary chairman who had never attended a political convention before in his life, and perhaps ignorant of the rottenness that characterizes the policies and practises of the "Boss", the farce was on. While the carefully picked committee on credentials was pretending to hear contests, different speakers were called upon by the chairman who—sad to say—was a preacher. After calling up two ladies to speak, the convention spontaneously sent up a shout for "Frederick, Frederick." The Attorney responded with a speech, the likes of which, for plain facts and a denunciation of the rottenness that prevails as well as the bunk upon which the Negroes have been fed for all these years, had never before been heard on such an occasion. So effective was the attorney's speech that the "Boss" sent out a call for some of his faithful ones to take up the gage. An officeholder responded, white, of course. Why shouldn't he? His effort, however, was in vain. Next appeared a preacher by the name of Wm. Howard—a Negro. Yes, a Negro, trying to show that the present conditions of the Negro as a Republican is all right and the "Boss" ought be voted a medal of honor because under his reign the black Republicans in this State have descended from high and honorable position to that of spitoon cleaners or door-minders. The convention, however, was in no mood to listen to such stuff after the Attorney's plain dissection of facts and conditions and proceeded to howl the gentleman down.

The "Boss" sensing that all was not right, was scared to risk a vote and had his chairman—may we say innocent?—to declare the ticket of the "Boss" "elected." For once, the "Boss" had "the fear of God" placed in his heart. He had spent hundreds and hundreds of dollars. Attorney Frederick had spent none, but unlike other conventions, there were many men of independence and thought there, who were not interested in the same old bunk handed out year after year, nor could be swayed by the disreputable dollars of the "Boss."

Having "elected" their ticket, the independent minded delegates organized and really elected a ticket of their own, and of real colored men—not fellows who never in all these years had an independent idea in their heads. These kind of men the "Boss" has never cared for. His long suit is picking men who jump when he pulls the strings or sneeze when he takes his snuff. But the fight is on, and the Republican National Committee will have to decide the matter at Kansas City in June. The clean minded, independent Negroes mean to have decency in South Carolina or know the reason why. The time for kings and emporers have passed, and this State must be rid of such, and' by all means, free itself of the degrading and damnable practises of the worst influence that has operated among colored people since the days of the carpetbaggers and scalawags.

Mississippi Lily Whites Are Out-Maneuvered

Courier Pittsburg 2-17-28

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 9.—"Lily-white" Republicans were outmaneuvered at the meeting of the Republican State Committee of Mississippi here on February 1.

They came into the meeting with a set of demands regarding the procedure to be followed in the election of delegates to the county, district, state and national conventions. Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman for Mississippi and state chairman, who presided, without permitting the reading of these demands, referred them to a special committee. This committee reported that the demands of the "lily-white" Republicans were preposterous.

The avowed purpose of the "lily-whites" is to gain control of the Republican organization in Mississippi and exclude Negroes from participation in the councils of the party. They have secured a charter from the state. They sought recognition in Washington, but were advised that the organization of which Mr. Howard is the head, is the regular Republican party in Mississippi.

The activities of the "lily-white" Republicans have seemingly cemented all factions of the regular Republican party in Mississippi.

The latest coalition includes Dr. S. D. Redmond, Thomas J. Keys of Ocean Springs, Eugene P. Booze of Mound Bayou, W. L. Mhoon, E. L. Patton, George S. Goodman of Holly Springs, W. W. Phillips of Kosciusko, Dr. D. W. Sherrod of Meridian, T. G. Ewing of Vicksburg, Dr. R. L. Johnson, C. T. Butler of Meridian, the Rev. P. E. Frisby of Cannonsburg, W. H. Holtzclaw of Utica Institute, Dr. A. W. Dumas of Natchez and Diamond Cox.

The Republican state convention was called to meet here on March 14. The eight district conventions will meet on March 13.

Dr. Redmon, Mr. Holtclaw, Prof. Goodman, Mr. Booze and C. A. Whittington, white, of Tutwiler, were elected to fill vacancies on the state committee.

The state committee passed resolutions endorsing the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination, in the event that President Coolidge cannot be "drafted." Mr. Howard will manage the Hoover campaign in Mississippi.

IN FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT CONVENTION HELD IN CHATHAM COUNTY

Journal, Savannah, Ga. Feb. 18, 28.

A few days ago Republican politics in Chatham County and the First Congressional District look serene.

The National Committeeman came into Chatham County and the 1st Congregational District and in the most amateurish and clumsly manner stirred up discord and strife by trying to dictate who should be chairman of the county and delegates to the State Convention.

Not learning anything by the rebuke administered him by the county organization, he again attempted to dictate in his over-bearing and dictatorial manner who should be the delegate to the National Convention, and again was slapped in the face, by the district convention disregarding his command who should and who should not be elected delegate to the National Convention.

He used poor judgment, to say the least, and was badly advised whom the Republicans of Chatham County and the First Congressional District would follow.

His go-between, J. G. Lemon, was unable to muster enough following to make out a ticket to the State Convention, and had to draft several persons who were not at the County meeting, and who were not with him and had no idea of following him anywhere nor in anything. Lemon certainly made a poor showing in the County Convention where he attempted to take the organization from the regular party, altho, we are advised he had been promised to be seated by the National Committeeman and he assured those who would follow him that they would be cared for, and seated right or wrong.

Out of about three hundred persons present he could not muster a half dozen, and boost of being the only educated Negro in Chatham County, and the leader of the dum rats, failed miserably to materialize, as it should have failed.

Again the National Commtteeman awarkedly forced Prof James of Statesboro in the race for delegate to the National Convention, hoping by his prestage, as National Committeeman to be able to overawe the county delegates and by other methods, not commendable, force the election of Poor Prof., but but again his clumsy hand showed so plainly that it was a foregoing conclusion he would loose, and he did.

We would advise the National Committeeman to stay out of the affairs of the local organizations, during the election period as he did when the time came to make appointments. When the time came to make appointments, he used a go-between to turn the office over to the outsiders, and booted the regular organization out by disregarding them.

The National Committeeman made such a mess of affairs in Chatham County and the First District that we would advise him hereafter to stay at home and let Clark Grier and Joe Watson do his scouting. Had he kept out of Chatham County and the First District all would have been serene, with an endorsement of the entire administration for the past four years.

SOUTH CAROLINA POLITICS AND MINISTERS

Palmetto Leader Columbia S. C. 2-18-28

Let it be understood at the outset that we are referring to things as they are in South Carolina and nowhere else, and to Republican politics as exist today. To put it mildly, present-day politics are not good for ministers. They are demoralized thereby. Anything ministers enter into actively ought feel their uplifting influence. Their very presence ought be a guarantee that fairness, justice and decency will prevail. They certainly ought not to be a party to dirt or degrading practices, nor willingly become a beneficiary of such. The ministers as a rule are just the same as the most ungodly trickster. For some reason or other, "Boss" Tolbert's brand of politics seems to mesmerize them. And he is dumb indeed who does not know that this "Boss" has reduced to a science the controlling of his delegates by the dirty use of money or the use of money in backing certain ones whose greatest glory is being elected a delegate to some of his series of conventions and finally to a national convention. That is all Republican politics mean to Negroes in South Carolina. The "Boss" "electes" nice, docile delegates and forgets all about them until the next "electing" time. The ministers are just as anxious and eager to be "elected" as the other fellows, nor do they care how it's done. This fact was disgustingly illustrated last week and ministers were not only the beneficiaries of the debauching of the ignorant of their own people, but were parties to it. "Boss" Joe bought up some Negroes like a cattle buyer buys hogs and other animals. They were given first a big dinner and afterwards paid off in money. This occurred at the Richland county convention. Ministers allowed themselves to be placed on the "Boss'" ticket which was voted for by those poor bought devils. Ministers knew it and themselves voted that ticket solidly. They were elected and grinned all over themselves, rejoicing that they had done a good day's work. But at what a price! The degradation of their own people whom they should have been trying to uplift. And then the State Convention! But we will say no more. All who attended know what happened and how. Even a preacher there tried to uphold, defend and protect the malodercus practises of his "Boss," but the convention howled him down, remembering that he previously had blasphemously said: "Jesus Christ hadn't done more for the Negroes of South Carolina than Mr. Tolbert." And yet some people wonder why the church is losing its hold on intelligent Negroes.

PANDEMONIUM REIGNS IN G. O. P. MEET

Says Jesus Could Do No More For Negroes Than Has Nat. Committeeman

The American Baltimore, Md. 2-18-28.

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Two opposing delegations to the National Republican Convention emerged from a lively tilt between Tolbert and anti-Tolbert forces when the smoke of the battle died away in the state convention held here Thursday.

Although, as has been the case for the last 18 years, Tolbert, with his well oiled machine was about to steam roller through his state, the plans were halted when the opposition, headed by N. J. Frederick, nearly gained control.

Frederick Bolts

Frederick, who has been popular since his conduct of the Aiken cases, got the floor shortly before the election of National Convention delegates, and seeing the trend of affairsthe Rev. J. C. White, Tolbert ad-herent, and pastor of the Zion Baptist Church here, attempted to put the slate over. There was confusion and in the wild pandemonium, two delegations were named and claimed by both sides to have been elected.

The Tolbert delegation wts J. W. Tolbert, S. L. Lepart, J. E. Dixon and J. H. Goodwin. The Frederick forces named Dr. W. M. Porter, Dr. Wilson of Florence, E. R. Riley andW. C. Johnson.

Contest

A contest is expected before the credentials committee of the National Convention.

The Rev. Wm. Howard, Columbia minister, is said to have declared during one of the sessions, that Jesus Christ Himself could not do any more for the Negroes in South Carolina than has Tolbert.

Cohen Credentials First Received

Courier 2-11-28

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9. —The credentials of the first delegate elected to the Republican national convention, which will be held in Kansas City, Mo., June 12, were received at the offices of the Republican national committee here last Friday. They are for Walter L. Cohen, comptroller of customs at New Orleans, La.

Cohen was elected to rep- the first congressional dis- of Louisiana.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

THAT STATE CONVENTION

Palmetto Leader

Columbia S.C.

2-18-28.

Any one conversant with Republican politics as it is played in South Carolina if called upon to write up a state convention could have written several weeks ago what would happen at the meeting of the State Convention which convened in the State's capital, Thursday, Febraury 9th and had same sterotyped and ready for press the next morning and would not have missed any of the doings of the convention so far as the electing of the delegates, because Boss Tolbert had been over the State and had given orders to his appointed County chairmen as to what to do in their County Conventions and who to allow to be elected to come to the State Convention, and those elected were to be ordered to vote for a set of men designated by Boss Tolbert and all of these orders were carried out to the very letter as far as humanely possible by all the County Chairmen and the convention would have rolled off as forecasted by any well versed politician who happens to live in South Carolina, had Boss Tolbert not made the ONE mistake of borrowing a corrupt preacher from among the ranks of the Baptist preachers of the State to preside as Temporary Chairman of the convention assembled. Everything went along as planned. The convention was called to order by Boss Tolbert. Dr. H. C. Hardy, of Spartanburg, was called to the platform to lead a song; after which prayer was offered . Boss Tolbert made his usual howl about his loyalty to the party and called upon everybody to support his administration, had a roll call and ordered the convention to accept Rev. J. C. White pastor of the Zion Baptist Church, as their chairman for the day and Rev. White got up and made a nice little talk about what he was going to do along the line of giving every delegate in the hall a fair show; after which he pulled a tablet out of his pocket on which was written his orders. He appointed a committee on Credentials and while the committee was in the anti-room laughing up their sleeves at the hypocrisy of the whole thing, the convention delegates were being entertained by talks from various ones. Mrs. Rebecca Walton, Dr. M. A. Evans spoke; after which the delegates called for Lawyer N. J. Frederick and Boss Tolbert being in the anti-room and not out on the platform to coach Rev. White, Rev. White made the mistake of hearing the call o fthe people and allowed Lawyer Frederick to come upon the platform to speak. When Lawyer Frederick finished speaking, it was clearly evident that the convention was not at all for Tolbert and S. O. S. was sent to Boss Tolbert and he designated the henchman, Rev. William Howard of ("Jesus Christ himself could not do any more for South Carolina niggers than has Mr. Tolbert") fame brought about by making a discredit of Christ ability in his trying to picture Boss Tolbert on the convention floor, and another man whose name I do not recall just at present, but who is the postmaster at Georgetown, be called to answer Frederick. They met howls and cat calls from the delegation and pandomian reigned for more than half an hour, when L. A. Hawkins went up and prevailed with the chairman to give Frederick a 5 minutes rebuttal to whatever might be said and an agreement was reached and the two henchmen spoke. They said something but it evidently made no impression for the delegates were not in favor of whatever it was they wanted them to accept. When they sat down Frederick came back to the platform, but the Credential Committee and its cue and came in to report and Frederick at the sound of the gavel from Chairman White had to step down. The Credential Committee's report being adopted, the way was cleared for the electing of delegates to the National Republican Convention. Louis Waller, of Greenwood, got the floor and made a motion that we suspend the rules of the convention and elect J. W. Tolbert, S. L. Leapart, J. E. Dixon and J. H. Goodwin as delegates to the National Convention. The motion was seconded and the chairman, after stating the motion asked for objections. Delegates from all parts of the convention hall rose to offer their objection but the Tolbert steam roller had been ordered into action. Amid crys of not ready and I object, Chairman White was heard to exclaim "the 'ye's' have it and the ticket stands elected." The convention immediately went to pieces. Chairman White must have frightened himself, not having the pleasure of driving Boss Tolbert's steam roller before, for he immediately left the chair and went back stage as soon as he could disentangle himself from those who tried to prevail with him to come back and give them a fair deal as he so said he would do. The act came so unexpectedly until quite a few of the delegates could not just exatcly understand what had happened, until Delegate L. A. Hawkins came upon the platform and rapped for order. When order was obtained Hawkins stated that what had been done was all illegal and suggested that the convention proceed to elect a ticket, he being elected chairman and Dr. Wilson, secretary. After some discussion among the delegates W. M. Porter of Spartanburg, Dr. Wilson of Florence, E. R. Riley of Gaffney and L. A. Hawkins of Columbia were offered to the convention and upon motion they were elected as the delegates to the National Convention. Four alternates were also elected; after which a motion was made to adjourn the convention, and thus the curtain fell on the 1928 State Convention of the Republican party of South Carolina.

For the last sixteen years the people of this state, both white and colored, have been trying to rid themselves of the Tolbert rule. Many ways have been tried but the steam roller has managed to crush out every effort before it could materialize, but viewing the convention and the high handed act of the Temporary Chairman, we see a glorius opportunity open for the elimination of Boss Tolbert for all time. The Tolbert ticket is clearly illegal and if Rev. J. C White has in mind of ever doing something for his people and the party in partilcular the time is now. Rev. White holds the future Tolbert rule in the hollow of his hand. He has but to admit that he erred and the Tolbert ticket will be thrown out by the National Committee and with it will go J. W. Tolbert, National Committeeman. Rev. White can redeem his mistake and become famous. His name is in line for the historian of fame or shame. Will he make himself a name by giving the people back what he robbed them of or will he hang his head in shame for robbing the people for whatever it was Tolbert gave him?

W. M. P.

HOWARD, REPUBLICAN COMMITTEEMAN, PROTECTED BY THE COURT

Reporter

2-22-28

MERIDIAN, Miss., Feb. 20.—E. E. Roberts, secretary of the Republican group headed by Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman, declared in a statement here today that opposition to the party affairs in Mississippi under Mr. Howard was inconsistent, and speaking of the attempt made by the faction known as the Republican Council in Mississippi, Mr. Roberts is quoted as saying, "Just how an incorporated party would work and just who would have the rights in such a party I am unable to say."

Birmingham News

The word council was added to the name of the party headed by the former Governor George L. Sheldon of Nebraska, now a Mississippi planter. The charter was refused by the court and Mr. Perry W. Howard is still in charge of affairs in Mississippi, notwithstanding the pie counter hunters and rate haters continue to disurb and make trouble.

AN INSULT AND CHALLENGE TO NEGROES

Negro Republicans received quite a jolt this week when it was learned that the head of the Republican party in the State had branded Negro policemen as inefficient. Argus

This statement from Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican National Committeeman, was in answer to a letter written by Attorney John A. Davis, in which he cited the refusal of the local police board to employ Negroes as police officers as one of the reasons why Negroes were seeking alignment with Democrats.

The statement regarding Negroes as policemen coming from the head of the Repubican party in the State is very significant. It comes both as an insult and a challenge. The sweeping charge that Negroes as policemen are not efficient, is not only an insult, but libels the Negro Race. It also shows the attitude of the Republican party in the State toward the Negroes and challenges him and says; "what are you going to do about it?" 3-24-28 St. Louis Mo

Dr. Clements' statement shows the question of Negro police has been discussed with him as the head of his party in the State, and that a very definite conclusion has been reached among the party leaders; and we all know the results. The present police board has not added a single Negro to the force in St. Louis. There is a reason for this indictment against the Negroes by the Republican leaders of the State. Dr. Clements, Governor Baker, Mayor Miller, Collector Koeln, ex-Mayor Kiel, Henry Kortjohn, Arthur Freund, Allen Orrick, Oliver T. Remmers, nor any of the rest of the party leaders would DARE say that the Irish, Jews, Germans, Italians or what not were unfit for police duty. But, they all figure that the Negro is incapable of being insulted. They figure that the Negro belongs to the G. O. P. regardless of the treatment received at the hands of the party leaders, and the sad part about it is, some of the Negroes themselves haven't sense enough to know when they are really insulted.

Of course, Dr. Clements does not know what he is talking about. He has been "fed up" on that stuff by propaganda coming from the local police board. The truth of the matter is, Negroes make just as good officers as the whites, when the test is made on the square. The present police board is prejudiced against the Negroes of the city generally, hence it is they, themselves, who are insufficient and unfit for public office.

The statement by Dr. Clements is a reckless disregard for the truth. We are satisfied that he has not made an honest effort to ascertain the facts in the matter. We challenge him to prove his assertion, and if he refuses to accept this challenge, then let him acknowledge that he was honestly mistaken as to facts.

So far as we are concerned in this matter, we are willing to find colored men in the City of St. Louis from 200 to 500 in number and match them against a like number of whites and require them to go through any test physically or mentally in a fair or even reasonablly fair competition for police jobs, and let them stand or fall on their merits.

We make this confession of faith in the Negro because we know something about his history in this country. We know he has never been found wanting when given a man's chance, whether in war or whether in peace.

Of course, we cannot change our color. If the question of color is to enter the equation, then we will say it is chargeable only to Him who has of one blood created all men to dwell on this earth together, and He has fashioned them according to His own will.

TINKHAM OPENS FIGHT TO END DISFRANCHISEMENT OF NEGRO

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(By A. N. P.)—Southern legislators wh odefend the disfranchisement of the Negro and the nullification of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the federal constitution were severely arraigned Tuesday in the House of Representatives by Congressman George Holden Tinkham, Republican of Massachusetts, in a highly documented ninety-minute speech in support of a resolution he has already introduced to force the Congress to reapportion southern representation according to voters, as required by the Fourteenth Amendment. Reporter

Mr. Tinkham's speech was deliberately prepared as an objection to speeches made earlier in this session of Congress by Southern men, notably Senator Carter Glass and Claude Swanson of Virginia, who had sought to maintain that the South was legally and morally justified in perfecting "ingenious devices" with which to deprive and cheat the Negro of his vote. 3-10-28

The South's argument is to the effect that the Fifteenth Amendment prohibits the denial of suffrage on grounds of race, color or creed, but does not mention other grounds which the South employs. Mr. Tinkham holds, however, that it was the intent of the makers of the amendment to safeguard the Negro's suffrage by providing for the restriction of representation whenever the suffrage right was abridged. Birmingham, Ala.

It has been significant that during all the exchanges regarding Negro suffrage, Southern senators and representatives have defended their course with much more warmth and support than Northern senators and representatives have shown in defense of the constitution. During Representative Tinkham's long and important speech, a speech dealing with issues fundamental to our system of government, Republican and Democratic members of the House left the chamber until Congressman Blanton of Texas was forced to call the attention of the speaker to the fact that there was much less than a quorum present. Objecting to Tinkham's speech, Blanton said:

"There are only about twenty-five Republicans and about twenty-five Democrats here, but if the gentleman from Massachusetts does not care whether anybody hears him or not, he can go on so far as I'm concerned."

Immediately following his address, Tinkham was attacked by Tillman of Arkansas, who boasted that this is a white man's countrq, that he is for white dominance, and who asked Tinkham from what race or people he had ascended or descended.

Prominent Southerners who have said much about the enforcement of the Prohibition Amendment were taken to task by Tinkham. One of these is William Gibbs McAdoo, described by Tinkham as a "conspicuous sympathizer with the nullification of the Fourteenth, Fifteenth, and Nineteenth Amendments."

"It is the height of hypocrisy, mendacity, and fraud to assert that the failure to pass legislation to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment nullifies the constitution unless it is admitted that failure to pass legislation to enforce the Fourteenth, the Fifteenth Amendments nullifies the constitution," Tinkham asserted.

He concluded his speech with the following paragraphs:

"The theory of our government is that of a union of equal states, the essence of which is that all the states shall have equal political power and that the vote of a citizen of the United States in one state shall be the equal of the vote of a citizen of the United States in any other state. Disfranchisement in the southern states impairs the political rights of every other state and of every voter in every other state. The question has become a question of the equality of white men. Shall the state possess equal political power, or shall one-fourth of the state possess double the political power possessed by the remaining states? Shall all white persons possess equal political power, or shall each white person in the disfranchising states possess double the political power possessed by each white person in the remaining states? This is the concern of everv white citizen who wishes to preserve and defend his own political rights.

"There can be no more deadly assassination of the principles that our Union is a union of equal states and that all American citizens are entitled to the same privileges and immunities and are equal than the fact that in certain states of the Union one vote is equivalent to one and one-third votes or one and one-half votes in other states, made so in part by craftily drawn legislative enactments, partisan administration of election laws, and by fraud, in violation of constitutional mandatory requirements that representation shall be reduced where disfranchisement exists.

"At this moment United States Marines are in Nicaragua, it is said authoritatively, (to guarantee constitutional and fair elections). What can the government who sent the marines to Nicaragua 'to guarantee constitutional and fair elections' there make to the demand that the Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth Amendments of our constitution be enforced here by federal statutes?

"The Congress of the United States has no moral right to ask the citizens of the United States to obey laws which it enacts when it has refused to obey the plain commands of the constitution in relation to its own elections and the election of the president. For America to pose before the world as dictator of international morality and sponsor of international ethics with her national representatives elected in flagrant and defiant violation of her constitution is the height of national hypocrisy.

"Honest and constitutional government does not today exist in the United States with the nullification of the Fourteenth, Fifteenth, and the Nineteenth Amendments."

In part response to Tinkham, Congressman Tillman, Democrat of Arkansas, said:

"Going back a little, white men, let me tell you something. Do you know that in all the world there are 31,000,000 square miles of land controlled by colored people. Now get this: There is only 22,000,000 square miles of land controlled by white people. Do you know that in the world there are 1,700,000,000 human beings, and 500,000.000 only are white, and 1,150,000,000 are colored.

"The last war was a white man's war, and 10,000,000 of the bravest and best men of the country who were white were killed. The white people are not increasing rapidly like the colored people. They have smaller families; and I can see the time when a rising tide of color may submerge the proud white man; and yet everything under God's sun, practically, that is worth a 'continental,' can be traced to the intelligence, activity, and morality of the white man."

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

Republican

HOOVER AND THE "RACE QUESTION"

Some of the white daily newspapers of the South, and particularly one local daily, seem to be greatly perturbed and excited with the order recently issued by Secretary of Commerce Herbert C. Hoover abolishing racial segregation in his department at Washington, D. C.

Raising their customary howl and waving the incendiary flag of "social equality," these Nordic editors are running true to bourbon form in their editorial tirades upon and bitter invectives against Mr. Hoover; contending that he has established "social equality" in his department at the national capital, and that his nomination and election to the presidency will endanger "white supremacy," and enthrone "social equality" between the colored and white races, resulting in interracial rancor, domestic disorders and internecine strife.

Mr. Hoover is one of the most outstanding advocates of efficiency, and this recent order of his, which abolished the segregation of colored employees in his department (a practice he inherited from a preceding administration), was issued to insure and assure a larger degree of efficiency and proficiency in his department, and not to force members of the two races together along social lines.

There can be very little sociability or fraternizing among employees if they give their employer an honest day's labor!

Mr. Hoover's attention was called to the fact that many colored employees, who were under the civil service rules and were getting salaries for a higher grade of work, were segregated and forced to do work below their classification, in order to keep all colored employees segregated in certain sections of the department.

When Mr. Hoover discovered that colored civil service employees drawing $2400 per annum, were assigned to $1800 per annum posts merely in order to segregate said colored employees, he readily recognized the fact that the government could not afford to pay such salaries to employees for a higher type of work and then these same employees, merely because of racial prejudice be shunted off in some corner of the building and made to do work below their civil service classification and salary scale.

In abolishing racial segregation from his department, Mr. Hoover has simply done his duty as any other patriotic American ought to do under similar circumstances (Dr. Hubert Work has also issued a similar order in his department—interior), and the question or issue of "social equality" is not only far-fetched, but it is in reality begging the question and trying to make a mountain out of a mole-hill, a game at which some of these Southern white editors are quite adept.

Whenever some black man is given a post or portfolio which brings him in contact with whites, some of these Dixie alarmists become unduly excited and begin to visualize the black menace gripping, enveloping and subduing the nation and relegating "white supremacy" to the archives of antiquity.

Under Democratic governors in several Northern states, Negroes hold important posts, work besides white men and women, and little is ever heard from such sections regarding the bugaboo of "social equality."

During the two national administrations of President Grover Cleveland a Negro served as registrar of the United States treasury, with quite a number of white employees connected with said department; and even the late President Wilson, when first elected to office, tendered this same position to an Oklahoma black Democrat, who declined to accept the post.

Tammany Hall, chief backer of Governor Alfred E. Smith for the Democratic presidential nomination, has several Negroes occupying official positions in the same rooms with whites in New York City, and these Southern newspapers are not showing any alarm at this situation.

In fact, New York City has a strong and powerful colored Democratic organization, and the issue of "social equality" is never raised when it comes to distributing some of the pie to the "faithful" ebony-hued Democrats.

If Negroes and whites, working side by side, are placed in the category of being "social equals," then numerous Southern plants and industries are guilty of instituting and maintaining a policy of "social equality" between the white and colored races.

For the lack of a better term, so many white Southerners confuse "social intermingling" with "social equality," neither of which can be regulated by law, custom or force; for no edict, power or statute can compel persons to be social equals who are not favorable to or inlined along such lines.

These belated attacks upon Mr. Hoover by these Dixie newspapers will have no appreciable effect upon his candidacy, and The Informer is of the opinion that they could serve their Democratic party in the South to far better advantage, if they would keep their editorial eyes on Tammany Hall and the "sidewalks of New York!"

Just to refresh some of these Southern white editors' minds on the origin, history and tradition of the national Republican party, perhaps it will not be amiss to remind them that Mr. Hoover's party sprang into existence principally on the issue of human rights, liberty and freedom, with the enslaved Negro as the fundamental cause for the birth of this new political party; and from 1860 until 1928 the Republican party has not only been the Negro's bulwark of safety, but this same party has been instrumental in upholding, safeguarding and maintaining American ideals and institutions.

In fact, it has been the only political party in the country big enough, courageous enough and democratic enough to occupy such high ground, and all the howlings, rantings and cavortings of a coterie of Dixie editors can not sway Mr. Hoover from his course of holden duty, nor destroy the faith and confidence the rank and file of Americans have in the party of Lincoln, Grant, Roosevelt, Coolidge and Hoover!

COHEN SEATED AS DELEGATE AT CONVENTION

However His Faction Is Defeated By Emil Kuntz, Hoover Supporter

DAVIS AND PERRY HOWARD ALSO SEATED

Howard Delegation Instructed For Hoover, Wins Decision

Kansas City, Mo.—Walter L. Cohen, Comptroller of Customs at New Orleans, was seated Thursday by the Republican National Committee as a delegate from the First District of his State, but his action was defeated by Emil Kuntz, white, National Committeeman and supporter of Herbert Hoover.

The Louisianans were seated after a fight that continued until a late hour and then, with little or no debate all interests united to seat the Perry Howard delegation from Mississippi. Both the Mississippi delegations were pledged to Hoover and the question was merely one of allowing the Hoover members of the National Committee to decide which group they wanted.

The Hoover leaders decided to seat the Howard group from Mississippi and carried their decision through with dispatch.

Delegations led by Ben Davis, National Committeeman from Georgia, and Perry Howard, Committeeman from Mississippi were seated.

One of the results of the committee votes taken was to keep Perry Howard in the saddle in Mississippi. A contesting delegation sought to keep Howard and his group of delegates out of the convention, but Howard, whose delegation is instructed for Hoover, got the decision by acclamation.

The Hoover pre-convention strength is now assured through the action of the national committee in seating practically the whole of the Hoover Southern delegates during the three days' hearings which ended late today.

These delegates include nine from Florida, two from Kentucky, eleven from Louisiana, twelve from Mississippi, two from Tennessee and twenty-six from Texas. An anti-Hoover delgate, Walter Cohen, of Louisiana, was seated, as were three from Georgia who are pledged first to Coolidge and then to Hoover. Four Lowden delegates from South Carolina went through by default when the contest was withdrawn. Both groups of contestants from Porto Rico were unpledged.

Before preceeding with the Texas contest the committee heard the contest in the tenth, or Memphis district of Tennessee. The committee without a roll call, voted to seat R. R. Church, Republican leader, of West Tennessee.

Hoover Seeking Unity At Kansas City

Secretary Of Commerce Continues To Increase Delegate Slate

Enthusiasm Strong

Entire Texas Delegation Is Seated

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—(AP)—The entire Texas delegation of 26 instructed for Secretary of Commerce Hoover was seated today by the Republican national committee.

In addition, the commerce secretary picked up three certain votes from Tennessee when a contest in the Third District was withdrawn and a delegate committed to Hoover was seated from the Tenth District.

The Texas result brought the total number of votes placed in the Hoover column by decisions on contests up to 62. The only other presidential candidates to gain at all was Frank O. Lowden, who was assured the support of the four delegates at large from South Carolina by the withdrawal of a contest.

Nearing the end of the hearings, the committee early tonight seated two uninstructed delegates from Porto Rico—Harry F. Bezosa and Germanica S. Belabal.

The seats had been contested but those who had challenged their credentials failed to press their case.

NEGRO DELEGATE SEATED.

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover's presidential stock was given another boost today when decisions of the Republican national committee placed another batch of contested delegates definitely in his column.

Without the formality of a roll call the committee recognized the credentials of four delegates-at-large from Texas, instructed for the commerce secretary. It also placed on the temporary convention roll a negro delegate whose selection had been challenged. He also is a Hoover supporter.

Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, benefited when withdrawal of a contest against the South Carolina "big four," which is credited to him, was ratified. The motion to do so was offered by a Hoover booster.

The Tennessee Hoover delegate seated was "Bob" Church, a Memphis negro whose right to sit in the convention had been challenged by Jim Quinn, also of Memphis. Counsel for Quinn accused Church of trafficking in Federal patronage and of violating an agreement to divide Republican political power in the Memphis district. Church's counsel insisted that he had been selected a delegate in an orderly way and was entitled to a seat.

The South Carolina delegation at large which was recognized today is headed by "Joe" Tolbert, national committeeman and supporter of Lowden.

ENTHUSIASM RUNS STRONG.

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—(AP)—Enthusiasm for Herbert Hoover ran strong today as opposition in the Republican national committee continued to be upset and more Hoover delegates were placed on the temporary roll of the national convention.

The group opposing Hoover's nomination, having as its backbone the formidable block of delegates pledged to Lowden, still held the hope it could stop the cabinet member but his own supporters, pointing to the continued favorable trend in delegate contest hearings actually began to talk of a nomination on the first ballot.

With the opening of the convention less than a week away, the one big enigma about which revolved a perfect swarm of uncertainties was the "draft Coolidge" movement. It was conceded freely that if the president should take some step to dissuade those who persist in their intention of voting for him, Hoover would be a heavy gainer and measurably nearer the nomination on the first roll call.

For Hoover Second.

In several states, delegations are more or less committed to Coolidge if he will run and then to Hoover if they become convinced that the president intends to leave the White House. Unless some definite disclaimer comes from Mr. Coolidge, there will be a large block of votes for him on the first ballot.

Evidence that the Lowden group intends to press the candidacy of the former Illinois governor with vigor was seen in the new plans laid at his headquarters to bring his availability to the attention of the delegates. More rooms were provided in the Baltimore Hotel and his managers set about having everything ready for Lowden himself to take charge when he reaches Kansas City.

Along with the increasing confidence in the Hoover camp, delegates found interest in speculating on the outcome of the "farmers' revolt" which has been heralded by some agricultural leaders. A breaking down of some of the early enthusiasm for a monster demonstration was noted in the convention city but a number of farm relief advocates already on the ground pointed out that the bulk of the corn belt leaders are still to come to Kansas City.

Apparently the advance notices from several Middle Western centers of a pilgrimage involving thousands of farmers have disconcerted some of those who are expected to lead the demands for farm relief along the lines of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill. While declining to be brought openly into dispute with some of their workers who insisted such a pilgrimage would eventuate, a number of corn belt delegates frankly contended that a demonstration of usual size was impossible.

Watson Rather Weak

The point was made that Senator Watson, of Indiana, was able to get only one-third of the farmers of his state to the polls in his fight with Hoover, in spite of the fact that he emphasized strongly that the real issue at stake was farm relief of the McNary-Haugen variety. Some observers held that inasmuch as the planting season has started the possibility of many farmers leaving their homes has become even more remote.

Among the group which is working unceasingly to block the nomination of Secretary Hoover there was presented occasionally the name of Curtis, of Kansas, who was regarded as offering a way out of a deadlock in the event neither Hoover nor Lowden could be put over. The Kansas senator has not yet reached the convention city and his campaign on the ground is therefore awaiting its big impetus.

Whatever the speculations at this stage of the perliminaries concern themselves with, in the background is the realization that the final alignments among delegates may yet be in the making. A number of prominent party leaders still are to come, including Secretary Mellon, who will have a lot to say on what the big Pennsylvania delegation does, and various senators who frequently take a hand in the final selection of a nominee.

HOOVER GROUP SEATS THE LILY WHITES AT K. C.

Florida And Louisiana Race Delegates Are Thrown Out

PERRY HOWARD IS REPORTED IN DEAL

Mississippi Delegation Proxies Voted To Oust Cohen Group

KANSAS CITY, MO., (By Carl Murphy)—With the Hoover machine dominating, The Credentials Committee of the National Republican Convention seated the lily white delegations from Florida and Louisiana, here Tuesday.

Contest hearings were heard before the entire G. O. P. National committee seated significantly in Aarat Temple which is the Hoover headquarters.

McGill Loses

The Florida delegation headed by S. D. McGill who claimed that his opponents held the convention in a hotel which excluded Negroes, was defeated. McGill claimed that the opposing delegation was lily-white but this was denied, the opposition point out John Scott as a colored member of their delegation. They clinched their case by having McGill admit that he and others attended the convention and only bolted when they found themselves out-voted. The vote against McGill and his delegation was 51 to 33.

Walter Cohen Seated

Walter L. Cohen argued his own case against Louisiana lily-whites. The committee was in an uproar when Cohen, arising to shed his rain coat found himself in his suspenders. In his hurry to reach the committee room he had forgotten to don his top coat.

His eloquent appeal to seat his life long Republican delegation over Emile Kuntz's lily-whites, many of whom were Democrats up to this year, was applauded.

Mrs. Jane Perry, white, pleaded with the committee to seat the Cohen delegation, declaring that Cohen had made it possible for white women to participate in politics in that State.

Cohen, himself, was voted a seat, but the Hoover steam roller crushed all members of the Cohen faction except J. H. Lowery by a 53 to 45 vote.

Cohen admitted that his delegation represented the minority but he declared that the majority called the convention in Alexandria, a town where Negroes are not welcome and where two olored men were lynched last week because their brother shot the sheriff.

It was not a question of white leadership, said Cohen. Kuntz, his wife and son, are all white, while Cohen is half white.

Perry W. Howard, Benjamin Davis, Mrs. Mary Booze and Mrs. George Williams under reported agreement with Hoover forces absented themselves and their proxies voted against Cohen. The same line-up is expected to operate against Bob Church when the Tennessee contest is held.

Perry Howard Seated

Perry W. Howard and his delegation from Mississippi was seated by the committee. The report is that in return for his action in the Cohen and Church cases, his delegation and the Davis-Georgia delegation will be recognized by the Hoover machine.

The last contest to be held is the District of Columbia. Aaron Bradshaw, white, and Aaron Prioleau, Lowden delegates, will probably lose to Lincoln Townsend and John Hawkins, Hooverites. Hoover's three high-powered lawyers, including ex-Senator Irvine Lenroot, who voted against Cohen and McGill, were absent when the Howard delegation was seated.

Howard and S. D. Redmond in brilliant attacks stamped opponents as Democrats and soreheads.

Church Wins

With Hoover attorneys arguing his case, R. R. Church was seated as Tennessee delegate by acclamation.

Recalling that Perry Howard and Benjamin Davis received $2,000 each to handle Hoover campaign in their states ex-Representative Hary Wurzbach challenged their right to sit on National Commitee and vote on contests brought by non-Hooverites.

Tolbert Delegation

The South Carolina faction, headed by National Committeeman Tolbert, white, was seated over L. A. Hawkins, by agreement. The Tolbert delegates were: Samuel Lephart, Leslie Dixon, John Goodwin. Alternates were: L. C. Walters, Fred Redfern, Ben Madden and Edwin Sawyer.

Davis Contest Settled

Ben Davis' Georgia delegation settled their contest without a hearing.

R. B. Creager delegation, from Texas, which opposed Representatives Wurzbach, the only Republican Texas Congressman, was seated with only one vote opposing.

The Florida contest is expected to reach the floor of the State Convention

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

An Issue and Political Expediency

By KELLY MILLER

THE National Republican Convention has engaged to bind the Grand Old Party to the unequivocal enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. Borah and Butler met. The exponents of the drys and the wets locked horns. Borah won before the Republican Convention, as he did last year in public debate. The Eighteenth Amendment involves a double moral issue.

The very nature and essence of prohibition is moral. In all of the ages of history strong drink has been looked upon as an evil; temperance has been regarded as a virtue. A firm and determined espousal of the cause of temperance constitutes the only great moral commitment of the Republican Party since its original adoption of the cause of human freedom and manhood rights.

The Eighteenth Amendment at this time focuses the issue of the integrity and inviolability of the Constitution and the law. No party can hope to bid for public favor and openly advocate the annulment of organic law. I expect to see the Democratic Convention at Houston endeavor to outdo its Republican rival in avowing allegiance to the Constitution. It is a safe bet that Smith will outdo Hoover in lip homage to this great instrument. But party platforms are designed to attract voters, rather than to express sincere conviction.

The regret is great that the Grand Old Party did not choose to be as specific in its avowal to enforce the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments as the Eighteenth. Herein lies a moral inconsistency. We gather from press reports that the Negro contingency of the convention, some fifty strong, fought manfully for the inclusion of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, along with the Eighteenth, in the specific declaration. In this they were defeated. Their attitude must be applauded in general terms.

— Kelly Miller —

However, I have not learned of a single Negro participant, either at the convention or in the preliminary campaign, who openly and avowedly advocated prohibition on basic principle, with the single exception of the national committeeman from Georgia. Their tactics were rather vindictive and retaliatory.

They declared to the managers of the party: "If you insist on enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment, then we will also insist in the enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments." The moral force of their contention was immeasurably weakened, because they failed to uphold prohibition for its own essential merit. It is a much greater virtue to uphold law as law rather than to select designated portions of the law promotive of peculiar interest of the race for emphatic advocacy.

The Republican Party and its candidate have been firmly committed to the Eighteenth Amendment. They are also committed, in general terms, to the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. Let the Negro enter the campaign with unreserved devotion to the cause of prohibition, with the kind of zeal and ardor that the true reformer would exhibit, if all the rest of the Constitution were fully enforced.

As I said in a previous release, I have little hope that the enforcement of the Civil War Amendments will be brought about by direct action. There is nothing in the present temper and purpose of the American people to justify such optimism. They rather, the American people, are disposed to persuade themselves to say, with Senator Borah, that these amendments are not being disobeyed, at least in the letter. Even the Southern people will sooner or later forget to remember the alleged horrors of reconstruction and the fancied dread of Negro domination. But more than all, deep-seated and far-reaching political, industrial and social forces are steadily making for the observance of political equality.

The enfranchisement of women, the shift of Negro population to the free States of the North, the lessening of racial pressure on the Southern area, the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, all tend towards this grand consummation devoutly to be wished.

I believe that the election of Mr. Hoover will contribute powerfully in the right direction. It is too much to hope that he will stress with equal emphasis all three of these amendments. The Republican platform on which he stands does not do so.

We face the coming campaign with eyes wide open. The chief proposition, as far as we are concerned, is the Eighteenth Amendment, with the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments as corollaries. We would, if we could, reverse the order and make the corollaries the leading proposition.

REPUBLICAN
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

JUN 30 1928

NEGRO AT KANSAS CITY

Prof Miller Notes Decline of Political Influence of His Race

To the Editor of The Republican:—

There were 50 Negro delegates and 10 alternates at the recent Republican convention. A goodly proportion came from northern districts. Their interests were mainly segregated and racial. The dominant issues of prohibition and farm relief did not arouse their emotions, nor stir their enthusiasm. After the manner of the southern plan, the Negro representatives were shut into themselves by domiciliary segregation. The great Methodist Episcopal conference had met in the same city several weeks previous. The colored contingency was similarly disposed of. Neither politics nor religion runs as deep as the color line.

The Negro is learning painfully the purpose of the Nordic to set a social separatrix which shall operate as effectively as the decimal point in arithmetic. The basic question is, what power has he to alter or affect that purpose? It operates with baleful effectiveness alike in education, religion, politics and social procedure. All of our bombardment does not seem to budge it.

The Negro delegates did not seem to figure in any effective way in the general procedure of the convention. In the main, they were lined up on the winning side long in advance. The Afro-American has an instinct for picking the winner and getting on the band wagon. The Negro contingent held its own racial caucus. It constituted only 5 per cent of the enrolment of the convention. The chief concern of the colored political leaders was to secure the insertion of a plank insisting upon the enforcement of the 14th and 15th amendments. The colored troops fought nobly, but to no avail. They were not even able to have these amendments bracketed with the 18th, whose enforcement was specially stressed as a party policy.

But, true to the verbal traditions of the party, some slight reference must needs be made to the Negro and his claims. Cerberus must have his sop. The insertion of the splinter of a plank on lynching was only a complimentary gesture. It serves to remind the race that the Grand Old Party has not altogether forgotten the black ally who was formerly held in such high regard and esteem. The insertion will not be without indirect benefit. It serves to keep fresh in the mind of the American people the enormity of the evil of lynching. I do not believe that a single Negro will be deceived thereby. It will certainly not be stressed as a campaign issue.

A colored delegate was assigned t make one of the four or five minut addresses seconding the nominatio of Secretary Hoover. This he di creditably. I believe that this is th only instance where a Negro func tioned conspicuously in the proceed ings. The race undoubtedly impress ed less influence upon the Kansa City convention than upon any lik session since enfranchisement. We can hardly believe that in 1884 John R. Lynch was chosen temporary chairman. As late as 1912, the late Henry Lincoln Johnson held the fate of the convention in the hollow of his hand. It was the emphatic and unswerving attitude of this bold black leader that determined the issue between Roosevelt and Taft, which put the Grand Old Party out of luck for the ensuing eight years. What a swift descent from the political hights of those days to the low level of this day!

But there is a darker semblance yet. The Negro was all but eliminated as a dominant force in any of the states. Throughout the South the lily whites are in the ascendency. The Negro politician has given up the ghost, without expectation, if not without hope, of resurrection.

The race owes President Harding an unrecognized political debt of gratitude. All had once before been lost to the Negro. When Judson Lyon was thrown off the national committee by Lincoln Johnson, there was not a single Negro representative left in that august body. Lincoln Johnson fought his way to chieftainship. But when President Harding seized the reins of power, he decided to turn over to Negro control the states of Mississippi and Louisiana. The national committeeship in that state belonged to Cohen, who by abnegation gave it to the very white man who has brought about his unhorsing. Such is political gratitude. But the outstanding fact remains, the Negro has been practically eliminated from trusteeship of the Grand Old Party. He is now holding on only by a tenuous thread which the scissors of political fate are ready to clip.

We face the coming struggle with eyes open. There must be devised an entirely new set of reasons and arguments for racial support of Hoover and the Grand Old Party. Appeal to Lincoln and Sumner and Grant will not sway Negro votes as it did aforetime. Extravagant prophecy of what the new administration is going to do for the Negro has been done to death in previous campaigns and said disillusionment. Only the simple will bite at that bait. Denunciation of the Democrats and dread of southern fire eaters, if Smith succeeds, will no longer frighten the simple. The southern fire eaters eat as much fire under Republican as under Democratic national authority.

There are sufficient sound reasons and good sense why the Negro should in this campaign prefer the Republican to the Democratic party, why Hoover should be chosen rather than Smith. But the Negro spellbinder must learn new speech. The one that he has used for the past 40 years has lost its spell and potency.

KELLY MILLER.

Washington, D. C., June 21, 1928.

KANSAS CITY CONVENTION IS DEPLORED

Called Least Productive Gathering Of Party In Its History

BY SIDNEY GRAHAM

The 1928 national confab of the Grand old Republican party in Kansas City, Mo, last week, was not particularly replete with thrills and surprises. It was more or less cut-and-dried affair with the results tallying fairly well with advance notions and expectations. The usual excitement of picking the presidential candidate was over before it started. Opposition to Hoover was weak and scattered from the start, and was completely demoralized by the sudden withdrawal of Ex-governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who quit the race when the platform seemed not to make adequate provision for the farmers. The platform, too, was drawn up without a great deal of excitement. Most of the planks were abstract and wordy, and with the exception of those dealing with agricultural and prohibition questions, none of them occasioned a great deal of debate. All in all, the convention was run through in a hurry and the delegates were making reservations for their homeward trips almost before they had unpacked their suitcases.

Black Man Ignored

One principal thing for which the 1928 convention of the Republican party will be remembered, however, is the manner in which the black man, the most reliable and faithful ally that the party has ever known, was ignored, neglected and insulted at almost every turn. It is the general opinion throughout the United States that the 1928 convention promised less good to the black man than any that has ever gone before. "Lily-white delegations from the southern states were consistently seated in preference to the representatives of the abused colored people of that section. Segregation was openly and shamelessly practiced not only in the hotels, restaurants, etc., in the city at large, but in the convention hall itself where the party of Lincoln Mckinley, and Roosevelt was supposed to be carrying on the cause of true democracy and equality. Black delegates were there in reasonable numbers, and strong sentiment against them. The "Law Enforcement" plank was adopted, tacitly assumes that the Eighteenth amendment is the only poretion of the constitution that is being violated to any alarming extent at the present time, and therefore mentions that amendment only. The plank, credited to Senator Borah, of Idaho, who has often indicated a friendly and sympathetic attitude toward the Caucasian south in its treatment of the black man, reads thus:

"We reaffirm the American constitutional doctrines as announced by Geecrge Washington in his farewell address, to wit:

"The constitution which at any time exists until changed by the explicit and althentic act by the whole people is sacredly obligatory upon all.'

"We also reaffirm the attitude of the American people toward the federal constitution as declared by Abraham Lincoln:: : : : :

" 'We are by both duty and inclination bound to stick by the consituttion in all its letter and spirit from beginning to end. I am for the honest enforcement of the constitution. Our safety, our liberty depends upon preserving the constitution of the United States, as our forefathers made it inviolate '

"The people through the method provided by the constitution have written the eighteenth amendment into the constitution. The Republican party pledges itself and its nominees to the observance and vigorous enforcement of this provision of the Constitution."

Other Groups Favored

Singularly—and insultingly—enough, the black Americans were about the only large large group which the farm aid plank inadequate, yet a great deal in the platform is occupied with citing the problems of the farmers and the remedies which the Republican party has instituted already and intends to institute in the future, if kept in power. Says the plank in part:

"The Republican party pledges itself to the enactment oflegislation creating a federal farm board clothed with the necessary powers to promote the establishment of farm owned and controlled stabilization corporations or associations to prevent and control surpluses through orderly distribution.

"We favor adequate tariff protection to such of our agricultural products are are affected by foreign competition.

"We favor, without putting the government into business, the establishment of a federal system of organization for cooperative and orderly marketing farm products.

"The vigorous efforts of this administration toward broadenitng our exports market will be continued.

"The Republican party pledges itself to the development and enactment of measures which we place the agricultural interests of America on a basis of economic equality with other industry to insure its prosperity and success."

Praises Women

The labor group is also given considerable attention in the platform, and even women as a group are praised for their record in public office. Indian citizens and immigrants are given sympathetic mention with remarks about "the priceless heritage of American citizenship," but the part of the platform relating to colored Americans is so remote and obscure that it would hardly be found at all were it not for the heading "The Negro" which northern newspapers condescend to put over it. It takes up about half an inch of print and is as follows:

"We ernew our recommendation that the Congress enact at the earliest possible date a federal anti-lynching law so that the full influence of the federal government may be wielded to exterminate this hideous crime."

This bare, cold statement, intimating as it does that lynching is the only grievance that the American black man has, and having been already made and ignored in the platform of folr years ago, is not creating any enthusiasm among the leaders of black Republicansism, but with nowhere as yet to turn, they feel still forced to follow the Republican banner and make the best of what they can get through their local or state power.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO THE G. O. P.?

(St. Louis Argus.)

During the recent Republican National Convention, which was held in Kansas City there was a little act here and a little talking there, which indicates that the G. O. P. as a party is undergoing certain changes that will in the course of time spell the elmination of the Negro, particularly those of the South, as a factor in party affairs.

And, while it is true that we, as a casual observer, are not quite sure that we fully understand "what it's all about," yet we are forced to confess that we see signs of lily-whiteism in the South in its ascendency in the ranks of the G. O. P., while we see omens of the illumination of the outstanding Negro as a factor in politics.

Of course, the Republican Party in the South is not a factor in the election of national officers, such as Presidents, Senators and Congressmen. It is a factor in the selection of the Republican nominees for President of the United States, and it also has to do with the dispensing of federal patronage in the several Southern states. It is the latter, which is causing the trouble in the form of contests after contests. And, while it is true that the Negroes represent the only Republican Party in the Southern states, because of their loyalty, devotion and party regularity, yet there are enough white men and women in the South who will "condescend" to the point where they will suffer themselves to be called Republicans in order to rob, as it were, the Negro of his power as a public office holder. There is no doubt about it—the cause at the bottom of all these contests is to build up white leadership in the Republican Party in the South. As a camouflage, most of these contests had some one or two, some sort of Negroes, affiliated with the whites, but rarely, if ever, are any outstanding or upright men and women of the race found among such delegates. It is generally understood that the whites are willing to give a little "color" to their operations as long as it is negligible and a kind which may be entirely eliminated at will.

This is a situation that we view with some alarm. We cannot but wonder what-it's-all-about. We claim that we understand very definitely the purpose of the lily whites of the South, but we are still wondering what will the Republican Party of the North do.

One of the contestants (white) from Mississippi stated before the committee on credentials, "unseat Perry Howard and Hoover will carry Mississippi." How ridiculous. We wonder, do the leaders of the Republican Party think for one moment that there is the remotest chance of a Republican candidate carrying Mississippi at a regular Presidential election.

All of this much ado about Ben Davis, Republican National Committeeman from Georgia, is for the most part an effort on the part of the lily whites to discredit Negro leadership. They do not want to see any Negro leaders, but particularly men of the race, who will assert their leadership whether it affects the white race or the colored race.

Hence we wonder what it all means.

CALLS FOR PICKETT'S RESIGNATION OR REMOVAL

Editor Atlanta Independent,
Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Sir:

I was a delegate to the Republican State Convention and to my District Convention, in both, our delegates were instructed to vote for Mr. Hoover as Republican nominee for President, and for you as nominee for National Committeeman for Georgia. At the State Convention Mr. Pickett presided, put the question and declared it unanimously carried. And, all Georgia is astounded at his conduct at Kansas City, in which he violated his written instructions voted against you, and entered into a conspiracy with others to defeat the nominee of the party for National Committeeman.

The Republicans of Georgia have never wanted Mr. Pickett for Chairman, he was never our choice, when we elected him we only took him because you thrust him upon us. He is not only incompetent, but his conduct at Kansas City proved that he was undependable. He should be asked to resign and if he does not resign, his office should be declared vacant and another chairman elected. The Republicans of Georgia can no longer trust him in view of his violation of their expressed will. I call on him to resign, and if he does not resign, I am one of the ten members of the State Central Committee willing to call a meeting of the Committee for the purpose of declaring his office vacant, and the election of a successor that the Republicans of Georgia can trust

You can publish this letter, with or without my name.

(Signed)
Delegate State Convention.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

Walter L. Cohen Wins Personal Seat But Loses State Delegation; Perry Howard's Delegates Are All Seated

Republican National Committee, In Deciding Contests From Southern States, Favors Mostly The Hoover Factions

Kansas City, Mo.—In its hearing of contests from Georga, Louisiana and Mississippi, the Republican National Committee on Tuesday gave most of the seats to delegates reputed to be in favor of the Hoover candidacy.

The committee voted to seat the twelve delegates from Mississippi representing the Peryr Howard faction, Howard being the Negro national committeeman whose early negotiations with Rush Holland, Hoover worker, were related to the Senate committee by Holland.

Cohen A Necessity.

Walter W. Cohen, whose boast is that he is ineligible to the Ku-Klux Klan on three counts, being half Jew, half Negro and a Catholic, fought a losing fight for most of his Louisiana slate, but was seated himself without opposition from the Hoover forces as a district delegate.

"We couldn't have a Republican convention without Walter Cohen," Bascom Slemp, one of the Hoover managers and an old member of the committee, urged on the Hoover forces early in the day, so that when Cohen's case was reached ex-Senator Irving Lenroot, another Hoover manager who is acting as counsel for virtually all of the Hoover contesting delegates, made a graceful motion of withdrawing side in that particular fight.

One of the Georgia cases hangs over that of the 7th District, it being postponed on motion of the National Committeeman. Mrs. George S. Williams, who said she thought a compromise could be cached by tomorrow.

Negro Vote In Danger.

The attack now, which is being voiced by George W. Bean, defeated National Committeeman from Florida, Clarence Buck, Lowden manager, and other of the allies, is that "Hoover steamroller" by seating "Lily White" delegates and declining seats to the Negroes from the South, would turn the Negro votes in the North and Middle West to Governor Smith and endanger, if not lose, the electoral votes of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Negro Delegates Favor Hoover

Colored Political Leaders from All Sections of Country Favor Nomination of Hoover.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(By the Associated Negro Press.)—Leaders here are conceding that the nominee of the Republican party at Kansas City will be Herbert Hoover.

"It looks like the field against Hoover," said Dr. Emmett J. Scott, whose ability as a political analyst is well known," but you can't beat somebody with nobody and the field has nobody.

Most of the colored delegations from the South have lined up for Hoover. Both Howard, of Mississippi, and Davis, of Georgia, are for the Secretary of Commerce. Scipio Jones, the lone delegate from Arkansas, is said to be uncertain. His delegation was instructed for Lowden, but his friends predict that he will be found on the Hoover bandwagon.

Walter Cohen, for reasons strategists at the Capitol are unable to explain, it is said to be against Hoover. He declined their offer to have former Senator Lenroot present his contest at Kansas City. Originally, Cohen declared for the late Senator Willis, of Ohio, out of gratitude for Willis' espousal of his cause in the Senate when Cohen was seeking confirmation of his job as collector of port at New Orleans. Senator Willis' death removed that obligation. In the meantime, the lily whites of Louisiana, led by National Committeeman Kunze, and who are fighting Cohen, endorsed Hoover, which may account for his attitude.

Lily whites all over the South have endorsed Hoover for the reason, according to his friends, that they regard him as a sure winner. He is in some states endorsed by both the colored regulars and the lily white pretenders.

In Mississippi, former Governor Sheldon of Nebraska, who is alleged to have left his state under a cloud, has joined with U. G. Gordon, a postmaster of Chicago some thirty years ago to form the Southern States Republican League, a lily white combination. Gordon, who is the Dawes representative in Mississippi public utilities, is said to be really for Dawes or Lowden, but his faction endorsed Hoover.

In Chicago, Oscar DePriest and Dan Jackson, district delegates, swear they will never vote for Lowden, although they were instructed for him, because his was the only name on the ballot. They say they are for Coolidge, but are expected to end by voting for whoever Mayor "Bill" Thompson directs.

Bob Church, of Tennessee, has had his hands full in the local battle at Memphis, where the whites have fought him every inch of the way. He is a district delegate. The Tennessee delegation is instructed for Hoover.

In Texas, the Creager faction, led by Committeeman Creager, endorsed Hoover, but have not a colored delegate or alternate. The Congressman Wurzbach group have one Negro district delegate and one alternate and the delegation is uninstructed.

Dr. Alexander, of New Jersey, is for Hoover. John R. Hawkins, of the District of Columbia is also for Hoover. Homer G. Phillips, of St. Louis, who was defeated as a Hoover delegate in the Missouri State Convention, which went on record for Lowden, was a visitor in Washington last week. Attorney Phillips, who is president of the National Negro Bar Association, conferred with Hoover leaders and is expected to take a definite part in their activities.

LILY-WHITISM NOW OFFICIAL REPUBLICANISM

Seating of Southern Whites Is Endorsement of the Lily Idea

This republican national convention has further endorsed the program of lily-whitism begun years ago by party chiefs whose declared purpose was to drive the Negro from leadership in the party.

During the convention, of course, the excuse has been that the well oiled Hoover machine simply swept all before it. Those not supporting the secretary of commerce. The smart boys, who can explain everything, have been saying it was just a case of Negroes being either uninstructed or against Hoover, and on his score, were not seated.

Leadership the Cause.

But those who have followed the history of the party in the South for the last few years see a definite trend toward lily-whitism.

The white republicans in the South—and some white republicans who have just recently gone South—intend to take the leadership of the party from Negroes.

Thus is Colonel R. B. Creager, national committeeman from Texas, whose faction was seated at the convention over what was known as the regular republican delegates, including some Negroes. The Creager delegation had not a single Negro on it.

Creager went South from Ohio several years ago, much after the manner that the old time carpetbaggers went South. He sought and gained political prominence by preaching the doctrine of lily-whitism.

"Leaders Must Be White"

Creager has never sailed under false colors. He is out and out against any sort of Negro leadership and very little Negro participation.

In a speech at a hotel in New Orleans last February, he told the assembled whites, "If the republican party is to amount to anything in the South it must be led by white men."

Creager was in Louisiana then aiding the Kuntz-lily-whites to "shove over" their delegates against Walter L. Cohen.

Negro Leaders Support Him

The astounding thing about this whole lily-white question is the fact that the four Negro members of the national committee voted in support of the lily-white idea preached by Creager and others like him.

Perry Howard, Ben Davis, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Booze voted for the seating of lily-whites in Florida, Louisiana and Texas. Both of them knifed their neighbor, "little Caesar" Cohen of Louisiana, knowing that Creager, the pure lily-white, had joined with Kuntz to defeat Cohen.

They turned from knifing Cohen to cast their votes for Creager and his machine in Texas—Creager, who has declared war on Negro leadership.

The support of the Negroes on the committee given to the Creager lily-whites, in Texas, especially, means that they helped the Texas plan to completely disfranchise the Negro. The Texas democrats are already striving to keep the Negroes from their party primaries, and although the fight was carried to the United Supreme Court and won, they are still trying to disfranchise the black voters. Then, on top of this, with the lily-whites in Texas, led by Creager, a northern carpetbagger, sent South by Harding in 1920, preaching that the Negro must be shorn of power and votes given the Creager program by Negroes means they are actually helping to disfranchise their own people.

Creager kept his hands off the Perry Howard delegation from Mississippi, not so much, perhaps, because he loves Howard's leadership as because the word had gone down that Howard's delegates were "sure" Hoover, whereas the contesting Mississippians were not so sure. Perry Howard has been called a slippery eel, in no complimentary tone of voice, but it becomes a question as to whether he is not, after all, one of the best Negro politicians—whose skirmishes that it intends to support lily-whites against black- and- tan or all blacks.

Now Has National O. K.

The present situation in the party is one where the national republican committee and the party itself, has placed its stamp of approval on the lily-white idea and has indicated in first qualification of course, is slip- previous qualification of course, is slip-

BLEASE AND HEFLIN TRYING THE OLD SCARE

The Honorables Cole L. Blease, Senator of the white people of South Carolina, and Thomas J. Hefflin, Senator of the white people of Alabama are working the same old scare that has driven the white masses of South Carolina, Alabama and other Southern states to vote their prejudice instead of their interests, to vote their feelings, stirred by demagogues, instead of their judgment, in every election since the Civil War.

Industrial development of the South is beginning to have its liberalizing effect and white men are beginning to think as well as to feel. Herald Common Decent

Possessing rare foresight for demagogues of their calibre, and visioning the passing of partisan hatreds in the South, the growth of a sentiment for a division on party lines intensified by the imminence of the nomination by the Democratic party of Al Smith, a Catholic, a "wet" and a Tammany boss, Blease and Heflin have rushed in to sweep back the rising tide by waving the blck flag.

For forty years the chief stock in trade of the southern demagogues has been the race issue; "Negro domination," "Social Equality" have been the bugbear with which to affright the white masses of the South and through their fears and pride drive them together in solid phalanx against imaginary political enemies who would subject them to "Negro domination" and "Social Equality."

Never in fifty years has a breaking up of the Solid South showed such signs of promise as since the nomination of Hoover by the Republican Party and Smith by the Democratic Party, loom as an almost certainty.

These honorable Senators dread the impending nomination of Hoover and are therefore endeavoring to make him odious to the prejudice ridden voters of the South by charging that he is the candidate of the Negro. A Negro lover because he abolished unjust and humiliating conditions which surrounded Negroes in the Department of Commerce. They have issued propaganda under their franking privilege and scattered far all over the South that Hoover has promised, if elected to appoint a Negro in his Cabinet. Of all the silly fabrications created from the very beginning to injure Secretary Hoover this is the silliest, most infamous and most absolutely devoid of truth.

5-19-28 Baltimore, Md

Secretary Hoover has made no promise respecting the appointment of Negroes to office when he is elected president, will make no such promise and not a Negro in the United States or its possessions believes or expects that he will honor one of the race with a Cabinet position. And the attempt to inflame the prejudice of southern voters against the Secretary by such an absolute unthruth should be throttled now in its earliest stage.

The Negro group favors the nomination and election of Mr. Hoover because of his repeatedly demonstrated administrative ability, his high mindedness, his fairness and leanng towards justce and fairplay as shown in handling the Flood Relief situation, and his broad humanity and deep sympathy for all classes of his fellow citizens.

Negroes do not harbor any thoughts or expectations of special consideration from Mr. Hoover when he becomes President. They will look forward to and will have a right to expect a square deal from him, such recognition as their support should merit and as the position they occupy as law abiding taxpaying citizens of the Republic entitles them.

White Women Were Aides To Cohen And Perry Howard

KANSAS CITY, (Special) — The aide of Walter Cohen, New Orleans Collector of Customs and Louisiana State political leader, is Mrs. Jane F. Perrin, white, wealthy, a writer and club woman.

It was she wso stood in the National Committee and made an impassioned appeal to women members for the seating of the Cohen delegation on the ground that Cohen had invited white women into politics when Cohen's opponents sought to keep them out.

Mrs. Perrin has been vice chairman of the state committee for eight years. She is one of the few outstanding Republican women of Louisiana.

Tall, dark haired, unmistakably identified as a Southern woman when she begins to talk, Mrs. Perrin is every inch a "lady" and at the same time a fighter. Mrs. Perrin is a plantation woman, living just outside New Orleans.

As a writer, she was a member of the magazine staffs of McClure's and Munsey's for many years. She covered the white slavery stories in the South as her first assignments, and later, was sent to Europe on two different occasions to write editorials.

Interested In Education

A wealthy woman, Mrs. Perrin turns over all she makes as a writer and lecturer to the education of needy children. She is said to have supported and educated twenty-one children.

Mrs. Perrin is identified with virtually every club for women in New Orleans. She has held important offices in many of them and is recognized as a thinker and responsible leader.

She is particularly popular with the race whose cause she has upheld in every issue.

Howard's Aide

One of Perry Howard's chief aides was a young white woman from Mississippi, who jumped in the air and shouted aloud when the committee seated Mr. Howard's delegation on which she is a presidential elector.

She ran from the room crying "Howard's seated" and returning after a while, insisted on shaking hands with every member of the committee.

Hoover's Machine

If Mr. Herbert Hoover's steam roller functions in the coming weeks as it did last week in settling the convention contests, Mr. Hoover should land in the White House by the largest majority ever given a president.

The Republican National Committee acting as a credentials committee for the convention opened its sessions with 51 to 33 vote (nearly 2 to 1) to seat the Hoover delegation from Louisiana.

By the time the last contest was heard the Hoover vote had increased to 3-1. The ballot was 72 to 27.

Of the 71 cases actually heard and voted on by the committee, Mr. Hoover won 65. The Hoover managers could have won 67, but they deliberately voted against their own delegates in two Louisiana districts in order to win favor with Mr. Walter Cohen and Mr. J. H. Lowery for 35 years Republican leaders there. Mr. Cohen was for Curtis for President and Mr. Lowery for Lowden.

Hoover managers were in absolute control of the committee at all times. The first day's session gave his opponents an idea of what was coming, but when they began using the long distance telephone and telegraph to obtain proxies of absent members, they found that Mr. Hoover had the proxies already "sewed up."

Mr. Hoover's private secretary and leaders in the campaign sat in the committee and voted after obtaining these proxies.

The Hoover crowd not only saw to it that the committee had a majority of Hoover votes but they also provided a battery of three high powered attorneys who headed by ex-Senator Irvine Lenroot, made mincemeat of the small town Dixie lawyers representing the opposition. Under their simple and persuasive eloquence, the Hoover cause acquired a halo of righteousness, the opposition a semblance of ruffianism.

Out of all the anti Hooverites, Mr. Walter Cohen alone proved himself a match for this high powered legal combination in eloquence, in wit, in knowledge of the legal difficulties and in ability to state his case convincingly.

Mr. Cohen in a flimsy raincoat which from a distance looked like a linen duster, convulsed the committee with laughter. In his hurry to reach the committeeroom he had left his top coat at his hotel, he explained, and he and the committee discovered its absence simultaneously when he opened his remarks and took off his raincoat to find himself clad in shirt sleeves and suspenders.

The biggest laugh of all was elicited when Mr. Cohen explained how his opponent Mr. Emile Kuntz was chairman of the state central committee, his wife vice chairman, his daughter head of the executive committee, and his son treasurer.

The Hoover machine skidded long enough to seat Mr. Cohen and his friend Mr. Lowery and then as if ashamed of humanity recognized the entire lily-white "prairie dog" delegation of Texas, "Goose Neck Bill" McDonald, that staunch black Texas republican for a quarter of a century, and Congressman Harry Wurzbach, white, were mashed flat.

Criticism has been directed at Mr. Perry Howard, Mrs. George S. Williams, Mr. Benjamin Davis and Mrs. Mary C. Booze who seeing the trend of affairs, hopped on the Hoover bandwagon forthwith and permitted their votes to aid in seating lily whites of Texas, Louisiana and Florida. Mr. Robert R. Church likewise wisely joined the Hoover crowd and saved his political skin.

But the fact is they played the political game the only way it could be played in the face of the Hoover steam roller.

The net result of the contests may be indicated by the following score sheet:—

(1) Hoover rated 100 per cent as an organizer

(2) Hoover interested in Hoover votes rather than in political justice.

BLEASE AND HEFLIN TRYING THE OLD SCARE

The Honorables Cole L. Blease, Senator of the white people of South Carolina, and Thomas J. Hefflin, Senator of the white people of Alabama are working the same old scare that has driven the white masses of South Carolina, Alabama and other Southern states to vote their prejudice instead of their interests, to vote their feelings, stirred by demagogues, instead of their judgment, in every election since the Civil War.

Industrial development of the South is beginning to have its liberalizing effect and white men are beginning to think as well as to feel. Herald Common Sense

Possessing rare foresight for demagogues of their calibre, and visioning the passing of partisan hatreds in the South, the growth of a sentiment for a division on party lines intensified by the imminence of the nomination by the Democratic party of Al Smith, a Catholic, a "wet" and a Tammany boss, Blease and Heflin have rushed in to sweep back the rising tide by waving the blck flag.

For forty years the chief stock in trade of the southern demagogues has been the race issue; "Negro domination," "Social Equality" have been the bugbear with which to affright the white masses of the South and through their fears and pride drive them together in solid phalanx against imaginary political enemies who would subject them to "Negro domination" and "Social Equality."

Never in fifty years has a breaking up of the Solid South showed such signs of promise as since the nomination of Hoover by the Republican Party and Smith by the Democratic Party, loom as an almost certainty.

These honorable Senators dread the impending nomination of Hoover and are therefore endeavoring to make him odious to the prejudice ridden voters of the South by charging that he is the candidate of the Negro. A Negro lover because he abolished unjust and humiliating conditions which surrounded Negroes in the Department of Commerce. They have issued propaganda under their franking privilege and scattered far all over the South that Hoover has promised, if elected to appoint a Negro in his Cabinet. Of all the silly fabrications created from the very beginning to injure Secretary Hoover this is the silliest, most infamous and most absolutely devoid of truth.

5-19-28 Baltimore, Md.

Secretary Hoover has made no promise respecting the appointment of Negroes to office when he is elected president, will make no such promise and not a Negro in the United States or its possessions believes or expects that he will honor one of the race with a Cabinet position. And the attempt to inflame the prejudice of southern voters against the Secretary by such an absolute unthruth should be throttled now in its earliest stage.

The Negro group favors the nomination and election of Mr. Hoover because of his repeatedly demonstrated administrative ability, his high mindedness, his fairness and leanng towards justce and fairplay as shown in handling the Flood Relief situation, and his broad humanity and deep sympathy for all classes of his fellow citizens.

Negroes do not harbor any thoughts or expectations of special consideration from Mr. Hoover when he becomes President. They will look forward to and will have a right to expect a square deal from him, such recognition as their support should merit and as the position they occupy as law abiding taxpaying citizens of the Republic entitles them.

White Women Were Aides To Cohen And Perry Howard

KANSAS CITY, (Special) — The aide of Walter Cohen, New Orleans Collector of Customs and Louisiana State political leader, is Mrs. Jane F. Perrin, white, wealthy, a writer and club woman.

It was she wso stood in the National Committee and made an impassioned appeal to women members for the seating of the Cohen delegation on the ground that Cohen had invited white women into politics when Cohen's opponents sought to keep them out.

Mrs. Perrin has been vice chairman of the state committee for eight years. She is one of the few outstanding Republican women of Louisiana.

Tall, dark haired, unmistakably identified as a Southern woman when she begins to talk, Mrs. Perrin is every inch a "lady" and at the same time a fighter. Mrs. Perrin is a plantation woman, living just outside New Orleans.

As a writer, she was a member of the magazine staffs of McClure's and Munsey's for many years. She covered the white slavery stories in the South as her first assignments, and later, was sent to Europe on two different occasions to write editorials.

Interested In Education

A wealthy woman, Mrs. Perrin turns over all she makes as a writer and lecturer to the education of needy children. She is said to have supported and educated twenty-one children.

Mrs. Perrin is identified with virtually every club for women in New Orleans. She has held important offices in many of them and is recognized as a thinker and responsible leader.

She is particularly popular with the race whose cause she has upheld in every issue.

Howard's Aide

One of Perry Howard's chief aides was a young white woman from Mississippi, who jumped in the air and shouted aloud when the committee seated Mr. Howard's delegation on which she is a presidential elector. She ran from the room crying "Howard's seated" and returning after a while, insisted on shaking hands with every member of the committee.

Hoover's Machine

If Mr. Herbert Hoover's steam roller functions in the coming weeks as it did last week in settling the convention contests, Mr. Hoover should land in the White House by the largest majority ever given a president.

The Republican National Committee acting as a credentials committee for the convention opened its sessions with 51 to 33 vote (nearly 2 to 1) to seat the Hoover delegation from Louisiana.

By the time the last contest was heard the Hoover vote had increased to 3-1. The ballot was 72 to 27.

Of the 71 cases actually heard and voted on by the committee, Mr. Hoover won 65. The Hoover managers could have won 67, but they deliberately voted against their own delegates in two Louisiana districts in order to win favor with Mr. Walter Cohen and Mr. J. H. Lowery for 35 years Republican leaders there. Mr. Cohen was for Curtis for President and Mr. Lowery for Lowden.

Hoover managers were in absolute control of the committee at all times. The first day's session gave his opponents an idea of what was coming, but when they began using the long distance telephone and telegraph to obtain proxies of absent members, they found that Mr. Hoover had the proxies already "sewed up."

Mr. Hoover's private secretary and leaders in the campaign sat in the committee and voted after obtaining these proxies.

The Hoover crowd not only saw to it that the committee had a majority of Hoover votes but they also provided a battery of three high powered attorneys who headed by ex-Senator Irvine Lenroot, made mincemeat of the small town Dixie lawyers representing the opposition. Under their simple and persuasive eloquence, the Hoover cause acquired a halo of righteousness, the opposition a semblance of ruffianism.

Out of all the anti Hooverites, Mr. Walter Cohen alone proved himself a match for this high powered legal combination in eloquence, in wit, in knowledge of the legal difficulties and in ability to state his case convincingly.

Mr. Cohen in a flimsy raincoat which from a distance looked like a linen duster, convulsed the committee with laughter. In his hurry to reach the committeeroom he had left his top coat at his hotel, he explained, and the committee discovered its absence simultaneously when he opened his remarks and took off his raincoat to find himself clad in shirt sleeves and suspenders.

The biggest laugh of all was elicited when Mr. Cohen explained how his opponent Mr. Emile Kuntz was chairman of the state central committee, his wife vice chairman, his daughter head of the executive committee, and his son treasurer.

The Hoover machine skidded long enough to seat Mr. Cohen and his friend Mr. Lowery and then as if ashamed of humanity recognized the entire lily-white "prairie dog" delegation of Texas, "Goose Neck Bill" McDonald, that staunch black Texas republican for a quarter of a century, and Congressman Harry Wurzbach, white, were mashed flat.

Criticism has been directed at Mr. Perry Howard, Mr. George S. Williams, Mr. Benjamin Davis and Mrs. Mary C. Booze who seeing the trend of affairs, hopped on the Hoover bandwagon forthwith and permitted their votes to aid in seating lily whites of Texas, Louisiana and Florida. Mr. Robert R. Church likewise joined the Hoover crowd and saved his political skin.

But the fact is they played the political game the only way it could be played in the face of the Hoover steam roller.

The net result of the contests may be indicated by the following score sheet:—

(1) Hoover rated 100 per cent as an organizer than in political justice.

(2) Hoover interested in Hoover votes rather than in political justice.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

OUR DELEGATES

Rumbles of disgust and dissatisfaction have been heard from many sources over the conduct and actions of the members of the black race who were delegated to the recent National Republican Convention. It is said that the majority of these delegates were unacquainted with the paramount issues involved and voted like rubber stamps and automatons on the issues presented to the convention. These delegates, at least the majority of them, voted against delegations of their own race, who sought to be seated. They voted as the majority of the other delegates voted but they did not seem to realize the unfortunate status of their fellow men of color.

The Republican Party has nominated Herbert Hoover as its candidate for for President of the United States. Mr. Hoover's record is now before the people and his services during the World War, his actions as Secretary of Commerce and his performances as Chairman of the committee for flood relief stand as examples of his ability to serve. The Republican Party perhaps made a wise choice in selecting him and maybe the black delegates were wise in selecting him. We do not hold them to task for so doing but we do not believe that party politics should require them to vote against their own and replace them with the "Lily Whites," who stand for segregation, dsfranchisement and white domination. We do not believe that because some of the delegates of our race had expressed themselves as being against the majority that they should have been voted against by their own brothers in blood. It strikes us that they owed a duty to their race as well as to their party.

Almost everybody who went to the convention wanted to be on the band wagon of the winner. They knew that it was good politics to be with the winner, under our bureaucratic system. They knew that to the victor goes the spoils, but it strikes us that victory and reward bought at the expense of self-respect and racial loyalty is not enduring and of no survival value. The black delegates could have pledged themselves to Mr. Hoover and still refused to vote against the seating of their brothers who sought recognition from Florida, Louisiana and Texas. It has been offered in explanation that these delegations had been bought up and were themselves manikins and marionettes for the "Lily Whites." That may be true, but we do know that they were defeated by southern whites and southern white Republicans are almost invariably "Lily Whites." It was poor business and rang down criticism, sarcasm and disgust upon us.

Such actions as these performed before the watching eyes of the nation do not rivet us any closer in the ranks of the Grand Old Party, they do not cement any closer racial alliances, they do not weave together any finer intra-consolidation of political forces, they do not inspire respect nor demand recognition. On the other hand it reveals the weakness of the race, it discloses the lack of co-ordination of efforts, it bares gullibilty and cupidity of the group and reflects the inferiority complex so deadly to a struggling people.

It seems that the American black people are unfamiliar with the issues before the American people, to wit, the enforcement of certain well known amendments, farm problems, taxation. They do not seem to understand the purport of Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam, the MacFadden bill or the Jones White shipping bill nor the McNary-Haugen bill. We do not believe the majority of the white delegates knew very much about them either but every black man knows that the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments are not enforced and yet no man of color offered a plank in the party's platform to that end. Senator Borah put one in it in regard to enforcing the liquor amendment. It is bad business, unintelligent and unworthy of a race of under-privileged people.

Ending Of Republican Convention Discloses Similar Fate For Both Black and White Anti-Hooverites

Negro Press Correspondents Not Allowed At Convention Press Table, But Nordic Aspirations Were Likewise Restricted

(Staff Correspondence of The Age.)

St. Louis, (en route home from Kansas City, Mo.)—The Republican National Convention of 1928 ends. There were many features, good and bad. The redeeming feature was demonstration of the fact that, if ever it was, it no longer is possible to make a group of one race. Matters not who got the nomination, what delegates got seated and which got the air, reasonably there is rejoicing and dejection on both sides of the line of racial demarcation.

Such distinguished U. S. Africs as Melvin Chisum, Albon L. Holsey, Claude Barnett, along with a couple of small-timers were chased from the white folks' press table in Convention Hall. But the war governor of Illinois, the Hon. Frank O. Lowden, was chased from the Presidential nomination which he had sought for eight years.

The Afric notables are just at the plenitude of their power, however, and will come again.

Georgia and Florida.

Hon. Ben Jeff Davis seems to be erstwhile Republican National committeeman for Georgia. The axe, however, descended clean through the political white neck of one Bean, Florida's National Committeeman for the last sixteen long years. Uncle Joe Watson just about "watted" Ben Davis, while Glenn Skipper, white, skipped all over Bean's bean.

From the same company that came Vice President Dawes' assignment to political oblivion, also came the ether cone for Walter Cohen, the picturesque ex-leader of Louisiana Republicans, only Negro Federal office holder in all of the South. A big Afric Republican remained at home west of the Alleghanies for a summons to Kansas City that never came—which seemed to be the fate of Speaker "Nick" Longworth, loafing at home in Cincinnati.

The Negro was made a joker in in the platform of the party; the platform is supposed to be a melange of platitudinous jokers. But biggest joke of all—aside from the "Booker-looker" Senator Borah—was Senator Goff of West Virginia, taking himself seriously as a contender for the nomination as President, who never got near either PLATFORM or platform.

Race Lines Were Smashed.

In the National Committee decisions on delegate contests, race lines were smashed. The committee threw out the contesting lily-whites from Mississippi and seated the lilies from Louisiana; and it cannot be argued that only Hooverites were seated, for the "Mississippi lilies" were all white, 21 and Hoover. Not even in the matter of disbursing the kale was there the least obviousness of race. For if Creager got $7,000 to carry on for Hoover in Texas, and Perry Howard only received $4,000 for the same purpose in Mississippi, Skipper got but $3,500. all told, for Florida-Hoover usage. If Ben Davis' limit was $2,000 to put over Hoover in Georgia. Street, Alabama's National Cimmitteeman's dole was $1,000 or $1,500.

The greatest poser of the assembly was Senator Borah, who likes to delude himself with the idea that he is a great, constitutional lawyer; and his eloquent approval of Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen Farm Bill on Attorney General Sargent's opinion gave him his opportunity to declare the measure unconstitutional. But the man nearest to the sky, without posing or stretching, was the able anl affable generalissimo of the Associated Negro Press, the 6-feet, four-inch Claude Barnett.

The convention heartily received young Senator LaFollette while making his plea for the minority report on farm relief planks, and completely forgot him afterwards.

But Perry Howard didn't make a speech; he got all he wantel from the National Committee and, presently, is sole Negro National Committeeman. Nevertheless, LaFollette's crowd, like Ben Davis', also fell down on is National committee choice.

Comparisons In Courtesy.

The delegates were almost discourteous during the address of ex-Gov. Osborn of Michigan, and were glad when he finishel—only to accord strict attention to John R. Hawkins, Afric, during the delivery of his speech seconding the nomination of Mr. Hoover, which hey cheered at the conclusion. Vare of Pennsylvania was the smartest practical politician on hand, and Dr. Hawkins delivered the most nearly oratorical address.

Senator Moses was an effective presiding officer in the role of permanent chairman; but revealed bad tactical judgment in his address to the country upon relieving Senator Fess, temporary chairman, and keynoter, of the gavel. To accuse the Democratic party of nullifying the 14th and 15th Amendments, which, the mouthy Borah, Republican, has declared within constitutional limits, on the floor of the U. S. Senate, and which nullification has been only possible through Republican acquiescence—even until this day, was on a parity with Senator Moses' accusation of Tammany Hall's "grafting" "over 20 million dollars in a single city," when the children of now still recall the scandals of the Harding regime.

The "Bloody Grave Remark."

It was remarked that Senator Moses' welcome to a "bloody grave" for the Democrats was first uttered by one Tom Corwin of Texas, when opposing the U. S. War on Mexico back in the 1840's. Corwin is quoted as having said that if he were a Mexican he would welcome the American invaders to "a bloody grave." Additionally, it cannot be forgotten that the justification of disfranchisement attempted last winter on the floor of the Senate by Swanson of Virginia brought only silence from Senator Moses' side of the Chamber. It was William Cabell Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, who alone had the temerity to tackle Swanson!

But the convention of '28 has passed into the annals of all time. Out of it emerges a punk platform and excellent candidates; which are much preferable to an excellent platform and punk candidates. Borah's conspicuity in helping to make the platform guaranteed its "punkness," which would be true of the candidate for President, if the lightning had struck Borah.

Lily-Whitism Comes Into Power At G. O. P. Meet

Few Race Leaders Attend Republican Quadrennial Show.

RACE VOTERS DISGRUNTLED.

(By: B. P. Williams)

(Staff Correspondent.)

Kansas City, Mo., June 21.—The republican national convention has let the world know it fully and completely endorses the program of lily-whitism. Practically every vestage of Negro leadership in the party has been driven out and the South has had its way. The political death of leaders in Texas, Louisiana, Florida and Georgia bespeak the trend of affairs for the Negro and leaves small hope for the overthrow of lily-whitism. The white republicans of the South and the white ones who recently have moved down there are determined to dethrone Negro political leadership in the South.

Race Leaders Absent.

I don't want to give the impression that Negroes were not here attending the convention. They were here all right. But, very, very few of the real vote getters and influential race leaders were here. The delegates and alternates were here. They had to be here, but the real race leaders, those who really count, were conspicuous by their absence.

Leaders' Absence Significant.

The absence of these leaders is really significant. Very frequently you would hear the query "where is so and so?" "Wonder why he is not here?" "Wonder why such and such person stayed away?" "Wonder what's wrong?" "It seems funny?" After hearing these various queries so frequently I, too, began to wonler what it was all about. Something must be cooking that we don't smell. Maybe the lid will come off the pot soon and we will know what the dope is. The situation is puzzling.

Show Went Over Big.

In retrospect, the whole affair appears to have been pre-arranged, and engineered by a clever theatrical press-agent. "Mellon Holds Key," "Draft Coolidge," "Anti-Hover" piffle seem to have been camoflauge catch phrases designed to rouse the rabble, create "copy," help continue to delude the disgruntled farmers while the lily-whites did their stuff in the prelude to the sons and daughters of Ham. The whole show went over big, each actor knew his lines, caught his cue. The result "brethren" were put out of political leadership in the South and Lily-whitism enthroned.

Race Leaders Smelled The Rat.

Race leaders throughout the country must have been hep to the whole situation, smelled the rat as it were and politely remained away. I wondered why I could not find the big influential race leaders. Wonder what they have up their sleeves? It's somewhat puzzling. Something must be cooking that I cannot smell. Time will tell.

NEW YORK HERALD

AUG 2 1928

Negro Voters' Division Organized by Republicans

Chairman Work Says Race Will Be Helped by Hoover

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP).—Organization of a "colored voters' division" of the Republican National Committee was announced to-day by Chairman Work. The division will direct the Republican campaign among the Negroes.

John R. Hawkins, of this city, was named chairman of the executive committee of the division, and Albon L. Holsey, secretary of Tuskegee Institute, secretary. Other members of the executive committee include Walter Foster, Boston; State Senator Adelbert H. Roberts, of Chicago; John E. Nail, New York; Mrs. Myrtle Foster Cock, Kansas City; Robert R. Church, Memphis; Mrs. A. W. Hunton, New York City, and Dr. Emmett J. Scott, of this city.

"We are gratified," Mr. Work said, "that there has been such a fine voluntary response and pledge of support from the colored people. This committee is composed of leaders of thought and opinion representing their business, professional, religious and educational life. In my opinion, the election of Herbert Hoover will herald a new day of hope nd opportunity for the group they represent."

BROOKLYN EAGLE

JUL 20 1928

BOLT ON EACH SIDE IN TEXAS.

Bolting, or threat of bolting, in Texas is not confined to the Democracy. Mr. Hoover's party is split up the back. J. M. O'Hara, organization manager of the State Republican Committee, is out openly for Al Smith. So is W. M. McDonald, concededly the leader of the negro Republicans, who is not offended when his followers dub him "Gooseneck Bill." Each man is prophesying a Smith Republican vote in Texas of 250,000. Which seems absurd at first sight. But Texas has 742,000 negro population, almost unrepresented in the electorate of past years, and it has also a considerable element of white Republicans who are as "wet" as the Gulf, and who are in the habit of voting every year. The Republican candidate for Governor against "Ma" Ferguson in 1924 polled 298,000 votes. So far as the negroes are concerned there is a growing impression that in Texas and other cotton States the Democratic split may lead to bringing them to the polls.

Meanwhile the anti-Smith Democrats, 500 strong, meet and organize, with a considerable number of men prominent in politics apparently active in their counsels. They are very much in earnest. How much they will accomplish and how much the Republican bolters against Hoover will accomplish is good July guessing.

Indications multiply that the Department of Justice attack, seemingly backed by Hoover, on negro Republican leaders, of which Perry W. Howard of Mississippi is the first victim and Ben Davis of Georgia may be the second, is stirring hot sentiment among colored people all over the South, and may affect the colored vote in Ohio, in Indiana, in Illinois and New York. A cynic would say that Mrs. Willebrandt has found more than one way of assisting the Smith campaign. In Texas McDonald and O'Hara insist that patronage peddling has been more notorious in their State under National Committeeman R. B. Creager, a Lily White, than in either Georgia or Mississippi. It is probably true that patronage peddling is bi-racial, just as graft is bi-partisan. That is an acceptable philosophic formula to fit all outstanding conditions.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

KANSAS CITY

MISSOURI

Pol

JUN 19 1928

NEGRO REPUBLICANS MEET.

Plans for getting out a large registration were discussed last night at a meeting of the Negro Republican organization of the First precinct of the Eleventh ward at 1600 Park avenue. R. G. Hines presided.

NEW YORK TIMES

JUL 2 1928

VICTORY FORECAST RECALLED TO SMITH

Buenos Aires Police Head, Who Cables Felicitations, Met Governor Here in 1923.

REPUBLICANS PLEDGE AID

Messages Continue to Pour In From All Parts of the World—Colorado Negroes Hail Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 1.—Messages of congratulation continued to pour in yesterday upon Governor Smith. They came from all parts of the United States, from South America, Europe and the West Indies. The Governor personally opened and read several hundred of them. Among them were ones from the Chief of the Hopi Indians, and an organization of negro voters. Some of the messages follow:

PHILIP SHERIDAN — Congratulations on your stand on the Eighteenth Amendment. It assures you of Wisconsin's vote.

CHIEF JOE SECAKUKU—Just returned from the Hopi reservation and note by papers of your nomination as Democratic Presidential candidate. Accept my hearty congratulations for your successful nomination.

O. T. JACKSON, FRITZ CANSLER AND VICTOR WALKER—The Colorado Negro Voters Advisory Association congratulates the Democratic Party upon your nomination as its standard-bearer for the Presidency of the United States. Your nomination comes to the negroes of America as their second emancipation proclamation. The first freed them of manual bondage. The second frees them from political slavery. Colorado's negro voters will give to you and Senator Robinson in our judgment at least 80 per cent. of their voting strength.

A. C. CRAVEN, Birmingham, Ala.—Am sending you the left hind foot of an Alabama graveyard rabbit which Uncle Remus considered the emblem of good luck. Rest assured Alabama will go 100 per cent. Democratic.

ALICE LAWLOR, New York—Heartiest congratulations. Father predicted his song, "Sidewalks of New York," would some day be heard in the White House through you.

GEORGE W. SHEEHAN, Chicago—Sincere congratulations to you upon your outstanding victory at a time when the country needs a real man at the helm, who has the courage of his convictions. We represent a powerful organization of Republicans which you may count on. We are with you to a man, Al, and we want you to know it. You can count on us in Illinois and you will be carried to overwhelming victory in November.

EMANUEL G. PERILLO, Hollis, N. Y.—Congratulations on your remarkable personal victory in your nomination and best wishes for your success from your old family pharmacist and my family.

JOHN T. ROSS, City Editor Paducah (Ky.) Evening News—I merely wished to add my humble word of appreciation and joy. I am proud that the people of our country will have the opportunity to vote for a man whose heart beats in tune with humanity, who is brave and broad and true, and who is not afraid to assert his convictions for those principles which make for justice and liberty. Right down in Kentucky we are for you strong. Victory for you in November will mean the dawn of a new day for America. I might add that I have been a Republican for ten years, but I am not particularly proud of that now.

CAESAR E. CHEVERRY, Commisaario of Buenos Aires (Argentina) Police Department—I take pleasure to remind you of our conversation at the Pennsylvania Station, New York, 1923, when I had the pleasure to meet you as Argentine delegate to the International Police Conference, and my sincerest wishes and hopes at that time were that you would become the first citizen of your great country. Today I reiterate my wishes and hopes for the final nomination of such a great lover of his country and good friend of the police.

Lebanon, Tenn., Democrat

Thursday, June 21, 1928

NEGRO REPUBLICAN ENVOYS KIDNAPED

HIDDEN FROM GEORGIA CUSTODIAN BY HEAD OF RIVAL FACTION.

KANSAS CITY.—Clark Greer of Georgia, custodian of the Hoover negro delegates from the South, found those of his wards, six in number, who were kidnaped by a rival custodian and hidden across the state line in Kansas.

Republican.

The convention brought together again the ancient foes, Clark Greer and Miller Carnes, Georgia-bred and famous for their ability to hold negro delegates in line. While at this conclave, Greer appeared as Hoover boss of negro delegates and Carnes filled the same role for Lowden, having in recent years taken up his residence in Chicago. Their job is to see that their wards do not yield to lures offered by opposing camps.

Greer this time attempted to bring the Georgia negro delegates in in two bunches of six ~~each~~. He got his first six in all right, but when he went to the station to meet the other six, they did not appear, although they had telegraphed thev had started.

Scenting trouble, Greer made a frantic tour of the city, but failed to find any trace of his delegates. He sought the aid of the police and searched all night long and through the morning. At noon he found his negroes huddled across the state line, far removed from all convention activities and not knowing where they were. He brought them to the Missouri side and housed them in a hotel, happy and content.

Greer explains that Carnes worked an old trick on him. The other day, he said, Carnes told him he "would run up to Chicago for a few days." Instead, Greer declares, Carnes went to East St. Louis and intercepted Greer's delegates.

NEWS

RICHMOND, VA.

JUN 30 1928

THE NEGROES, HE THINKS, WILL SUPPORT AL. SMITH.

Editor The News Leader:

Sir,—I have noticed in the Forum several discussions concerning the attitude of the Negro in the coming national election. One thing is sure, the Negro has enough of sectionalism and Republicanism. We are critically criticized by members of either race, when we are classed as the new Negro, especially by the old hat-in-hand type of ancient blacks and the call-me-master whites. Eventually, as time goes on, the race progresses and the mind of each individual develops, cleverly and politically as to the affairs of its government. The Negro is learning that he is learned, and has abandoned the old-time custom of vote the Republican ticket. He is using his own opinion as to the real man that should hold the highest office in the land, Republican or Democrat.

We do not ask any special favor from either party, only our rights of citizenship and manhood. During the coming campaign, the Negro will receive a lot of good advice and favors from both parties (especially the Republican), but he has his mind made up. The tide has turned. From a party that has never done anything for us, and really nothing to us, we do not expect anything, except fairness and enforcement of the constitution and amendments. When a canvass of the whole country has been made, concerning how the average Negro will vote in November it will show that Al. Smith is their popular candidate.

S. E. PETERS.

TIMES

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

JUN 27 1928

DELEGATES ARRIVE FOR NEGRO MEET

Mass Meeting Will Open Conference of National Association Here

More than 500 delegates and national officers arrived here yesterday to attend the nineteenth annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People which will open tonight in a mass meeting at 8 o'clock in Symphony Hall, 232 South Hill street.

A police escort conducted the delegates to the conference headquarters at the Second Baptist Church, Griffith avenue and Twenty-fourth street. Registration for the conference will be swelled today when a train arrives bearing representatives from the South and Middle West. A car will also arrive from Detroit. Mayor Cryer will give an address at tonight's initial meeting of the conference, which is scheduled to close the night of July 3. Lieut.-Gov. Fitts will present the Spingarn medal to Charles Waddell Chesnutt, negro author, for the year's greatest achievement among the people of his race, at the closing session.

NEWS

CHARLESTON, S. C.

JUN 10 1928

NEGRO LEADERS WILL ASK PLANK

Enforcement of 14th, 15th, Amendments Will Be Demanded of G. O. P.

By H. E. C. BRYANT

Kansas City, Mo., June 9.—"If the Republican party writes into its platform a declaration for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, it must include the 14th and the 15th amendments," is the slogan of negro leaders here today.

The report that Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, is on his way here with a plank naming the prohibition amendment, specifically, has aroused Southern G. O. P. leaders and "wet" members of congress.

S. D. Redmond, negro delegate, who has been selected for the Mississippi member of the committee on platform and resolution, declared that he would insist on pledging the Republicans to a more vigorous enforcement of the 14th and the 15th amendments.

His Question

"Why should there be any discrimination?" said he. "It is well known to Senator Borah and other prominent party men that these are being ignored. Every negro delegate here should resent any plan to favor the 18th over the 14th and 15th amendments.

Thoroughly aroused over this matter, negro delegates were busy today calling on their white friends from other states, urging them to stand by them in their efforts to get justice.

"Negro leaders in attendance at the convention," said a statement issued by Redmond, of Mississippi; Robert R. Church, of Tennessee; John T. Risher, District of Columbia; Ben J. Davis, of Georgia; Walter L. Cohen, of Louisiana; Roscoe Simmons, and Oscar Depriest, of Illinois, "are planning to make a determined fight to have a plank inserted in the platform, committing the party to the enforcement of the 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution.

Their Stand

They understand that Senator Borah, of Idaho, has prepared a plank committing the party unreservedly to the enforcement of the 18th amendment and they feel that the amendments involving their suffrage rights are as sacred as the 18th amendment and they cannot understand why the platform should contain a plank on the 18th amendment and remain silent on the 14th and 15th amendments. The negro voters throughout the states, where they exercise considerable influence, have always looked with some degree of apprehension on the expenditure of millions of dollars by the federal government to enforce the prohibition amendment while it has refused to give aid to the enforcement of the 14th and 15th."

"The government is spending about $30,000,000 a year to enforcement of the prohibition amendment, but nothing to carry out the provisions of the 14th and 15th," said Cohen, the Louisiana colored leader. "Why this difference? If I am a member of the platform committee I will urge upon its other members a square deal for the negro."

BANNER
NASHVILLE, TENN.
JUL 6 1928

M'KELLAR AND PARTY RIDE TRUCK TO TOWN AT MIDNIGHT

Two Colored Republicans Make Impassioned Plea for Hoover After Flat Tires Hold Up Auto Seventeen Miles From Nashville.

By RALPH McGILL.

Senator Kenneth D. McKellar's fifth audience of Thursday heard a plea that was a bit more impassioned than any delivered by the senior senator of Tennessee during the day.

Not only that, but two members of his audience stood out against him with two votes for Herbert Hoover. The third one was right with the senator.

We stood on the road at midnight, Senator McKellar, Tom Bagley, Jr., and your correspondent. Mr. Bagley and your correspondent had removed one flat tire and were at work on another when the spare was found to be as flat as the senator's opposition. That was, you might say, a situation.

Nashville was seventeen miles away. Just seventeen, and the night was hot and the detour (sign of progress?) very dusty indeed.

Your correspondent set off down the road in search of a house. Occupants of a car, going in the wrong direction, said that there was a house two miles down the road.

It was quite hot and the road was quite dusty.

SOUND OF BOTTLES.

After having walked a quarter of a mile there was a sound of bottles on the air. Your correspondent cocked an attentive ear. The sound of bottles came nearer, a great symphony of bottles, a magnificent rattle and cling as if all the gods of Olympus were clinking them together and holding high carnival.

Around the curve came lights. They lumbered to a stop and there was a magnificent truck. It was, your correspondent thought, positively the most beautiful truck he had ever seen. It was lovely and it was going in the right direction.

It was a truck of the Nehi soft drink company and was returning to Nashville with a thousand or so empties from the Fourth of July barbecues in Dickson county.

On the front seat was Senator McKellar, Tom Bagley, Jr., and the driver, Andrew Carter. They were the help that had come out of Macedonia or White Bluff or some such place.

There was room for your correspondent up on top. There was, it seems, also room for two Senegambian helpers.

Have you ever tried sitting on a case of bottles? It is peculiar what a sensation they arouse.

The way was seventeen miles and it was hot and dusty. Have you ever hit a bump and bounced up and came down on a case of bottles? The sensation is unique.

The two Republicans turned out to be Bob White and Charley Price. Your correspondent harangued them on the virtues of the Democratic party but to no avail. They remained adamant.

SCORNS INDIAN FAKIRS.

After twelve miles your correspondent began to have a fine scorn for the cheap tricks of the Indian fakirs who lie on beds of spikes. They never rode on top of a case of Nehi bottles.

After thirteen miles your correspondent hung on the side. The tree limbs are very low on the Charlotte pike.

Now and then they hit one in the face.

By this time Senator McKellar and Mr. Bagley had converted Mr. Carter. He became so interested in the affairs of the party that he swerved close to the trees along the edge.

The two Republicans and your correspondent had their moments. Mostly profane.

The two Republicans declared in favor of a high tariff and against farm relief when we reached the fifteen-mile point.

On we went. The bottles jingled and clinked. The two Republicans and your correspondent declared against a dry plank but all the bottles were empties.

At Twelfth avenue and Cedar street the truck gave out of gasoline.

Charley Price said he lived right around the corner and had a Dodge car. He got it. It was a very small Dodge roadster.

The senior senator got in and Mr. Bagley sat in his lap. Your correspondent swung on one side and Mr. Andrew Carter on the other.

At Fourth and Cedar the car gasped and quit.

We walked to the senator's headquarters.

Mr. Bagley and your correspondent waited for a taxi. A young man rolled out of a car at the curb and asked for a push. His starter was dead.

We fell to with a will; it was all in the night's program it seemed.

Your correspondent hung on the side and talked with the driver. After sitting on bottles for seventeen miles the cushions were too rough for sitting on.

We got home at 2:30 o'clock.

We solicit your vote and influence.

Greensboro, Ga., Herald-Journal
Friday, June 29, 1928

The Negroes In The Saddle

Roscoe Pickett, of Jasper, made a noble effort to rid the Republican party in Georgia of negro domination. But, of course, he did not succeed. The national machine does not want Georgia to turn Republican. They can handle the state better through a few hired negro politicians.—The Calhoun Times.

NEWS
CHARLESTON, S. C.
JUN 9 1928

Record Number of Negroes At Republican Convention

Fewer From South But Northern Total is Bigger Than Ever—Most of Them Are for Hoover—Tolbert is for Lowden

By H. E. C. BRYANT

Kansas City, Mo., June 8.—Fifty negro delegates and ten alternates will have seats in the Republican national convention. This makes a record. In previous years the south sent more negroes than it has here now but never before have so many states north of the Mason-Dixon line been represented.

The migration of 700,000 negroes to the north, east, and west after the World war has given such states as Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and New Jersey a large colored voting population.

Negro Delegates

The number of negro delegates by states is:

Arkansas, 3; Georgia, 11; Illonois, 2; Kentucky, 2; Louisiana, 5; Maryland, 3; Michigan, 1; Mississippi, 8; Missouri, 3; New Jersey 1; Ohio 1; Oklahoma 1; South Carolina 6; Tennessee 1; and West Virginia, 2—total, 50.

Alternates: Iowa, 1; Maryland, 3; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 1; New York 2; and Pennsylvania 2—total 10.

A majority of the negro delegates are for Secretary Hoover, but a stubborn minority is holding out for Lowden.

In 1920, the South Carolina delegation, led by Joseph Tolbert, white, and composed largely of negroes, went to Chicago pledged to Frank O. Lowden. The same year the Georgia delegation, under the leadership of the late Henry Lincoln Johnson, was for Lowden. It was brought out before the Kenton senate committee appointed to investigate campaign contributions at that time that Johnson had received $9,000 for the purpose of organizing his state.

Tolbert for Lowden

At the convention, the Georgia delegation of 16, with perhaps the exception of one, is for Hoover.

"I was for Lowden in 1920 and I am for him now," said Tolbert today.

Walter L. Cohen, a Louisiana negro, prominent at Republican conventions for twenty-odd years, is supporting Senator Curtis, of Kansas, for the presidential nomination. Ten of the Louisiana delegates are for Hoover, and it is expected that Cohen, and one other delegate, who is choice is now known, will support Hoover after the first or second ballot.

A movement is on foot to ask the convention to oust delegates from Florida, Mississippi, and Tennessee. While the contests were decided by the national committee in favor of the Hoover delegates, in anti-Hoover people, directed by Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, and Mrs. Medill McCormick, of Illinois, will now appeal to the committee on credenitals.

This threat of a bitter fight to oust a large number of negro delegates has greatly exercised southern leaders.

Three outstanding negro politicians, Perry W. Haward, Republican national committeeman from Mississippi; Ben J. Davis, national committeeman from Georgia, and Robert R. Church, wealthiest negro in the south, of Tennessee, will combat any plan to further reduce the number of negro delegates from the south.

They assert that the purpose of the drive is to eliminate the negro, and build up white organizations in the last southern strongholds of the negro.

John McCall, a white lawyer of Memphis, is demanding an opportunity to be heard on the question of deposing "Bob" Church from his high position in the Republican party of Tennessee. He has been buttonholing leaders all day trying to convince them that the party in his state is dead until Church is delegated.

Would Be All White

Church will make a hard fight to hold his own. McCall contends that James Quinn, and not Church, should be the delegate from Tennessee. If the convention should accept his view then the Tennessee delegation would be all white.

As the negro in the Republican party in the south loses ground his brother in the north, east and west gains; this is clearly shown by the attitude of convention managers to the negro delegates from the different sections.

The rows that come every four years over delegates from the states of South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, and Florida irritate G. O. P. leaders. There is a great deal of talk here of a clean-up down there after this convention is over.

Supporters of Gen. Leonard Wood, it was stated here today, spent more than $40,000 trying to round up the southern delegates to the Chicago convention in 1920 and immediately after President Harding was inaugurated several active members of the Republican national committee, representing western states went to Atlanta and organized a party group to take over administration affairs there but this effort fell flat after a few months and the old crowd resumed control.

Plan Will Be Fought

The program launched then may be taken up and pressed again, and extended to ree or four other states.

Any such plan will be opposed by Howard, Davis, Church and other leaders in the states involved on the ground that it interferes with their rights to local self-government. That is a problem for the future but it is receiving considerable consideration now.

A majority of the members of the national committee think they have solved the contests from the south, doing justice to all, but the anti-Hoover people cannot see it that way, and are showing their teeth. A very vigorous protest is promised for the credentials committee but it may not materialize if it looks more and more like a Hoover nomination.

In the meantime, the negroes are in bad humor. They do not like the arrangements here. They tried to prevent segregation, but now find themselves parked at out of the way places, far from their white associates on the various delegations.

Deland, Fla., News
Saturday, June 23, 1928

The W. C. T. U. will either have to endorse Al Smith, a wet, or else take Hoover who is favorable to the negro. Our Southern ladies have something to think about now.—DeLand News. Southern women have managed to live while eleven Republican presidents ruled the land, and probably each and every president favored the negro as much or more than Hooer. Negros and whites are theoretically equal in government departments, and it is suspicious that Hoover, who has been a member of cabinet for seven years should have his attention called to an usual condition of affairs just at this time. It doesn't make any difference who is president of the United States, white women, north and south, must depend mainly for their protection on their men folks right at home.—Palm Beach Independent. We still think, however, that a democrat can offer federal jobs to white people, while Hoover, if elected, will favor the negro in approved republican fashion.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

National Republican Committee Will Direct Campaign In Northeast From Main Headquarters In Washington

Decision Means That There Will Be No N. Y. Headquarters--Attempt On Part Of Negroes To Sidetrack Howard Seems Nipped In Bud

(Staff Correspondence of The Age)

Washington, D. C.—There will be no Negro from a non-voting State assisting in directing the Presidential campaign at Republican National headquarters in New York this year. Nor will there be any Negro from any State.

Neither will there be any white folks—'cause there ain' goin' be no headquarters at New York.

Such was the decision reached in conference of a group of big-time Republican leaders here last Saturday. The conference met in the New Willard Hotel. National Committee Chairman Work presided.

Purpose of Conference.

The avowed purpose of the conference was to formulate plans for the big fight in the Northeast section of the country, the admitted battleground, from the Republican strategisis' point of view; and just why headquarters are not needed in the battle area is beyond the power of veteran political observers to apprehend. Headquarters nevertheless will not be set up at New York as heretofore, when the Northeast was sure. The fight will be directed from Washington, with Chairman Work at the throttle, and Senator Moses, New Hampshire. Senator Metcalfe, Rhode Island, chairman of the Senatorial campaign committee, and Congressman Wood, Indiana, chairman of the Congressional campaign committee, as advisers.

James W. Good of Iowa, who rounded-up the delegates which assured Hoover's nomination, has accepted the post of western director, with headquarters at Chicago.

It was said that one great barrier to eastern headquarters at New York was Senator Moses' insistence upon full authority in running it, when the tender of eastern director was made to him. Such, it is said, contemplated absolute subordination of Chairman Work to Senator Moses' will, insofar as eastern headquarters and territory were concerned.

It is believed that Secretary Hoover's purpose in having Work and Moses at luncheon on Friday was to harmonize their extreme points of view.

Dr. Work Not Approved.

The Hoover selection of Dr. Work as national chairman does not meet with popular approval of orthodox Republicans of either race, though all consistent folks strongly feel that since he is chairman, and not of the children of Israel, he rests under not the least compulsion to be led by a Moses, not even of New Hampshire.

Recalling that "Jim" Good rendered Hoover the same pre-primary service William M. Butler performed for Coolidge in 1924, orthodox Repubs are of the opinion that Good, like Butler was, ought to be National Chairman.

Chairman Work seems unable to give an interview that will not be questioned by some member of the Republican National Committee. There is categorical objection to Work's resucitation of Mark Hanna's 32-years old "full-dinner-pail" slogan of the McKinley campaign. Then, it is stressed, the Democrats were in charge of Government and industry was paralyzed.

Now the Republican party, eight years in power, is on the defensive in an epoch of cafeterias and dairy-lunches, with New England's textile industries ni process of disintegration. Orthodox Repubs maintain that the "full dinner pail" slogan in 1928 is on a party with an 1889 bicycle exhibited as a latest model vehicle in the 1929 automobile show.

Prohibition Is Taboo.

Chairman Work's announcement that prohibition will be taboo in the campaign fails approval by the National Committeemen of Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey, who are known to be "of the opinion that prohibition in their States cannot be sidestepped, or rather that the heavy wet vote cannot safely be passed up." And these three are the most important of the Northeast, selected as major battlefield of the fight for President.

Chairman Work's decision to have the entire National Committee conduct the Presidential campaign from Washington has caused sudden application of four-wheel brakes to the autos of the Afric Repub "leaders," who were determined to run over Mississippi National Committeeman Perry W Howard in high gear.

Obviously, some of these self-elevated leaders have been told by the power-that-be to "come by" the Negro National Committeeman.

For, by action, with words, in print, the brethren have suddenly become super-laudatory of Perry Howard! This lends color of possible truth to the story now carried on high tide of political gossip that Afric headquarters of the Hoover campaign will be at 1216 Pennsylvania avenue, N. W.,—Mr. Howard's political office.

It matters not who is finally named as director of Negro end of the Republican Presidential fight he will be a much supervised person. We have seen for some time to come the last of the Negro directors, such as the late William C. Matthews was in 1924.

Republican

LILY WHITES ARE SEATED IN G O P CONVENTION

Credentials Committee Upholds Action Of National Committee

WATSON SEEKS NOW TO OUST BENJAMIN DAVIS

Group Moves To Get 14th And 15th Amendment Plank

CONVENTION H A L L KANSAS CITY, A. N. P.—The Hoover s t e a m roller continued to function Tuesday when the G. O. P. Convention opened.

The credentials committee voted 35 to 15 to affirm the action taken by the National Committee seating lily-white delegations in Louisiana and Florida and the all-white Texas delegation. Colored delegations from Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee were also seated.

The committee voted down 39 to 7, a special motion to unseat R. R. Church, of Tennessee.

The convention opened Tuesday morning and the tense spirit which gripped delegates and visitors gave way to relief as Mellon and Butler declared for Hoover.

The seventy race delegates, alternates and scores of visitors added a touch of color to the crowd on the floor of the three-galleried oval structure, holding ten thousand people.

Senator Simeon Fess, in his keynote address, said "The hold of the man who sits in the White House upon the people of America today without regard to sex, race, creed or color, is the result of an administration under which we have enjoyed the greatest era of prosperity and happiness ever given any nation.

"We shall withdraw from Haiti as we have withdrawn from San Domingo as soon as we shall have finished the task of establishing a stable government and developing her resources so as to make the country self-sustaining."

The chief discussion among the colored contingent includes the terrific fight made on Ben Davis for committeemanship by Joe Watson, of Georgia, backed Mrs. George Williams. It is reported that Davis has a majority of two votes.

It is claimed there are only three colored jobs in the State, committeeman, secretary state committee, and assistant secretaryship, and that Davis holds all of them. This is the basis of the fight. The election has not been held yet.

The Proxies

Ben Davis, Mrs. George Williams, Georgia Committeemen; Perry Howard, Mrs. E. P. Jones, Mississippi Committeemen, and proxies to white members of the National Committee in the Cohen contest, who voted against Cohen defeating him by four votes. Davis says he makes no apology for the vote and explains that in the Florida and Texas cases, he, himself, voted because of the racial issue involved, but that in the Cohen case, Cohen was opposed to Hoover for whom he was pledged, and that case was so poorly presented that it could not have won.

Banquet

At the Citizens Banquet, held at the Street Hotel, Monday night, C. H. Calloway presiding, Bishop Vernon, Judge Henry, of Philadelphia, Judge Wm. C. Hueston, John R. Hawkins were among those who spoke. Homer G. Phillips, Hoover leader in charge of headquarters here and last speaker, declared he wanted no job.

To Name Leader

Interest in the selection of a Negro poltical leader interests politicians present. It is the usual custom at presidential conventions. Four years ago the late William C. Matthews was named.

14th Amendment

S. D. Redmond, of Mississippi; Robert R. Church, Tennessee; John T. Risher, District of Columbia; Ben J. Davis, Georgia; Walter L. Cohen, Louisiana, and Roscoe Simmons and Oscar Depriest, Illinois, made a determined fight to have a plank inserted in the platform committing the party to the enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution. They said the amendments involving their suffrage rights are as sacred as the Eighteenth Amendment.

Colored delegates by States are as follows: Arkansas, 3; Georgia, 11; Illinois, 2; Kentucky, 2; Louisiana, 5; Maryland, 2; Michigan, 1; Mississippi, 8; Missouri, 3; New Jersey, 1; Ohio, 1; South Carolina, 6; Tennessee, 1; and West Virginia, 2.

Alternates: Iowa, 1; Mary, 3; Mass., 1; Michigan, 1; New York, 1; and Pennsylvania, 2.

H. L. Mencken, white, termed Claude Barnett and A. L. Holsey the "most intelligent men among persons I have encountered at the convention, one U. S. Senator and five bootleggers excepted."

Only 80 percent of the persons he met "savored of the still", Mencken wards "co-eds". Strangely enough, during the writer's four years at Howard University she has never heard a single specific charge of misconduct toward "co-eds" against a single one of the professors involved. This is more than she can say for some other members of the faculty.

Motives

Aside from the very probable motives of corruption behind the affair, the administration itself has shown a marked lack of regard for scholarship and efficient service. Of the four men dismissed, one has the Ph.D. degree and the others have done considerable work toward the same degree. All are scholars and teachers of unquestioned ability. They have spent years in preparing themselves for their positions; yet the administration has seen fit to attempt to injure their careers upon the basis of unsubstantiated charges of irresponsible and malicious persons.

This is the third time in less than two years that the present administration has struck a blow at scholarship, the chief reason for the existence of a college. Last year a man, who is an eminent scholar in his field, was compelled to leave in a similarly peremptory manner, but the public was told that he was being given a leave of absence because of illness, although the professor himself and his physician were unable to discover the slightest trace of illness.

Another professor of equal eminence—a scholar of marked ability—was allowed to go to another institution without even a gesture on the part of the adminstration to retain his services. It looks very much as if scholarship at Howard University is neither appreciated nor desired. At the present rate of peremptory and unopposed dismissals, the faculty will soon consist of a group of spineless mediocres and moss-backs.

Puritanical

The narrow, puritanical attitude taken by those in charge of this affair has already been mentioned. The writer believes that a "holier-than-thou" attitude on the part of certain officials has been wholly responsible for the outcome of this affair.

There is in Howard University a group of narrow moralists who go about seeking that which is most evil. They are remnants of the misguided Puritans of the seventeenth century, and it is the belief of the writer that their attitude will be just as destructive to their own cause as that of their well-meaning predecessors. Because they see everything through their narrowness and bigotry, it is impossible for them to render a sane decision about anything.

That the decision in this case was reached before a single one of the accused was ever brought to trial is the firm conviction not only of the writer, but of all intelligent persons who considered the facts in the case.

Give Truth

The purpose of the writer has been to give the public the truth. Prior to this the public has been allowed to know only one side of the question and that has been highly colored by malicious motives. She has shown that the method used in handling this case renders unsafe the position of every member of the faculty; that the charges against the professors bore no semblance of truth and were not sufficiently serious to warrant the action taken; that the trial they were given was a farce; that the charges did not originate in a desire to improve the morals of the University or to protect womanhood, but that there were sinister motives lying back of the charges—the desire to injure someone, to make vacancies for friends. She has also shown that too little regard has been given to scholarship and faithful service; and that too much emphasis has been placed upon a hypocritical and puritanical point of view of the problem.

If she has merely opened the eyes of the public to the fact that credulous students of the University are being used by corrupt persons, both within and without the University, as "cat's paws" for forwarding their own personal ends, she will feel in part satisfied.

Columbus, Ga., Enquirer-Sun
Monday, July 23, 1928

Reviling the Living, Defaming the Dead

(Editorial from the Birmingham News.)

Because of the official position held by the author of a letter published in today's "Voice of the People" column, that letter's contents merit the attentive consideration of all citizens of Alabama—certainly of all citizens here who are resolved that this state's social and political ideals shall be maintained and perpetuated. C. B. Kennamer is the United States attorney for the Northern District of Alabama under the present Republican administration. He is one of the recognized leaders of the Republican party in this state.

Apparently Mr. Kennamer is determined to wreck at the outset of the campaign whatsoever chance his party may have had of carrying Alabama in November. Otherwise, his communication would not have opened, as it does, with its studied insult to the memory of leaders of the Alabama Democracy for the last half-century. "The same old 50-year-old cheap bunk"—these are the words that this Republican United States attorney now employs in his effort to discredit the Democratic party. This is his Republican way of defaming the memory of Democrats here who, in season and out of season, for more than a half century have maintained ideals, social as well as political, inherited from their fathers. Deaf each one of them to "the jingling of the guinea", these faithful Dmocrats redeemed Alabama when Mr. Kennamer's party was doing all that its diabolical ingenuity could contrive to do to ruin the state. Morgan and Pettus, Johnston and Jelks, Jones and Seay, Underwood and Comer, Henderson and Kilby, Brandon and Graves, Black and Huddleston—these are the men, some dead and some living, whom this Republican federal officeholder now dares to defame with this characterization—"the same old 50-year-old bunk". Unless this newspaper vastly misunderstands the temper and character of Alabama's white citizenhip, this state's people may be trusted to answer this insolence. The Birmingham News thanks this Republican officeholder for his unrestrained vituperation, and for all the seething Republican hate, all the smoldering Republican contempt revealed by it.

Not content with misrepresenting Alabama Democrats who rescued Alabama from carpetbag and scalawag rule, Mr. Kennamer even dares to include the martyr Democratic president Woodrow Wilson, in his implication. He intimates that President Wilson adopted and enforced the policy of racial social equality that everyone now knows was recently revived by Secretary Hoover in the Department of Commerce at Washington. There is nothing "mysterious", or "undefined", or "imaginary" about Mr. Hoover's dual offense. Advisedly, the News uses the word "dual". Either Mr. Hoover, by his official order in the Department of Commerce, abolished segregation of the races there because of his sincere belief in the wisdom of placing members of the two races side by side in their work there, or he issued the order to strengthen his candidacy for the Republican nomination among Negroes at the North and at the South. If his motive was to illustrate his sympathy with racial equality, his action was exceedingly unwise. In the South, at least, his purpose can awaken no support among understanding men or understanding women of the white race. If he issued his order in an effort to pander to the Negro vote in the South or elsewhere, he was guilty of employing a political expedient unworthy a candidate for the presidential office. The United Stats attorney for the Northern District of Alabama has this newspaper's unstinted permission to seize either horn, or both horns, of that dilemma.

The charge that Gov. Smith has "catered to the venal Negro vote of New York" may be judged in the light of the charge made by Mr. Kennamer that Alabama's redemption from Negro rule was achieved by "cheap bunk"—that Democracy's leaders here for the last 50 years have been political charlatans and mountebanks. Nothing could be farther from the truth than this aspersion that is cast upon the Democratic presidential candidate. Like his two Democratic predecessors, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson, Gov. Smith insists that the whole country do justice to all men—blacks as well as whites. When Wilson and Cleveland were in power, everyone understood—even temperate Republicans admitted—that the rights of all men under the law were respected and protected.

"We shall do justice to the Negro," said Benjamin Harvey Hill of Georgia, in Congress in 1876. "He is in our power and cowardice takes no meaner shape than when strength oppresses weakness." Into this statement of Senator Hill's is compressed the very essence of the South's, and the country's, solid sense on this question . What Mr. Hill said applies now, not to the Democratic South, but the more particularly to a political party that has for 60 years deceived the black man, misled the black man and perverted the black man's credulous nature into a means whereby some Republican white men might enrich themselves at the black man's and the country's expense. It was not the Negro whom respectable white men of the South loathed in Reconstruction days. It was the carpetbagger and the scalawag. Both were then loathed because, each of them did exactly what Benjamin Harvey Hill had in mind. They they took advantage of the Negro, who they knew was in their power. They were guilty of the base form of cowardice that takes shape when strength misleads and oppresses weakness.

If anything had been needed to prove that the issue raised in this campaign, not by the South—not by any prominent Democrat of the country—but solely by the present Republican candidate for the presidency, is now a real issue, this letter of Mr. Kennamer's would have provided that proof conclusively. His defamation of Democratic leaders who saved this state's people is an insult not only to living Democrats like Jelks, Henderson, Kilby, Brandon, Graves, Black and Underwood, but none the less to this state's dead heroes like Morgan, Pettus, Jones, Seay, Johnston, White, Bankhead and Comer.

In every line of this Kennamer letter breathes the spirit of contemptuousness like that exhibited many years ago when a group of Republicans set out to plunder the South in its weakness and to mock the South in its calamity. In this instance the voice may be the voice of a Republican United States attorney for Northern Alabama, but the hand is unmistakably the hand of the Republican party—a party which, in its treatment of white Americans of the Southern States, learns nothing and forgets nothing.

By this letter of his, Mr. Kennamer has unwittingly done this state no mean service. He has made plain the peril that now confronts it. He has stirred ashes beneath which are banked inextinguishable fires. Unconsciously, he has sounded a call to arms—a call that will be heard in every voting precinct of Alabama—a call that should be heeded by every white citizen of this state who places the commonwealth's welfare above his own interest. In behalf of the Old South made glorious by Demorats whose memory Mr. Kennamer now derides, in behalf of the New South into which the old has been wisely conserved. The Birmingham News summons this state's citizens to answer with their ballots this revilement of the living, this defamation of the dead.

Colorado Blacks Pledge Support To Wet Romanist

DENVER, Colo.—While unscrupulous politicians who seek to hold the South in line for Al Smith against their principles of Protestantism and prohibition, will take up the cry of "Negro," and seek to make the south believe that the Republican party is solely the black party, and that Eastern Democracy, like that of the south, is a white man's party, there comes this message of congratulations to Al Smith on his nomination from the Colorado Negro Voters Advisory association:

"The Colorado Negro Voters Advisory association congratulates the Democratic party upon your nomination as its standard bearer for the presidency of the United States. Your nomination comes to the negroes of America as their second emancipation proclamation. The first freed them from manual bondage. The second frees them from political slavery. Colorado Negro voters will give you and Senator Robinson in our judgment at least eighty per cent of their voting strength."—The Fellowship Forum.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

Negro Management of Campaign Is A Vital Consideration With The Race Politicians Now At Kansas City

The Age Correspondent Analyzes Situation As To the Various Aspirants, With Prediction That Nomination Will Decide "Who's Who"

(Staff Correspondence of The Age)

Kansas City, Mo.—Negro management of the Negro end of the Republican Presidential campaign, not nomination of the candidate, is the principal concern of Negro politicians. whose number assembled here is legion.

And the fact that the man finally nominated for President by the Convention will name his own "Sam" doesn't in the least perturb the lot of anybody "Sams," who are as active as a self-conscious drunk, trying to make it home on Sunday morning before the streets are filled with his neighbors going to church.

Heavyweights On Scene.

There are some real heavyweights here: "Bob" Church, for instance. But the Tennessee leader is no small-timer, and it is not believed he would accept a "head Sam's" post, if tendered. Certainly, Mr. Church is not of the type. Grand Exalted Ruler Finley, generalissimo Wilson of the Elks, and Magistrate Edward W. Henry of Philadelphia, blew in to this mountainous municipality Monday. They didn't arive together. The G. E. R. came from Washington; the Philly magistrate, accompanied by Mrs. Henry, started from the home city of "Brotherly Love."

Back in December it was rumored that Pery Howard's candidates for the managerial portfolios were J. Finley Wilson and Miss Nannie H. Burroughs. Finley is here. Finley represents the most formidable group of organized Negroes on earth—the colored Elks; and Miss Burroughs, along with Mrs. Lampkins of Pittsburgh, conferred with the Hon. Perry Howard at Washington about three weeks ago. It is not unfair or unreasonable to give some credence to the story of Perry Howard's candidates for the posts well supplied in 1924 by the late lamented William C. Matthews and Mrs. Lawton of Brooklyn. And neither of the alleged Howard selections is a head "Sammer."

Perry Howard's Pledge.

It is not believed, however, that the signed pledge of the Perry Howard Mississippi delegation to stick with Hoover till the stickers wear out carries any proviso for Howard selection of Hoover's "Afric" campaign managers, in the event of Hoover's nomination. The Hoover organization has been assembled for months, and it has functioned perfectly.

A most astute politician of the Hoover forces is Walter F. Brown of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Brown is is Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and Mr. Hover is the Secretary. A most able Negro associate of Mr. Brown is Mr. Clarence Veena also of Toledo. Mr. Veena is very much here. And so are Melvin Chisum, Roscoe Simmons and Monroe Mason of Boston—busy as bees, and still the most affable aid amiable of busy men

Many pretend to see in the sudden asignment of James A. ("Billboard") Jackson to the Department of Commerce eight or nine months ago a link in the chain of the Hoover-Presidential organization. "Billboard" was on the staff of the Associated Negro Press when he was given a civil service post in the "Small Business Section" of the Department's "Domestic Commerce Buerau." And "small business" indeed, is it to develop the "Sam" organization of a Presidential candidate!

Senator Borah A "Dud."

If, when this is read, fate has smiled kindly on Herbert Hoover, Negro editors and advertising managers of Negro newspapers might just as well get ready to do business with the management of the Associated Negro Press. The A. N. P. is a going concern, and Messrs. Hoover and Work, like other persons having occasion to deal with sub-contractors, want the best organized and most concentrated organizatioi. Besides, the A. N. P. got in on the ground with the first ground-swell of the Mississippi floods; and a "stitch in time, saves nine." So, if Hoover's man, others than the Hoover-Afric organization might as well do a Senator Borah—shut up shop when the publicity stunts to attract attention pan out to be "duds." And Borah, who is here looking more like Booker T. Washington every day, is a perennial "dud."

If Hoover loses, then there'll be a scrable. Lowden is perona non grata to the Illinois leaders—Chicago Mayor Thompson, Daniel Jackson, Oscar DePriest. So if Lowden gets the nomination, Melvin Chisum, who is somewhat allied with Senator "Jim" Watson of Indiana, will get the post.

Tidrington In The Field.

Ernest Tidrington of Terre Haute, who missed the Registership of the Treasury when Senator Watson turned down President Coolidge of the "World Court," is said to be aspiring to be Negro maanger of the Negro end of the campaign. Ernest is a mighty nice and a very able fellow; but he also is Vice Supreme Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias—left handed crowd—according to the rival group of Afric-Pythians, and eastern Pythians of Ernest's jurisdiction are quite sore about some decision he rendered in Massachusetts. Unlike his Southern Pythians, Ernest's eastern brethren at least have the privilege of laying in bed and refusing to register and vote.

Should Longworth get the nomination, whoever C. Bascom Slemp considers the best "Sam" will be the "Sam" manager. Keep your eye on Longworth. He and Slemp are best of friends, and Slemp is the best manhandler here. Besides the Longworths and the Ogden Mills came together. Ogden Mills is Under Secretary of the Treasury, close to his chief, Secretary Mellon, who propitiously released a long letter denying the practice of segregation in the Treasury last week

If Dawes is nominated, his white gardener's Negro valet will be head "Sam." But in the event of the nomination of Ambassador Morrow, the Afric managerial post is likely to be assigned Magistrate Ed. Henry of Philadelphia.

There is probably a humous rumor afloat here of a third party ticket, headed by General Coxey of Ohio. with Rev. Simon P. Drew, as running mate.

Another item of interest aroused here constrains the question—"If President Coolidge doesn't choose to run why did he choose the biggest staff to ever accompany a President on a summer vacation."

FOLLY IN HIGH PLACES

One of the basic causes for the continuous exploitation of Negroes in the South was forced to the surface during the recent Republican conventions in Texas. It has been demonstrated that the Negro is not so endangered by the open antagonism of southern whites as he is by the stupid antics of his self-styled leaders. Our education seems to fail us at the point where leadership is determined by truly unselfish and consistent labor for the masses. And our weakness in this regard seems to become more flagrant at the point where it is necessary that cool and deliberate actions be taken in order to best serve the group as a whole. Indeed, when the real test is applied we find our leaders skulking as miserable failures, and the following is left exposed to the white man's whims.

One of the most glaring instances in point is the infantile behavior of group leaders in Houston during the Republican District Convention, and the sorry affair as culminated in Dallas at the State Convention.

Never was the political well-being of the Texas Negro so dependent on the solidarity within his own ranks; and never was he offered such an opportunity to contribute toward fortifying his own position as a political factor in the State; and in the meanwhile, never was his political fortune so jeopardized as at this time. The determination within the Democratic ranks to deprive him of his constitutional rights on the one hand, and the relentless effort of the "regular" Republicans to render him impotent in Republican affairs, on the other, should be convincing enough that the only solution rests in the manner in which he is able to manipulate his own forces.

It would be almost treacherous at this stage to advocate that the struggle has been lost. In fact, we are confronted with the necessity of fighting with even more determination; but it must be admitted that the stupidity in high places among Houston Negroes cannot but serve the ends of our political opposers. Factionalism within the ranks of Negro Republicans in Texas, aside from being unnecessary, at once exposes a weakness that the astute politician will not fail to utilize to his own advantage.

In fact, this very tendency on the part of the Negro has served as the chief weapon in the hands of the opposite group for throttling our racial progress. It is said that dissension among slaves was employed by whites as a means of keeping them in bondage over a period of more than two hundred years. This habit seems to have become so well grounded as a racial trait, that, even among our so-called "intelligensia" it persists as a dominating factor.

The State Republican Convention, at least, has shown the Negro his position if he is to be given a fighting chance in Republican affairs of the state; therefore the only decent and consistent attitude that the "warring" Negro factions of Houston can assume is that of burying their petty ambitions, forget personalities, and mobilize their forces in order to present a solid link with those who are working for true representation of Republicanism in Texas.

LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS

JUN 13 1928

Is Difficult to Keep the Negro Brethren Organized

Mr. Hoover's Troubles With Mississippi Delegation, Which Threatened to Come Unorganized, Causes Scandalous Talk by Low Evil-Minded Persons.

By Westbrook Pegler.
(Chicago Tribune-New York Times Special to the Gazette.)

Kansas City, Mo., June 12.—The evil serpent of corruption which has been hovering over the Republican national convention like a rift in the ointment, seems to be no serpent at all but the spirit of honor, duty and public service. It is a pleasure to be able to report this when there is so much cynicism in the land and even the high status of the heavyweight champion of the world is subject to the whispered suspicions of persons of a certain mental type.

I refer to the depressing rumors circulated by low-minded statesmen within the last few days here in Kansas City to the effect that a number of Senegambian Republicans from the Southern states had been paid or induced by other considerations than the nation's welfare to promise their votes to Herbert Hoover in the convention.

They Merely Promised.

These rumors did not state that these dark brethren actually were going to vote for Mr. Hoover, but merely that they had promised to do so. However, that only made the charges that much more sordid. The political experts from Washington, D. C., who seem to be a disrespectful lot, told me that if a delegate promised to vote for a candidate in consideration of $2, a pig or a plug hat, paid in hand, there was nothing in the political code of honor to prevent him from promising his allegiance to the manager of some other needy candidate, also on the best available terms. The most shocking stories were circulated of the purchase of the Southern brethren and the difficulty of making them stay purchased until time for them to cast their ballots.

One wondered if such things could be, and I am not in a position to explain that they cannot.

The Mississippi delegation, led by Perry Howard, a negro holding office in Washington as an assistant attorney general, was the delegation concerning which the most discouraging stories were told. There is another delegation of Mississippi Republicans in town, claiming to be the true representatives of the Republican peoples' will in Mississippi, and the dispute, becoming acrimonious, provoked aspersions on the motives of the Howard delegation in pledging its suport to Mr. Hoover.

It appears from the record of the Senate investigation only recently that Mr. Howard received $2,000 for the purpose of organizing the 8,000 Republicans of Mississippi for Mr. Hoover, or about 25 cents per Republican.

No matter what use Mr. Howard made of this money, I submit that it is a great feat of statesmanship nowadays to organize anybody, either Republican or Democrat, for 25 cents and keep him organized over a considerable lapse of time.

I have heard of men becoming organized on the Bowery in New York for as little as 10 cents since prohibition wiped out the liquor evil, but the city had to buy them and this wiped out the economy.

It seems, however, that Howard did not have much faith in a delegate who was organized at the nominal rate of 25 cents worth per constituent and was afraid he could not keep them in a state of enthusiasm for Mr. Hoover. So he wrote a letter to Mr. Clarence Buck, campaign manager for Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, soliciting co-operation in organizing his delegation all over again for Mr. Lowden.

But it seems that in 1924 when Mr. Lowden was making his first campaign for the nomination, his manager, Mr. Lou Emmerson, an Illinois statesman, embarrassed his principle no little by sending liberal co-operation to certain leaders in the state of Missouri. It developed that two of these leaders organized their constituents for Mr. Lowden at the bargain price of nothing per head and retained the co-operation for their own uses. Persons of a suspicious nature who came by this information endeavored to make it appear that Mr. Lowden's manager actually was buying delegates and by that time he could prove that nothing was remoter from his purpose it was too late.

So this year Mr. Buck appears to have made it a rule of his campaign to put out no co-operation whatever.

The further details of Howard's work in keeping the Mississippi delegation organized for Mr. Hoover are not disclosed. However, it was reported that the delegates came unorganized again. Howard discovered, to his embarrassment, that they were for Mr. Coolidge which was the same thing as being for John Doe, inasmuch as Mr. Coolidge was not a candidate.

This, of course, meant that they would have to be organized all over and they were still in this loose and and unorganized state when they came to Kansas City. But when they arrived here they discovered the other Mississippi delegation on the ground, offering to organize themselves for Mr. Hoover without any co-operation at all and for a brief, exciting time there seemed to be a possibility that the other delegation, being self-organizing, would get the seats.

However, in this crisis, the Howard delegates felt the old loyalty to Mr. Hoover pulsing in their veins again and it was decided to give them the seats. But before they were given the seats, they gave the Hoover management a written pledge signed by Howard that they would not, under any circumstances, come unorganized a second time until after the convention.

This pledge, its meaning distorted by the low minded rivals of Mr. Hoover doubtless forms the basis for the unkind and obviously false idea, widely circulated of late, that the Republican brethren from the South are citizens of wobbly devotion who are susceptible to last minute persuasion and really aren't safe unless kidnaped and held in seclusion until it is time to vote

It is discouraging to find that the honest questioning of sincere negro statesmen, unable to make up their minds without co-operation or to keep them made up without further co-operation can be publicly distorted in this manner by unscrupulous politicians and made to appear as something quite foreign to their high sense of citizenship. They should sue somebody.

DISPATCH

Union N.Y.

JUN 13 1928

Frelinghuysen's Letter-Writing

A great many business men could learn a valuable lesson from Joseph S. Frelinghuysen's recent campaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

The number of votes polled by Frelinghuysen was the biggest surprise of the entire campaign. And the biggest vote-getting force employed by the former Senator was his letter-writing.

The Frelinghuysen letters were not the common brand of multigraph letters. There were thousands upon thousands of letters sent out to voters, and every letter was a separately typed letter, on a typewriter. And every letter was personally signed; no rubber stamp signatures.

An extensive force of typists was employed for weeks, doing nothing but write letters. True, they were "form" letters; "form" letters in that Mr. Frelinghuysen did not dictate each letter personally. But every "form" letter had a personal touch, and the candidate nearly got writer's cramp, signing letters. He could not have spent his money to better advantage, nor could he have spent his time to better advantage than when he signed those letters.

There are a great many people who receive so many letters that these "form" letters do not mean much to them. But there are thousands of people, not prominent enough to receive large mail deliveries, who feel very highly honored in receiving a letter from a candidate for high office.

And there was the case of a Negro in South Jersey who received one of the letters. He had intended voting for Mr. Stokes, but when he received the Frelinghuysen letter, he changed. Not only that, but he started to work for Frelinghuysen. "I didn't even know Mr. Frelinghuysen knew me," said the Negro, innocently, "but I received a personal letter from him asking me to vote for him and to work for him." And he did.

Many a business man could well afford to indulge himself in writing personal letters to his customers, at every possible opportunity. Or he could well afford to employ a good letter-writer, and then sign the letters.

There is an asset in letter-writing that gives intimacy to business. People like to think they are recognized by the heads of firms. Personal letters are capable of adding enormously to the good will of business.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

G. O. P. Convention Jim Crow Extends To Press Table

Holsey, Chisum, Barnett, Brown Unable To Secure Seats. No Delegates At Hotels.

KANSAS CITY, (Special by Wire) —The G. O. P. Convention jim crow has extended to the press table, where nearly 600 white representatives of the press are seated.

Chairman William M Butler, of Massachusetts, turned down Albion Holsey, of Tuskegee, Claude Barnett, of the Associated Negro Press, Melvin Chisum, of the National Negro Press Association, and Edgar Brown, of the Chicago Association Tuesday. He claimed that all places at the press table had been reserved several weeks before and referred the newspaper men to Lee Nixon, Indiana sergeant-at-arms. Nixon referred them back to Butler, without taking action, declaring all spaces reserved for larger newspaper and associations only.

Attempt to bar colored members of the press from the National Republican Committee Protest Hearings in the Ararat Temple a week ago were frustrated when representatives of the AFRO-AMERICAN and other newspapers took seats and declined to move.

James D. Preston, 4724 Fifteenth street, Washington, superintendent of the Senate press gallery, was in charge of the G. O. P. press table. He referred to Edgar Brown as "that nigger who wants a seat at the press table."

In Rear Of The Convention

Delegations from Georgia and Mississippi are seated in the extreme rear of convention hall. Some 60 other colored delegates and alternates, however, are placed with their state delegations in all parts of the hall.

No colored delegates are lodged at hotels which are carrying out the same jim crow policy as obtained during the M. E. General Conference.

The jim crow atmosphere here is so hostile that no organized effort is being made by race delegates to secure a plank in the G. O. P. "Let them do their darndest", said one delegate. Others profess to the secret hope that Al Smith will defeat the G. O. P. nominee.

Memphis, Tenn., Commercial-Appl. Tuesday, June 5, 1928

MEMPHIANS ARE OFF TO G.O.P. CONVENTION

Many of Faithful Will Depart Today.

Memphis will be well represented when the Republican convention opens at Kansas City next week. She will be well represented long before the convention begins. In fact, quite a few local politicians and would-be politicians have gone already.

Most of them have gone to witness the contest between Jim Quinn, supported by opposition to Bob Church, negro politician, and Church for seating as a delegate from the tenth district. The fight should get under way by Thursday or Friday, local leaders assert.

The following have signified their intention of attending: Lindsay B. Phillips, district attorney; David Hanover, Arthur Brode, Lester H. Brenner (Church alternate), Thomas Phelan (county chairman), C. H. King, Harry Spears, J. M. (Jim) Johnson, John R. Walker, Jr., John McCall, Mrs. Harry True and of course Mr. Quinn and Church.

Herbert L. Harper, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress, will also be there. Most of those interested who are driving through will leave today.

KANSAS CITY IS HOST TO G. O. P. DIGNITARIES

Nationally Prominent Leaders Present

Kansas City, Mo., June 15.—Housing facilities have been stretched to the utmost to care for the hundreds of party leaders, delegates-at-large, committeemen and whatnots attending the national Republican convention in session here.

Visitors are here from all sections of the nation. Prominent leaders whose names are household words in the homes of the land are here mingling with the lesser lights of the Grand Old Party. Walter L. Cohen, New Orleans; Robert R. Church, Memphis, Tenn.; Benn Davis, Atlanta, Ga.; Attorney B. F. McCall, Jacksonville, Fla.; William M. McDonald, Fort Worth, Tex.; Perry Howard, Jackson, Miss.; Oscar DePriest and Daniel M. Jackson, Chicago; D. W. Sherrod, Meridian, Miss.; O. J. Smith, St. Paul.; George Wibecan and William H. Davis, New York, and Dr. W. G. Alexander, Orange, N. J., are some of the leaders present at the sessions. Mrs. George S. Williams and Mrs. Eugent Booze, committeewomen of Georgia and Mississippi, respectively, at with the national committee on judging contests between state delegations.

Guest in City

The citizens' housing cohmittee Mrs. M. F. Cook, chairman, posted the following list of visitors in the city attending the convention:

J. J. McCottrie, Georgetown, S. C.; George C. Mendenhall, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Redmond and Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Redmond, Jackson, Miss.; E. S. Richardman, Marshallville, Ga.; A. Robinson, Louisiana; Dr. Benjamin E. Robinson, Boston, Mass.; Andrew Turner, New Orleans; F. P. Rodgers, Atlanta; R. V. Stewart, Newark, N. J.; E. S. Swan, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Vena, Toledo; Mrs. George Williams, Savannah, Ga.; C. C. Wilson, New Orleans; Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Wiseman, Detroit; Dr. R. C. Williams, Augusta, Ga.; George H. Woodson, Des Moines, Iowa; Rev. J. B. Curry, Springfield; James Cotter, Chicago; Dr. Daniel Savannah, Ga.

Ernest DePaur, Newark, N. J.; Mrs. Oscar DePriest and Oscar DePriest Jr., Chicago; R. J. Estes, New Orleans; Mrs. Daisy Lampkin, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Dr. J. R. Levy, Florence, S. C.; Mrs. Ida liston, Indianapolis; Dr. J. H. Lowry, Donaldsville, La.; Monroe Mason, Boston; Mrs. Grace W. Evans, Terre Haute, Ind.; Capt. G. E. Ferguson, Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. L. M. Fryerweather, Brooklyn N. Y.; Alderman and Mrs. T. W Fleming, Cleveland, Ohio; Walter Foster, Boston; Miss Elizabeth Gully Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Heslip, Toledo; Dr. J. R. Hawkins, Washington, D. C

Southerns Lead

William James, Atlanta; Alderman Rorert R. Jackson, Chicago; Rev. William H. Jernigan, Washington, D. C.; Dr. R. L. Johnson, Jackson, Miss.; Aaron Chatters, New Orleans; Dr. S. C. Clemons, Macon, Ga.; William Cleveland, Newton, Miss.; Dr L. Colman, St. Paul; Victor Collins, New Orleans; Mrs. M. E. Burrell, Newark, N. J.; T. W. Bell Leavenworth; B. V. Baranco, Baton Rouge La.; Conwell Banton, Wilmington Del.; Leon Anderson, Jacksonville Fla.; A. J. Brown, Vicksburg, Miss.; J. B. Blocker, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr and Mrs. E. P. Booze, Mound Bayou Miss.; V. P. Bush, Jacksonville, Fla.; George T. Cheshire, Newark N. J.; Mrs. Helan B. Cardoza, Washington; Dr. Leach, Flint, Mich.; Scipio Jones Little Rock; W. Jenifer, Lansing Mich.; F. W. Bryan, Gainesville Fla.; Rev. Richard Belder, New York; J. R. Rivers, Denver; Dr. L. K. Williams, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Price, Columbus, Ohio; Dr. H. H. Phipps, Hot Springs, Ark.; Walthal Moore, St. Louis; Mrs. Bessie Mention, Princeton, N. J.; A. C. Logan, Little Rock, and O. G. Williams, Jefferson City, Mo.

Republican.

HOOVER GETS SOLID NEGRO VOTE --COHEN AND DAVIS IN TROUBLE ---WATSON CONTINUES FIGHT

Convention Hall, Kansas City, Mo., June 12

The Republican National Convention opened this morning. The tense spirit which for several days has gripped delegates and visitors alike gave way to relief as Mellon and Butler declared for Hoover as the logical man for the highest office in the gift of the American people.

The half hundred negro delegates and scores of negro visitors added a touch of color to the crowd on the floor of the three-galleried oval structure holding ten thousand people.

After a perfunctory opening Senator Fess in his keynote address reviewed the achievements of the Republican party and made it plain that the Grand Old Party would go before the country on its record as the party of progress and prosperity. In paying tribute to President Coolidge he declared "The hold of the man who sits in the White House upon the people of America today without regard to sex, race, creed or color, is the result of an administration under which we have enjoyed the greatest era of prosperity and happiness ever given a nation. Of special interest to the negro is the keynote's declaration, "We shall withdraw from Haiti, as we have withdrawn from San Domingo, as soon as we shall have finished the task of establishing a stable government and developing her resources so as to make the country self-sustaining."

The chief discussion among the colored contingent includes the terrific fight made on Ben Davis for national committeemanship by Joe Watson, of Georgia, backed by Mrs. George Williams. It is reported Davis has a majority of two votes. The charge going the rounds is that there are only three colored jobs, namely state committeeman, Secretary State Committeeman and Assistant Secretaryship and that Davis holds all of them, is the basis of the fight. The election has not been held.

The next topic engaging the attention of the colored contingency is the action of Ben Davis, Mrs. George Williams, National Committeeman Perry Howard, Mrs. E. P. Booze, Mississippi Committeewoman in giving proxies to white members of National Committee in Cohen contest who voted against Cohen, defeating him by four votes. Davis says no apology is needed for his action against Cohen as Cohen was opposed to Hoover and that Cohen's case was so poorly presented that it could not have won. He explains that in Florida and Texas cases be voted because of the racial issue involved.

The usual custom of selecting a negro leader from among those present is a question of paramount interest.

At the citizens banquet held at Street Hotel Monday night, C. H. Calloway, presiding, Bishop Vernon, Judge Henry of Philadelphia, Judge William C. Hueston and John R. Hawkins were among those who spoke. Homer G. Phillips, Hoover leader in charge of headquarters here and last speaker, declared he wanted no political job, and made a strong plea for united action.

South's Negro Republicans Vote Loud and Long, Pegier Discovers at the Assembly

Jawjuh Delegation Conducts Real Demonstration at Kansas City—The Boys Are Likely to Over-Vote Themselves, It Is Discovered.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The Commercial Appeal-Chicago Tribune Leased Wire.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 15.—It has been alleged that the colored Republican statesmen of the south are permitted to vote only once in four years, and then only for delegates on the floor of the national convention, and the reason for this precaution on the part of the Caucasian Democrats of the south now begins to dawn upon the outsiders.

It appears that when the colored brethren get started voting they carry the thing to excess and unless restrained one way or another, are likely to over-vote themselves. I understand, that this is a weakness of Caucasian voters in certain localities, notably in some regions of Chicago and New York City, but it is a practice that cannot be too strongly condemned.

I did not realize the extent of this passion of the colored statesmen from the cotton rows and brakes and whisker-moss thickets to vote and vote and vote, until the brothers of the Georgia delegation really loosened up.. and started voting, free and easy, in the Kansas City convention.

But now that is over. I retain an impression that the downyonder Republicans are great natural voters, and that when they get really steaming on a proposition they are not only remarkable sprint voters but great endurance voters as well. You might sum them up as great all-around, free style voters, who would be great asset to any candidate who didn't draw the color line.

Vote On Anything.

It just seems that whenever there wasn't anything else taking place in the convention, Benjamin Jefferson Davis, George Washington Beauregard Lee, or Alexander HamiltonJ ones would pop up out theer on the floor and start voting for or against something.

Sometimes they would catch the Honorable Senator Moses, the chairman of the convention, thinking about his seidels, or whatever it is that an honorable Senator thinks about on a sticky day, and by the time he realized that the Georgia boys were having another vote for themselves, he would have to pound that bar with his bung starter until he was night on to splitting the same in order to heaing them up, and find out what all the voting was for.

Sometimes he couldn't find out because it would seem that the boys were not voting for anything in particular, but were just indulging in a little shadow votingthe brethren got up for a moment among themselves. At other timesmerely to unstick himself from his when there was something tochair and the Hon. Moses thought vote about, it appeared that thehe was rising to raise some parliaGeorgia statesmen weren't quitementary point.

sure they understood the issue, but simply voted from the hip as you might say.

I don't know but that this would be a good voting style for some of our congressmen to adopt because this way a man has only a 50 per cent chance of being wrong, or factor of error, as I believe they call it, whereas some congressmen give the impression that the more they study the matter, the more likely they are to make a mistake.

It was on the roll calls that the Georgia statesmen seemed to have most trouble about keeping their votes within bounds. The clerk would call the roll and the chairman of the other delegations, Connecticut, Colorado and so forth, would bob up and down, delivering the tallies in clipped, quick phrases. But when he would call "Georgia, 16 votes," one of the colored brethren would hoist up, shiny and moist and begin to orate:

"Jawjuh casts thutty fo' votes for Herbut Hoovah, an' 19 votes fo' Guv'nah Lowde n an' seven votes for—"

"Now, now, let us straighten this out," the clerk would say, but just then Mr. Alexander Hamilton Beauregard Lee would fetch himself up and say, "lemme 'splain! Jawjuh casts 28 votes for Herbut Hoovah an' 11 votes for Mistah Dawes an' six votes for ———"

This would just explain it into a hard knot, so the clerk would get out the book and poll the Georgi statesmen, one by one. The poll would go along all right with some of the brethren voting for Herbut Hoovah and some for Guv'nah Lowden until he would get down to brother Hypotenuse Taliaferro, who would jump and yell "ah votes no!" which would confuse things considerably.

There was one time when one of

"For what purpose does the delegate rise?" the Hon. Moses inquired, and the quick thinking statesman, taken by surprise that way, did the instinctive thing. His motto was "When in doubt vote," and he yelled "Ah votes for Hoovah."

In a way, I suppose, the Republican statesmen from the land of the kin and kain't are not to be blamed for voting so fluftly when they get the chance. If a man is permitted to go along voting nonchalantly at ward, township, village, state and national elections, he takes his voting in his stride and it doesn't go to his head.

I have been told that in Poland, under the czars, when it was forbidden to sing the Polish national anthem, the patroiots would go down into cellars or off into the woods and sing it by the hour. Of late, in the conquered Eyrolean territory, Mr. Mussolini has forbidden the natives to yodel, so the Tyroleans, who never yodeled a yodel in their lives before, are boing off itno remote places and singing "Hilee, hi-lee, hi-low," with fierce defiance and fervor. But in this free country, where everybody is permitted to sing the national anthem at any time not one man in 50 knows the words.

The Georgia Republicans, notwithstanding Mr. Borah's pulsating love of the sacred heritage of the constitution, so often avowed in defense of amendment 18, are allowed to vote only once in four years and then through delegates to the national convention. So I suppose Brother Washington Beauregard Lee, Brother Hypotenuse Taliafero and the rest of the brethren, when they come to the conventions are full of a four years' accumulation of pent up votes of themselves and their constituents, and just naturally have to vote, whether there is something to vote about or not.

RACE DELEGATES ON WINNING SIDE

Kansas City Teeming With Colored Delegates and Visitors From Many Sections of U. S.

BEN DAVIS AND PERRY HOWARD WIN AS LEADERS

Bob Church Scores a Decisive Victory. W. Cohen Withdraws Contests on Credentials

By Argus Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 14.—(Bulletin)—Herbert Hoover was nominated for the presidency on a first ballot tonight by the Republican National Convention. The majority of the colored delegates were for Hoover, who got all of the 12 votes of Miss., all but one of the 16 votes of Ga., all but one of the 12 votes of La., all nineteen votes of Tenn., and all twelve votes of Ark., all of which states had colored delegates. Missouri went over into the "band wagon" and gave a solid vote for Hoover.

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 14.—Kansas City has literally teemed with Race delegates from many sections of the country since the opening of the National Republican Convention Tuesday. Mass meetings of Race groups have been held and addressed by prominent Race leaders. Colored and white delegates and politicians have been walking about hotel corridors arm in arm talking about the possibilities of the nomination.

Many Notables Attend

Among the nationally known Negro leaders who have been attending the convention as delegates are Robert (Bob) R. Church, Memphis; Walter L. Cohen, New Orleans; Ben J. Davis, Atlanta; Sara W. King and Joseph Watson, Albany, Ga.; Walthall M. Moore and Judge Crittenden E. Clark, St. Louis, Mo.; Perry W. Howard Jackson, Miss.; Mary C. Booze, and E. P. Booze, Mound Bayon, Miss.; Scipio Jones ,Little Rock, Ark.; Nick Childs, Topeka; Dr. J. H. Lowery, Donaldsonville, La.; Dr. B. W. Daniel, Atlanta; B. F. Cofer and E. F. Richardson, Albany, Ga.; W. H. Harris, Athens.

Win Credential Fight.

The Credential Committee, Tuesday and Wednesday, put its stamp of approval upon the decisions of the National Committee in the contest over seats in all cases, except that of Porto Rica, thus giving the Race delegates the better of the wrangle with southern "Lily Whites."

The determined efforts to unseat Bob Church by the Memphis group failed. A book of newspaper clippings assailing Church prepared by John McCall, Attorney for James Quinn, who was selected as a delegate by the lily white of Memphis, had little weight. Church was seated by unanimous vote defeating McCall, who waged a bitter fight to unseat him.

Walter Cohen, whose delegation was defeated, but who was given a seat in place of one of the members of the victorious Emile Kuntz delegation, withdrew contests from five districts. Curtis is Cohen's choice for the nomination.

George L. Sheldon, former governor of Nebraska, lost his fight before the credential committee for a reversal of the National Committee's decision seating Howard and his delegation.

Howard Again National Committeman

Perry Howard presided at a caucus meeting of the Mississippi delegation. All officers and committee members were elected by unanimous vote indicating the "harmonious spirit of the delegation." Howard was reelected national committeeman and Mary C. Booze national committee woman. Howard's group was solid for Hoover.

Ben Davis again was favored for national committeeman, although he received strong opposition from J. Watson. Sara King was favored for national committee woman.

Scipio Jones refused to divulge anything about his favorite, but it was understood that he is a Hoover man.

Walthall Moore and Judge Crittenden Clark are both Lowden instructed delegates.

Political – 1928
Party Affiliation.

Republican.

Some Visitors and Delegates Attending the G. O. P. Convention

Call Kansas City, Mo
6-15-28

Here are just a few of the delegates and visitors attending the Republican convention here this week. Left to right, Dr. W. G. Alexander, of Orange, N. J., former member of the New Jersey state legislature; Mrs. Oscar DePriest, wife of the stormy petrel of Chicago politics, keeps rather out of the paths of the ballyhooers at the convention. Maybe she will be in Washington this time next year, the wife of Representative DePriest, maybe? She does not answer, except for a smile; Dr. W. P. Curtis and Bishop N. C. Cleaves of St. Louis are talking over the situation in front of their hotel; Ernest Tidrington, well known Indiana leader is caught just before entering Convention hall; Who doesn't know Judge William C. "Billy" Hueston, Elk leader and head of the Negro National league?

—By Staff Photographer

City's Convention Guests Honored by Unrivalled Social Calendar

Sunday, June 11 marked the beginning of a social routine as Kansas City has never before seen. Not in many seasons has the local social calendar been more filled with important events. Kansas City, long known for its hospitality has launched forth to show the many distinguished visitors just what its all about.

Sunday afternoon more than forty people were the guests of the Earl Becks at the Boy's home. Mrs. T. W. Flemming of Cleveland was seen driving her clever car in the caravan of those who motored out; and on Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gleed, 2322 Lydia, the Inter City Dames were hostesses to the delegates and visitors. The receiving line was made up of Mrs. Callie Edwards, the president of the club, Mrs. H. O. Cook, the vice-president, Mrs. T. A. Jones, president of the city federation, Mrs. J. C. Branche, Mrs. William Fairfax and Mrs. Fred Gleed, past presidents, Mrs. Helen Cardozo of Washington, Miss Hallie Q. Brown of Wilberforce, Mrs. George Williams of Savannah, Ga., Mrs. Oscar DePriest of Chicago, Mrs. T. W. Flemming of Cleveland, Mrs. Daisy Lampkins of Pittsburg, Penn., and Mrs. Grace Evans of Terre Haute, Ind. Mrs. A. E. Jenkins the hostess to the entire delegation received at the door. She was assisted by Mrs. Eva M. Fox, Mrs. J. E. Dibble, Mrs W. Hubbell, and Mrs. Theodore Clay. Mrs. D. N. Crosthwaite was the chairman of the decorations and nothing was left undone to add to the attractiveness of the Gleed home. The dining table which was covered by a large antique cloth, held a huge marble bowl filled with cut flowers and ferns and banked on the table with roses and leaves. Only one silver service which each member poured tea in turns, added to the tea was a most delicious service, supervised by Mrs. Ella Wiley. Mrs. A. R. Eagleson had the program and presented T. H. Reynolds, who sang; Mrs. G. W. Brown, a solo; Miss Edith Mayberry whistled, as only Miss Mayberry can, and Mrs. D. A. Holmes sang.

Such beauty and distinction throughout this affair made it an unusual one, the gowns were exquisite both in color and style. Mrs. Oscar De Priest was most attractive in a beige pleated lace with a pleated cape and her only accessory being a diamond brooch; Mrs. Cardozo was smart in an all black satin, wearing a large yellow flower on her shoulder; Mrs. Flemming was lovely in an afternoon gown of flowered crepe-de-chine; Mrs. Edwards was charming in grey lace, so was Mrs. Howard Smith stunning in blue chiffon; Mrs. Unthank who assisted, was sweet in ecrue crepe and lace; Mrs. Jenkins wore green and white beaded crepe; Mrs. Fairfax, all over blue lace; Mrs. Annis Garret was pretty in a flowered chiffon; Mrs. Fox wore rose beige crepe; Mrs. Jones wore an evening gown of black beaded georgette, Mrs. Gleed wore black and red flowered crepe, Mrs. Crosthwaite white crepe-de-chine, Mrs. John Love wore orchid crepe, Mrs. Wiley flowered and white crepe. The many stunning and smart gowns worn by invited guests went far to make this reception a beautiful one. There were far too many lovely dresses seen to mention, in fact no affair given in Kansas City has been lovlier and the "Dames" can be very happy that their welcome to the visitors was such a success.

Monday evening in the Blue room a dinner and smoker was given for the gentlemen visitors and delegates, the hosts for this affair were Dr. E. C. Bunch, T. B. Watkins, F. T. Lane, S. E. Johnson, Dr. W. H. Bruce, Dr. C. R. Humbert, Dr. J. E. Dibble, Felix H. Payne, Dr. W. J. Thompkins, Dr. D. M. Miller, R. S. Street, Dr. J. E. Perry, Dr. T. C. Unthank, Dr. H. M. Smith, L. A. Knox, J. A. K. Ficklin, Dr. A. R. Eagleson, Q. J. Gilmore, Dr. T. C. Chapman, Dr. L. W. Turner, Dr. S. H. Thompson, J. A. Hodge, M. H. Tompkins, J. P. King, Dr. G. W. Brown, Fred W. Dabney, Rev. D. A. Holmes, Dorsey Green, C. A. Calloway and Rev. J. W. Hurse.

Tuesday afternoon the sight-seeing trip by motor, led by the American Legion, a clever sport Hup driven by Homer Roberts. Many points of interest were visited, others whose car were in the trip were Mrs. L. V. Miller, the Redmond car, Dr. G. W. Brown, James Cowden, Rev. J. W. Hurse, Harvey Miller, J. A. Hodge, Edward Evans, Mrs. Piney Brown, M. H. Tompkins, Johnnie Bowles, James Reeves, Mrs. D. M. Miller, Mrs. Goldie Elliott, L. S. Hughes, Walter Cohen, Dr. W. Brathwaite, Dr. A. Porter Davis, Dr. Blunt, Mr. and Mrs. Childs, Dr. T. C. Unthank, the DePriest car, a Kentucky car and Eva Sweatman.

Tuesday evening, exactly fifty-five cars went to the Groves farm for a garden party and, oh my! what a feed at this party. There were at least 500 people who danced and made merry either on the porch, or in the large beautiful home on this farm. Wednesday night another reception at the home of Mrs. A. E. Jenkins.

A reception was given for the ladies; it was a very beautiful affair. The ladies receiving with Mrs. Jenkins were Mesdames H. O. Cook, Williams of Jefferson City, Daisy Lampkins, Geo. Williams, DePriest, A. M. Redmond of Jackson, Miss., and Dr. Lillian Coleman of St. Paul. Mrs. Jenkins was assisted by Mesdames Annis Garrett, Joe E. Herriford, sr., H. O. Eblon, Howard Smith and William Fairfax.

The home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and music was played throughout the evening.

Another smoker was given for the gentlemen at headquarters. This affair is reputed to have been a very spicy affair which began early and ended late.

On Thursday night the entertainment committee were hosts to all the delegates and visitors and the public to a lovely dancing party at Paseo hall. This dance ended the official routine of entertainment for the guests. Many visitors found Kansas City very lively and expressed happiness in being here.

PLEADS FOR RACE PROGRAM IN POLITICS

Homer Phillips Tells Men

Here a Platform Is Needed

A clarion call for a race program in politics was sounded here Tuesday night by Homer G. Phillips, St. Louis attorney, in a speech at a banquet in honor of the visiting delegates and visitors at the Republican convention.

There were speeches by many distinguished visitors, the out-of-town guests were Clayton T. A. French of New York, A. B. Burnett, Paris, Texas, Col. L. L. Parsey, Chicago, W. A. Allmond and E. W. Henry of Philadelphia Dr. C. E. Hawkins, G. W. Bell, Sgt. M. Kerr, of Leavenworth, Kas.; E. P. Roberson, of Parsons, Kas., A. J. Brown, Vicksburg, Miss., John E. Carter, Birmingham, Ala., A. T. Atwater, Rome, Ga., F. P. Rogers, jr., Atlanta, Ga., W. C. Reid, Leon F. Smith, D. Johnson, W. H. Jernagin, J. M. Trigg, W. A. Hamilton, Whitefield McKinley, J. R. Hawkins, M. R. Powell, all of Washington, D. C., Robert T. Scott, W. A. Morant, C. Jackson, Dr. T. A. Curtis, I. A. Dorsey, W. M. Moore, Judge C. C. Clark, Heman Perry, C. K. Robinson, William H. Banks, J. H. Arnold, J. E. Mitchell, Hutchins Inge, Dr. W. P. Curtis, Hugh Boxx, of St. Louis; B. W. Lewis, A. T. Walden, of Atlanta, Ga., E. G. Tidrington, Evansville, Ind.; C. E. Mitchell, Charleston, W. Va.; H. A. Hunt, Fort Valley, Ga.; W. H. Harris, Athens, Ga.; Leon Anderson, John R. Scott, J. B. Blocker, S. D. McGill, W. P. Bush, Jacksonville, Fla.; F. H. Miller, Mound Bayou, Miss.; H. M. Gilliean, P. R. Crutchfield, F. R. Grims, of New Orleans, La.; J. D. Washington Phoenix, Ariz.; P. G. Porter, Eugene L. Bell, of Atchison, Kas.; W. H. Davis, New York; H. W. Lucas Washington, D. C.; Major R. A. Jackson, W. H. Harrison, Oscar De Priest, Morris Lewis of Chicago, A. H. Martin, Thomas Kennedy, Kansas City, Kas.; Dr. E. W. B. Curry, Springfield, Ohio; Paul Jones Nick Chiles, K. K. Pinkston, of Topeka; John L. Webb, Dr. H. H. Phipps, Dr. C. M. Wade, G. W. Green of Hot Springs, Ark.; C. G. Williams, Jefferson City; Dr. S. D. Redmond, E. L. Patton, Dr. A. M. Redmond of Jackson, Miss.; M. A. Wade, Okmulgee, Okla.; Bishop W. T. Vernon, Detroit; Bishop W. S. Brooks, San Antonio; Judge W. C. Hueston, Gary, Ind.; John Adams Omaha; E. L. DePaur, Trenton, N. J.; P. M. Beverly, J. T. Cheshire, R. W. Stewart, of Newark, N. J.; Roscoe Dungee, Oklahoma City; Dr. S. H. George, Paducah, Ky.; S. B. Thompson, John E. Rountree, T. W. Flemming, Dr. E. J. Gregg of Cleveland; W. W. Fisher, Evanston, Ill.; E. W. Barnes, Canton, Miss.; Jesse S. Heslip, Pearl Barber, C. R. Vena of Toledo, Ohio; C. R. Howard, Des Moines, Iowa; O. J. Punch, St. Paul, Dr. B. W. Daniels, Savannah, Ga.; John C. Logan, Columbus, Ohio; C. W. Price, Dayton; Dr. W. G. Alexander, Orange, N. J.; Dr. J. R. Long, Florence, S. C.; Dr. F. M. Payne, Tulsa; Dr. W. P. Harris, Athens, Ga. and C. A. Franklin.

MISSISSIPPI SCANDAL IS VERY, VERY UNTRUE

Perry Howard Did Not Do Those Things.

NO VOTE-BUYING, TRULY

And If Any Afro-Republicans Were "Delivered," They Did Not Break Their Pledges, Except Temporarily.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The Commercial Appeal-Chicago Tribune Leased Wire.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—The evil serpent of corruption, which has been hovering over the Republican national convention like a fly in the ointment, seems to be no serpent at all, but the spirit of honor, duty and public service. It is a pleasure to be able to report this when there is so much cynicism in the land and even the high status of the heavyweight champion of the world is subject to the whispered suspicions of persons of a certain mental type.

I refer to the depressing rumors circulated by low-minded statesmen within the last few days here in Kansas City to the effect that a number of Seneganbian Republicans from the southern states had been paid, or induced by other considerations than the nation's welfare, to promise their votes to Herbert Hoover in the convention.

These rumors did not state that these dark brethren actually were going to vote for Mr. Hoover, but merely that they had promised to do so. However, that only made the charges that much more sordid. The political experts from Washington, D. C., who seem to be a disrespectful lot, told me that if a delegate promised to vote for a candidate in consideration of $2, a pig, or a plug hat, paid in hand, there was nothing in the political code of honor to prevent him from promising his allegiance to the manager of some other needy candidate, also on the best available terms. The most shocking stories were circulated of the purchase of the southern brethren and the difficulty of making them stay purchased until time for them to cast their ballots.

Now It Can Be Told.

One wondered if such things could be, and I am now in a position to explain they cannot.

The Mississippi delegation, led by Perry Howard, a negro, holding office in Washington as an assistant attorney general, was the delegation concerning which the most discouraging stories were told. There is another delegation of Mississippi Republicans in town claiming to be the true representatives of the Republican people's will in Mississippi, and the dispute, becoming acrimonious, provoked aspersions on the motives of the Howard delegation in pledging its support to Mr. Hoover.

It appears from the record of the Senate investigation only recently, that Howard received $2,000 for the purpose of organizing the 8,000 Republicans of Mississippi for Mr. Hoover, or about 25 cents per Republican.

No matter what use Howard made of this money, I submit that it is a great feat of statesmanship nowadays, to organize anybody, either Republican or Democrat, for 25 cents, and keep him organized over a considerable lapse of time.

I have heard of men becoming organized on the Bowery of New York for as little as ten cents since prohibition wiped out the liquor evil, but the city had to buy them and this wiped out the economy.

It seems, however, that Howard did not have much faith in a delegate who was organized at the nominal rate of 25 cents worth per constituent, and was afraid he could not keep him in a state of enthusiasm for Mr. Hoover. So he wrote a letter to Mr. Clarence Buck, campaign manager for Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, soliciting co-operation in organizing his delegation all over for Mr. Lowden.

Once Upon a Time.

But it seems that in 1924, when Mr. Lowden was making his campaign for nomination, his manager, Mr. Lou Emmerson, an Illinoise statesman, embarrassed his principal no little by sending liberal co-operation to certain leaders in the state of Missouri. It developed that two of these leaders organized their constituents for Mr. Lowden at the bargain price of nothing per head and retained the co-operation for their own uses. Persons of a suspicious nature, who came by this information, endeavored to make it appear that Mr. Lowden's manager was actually buying delegates and by the time he could prove that nothing was remoter from his purpose, it was too late. So this year Mr. Buck appears to have made it a rule of his campaign to put out no co-operation whatever.

The further details of Howard's work in keeping his Mississippi delegation organized for Mr. Hoover, are not disclosed. How- Howard discovered, to his em- egates came unorganized again. Mr. Howard discovered, to his embarrassment, that they were for Mr. Coolidge, which was the same thing as being for John Doe, inasmuch as Mr. Coolidge was not a candidate.

This, of course, meant that they would have to be organized all over, and they were still in this loose and unorganized state when they came to Kansas City. But when they arrived here they discovered the other Mississippi delegation on the ground, offering to organize themselves for Mr. Hoover without any co-operation at all, and for a brief, exciting time there seemed to be a possibility that the other delegation, being self-organizing, would get the seats.

That Grand Gold Loyalty.

However, in this crisis, the Howard delegates felt the old loyalty to Mr. Hoover pulsing in their veins again, and it was decided to give them the seats. But before they were given the seats, they gave the Hoover management a written pledge signed by Howard that they would not, under any circumstances, come unorganized a second time, until after the convention.

This pledge, its meaning distorted by low minded rivals of Mr. Hoover, doubtless forms the basis for the unkind and obviously false idea, widely circulated of late, that the Republican brethren from the south are citizens of wobbly devotion, who are susceptible to last minute persuasion and really aren't safe unless kidnaped and held in seclusion until it is time to vote.

It is discouraging to find that the honest questioning of sincere colored statesmen, unable to make up their minds without co-operation, or to keep them made up without further co-operation, can be publicly distorted in this manner by unscrupulous politicians and made to appear as something quite foreign to their high sense of citizenship. They should sue somebody.

ENDORSE HOOVER AT COUNTY MEET; PICK DELEGATES

Two Race Editors Are Chosen Among 30 Delegates To Dallas Parley—Harmony Prevailed—Large Colored Delegation Present—Lee Boosted For Delegate—Morris Lauded.

Holding the most harmonious convention in the last eight years, the Republicans of Houston and Harris County held their county convention in the city hall council chamber Tuesday morning, with George E. Kepple serving as both temporary and permanent chairman, and Dallas J. Burtschell in the secretarial role.

The attendance of colored delegates, coming from the various precincts of the county, was the largest in the last 12 years, with no contests. This was quite a marked contrast to 1920 and 1924, when the Republican factions in this county held two separate conventions, and the harmony program was the result of pre-convention efforts on the part of County Chairman R. B. Morris and T. P. Lee of the regular organization and H. L. Mims, N. Dudley, Jr., C. N. Love, H. P. Carter, C. H. McGruder, D. Crawford, Jr., and C. F. Richardson of the colored group.

Between 40 and 50 race delegates were seated and recognized in the county meet, and three colored delegates and three colored alternates were elected to the Republican State Convention, which meets at Dallas, Tuesday, May 22, 1928, viz: Delegates, C. N. Love, C. F. Richardson, H. L. Mims; alternates, N. Dudley, Jr., C. H. McGruder and H. P. Carter.

Resolutions were adopted endorsing the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for presidential nomination by the Republican National Convention; endorsing T. P. Lee for one of the delegates-at-large from Texas; lauding the Coolidge administration nationally, and R. B. Morris for his activity in Harris County; commending Wallace E. Pratt for his "unselfish and efficient services on behalf of the Republican party and of the Hoover committee in Harris County during the last few months."

Thirty Delegates Are Elected

The following delegates and alternates to the state convention were elected: Delegates, T. M. Kennerly, T. P. Lee, J. I. Huff, T. H. Bernard, Otto Kirschbaum, Wallace E. Pratt, Ray L. Dudley, R. B. Morris, W. O. Staley, George E. Kepple, John F. Grant, Harry E. Stewart, E. T. Barden, Otto Letzerich, C. A. Miller, C. F. Richardson, C. N .Love, Ben Warren, A. A. Chinski, E. G. Goddard, E. S. Cummings, W. B. Sutton, W. R. Petty, Mrs John Yeaman, Mrs. Stella Baker, W. E. Dwyer, H. L. Mims, W. J. Kearney, O. C. Castle, Mrs. C. A. Fortner.

Alternates: W. L. Childs, W. O. Woods, Frank Melvin, A. D. Farrior, H. Wirt Steele, Irl Kennerly, C. T. Phillips, J. L. Tibbott, H. P. Carter, N. Dudley, Jr., C. H. McGruder, B. F. Guido, J. R. Ingram, J. I. Payne, A. F. Gunn, J. O. Riggs, Jeff N. Miller, C. August Schultz, John Deering, Nat U. Collier, W. H. Hogue, J. W. Goar, D. J. Burtschell, Mrs. Hurlburt, Tom Pringle, W. A. Renn, E. L. McCord, R. A. Barker, Joe B. Dannenbaum, Mrs. W. R. Petty.

Al Smith Present At Meet

It developed, during the reading of the roll of delegates, that Al Smith was present, one of the delegates having the same name as the New York governor, whose candidacy caused the Democrats, meeting in county convention at the City Auditorium, quite a heated deliberation.

The attendance was so large that the council chamber was unable to accommodate all the delegates, the audience overflowing into the hall of the municipal building.

Political 1928

Party Affiliation

G.O.P. IS 'NEGRO PARTY,' DAVIS STATES AT RALLY

"Put us out of the party? Why, the republican party belongs to the negroes," declared Ben Davis, negro, former national republican committeeman for Georgia, Monday night at a rally of negro supporters of Herbert Hoover for president.

"No negro has a right to be a democrat because the democrats have always been against the negro," Davis said, "just like no southerner has a right to be a republican because the republicans have always been against the south. The democratic party is the Jim Crow party—the party of peonage, and it has disfranchised the negro by cunning tricks and subterfuge, taking away his right to vote."

Hoover Tendencies Shown.

Although it was announced at the opening of the session that the meeting was nonpartisan, being held under the auspices of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to instruct the negroes in the method of voting, the audience exhibited strong Hoover tendencies from start to finish, and all of the principal speakers were Hoover men. The voting instruction was the last and most unimportant part of the meeting, as the speaking for Hoover took up practically the entire time.

Davis expressed a debt of gratitude to the daily press of Georgia, and particularly to The Constitution, because, as he said, "I was not much when the campaign opened, but the white papers have made me a great big speck." The Constitution, "leader in southern thought and sentiment," was the first to inject the religious and racial questions into politics, Davis declared. He paid The Constitution the tribute of being "the first thing the south thinks about when it wakes up."

Work of Klan.

"The Ku Klux Klan has never done anything to negroes, but they've done some pretty good services with some white persons," Davis said. "Joe Robinson, the democratic nominee for vice president, and Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, are both Kluxers. They didn't draw the color line at republican headquarters, but had the whites and negroes on the same floor in the same building. Harrison found the same condition at democratic headquarters, and made Raskob clear it up and segregate the races." Davis said that Hoover abolished segregation in the department of commerce.

A negro organized a democratic club at Jacksonville, and the whites took him out and gave him a good licking, Davis said. "Why is the Dyer bill aimed at the south? It is aimed at mob law, and is not aimed at you unless you are the mob."

Davis took a fling at the Anti-Smith democrats, stating that he has "just as much use for a straight democrat as for an Anti-Smith democrat. The regular democrats and the Anti-Smith democrats are both playing up the negro question. Smith is not particularly for us or against us—he's just a politician."

Walden Presided.

A. T. Walden, negro attorney, presided at the meeting. Walden charged that the white people "have been so concerned in keeping one class of citizens from exercising their citizenship that in the south they have lost their grasp of national problems."

Jackson McHenry, negro, said that the answer to "what has the republican party done for the black men?" is that "it has done all that has been done for you." Jackson said he has very little patience with a "democratic nigger" and had "no confidence in him." Jackson said he voted for Grant in 1868 and has voted the straight republican ticket ever since.

J. B. Dove, white, declared that "you would be glad to be a follower of Ben Davis if you feel about the republican party as I do."

L. G. Harris, negro, compared Hoover to Lincoln, and urged the negroes to vote in all elections, bond elections, etc.

RACE PROTESTS G. O. P. SLUR

Washington, Oct. 31—Indignation has been generally expressed by Negroes throughout the country and protests registered to Herbert C. Hoover against what is interpreted as a direct slap at Negro womanhood by George Akerson, the Republican Presidential nominee's assistant.

Mr. Akerson in a public statement in which he commented on rumors in circulation that Mr. Hoover had danced with a colored woman is quoted as saying:

"The charge that Mr. Hoover danced with a colored woman is the most indecent and unworthy statement in the whole of a bitter campaign."

The Akerson statement is regarded as an insult to Negro women in particular and the race in general. It has caused as much adverse criticism as Senator Moses's recent ku klux statement made in New York, in which he boasted that no Negro dictated to a white stenographer under G. O. P. control at Washington.

G. O. P. GIVES OUT LIST OF MONEY SPENT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—The Republican voters division filed no report of its campaign receipts and expenditures with the clerk of the house of representatives. The report of the Republican national committee contains the expenditures charged against the budget allowed the separate voters division.

According to the report of the Republican national committee the payroll of this division included the following weekly payments:

Robert L. Mays, Chicago, $50; Frank A. Byron, Chicago, $50; Mrs. Myrtle Foster Cook, Chicago, $125; Mrs. Lethia C. Fleming, Chicago, $125; Mrs. Grace Evans, Chicago, $75; J. A. Josey, Chicago, $50; George W. Lee, Chicago, $75; Carey B. Lewis, Chicago, $75; Homer G. Phillips, Chicago, $125; A. H. Roberts, Chicago, $125; P. L. Prattis, Chicago, $50; C. R. Richardson, Chicago, $125; Roscoe C. Simmons, Chicago, $125.

Rienzi B. Lemus, Washington, $70; George W. Harris, New York, $125; Mrs. Addie W. Hunton, New York $100; Charles E. Mitchell, New York $70; Fred R. Moore, New York, $125; R. L. Vann, Washington, $125; Ernest T. Attwell, New York, $125; William T. Andrews, Washington, $100; Mrs. Daisy E. Lampkins, Washington, $100; West A. Hamilton, Washington, $75; Claude A. Barnett, Washington, $150; John Mitchell, Washington, $75; Miss Jeannette Carter, Washington, $50; Mrs. Sarah Pelham Speaks, Washington, $50; W. H. C. Brown, New York, $70.

Hawkins-Holsey Not Listed

Neither John R. Hawkins of Washington, D. C., chairman of the Republican voters division, nor Albon L. Holsey of Tuskegee, Ala., its secretary, is listed as having received any salary. Mr. Hawkins is said to have refused his expenses.

Mrs. Amy Garvey, New York, wife of Marcus Garvey, is listed as having received $35.

The following editors are listed in the report of the Republican national committee as having been paid as follows for their news service:

E. W. B. Isaac, Nashville, Tenn., $200; T. Edward Hill, Keystone, W. Va., $400; Roscoe Dungee, Oklahoma City, Okla., $500; John Rice, Dallas Tex., $200; A. M. Houghton, Boston Mass., $350; W. A. Hamilton, Washington, D. C., $100; Roy C. Garvin Kansas City, Kan., $100; George W. McDade, Knoxville, Tenn., $120; James E. Washington, Memphis Tenn., $150; T. J. Johnson, Memphis Tenn., $400.

I. Willis Cole, Louisville, Ky., $400; Webster L. Porter, Knoxville, Tenn. $500; Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh Pa., $1,000; W. T. Andrews, Baltimore, Md., $500; P. B. Young, Norfolk Va., $200; F. Morris Murray, Washington, D. C., $400; E. Washington Rhodes, Philadelphia, Pa., $500; Arthur Lynch, Philadelphia, Pa., $300; George W. Harris, New York city $500; Fred R. Moore, New York city $500; William H. Davis, New York city, $800; William Monroe Trotter Boston, Mass., $250.

Missourian Highest Paid

William J. Robinson, Detroit, Mich. $250; Cornelius Edwoods, Toledo, O. $250; Norman McGhee, Cleveland Ohio, $250; John Rives, Dayton, Ohio $250; W. P. Dabney, Cincinnati, Ohio $250; Jacob Tipper, Chicago, Ill., $200; A. M. Davis, Chicago, Ill., $250; J. A Josey, Milwaukee, Wis., $200; J. E Mitchell, St. Louis, Mo., $700; N. B Young Jr., St. Louis, Mo., $150; E. M Bryant, St. Louis, Mo., $150; C. A Franklin, Kansas City, Mo., $1,000.

John Albert Williams, Omaha Neb., $250; C. C. Galloway, Omaha Neb., $250; James B. Morris, Des Moines, Iowa, $250; S. B. Wilson Nashville, Tenn., $300; S. W. Broome Memphis, Tenn., $150; Benjamin J Perkins, Memphis, Tenn., $150; C. F Richardson, Houston, Tex., $100; Zenobia Alexander, Buffalo, N. Y., $100; Harry C. Smith, Cleveland, Ohio $150; G. B. Dailey, Newark, N. J. $300, and Joseph D. Bibb, $150.

'Negroes' Place With Republicans' Is Belief Of Republican Candidate

By RUSSELL KENT
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for president, believes that "the place of the colored people is with the Republican party" and in response to greetings given him by a delegation of Massachusetts negroes at a reception in his honor at the home of Gov. Fuller on his recent visit to the Bay State, Mr. Hoover welcomed the negroes and told them that he would "do all that is in my power to uphold the traditions of the party and the constitution of the United States."

What the Republican nominee means by the use of such phrases in speaking to a delegation of colored voters remains to be disclosed but the traditions of the Republican party in its attitude towards negroes in politics and the position of many Republicans that a stringent Federal law should be enacted to enforce the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments to the Constitution are well known.

The following account of the reception to Mr. Hoover is taken from the Oct. 20, issue of the Boston Chronicle, a negro publication.

Tours Massachusetts

"The first days of this week were gala ones in Massachusetts among Republicans. Herbert Hoover, presidential nominee made a tour which embraced Springfield, Worcester and Greater Boston. On Monday morning he left his train in the Newtons and was escorted through the various towns comprising the Boston area, eventually winding up at the Parkman bandstand on the Common. He was received and feted by all the people, the culmination being at the Arena and Symphony Hall, where he addressed huge crowds.

"One of the outstanding events of his visit was the reception at Gov. Fuller's home on Beacon Street, where many were invited to meet the Republican presidential prospect. Among the groups were several colored citizens. A delegation was headed by Attorney Walter Foster, who on being presented to Mr. Hoover said:

" 'I am pleased to present this group of citizens representing each county of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, who are supporting you because of your excellent public and private records, and because we believe that you will uphold the traditions of the party and the Constitution of the United States.'

"Mr. Hoover replied: 'It is always a pleasure to meet a Republican group like this, pledging to me its support and I am particularly delighted with this group representing the entire Commonwealth. I think the place of the colored people is with the Republican party and I welcome you there and shall do all that is in my power to uphold the traditions of the party and the Constitution of the United States.'

"During the day a reception was tendered to Mrs. Hoover at which the colored group was well represented."

MR. HOOVER, THE NATION'S CHOICE

The American people have decisively elected Mr. Hoover to be their President, and those who opposed him bow gracefully to the decision, and join his supporters in wishing him success and happiness.

He will assume the duties of the Presidency with more widely distributed popular support than any other Republican has ever had in that office, for apparently he has carried at least two Southern States—Virginia and Florida—and he has polled in the other Southern States a vote that must be highly gratifying to him. A man of demonstrated ability in his own field and in the official posts he has held, this unprecedented national support that has been given him undoubtedly will stimulate him to the largest endeavor in the broader and more complex duties to which he is now called.

To Governor Smith The Sun offers its felicitations upon a most gallant fight against stupendous odds, and the expression of our pleasure in having been numbered among those who upheld his cause, and the principles for which he bravely stood. He faced a normal adverse majority of immense proportions, and to that disadvantage was added the handicap of prejudice against his religon. Not once did he falter in facing a more powerful party foe and in carrying the fight to him, and not once did he falter in facing and challenging those who raised against him the ancient and ferocious prejudices of religion.

FOLLY OF "STRAIGHT" VOTE

Thirty thousand straight republican ballots were cast by St. Louis Negroes for Sam. A. Baker, the republican candidate who won the governorship in 1924. Four positions above the grade of janitor, have been given Negroes in the Baker administration, less than $10,000 in wages out of the several million dollars paid the state's employees. We have had no new legislation under Baker, not even the laws enforced already on the statutes. Governor Baker has not considered us enough to make recommendations to the legislature that would help us. The straight ballot has proven a failure in making friends for Negroes. Politicians have not counted it the gift of our loyalty. They have accepted it as the proof of their ownership.

Once upon a time speakers use to get a wild acclaim from Negro audiences by shouting out their appeal for the "straight republican ticket." But promise-breakers like Baker have made us know that we are wise to vote for our friends no matter under what party label.

Campaign Expenses

Republicans spent over $100,000 thru a National Colored Advisory Committee to woo the colored voter.

Democrats for the first time in history spent an equal amount.

G. O. P. expenses according to reports so far filed with the Government show about $20,000 spent in administrative expenses $16,000 in newspaper advertising and $64,000 in speakers and organizers.

The Colored National Advisory Committee was organized on precisely the same lines as the white, with its publicity organization and first voters divisions. Speakers and workers draw equal salaries and per diem expenses.

The democratic organization spent some $8,000 in administration, $12,000 newspaper advertising and $80,000 in speakers and organizers.

Later returns will bring the total sum spent to $250,000, out of a total budget of $10,000,000 authorized by both parties.

The striking thing about the campaign in this regard is not that the workers were paid they could not afford to leave their work for eight weeks otherwise. But it is interesting to note that when the democrats decided to go after the race vote, they did so as effectively and intelligently as the G. O. P., which has long been in the game.

Colored Voters Repudiate Democrats; Support G. O. P.

Once more the election has come and gone. The colored voters running true to form in the sections of the country where they are able to vote, gave large majorities to the Grand Old Party. Late election returns show conclusively that Mr. Hoover received along with all Republican candidates, all over the country, a large colored vote. In states like Virginia, notwithstanding the vast propaganda which had been carried on by the Southern Democrats to win the votes of the colored citizens from the ranks of the Republican Party. In Chicago, New York, Pennsylvania, and other Northern and Western states, the returns show that the colored citizens would not be fooled by the blandishments of the Dixie Bourbons. Colored candidates were also supported with zeal, by the colored citizens, and in several states, the large colored votes, constituted the balance of power, and served as the deciding factor, in mounting up a grand victory for the Republican Party.

The local colored candidate in New York, Edward A. Johnson, was not as fortunate as was the colored citizen in Chicago, running for the same office. Mr. Johnson in his race for the Congress, lost the race by approximately 8,000. In the five election districts which constitute the Congressional districts, in which Mr. Johnson was running in New York, only two of these district (the 19th and 21st) had heavy colored votes. In these districts Mr. Johnson was given according to the reports, 31,000 colored votes. In the 30 districts, in the 19th assembly district, in which there were a solid colored population, Mr. Johnson led his opponent (Weller), by a ten-to-one run. In the 21st assembly district, in which there is a solid colored population, in 26 election districts, Mr. Johnson led his opponent by five-to-one. In the other districts (white) Mr. Johnson was beaten by a large Democratic electorate. The final figures appear to be: Johnson, 38,000; Weller, 47,000; giving to Weller (white Democrat) a lead over Mr. Johnson of more than 9.000.

The St. Louis Argus, Kansas City Call and other influential colored papers, while not editorially esposing Governor Smith's election to date, have said nothing in advocacy of Mr. Hoover.

It is the first time in history that the colored press has supported in such large numbers a Democratic aspirant for the Presidency.

TRADITIONAL G. O. P. PERIODICALS BOLT THE PARTY

Leading Negro Publications Have Joined Ranks Of Smith Supporters

New York, Oct. 31—Widespread comment has been occasioned by the bolting of colored newspapers thruout the country from the G. O. P. to the Smith camp. Chief among the leading race publications to support Governor Smith for President are: The Chicago Defender, Baltimore Afro-American, Norfolk Journal and Guide, Boston Guardian, Louisville News, Negro World, Washington Eagle, Interstate Tattler, New York Contender, Kansas City American, Gary Sun, Harlem Star, Mucogee Herald, New Jersey Lance, West Lndian Times, and Chicago World.

Republican

Political - 9-8

Party Affiliation.

Republican Half-Breeds A Menace To The Hoover-Curtis Ticket

The greatest menace to Republican success in November, is the curse of lilly-whitism in the south. For forty years these ignoramuses have been arguing to the National Republican leaders, that if the party would eliminate the Negro from the party councils, they would break the solid south, but have never made anybody believe their story except the lamented President Harding, who said before he died, that he had been deceived by these crooks and set about to repudiate them, and correct the error that they had led him into.

The same propaganda is being fed to the party leaders now by the same aggregation of half-breeds with the same degree of success, and the colored electors are holding Mr. Hoover responsible for the calamity; and as a consequence, the republican ticket is suffering in the north for the want of Negro support.

Independent

The Negroes despise the lily whites and the lily-whites hate them unqualifiedly.

9-27-28

The lily-whites vote in the Democratic party primaries and want to hold all of the offices under every Republican administration and control and the party machinery in the south. All the trouble in the south today, is traceable to lily-white treachery, perfidy and ignorance.

Atlanta, Ga.

The first step of the half-breeds, after they come into control, instead of working to elect the ticket, is to drive the Negro out of the party. They never think of electing the ticket but of eliminating the Negro. They'll tell any lie, commit perjury or stoop to any depths to play their game.

While we do not believe that Mr. Hoover is a party to, or has guilty knowledge of this diabolical scheme to disfranchise the Negro; plotted by the lilly whites and executed by his agents, we have many reasons to conclude that the scheme is being encouraged by men high up in his war councils.

What Mr. Hoover wants, to win the election, is votes, and not races, votes count election day and not color. The lily whites would rather see Hoover defeated than to know that the Negro had a hand in the work of success.

In Georgia the regular organization surrendered every thing to a white committee which has turned out to be a dyed in the wool lily white out-fit, which is carrying more scurrilous matter about the Negro than the Democrats are carrying. Chas. Adamson, King of the lily whites, is sending out a letter soliciting funds and assuring those who will give, as an inducement, that the party will never have another Negro National Committeeman. This animal is at the head of our electoral ticket and was placed there by "nigger" votes. He is only a sample of the lily whites who are doing more to defeat the Republican ticket than to elect it. But Mr. Adamson has never been anything more than an ignorant piece of self-conceit without influence out side of his factory. If we hear any more of him, the "niggers" who put him on the ticket will take him off. Just such men as he are responsible for the northern Negro's attitude towards Mr. Hoover.

The one effort of the lily white organization, is to eliminate the Negro, discredit the organization that created it with a view of controling the "pie counter" after the election.

This organization is doing precisely nothing. It has not called on the organization for a list of the county and district organizations, but has contented to make itself a one man organization in order to claim credit for the work of the anti-Smith Democrats and the regular organization.

It is not the function of a campaign committee to put out an electoral ticket but of the party organization, and these half-breeds had as well understand it once and for all times.

The head of this lilly white organization expressed the view the other day that if white speakers took part in the meeting in Clinch County at which the Secretary of the regular organization was to be the principal speaker, Mr. Hoover would lose white votes.

Who believes that Mr. Hoover would stand for this abominable rot and at the same time appealing for Negro votes throughout the country. No, Mr. Hoover is too big to have any part in this conspiracy to humiliate the race. Hoover loves humanity, not races any further than races make up humanity.

Democrats Beat Themselves

THE REPUBLICANS have routed the Democrats in the most overwhelming political victory since the days of James Monroe. So complete is the Democratic downfall that for the first time in history men are speculating upon the possible dissolution of the Democratic party. The Democrats try to console themselves with the thought of the 13,000,000 votes polled by their candidate; but that is cold comfort when the Republican candidate polls five or six million more.

THE DEFEAT ITSELF was not surprising, but many people were astonished at its proportions. A second thought, however, will show that even those proportions might have been expected. To begin with, the Democratic candidate was handicapped by his attitude toward Prohibition, his religion and his political background. These, in addition to the normal Republican opposition, were enough to defeat him.

STILL, there were enough independent voters in the country to have made the race a close one. They were dissatisfied with the Republican party and thought that a change might be good for the country. They only awaited some assurance that the change would be an improvement. They waited in vain. The Democratic candidate had nothing concrete to offer them. On the questions of farm relief, foreign debts and foreign relations he was either vague or silent. Instead of outlining a clear-cut program of his own, he spent his time attacking the record of the Republican party. Meanwhile, the Republican candidate's experience in foreign affairs was known; and on the farm relief problem he definitely promised that if elected he would call a special session of Congress to deal with it. The independent voters, having to choose between vagueness and concrete proposals, naturally chose the latter.

THERE WAS ALSO what was called the liberal vote, which was expected to support the Democratic candidate solidly. It was supposed to vote against bigotry and fanaticism. But it did not vote as it was expected to, and the reason is plain. The Democratic candidate was not a true representative of liberalism. He wanted liberalism for himself but not for others. True liberalism means standing out for the rights of all men, and this the Democratic candidate conspicuously refused to do. He truckled to the most reactionary, hidebound section of the country. This was politics, not liberalism.

NOR WAS IT GOOD POLITICS, if we may judge by the result. A large part of the very section he truckled to turned against him. Four states of that section went Republican for the first time in their history. If he had taken a courageous stand for the full manhood rights of Negroes as well as others he could at least have gone down in defense of principle with his colors flying. Certainly his defeat could not have been much worse.

THE REPUBLICANS did not win this campaign; the Democrats won it for them. They pulled against themselves from the start, with a Wet candidate and a Dry platform. They alienated every voting group they could, even their traditional supporters. All the Republicans had to do was to sit still and let the Democrats beat themselves.

"WHY WE ARE AGAINST AL SMITH"

THOUGH born and bred in Georgia, thousands o us have our minds finally and forever fixed t pray, work and vote for Herbert Hoover.

Oh, yes, we expect to hear a lot about "Ben Davis' and "Negro Committeeman," but we have deliberate ly decided that we would rather have Ben Davi on a committee in Georgia than to have Al Smitl in the presidential chair in Washington. As Dr Bascom Anthony puts it, "It won't be the first tim I ever sent a message by a negro; but I usually pai him a quarter. This time it will be free."

We are against Al Smith because he is openl against the immigration law of the United State and in favor of opening our doors to the hordes o ignorant foreigners who are anxious to infest thes shores.

We are against Al Smith because he is the boaste product of Tammany Hall, the most notoriously cor rupt political organization that ever cursed New York City.

We are against Al Smith because his record shows that he never one time voted on the right side of any moral question, but at every opportunity voted to protect the saloon, gambling, horse racing, legalizing of lewd houses and gloated that the time would soon come when we can "put the foot on the brass rail and blow off the froth."

We are against Al Smith because we are afraid of the political activities of the hierarchy to which he owes his religious affiliation. No one seriously denies that the Catholic church demands political rights and powers. We are perfectly willing for the Catholic church to have religious liberty. We are determined it shall not have political liberty.

We are against Al Smith because over his own signature in the last few weeks he wrote: "There are certain parts of the constitution that I hate."

We are against Al Smith because moral principle should come ahead of political expediency. Not to do so would stultify our consciences, render hypocritical our every profession as a prohibitionist, play false to the highest patriotism and sacrifice our sense of loyalty to Jesus Christ.

WAY.

Journal.

Minnesotans Desert G. O. P. Ship And Swear Allegiance To Al Smith

Think Change In Administration Will Better Conditions

By AIMEE HALL

MINNESOTANS
Former Postmaster Host

News of the Democratic invasion leaked out when Mr. Otto Raths, former postmaster, who appointed more colored men to the service than all the Republican postmasters together, was host to a seven-course dinner in Parlor 1, at the Ryan Hotel, Wednesday evening, September 19, to which more than 50 prominent citizens had been invited for the purpose of perfecting a permanent organization.

Mr. Joseph Wolf, Democratic National committeeman, and Attorney John J. McDonough, 38th District State representative, were among those present and outlined the policies of the Democratic nominee.

Thirty of our best men from all walks of life, including lawyers, physicians, waiters, porters, barbers, mechanics, stewards, shop foremen, deputy county auditor, architect and business men, deserted the Republican ship and expressed their willingness to ride the Democratic donkey content and take a chance at remaining in the saddle.

From the group present, officers and an executive committee were chosen to organize the state. Those who will function are: Attorney J Louis Ervin, president; Dr. J. Walton Crump, vice president; Dr. Valdo Turner, treasurer, and Mr. O. C. Hall secretary. Members of the executive committee are: Messrs. C. W Wigington, Dr. J. Walton Crump, Attorney J. Louis Ervin, O. C. Hall, Dr. Valdo Turner, Thos. Neal, Frank Ware, John Davis, W. J. Utley, M. K. McKnight, Arthur Todd, R. M. Johnson, P. L. Caldwell, C. H. Miller, O. D. Charleston, R. S. Harris, Geo. Moore, T. J. Franklin, Jesse A. Black and Wm. Thurston.

A membership campaign has been launched to thoroughly organize what they call "The Smith-for-President-Club."

One of the big thoughts of the meeting was that if the late President Wilson just missed carrying Minnesota in 1920 by 319 votes, that Smith with the 7,500 Negro votes, that Wilson did not get, can carry the state by 15,000.

It was the concensus of opinion among those present that Henrik Shipstead would be re-elected as United States Senator from Minnesota.

After the smoke had subsided we asked some of the newly-elected officers why they had aligned themselves with Smith and they replied in the following statements:

I have studied Al Smith's administration as Governor of the State of New York from an attorney's viewpoint and have found that he has always meted out fair treatment to the race. The unsatisfactory regime of Harding and Coolidge were of no particular benefit to us as a whole so perhaps a change will better conditions. In Minnesota, most of the important state and city appointments for our group were made by Democrats. For instance Governor Johnson appointed as his messenger Billy Williams, who for more than 20 years has served under both party affiliations because of his efficiency. A Democrat mayor appointed Tom Lewis in the same capacity from his office, but a Republican mayor abolished the office and we haven't had any representation since. I also believe that the new Negro who has awakened to a higher sense of ideals will prove an important factor in the coming campaign.

—J. Louis Ervin.

Of the two Presidential nominees, Governor Al Smith is the stronger. If elected I believe he will be his own boss as far as the policy of the Democratic administration is concerned and that he will not tolerate any dictation from higher ups.

—Dr. Valdo Turner.

No hearing that our group has had with any President has been effective; if we elect a man that is abused because of his religion perhaps he will take cognizance of the unjust discrimination which we have suffered and show a sympathetic attitude.

When the Eighteenth Amendment was passed the Volstead act was an enabling act to put the Eighteenth Amendment across and the whole truth about the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments is that none has ever been enacted to put them in force.

—O. C. Hall.

The majority of the Smith followers added that present conditions warrant a change of some sort. Several high positions formerly held by race leaders have been given to whites and we have not received sufficient recognition. That Al Smith is firm in his own convictions and that the principles which he advocate will be carried out to the letter.

Attwell Deposed As Pennsy G O P Chief

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Faced by a possible revolt of the old line Republicans of the group, the National campaign committee used to the Ernest T. Attwell as head of the Pennsylvania Head Quarters and appointed Assistant District Attorney John C. Asbury, it has been announced.

Immediately following the appointment of Attwell a howl went up from the faithful in Philadelphia, it being stated that the National Committee had sidetracked the active workers in the party for a man who was a recreational worker. When this dissatisfaction began to grow into open revolt, the Washington group acted.

WHY A NEGRO POLITICAL PARTY?

(Indianapolis Recorder)

Recently it was widely rumored that a group of leaders of an outstanding fraternal order plan to organize an all-Negro political party, and name a candidate for president of the United States. Such a move does not appear either discretionary or productive of any good for the Negro people. Those who sponsor the movement has a right to act as they choose in the matter. But an all-Negro political party would mean eventually further defeat of the political opportunities of Negro people.

A Negro political party can mean at no time, little more than possible promotion of selfish and personal interests, on the part of the organizers. The major political parties espouse all issues of vital concern in the nation's welfare, which are likely to get a favorable hearing through legislation or law enforcement. There are no programs for a Negro party to foster, which do not have a champion, save perhaps the "Negro Cause." This would mean the end of the party in the beginning.

A Negro political party is not the demand of the people. There is no need for such, no more so than there is need for a Ku Klux Klan party. There is a crying need for a closer unity of purpose among Negro people, particularly in economic activities. We must in the face of future developments, essay a role of producer of essentials, or be relegated to a more anomalous place of economic serfdom.

How Large is the Negro Vote?

Determining how large is the vote cast by Negroes in national elections is like finding out who killed Cock Robin. Since the campaigners for both Smith and Hoover set out to capture this vote, there have been all kind of figures given out.

All of these figures are pure guess work. We hope the exact number of Negro voters will never be known. Why should it, any more than the number of Irish or Germans who vote, or Klansmen or atheists?

Thank goodness, the racial identity of a person is not as yet required as a part of the information on the registration books—except perhaps in Dixie. The Negro can never enjoy the full rights and privileges of an American citizen if he is to always be grouped off politically.

Just let it be known that all Negroes who can vote do vote; and that any candidate for public office, whether for town constable or for president of the United States, if he wants to win, must respect that vote.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation

Republican.

FOUR ST. LOUISANS WHO GET REPUBLICAN HONORS

ONE OF THE BIG SEVEN

WALTHALL M. MOORE
Delegate-At-Large

NOMINATES MR. MOORE

JUDGE CRITTENDEN E. CLARK
Delegate From 12th District

After a lively fight at the Republican State Convention at St. Joseph last Monday, Walthall M. Moore, a member of the Missouri Legislature, was elected delegate-at-large to the G. O. P. Convention, which meets in Kansas City in June.

Mr. Moore's name will be remembered.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTOR

CHAS. H. TURPIN
Presidential Elector 12th Dist.

TO REPRESENT THE 11TH

J. W. McINTYRE
Delegate From 11th Dist.

had been mentioned almost daily in the newspapers as the Negro who would be the choice of the party leaders, and this recognition had been generally conceded to him. Now and then, however, the words "or some other Negro" would be noted in the news items in connection with Mr. Moore's name. Little could be learned as to who this mysterious "other Negro" was, or where this information came from. Therefore, much speculation was indulged in by Moore's friends concerning the matter. It was thought at one time that some designing politicians would spring this "some other Negro" at a certain time under the cloak of "Negroes must get together," and thereby defeat anyone who might aspire. But this did not work, certainly not as well as was thought. One, T. J. Worley, who in the past has posed as the Negroes' friend, was found to be the chief advocate of the "get together movement," which came very near defeating the Negroes entirely.

Hold Adopts Conference.

Evidently, there had been a movement on foot for sometime to put forward Homer G. Phillips for the honor as the Negroes' choice for delegate-at-large. For, now and then, here and there, his name was whispered among certain delegates. It appeared that F. W. Dabney, L. A. Knox, C. H. Calloway, all of Kansas City, and a few others who are regarded as convention manipulators, were anxious for this proposed conference.

When Mr. Moore arrived at the meeting place and found that an attempt was being made to hold the proposed conference without many of the delegates and particularly those of his friends, he protested the methods being used. A lively argument followed and after being ruled out of order by the chairman, E. T. Sumayel, Mr. Moore was advised by his friends to withdraw rather than have a big fuss. The conference after the withdrawal of Mr. Moore proceeded to select Homer G. Phillips.

Acts As A Boomerang

Upon returning to the convention hall, a committee reported that a conference had been held and that Moore had received only one vote and Philips had received 45. This statement looked so ridiculous on its face that it acted as a boomerang, and many of the delegates discredited all that had been done at the supposed conference, and demanded that Mr. Moore's name be presented to the convention, which was done and Moore defeated Phillips by a vote of nearly 2 to 1.

Judge Clark Nominates.

In presenting the names for nomination before the convention when the Sixth District was reached, by previous arrangement, it yielded to Judge Crittenden E. Clark of the 12th District who mounted the platform and nominated Mr. Moore. He briefly cited the record of Moore and mentioned his service to his people and the State as a member of the Missouri Legislature, now serving his third term, and urged his election as one of the "big seven."

Following Judge Crittenden Clark's speech, which was greeted by many rounds of applause, Rev. Holmes of Kansas City, who had been selected for that purpose, made a speech and nominated Phillips.

There was no doubt in the minds of those who made any study of the situation as to who would win after Judge Clark's speech, though he did not refer to Phillip's reputation. But after the nomination Phillips' political reputation was carried to the delegates which helped to defeat him. He was charged with supporting Hawes and Igoe. Mr. Phillips admitted that he supported Mr. Igoe for mayor against the present incumbent, Mayor Victor J. Miller, but denied that he supported Hawes at anytime and challenged anyone to prove the contrary.

Moore carried every district in St. Louis and most of the outstate districts.

Turp'n For President Elector.

The 12th District elected Chas. H. Turpin, presidential elector. In the event that the Republican Party is successful at the polls in November, Mr. Turpin will go to Washington as a member of the Electoral College and cast a vote directly for the President of the United States. This is regarded as a high honor. "Billy" Hub'e, Committeeman from the 7th Ward, is said to be responsible for Turpin's election.

Alternate-at-Large.

Mrs. Myrtle F. Cook of Kansas City, Mo., was elected alternate-at-large to Mr. Moore, which, in the event that Mr. Moore cannot be present, she will be the delegate-at-large. Judge Crittenden E. Clark and J. W. McIntyre are delegates to the National Republican Convention from the 12th and 11th Districts, respectively, and as such will have just as much voting power as delegates-at-large at the Republican National Convention.

Negroes Pretty Well Satisfied.

Comments heard from representative colored people of the state indicate that the Race is pretty well satisfied with the recognition given Race men and women in dividing the political honors for the G. O. P. National Convention; namely, 1 delegate-at-large; alternate-at-large; 2d District delegates and 4th District alternates.

The "Big Seven."

Mayor Victor J. Miller of St. Louis, Edmond Koeln of St. Louis, Walthall M. Moore of St. Louis, Governor Sam Baker, Jefferson City; ex-Governor Arthur M. Hyde of Trenton, Mrs. Maude Cunningham of Sedalia and Mrs. G. L. Zwick of St. Joseph. These are the "big seven"

SEGREGATION OF G. O. P. DELEGATES CAUSE TROUBLE

Proposal to Segregate the Negro Delegates to National Convention Creates Stir.

Washington, D. C., March 28.—(By the Associated Negro Press.)—Due to the fact that Negroes hold the balance of power in several Northern States, it is believed here that Secretary Gleason's letter stating that the delegates to the G. O. P. convention in Kansas City would be quartered at the Y. M. C. A., instead of at the leading hotels with the whites, will be recalled.

The announcement contained in Gleason's letter brought a howl of protest which the time-worn explanation that it was believed that the Negro delegates would be more comfortable "with their own people" failed to shake. It was pointed out by Perry W. Howard and Ben J. Davis, national committeemen from Mississippi and Georgia, that when Kansas City was selected it was with the assertion that there would be no segregation. It has been furher reported that Chairman Butler had promised to investigate the condition and make the necessary changes.

THE PARTY OF SEGREGATION

It is gradually dawning on the colored voters throughout the country that there is a concerted movement on the part of the Republican party to eliminate the race from official place in the councils of that party. The persistent and vigorous activity on the part of the lily whites in the South, with the encouragement and financial aid of the members of the Republican party in the North, in the endeavor to eliminate colored people from party control in that section, speaks for itself. Mississippi, where Perry W. Howard is being fought by Northern carpet baggers who have gone South for the specific purpose of eliminating the Negro from party control, is an example of the attitude of those now masquerading under the name of Republican.

Added to that the failure of the present administration to abolish segregation in the departments under the Federal government is an indication that the leaders of the party, disregarding the traditions of the party, have done nohing to heed the protests against segregation and discrimination gene lly.

Failure to give the colored people proper recognition in the departments is another evidence of the feeling on the part of the Republican leaders that nothing need be done to mollify the Negro.

Colored people who pass the civil service examinations are refused placement as soon as it is known that the applicants are colored. Salaries of colored employees who are placed in positions doing a higher grade of work than their more fortunate white fellow employees, are stationary, being denied promotion and receive less compensation for their services.

In the segregated divisions where colored employees are placed the office equipment, the office environment and the general atmosphere are less inviting than that of the other offices and divisions which are assigned to the white employees.

These conditions above enumerated can be corrected if the voters in the several states petition their respective senators, and in the congressional districts, their congressmen, to request the President to issue an executive order giving the colored people a square deal.

NEGRO DELEGATE PROBLEM LOOMS

By ROBERT CHOATE

Washington, March 25.—Not the least of the piteous pleas which have brought tears to the eyes of experienced politicians in Washington are those emanating from certain Southern statesmen who control Republican politics below the Mason and Dixon line. It looks like a lean year.

According to reports which have been freely voiced here white national committeemen from the South simply do not know how they are going to get their Negro delegates to the Kansas City convention in June.

About this time every four years the Southern delegates are in the habit of laying in a large stock of finery, shirts of bright complexion, suits, and highly-tanned shoes, and if the going is exceptionally good, a new Ford car and suitable accessories. But not this year.

Thanks to the rigorous examinations made by various Senate committees into past campaign expenditures, the candidates are keeping a tight string on their pocketbooks, and the Southern delegations have had to go whistling for the long green with which their affections were formerly more or less vicariously cemented.

And this is not all. When William M. Butler picked out Kansas City as the convention place, Perry Howard from Mississippi, and other Negro leaders of Southern States wanted assurances that Southern delegates would not suffer from the discrimination of the Jim Crow laws of Missouri. Mr. Butler assured these gentlemen that he would take care of them and that they would receive as fine treatment as any of the delegates that went from other states.

The majority of Southern delegates at Republican conventions have, in the past received the best treatment. They were in the habit of being wined and dined by leading candidates. They were sent to the best hotels. They were well taken care of and their feelings were the first consideration of every official. But not this year.

An official of the Republican National Committee has sent out a letter to Southern national committeemen stating that assignments for white delegates will be made in such and such hotel and colored delegates will be taken care of in private homes or the colored Y. M. C. A.

A yell has gone up from this quarter and Mr. Butler is now being asked what's what.

The color question is not confined to the Republican Party, however. In today's Congressional Record, Senator Blease, of South Carolina, inserted a clipping from the Afro-American, a Baltimore publication, in which he took exception to Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, sitting at the same table with Negroes at a dinner given in honor of Oswald Garrison Villard.

"Some men do not mind associating at the table with certain other people," Blease is quoted as saying in the interview, "but the people of my state might object to voting for that kind of a man for President of the United States."

Insertion in the Record of this material gives Southern publications full right to make use of it and it will undoubtedly do the Walsh candidacy much damage.

JUDGE JONES IS VICTORIOUS IN ARKANSAS FIGHT

After 12 Years of Exclusion from Party Councils, Negroes Win Recognition in Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., March 28.—(By the Associated Negro Press.)—After twelve years of exclusion of Negro Republicans from the various councils of the state, the Lily White faction surrendered to the demands of the regulars for equal rights in all county and state meetings, Friday night, when the Pulaski County Republican Convention, with 160 members of the black and tan assembled in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium to select the twenty delegates to the Fifth Congressional District and State Convention and to name the twenty members of the County Central Committee.

Negroes were given one-fourth representation of all delegation, and Judge Scipio A. Jones, who recently organized the Negro Republicans of the state and had planned a bitter fight for recognition in the National Convention at Kansas City in June, was the leader.

Harmony prevailed throughout the meeting and the Negro Republicans were assured of the same recognition in all county conventions to be held in the state. They will be elected delegates to the State Convention from various counties and will serve on all committees. The State Convention will be held at Russellville, May 3, and the Negroes will be accorded one of the Big Four to the National Convention.

Political-1928

Republican

Party Affiliation.

NEW YORK AMERICAN

AUG 6 1928

MOSES URGES UNIFIED G.O.P. BUREAU HERE

Eastern Leader Will Renew Plea for N. Y. Headquarters on His Trip to See Hoover

A personal and emphatic appeal is to be made to Herbert Hoover by United States Senator George H. Moses, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee for the East, to rescind the order of Hubert Work, national chairman, that there shall be no central Republican campaign headquarters for the seaboard States.

Senator Moses started for Palo Alto, California, yesterday. Though he goes, primarily, formally to notify Mr. Hoover that he is the Republican Presidential nominee, the Senator is far more concerned about the lack of consolidation and co-ordination of management in the block of Atlantic Coast States, whose 154 electoral votes are absolutely essential to a victory for Mr. Hoover.

Backed by the entire eleven National Committeemen from the East, Senator Moses will frankly advise the Presidential candidate that he and his associates are working for his election under a great handicap.

WANTS CENTRAL OFFICE.

Senator Moses will urge that the prevailing work plan of a half dozen headquarters, scattered from Thirty-fourth street to The Bronx line, be merged into a central station, similar to that just established by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic National Committee.

He will remind Mr Hoover that under the existing situation he will spend the greater part of a day searching for his various New York City campaign branches when he visits the East about September 1.

Senator Moses will beg Mr. Hoover to approve a fifty-year-old workable custom of an easily accessible Eastern headquarters, he and his associates on the national advisory committee to be in supreme command.

MANY SCATTERED BUREAUS.

This picture will be submitted to Mr. Hoover as among the arguments for upsetting Chairman Work's edict.

There have already been leased by Work these detached headquarters in the Metropolitan district alone:

An entire floor at the Salmon Towers Building, No. 11 West Forty-second street, for Treasurer J. R. Nutt and Assistant Treasurer Jeremiah Milbank; the Speakers' Bureau, under John Q. Tilson; the United States Senatorial Committee, under Senator Jesse H. Metcalf; the Congressional Campaign Committee, under Congressman William R. Wood.

Two floors at Nos. 9 and 15 East Forty-first street for the Hoover State Campaign Committee, William H. Hill, chairman.

Nearly a floor at the Waldorf-Astoria, West Thirty-fourth street, for Vice-Chaircan Moses and his advisory committee.

Another floor in the Canadian Pacific Building, No. 344 Madison avenue, for the Hoover Publicity Bureau, with Henry J. Allen in command.

Still another floor in Harlem for the Hoover Colored Campaign Committee, under the supervision of Internal Revenue Collector Charles W. Anderson and Fred Moore.

HOOVER FACTIONS MEET IN HARMONY

Rival Georgia G. O. P. Leaders Bar Doors at Ansley Gathering; Report Peace Reigns.

Opposing factions met in peace and harmony Wednesday morning at the first meeting of the newly appointed Hoover campaign committee for Georgia, uniting members of opposing wings in the state central committee in a common fight for the republican nominee, it was learned following a closed meeting at the Ansley hotel.

A statement issued following the meeting indicated that the two wings of the party, one led by Roscoe Pickett, of Jasper, and the other by G. F. Flanders, of Swainsboro, were welded in the party's plan for a state-wide campaign for the presidential campaign of Herbert Hoover under the chairmanship of H. G. Hastings.

The personnel of the Hoover-Curtis campaign committee was made public for the first time following the meeting. The committee, composed entirely of white men, is as follows: H. G. Hastings, Atlanta, chairman; W. A. Carlisle, Gainesville; Louis H. Crawford, Dalton; Robert M. Cook, Atlanta; Charles Curtis, Thomson; S. P. Darby, Vidalia; Henry C. Davis, Macon; O. M. Drake, Floyilla; M. O. Dunning, Savannah; Monroe Elliott, Brunswick; G. F. Flanders, Swainsboro; Clint W. Hager, Atlanta; W. L. Giradeau, Atlanta; T. M. Hendrick, Edison; Ed [illegible], East Point; Edwin [illegible], Atlanta; Roscoe Pickett, Jasper; J. T. [illegible], Atlanta; Henry B. Scott, Atlanta; J. T. Wynne, Durand.

Chairman Hastings was authorized to increase the membership of the committee to 25 from the present total of 21, and announced that this will be done at an early date. Albert S. Anderson, Jr., formerly of Millen, former secretary to ex-Governor Clifford Walker, was unanimously selected as executive secretary, and will be in charge of headquarters of the committee at 70 Forsyth street, N. W. Anderson is a graduate of the Emory law school, and has been engaged in the practice of law for the past several years.

Rules governing the duties of the committee and an outline of the campaign were adopted, Chairman Hastings said. The rules governing the committee specially provide for an accurate accounting of all funds and disbursements by the committee. The executive secretary is charged with the duty of accurately accounting for all disbursements, checks being signed by the chairman and treasurer. All disbursements will be audited monthly or at the end of the campaign, it was announced.

Several reports on the selection of Hoover as the presidential nominee were received from various sections of Georgia by the committee.

$98,379 IS GIVEN TO FUND OF G. O. P.

Rev. E. J. Hammond, of Atlanta, and J. W. Long, of Ashburn, Are Among Donors of Contributions

Washington, August 4.—(AP)—The first treasurer's report on the republican campaign made public today showed contributions of $98,379 and expenditures of $48,317.04 up to and including July 31.

Three $10,000 contributions, by Secretary Dwight F. Davis, of the war department; Howard Heinz, of Pittsburgh, and Arthur Whitney, of Mendham, N. J., topped the list of gifts to the fund which Chairman Work, of the national committee, hopes will reach $4,000,000.

J. R. Nutt, new treasurer of the committee, made public the report in accordance with the party's pledge in its platform adopted at Kansas City. The statement was forwarded to the senate and house special campaign funds investigating committees and the committees were informed that complete records covering all transactions were open to their inspection.

Expenditures Listed.

The entire list of 60 contributors was given in the report along with an itemized list of expenditures which included mostly salaries of those connected with the national committee. The two largest expenditures were $7,100 to the republican state committee of Pennsylvania and $5,000 to Horace A. Mann, who has been busy in the south since the convention on behalf of Herbert Hoover.

The Pennsylvania disbursement was listed as "return to Pennsylvania." It was explained this meant probably the return of the state committee's share in the collections from that state. There were many Pittsburgh contributors.

The report, however, did not go into the status of the republican treasury, by taking into account its balance on hand when the campaign opened and the condition to date. The August 1 report of the party compares with $60,000 in contributions and about $21,000 in expenses for the democrats for the same period, as revealed in that party's recent announcement.

From $1 to $10,000.

Contributions to the republicans ranged from $1 to $10,000. Arthur Whitney, who was one of the three $10,000 donors, was chairman of the Hoover-for-President clubs in New Jersey and was a candidate for governor of that state in 1924. Mr. Heinz, who also gave $10,000, is a Pittsburgh business man. O. P. Van Sweringen and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland railroad leaders, each gave $7,500 and the other contributions were of less amounts. Secretary Jardine, of the department of agriculture, was the only other cabinet officer in the list. He gave $200.

Among the large expenditures was one of $2,500 listed as salary for Frank Little, of New York. He also received $661 for "expenses." Franklin Fort, secretary of the committee, explained that Mr. Little was director of the foreign language service of the committee but that he was a volunteer worker and the "salary" was probably for assistants.

Expenses for Allen.

Others on the salary list included George Akerson, a secretary to Mr. Hoover, $1,800; Lawrence Richey, a representative of Mr. Hoover in the preconvention campaign, $500 and $476.71; Henry J. Brown, of the publicity staff, $469.43, and Donald M. Ewing, of the publicity staff, $507. Henry J. Allen, director of publicity, was down for $250 for "executive expenses."

The $5,000 for Horace A. Mann was itemized as "adv. exp." and it was explained that this was for advance expenses rather than for advertising. No advertising bills were listed.

Traveling expenses listed included Allen L. Holsey, Tuskegee institute, Ala., $225.

Other contributors included the Rev. E. J. Hammond, Atlanta, Ga.; M. E. Clark, Pensacola, Fla., and J. W. Long, Ashburn, Ga., $10 each.

Four Negroes Seek Assembly Seats From Los Angeles

Associated Negro Press

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 5.—An unusual number of Negro candidates for political honors, seats in the State Assembly were balloted for Tuesday in the Republican primaries. In the 73rd district Sidney Dones and James Allison are the colored candidates. The whites are Charles Lewis and James Stockwell. In the 74th District there are no white candidates but J. B. Bass, editor of the California Eagle and Fred Roberts, editor of the New Age Dispatch, an incumbent for the past ten years, are opponents, with indications of Bass winning. Voters in this district became dissatisfied with Roberts showing and Bass followers have adopted the slogan "Get somewhere."

Leaders Look Askance At Church's Stand

Believe Tennesseean Is "Het Up" Because He Was Not Chosen Leader; Says He Will Work With Party, But Not Colored Committee.

(Special to The Pittsburgh Courier)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30.—The announcement attributed to Robert R. Church of Memphis last week of his refusal to work on the G. O. P. colored committee to elect Hoover came as a distinct surprise in political circles here. Political leaders who can remember the presidential campaigns of 1920 and 1924, in which Mr. Church took a prominent part and solicited the aid of other colored men and women of prominence, are inclined to doubt his sincerity when he says: "Since, however, I cannot bring myself to indorse either the personnel of this committee or the method by which it was chosen, I am forced to decline the appointment and withdraw from membership thereon." Toward the end of his letter, however, which was sent to Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican National Committee, Mr. Church says: "To the fortunes of Mr. Hoover I am devoted. Politically I am his follower and supporter. Personally I am his ardent admirer. Nothing that my hands can find to do to assist him will remain undone. Nothing I can do in aid of you and our party will remain unperformed."

The first reaction in high Republican circles among colored leaders was that Mr. Church was refusing to work with other colored men because he was not made the campaign leader. It was recalled by some close to the present political lineup when Mr. Church and the late Henry Lincoln Johnson were in power in 1920, and again when he was one of the powers behind the throne with William Clarence Matthews in 1924, he very enthusiastically asked the support and cooperation of the colored citizens to put over his program. At that time, however, it is pointed out he was the leader, or one of the leaders.

Those among the politically wise who remember specific instances of Mr. Church's enthusiasm both eight and four years ago recalled that in 1920 he was close to Will H. Hays, the Harding campaign manager, and four years ago he was close to Senator DuPont, who is now in a hospital. They are saying what seems to be wrong with Mr. Church is that when it came time to make the committee set-up this year Mr. Church could not reach his rich backers, and consequently the bandwagon "passed him up." The slate was made up by new men and these new men seemed to have ideas of their own which did not coincide with Mr. Church's way of thinking.

In one part of Mr. Church's letter to Dr. Work he said: "Intimate knowledge of conditions among colored Americans, of their present state of mind, of their growing self-respect, of the feeling of colored Republicans who create our majorities in the free states, together with my own experiences in laboring for our party, lead to the conclusion that neither important colored leaders nor the rank and file will follow men who have no vote of their own, whether they hail from states in which colored citizens are denied the ballot or from central territory where disfranchisement is universal." This part of Mr. Church's letter is thought to be the most ungrateful of all, for it is believed he is taking a slap at John R. Hawkins, the new head of the colored committee, who lives in the District of Columbia and has no vote because of what Mr. Church calls "universal disfranchisement." It is recalled, however, that when the late Henry Lincoln Johnson was in power Mr. Church was for him, 100 per cent, in spite of the fact that there were no Republican votes in Georgia. It is also recalled that Mr. Church has stood by Ben Davis of Georgia, although there are still no Republican votes from that state. So it is generally thought that Mr. Church's plaint about leaders being appointed who have no vote is a camouflage to conceal his own disappointment at not having the seat of honor in the band-wagon. It is noted with some disappointment that Mr. Church, although he resigned the committee, he did not resign the party, as it is felt some defections from the party in certain quarters might be a good thing for the party.

Doubt His Stand

ROBERT R. CHURCH

G. O. P. NEEDS STRONG CANDIDATE

The Republican leaders of Texas, if they are wise and do not fall down on their holden job, should nominate a strong candidate for governor of this state, who will contest with Governor Dan Moody for the office at the genaral election.

While The Informer is more or less independent in politics, this paper can not support nor endorse the administration of the present incumbent governor; and, while the Republican candidate will have a herculean job mapped out for him in opposing the present Democratic occupant of the governor's mansion, this paper holds to the view that a large protest vote against Moody, polled by the Republican gubernatorial nominee, will be an effort made in the right direction.

Governor Moody's tacit alliance with Al Smith and Tammany Hall, and his failure to "carry on" at the recent national parley of the party held in Houston, together with the unprecedented political situation now obtaining in this state, should suggest to the Republican leaders that a formidable candidate for governor of Texas will poll considerable votes at the general election.

Standing out above all Republicans now being mentioned for the nomination, looms Hon. T. P. Lee of Houston—a citizen of the first rank, a man of means whose executive ability is unquestioned, and a worthy asset to any political party.
thereby places him in the same category with lunatics, criminals

Mr. Lee is not a politician, strictly speaking, nor is he a seeker after public office and honors; but he is intensely interested in his state and party, and it is our opinion that he would accept the nomination if tendered him without his solicitation, or without the necessity of being forced to wage a campaign for the nomination.

In the opinion of The Informer, Mr. Lee's nomination for this post will do more to reunite and solidify the warring Republican factions in Texas than any other man the Republicans can select; and, if the party leaders in this state are really anxious and determined to build up a party in Texas and really contest for this office with the Democrats, no better choice than Mr. Lee could be made just now.

With such a high-type candidate as Mr. Lee in the race, and with so much anti-Smith sentiment in this state, Texas would see a kind of political campaign without precedent in the annals of this commonwealth.

It is hoped that the various Republican county conventions, which will be held throughout Texas Saturday, August 4, will endorse Mr. Lee for the gubernatorial nomination, and send delegates to the Fort Worth convention to see that his nomination is assured.

Political – 1928

Party Affiliation

Republican

TELEGRAPH

Starke, Fla.

AUG 31 1928

"DOST THOU LIKE THE PICTURE?"

It ought to be interesting to those unsteady democrats who hope to see Florida go republican and who intend casting their votes to that end to note the scandalous developments in Grand Old Party politics in other Southern states.

Howard, negro National Committeeman for Mississippi, has been indicted for conspiring to sell public office. Hubbard, Deputy United States Marshal in the same state, has been indicted for the same offense. Howard, the negro, held office under republican appointment as a special assistant Attorney General. It was testified that Howard and Hubbard accepted $1,500 for an appointment on the staff of the United States marsahl Howard recently defeated the "white folks" wing of the party in Mississippi and, with his black and tan associates, was seated in the National Convention, against white contestants.

A negro attorney appeared in court in defense of the accused. One of the defendants made the plea that there were no negroes on the Grand Jury that indicted him.

Similar conditions have developed in Alabama, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Arkansas and Georgia. The negro complication has not yet risen in Florida, although charges of a traffic in federal offices have been made in this state.

In Georgia, the republican party kicked out the white organization and, under orders from the negro politicians of Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston, displaced a white national committeeman with a negro, who, with his associates, has been collecting tribute from white postmasters and other officials. As the Atlanta Consitution says: "The disgraceful disclosures that came out at the recent Senate hearing in Atlanta were a stench in the nostrils of every decent citizens of the state, regardless of political affilations. In Georgia the only opional committeeman is another negro, so the Constitution is convinced "the federal patronage in this state as in Mississippi and other Southern states, will be controlled by negro dictators as long as the Republican Party is in charge of the national administration. Certainly," adds the Constitution, "no relief along that line may be expected from Mr. Hoover, whose recent anti-segregation order is a clear indication of how he stands."

The ugly picture presented by Republican politics throughout the South should be a warning to those Democratic voters of Florida who are nursing an intention to vote the republican ticket in the presidential election.

The menace of the negro in politics in public office is by no means a fanciful one. As late as 1885 we had a negro in the State Senat of Florida. Continued republican success may mean the return of the negro to political power in this state. We may yet have a negro national committeeman, negro deputy marshals and other officials, negro republican "bosses" dispensing federal patronage for pay, as in Mississippi and other states of the South.

The surest way we know to bring about these unpleasant conditions is to make Florida a republican state. Talk about financial and commercial advantage as result of Florida going republican is mere political propaganda. It would serve only to make this state state easier "picking" for the republican money-hangers and barterers of government patronage.—Tampa Tribune.

HOOVER SPEAKS IN NEW YORK OCT. 17

Republican Nominee May Speak In Ohio In Effort To Gain Negro Votes

By W. B. RAGSDALE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover will invade the home town of his Democratic opponent, Governor Alfred E. Smith, on the night of Oct. 17 to deliver a speech at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

Plans for this address, along with the announcement that he would speak at Newark, N. J., the night of Sept. 17 were made known today at the general headquarters of the Republican presidential candidate. At the same time Hoover revealed that he did not contemplate any automobile tours about the vicinity of the two cities.

Considers South

While the candidate has given some consideration to the extent to which he will carry the fight into the south, no definite decision has been reached other than that he contemplates a trip which will carry him either into North Carolina or Tennessee, or to a point along the borderland between the two states.

Some doubt was cast today upon the possibility of the Republican nominee making a speech in Chicago. It became known that he considered his declaration of his views on farm relief at West Branch, Ia., probably was as close as he would come to delivering an address in the Middle Western metropolis.

There remained a remote possibility, however, that he would visit Ohio, such an invitation having been extended to him several days ago by Senator Simeon D. Fess. Other party leaders from that state who visited him today did not mention such a trip to him, although they already have taken up the proposal with the Republican speakers' bureau.

While the candidate will speak on labor in his appearance at Newark, he has given no thought as yet to the subject of his address in New York. He already has worked out a rough draft of the Newark speech devoting some time to it during the week-end holidays.

He spent his time today in going over the Ohio situation with a group of Republican leaders from that state, and in discussing the general phases of the campaign with Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, who will take the stump in the Republican cause about the middle of this month.

His visitors from Ohio included Harry D. Silver, Republican state chairman; Thad Brown, preconvention manager of Hoover's campaign in that state; Carmi Thompson, manager of the preconvention campaign of the late Senator Frank B. Willis and Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, of Steubenville, national committeewoman for Ohio.

Fight For Negro Vote

The Ohioans said a fight must be made by the Republicans if the party is to hold the negro vote in line in that state, but expressed confidence that a sweeping Republican majority would be recorded for Hoover in November. No serious evidences remain of the primary fight in that state, they added, and the party now is united.

In contrast, Silver said that the Democrats were divided among themselves.

While prohibition will play a considerable part in the Ohio campaign, the state chairman said the tariff also would weigh heavily among the issues that will decide the result. "Ohio wants a continuation of the economic conditions fostered by the Republican party," he declared adding that "we have many industries that depend on the protection offered by the tariff law for their very existence."

Although the nominee discussed with Senator Borah the general lines along which the campaign will be directed, their conference also touched briefly on prohibition. Neither would reveal, however, just how far their discussion had gone along this line, nor the general direction it had pursued.

The long day spent by the candidate in his headquarters today and the vast amount of work accumulating as the campaign passes the initial stages threw some doubt upon the possibility that he would be able to spare the time later in the week to make a fishing trip he has contemplated for the last several days. He had expected to visit the lower reaches of Chesapeake Bay the latter part of the week to snatch what probably would be his last breath of freedom before Nov. 6.

An invitation also was brought to him to visit Miami, Fla., during the Winter. It was extended by Mayor E. G. Sewell and the city commission and was delivered personally by J. P. Yoder, of Miami.

"POOH" "POOH" STRIKE AMONG WEST'S G. O. P.

But John R. Hawkins Goes To Chicago To Settle Discontent There

TUSKEGEEITES DEMAND CHANGE IN PERSONNEL

$6 A Day And $2,000 A Week Budget Is Termed Far Too Small

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Special)—G. O. P. Leaders here pooh, poohed the idea that western chiefs have set Wednesday for a strike if their demands are not met. Baltimore, Md.

The "Washington Post" in a special dispatch from Chicago, Tuesday, declared,

"After marking time for three weeks, colored Republican headquarters chiefs were ready to quit today. A general walkout of the Western division is threatened Wednesday unless there are far-reaching developments by that time.

Phillips Hands Tied

"Homer G. Phillips, of St. Louis, who was defeated by John R. Hawkins, of Washington, to head the Negro Republican Organization there, has discovered that his hands are tied as field organi of the Western division. Organizers he commissioned are to be scrapped and their places filled by men selected by men in Washington.

"State Senator Odelbert Roberts, in charge of Negro headquarters here, brought back the revised organization when he rteurned recently from Washington. This revision, it is said does not meet the approval of Roscoe Simmons nor of C. C. Calloway, chairman and vice-chairman of the speakers' bureau. These men, together with Arthur W. Mitchell, of Washington and Mrs. Lethia Fleming, of Cleveland, feel keenly Senator Roberts' lack of national political experience as well as his inability to arrange satisfactory compensations.

Budget Too Small

"They believed his $2,000 weekly budget here is much too small and resent the fact that the office personnel has been drawn entirely from the Windy City. But most of all, they resent their station here as ornaments on a $6 daily stipend without instructions or schedule.

"Senator Roberts is closely aligned with major political interests here, and Negro Republican organization heads say he is about to freeze out the Tuskegee influence which Phillips and his coworkers represent. A show-down has been asked for in mid-week.

Independents At Work

"Meanwhile, with the Elk convention adjourned, much organization activity has been voted in the Negro voters political league opposed to voteless leadership. The league has the appearance of being amply supplied with campaign funds which can be traced to purely Negro sources."

How Trouble Started

Trouble started several weeks ago when R. R. Church, Tennessee leader, Armond Scott and Finley Wilson, of Washington, declined to serve on the colored G. O. P. Advisory Committee as at present constituted.

Church and Roscoe Simmons took their complaints to Herbert Hoover, himself, and are reported to have had the understanding that the situation would be remedied as far as it concerns the organization in the West.

It is this revision which is reported as still unsatisfactory to Simmons and Church and Homer Phillips, chief of the Western Bureau.

Hawkins In Chicago

Claude A. Barnett, chief of the Associated Negro Press, and secretary of the G. O. P. Publicity Committee, declared that he did not consider the threatened Chicago walkout as worthy of serious notice.

Dr. John R. Hawkins, head of the Colored Republican Campaign Committee, is in Chicago, he said, straightening out the tangle.

HOOVER SHOULD SPEAK OUT SAYS DR. ALEXANDER

New Jerseyite Declines Place On Campaign Committee

REPLY DUE EARLIER DELAYED BY VACATION

Can't Be "Dumb Figure Head" And Ornamental Fusco, He Says

WASHINGTON, D. C., (Special)—Dr. W. G. Alexander of Orange, N. J., has declined a place on the Hoover Advisory Campaign Committee.

Dr. Alexander

Dissatisfaction with the personnel of the committee, its slight recognition of New Jersey and refusal to be an ornamental frisco or dumb figure head, are reasons cited.

Hoover Must Talk

Commenting on Hoover's acceptance speech, Dr. Alexander wrote Secretary A. L. Holsey here.

As an address intended for Americans with full citizenship and equal opportunities of all kinds, it is a gilt-edged promissory not; but for those Americans (Negroes) who, by no choice of their own, have their opportunities and citizenship either denied or abridged, it is a worthless scrap of paper.

Dr. Alexander

It is unfortunate that Negroes are to be considered as "special" Americans, but the will of the dorminant majority so dictates. Any declaration, therefore, which does not contain special reference to these unfortunate citizens, offers but little consolation and no hope to them.

If Mr. Hoover is to counteract and dispel the prevailing and grawing opinion that he is making a bid for impossible white Southern support at the expense of the Negroes' aid, he must come out with some declaration which will renew the faith of Negroes in the Republican party.

Respectfully Declines

Dr. Alexander's statemen, declining to serve on the Advisoty Committee, is as follows:

"I regret that I am late in making reply to your letter, but it came just as I was starting on my vacation, and I have not had an opportunity to answer before now.

"I must respectfully decline to serve in the capacity designated in your communication. I have received, in the past, too much genuine honor to be deluded 'by tinkling cymbal and sounding brass.' I choose to be nothing rather than an ornamental fresco.

Dumb Fegure-head

"It is not to be understood, thot I have sought or am seeking any particular place in the conducting of the campaign, but if I do have any place in the campaign, it is to be a place where I can function for the accomplishment of some purpose, and not be a dumb figure-head.

"In addiiton to this, I am not in sympathy with the assignments that have been made. It is inconceivable to me that much an important state as New Jersey has been given so little consideration, and my disinclination to serve is due more largely to this fact than any other. I take the liberty to quote you a portion of a letter which was sent to Hon. Franklin W. Fort, secretary of the Republican National Committee, and Congressman from this state, under date of August 6th, 1928.

New Jersey Not Recognized

"It is grievously disappointing to us in this state to note that no recognition, whatever, has been accorded the constant and steadfast Colored Republican of New Jersey.

"As individuals, we have no complaint to make against the persons selected. Most of them are personal friends of mine; but it does seem as if we in this state have either been thoughtlessly or purposely ignored, and this, despite the fact that in years gone by, our devotion and allegiance to the party have been constant and undoubted; and in this last campaign the majority of the Colored voters in New Jersey were for Hoover, First last and always.

Top-Heavy

"It is not understandable, why the committee should be made top-heavy with persons who are from areas where they are not permited to vote. The Chairman is a resident of Washington, the Secretary registers from Alabama, and one of the members of the Executive Committee, who is considered responsible for the selection of the Chairman, is also from Washington. It cannot be felt that these selections have any strange importance.

"In addition to this, New York is given consideration for four places: namely, the Chairman of the Eastern Publicity Bureau, two members, a man and a woman; of the Executive Committee, and the Chairman of the Advisory Committee.

"And New Jersey, which will undoubtedly be one of the bloody battle grounds of the Campaign, has not been though of, and has been given no consideration.

Was Delegate-At-Lodge

"I was a Delegate-At-Large to the recent Republican National Convention in Kansas City, and had the signal honor of being fourth in the number of votes cast for the 'big seven.' Our delegation was pledged to Mr. Hoover, and I have no intention whatever of doing anything other than give him my whole-hearted and enthusiastic support, but I want it thoroughly understood, that I am entirely out of sympahy with the manner in which the campaign among Negroes has been planned."

Leaders Of Colored Voters Division Meet In Washington and Map Program For Intensive Campaigns In States

Chairman Work and Mrs. Hert, Vice-Chairman, Express Confidence In Ability of Workers to Aid Republicans Elect Hoover

Washington, D. C.—Pursuant to a call issued by John R. Hawkins, chairman, the executive committee of the Colored Voters' Division of the Republican National Committee met here on Wednesday, August 29, at headquarters in the Barr Building.

Those present of the committee were Chairman Hawkins; Albion L. Holhey, secretary; Adelbert H. Roberts, Walter Foster, Mrs. Myrtle Foster-Cook, Mrs. Addie W. Hunton and Emmett J. Scott and leaders of the various divisions. Dr. Hawkins presided and reports were made on conditions throughout the country as observed by division leaders. Optimistic forecasts were made and a comprehensive program mapped out for intensive campaigns in all states in cooperation with local, state and national organiations, with a view to obtaining largest results for the national ticket.

Budget Allowances Made.

Budget allowances were made for each district and a definite financial system arranged by which careful check will be kept on all receipts and expenditures.

Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the National Republican Committee, was present and spoke earnestly, expressing pleasure in meeting the colored committeemen. He expressed confidence in their ability leaders of the various divisions.

Dr. Hawkins presided and reports to render servce to the party. Dr. Work emphasied the strong friendship shown by Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for President, for all people, regardless of race, creed or color.

Replying To Criticisms.

Mrs. Alwin T. Hert, vice chairman, Women's Division of the National Committee, also spoke, making interesting coment on the organization, declaring that there should be no color line in party activities, but that all should work together as men and women devoted to interest of the Republican Party. Mrs. Hert said that she numbered among her friends many leading Negroes, and that she found pleasure and instruction in talking with them.

The committee unanimously adopted a resolution of endorsement of Chairman Hawkins, Secretary Holsey and Dr. Emmett Scott as a reply to criticisms reflecting upon them as non-voters, in which it was declared that "we do hereby record our implicit confidence in them and in their ability to conduct an enthusiastic campaign for Hoover and Curtis; and we pledge to them our unanimous support and further pledge to cooperate in every possible way to accomplish this purpose."

Colored Republicans of Rockville Centre in Rally

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, Sept. 1.—The colored Republicans staged their first rally and parade last Friday night, in which 400 colored residents took part.

Larry Temple, president, led the Rockville Centre Republican Club, which turned out 150 strong with the Jenkins Colored Orphanage Band of Charleston, S. C. There were automobiles and floats in line. One float represented an Indian warrior, squaw and papoose typifying the ancestry of Vice-Presidential Candidate Senator Curtis.

On Banks avenue, an open air meeting was held with A. G. Fallings, of Mineola, a Y. M. C. A. secretary, as chairman.

The speakers were Arthur DeMaio, assistant district attorney; Town Assessor Walter Brindley, County Superintendent of Poor Claud Van Deusen, George Brennan, president of the Rockville Centre Republican Club; Gus Kalb, former Assessor Clarence Ankers, Larry Temple, the Rev. L. D. Harrell, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church, and Capt. Tyree Bacon.

REPORTER

AUG 8 1928

NEGRO DEMOCRATIC CLUB SOUGHT HERE

A negro Democratic club is in the organization stage in Independence, it was announced today but the date has not been set for a meeting to organize. It will be the first time that Independence will have ever had a negro Democratic organization ,a prominent Democrat said today.

Hayden Stigall, former Independence boy and a boxer of note, is said to be a strong Democrat and is expected to make several talks over the state in the interest of the Smith candidacy for president. He is now at Wichita.

Political - 1928

Party Acciliation

G. O. P. GETTING AWAY FROM THE NEGRO

Party Platform Planks Since 1888 Get Decrease From 122 To 36 Words

LYNCHING CONDEMNED FIRST 32 YEARS AGO

1928 Platform Still Refers To It Despite 24 Yrs. Of G. O. P. Control

By CARL MURPHY

Since June 5, 1884, the Republican party has included in its platforms planks of promise to the Negro. Afro-American

Among the things it promised him are: "full civil and political rights", 1884; right to cast a "free and unrestricted ballot", 1888, 1892.

"Equal justice and enforcement of the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments" were promised in 1908.

Early On Lynching

Lynching was condemned first in the republican party platform of 1896 as a "barbarous practice" And a federal anti-lynch law was promised in 1920, 1924 and 1928. Rights only of courts to take human life were asserted in 1912. 10-20-28

Planks Grow Shorter

The republican plank of 1884 in the Negro contained 57 words, and that of 1888, 122 words.

From that time on these planks have decreased in length until in 1912 and 1916 the Negro is not mentioned at all and in 1928 — 36 words.

Black Man A Keynote

In 1888, John R. Lynch, a Negro, 6 years a congressman from Mississippi, was temporary chairman of the republican national convention, made the keynote speech, and helped make the platform. Democrat Mel

In 1920, 1924, and in 1928 Negroes sought in vain to place stronger utterances in the party platform. Mr. Lynch, at 81, is still living. In Chicago, the G. O. P. met in national convention in 1920, but no sergeant-at-arms was instructed to send an invitation or a seat on the platform to the "keynotes of 1888".

Getting Away

Evidence in party literature is plain that the republican party is getting away from the Negro. The coming election will doubtless also show that the Negro has gotten away from the G. O. P.

The Planks

G. O. P. planks since 1884 on the Negro are as follows:

Chicago — June 5, 1884.—Candidate for Presidency: James G. Blaine.

We extend to the Republicans of the South, regardless of their former party affiliation, our cordial sympathy and pledge to them, our uttermost earnest efforts to promote the passage of such legislation as will secure to every citizen of whatever race, or color, the full and complete recognition, possession and exercise of all civil and political rights.

Chicago — June 21. 1888.—Candate for Presidency: Benjamin Harrison.

Free Suffrage: We reaffirm our unswerving devotion to the National Constitution and to the indissoluble union of the States; to the autonomy reserved to the States under the Constitution to the personal rights and liberties of citizens in all States and territories in the union especially to the Supreme and Sovereign right of lawful citizen, rich or poor, native or foreign born, white or black to cast one free ballot in public elections and to have that ballot counted. We hold the free and honest popular ballot and the just and equal representation of all our people to be the foundation of government, and demand effective legislation to secure the integrity and purity of elections which are the foundation of all public authority.

Minneapolis, Minn. — June 9, 1892.—Candidate for Presidency: Benjamin Harrison.

The Ballot: We demand that every citizen of the United States be allowed to cast one free and unrestricted ballot in all public elections, and that such ballot be counted and returned as cast; that such laws shall be enacted and enforced as will secure to every citizen, be he rich or poor, native or foreign born, white or black, this Sovereign right guaranteed by the Constitution. Afro-American

St. Louis. — June 18, 1896.—Candidate for Presidency: Wm. McKinley.

Lynchings: We proclaim our unqualified condemnation of the uncivilized and barbarous practice, well known as lynching or killing of human beings, suspected or charged with crime, without process of law. 10-20-28

Philadelphia.—June 20, 1900.—Candidate for Presidency: Wm. McKinley.

Franchise in South: It was the plain purpose of the 15th Amendment to the Constitution to prevent discrimination on account of race or color in regulating the elective franchise. Devices of state governments, whether by Statutory or Constitutional enactment, to avoid the purpose of this amendment are revolutionary and should be condemned. Democrat Mel

Republican

Chicago. — June 22, 1904.—Candidate for Presidency: Theodore Roosevelt.

Negro Disfranchisement: We favor such congressional action as shall determine whether by special discriminations the elective franchise in any State has been unconstitutionally limited, and if such is the case, we demand that representation in Congress and in the electoral college shall be proportionally reduced as directed by the Constitution of the United States.

Chicago. — June 18 1908.—Candidate for Presidency: Wm. H. Taft.

The Negro: The Republican party has been for more than 50 years the consistent friend of the American Negro. It gave him freedom and citizenship. It wrote into the organic law the declarations that proclaim his civil and political rights, and it believes today that his noteworthy progress in intelligence, industry and good citizenship has earned the respect and encouragement of the nation. We demand equal justice for all men without regard to race or color; we declare once more, and without reservation, for the enforcement in letter and spirit of the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments to the Constitution, which were designed for the protection and advancement of the Negro; and we condemn all devices that have for their real aim his disfranchisement for reasons of color alone, as unfair, un-American and repugnant to the supreme laws of the land.

Chicago. — June 18, 1912.—Candidate for Presidency: Wm. H. Taft.

The Republican Party reaffirms its intention to uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, both State and Federal, and it will ever insist that their powers to enforce their processes and to protect life, liberty, and property shall be preserved inviolate.

Chicago. — June 8, 1916.—Candidate for Presidency:—Charles Evans Hughes.

No direct reference to the Negro.

Chicago. — June 8, 1920.—Candidate for Presidency: Warren G. Harding.

We urge Congress to consider the most effective means to end lynching in this country which continues to be a terrible blot on our American civilization.

Cleveland, Ohio. — June 12, 1924.—Candidate for Presidency: Calvin Coolidge.

The Negro: We urge the Congress to enact at the earliest possible date a Federal anti-lynching law,, so that the full influence of the Federal Government may be wielded to exterminate this hideous crime.

We believe that much of the misunderstanding which now exists can be eliminated by humane and sympathetic study of its causes. The President has recommended the creation of a commission for the investigation of social and economic conditions and the promotion of mutual understanding and confidence.

Kansas City. — June 13, 1928.—Candidate for Presidency: Herbert Hoover.

We renew our recommendation that the Congress enact at the earliest possible date a Federal anti-lynching law so that the full influence of the Federal Government may be wielded to exterminate this hideous crime.

The Republican Party and Remedial Legislation

It has been charged and noised about, and is now being charged and noised about in the present campaign for the Presidency by an element of our group, that the Republican Party has been derelict in the discharge of its duty to Negro republicans, in that it has made no substantial effort to pass appropriate legislation to enforce the provisions of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Federal Constitution; and that the Party has gone out of its way to pass appropriate legislation to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and has appropriated millions to enforce the Volstead Act; that its treatment of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, which involve the question of human rights, as contrasted with its treatment of the Eighteenth Amendment makes out a prima facie case of the Party's lack of interest in the Negro race in America. Independent

The Independent begs to differ with those of our Race who take this position, for the reason that their position is in contravention of the facts, and the history of the Republican Party's efforts to pass appropriate legislation to enforce the provisions of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. We believe that those who advance these criticisms as a reason why they should desert the party of their freedom for the party of slavery would abandon their argument, if they knew really the facts in the case. We are quite certain they would, had they taken the opportunity to make a careful examination of the Congressional Records beginning with the Grant Administration following the adoption of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Federal Constitution. 10-19-29

In 1870, the Republican Party under General Grant's administration passed federal statutes for the control and supervision of federal elections, in order that the newly made citizens under the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments might be protected at the ballot box in the discharge of their new duties. This legislation was passed. In 1871, the Republican Party in Congress made another effort to remedy existing efforts of the Democratic Party to prevent the Negro from voting by passing other statutes authorizing the judges of the federal courts to appoint supervisors of elections, and United States Marshals to appoint deputies to assist in holding elections, and to see to it that every Negro was permitted to cast his ballot and have it honestly counted. This legislation provided for soldiers at the polls on election day which was extremely objectionable to the democrats. Five years later the Supreme Court of the United States declared these statutes and regulations controlling federal elections in the reconstructed states null and void, setting out that Congress exceeded the authority conferred upon it by the Fifteenth Amendment. Atlanta Ga.

The first Force bill was evolved by President Grant in 1875. This bill followed the statutes passed in 70 and 71. President Grant's force bill authorized the president to suspend the habeas corpus writ in Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi. Although thirty-five Republicans voted against it, the measure was passed by the House, but failed of consideration in the Senate in the closing days of the Congress. The Democrats claimed that the Republicans sought to steal the electoral vote of the South by this legislation.

The last effort made by the Republican Party to enforce the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment by appropriate legislation was the Lodge Bill, introduced in the 51st Congress by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, under Thomas Brackett Reed, of Maine, as Speaker. In 1890, this bill was put through the House, but died in the Senate, by reason of Democratic filibustering and swearing that before the bill should pass, they would filibuster the balance of the senate session. In all of the democratic efforts to defeat remedial legislation for the relief of the Negro voters in the South, Tammany Hall was its ally, and contributed in every way possible to defeat Republican efforts. When the Democrats got control of both branches of Congress in 1879, they proceeded to repeal and nullify every law on the books guaranteeing the colored man political equality. They did this by attaching riders on appropriation bills, just as they attach riders on the Howard University bill every year to defeat Negro higher education at Howard University. But, thank God! President Hayes vetoed each of the bills, appropriations, riders, and all, and the Democratic South and Tammany Hall were not able to overturn his veto.

But in 1892, under President Cleveland, with both branches of the government in their control, the Democrats proceeded to repeal the last vestige of legal protection on the federal statue books guaranteeing to the Negro his rights to vote, and on this occasion Tammany Hall was the trusted ally of the Democratic Party, and joined the Democratic Party in crucifying the Negro on a cross of race hatred and political intolerance. At this time Al Smith was a member of Tammany Hall, and his influence, whatever it may have been at that time, went with the institution that he is so proud of today.

All along it has been the policy of the Democratic Party, when in control of the general government, to repeal all laws affecting the economic and political rights of the black man, and those that it could not repeal, it has nullified them, just as it nullifies today the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. Thus, it is set up clearly and unmistakably that the Republican Party has made efforts, and successive efforts, from the passage of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments until today, to enact appropriate legislation for the enforcement of the provisions of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution. It is only up to the Party now to go further, by passing the necessary legislation to reduce representation in any state of the Union in proportion as qualified voters have been denied their constitutional right to cast their vote unmolested, and to have their votes honestly counted.

This editorial is written for the purpose of reminding those of our Group that their argumnet is baseless and not according to the facts, and to further inform them that every effort of Mr. Hoover's party has been stubbornly fought by Governor Smith's party, and that Governor Smith's institution, Tammany Hall, has been the ally of the Democratic Party, South, in depriving the Negro of his constitutional rights, and with that spirit the South, with Mr. Smith as its leader, is seeking to further perpetuate the chains of intellectual slavery on the Negro, and to continue to crucify him on a cross of race hatred and political intolerance.

Hoover's Election and Negro Race's Political Outlook

(By NAHUM DANIEL BRASCHER)

Chicago.—(ANP).—The tumult and the shouting are over. Herbert Hoover will be the next president. The "I Told You So" association is holding daily sessions, and, the "Alibi Club" is giving out statements of "if" and "however."

Various newspapers, daily and otherwise, and various wiseacres, local, and national, if not always so wise, are describing the part colored America played in the national game and what position will be taken, or forced in the coming days. Some have said this was the first year Democrats ever "went after the Negro vote." The rcord, of course, belies this. The Democrats have always gone "after the Negro vote," North, in all national elections since enfranchisement, and have always had a goodly number.

Grover Cleveland made outstanding appointments and had zealous adherents. Bishop Walters and Monroe Trotter earnestly supported Woodrow Wilson in his first election, only to be humiliated by Wilson's ignoble double crossing after getting in the White House. Four years ago the racial Democratic wing was directly in national headquarters, instead of being camouflaged in outside locations with more or less dubious names. Probably 1928 furnished the largest number of colored voters who protested against Republican sins of omission by voting for Al Smith. The proportion at that, however, except in New York and St. Louis, was not anything like many anticipated, and some seem yet to think. Better than 70 per cent of Chicago Negroes voted for Hoover.

Arthur Sears Henning of the Chicago Tribune makes the bold statement, in one of his articles, that not many Negroes voted for Hoover, therefore they cannot expect much from the incoming president. As a matter of fact, colored America expects more from Mr. Hoover than from any other previous president. Their expectations are based on Americanism and not on color. The thoughtful men and women of the race are expecting Mr. Hoover to live up to the principles he enunciated before and since the election that sectionalism shall be wiped out, that common sense, under divine guidance, will be used, and that the "door of opportunity" will be opened to all, without regard to religion or race.

New Leadership In the South

There will be new leadership in the South, and this will probably be white, for the most part. But this is no less true in the North, where the race, in recent years, has made its largest political advancement. It is true in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Kansas City, and other locations where the largest advancement has been made. While there are racial leaders, in the last analysis whites control party organization. It is not believed that the new administration will countenance procedure on any line in the South or North, that completely eliminates colored America.

If and when colored America looks to the larger ideals of national welfare and progress rather than purely individual advancement, more consideration will be given by the powers, and more will be merited. Development of a program of real statesmanship will place colored America in a position in every section of the nation to receive more favorable consideration on the problems of the most immediate concern. On the other hand, the minority party of Democrats, North and South, may be expected, even in a larger way, to be less drastic in opposition to regain position. That is ever the story of politics, from the beginning.

DePriest In U. S. Senate

Oscar DePriest, of Chicago, elected to congress to succeed the late Martin B. Madden, will be seated, despite the many tricks that will be resorted to, endeavoring to keep him out. He will occupy a unique position and will be in a position to serve the entire race in a much needed way. DePriest thrives best on opposition. A native of Alabama, who came to Chicago and became a house decorator and then a real estate man, who got into politics, he knows the "ins and outs" of American life, "for better or for worse." He is shrewd, aggressive, and sometimes domineering, but he can get results, and that's the big item of the coming days. His election will mean that other districts must follow the Chicago lead and name men to congress.

By all the signs of the times, there is a real new day at hand. New faces, and some old, are in the picture. The business forces of America are determined to make the next four years prosperous in business. This means more and better employment, and happier homes. President-elect Hoover, in all of his addresses, persisted in enunciating the fact that America is to be measured, in the last analysis, not by the 120,000,000 people who inhabit it but by the 23,000,000 homes where dwell the families that make the glory of the nation.

Colored America must look to this larger vision of economic progress, and with it will come not only political opportunity but political preferment.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

AMERICANISM'S SIGNAL VICTORY!

The sweeping victory of Herbert C. Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, over Governor Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential standard-bearer, was not only a triumph for the Republican party and its partisan principles and traditions, but it was a signal victory for Americanism and democracy (in its larger sense and application).

11-10-28

Arrayed against the Republican presidential nominee were many bigots and nullificationists who regard Americanism as an exclusive institution and who look upon the federal constitution as a "mere scrap of paper."

Subjected to all types of vile, malicious and insidious attacks, Mr. Hoover never resorted to the gutter-snipe methods of his assailants, denouncers and defamers, but in perfect consonance with his statesmanlike poise he continued to wage his fight on lofty ground, and the verdict of the American electorate on Tuesday is convincing and overwhelming proof that the country has an abiding faith in the ability, integrity and leadership of this distinguished American.

It was a remarkable victory from several angles, chief of which were Hoover's triumph in New York, the home state of his Democratic opponent; the party loyalty of the agrarian Middle West and majority of Negro voters who remained within the Republican fold; the smashing up of the "solid South," and the resultant emancipation of thousands of white voters who have been fettered to the Democratic national party with hoops of steel since the Civil War.

Running for public office the first time in his long career, Mr. Hoover proved a better vote-getter than both of his Republican predecessors, Presidents Harding and Coolidge; for while Mr. Harding carried three border states in 1920, it remaind for Mr. Hoover to invade the bourbon South and capture several erstwhile rock-ribbed Democratic states in the electoral college and also make heavy gains in other Dixie commonwealths.

When The Informer, during the pre-election campaign, contended that Texas was debatable ground and fertile field for the Republican presidential ticket, national party leaders laughed at the suggestion that an intensive campaign be waged in the Lone Star State for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors; yet election returns indicate that The Informer "knows its Texas."

Standing over and above every other issue that each party sought to project on the political screen, was the towering personality of Herbert Hoover, whose humanitarian greatness, executive ability and administrative efficiency are both nationally and universally known and recognized.

Undoubtedly the most illustrious figure and the best prepared man the Republicans have ever nominated for this highest elective post, the American voters were in no frame of mind to elect a candidate whose grasp on domestic and foreign issues was principally provincial and sectional.

While Governor Smith received an exceedingly large popular vote, the fact remains that he was the nominee of the wrong party, and that his party is too much of a hybrid, mongrel partisan organization to be trused with the ship of state in such a period in the life of the republic.

If the Democratic party could not make a decent showing with the most popular candidate the party has ever nominated for this high position, then it is high time that the party sang its swan song and quit the political arena; for it stands today discredited, defeated and demoralized.

Although a peerless single-handed campaigner and though given mighty ovations wherever he appeared during his campaign, apparently the Gotham governor did not convince the electorate that he possessed the same presidential ability as Mr. Hoover.

Future historians are likely to refer to Governor Smith as the "man who talked himself out of the presidency," and brought about the wellnigh disintegration and debacle of the national Democratic party.

Republican

REPUBLICAN
SPRINGFIELD, MASS

NOV 5 1928

The Dark Waters Stirring

Negro voters have been divided in this campaign as never before. Some political correspondents have ventured to forecast the wholesale abandonment of the Republican party by the Negroes in several northern states where they have become a substantial political factor since the war. The Negro voters in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago now command special attention because of their formidable numbers. Tammany has nursed an alliance with the Negro district in Harlem, while in Chicago this group of voters has recently proved to be very necessary to Republican supremacy in the city's politics.

The Chicago Defender, a daily newspaper printed especially for the Negro population of Chicago, bolted to Smith a fortnight ago and has since then conducted a zealous campaign in support of the Democratic ticket. It has accused the Republicans of abandoning the Negroes of the country, being especially severe on Republican efforts to build up a white Republican organization in the South and in its resentment against the Republican failure to enforce the 14th and 15th amendments. This warfare on the Republican party by a leading Negro newspaper has aroused widespread interest, apparently, among Negroes who remain loyal Republicans. The Defender on Saturday printed a page advertisement signed by a prominent Negro in Memphis, Tenn., R. R. Church, headed, "Why I am for Hoover." The battle rages.

Negro leaders like Dr W. E. B. Du Bois and Prof Kelly Miller refuse to support Gov Smith, although they are deeply discontented with the present political status of their race. Dr Du Bois's experience in seeking to persuade Gov Smith to declare his sympathy with the Negroe's aspirations for equality in the political and business life of the nation was disappointing. The Chicago Defender, however, ignores Gov Smith's indifferent attitude, which is obviously dictated by his political necessities in the South, and holds stoutly to the view that the Negroes must frighten Republican leaders into concessions. It is already an established fact that their new opportunity to exercise the franchise in the great northern cities has brought them much nearer to a position where they can exact terms for their political support.

At all events, there is manifest a stirring of dark waters that may have far reaching effects.

TRIBUNE
CHICAGO, ILL.

OCT 31 1928

NEGROES TOLD TO WALK OUT GATE G. O. P. GAVE THEM

Ald. Louis B. Anderson, colored representative of the Second ward, speaking last night in Wendell Phillips hall before 1,500 colored people in a rally in behalf of Oscar De Priest, colored Republican nominee for congress, told his audience that after they put a circle before the name of De Priest to use their own judgment in voting for the presidential candidates.

"Let your mind or your pencil wander and choose for yourselves your preference for the presidency," he said. "Heretofore you have been directed how to vote, but this time vote according to your judgment. The Republican party has shown us the gate. Now let all the colored people walk out of this gate."

KLAN STRESSES RACE PREJUDICE AGAINST SMITH

Makes Foolish Charges Involving Negroes With The New York Governor

Special to Journal and Guide

New York, Sept. 19—Disclosures that the ku klux klan, lily white Republicans and bolting Southern Democrats are using the Negro in their propaganda to discredit Alfred E. Smith have aroused widespread resentment among colored Americans irrespective of party affiliation. Conclusive proof that a plot exists to jointly vilify the Governor and Negroes is apparent on every hand.

A pamphlet is being circulated which reads that a Negro occupies a position of Civil Service Commissioner under Tammany Hall, and that if Smith is elected "this Negro will be made a member of Governor Smith's cabinet.

In big headlines charging Governor Smith of catering to the Negro the Fellowship Forum, national organ of the ku klux klan, said in a recent issue:

"In addition to Negro fraternities the Negro press is coming to the aid of Al Smith. The signs are unmistakable. All the un-American and anti-American elements are flocking to the banner to which they naturally belong. In the meantime, the friends of American institutions continue to rally to the Hoover standards."

Senator Tydings of Maryland chairman of the Democratic Speakers Bureau, has received word that Negroes in Easton, Md., were being hired to ride in automobiles on the side of which are displayed streamers bearing the words, "Al Smith."

Other Charges

At Foley, Ala., a preacher by the name of Showt, recently speaking at a ku klux klan fish-fry, declared that Governor Smith's stenographer was a "Negro wench" and that Smith had placed thousands of Negroes on the pay-roll in New York State.

"White Supremacy as Practiced by Tammany" is the caption over a four column cut appearing on the first page of the Fellowship Forum of September 15 in which Civil Service Commissioner Ferdinand Q. Morr[illegible] shown dictating a letter to a white stenographer. Under the picture is another caption—$7,500 a Year Tammany Negro Boss and White Secretary.

The Sensational Weekly, another ku klux, lily-white organ published in Ramer, Ala., has the following headlines on the first page of its issue of September 1: "Tammany Hall in All Its Hideousness—Made Up Of Crooks, Murderers, Thieves, Thugs, Bums, Bootleggers, White-Slavers, Nigger-Lovers, Niggers, Gamblers, Counterfeiters, Foreigners, Hi-Jackers, Pimps, Catholic Church and Al Smith."

"Al Smith the Negro Lover," is the heading of a one-page advertisement appearing in the Luvrene, Alabama Journal and News, which goes to tell of white and black children being indiscriminately mixed in public schools of New York with Negro teachers in large numbers teaching white as well as colored pupils. Tammany Hall is held directly responsible for these "unspeakable conditions" and Al Smith is spoken of as owing his entire career to Tammany Hall.

These unwarranted scurrilous attacks on Governor Smith and the Negro are said to be reacting against lily-whiteism and ku kluxism and making many votes for the Democratic candidate for President.

HOOVERITE INSULTS NEGRO WOMANHOOD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Indignation has been generally expressed by Negroes throughout the country and protests registered to Herbert C. Hoover against what is interpreted as a direct slap at Negro womanhood by George Akerson, the Republican Presidential nominee's assistant.

Mr. Akerson in a public statement in which he commented on rumors in circulation that Mr. Hoover had danced with a colored woman is quoted as saying:

"The charegs that Mr. Hoover danced with a colored woman is the most indecent and unworthy statement in the whole of a bitter campaign."

The Akerson statement is regarded as an insult to Negro women in particular and the race in general. It has caused much adverse criticism as Senator Moses' recent Ku Klux statement made in New York, in which he boasted that no Negro dictated to a white stenographer under G. O. P. control at Washington.

TIMES
TRENTON, N. J.
OCT 15 1928

FOR COLORED VOTERS

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to attempt to show why everyone of voting age among the colored people should support the Republican ticket—at this time more than at any other time since the days of Lincoln.

All men agree that it was the policies of Lincoln that gave the black man his first chance to exercise his rights as a citizen, but then, as now there was an element that tried to keep the colored voter from enjoying the full measure of these rights and that element was and is known as the Democratic party.

When a great many colored people of the South were striving to go to other parts of the country, where they thought they had every reason to believe their condition in life would be bettered, who tried to stop them? Why a Democrat, of course.

When they were told all kinds of horrible things awaited them in other sections, who told them this? Why, a Democrat, of course.

When they were driven away from the different railroad stations and buffed and kicked and cast into jail because they were determined to see for themselves, who did all of this? Why, Democrats, of course. When they were being allowed to starve in the Mississippi flood regions, who allowed this? Why, a Democrat, of course.

When they did finally get something to subsist upon, who gave it to them? Why, a Republican, of course, in the person of one of the greatest men of the day, the Hon. Herbert Hoover, candidate for President upon the ticket of the greatest party in the world.

Now the late World War has helped to give the black man a home where the Republican party will see to it that he gets every consideration as a man, and as a citizen. Who wants to let down the immigration bars, flood the country with new immigrants from Europe and drive the black man away? Why, Democrats of course. Who wants to destroy the protective tariff, so that our standard of living will be lowered? Why, Democrats, of course.

When one of our late Presidents was in Europe, meeting with the League of Nations, and said he was here to represent white men, who was he? Why, a Democrat, of course. When one of our late Presidents gave a certain black man a little lunch at the White House, and a multitude of newspapers and millions of people were going into spasmodic fits about it, because they felt that it was out of place, who were they? Why, Democrats, of course.

Now, I want every colored man and woman in the city of Trenton, who have not registered to go at once and get registered and then on election day go to the polls and vote. It is a duty we owe, first to ourselves and our children who are coming after us, and next to our great friend, the Republican party. Let us put our shoulders to the wheel and do all that we can to help our friends to save ourselves.

Be sure to vote the straight Republican ticket. We want Hoover and Curtis for President and Vice President, respectively; Hamilton Kean for United States Senate; Morgan Larson for Governor, and Charles Eaton for Congress.

REV. G. GRANT MORGAN

Augusta, Ga., Chronicle
Monday, November 5, 1928

Qualified Negro Voters Headed By Ben J. Davis To Wage Fight Against White Voters on Tuesday November 6

The Chronicle Bureau,
The Kimball House,
John W. Hammond, Mgr.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 4—A direct fight is to be pitched against the white people of the state of Georgia in the general election Tuesday by qualified negro electors, headed in the movement by Ben J. Davis and his newspaper, the Atlanta Independent.

They have been called upon by Davis to kill the constitutional amendment authorizing a number of cities in the state to establish zoning laws within the respective municipalities.

Calling them by name, the Davis newspaper this week attacks Atlanta, Savannah, Macon and Augusta, "and certain others" on the zoning law proposition, and makes a call on all Georgia negroes to vote against the amendment Tuesday.

Ben Davis' newspaper in the current issue says:

"One of the most serious problems confronting the negroes of Georgia, particularly concerning their residence in the cities, is involved in one of the constitutional amendments to be voted upon November 6, in the general election. The amendment in question is the one providing for the amendment to article 3, section 7 of the constitution of Georgia by which cities like Atlanta, Savannah, Macon, Augusta and certain others, as well as all cities now or hereafter having a population of 25,000 or more, will have the rigth to pass zoning and planning laws regulating where people shall live and where business shall be located therein. While the legislative enactment authorizing the submitting of that amendment to the voters of Georgia makes no mention of zoning the cities for residences according to race, yet from the negro's bitter experience in the past he knows exactly what is intended to be accomplished."

"Desirable residential areas for negroes in Atlanta and other cities of Georgia are at present very limited and circumscribed. We know how the zoning law was further used to circumscribe the natural expansion of the negro residential area."

"It behooves every negro voter in Georgia to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote against that proposed amendment."

The foregoing quotation from the Atlanta Independent follow the publication in the same paper a short time ago, by Davis, that there may be some white people who do not want to live next to him, but he felt that there are many white people not good enough to be his neighbors.

A mass meeting has been called at Big Bethel church in Atlanta for Monday night, of the negroes, for the purpose of "instructing them" how to mark and vote their ballot and to bring to their attention "a very important matter affecting their future"; which is purposed to organize their fight against the zoning law amendment to the constitution.

Hallie Q. Brown Jim Crowed at Kansas City

Miss Hallie Q. Brown, of Ohio who recently gave out a statement eulogizing the Republican party to the highest, was compelled to sit in the buzzard's roost of the convention hall at the Kansas City convention, according to reports sent out by colored newspaper men.

Following the convention the following statement appeared in the colored press:

"It's a shame that Miss Hallie Q. Brown, former President of the National Association of Negro Women, had to sit in the buzzard's roost of the conevtnon hall. Hallie Q. is one of the real women of our group, and some one should have seen to it that she had a position of advantage and a seat in the convention in keeping with her importance to our group Shame! Shame!"

PROTECTION BY REPUBLICANS AND FEDERAL SEGREGATION THE DETERMINANTS

The only reasonably logical aim of the Colored Americans' political policy in national elections is to so use the ballot as to secure protection by the Republican party of its rights and from blows at its rights. This is so because, first, the Republican party is in control of the federal government nearly all the time. Second, because the Republican party was born on the ideal and claimed as its mission and its work of emancipation, equality and suffrage for all regardless of color. Third because by its national support of a party so born it has relieved the opposing party of all obligation and made it dependent on the former slave-holding sections.

In politics the history of the country has made the Colored voters the supporters and saviors of the Republican party, with all its claims to friendship and loyalty on that side, and thereby every reason for unfriendliness by the minority party. Under these circumstances the race must and has a right to, expect protection of the principles of those sections of the Constitution which the Republicans got enacted. The most logical of all is to deserve protection from any violations of these principles put in when the Democrats got into office, and especially from all breaches due to Southern, former slave-holding democrats.

By the same token it is morally worse, it is more dastardly, for Republicans to strike the race or refuse to abolish proscriptionsperpetrated by Southern democrats when in control.

What are the facts? The Republican party first permitted every sort of deprivation of the rights under the War Amendments to take place in the South. Their Supreme Court destroyed the Civil Rights Bill. Then came the Woodrow Wilson regime, with the extension of lurking Jim-Crowism under the federal government (God save the mark) into a positive practice and policy. Segregation, deepest of all injuries, and in industry where it hurts especially, moves from Southern states into the national government—the beginning of the end of all equality, of the nationalization of segregation. If there ever was a time when the race needed protection by the party born to give it rights against attack in violation of promises at a time when Republican division meant Democratic election if every Colored voter had voted Republican, this was the time. No protection when at last by almost solid Colored support the Republican party again came into power would be absolute repudiation of the race, absolute dishonor, abandonment to the enemy, in the federal government itself.

Now, with Colored support, under a Republican president, one from Massachusetts, in seven years segregation is unreduced! How then is our race to get protection against the opposite party?

Evidently support does not bring it. Apparently support is taken to mean the race is too devoid of intelligence or self-respect to feel the degradation. Or, its support is sure without protecting it. Then a protest vote is all that is left, is imperative to impress the fact we feel ourselves to be men and women as others do, that we know that in politics a false friend is more dangerous, more dastardly than a full enemy, that ingratitude is more knavish than hostility.

In the case of President Coolidge the need for a protest vote is greater because he has been told face to face several times in the White House how we resent segregation, with many organizations and many signatures from all sections and promise to abolish it.

The objection may be that Mr. Coolidge is not running, and the nominee removed a little from his department. But the party must meet our Protest. Pres. Coolidge CAN, if he will, at least start the elimination. Hoover CAN, if he will, take a positive position against it. There is no excuse at all from the race's interests in pleading that this will lose the chance to get Southern democratic support for protection of Colored Americans by the Republican party. Coolidge must act or Hoover must declare. Today decides the result in Massachusetts. President Coolidge must keep his word to day or his national ticket must lose this state.

To mention it is to breathe a mora. perfidy, playing both ends, ending all ballots hope of ever abolishing segregation by catering to the South beforehand. Surely, unless Coolidge acts now Colored voters in the states. Other- ee wil- must not let his own state; must resent deser- tion and broken faith in a Republican president from their own state. Other- keep his word to day or his national ticket must lose this state. democratic from and misrepresents on this mor- issue, must protest with their ballots must not let his federal nominee wi- must resent deser- Republican party. Other- keep his word to day or his national ticket must lose this state he hails wise there remains no political rea-

in Ramer, Ala., has the following headlines on the first page of its issue of September 1: "Tammany Hall in All Its Hideousness—Made Up Of Crooks, Murderers, Thieves, Thugs, Bums, Bootleggers, White-Slavers, Nigger-Lovers, Niggers, Gamblers, Counterfeiters, Foreigners, Hi-Jackers, Pimps, Catholic Church and Al Smith."

"Al Smith the Negro Lover," is the heading of a one-page advertisement appearing in the Luvrene, Alabama Journal and News, which goes to tell of white and black children being indiscriminately mixed in public schools of New York with Negro teachers in large numbers teaching white as well as colored pupils. Tammany Hall is held directly responsible for these "unspeakable conditions" and Al Smith is spoken of as owing his entire career to Tammany Hall.

These unwarranted scurrilous attacks on Governor Smith and the Negro are said to be reacting against lily-whiteism and ku kluxism and making many votes for the Democratic candidate for President.

HOOVERITE INSULTS NEGRO WOMANHOOD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Indignation has been generally expressed by Negroes throughout the country and protests registered to Herbert C. Hoover against what is interpreted as a direct slap at Negro womanhood by George Akerson, the Republican Presidential nominee's assistant.

Mr. Akerson in a public statement in which he commented on rumors in circulation that Mr. Hoover had danced with a colored woman is quoted as saying:

"The charegs that Mr. Hoover danced with a colored woman is the most indecent and unworthy statement in the whole of a bitter campaign."

The Akerson statement is regarded as an insult to Negro women in particular and the race in general. It has caused much adverse criticism as Senator Moses' recent Ku Klux statement made in New York, in which he boasted that no Negro dictated to a white stenographer under G. O. P. control at Washington.

TIMES
TRENTON, N. J.
OCT 15 1928

FOR COLORED VOTERS

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to attempt to show why everyone of voting age among the colored people should support the Republican ticket—at this time more than at any other time since the days of Lincoln.

All men agree that it was the policies of Lincoln that gave the black man his first chance to exercise his rights as a citizen, but then, as now there was an element that tried to keep the colored voter from enjoying the full measure of these rights and that element was and is known as the Democratic party.

When a great many colored people of the South were striving to go to other parts of the country, where they thought they had every reason to believe their condition in life would be bettered, who tried to stop them? Why a Democrat, of course.

When they were told all kinds of horrible things awaited them in other sections, who told them this? Why, a Democrat, of course.

When they were driven away from the different railroad stations and buffed and kicked and cast into jail because they were determined to see for themselves, who did all of this? Why, Democrats, of course. When they were being allowed to starve in the Mississippi flood regions, who allowed this? Why, a Democrat, of course.

When they did finally get something to subsist upon, who gave it to them? Why, a Republican, of course, in the person of one of the greatest men of the day, the Hon. Herbert Hoover, candidate for President upon the ticket of the greatest party in the world.

Now the late World War has helped to give the black man a home where the Republican party will see to it that he gets every consideration as a man, and as a citizen. Who wants to let down the immigration bars, flood the country with new immigrants from Europe and drive the black man away? Why, Democrats of course. Who wants to destroy the protective tariff, so that our standard of living will be lowered? Why, Democrats, of course.

When one of our late Presidents was in Europe, meeting with the League of Nations, and said he was there to represent white men, who was he? Why, a Democrat, of course. When one of our late Presidents gave a certain black man a little lunch at the White House, and a multitude of newspapers and millions of people were going into spasmodic fits about it, because they felt that it was out of place, who were they? Why, Democrats, of course.

Now, I want every colored man and woman in the city of Trenton, who have not registered to go at once and get registered and then on election day go to the polls and vote. It is a duty we owe, first to ourselves and our children who are coming after us, and next to our great friend, the Republican party. Let us put our shoulders to the wheel and do all that we can to help our friends to save ourselves.

Be sure to vote the straight Republican ticket. We want Hoover and Curtis for President and Vice President, respectively; Hamilton Kean for United States Senate; Morgan Larson for Governor, and Charles Eaton for Congress.

REV. G. GRANT MORGAN

Augusta, Ga., Chronicle
Monday, November 5, 1928

Qualified Negro Voters Headed By Ben J. Davis To Wage Fight Against White Voters on Tuesday November 6

The Chronicle Bureau,
The Kimball House,
John W. Hammond, Mgr.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 4—A direct fight is to be pitched against the white people of the state of Georgia in the general election Tuesday by qualified negro electors, headed in the movement by Ben J. Davis and his newspaper, the Atlanta Independent.

They have been called upon by Davis to kill the constitutional amendment authorizing a number of cities in the state to establish zoning laws within the respective municipalities.

Calling them by name, the Davis newspaper this week attacks Atlanta, Savannah, Macon and Augusta, "and certain others" on the zoning law proposition, and makes a call on all Georgia negroes to vote against the amendment Tuesday.

Ben Davis' newspaper in the current issue says:

"One of the most serious problems confronting the negroes of Georgia, particularly concerning their residence in the cities, is involved in one of the constitutional amendments to be voted upon November 6, in the general election. The amendment in question is the one providing for the amendment to article 3, section 7 of the constitution of Georgia by which cities like Atlanta, Savannah, Macon, Augusta and certain others, as well as all cities now or hereafter having a population of 25,000 or more, will have the rigth to pass zoning and planning laws regulating where people shall live and where business shall be located therein. While the legislative enactment authorizing the submitting of that amendment to the voters of Georgia makes no mention of zoning the cities for residences according to race, yet from the negro's bitter experience in the past he knows exactly what is intended to be accomplished."

"Desirable residential areas for negroes in Atlanta and other cities of Georgia are at present very limited and circumscribed. We know how the zoning law was further used to circumscribe the natural expansion of the negro residential area."

"It behooves every negro voter in Georgia to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote against that proposed amendment."

The foregoing quotation from the Atlanta Independent follow the publication in the same paper a short time ago, by Davis, that there may be some white people who do not want to live next to him, but he felt that there are many white people not good enough to be his neighbors.

A mass meeting has been called at Big Bethel church in Atlanta for Monday night, of the negroes, for the purpose of "instructing them" how to mark and vote their ballot and to bring to their attention "a very important matter affecting their future"; which is purposed to organize their fight against the zoning law amendment to the constitution.

Hallie Q. Brown Jim Crowed at Kansas City

Miss Hallie Q. Brown, of Ohio, who recently gave out a statement eulogizing the Republican party to the highest, was compelled to sit in the buzzard's roost of the convention hall at the Kansas City convention, according to reports sent out by colored newspaper men.

Following the convention the following statement appeared in the colored press:

"It's a shame that Miss Hallie Q. Brown, former President of the National Association of Negro Women, had to sit in the buzzard's roost of the conevtnon hall. Hallie Q. is one of the real women of our group, and some one should have seen to it that she had a position of advantage and a seat in the convention in keeping with her importance to our group. Shame! Shame!"

PROTECTION BY REPUBLICANS AND FEDERAL SEGREGATION THE DETERMINANTS

The only reasonably logical aim of the Colored Americans' political policy in national elections is to so use the ballot as to secure protection by the Republican party of its rights and from blows at its rights. This is so because, first, the Republican party is in control of the federal government nearly all the time. Second, because the Republican party was born on the ideal and claimed as its mission and its work of emancipation, equality and suffrage for all regardless of color. Third because by its national support of a party so born it has relieved the opposing party of all obligation and made it dependent on the former slave-holding sections.

In politics the history of the country has made the Colored voters the supporters and saviors of the Republican party, with all its claims to friendship and loyalty on that side, and thereby every reason for unfriendliness by the minority party. Under these circumstances the race must and has a right to, expect protection of the principles of those sections of the Constitution which the Republicans got enacted. The most logical of all is to deserve protection from any violations of these principles put in when the Democrats got into office, and especially from all breaches due to Southern, former slave-holding democrats.

By the same token it is morally worse, it is more dastardly, for Republicans to strike the race or refuse to abolish proscriptionsperpetrated by Southern democrats when in control.

What are the facts? The Republican party first permitted every sort of deprivation of the rights under the War Amendments to take place in the South. Their Supreme Court destroyed the Civil Rights Bill. Then came the Woodrow Wilson regime, with the extension of lurking Jim-Crowism under the federal government (God save the mark) into a positive practice and policy. Segregation, deepest of all injuries, and in industry where it hurts especially, moves from Southern states into the national government—the beginning of the end of all equality, of the nationalization of segregation. If there ever was a time when the race needed protection by the party born to give it rights against attack in violation of promises at a time when Republican division meant Democratic election if every Colored voter had voted Republican, this was the time. No protection when at last by almost solid Colored support the Republican party again came into power would be absolute repudiation of the race, absolute dishonor, abandonment to the enemy, in the federal government itself.

Now, with Colored support, under a Republican president, one from Massachusetts, in seven years segregation is unreduced! How then is our race to get protection against the opposite party?

Evidently support does not bring it. Apparently support is taken to mean the race is too devoid of intelligence or self-respect to feel the degradation. Or, its support is sure without protecting it. Then a protest vote is all that is left, is imperative to impress the fact we feel ourselves to be men and women as others do, that we know that in politics a false friend is more dangerous, more dastardly than a full enemy, that ingratitude is more knavish than hostility.

In the case of President Coolidge the need for a protest vote is greater because he has been told face to face several times in the White House how we resent segregation, with many organizations and many signatures from all sections and promise to abolish it.

The objection may be that Mr. Coolidge is not running, and the nominee removed a little from his department. But the party must meet our Protest. Pres. Coolidge CAN, if he will, at least start the elimination. Hoover CAN, if he will, take a positive position against it. There is no excuse at all from the race's interests in pleading that this will lose the son for protection of Colored Americans by the Republican party. Coolidge must act or Hoover must declare. Today decides the result in Massachusetts. President Coolidge must keep his word to day or his national ticket must lose this state.

Surely, unless Coolidge acts now president from their own state. Other-Colored voters in the state he hails wise there remains no political reachance to get Southern democratic states. To mention it is to breathe from and misrepresents on this morals perfidy, playing both ends, ending all issue, must protest with their ballots hope of ever abolishing segregation must not let his federal nominee win by catering to the South beforehand. his own state; must resent deser-

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican

HOOVER WINS, IMPORTANT QUESTIONS SETTLED

Incomplete returns from the national election have about settled the most important question before the country for many months.

It was a question of who would guide the destinies of the nation for the next four years.

The importance of it has been emphasized in many ways. The most telling effects of it have been felt in the depression in commercial and labor circles.

The election of Mr. Hoover, as predicted in these columns from time to time, is the answer to the nation's desire for the return of stable commercial and working conditions.

There have been no recent national campaigns so difficult to estimate so hopelessly entangled, so bitter and so personal. There has been none in which so much surprisingly small talk has been done; none in which so much irresponsible mud slinging has been general; none in which the moral issues have stood out and protruded so boldly into unusual political discussions.

Kansas City

11-10-28

The election of Mr. Hoover was never seriously doubted by those students of political history who understand the stability of the national spirit and deplore the injection of made-to-order passion into what might have been a perfect political victory followed by an era of good feeling and unprecedented prosperity. On the ability of Mr. Hoover as administrator, there is no disagreement. His intense popularity with both parties up until the time that his ambition to become president as a Republican was conceded in every quarter. The opposition raised by those who espoused the ambition of another has been intensified by a split in the Democratic ranks which has made it seem to be necessary to adopt questionable tactics in self-defense.

Birmingham Ala

Those who felt at the outset that the New York governor might have a chance to win miscalculated on the prohibition sentiment without considering that only a few of the states of the Union had not adopted and written prohibition of the statutes before the amendment was enacted. America is dry by choice and the fact that the Volstead enforcement act was complained of as a heavy yoke did not change the prohibition sentiment in the least. The people who fought for the sale of rum in the states are the same who felt that through the election of the New York governor there might be some means of bringing about the return of the legalized sale of liquor.

It is difficult to conceive otherwise than that the New York governor himself did not calculate this sentiment to be actually different from what he finds it now to be.

The fact that Mr. Smith did not carry his own state with its 45 electoral votes is a better indication of the weakness of the principles for which Governor Smith stood than an evidence of his own lack of popularity and fitness. The gallant fight made by the Democratic party might have brought larger returns had the candidate not promptly bolted the platform when informal notice of his nomination was given. This indication that he would make prohibition the leading issue of the campaign was the next thing to insolence with those who hoped that they might find some means of overcoming the other objections that seemed to bar his acceptance.

The final check will show that Mr. Smith will receive the smallest electoral vote of any Democratic candidate of recent campaigns. He will also receive a smaller percentage of the popular vote than any candidate of recent campaigns.

The breaking of the solid South is an incident made possible only by the selection of the New York governor to carry the standard and practically certain by his post convention announcement of his position on prohibition.

It is practically certain that the New York governor's party would have been spared any defection from the solid South tradition if this post convention announcement on prohibition had been withheld.

Mr. Smith is the worst defeated candidate in American history and this is said in the face of the fact that he made the most effective campaign his party has had in recent decades. The significance of it is a conviction in regard to the prohibition sentiment and a rebuke to the win-at-any-price spirit which was the dominating characteristic in the campaign.

To those Negro weeklies that saw some advantage in espousing the cause of the New York governor there is the sad story of political shortsightedness. Whatever they might have gained in the event of success could not be compared with the loss incident to the poor example set by overlooking every political principle established throughout the years since the struggle for human rights.

Two things are now certain, one is that this country will not have Tammany, the other is that it will not reverse itself on prohibition. If those who have believed otherwise can learn this lesson from the defeat of Gov. Smith it will be worth something to the future prospects of his party's success.

Hoover, the Hope of All America

Moral and constitutional issues of vital moment to the nation and to us as Colored Americans are at stake. The salvation of this Republic—especially as it concerns Colored America—rests in the preservation of its morale, and the even enforcement of the Constitution and the laws of the land. The "Sidewalks of New York" and "Dixie" are the negation in spirit of the Home, the Church, the School, and the Law, the four cornerstones of American civilization.

News

1. Hoover, by his Quaker birth, by his training and by reason of his record, stands today as the sheet anchor of our country against the furious waves of the outlawry and bigotry that beat against it.

N.Y.

2. Hoover believes in the enforcement of the 18th Amendment, but also in the enforcement of the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments.

10-27-28

3. Hoover meets the issue of a square deal for all America in this government declaring his unshakable faith in Civil Service and in the necessity of appointing to office those who deserve the respect and confidence of the community. (Read Hoover's speech at Elizabethton, Tenn., October 7th.)

4. Hoover's belief in helping humanity equally—white and brown and black—has been proven in the Mississippi Flood, and European war reliefs, in Chinese, Austrian and South African construction programs.

5. Hoover's attitude toward giving his colored fellow citizens all industrial and professional opportunity has been proven not only in these great public projects but in his portfolio at Washington and in his private business in California.

6. Hoover proclaims a protective tariff and prosperity policy when elected.

7. Hoover promises a continuance of restricted immigration which will continue the high wages and broadening field of employment for colored labor.

8. Hoover's attitude toward segregation and Jim-crowism is proven by his prompt abolition of segregation in the Census Bureau in Washington.

9. Hoover and the Republican party have recognized the outstanding, independent and progressive colored citizens in the campaign. This is the birth of a new and better race political leadership.

10. Hoover standing on the Republican party platform promises to blot lynch law from the land.

11. Hoover pledges the Republican party to an immediate practical solution of the crying problems of the farmer in whose ranks are still the bulk of the twelve millions of colored Americans.

12. Hoover the Quaker, in the event he should die like Presidents McKinley and Harding, would be succeeded by Charles Curtis, the great native American. Hoover is the hope of America.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican

HOOVER WINS, IMPORTANT QUESTIONS SETTLED

Incomplete returns from the national election have about settled the most important question before the country for many months.

It was a question of who would guide the destinies of the nation for the next four years.

The importance of it has been emphasized in many ways. The most telling effects of it have been felt in the depression in commercial and labor circles.

The election of Mr. Hoover, as predicted in these columns from time to time, is the answer to the nation's desire for the return of stable commercial and working conditions.

There have been no recent national campaigns so difficult to estimate, so hopelessly entangled, so bitter and so personal. There has been none in which so much surprisingly small talk has been done; none in which so much irresponsible mud slinging has been general; none in which the moral issues have stood out and protruded so boldly into unusual political discussions.

Rome

11-10-28

The election of Mr. Hoover was never seriously doubted by those students of political history who understand the stability of the national spirit and deplore the injection of made-to-order passion into what might have been a perfect political victory followed by an era of good feeling and unprecedented prosperity. On the ability of Mr. Hoover as administrator, there is no disagreement. His intense popularity with both parties up until the time that his ambition to become president as a Republican was conceded in every quarter. The opposition raised by those who espoused the ambition of another has been intensified by a split in the Democratic ranks which has made it seem to be necessary to adopt questionable tactics in self-defense.

Birmingham, Ala

Those who felt at the outset that the New York governor might have a chance to win miscalculated on the prohibition sentiment without considering that only a few of the states of the Union had not adopted and written prohibition of the statutes before the amendment was enacted. America is dry by choice and the fact that the Volstead enforcement act was complained of as a heavy yoke did not change the prohibition sentiment in the least. The people who fought for the sale of rum in the states are the same who felt that through the election of the New York governor there might be some means of bringing about the return of the legalized sale of liquor.

It is difficult to conceive otherwise than that the New York governor himself did not calculate this sentiment to be actually different from what he finds it now to be.

The fact that Mr. Smith did not carry his own state with its 45 electoral votes is a better indication of the weakness of the principles for which Governor Smith stood than an evidence of his own lack of popularity and fitness. The gallant fight made by the Democratic party might have brought larger returns had the candidate not promptly bolted the platform when informal notice of his nomination was given. This indication that he would make prohibition the leading issue of the campaign was the next thing to insolence with those who hoped that they might find some means of overcoming the other objections that seemed to bar his acceptance.

The final check will show that Mr. Smith will receive the smallest electoral vote of any Democratic candidate of recent campaigns. He will also receive a smaller percentage of the popular vote than any candidate of recent campaigns.

The breaking of the solid South is an incident made possible only by the selection of the New York governor to carry the standard and practically certain by his post convention announcement of his position on prohibition.

It is practically certain that the New York governor's party would have been spared any defection from the solid South tradition if this post convention announcement on prohibition had been withheld.

Mr. Smith is the worst defeated candidate in American history and this is said in the face of the fact that he made the most effective campaign his party has had in recent decades. The significance of it is a conviction in regard to the prohibition sentiment and a rebuke to the win-at-any-price spirit which was the dominating characteristic in the campaign.

To those Negro weeklies that saw some advantage in espousing the cause of the New York governor there is the sad story of political shortsightedness. Whatever they might have gained in the event of success could not be compared with the loss incident to the poor example set by overlooking every political principle established throughout the years since the struggle for human rights.

Two things are now certain, one is that this country will not have Tammany, the other is that it will not reverse itself on prohibition. If those who have believed otherwise can learn this lesson from the defeat of Gov. Smith it will be worth something to the future prospects of his party's success.

Hoover, the Hope of All America

Moral and constitutional issues of vital moment to the nation and to us as Colored Americans are at stake. The salvation of this Republic—especially as it concerns Colored America—rests in the preservation of its morale, and the even enforcement of the Constitution and the laws of the land. The "Sidewalks of New York" and "Dixie" are the negation in spirit of the Home, the Church, the School, and the Law, the four cornerstones of American civilization.

News

1. Hoover, by his Quaker birth, by his training and by reason of his record, stands today as the sheet anchor of our country against the furious waves of the outlawry and bigotry that beat against it.

N.Y.

2. Hoover believes in the enforcement of the 18th Amendment, but also in the enforcement of the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments.

10-27-28

3. Hoover meets the issue of a square deal for all America in this government declaring his unshakable faith in Civil Service and in the necessity of appointing to office those who deserve the respect and confidence of the community. (Read Hoover's speech at Elizabethton, Tenn., October 7th.)

4. Hoover's belief in helping humanity equally—white and brown and black—has been proven in the Mississippi Flood, and European war reliefs, in Chinese, Austrian and South African construction programs.

5. Hoover's attitude toward giving his colored fellow citizens all industrial and professional opportunity has been proven not only in these great public projects but in his portfolio at Washington and in his private business in California.

6. Hoover proclaims a protective tariff and prosperity policy when elected.

7. Hoover promises a continuance of restricted immigration which will continue the high wages and broadening field of employment for colored labor.

8. Hoover's attitude toward segregation and Jim-crowism is proven by his prompt abolition of segregation in the Census Bureau in Washington.

9. Hoover and the Republican party have recognized the outstanding, independent and progressive colored citizens in the campaign. This is the birth of a new and better race political leadership.

10. Hoover standing on the Republican party platform promises to blot lynch law from the land.

11. Hoover pledges the Republican party to an immediate practical solution of the crying problems of the farmer in whose ranks are still the bulk of the twelve millions of colored Americans.

12. Hoover the Quaker, in the event he should die like Presidents McKinley and Harding, would be succeeded by Charles Curtis, the great native American. Hoover is the hope of America.

MUD SLINGERS IN CAMPAIGN DRAG NEGRO WOMANHOOD INTO BATTLE

Governor of Mississippi Repeats the Rumor Hoover Danced with Mrs. Booze; Hoover Secretary Brands Tale "Indecent"

JACKSON, Miss.—The mud slingers in the presidential campaign have finally dragged in Negro womanhood to sacrifice it on the altar of political expediency.

The good name of Mrs. Mary P. Booze, daughter of the founder of Mound Bayou, Miss., a Negro town, and wife of the well known wealthy planter, was used in a political speech by Governor Theodore Bilbo, of Mississippi, who declared that Herbert Hoover danced with Mrs. Booze, on one occasion.

The statement was rebuked in a telegram sent the Governor by Mr. Hoover's secretary, but the secretary made the amazing statement that the governor's allegation was "the most indecent and unworthy" one made in the campaign. Northern Negro voters, and especially the host of women working for Hoover's election, stand aghast at the bald assertion by their nominee's private secretary that mere contact with a Negro woman constitutes an indecency.

Governor Bilbo denied that the statement was original with him, but said he was merely repeating what he had heard. The whole business is regarded as being part of the vicious whispering campaign being carried on in the south against both nominees.

Mrs. Booze characterized the statement as "bunk" and said in addition:

"I am a woman near fifty, a member in good standing of the Methodist church and do not dance. I haven't the slightest idea whether Mr. Hoover dances or not."

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal editorially calls the idea of Hoover dancing with Mrs. Booze or any other Negro woman a ridiculous one. It says further:

"Mr. Hoover was not discourteous When his train stopped at Mound Bayou and Mary Booze (note southern papers do not use the title Mrs. and Mr. for Negroes) was presented to him as the republican committeewoman he merely doffed his hat and said: "I am glad to meet you, Mrs. Booze."

WILMINGTON
NORTH CAROLINA
NOV 1 1928

THE "NEGRO QUESTION"

Despite efforts in certain quarters to make it appear otherwise, the so-called "negro question" has no place in the present presidential campaign. It can have none, for that matter, in any other.

No thinking man, whatever his political affiliations, believes that the election of either Mr. Smith or Mr. Hoover will materially affect the political or social status of the negro. The problems growing out of the association of the two races in this country are not the sort to be settled by the policies of any political group or even by legislative enactment.

That this fact is recognized by the better, the more intelligent class of colored folk, there is ample evidence. To them, there is no question of race preferment in the coming election. They are preparing to vote for one man or the other for reasons no different from those actuating the white portion of the electorate.

In this connection, an excerpt from an editorial in a recent issue of The Carolina Times, a negro publcation of Durham, is interesting. Under the caption, "Social Equality", The Times, says in part:

> No well-thinking negro cares to go where he is not wanted or invited, and utters a cry of disgust every time he hears the contrary.
>
> Laws and customs cannot regulate the social life of human beings. Social equality, if let alone, will take care of itself; the danger poin lies in forever harping over a thing no one has thought about.
>
> The negro is more anxious to keep his home, church, and social life negroid than the white man.

With which, every one familiar with conditions in the South will agree. Nor is it really important that such a viewpoint is not understandable to many who live elsewhere and would judge conditions in Dixie by their observations in northern or eastern cities.

It is undeniably a fact that the two races are working out their own salvation, at least so far as the South is concerned, along the only lines which offer hope of peaceful solution of a very vexing problem. This is coming to be more and more generally recognized, the country over. Less and less is there inclination on the part of other sections to interfere. And there is not the slightest chance that the election of either presidential candidate would be the signal for any marked change in the attitude or the policy of the federal government in the matter of colored patronage, especially in the South.

Republican Strategy Gone Wrong, Leaders Worried Over Bolt

Tremendous Drift To Smith Seen In Western States; Race Vote Makes New Jersey And Maryland Safe For Democratic Party

Special To Journal and Guide

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2—Predictions of the final result of the Presidential election on November 6 are regarded as foolish, but political observers are convinced that there will be a larger defection in the colored vote that has been traditionally Republican than ever before since the right to vote was conferred upon the Negro.

Estimates of the percentage of colored voters who will desert the Republican party vary. They range from 25 to 65 per cent.

These estimates are based upon the general state of mind of the colored voters. The gratitude of the Negro to the Republican party for freedom, citizenship and the ballot has been changed into an attitude of resentment because of abandonment of the principles which gave it birth.

Resent Racial Bigotry

Colored voters believe that the Republican party has waged a campaign of racial as well as religious bigotry In the North appeals have been made to colored voters to stand by the party of Lincoln. In the South, Republicans have fostered charges that Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate was responsible for racial equality in schools and dance halls; that he had appointed Ferdinand Q. Morton a Civil Service Commissioner; that he endorsed miscegenation, and so on. Much of the literature contained a picture of Mr Morton dictating to a white woman stenographer.

Colored voters are also convinced that the Ku Klux Klan is supporting the Republican candidates in this election. They believe that Mr. Hoover has given impetus to the lily-white movement in the South and that his election will mean a further setback to the Negro in politics.

Strategy Gone Wrong

Republican strategy has gone wrong. The Republican management figured on breaking the "Solid South" and getting the electoral votes of Virginia, North Carolina and Florida, Tennessee and Kentucky. Virginia and Florida are conceded to the Democrats. North Carolina is listed as leaning toward the Democratic column. Kentucky and Tennessee are doubtful, the Republicans having the advantage in the former and the Democrats in the latter.

If Republican strategy had worked out as planned, the defection of the Negro vote might not matter. But as things have turned out, the Republican management is considerably worried over the bent of the colored vote.

The desertion of the Republican party by the colored vote, it is thought, will probably give the Democratic candidates the electoral votes of Missouri, New Jersey, Maryland, and probably Ohio.

The Missouri Situation

It is reported from Missouri that there is a distinct drift of the colored vote to Smith. In scores of cities and towns where in previous years the Democrats have not even attempted to organize the colored vote, there are Smith-for-President clubs. In St. Louis, in the congressional district now represented by Leonidas C. Dyer, Republican, Joseph L. McLemore, a colored Democrat, is contesting. He probably will not win but he will carry with him a substantial vote for Smith.

All Night Conferences

In the closing weeks of the campaign, the Republican management sought to change its strategy and stem this drift of the colored vote to Smith. An all-night conference, it has been learned, was held last Saturday night at the personal headquarters of Mr. Hoover at 2315 Massachusetts avenue, northwest, the question of the defection of the colored vote being practically the only matter discussed.

Several of the most influential advisers of Mr. Hoover it was reported, insisted that the Republican candidate issue a clean-cut statement defining his attitude toward colored citizens and their aspirations. Others of his advisers were opposed, taking the position that such a statement would alienate klan support. No definite agreement was reached at this conference, but at the time it was understood that the matter would be given further consideration.

Brown Displaced

Walter Brown, who had charge of the Hoover campaign among colored voters, has been replaced by Ray Benjamin, of San Francisco, a friend of Mr. Hoover. Mr. Benjamin is now in charge and the Brown organization has been put in the discard Robert R. Church, of Memphis, Tenn., who kicked out of the traces several weeks ago is now back in harness working for Hoover and Curtis. This was part of the reorganization.

Political 1928

Republican.

Party Affiliation.

G. O. P. BOLTERS

Two popular business men of Chicago, W. Ellis Stewart, Secretary of the Liberty Life Insurance Company of Illinois, and Fred Manson, Traffic Manager of the Ohio Iron and Metal Corporation, are on the Smith band wagon.

Among the recent Smith supporters in Cleveland are Dr. C. C. Miller and the Rev. J. W. Ribbins, the latter pastor of one of the largest congregations in Ohio. The Rev. Mr. Ribbins has been appointed State Organizer for Ohio.

HARRY E. DAVIS IS GIVEN A PLACE ON G. O. P. COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 12.—Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee has announced the appointment of Harry E. Davis of Cleveland, Ohio as a member of the executive committee of the colored voters division.

Mr. Davis is an outstanding republican. He was educated at Hiram (O.) College, and received his training in law at Western Reserve university. He has served as a member of the 84th 85th 86th and 87th Ohio general assemblies and during the 86th and 87th general assemblies he served as chairman of the committee on codes.

In January 1928, the city council of Cleveland elected Mr. Davis a member of the civil service commission to serve for a six year term. He is a member of the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and is a Mason and an Elk.

Hoover Assures Negro Of Equal Opportunity

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 10.—Negroes who are interested in the political advancement as well as the general progress of that race will be interested in a statement made here recently by James B. Morris, local attorney and editor of the Iowa Bystander after an interview with the Republican candidate.

"When asked his views on the so-called 'race question' Mr. Morris said "Secretary Hoover stated: 'If elected President of the United States, the colored people can depend upon me to see that no backward steps are made in their aspirations to achieve their full share of the opportunities under the American government.'"

Mr. Hoover showed unusual interest in the problems faced by Negro citizens in the effort to maintain their rights in this section and asked many pointed questions.

Curtis Never Klansman "He Notifies World"

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Rumors that have been given circulation in the South that Senator Curtis, Republican Vice Presidential candidate, is a former Klansman, are emphatically denied by the candidate himself in a telegram to The New York World. A message from a correspondent of The World told that at a meeting of an Alabama "Klavern" of the Ku Klux Klan announcement was made that Senator Curtis was "a former Grand Dragon of the Kansas Klan."

Following its usual policy of careful investigation before publication, The World put the matter before Senator Curtis by telegram. His reply follows:

"Boston, Mass., Sept. 5.

"No foundation for the statement. And not now and never was a member of the organization mentioned.

CHARLES CURTIS."

SUPERINTENDENT OF NEGRO BOYS' SCHOOL DESERTS G. O. P. AND ASKS OTHERS TO FOLLOW

Little Rock, Ark., Sept.—T. W. Coggs, superintendent of the Negro Boys' Industrial School located here, recently made known his decision to forsake the ranks of Republican voters and support Gov. Alfred Smith and Sen. Joseph Robinson in the coming presidential election. In a brief statement to local newspapers, Supt. Coggs stated his reasons for thus giving his endorsement to the Democratic presidential and vice-presidential nominees.

"The Democratic party has honored our state by selecting our most distinguished citizen as one of its standard bearers. I, therefore, am laying aside party principles and joining the host of loyal citizens of this state in supporting Smith and Robinson.

"The fact that I, a Negro and life-long Republican have held a position for five years that might have been used as political pie is evidence that regardless of party affiliation, the political leaders of Arkansas have desired to do the best things for Arkansas, and in appreciation for this and other considerations that Negroes have and hope to receive from the Democratic party in Arkansas and the nation, they should join in whole-hearted support of Governor Smith and Arkansas' favorite son."

NEGRO G. O. P. CHIEFS PLAN THEIR CAMPAIGN

Assemble in Washington to Hear Party Leaders.

BY R. M. GATES.
Commercial Appeal Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—"Negro leaders of the Republican party assembled here Tuesday to discuss the plans for an active campaign among colored voters of the country and to complete organization plans begun here several weeks ago," says a statement issued today at Republican national committee headquarters.

"With Dr. John R. Hawkins, chairman of the executive committee of the colored voters' division of the Republican party, presiding, the chairman and members of the western and eastern bureau and of the publicity organization and voters' committees, told of the activities in the various sections of the country and outlined a program for a nationwide campaign for the support of colored on the Republican ticket. Reports from these individuals showed that active work had been started in the various sections and that the colored citizens would play an active part in the forthcoming election.

Dr. Work pointed out that the sole purpose of the Republican organization was to effect the success of the party ticket in the forthcoming national election, and referred to the importance of the colored vote.

"We do not," declared Dr. Work, "forget that we are opposing one of the strongest organizations the Democrats have ever boasted. Therefore we must bring before the voters, not the imaginary issues, but the real issues. We have selected Herbert Hoover as our standard bearer because we believe he is a better, a bigger and stronger man than his opponent.

"According to Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, chairman of the women's division of the national Republican committee, the vote of the colored women is of vast importance, and she urged the campaign committee to pay 'special attention to them.'

"'The women of the colored race,' decmlared Mrs. Hert, 'are tremendously important. They possess organization possibilities of which even the man can not boast. Bring them into the organization and make them an integral part of it.'"

REV. JOHN R. HAWKINS ANNOUNCES ADDITIONAL COMMITTEES

Washington, D. C., Sept.—According to an announcement made Tuesday at the headquarters of the Colored Voters Division of the National Republican Committee, headed by Dr. John R. Hawkins, the various committees of the organization have been strengthened during the past week by the addition of leading colored men and women in various sections of the country.

Those added were: Joseph H. Watson, Albany, Georgia; Mrs. Rebecca S. Taylor, Savannah, Georgia; Dr. B. W. S. Daniels, Savannah, Ga.; Sydney A. Jones, Savannah, Georgia; B. F. Cofer, Albany, Ga.; Mrs. Elizabeth Bray, Yonkers, N. Y.; John Peaker, Jr., New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. Blanche Stubbs, Wilmington, Del.; Aaron W. Lloyd, St. Louis, Mo.; Dr. T. A. Curtis, St. Louis, Mo.; Rev. V. A. Holmes, Kansas City, Mo.; Amos T. Hall, Tulsa, Okla.; Attorney Whitmore, Muskogee, Okla.; A. Baxter Whitby, Oklahoma City Okla.; John C. Minkins, J. M. Stockette, and William H. Jackson, of Rhode Island, as members of the Advisory Committee.

To the Organization Committee were added the following persons: George E. Bates, Newark, N. J.; M. D. Cornish, Camden, N. J.; Mrs. Bertha Higgins, Providence, R. I.; Mrs. Helen Whitman, Boston, Mass.; S. D. Hooker, Tulsa, Okla.; J. M. Tyler, Tulsa, Okla.; and James Rausch, Watonga, Okla.

The Speakers Committee were augmented by the following individuals: Clement G. Morgan, Cambridge, Mass.; A. G. W. Sango, Tulsa, Okla.; R. E. Stewart, Muskogee, Okla.; W. H. Twine, Muskogee, Okla.; Amos T. Hall, Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Roscoe C. Dungee, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Two changes made, according to this announcement, was the transfer of C. H. Calloway, from the Western Speakers Committee to the Western Organization Committee and Arthur W. Mitchell, from the Eastern Organization Bureau to the Western Division in the same capacity.

R. R. CHURCH STRIKES BACK AT HIS CRITICS

Would Not Follow Apologists, He Says, Even At Request Of Hoover

HE REITERATES CAUSE OF COMMITTEE BOLT

Those In Front Of The Voters Are Not Themselves Voters, He Says

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Breaking the political rule of his life, Robt. R. Church replied this week to attacks on him carried in last weeks papers following his refusal to serve on the National Republican Campaign Committee.

In a prepared statement Church says:

"I have seen the article, written I am informed by Dr. Emmett J. Scott. It is a document of a kind familiar to all who know the fine African hand of its industrious but elusive author. For thirty years his brick-bats have been hurled from behind the coat-tails of protectors.

"What Dr. Scott may think of me or of my reason for withdrawing from the hand-wrought "committee" now directing and distressing Mr. Hoover's cause is without importance and will not, I feel, supplant the record I have made in an effort to advance our lines on the political field. I have never held an office except through election by the people. Dr. Scott never held an office at all, and such positions as he has filled came from kind hearts unable to turn a deaf ear to his cry.

"Whether Dr. Scott continues to operate Howard University or run good Dr. Hawkins or frock coat diplomatic receptions as Minister to Haiti, is not the slightest concern to me. My interest in the present situation is exactly my interest in Mr. Hoover as our candidate and in the Republican party whose fortunes have long been mine. I got off the committee, not because I had been refused a leadership for which no man can [illegible] Hoover applies (and which no man bestow upon another) but because I could not in conscience associate myself with political parasites and pretenders.

Political Apologists

"To the charge that I am not a good follower. I plead guilty if I am asked to follow to the ballot box men who have no ballot to cast, and who have not them oral courage to attempt to cast one, or cry out against the crime of disfranchisement in their states. MEN WHO FIGHT, DON'T FOLLOW THOSE WHO RUN.

"There is not a colored Republican voter whom I would fail to follow or support if called to his standard. There is not a colored political apologist I would follow, not even at the request of Mr. Hoover, unless he was leading a procession to the public square there to receive the condemnation of an outraged people.

Lincoln Johnson

"Another point, that is too scandalous to be ignored, I touch. Dr. Scott brought in the name of the late Henry Lincoln Johnson, referring to him as my associate in party struggles, and linking his great name with gentleman of the present political arrangement, there we have sin at war with absurdity.

"Mr. Johnson, one of the great men in all history of great men, should be spared a comparison so odious. His memory should be more sacred than that. To mention the names of Dr. Hawkins, Dr. Scott and Dr. Holsey in the same breath with that of "Link" Johnson is a challenge to the patience of honest men.

Leader And Voter

"Mr. Johnson was a leader, a great lawyer and a voter. He was Republican National Committeeman at the time of his death and under the laws of Georgia he could not have been unless he was a registered voter. No year passed without his return to Georgia to register as a voter and keep his citizenship clear. NEITHER DR. HAWKINS HAS RETURNED TO NORTH CAROLINA, DR. SCOTT TO TEXAS, NOR DR. HOLSEY TO THE COURT HOUSE IN EITHER GEORGIA OR ALABAMA TO REGISTER HIS CITIZENSHIP AND PLAY THE FULL MAN.

The Main Point

The main point must not be lost sight of. I stated that I retired from the committee because, first, I wanted Mr. Hoover elected, and second, because those in front of the voters were themselves not voters. I STILL WANT MR. HOOVER ELECTED AND THE GENTLEMEN ARE STILL WITHOUT A VOTE.

HOOVER-SMITH HEARKEN TO LILY WHITES

Anti- Perry Howard Lily White Named To Organize Mississippi

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE STATEMENT

South Told Governor Smith Will Make Jobs For Menials Only

WASHINGTON, D. C.— One of the striking developments of the present campaign is the surrender of both the Republican and Democratic parties to anti-Negro sentiment.

The Republican party wants to break the Solid South. The Republican party managers were led to believe at first that there is a splendid chance for Republican success in North Carolina. Later Virginia and Florida of the ten states that constitute the Solid South were added to the list.

Lily-White Named

Horace Mann, who has recently come boldly into the open as the Republican southern manager, now believes that there is a chance of Mississippi going Republican. He has named Lamont Rowland, a lily-white leader who was opposed to the Republican organization in Mississippi headed by Perry W. Howard, the national committeeman, to conduct a campaign in that state.

The next few weeks may see the remaining states of the Solid South, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, added to the list that will probably give their electoral votes to Herbert Hoover in the November election.

The Democratic party wishes to hold the Solid South intact. Propaganda regarding Governor Smith's attitude toward Negroes, however, is being used in the South by anti-Smith Democrats, who are opposed to him because of his religion and his stand on the prohibition question.

Social Equality

The white South is being told that if Smith is elected, Negroes will be appointed to offices, requiring confirmation by the Senate. The old bugaboo of social equality is also being raised by white southerners, and to make their arguments convincing race relations in New York City are cited as an example of what may be expected generally if Smith should be elected.

In order to offset this propaganda, the Democratic National Committee boldly came out this week with a statement from its Washington office denying that Governor Smith had ever had a colored stenographer. This statement also declared that the only positions colored persons had held under his administration were menial.

Jim-Crow Headquarters

There is also the fact that the Democratic National Committee is running a jim-crow headquarters in New York City. The headquarters of the Democratic National Committee are in the General Motors building. The headquarters of the Smith-for-President Colored League, which is sponsored as an independent movement by the Democratic National Committee, is in the Leavitt building. A white man, William Gaston, of Boston, is in charge.

Over 5 Million Voters

There are approximately 5,588,500 Negroes of voting age in the United States. A majority of them are in the South where disfranchisement is practiced. There are, however, a sufficient number in the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri to determine the result in a close election.

There are other states in which there are large Negro votes. They include Oklahoma, Kansas, Massachusetts, Delaware and Maryland.

To What Extent

With these facts and figures, the question confronting both Chairman Work and Chairman Raskob is, to what extent shall their parties look upon the Negro vote as undesirable?

The colored voters' division of the Republican national committee is making an intensive drive to get the rebellious Negro vote solidly for Hoover, but it is handicapped by the efforts of the Republican party managers to win the Solid South.

NEGRO LEADERS NOT TO BE OUSTED FROM G. O. P. IN SOUTH

(Dallas Express)

Whether or not the constant agitation and unrest among Negro voters as the result of the lily white policy of the present G. O. P. leadership is bearing fruit cannot be definitely said. But it is certain that party leaders have agreed that for the present they are to be left undisturbed and that the party control in the south will remain as it is. As much is to be gained from news letters from correspondents in Washington. Bascom Timmons, who is one of the authorities on the situation and who writes for a local daily paper states that fear of Klan sentiment and control of the party in the event of the ousting of Negro leaders together with the idea that to change the leadership would not result in more electoral votes is the controlling argument in favor of leaving conditions as they now are. Another element of party leaders contends that without the Negro control there will be a decided defection in the Democratic ranks and the party will grow and thrive as a purely white man's party.

All parties in America may as well admit that eventually they will be faced with the problem of controlling the Negro members. The time is past when the matter of leadership can be dismissed with a wave of the hand and when Negro members can be trusted to evince no ambitions. The Republican party for all of its former years has been the one outstanding exception as far as open objection to Negro leadership has been concerned and it is probable that had there been no Teapot Dome scandal to be overcome there would have been no more objection to Negro leadership than was to have been expected from the lilywhite element. But as usual, the Negro is an easy scape-goat; and to point to the dethronement of a few Negro leaders under the guise of purging the party of patronage peddlers would have seemed to clear the skirts as well as the conscience of the leaders. But the truth may as well be admitted. Negroes are no greater patronage peddlers than are any other race of party leaders regardless of the name of the party. Politics as it is handled in America makes it the rule that "spoils" are to be expected whether they be in the form of office or what not. Had it been true that in all of the states this regime had been placed under fire there would have been no complaint lodged. But that was not the case. The Negro was singled out and marked for slaughter.

That the axe did not find the root of his neck was due to the stringency of political times and the consideration for the good will of the Negro voters who are the balance of power in several pivotal states.

It is unfortunate that this condition should maintain. But since it does, there is but one thing for Negroes everywhere to do. They must organize more closely for their mutual protection political and otherwise. Their votes must be welded in such a compact mass that to attempt to disturb any one element is to disturb the whole. And they must be willing to fight, not only for participation in the party councils but for everything which is the portion of all members of the organizations to which they claim allegiance. Why not Negro party leadership if it is advantageous? And in this case it must be realized that Democratic defection is at best but temporary Negro allegiance is traditional.

Party Affiliation.

Chronicle-Telegraph
PITTSBURGH, PA.

SEP 8 1928

STATE TO GIVE HOOVER 500,000 MAJORITY—HEFLIN

"Hoover will be elected by 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 majority," said Senator Thomas J. Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama, in Pittsburgh yesterday. He based the estimate, he explained, on things he had noted and observed on a lecture tour that has taken him into many states.

Senator Heflin delivered a lecture at the Washington (Pa.) fair grounds Thursday night on "The Dangers that Threaten the American Government." He will speak tonight at a Ku Klux Klan demonstration at Shaver's Grove, on the Monroeville road, 1½ miles north of Turtle Creek.

"I have delivered a dozen lectures in Pennsylvania," said the Senator, "and feel that I know the situation in this state pretty well. Smith has about as much chance of carrying Pennsylvania as a mouse-colored mule has of operating an airplane. Hoover's majority in Pennsylvania will be at least 500,000, and possibly 1,000,000."

"For whom do you intend to vote, Senator?"

"I have not said. I will not answer that question until Gov. Smith answers questions I propounded to him.

"I asked him if it was true, as a New York newspaper said, that he endorsed social equality between the Negro and white races. I asked him if he approves of the dance halls in New York where Negro men dance with white women. I asked him if he approved of Negroes and whites attending the same church. He has not answered."

Heflin said Hoover had a good chance of carrying not only the border states but also Virginia, North Carolina, "and some other southern states, which I will not name."

He mentioned a number of prominent Democrats of Alabama who are working for Hoover, and said the revolt against the Smith leadership was general throughout the South.

Three-fourths of the women of the country are for Hoover," he declared.

Heflin declared John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, was a Republican and retained his membership in the Union League Club of Philadelphia, to which only Republicans may belong. The Senator said he ascertained on a recent visit to Philadelphia that Raskob had not resigned from the club.

Commenting on the fact that eggs were thrown at speakers who addressed an anti-Smith meeting in Alabama Thursday night, Heflin said the incident would make votes for Hoover.

EVE. NEWS
DENVER, COLO.

SEP 7 1928

NEGRO VOTE HELD KEY TO ELECTION IN BORDER AREAS

Republicans and Democrats Wage Campaigns to Swing Black Ballots Into Their Columns in Indiana, Illinois and Missouri

SITUATION EMBARRASSING TO BOTH PARTIES

Smith's Friends Fear Their Activities in North May Irritate Whites in South; Hoover Followers Also Concerned as They Try to Hold Lines

BY LUDWELL DENNY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Negro voters can turn the national election in doubtful border states. Hence the politicians are scurrying about trying to devise ways and means to make the Negro vote safe for Hoover or Smith, as the case may be.

Ludwell Denny

Republicans have reason to fear a revolt at the polls in some Northern cities, where Negroes in the past have voted with almost automatic regularity for G. O. P. candidates. These changed conditions are said to be due to younger radicals of the race, who are preaching to their fellows that the Republican party has long exploited them by taking their votes without doing anything in return to justify the boasts of "Lincoln's party."

Quick to take advantage of this discontent, Democrats are going out for the first time with an almost nation-wide organization to catch these racial ballots.

Campaign strategists say there are three fronts in this battle: Industrial centers of the North such as New York, Chicago and Indianapolis; border states, including Missouri and its St. Louis Negro belt, and, of less importance because of so-called disenfranchising laws, certain Southern states, such as North Carolina, where election returns may conceivably be close.

Northern Problem Has Two Angles

The Republican and Democratic problem in the industrial area of the North is both political and economical. To meet racial discontent this year, they find they must pledge not only adequate political representation, but also protection for the welfare of the Negro workers, who are becoming "class conscious."

Unfortunately for the politicians, however, they find that the very propaganda required to capture the Negro vote is the kind that will lose white votes in the doubtful border and Southern states.

In the North, Republicans are trying to sell their ticket on the basis of being the traditional party of the Negro, committed to championing his equality of rights. But with Hoover trying to crash the border states and lead the G. O. P. into the Solid South for the first time, Republicans find their worst obstacle the Democratic warning to whites to beware of the "Negro's party."

Both Sides Work to Line Up Vote

This situation is becoming no less embarrassing to the Democrats. In the North they want the Negro voters to forget that the party in congress is dominated by Southern whites. In the South they want the whites to forget the Democratic appeal being made to Negroes in the North.

Smith's aides are working Harlem, the New York City belt. Organizations include Colored Democracy, led by F. Q. Morton, a Negro municipal employe, and the Smith for President Colored League.

In Chicago Republicans hope to hold the Negro vote by allowing a Negro to succeed the late Martin B. Madden in congress. Direct political representation by a Negro congressman generally is recognized by politicians to be the most effective manner of "keeping the Negro vote in line." Provided this end cannot be achieved "less expensively."

The Democrats are backing a Negro for the congressional seat from the 12th Missouri district in St. Louis.

Hoover and Smith Are Under Fire

There has been no Negro in the national house of representatives since George W. Murray of South Carolina, who served from 1893 to 1895. The last Negro senator was Blanche K. Bruce of Mississippi, who sat in the upper house from 1875 to 1881. Including the carpet bag days following the Civil War, there have been 20 Negro representatives and two senators.

Both Hoover and Smth are being attacked openly and in whispering campaigns for their alleged bids for Negro votes. Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, and others charge Hoover with sponsoring an order while secretary of commerce permitting about 50 Negro census office employes to work in rooms with white clerks.

Senator George Norris, Republican, Nebraska, and others attack the Republican party for alleged "buying and selling and trading and trafficking in (Negro) delegates from the solid South" in connection with the national convention.

Smith in turn is blamed in the South for alleged equality reference by Mayor Jimmy Walker in welcoming to New York last month the National Negro Business League.

Meanwhile Jack Johnson, the old Negro prize fighter, is reported anxious to take the stump for Smith.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

Though Pitched On A High Plane, Hoover's Acceptance Speech Is Marred By Evasions.

Although it is pitched on a high plane, Herbert Hoover's speech of acceptance is marked by an evasiveness in striking contrast with the straightforwardness which was one of his chief characteristics during his Democratic days in the Woodrow Wilson administration. It is also unfortunate that with the exception of his forthright [illegible] to [illegible] statement, he either avoids many important subjects or uses phrases which are open to several constructions, particularly in his discussion of prohibition [illegible] are [illegible] thoughts [illegible].

Enquirer-Sun Columbus Ga. 8-15-28

It is when Mr. Hoover is discussing material prosperity ,and the elimination of waste and kindred engineering details that he seems most at home, but even though [illegible] treads with gingerly step. Once and only once, it seems to the ENQUIRER-SUN, does Mr. Hoover overcome his inhibitions and speak without consulting the traditions which govern Republican speeches of acceptance. Indeed, Mr. Hoover, in the statement to which reference is made, breaks a precedent—never before, so far as we are aware, has a Presidential nominee in a speech of acceptance, referred to his own religious beliefs. Mr. Hoover may or may not have had a definite purpose in doing so; in any event, no one—not even the most bigoted anti-Smith Hoover Southern Democrat—can misinterpret the expression of his abhorrence of religious intolerance. Mr. Hoover stands squarely for "religious tolerance both in act and spirit." He knows the history of the persecuted Quakers.

When Mr. Hoover heartily condemned religious intolerance without equivocating or temporizing, it began to look as if Hoover, the man, intended to continue to speak out of his heart straight to the people. But Hoover, the Republican nominee—Hoover in his new role of politician—quickly took up the thread of the speech and began, cautiously, uncertainly, evasively, to weave it back into the set pattern of political utterances.

Face-to-face with the infamous corruption which was epidemic in and during the administrations of both Harding and Coolidge, the Republican nominee employs the subterfuge of generalities and seeks to condone the guilt of the Republican administrations by citing the existence of corruption in political parties in state and municipal affairs. Here are Mr. Hoover's words in which his evasiveness is a fitting complement to the silence of President Coolidge:

> In the past years there has been corruption participated in by individual officials and members of both political parties in national, state and municipal affairs. Too often this corruption has been viewed with indifference by a great number of our people. It would seem unnecessary to state the elemental requirements that government must inspire confidence not only in its ability but in its integrity. Dishonesty in government, whether national, state, or municipal is a double wrong. It is treason to the state. It is destructive of self-government. Government in the United States rests not only upon the consent of the governed but upon the conscience of the nation. Government weakens the moment that its integrity is even doubted. Moral incompetency by those entrusted with government is a blighting wind upon private integrity. There must be no place for cynicism in the creed of America.

Mr. Hoover utters no specific word of condemnation. There is no mention of Fall, Daugherty, Jesse Smith, Gaston Means, Forbes, or Deacon Will Hays who disposed of the liberty bond loot which he had wrung from Sinclair. Mr. Hoover will discuss whiskey but not oil. His note to the corrupt Fall is of record. "What do you wish me to tell this man," wrote Mr. Hoover to Fall when a persistent oil man wanted to get a chance at Teapot Dome before it was given to Sinclair and Doheny.

The spirit of evasiveness persists when Hoover approaches the question of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act—a subject which represents, unfortunately, a major perplexity for the two political parties. Mr. Hoover begins to straddle, to evade, and to use language which clearly fails to express a definite opinion on existing conditions. As for offering a remedy, the great organizer and administrator is not only voiceless but apparently helpless. He hears the mutterings of the "bone drys"; he remembers that in 1918 he said, "It is mighty hard for a man to get drunk on 2.75 beer"; his fifteen years abroad have shown him the logic and the value of temperance. The corruption in the enforcement of the prohibition law as unenforced by the Republican party stares him in the face. It is small wonder that he is confused; and when he speaks, his words are proclaimed by "bone-dry" newspapers as slaying the hopes of the modificationists, while many others, including the editors of the two most powerful Republican anti-Volstead newspapers—the New York Herald Tribune and the Chicago Tribune—see in Mr. Hoover the real hope of obtaining a change in the present situation, and regard his utterances as favoring a scheme which will give temperance a chance to recapture sobriety and revive a respect for law and order.

It is well to note the exact words of the New York Herald Tribune:

> There is scant comfort for the soft-minded, the idealist-in-a-hurry or the excited reformer in Mr. Hoover's speech. He reiterates his attitude toward prohibition as "an experiment noble in motive". The best hope, in fact, the only hope of modifying the present situation lies in such an approach as Mr. Hoover suggests ..—through an impartial investigation that will convert the overwhelming mass of the voters, including the fair-minded drys, to a recognition of the necessity for reform.

Distiller Mellon and the Republican party have had eight years to investigate "the necessity for reform". Mr. Hoover was one of the members of two recent Republican cabinets. Why was not his engineering ingenuity and his administrative genius used to investigate the prohibition problem, in order that he might discover an honest method of enforcement or an acceptable plan of modification? If, after living for ten years in the wettest city in America, where officials high and low break the prohibition laws, Mr. Hoover has nothing to propose by way of remedying this intolerable situation, one must conclude that he will continue to avoid any attempt to reach a reasonable solution of a condition in which corruption has been dignifi d into an art and threatens to become a definite policy in the Republican scheme of prohibition enforcement.

"I do not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," says Mr. Hoover. Does he oppose repeal? Does he indorse the Eighteenth Amendment? Will he recommend an enforcement appropriation of $100,000,000 or even $300,000,000 instead of the paltry $30,000,000 now appropriated for enforcement of the prohibition law? And is he suggesting an amendment to the Eighteenth Amendment when he asserts, "the Republican Party does deny the right of any one to destroy the purposes of the Constitution by indirection"?

The Republican party has not protested against the deliberate destruction of the purposes of the amendment which provides for a representation, based on the census figures. Yet this amendment has been ignored, nullified, junked.

Does Mr. Hoover object to the method that the South used to nullify the Fifteenth Amendment? All of his ardent Anti-Smith Democratic supporters in the South stand for the destruction of the Fifteenth Amendment by indirection, or any other method, which shall smash an amendment that is obnoxious to them. Those patriotic Republicans, the Negroes of the South, who, after delivering their votes to Mr. Hoover in Kansas City, were kicked out of their party to make room for Anti-Smith White Democrats, may well ask why no mention was made of their plight. No word from Mr. Hoover on the Federal Anti-Lynching Law plank of the Republican platform—no reference to the Fifteenth Amendment, the purposes of which have been destroyed by the Hoover Democrats who will not only vote for the Republican nominee but who have used the ingratitude of Mr. Hoover and his party to thrust the faithful Negro Republicans into the limbo of forgotten souls. The omission of all reference to the Republicans' natural Southern allies, temporarily displaced by Anti-Smith Democrats, must have stunned those Negroes who have long and loyally labored in the Republican vineyard in seasons of poor and worse vintage.

The traditional attitude and ingratitude of the Republican party toward the Negro is so well known that Mr. Hoover may have decided to avoid the hypocrisy any comment would have entailed, but there are other omissions which should and will invite queries as to where Mr. Hoover stands. What of our ill and crippled heroes of the World War? Mr. Hoover is still moved by memories of the suffering in the starving countries where he gave such valiant service under Woodrow Wilson, but he ignores the plight of our own boys who offered their lives to their country. He forgets the corrupt Forbes who squandered millions which should have gone to alleviate the suffering of our shell-shocked and crippled soldiers. The members of the American Legion must have been amazed that their comrades are held unworthy of a word, and the grafting Forbes not corrupt enough to draw an indignant phrase from the Republican nominee.

In his far-flung travels Mr. Hoover seems to have overlooked Nicaragua, along with Russia and China. President Coolidge has a war on in Nicaragua. Marines have for month after month slain the alleged bandits. The President's representative reported a year ago that peace existed, Sandino and 150 "guerillas" were the only hold-outs. Since then reports indicate that more than 800 of Sandino's men have been killed. Yet it appears that he still has a band of 100 followers. Does Mr. Hoover favor a continuation of this warfare to insure American financiers that they will get the interest on the loans made to those Nicaraguan officials who by intrigue and force of arms, and American marines, happen to be in power in Nicaragua? Will he countenance an invasion of Mexico on similar grounds?

What of the World Court and other matters related to the League of Nations. In 1920 Mr. Hoover was one of the 31 so-called "best minds" that signed a statement to the effect that the only way to get into the League was to vote for Mr. Harding. Where does Mr. Hoover, as a "best-minder", stand today?

Mr. Hoover is aware that agriculture, textiles and the bituminous coal industries are, as he puts it, "still lagging in their recovery". If it requires 4,000 words merely to tell the farmer that there is an agricultural problem which the Republican party eight years ago pledged itself to solve and wants to stay eight years more on the "solving" job, it would have been a waste of space for Mr. Hoover to attempt to offer a remedy to the textile industries or the starving miners in the bituminous fields.

And it is not strange that Mr. Hoover, in his zest for discussing efficiency, waste elimination and theoretical prosperity, should fail to mention America's 4,000,000 unemployed, the strikes in Massachusetts, the astonishing number of commercial bankruptcies and bank failures. Instead he tells how he reorganized his own department by grouping the various agencies under a single responsibility and authority. Why this was not done in other departments he does not say, but it is a matter of so much importance that he considers it "an obligation to enlist the support of Congress to effect it". Eight years wasted, and with the great economy President in the White House.

This brings us to Mr. Hoover's praise of President Coolidge—inordinate flattery not in keeping with the Hoover genius:

> I would violate my conscience and the gratitude I feel, did I not upon this occasion express appreciation of the great president who leads our party today. President Coolidge has not only given a memorable administration, he has left an imprint of rectitude and statesmanship upon the history of our country. . . . He has charted the course of our nation and our party over many years to come. It is not only a duty but it is the part of statesmanship that we adhere to this course.

This is Mr. Hoover's view of the President who has not even whispered a protest against the corruption of his own party and members of his own cabinet. But for Senator Walsh and Senator Norris, Fall and Daugherty might yet be in the Coolidge cabinet. But for an alert Senate, which twice rejected the appointment of Charles Beecher Warren, Mr. Coolidge would have had as his attorney general a representative of the sugar trust. And even now the President has named as head of the Department of Interior, Roy O. West, counsel for the Insull power companies, and adviser to Samuel Insull whose tainted money kept Frank L. Smith out of the United States Senate.

The silence of Mr. Hoover on Muscle Shoals, and Boulder dam, problems an engineer should delight in, must be left, along with his change of mind on flood relief measures, for another occasion. For the moment we turn back to a statement which Mr. Hoover made early in his speech:

> Our party platform deals mainly with economic problems, but our nation is not an agglomeration of railroads, of ships, of factories, of dynamos, or statistics. It is a nation of homes, a nation of men, of women, of children.

Splendidly spoken, Mr. Hoover. But how much better it was said by another public man nearly fifteen years ago:

> For me, the beauty of my state no longer reposes in its majestic hills, green valleys, emerald lakes, navigable rivers, picturesque palisades, but in the ethos of its workers—the soul of its struggling masses.

Fifteen years ago! And the speaker was Alfred E. Smith, who was to become four times governor of the great state of New York, and the Democratic nominee for President.

NEWS
CHARLESTON, S. C.

JUL 31 1928

Why Negroes Are Republicans

We see by the papers that a colored woman probably a respectable and worthy colored woman, of Mississippi, a member of the Republican national committee from that state, attended a meeting of the other women of the committee in Washington and caused a little "embarrassment"—which is strange—or it may be that it is a Democratic canard. The colored woman did not have lunch with the white women—for some reason or other.

The incident is not amusing. It is but another reminder of the tragic blunder of giving the negroes the suffrage—a blunder now regretted by nine-tenths of the white people of all parties in all the states. The woman was a pathetic figure—representative of the most sorrowful aspect of life in this prosperous and mighty republic.

And the embarrassment? Two parties in South Carolina? If we shall have them, that particular incident, not in years, will be here reenacted—but that there will be embarrassments no end is certain.

Mr. Roosevelt appointed a highly respectable negro to federal office in this state—in Charleston. There are ten or twenty federal offices to be filled now to one then.

There are worthy, respectable, intelligent, capable colored men—why is not one of them appointed prohibition enforcer? "Why?" Because there is not enough righteousness supporting this law in South Carolina to make safe the life of a good negro enforcer in the "dryest" district.

We can't get away from this negro question in our Southern politics. Would that we could. The Republican party, Wade, Stevens, Sumner (some of them with the holiest of motives), drove it into us with bayonets, shot it into us with powder and ball, between 1865 and 1868, while our land lay prostrate, bound and gagged, and it is with us to stay.

Do we want a centralized government in Washington owning and operating power companies and railroads appointing hundreds of thousands of men? Do we want any law that authorizes a President to invest a state with his agents, white agents or black agents?

The negro race has leaders, educated, able, aggressive. Most of them are in the Northern cities. They are demanding their "rights" under the federal constitution. The are, every day and hour, insistent that the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments be enforced in the Southern states. Can one blame them? Can one censure an able negro in New York, like W. E. B. Dubois, for being human?

The able negro leader is a Republican, for concentration of government in Washington offers the surest hope of political preferment and recognition for his race. When there shall be some hundreds of thousands of federal appointments to be made from Washington, the negroes will have a share—an increasing share—perhaps not next year nor the year after that, but as surely in the years to come as negro votes shall count in elections. They count now in elections, in Northern states.

No comprehending negro leader can see a chance for negro preferment in South Carolina as long as federal appointees shall be kept out of South Carolina, as long as the number of them shall be small, as long as government shall be in the hands of white South Carolinians.

In the degree that government is moved to Washington, white government is jeoparded in South Carolina.

JOURNAL
Jersey City - NJ
AUG 8 1928

Thomas Fights Tonight To Block Rev. Byrd As Leader

Colored Republican Control Involved in Battle Over Alderwyn Thomas' Reinstatement Under Superintendent of Elections Ferguson.

"This is a fight for the Hudson County colored Republican leadership and it is a battle between Rev. Dr. William Byrd and me," declared Alderwyn Thomas, speaking about tonight's rally arranged by Thomas Republicans in Fraternal Hall on Kearney Avenue to bring about the reinstatement of Thomas as a $2,100 aide to the Superintendent of Elections of Hudson County.

Thomas A. McDonald just before he was ousted dropped Thomas. Tonight's rally is for the purpose of getting the new Superintendent of Elections, John Ferguson, to reinstate Thomas.

"I have no doubt that I am going to be reinstated," added Thomas. "I have been assured of that, but tonight my friends are going to show in Fraternal Hall what they think of me."

Thomas is sure Rev. Dr. Byrd will get some jolt tonight at the rally of Thomas' backers.

There is a lot at stake in this year's fight for the Republican colored leadership in Hudson.

The man who is acclaimed as colored leader will have a chance at the Republican doughbag.

The colored leader will be liable to have a hand in the distribution of the campaign fund in Hudson and this fact has added to the vigor with which the fight is being waged.

The fact is that the colored Republicans in Hudson are split up. Bion Jones has been at the head of the Colored Republican Club of Hudson County. Mrs. William Byrd, wife of Rev. Dr. Byrd, has organized a Colored Women's Hoover Republican Club and Alderwyn Thomas claims to be the leader for the county by reason of his position as president of the Colored Republican Association of Hudson County, Inc.

Thomas counts on a large attendance tonight in Fraternal Hall, where Thomas' friends will rally in favor of his reinstatement.

Tonight resolutions are to be adopted asking the new superintendent of elections to put Thomas back on the pay roll as soon as possible.

Thomas is trying to get the following to be out tonight to speak in his interest: Rev. F. W. Means; Rev. W. S. Smith, Counselor Robert S. Hartgrove, Assistant U. S. District Attorney Oliver Randolph.

The Colored Republican Association of Hudson County, Inc., includes these officers:

Alderwin S. Thomas, president; W. E. Searles, first vice president; Elizabeth Torrence, second vice president; James A. Johnson, secretary; C. G. Williams, assistant secretary; R. A. Epps, treasurer; Otis Fouch, sergeant-at-arms; R. E. T. Walker, chaplain. The trustees are: Walker Money, Sarah Cunningham, Walter Carter, Cornelia Jackson, Janie Harris.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation

Republican.

SWEEPING DRIVE FOR NEGRO VOTE IS IN READINESS

G. O. P. Chiefs Gather at D. C. Preparatory to Opening a Campaign for Hoover Support

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — "Nefro leaders of the Republican party assembled here Tuesday to discuss the plans for an active campaign among colored voters of the country and to complete organization plans begun here several weeks ago," says a statement issued at Republican national committee headquarters.

"With Dr. John R. Hawkins, chairman of the executive committee of the colored voters' division of the Republican party, presiding the chairman and members of the western and eastern bureau and of the publicity, organization and voters' committees told of the activities in the various sections of the country and outlined a program for a nationwide campaign for the support of colored for the Republican ticket. Reports from these individuals showed that active work had been started in the various sections and that the colored citizens would play an active part in the forthcoming election.

Dr. Work pointed out that the sole purpose of the Republican organization was to effect the success of the party ticket in the forthcoming national election, and referred to the importance of the colored vote.

"We do not," declared Dr. Work, "forget that we are opposing one of the strongest organizations the Democrats have ever boasted. Therefore we must bring before the voters, not the imaginary issues, but the real issues. We have selected Herbert Hoover as our standard bearer because we believe he is a better a bigger and stronger man than his opponent.

"According to Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, chairman of the women"s division of the national Republican committee, the vote of the colored women is of vast importance, and she urged the campaign committee to pay 'special attent.on to them.'

" 'The women of the colored race', declared Mrs. Hert, 'are tremendously important. They possess organization possibilities of which even the man can not boast Bring them into the organization and make them integral part of it."

HOW THE G. O. P. LOVES THE SOUTH

While the Republican party is wooing the South this year as never before since the Democrats regained power in their own land, and with money and verbal honey is attempting to attract Southern voters to its standard, it is again revealing, in other sections of the country, its historic hatred of the South.

Telling how the Republicans are entering the South "with wings and a harp," and at the same time are reviling the South in other sections, The Houston Post-Dispatch discusses the propaganda emanating from G. O. P. headquarters for the special consumption of Republicans in the Northwest, the Middle West and the East. This propaganda well illustrates the brand of "friendship" which the Republican National organization holds toward the South, says The Post-Dispatch, which continues:

"The word is being spread that the Republican party must be returned to power to 'prevent the South from gaining control' of important machinery of government.

"Republican newspapers and stump speakers are using this argument freely. In the Northwest and Middle West the effort is being made to frighten farm voters by raising the bugaboo of 'planter dominance' over the agricultural department and over farm relief legislation at the hands of Congress. In the East the effort is being made to frighten business interests by picturing the South as a hotbed of anti-business radicalism. The fact that a Democratic victory this Fall would place Southern Democrats in control of highly important committees of Congress is being seized upon. Congressman John Garner's prospective assumption to the speakership of the Lower House finds repeated mention. G. O. P. propagandists picturing Mr. Garner in a light which is highly unfavorable to him and to Texas.

"This persistent song of hate against the South is the more remarkable in contrast to the honeyed words with which the G. O. P. greets Southern Democratic defectionists. The same huge campaign fund is being used to fan the old fires of sectional hatred against the South, for the benefit of the G. O. P. in other sections, and to lend financial aid to the efforts of defecting Southern Democrats who have gone over to the Hoover camp.

"If further evidence of the tactics of the Republican National headquarters were needed, it is furnished by the official sanction given by this headquarters to venomous attacks directed against former President Woodrow Wilson.

"Quoting from and giving its official approval to the utterances of a German newspaper recently converted to the Hoover cause, the Republican headquarters has sowed the German-speaking communities with anti-Wilson propaganda ghoulish in nature.

"In some of this literature, which attacks a dead immortal in an effort to capitalize half forgotten war passions, particular stress is laid upon the fact that President Wilson during his lifetime was a warm personal friend of Gov. Smith. Responsibility for American entry into the World War is laid at President Wilson's door, while instead of being pictured as pro-British, Mr. Hoover is pictured as possessing a heart brimful of love for the people of German origin.

"This is the sort of campaign which Southern defecting Democrats are aiding and abetting, though the anti-Smith groups of the South are merely pawns in the Republican attempt to play upon group, sectional, racial, religious and other prejudices—with utter disregard for consistency or the rulers of fair play.

"The Republican effort to enter the South with wings and a harp, beguiling Southern Democrats on 'moral issue' grounds which subtly overlook the G. O. P. corruption record of the last eight years, and at the same time to raise its anti-Southern war cry and slander the memory of Woodrow Wilson in the effort to win Germanic votes, is entirely typical and in keeping with past history of the G. O. P.

"There is a minor flaw in the scheme. The Republican National headquarters underestimates the ability of Southern Democrats to read large-written political signs and size a situation up for what it is worth."

'Wets' Among Negroes For Hoover According To Republican Statement

By RUSSELL KENT
Special Correspondent Of The Montgomery Advertiser

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The "wets" among the negroes are for Herbert Hoover for president, according to publicity matter issued with the approval of the Republican National Committee. Oscar DePriest, negro Republican nominee for Congress in Chicago, who probably will be elected in November, is quoted as authority on this point.

"Hoover is the hope of the negro," according to a statement attributed to another Chicago citizen of color. A Brooklyn negro minister lauds Hoover and says that should anything happen to Hoover as president Senator Curtis would be acceptable as "a friend of our race," while if Gov. Smith should be elected and die the presidency would go to "a man from a state whose treatment of the colored race is most backward"—referring to Senator Robinson and Arkansas.

An appeal is made also to negroes of the South, Dr. R. R. Moton, head of Tuskegee Institute and S. W. Green, of New Orleans, ranking officer of the colored Knights of Pythias, being quoted in the remarkable statement issued from national G. O. P. headquarters.

If any doubt exists about the Republicans making a special appeal to negro voters, it will be removed by quoting in full and exactly, this statement issued to newspapers in behalf of the colored voters Division of the Republican National Committee, which follows:

"According to expressions received here from negro leaders in the East and in the West, the colored citizens of those sections where their votes have a direct bearing upon every election, have a high regard for Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee for the presidency of the United States and have an abiding faith in his ability to conduct the affairs of the country in a capable, fair and just manner.

"Differing widely in their opinions on prohibition, these leaders, however, are in absolute accord that Secretary Hoover is the right man for the presidency and that if the president were removed by some misfortune the country and the destiny of their race in the United States, would be in as safe hands with Senator Charles Curtis in the saddle, safer by far than with Senator Robinson directing the nation's affairs.

"Oscar DePriest, negro candidate for United States Congress and an avowed wet, declared: 'I greatly appreciate the statement by Mr. Hoover in his acceptance speech, that he proposes to 'preserve, protect and defend' the Constitution of the United States, which includes all amendments from first to the last. Through the enforcement of all Constitutional amendments, the rights of all people will be protected and a strict enforcement of the 18th amendment will make the American people either sanction or repeal that amendment.

"His message on farm relief showing that he has a constructive program is all that any fair-minded citizen could ask and his declaration on flood control and deep waterways will assure to the shipping interests of the country, some relief from the heavy transportation rates that have been so burdensome. This will not only benefit the farmers in obtaining cheaper transportation for their products but will benefit the merchants and consumers. I want to see Mr. Hoover elected, although I am a 'wet,' but I am not willing to see the prosperity of America and certainty of a loaf of bread traded off for the uncertainty of a glass of beer.

Prohi Lauds Hoover

"From the home state of the Democratic nominee, comes the following comment of Dr. H. H. Proctor, a prominent Brooklyn minister and a prohibitionist:

"Contrasting the two candidates and their views, Dr. Proctor said: 'I was especially gratified with the masterly way in which the former secretary of commerce, handled the liquor question. I am unqualfiedly in favor of prohibition, which has been such a vast benefit to the country and I favor Mr. Hoover's stand on this question rather than Gov. Smith's. Then too, in case the New York governor was elected and should die, the colored voters should consider who would succeed to the chair—a man from a state whose treatment of the colored race is most backward. On the other hand, should Hoover be elected and succumb, his successor would not only be a strong prohibitionist and a friend of our race, but would come from a state with a fine tradition with respect to civic equality."

"Dr. M. O. Bousefield, president of the Liberty Life Insurance Company, of Chicago, characterized Mr. Hoover's address as being 'full of sympathy, human interest and a belief in equal opportunities.' Continuing he stated 'It takes supreme intelligence to estimate and understand correctly prejudices and race problems. In this Mr. Hoover is the hope of the negro, as his is perhaps the best trained mind which has aspired to the presidency. His stand on prohibition is not only logical, but coincides with that of the majority of negroes who want no Constitutional tinkering, or the stressing of 'states rights.'"

According to the opinion expressed by William Pickens, New York City, one of the foremost authors and lecturers of the negro race, and field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Mr. Hoover "has a more understanding grasp on the race problem and on the national problems and the international policies of this country, than any other presidential candidate of recent decades."

"In the Southern states negroes had an opportunity to deal intimately with the former secretary of commerce when he was directing the relief work following the Mississippi River flood in 1927, and were deeply impressed with his fairness and with his executive ability, according to such leaders as Dr. Robert R. Moton, principal of the Tuskegee Institute and president of the National Negro Business League and S. W. Green, of New Orleans, who is the supreme chancellor of the colored Knights of Pythias.

Moton's Declaration.

Dr. Moton, who served as chairman of the colored advisory committee during the relief work, declared: 'Mr. Hoover is familiar with the problems of this country, whether national, sectional or international. His grasp is firm and sure; his outlook statesmanlike, controlled and directed by strong human sympathies. Associated with him on the work of the Mississippi Flood Relief Committee, I had ample opportunity to know the earnestness and sincerity of his efforts in behalf of all classes. No man in America is better qualified to serve this country in strong, virile, highminded leadership than is Herbert Hoover.'

"Running in the same vein, S. W. Green pointed out: "Herbert Hoover should appeal to the citizens of the United States, regardless of party affiliation, as a statesman with a clear and concise grasp of the problems of our government and one who if elected president will manage the affairs of this government in the interests of every section of our great country and for the benefit of every class of our citizenry. His policy of equal opportunity for every man, woman and child regardless of race or religion is the expression of a heart as broad as humanity.'

"Rev. W. H. Jernagin, Washington, D. C., president of the National Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. Congress of America, which boasts of three and a half million membership pledged his support to the standard bearer of the Republican party and stated that according to his observations, 95 per cent of the members of the organization which he heads are in accord with the principles of the Republican party and of Mr. Hoover.

" 'Personally I believe,' he said, 'Mr. Hoover's record as food administrator and secretary of the Department of Commerce, as well as the manner in which he handled the Mississippi River flood relief work thoroughly demonstrated his executive ability and his qualities as a statesman who recognizes the ability and preparedness of all races of men.' "

WHAT ABOUT TEXAS' COLORED VOTERS?

In a recent issue of The Informer, editorial attention was called to the fact that some definite program should be launched in Texas to organize and enlist the large number of colored voters to the cause and standard of the Republican presidential and vice-presidential nominees; but up to this good hour nothing has been said or done to effect such an organization and sponsor such a program.

Whether one believes it or not, Texas will witness a hectic fight on the presidential sector during the next few weeks; and, if the Republican leaders of the state and nation are in earnest about making a good showing in the Lone Star State, they should take time by the forelock and organize all their forces to this end.

For years the main strength of the Republican party in Texas (and the majority of other purely Southern states) has been recruited from the Negro group; in fact, the fires of republicanism in Dixieland have been kept alive and smouldering by the ebony-hued adherents and devotees of the party of Lincoln.

During later years the colored Republicans of the South have lost interest in partisan affairs, due to the policy of racial exclusion and ostracism followed by most of the "lily-white" party leaders in this section of the country, who have futilely and vainly sought to build up and maintain a WHITE Republican party in the South.

In the impending presidential election, while thousands of Texas Democrats, who have moral, social, political, religious and sectional scruples against supporting Governor Smith, will cast their ballots for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors, the fact should not be overlooked that there are more than 100,000 true and tried colored Republicans in Texas, who can be relied upon to support and vote for the Republican presidential ticket, provided these race voters are assured that their votes are desired and appreciated by the party leaders.

In the final days of the campaign, if it is shown that Hoover sentiment is predominating among Texas Democrats, a last-minute effort will be made to offset the Democratic defection by aligning and lining up dissatisfied and disgruntled Negro Republicans for the Smith-Robinson presidential ticket.

During the gubernatorial campaign in Texas during 1924, the Republican party lost an excellent chance of electing Dr. George C. Butte governor of this state, due chiefly to the fact that they permitted their gubernatorial candidate to raise the "race question" and thereby insult the self-respecting Negroes of Texas coupled with the fact that no concerted and organized effort was made to corral the colored electors of the state.

Now, another fine opportunity faces the Republican party in Texas, as it relates to the presidential race; and the party leaders in this state will be recreant to their bounden duty if they sit supinely by and fail to take advantage of every situation to poll votes for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors.

It takes votes to win an election, and the unselfish party leader is not concerned in the color, creed or class of said voters.

In this connection, Texas Negroes should not sit down and wait for some "party leader" to make possible the organization of our forces, but we should bestir ourselves and perfect organizations in every county where colored citizens reside, to muster and poll the race's full voting strength in the general election for Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis.

Racially speaking, we are continually contending that we are full-grown and free American citizens, and yet we are always waiting to see what is going to happen or who is going to "touch" us before becoming interested in political affairs, which more or less vitally and directly concern and affect our racial group.

As usual with us, the question of paramount importance is, "Who will take the lead in such a statewide movement?"

Texas Negroes who are interested in the candidacies of Mr. Hoover and Senator Curtis, should hold a statewide conference, select their leaders, raise their campaign fund, choose their campaigners and other workers and conduct an intensive drive in this state for the Republican national ticket.

Such a parley should be held at once in some centrally located Texas city, and an invitation extended to some of the national Republican leaders of color to visit the state and confer and counsel with our group in such a partisan undertaking.

Even if it is impossible to obtain the presence of some outstanding Republican national figure, there is sufficient organizing ability among Texas Negroes to perfect one of the most effective and virile organizations of its kind in the country.

serve, protect and defend' the Constitution of the United States, which includes all amendments from first to the last. Through the enforcement of all Constitutional amendments, the rights of all people will be protected and a strict enforcement of the 18th amendment will make the American people either sanction or repeal that amendment.

"His message on farm relief showing that he has a constructive program is all that any fair-minded citizen could ask and his declaration on flood control and deep waterways will assure to the shipping interests of the country, some relief from the heavy transportation rates that have been so burdensome. This will not only benefit the farmers in obtaining cheaper transportation for their products but will benefit the merchants and consumers. I want to see Mr. Hoover elected, although I am a 'wet,' but I am not willing to see the prosperity of America and certainty of a loaf of bread traded off for the uncertainty of a glass of beer.

Prohi Lauds Hoover

"From the home state of the Democratic nominee, comes the following comment of Dr. H. H. Proctor, a prominent Brooklyn minister and a prohibitionist:

"Contrasting the two candidates and their views, Dr. Proctor said: 'I was especially gratified with the masterly way in which the former secretary of commerce, handled the liquor question. I am unqualfiedly in favor of prohibition, which has been such a vast benefit to the country and I favor Mr. Hoover's stand on this question rather than Gov. Smith's. Then too, in case the New York governor was elected and should die, the colored voters should consider who would succeed to the chair—a man from a state whose treatment of the colored race is most backward. On the other hand, should Hoover be elected and succumb, his successor would not only be a strong prohibitionist and a friend of our race, but would come from a state with a fine tradition with respect to civic equality."

"Dr. M. O. Bousefield, president of the Liberty Life Insurance Company, of Chicago, characterized Mr. Hoover's address as being 'full of sympathy, human interest and a belief in equal opportunities.' Continuing he stated 'It takes supreme intelligence to estimate and understand correctly prejudices and race problems. In this Mr. Hoover is the hope of the negro, as his is perhaps the best trained mind which has aspired to the presidency. His stand on prohibition is not only logical, but coincides with that of the majority of negroes who want no Constitutional tinkering, or the stressing of 'states rights.' "

According to the opinion expressed by William Pickens, New York City, one of the foremost authors and lecturers of the negro race, and field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Mr. Hoover "has a more understanding grasp on the race problem and on the national problems and the international policies of this country, than any other presidential candidate of recent decades."

"In the Southern states negroes had an opportunity to deal intimately with the former secretary of commerce when he was directing the relief work following the Mississippi River flood in 1927, and were deeply impressed with his fairness and with his executive ability, according to such leaders as Dr. Robert R. Moton, principal of the Tuskegee Institute and president of the National Negro Business League and S. W. Green, of New Orleans, who is the supreme chancellor of the colored Knights of Pythias.

Moton's Declaration.

Dr. Moton, who served as chairman of the colored advisory committee during the relief work, declared: 'Mr. Hoover is familiar with the problems of this country, whether national, sectional or international. His grasp is firm and sure; his outlook statesmanlike, controlled and directed by strong human sympathies. Associated with him on the work of the Mississippi Flood Relief Committee, I had ample opportunity to know the earnestness and sincerity of his efforts in behalf of all classes. No man in America is better qualified to serve this country in strong, virile, highminded leadership than is Herbert Hoover.'

"Running in the same vein, S. W. Green pointed out: "Herbert Hoover should appeal to the citizens of the United States, regardless of party affiliation, as a statesman with a clear and concise grasp of the problems of our government and one who if elected president will manage the affairs of this government in the interests of every section of our great country and for the benefit of every class of our citizenry. His policy of equal opportunity for every man, woman and child regardless of race or religion is the expression of a heart as broad as humanity.'

"Rev. W. H. Jernagin, Washington, D. C., president of the National Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. Congress of America, which boasts of three and a half million membership pledged his support to the standard bearer of the Republican party and stated that according to his observations, 95 per cent of the members of the organization which he heads are in accord with the principles of the Republican party and of Mr. Hoover.

" 'Personally I believe,' he said, 'Mr. Hoover's record as food administrator and secretary of the Department of Commerce, as well as the manner in which he handled the Mississippi River flood relief work thoroughly demonstrated his executive ability and his qualities as a statesman who recognizes the ability and preparedness of all races of men.' "

WHAT ABOUT TEXAS' COLORED VOTERS?

In a recent issue of The Informer, editorial attention was called to the fact that some definite program should be launched in Texas to organize and enlist the large number of colored voters to the cause and standard of the Republican presidential and vice-presidential nominees; but up to this good hour nothing has been said or done to effect such an organization and sponsor such a program.

Whether one believes it or not, Texas will witness a hectic fight on the presidential sector during the next few weeks; and, if the Republican leaders of the state and nation are in earnest about making a good showing in the Lone Star State, they should take time by the forelock and organize all their forces to this end.

For years the main strength of the Republican party in Texas (and the majority of other purely Southern states) has been recruited from the Negro group; in fact, the fires of republicanism in Dixieland have been kept alive and smouldering by the ebony-hued adherents and devotees of the party of Lincoln.

During later years the colored Republicans of the South have lost interest in partisan affairs, due to the policy of racial exclusion and ostracism followed by most of the "lily-white" party leaders in this section of the country, who have futilely and vainly sought to build up and maintain a WHITE Republican party in the South.

In the impending presidential election, while thousands of Texas Democrats, who have moral, social, political, religious and sectional scruples against supporting Governor Smith, will cast their ballots for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors, the fact should not be overlooked that there are more than 100,000 true and tried colored Republicans in Texas, who can be relied upon to support and vote for the Republican presidential ticket, provided these race voters are assured that their votes are desired and appreciated by the party leaders.

In the final days of the campaign, if it is shown that Hoover sentiment is predominating among Texas Democrats, a last-minute effort will be made to offset the Democratic defection by aligning and lining up dissatisfied and disgruntled Negro Republicans for the Smith-Robinson presidential ticket.

During the gubernatorial campaign in Texas during 1924, the Republican party lost an excellent chance of electing Dr. George C. Butte governor of this state, due chiefly to the fact that they permitted their gubernatorial candidate to raise the "race question" and thereby insult the self-respecting Negroes of Texas coupled with the fact that no concerted and organized effort was made to corral the colored electors of the state.

Now, another fine opportunity faces the Republican party in Texas, as it relates to the presidential race; and the party leaders in this state will be recreant to their bounden duty if they sit supinely by and fail to take advantage of every situation to poll votes for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors.

It takes votes to win an election, and the unselfish party leader is not concerned in the color, creed or class of said voters.

In this connection, Texas Negroes should not sit down and wait for some "party leader" to make possible the organization of our forces, but we should bestir ourselves and perfect organizations in every county where colored citizens reside, to muster and poll the race's full voting strength in the general election for Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis.

Racially speaking, we are continually contending that we are full-grown and free American citizens, and yet we are always waiting to see what is going to happen or who is going to "touch" us before becoming interested in political affairs, which more or less vitally and directly concern and affect our racial group.

As usual with us, the question of paramount importance is, "Who will take the lead in such a statewide movement?"

Texas Negroes who are interested in the candidacies of Mr. Hoover and Senator Curtis, should hold a statewide conference, select their leaders, raise their campaign fund, choose their campaigners and other workers and conduct an intensive drive in this state for the Republican national ticket.

Such a parley should be held at once in some centrally located Texas city, and an invitation extended to some of the national Republican leaders of color to visit the state and confer and counsel with our group in such a partisan undertaking.

Even if it is impossible to obtain the presence of some outstanding Republican national figure, there is sufficient organizing ability among Texas Negroes to perfect one of the most effective and virile organizations of its kind in the country.

Political - 1928
Party Affiliation.

Republican

EVERY EVENING
WILMINGTON, DEL.

AUG 20 1928

G. O. P. BOSSES FEAR NEGRO DEFECTION.

There is much talk regarding the Negro voter just now and his attitude towards the nominees of the chief political parties, and it has even gone so far as to hint that the black voters are weary of their purchased allegiance to the Republican party, and will break away from the bosses in November in greater numbers than they have ever done in the past.

Negroes have come to a realization of the fact that they are vital factors in the political battle pitched for November. Without the solid vote of the Negroes neither New York nor Pennsylvania could possibly be won by the Republicans and surely without their unified support the Delaware Republicans would be defeated. In New York there are three-quarters of a million blacks, who have voted in the main for the G. O. P. candidates, and in return a handful of their leaders are passed out a few petty political jobs. If the Negroes or three-fourths of them should withdraw their support from the Republican "organization" as the corrupt political machine modestly camouflages its viciousness, the City of Brotherly Love would be won by the Democrats despite the usual election day orgies of ballot box stuffing and other crookedness. Of course it is understood there, as here, that Negro loyalty to the G. O. P. is maintained by hard cash to buy and pay for their votes, but we are sure if the Negroes could even glimpse the fact that they are degrading their race by this repeated sale of their franchise, they might quit the false leading and take a step forward in the respect of their white brethren. They are permitting themselves to be used to put disreputable white leaders in power and maintain them there, all for a miserable mess of pottage, that lowers them in the esteem of the men who bought and paid for their votes.

It need not be pointed out that the Negroes are the only class of people who sell their franchise to the highest bidder at election time, but they can vastly improve their own standing in the community and advance the cause of their race if they vote openly and honestly for their choice of candidates and not to countenance the bogus claim that it was the Republican party that shook off their shackles and set them free. It was Abraham Lincoln who liberated them from slavery in spite of the Republican party and its leaders.

Augusta, Ga. Herald
Sunday, August 12, 1928

BEN DAVIS TO SPEAK TO NEGRO VOTERS AT THEATER HERE TODAY

BY WALTER S. HARRIS

One of the greatest crowds ever to assemble here to listen to an address is expected to be present at the Lenox Theatre this afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock, at which time Benjamin Jefferson Davis, former, and prospective Republican National Committeeman for Georgia, and editor of The Atlanta Independent, will speak to citizens of Augusta and vicinity. Committeeman Davis arrived here last night and was tendered a smoker in the offices of the North Carolina Mutual by friends. He will attend church during the day at Springfield Baptist Church.

Because of the unique position occupied by Editor Davis and being well informed on present day questions—most especially the political situation—during these trying times, the country being full of upheaval within the ranks of the two major parties, it is expected that many of those interested in the trend of the times will avail themselves of the opportunity and hear Ben J. Davis this afternoon.

The meeting is open to all citizens, without regard to color, who desire to know, see and hear the versatile editor who has guided the affairs, of the G. O. P. in Georgia for the past several years. As a speaker, writer, an organizer, there are no superiors to Ben J. Davis; a master of the platform and convincing debater. Naturally, at this time, it is expected that the visitor this afternoon will be very interesting. He was the recognized head of the Georgia delegation to the Nationaly Republican Convention at Kansas City, and, apparently, is still directing affairs in the state as national committeeman. He will, in all probability, discuss the political situation as it now appears, and tell of the national convention and the part Georgia played in that great gathering's deliberations.

Sam Seals will preside over the meeting this afternoon, and the famed Thankful Quartet will render several selections.

PROGRESS

AUG 1928

Says Republicans Would Drop Negro

Indiana Educator Claims North Hands Off on Race Question

Many Southerners will vote against Herbert Hoover this year because of the abolition of race segregation in the Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce while Hoover was Secretary of that department, Miss Lavinia Engle, secretary of the Maryland League of Women Voters, said yesterday at a discussion of the Negro question in the Institute of Public Affairs.

Miss Engle stated that the breaking down of racial lines in the bureau, together with the fact that patronage and appointments of the Republican party in several Southern States are controlled almost entirely by Negroes, would serve to hold many Southerners in line for Al Smith.

Her statements were made in the course of a discussion of the Negro question in the South at the round-table on political parties.

Dr. A. R. Hatton, of Northwestern University, who conducted the round-table, stated that the Negroes in the North are no longer voting the Republican ticket exclusively, and that they are showing a tendency to be considerably more independent politically.

He also expressed the conviction that four-fifths of the white people in the North regard the extension of the suffrage to the Negroes during the Reconstruction period "a colossal blunder and almost a tragedy."

With regard to the race question in the South at the present time, Dr. Hatton voiced the belief that "there is not the slightest inclination on the part of the North to interfere with the South's handling of the Negro problem."

"The North is coming to recognize it as a question with which it is coming more and more face to face, and it realizes that it is to its advantage to leave the Southern race problem to Southern people," said the speaker, who is a native of Indiana, and an independent in politics. He is supporting Hoover in the present campaign.

Asked how it would affect the Negro if the two major political parties in the south were fairly evenly divided, Dr. Hatton said that it can get anything like an even break with the whites of the South, "it will drop the Negro like a hot potato."

His idea is that under such circumstances, neither party would show special favors to the Negroes for fear of losing a large share of its white support.

Hunsdon Cary, of Richmond, also took part in the discussion and expressed the opinion that if the first section of the fifteenth amendment were repealed, "half the South would go Republican at the next election." This section of the amendment forbids discrimination as to the franchise because of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

He explained the background of the South's traditional policy on the race question, outlining the reign of terror to which the South was subjected during the reconstruction period and the efforts to put through the Lodge force bill.

THE NEGRO AND PRESIDENTIAL RACE

With both major political parties unlimbering their oratorical pyrotechnics and getting up full steam for an intensive campaign, the attitude of the American Negro in the presidential race is daily coming to the fore; and, from present indications, it appears that many erstwhile colored Republicans will forsake the "grand old party" and cast their votes for the Democratic presidential electors.

Throughout the North, East and Middlewest there is a growing sentiment among Negro voters, according to a recent unbiased survey made in that section of the country by political authorities, to desert the party of Lincoln, Grant and Roosevelt, and to support the party of Cleveland, Wilson and Smith, as far as the national ticket is concerned.

The charge is openly made that the Republican party has forsaken its ancient principles and tenets, and that the action of party leaders towards colored Republicans in the South—as shown in the recent treatment accorded Perry W. Howard of Mississippi, Benjamin J. Davis of Georgia, Walter L. Cohen of Louisiana, Robert R. Church of Tennessee and William M. McDonald of Texas—has done much to alienate colored voters in the important and pivotal states of the country.

To get even with the Republican party leaders, it is stated on good authority that thousands of Northern and Eastern Negroes plan to support and vote for Governor Alfred E. Smith and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic presidential and vice-presidential candidates, respectively.

Some of these colored political leaders are contending that such a course will be a fine disciplinary measure for the Republican party; that the party will assume an altogether different attitude towards its colored constituents in the event the Democratic party is victorious in the presidential sweepstakes; that one never misses the water until the well becomes dry.

They further allege that under Republican national administrations constitutional nullification has become a national pastime, and that racial segregation is even rife in governmental departments at Washington, despite the nearly eight consecutive years the "grand old party" has been in control of all branches of the national government.

These race "bolters" point with pride to Governor Smith's record and friendly attitude towards the Negro race during his many years in public office, and they are bold enough to argue that Mr. Smith will not be dominated and influenced by the South in the event of his election, and that the colored race has absolutely nothing to lose by supporting and voting for the Gotham governor.

So many outstanding Republicans of both races are openly espousing the candidacy of Governor Smith that The Informer has been literally besieged with queries from colored citizens of this state and section, who are anxious to know which candidate or ticket to support at the November election.

While The Informer is somewhat independent in its politics, not being hide-bound to any political party, this paper, as one of the original Hoover boosters and supporters, can assume no other honorable course but to continue its support and advocacy of Mr. Hoover for the presidency; believing that he is better qualified for the highest elective post in the country than his Democratic opponent, and holding to the deep-seated belief that no minority group or bloc can hope for much from such a hybrid partisan organization as the present Democratic party.

To illustrate our point, we wish to cite attention to the attitude assumed by the Democratic party in the North and South, as it relates not only to the Negro, but to national issues and problems.

The Northern Democratic party is liberal in its views on the "race question," and is backing a black candidate for congress from the St. Louis district, opposing Congressman Leonidas C. Dyer, father and proponent of the ill-fated Dyer anti-lynching bill.

The Northern Democratic party goes out of its way to corral the colored votes, while the Southern Democratic party goes out of its way to insult, intimidate, humiliate and disfranchise colored electors; maintaining and trying to perpetuate the infamous "white man's primary" election, which excludes no race on account of color except the Negro race.

At present the Democratic South's rallying cry, in order to maintain the partisan solidity of this section, is the "Negro issue," and the awful consequences which will accrue to the nation if Mr. Hoover and his "'nigger'-loving party" are retained in control of the national government; while on the other hand the Northern Democratic party is organizing and conducting drives among the colored citizens, and offering all kinds of inducements in order to get them to support both their state, congressional, senatorial and presidential tickets.

Holding such divergent views, it does not require a political prophet to foretell the ultimate outcome with such a mongrel party in control of the national government!

Then, just imagine what would befall this republic in general and the Negro race in particular, should some eventuality place Senator Robinson, the Arkansas Negrophobe, in the presidential chair!

If the Negro race has fared rather badly at the hands of the Republican party, what would be its plight under such unfortunate conditions and adverse circumstances?

From 1912 to 1920 the "solid South" had wellnigh control of the national government, and God forbid that this nation and our people should suffer a similar fate again!

The Informer has the highest respect for Governor Smith, for few men in public life possess the courage and stamina demonstrated by him on public questions; but we fear the gift-bearing Greeks, knowing full well that the Democrats have not as much use for Negroes as the Republicans, and that the doctrine of the "donkey party," a la Dixie, is "white men up and black men down."

If any Negroes, either of Texas, the South or nation can consistently and conscientiously support and vote for such a hybrid political party, then that is their business, and we have no fuss to wage with them; but as for The Informer, we elect to support and vote for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors because of the forces backing them and traditions behind the partisan organization whose standard-bearers they are.

Furthermore, The Informer holds to the opinion that the Negroes of Texas should organize their forces and cast the race's full voting strength for Mr. Hoover and Senator Curtis in the November general election; for they more nearly represent and typify the time-honored and cherished American ideals and institutions than do their Democratic opponents.

Granting that both major political parties are evils, it seems to be the better part of wisdom or valor to choose the lesser of the two evils, which means that Negroes will perform a greater public service by supporting and voting for the Republican nominee for the presidency than by casting their ballot for the Demo-

THE NEGRO AND PRESIDENTIAL RACE

With both major political parties unlimbering their oratorical pyrotechnics and getting up full steam for an intensive campaign, the attitude of the American Negro in the presidential race is daily coming to the fore; and, from present indications, it appears that many erstwhile colored Republicans will forsake the "grand old party" and cast their votes for the Democratic presidential electors.

Throughout the North, East and Middlewest there is a growing sentiment among Negro voters, according to a recent unbiased survey made in that section of the country by political authorities, to desert the party of Lincoln, Grant and Roosevelt, and to support the party of Cleveland, Wilson and Smith, as far as the national ticket is concerned.

The charge is openly made that the Republican party has forsaken its ancient principles and tenets, and that the action of party leaders towards colored Republicans in the South—as shown in the recent treatment accorded Perry W. Howard of Mississippi, Benjamin J. Davis of Georgia, Walter L. Cohen of Louisiana, Robert R. Church of Tennessee and William M. McDonald of Texas—has done much to alienate colored voters in the important and pivotal states of the country.

To get even with the Republican party leaders, it is stated on good authority that thousands of Northern and Eastern Negroes plan to support and vote for Governor Alfred E. Smith and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic presidential and vice-presidential candidates, respectively.

Some of these colored political leaders are contending that such a course will be a fine disciplinary measure for the Republican party; that the party will assume an altogether different attitude towards its colored constituents in the event the Democratic party is victorious in the presidential sweepstakes; that one never misses the water until the well becomes dry.

They further allege that under Republican national administrations constitutional nullification has become a national pastime, and that racial segregation is even rife in governmental departments at Washington, despite the nearly eight consecutive years the "grand old party" has been in control of all branches of the national government.

These race "bolters" point with pride to Governor Smith's record and friendly attitude towards the Negro race during his many years in public office, and they are bold enough to argue that Mr. Smith will not be dominated and influenced by the South in the event of his election, and that the colored race has absolutely nothing to lose by supporting and voting for the Gotham governor.

So many outstanding Republicans of both races are openly espousing the candidacy of Governor Smith that The Informer has been literally besieged with queries from colored citizens of this state and section, who are anxious to know which candidate or ticket to support at the November election.

While The Informer is somewhat independent in its politics, not being hide-bound to any political party, this paper, as one of the original Hoover boosters and supporters, can assume no other honorable course but to continue its support and advocacy of Mr. Hoover for the presidency; believing that he is better qualified for the highest elective post in the country than his Democratic opponent, and holding to the deep-seated belief that no minority group or bloc can hope for much from such a hybrid partisan organization as the present Democratic party.

To illustrate our point, we wish to cite attention to the attitude assumed by the Democratic party in the North and South, as it relates not only to the Negro, but to national issues and problems.

The Northern Democratic party is liberal in its views on the "race question," and is backing a black candidate for congress from the St. Louis district, opposing Congressman Leonidas C. Dyer, father and proponent of the ill-fated Dyer anti-lynching bill.

The Northern Democratic party goes out of its way to corral the colored votes, while the Southern Democratic party goes out of its way to insult, intimidate, humiliate and disfranchise colored electors; maintaining and trying to perpetuate the infamous "white man's primary" election, which excludes no race on account of color except the Negro race.

At present the Democratic South's rallying cry, in order to maintain the partisan solidity of this section, is the "Negro issue," and the awful consequences which will accrue to the nation if Mr. Hoover and his "'nigger'-loving party" are retained in control of the national government; while on the other hand the Northern Democratic party is organizing and conducting drives among the colored citizens, and offering all kinds of inducements in order to get them to support both their state, congressional, senatorial and presidential tickets.

Holding such divergent views, it does not require a political prophet to foretell the ultimate outcome with such a mongrel party in control of the national government!

Then, just imagine what would befall this republic in general and the Negro race in particular, should some eventuality place Senator Robinson, the Arkansas Negrophobe, in the presidential chair!

If the Negro race has fared rather badly at the hands of the Republican party, what would be its plight under such unfortunate conditions and adverse circumstances?

From 1912 to 1920 the "solid South" had wellnigh control of the national government, and God forbid that this nation and our people should suffer a similar fate again!

The Informer has the highest respect for Governor Smith, for few men in public life possess the courage and stamina demonstrated by him on public questions; but we fear the gift-bearing Greeks, knowing full well that the Democrats have not as much use for Negroes as the Republicans, and that the doctrine of the "donkey party," a la Dixie, is "white men up and black men down."

If any Negroes, either of Texas, the South or nation can consistently and conscientiously support and vote for such a hybrid political party, then that is their business, and we have no fuss to wage with them; but as for The Informer, we elect to support and vote for the Hoover-Curtis presidential electors because of the forces backing them and traditions behind the partisan organization whose standard-bearers they are.

Furthermore, The Informer holds to the opinion that the Negroes of Texas should organize their forces and cast the race's full voting strength for Mr. Hoover and Senator Curtis in the November general election; for they more nearly represent and typify the time-honored and cherished American ideals and institutions than do their Democratic opponents.

Granting that both major political parties are evils, it seems to be the better part of wisdom or valor to choose the lesser of the two evils, which means that Negroes will perform a greater public service by supporting and voting for the Republican nominee for the presidency than by casting their ballot for the Demo-

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican

Dr. Julia P. H. Coleman Reported As Attempting To Explain Why She Repudiated Pledge To Support Paige

Reported To Have Said She Can Get Anything Wanted From Grenthal; Charged Hayes With Secret Leaving To Stop Naming Johnson

So general has been the public condemnation of Dr. Julia P. H. Coleman for the stand she has taken in the fight for race representation in the 19th Assembly District that she has felt called upon to give some explanation of her actions to friends.

To one friend, who is one of Harlem's most prominent citizens, she freely admitted that prior to the meeting at which the Republican candidate for the Assembly in this district was designated, she had promised to support Attorney Paige and had also promised to second his nomination. But she is said to have declared, she did not know he was going to oppose the district leader for the nomination.

Called By Grenthal.

When she reached the meeting, Dr. Coleman says she was called upstairs by Mr. Grenthal and he explained to her that Mr. Paige was fighting Grenthal and he, Grenthal, did not know what the colored people wanted. He asked her, says Dr. Coleman, whether the colored people of the district would prefer the Assembly or the Congressional nomination, and she told him they wanted the Congressional nomination by all means.

She is also alleged to have told her friend that she was getting money out of this campaign and that she could get anything she wanted from Mr. Grenthal.

Says Hayes Slipped Away.

Among other statements she made was one to the effect that the Rev. Dr. William P. Hayes has never officially declined the nomination for Congress tendered by the Republicans of the 21st Congressional District. She charges that he was persuaded not to accept the nomination by Alderman Fred R. Moore, and then secretly left town at the last minute, without giving former Assemblyman E. A. Johnson who was also seeking the nomination, time to file petitions.

Dr. Coleman is president of the local Federation of Women's Clubs, and president of the St. James Presbyterian Church forum. She has always held herself out to be a staunch advocate of equal opportunity and equal rights for the Negro, but her actions in this political fight for racial representation is not in keeping with the sentiments she has expressed on previous occasions.

HEAD OF CHURCH

Bishop R. C. LAWSON
Founder and Chief Pastor, Refuge Church of Christ, Apostolic Faith.

Alderman John Clifford Hawkins Will Not Make The Race For Party Primary Nomination For Congress

Sends Declination To Leader Conklin, Giving Reasons For His Action; Dr. Wm. P. Hayes Recommended By 21st A. D. Leaders

In a letter to Republican Leader Robert S. Conklin of the 21st Assembly District, New York City, released to the press on August 3, Alderman John Clifford Hawkins of the 21st Aldermanic District refused to accept the recent tender of a designation as Republican candidate for the U. S. Congress from the 21st Congressional District, New York City.

The designation was made at a meetinng of the Republican leaders from the five Assembly Districts which comprise the congressional district, held Monday night, July 30, the districts represented being the 13th, 19th, 21st, 22nd and 23rd. The naming of Alderman Hawkins followed upon a strong insistence that the Negro's voting strength in this district entitles him to the congressional nomination.

New York Times 8-1-28

Reasons For Selling.

Although other names were considered by the leaders, it was believed that Mr. Hawkins, who, prior to being elected to the Aldermanic Board, had been a member of the State Assembly from the 21st A. D., would be the strongest candidate and the one most capable of a successful campaign.

Incidentally, it is reported, there was nothing to indicate the possibility of a declination of the offer by Mr. Hawkins.

However, according to his letter to Mr. Conklin, the designee gives three reasons for declining: His election to the Board of Aldermen, with one year, five months more to serve; inability to finance a congressional campaign; embarassment at having the campaign financed for him by the party.

Dr. Wm. P. Hayes Endorsed.

Mr. Hawkins' withdrawal left the field open, and these were several prospective candidates, the most prominent, perhaps being the Rev. Wm. P. Hayes, pastor of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church, who has been endorsed by the 21st A. D. Republicans to take Mr. Hawkins' place. The commitee named to fill vacancies, with William McGruder as chairman, and Mrs. Margaret A. Scaly and Mortimer Kraus as members, will probably accept Dr. Hayes as the candidate for nomination at the primaries on September 18.

Other candidates considered were James Weldon Johnson, secretary of the N. A. A. C. P., who declined because of ill health, and the Rev. Dr. A Clayton Powell, pastor of Abyssinian Baptist Church, who refused to consider it, declaring that as lifetime pastor, his church work was too important to permit him to give time to any other duties.

The following is the text of Mr. Hawkins' letter to Leader Conklin, making known his decision not to accept the designation:

Text of Letter.

August 1st, 1928.

Hon. Robert S. Conklin,
34 Pine Street,
New Yoork City.

My dear Mr. Conklin:

Since my interview with you last evening, I have thoroughly considered the proposition of my designation as Republican canddate for the high office of member of Congress from the Twenty-first Congressional District. I want you and the other District Leaders concerned to know that I fully appreciate the high honor which you have bestowed upon me and for which I offer my sincere thanks. I consider this offiice one of the highest offices within the gift of the people. I believe that of all Legislative bodies in the United States, the House of Representatives at Washington is the one body in which there should be a Negro member. I appreciate the fact that within the judgment of the Committee, I was deemed qualified to fill such a high office.

Gives His Reasons.

After thorough consideration of the many requirements tantamount to a successful election, and notwithstanding my willingness to do everything I can to the end that the Republican Party may be successful in the coming election, I find it impossible for the following reasons to take up the burden at this time:

I believe that in view of the fact that I have been recently elected to the office of Alderman from the Twenty-first Aldermanic District, for a term of two years, only seven months of which have been served, I should be relieved from the candidacy for the position of Congressman at this time, and that some other colored man who is qualified to be a candidate for Congress and who would command the respect of the electorate should be offered this nomination.

2. I am at this time unable to finance so stupendous a proposition as a campaign for Congress.

Since I am financially unable to prosecute an aggressive campaign which is the only campaign that would be successful, I would be embarrassed if it were financed for me.

For the above reasons I am unable to accept the designation for Congress at this time, and I ask that the Party release me from such a proposition. I want, however, to go on record as being heartily in favor of a colored candidate for Congress as I am convinced that the best interest of the Republican Party will be served by so doing.

Yours for Party success,
JOHN CLIFFORD HAWKINS.

An Independent Candidate.

In a 2,200 word statement, issued August 3, Attorney Louis A. Lavelle announces his definite independent candidacy for nomination as the congressional candidate from the 21st Congressional District. In his lengthy communication, Mr. Lavelle declares he has been fighting for elective representation for the races since 1910, and that in 1920 he was defeated by former Congressman Martin Ansorge by "a very small margin of the total primary vote cast."

Mr. Lavelle makes an appeal to "the hundreds of persons who have requested and urged me to make the race for Republican party nomination for Congress" assuring them that "Yes, I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress . . . and earnestly solicit the Republican enrolled voter's support."

NEGRO PRESS OF THE COUNTRY PRAISES HOOVER'S ADDRESS

Herald-Cen 9-1-

Washington, D. C.—Wholesale approval was accorded the acceptance speech of Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for the president of the United States, by colored editors throughout the country.

While they favored his stand in general they especially commended him for his position with respect to equal opportunity for all Americans, irrespective of race, color or creed.

The editor of the Philadelphia Tribune found favor with the program for the promotion of business and prosperity but concerning the declaration about equal opportunity pointed out:

"Mr. Hoover, in his acceptance speech, touched the thing nearest to our heart. The biggest thing, and the most important thing which confronts the American Negro today, is his lack of opportunity to develop into a well rounded American citizen. If Herbert Hoover will use his high office, when elected, to the end that the American Negro would have even a semblance of equal opportunity, he would stand equal with Abraham Lincoln, the greatest of all Americans.

Mr. Hoover made his position very clear in his acceptance speech concerning equal opportunity and pointed out in a forceful manner that he favored equal opportunity for all and declared it a right of every American citizen.

Reassuring Note

Down in Virginia, the editor of the Norfolk Journal and Guide expressed his view as follows:

"Candidate Hoover's acceptance speech, delivered last Saturday, contained a note that should be reassuring to the underprivileged and disadvantaged classes of American citizens. In spite of Mr. Hoover's assertion that this country is the most prosperous on the face of the earth, it is clear from his vigorous declaration in favor of equal opportunity for all Americans that he recognizes that there are in our social, economic and legal system certain drawbacks the thirteen million Negro citizens find hope." to full enjoyment of the fruits of labor and pursuit of happiness."

Reveals Statemanship

While the foregoing comments are typical of many, there were editors who were concerned with the entire address. The editor of the Louisville Leader pointed this out.

"The address reveals statesmanship of the highest order, a statesmanship which causes not only the importance of the economic phases of the conditions of America, but can look beyond these and discern the relation of sound economic conditions to happy homes and spiritual well being. Here Mr. Hoover touches the heart of the great mass of voters. Here the Republican nominee shows a masterly grasp of the situation and gives the people of this country an idea of what kind of a man was named by his party at Kansas City and what sort of president he would make."

O. K. For New York

The Detroit Independent editor took still another turn and in addition to commending Herbert Hoover as the logical man for the presidency of the United States issued the following warning to the colored voters of the Republic:

"Al Smith is all right in New York as governor, but will be all wrong in Washington as president, under the influence of Blease, of South Carolina, Harrison of Mississippi, Heflin of Alabama, and associated with Robinson of Arkansas as vice president."

Oklahoma Eagle

The editor of the Oklahoma Eagle opined that "Herbert Hoover in a brilliant speech of acceptance stated clearly his stand on all the issues of the campaign: farm relief, the tariff, labor, public work, public waste, economy, flood control, the ballot, religious tolerance, civil service, child welfare, foreign relations and equality of opportunity. It is the last named section of his address that

Houston Informer

memorialize 2d Vinnie

According to the editor of the Houston Informer, Herbert Hoover demonstrated beyond the shadow of doubt or peradventure that he is a statesman of the first rank and well qualified to direct the ship of state for the next four or eight years."

"No man in American life" continued the Texas editor, "is more conversant with national needs and issues than Mr. Hoover and his allusion to a program of construction, as compared to a program of reconstruction following the World War, shows that he is not an 'heir apparent to the throne' but that he is of presidential timber and an able executive in his own right."

Colorado Statesman

From the West came the declaration of the editor of the Colorado Statesman, of Denver, Colorado, that "Needless to say the Colorado Statesman is in absolute accord with Mr. Hoover's pronouncement concerning Eqaul Opportunity. No American citizen should aspire for more than an equal opportunity in the race of life and none should be denied less. Such sentiments publicly expressed and broadcast will be studied and appreciated by citizens of all sections, vocations and political affiliation. Our faith in Mr. Hoover is great; our admiration for his many noble qualities, his clearness of vision and statesmanship, is unbounded. He offered a philosophy of public service based on appreciation of family life and racial progress."

Highly Honored

"The Republican Party should feel highly honored to have such representative folk espouse its cause", opines the Twin-City Herald of Minneapolis, while the New York News comments "We felicitate Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican National Committee on his selection of the colored Hoover Campaign leaders. It is a recognition of the new type of colored men in Republican politics. It is yielding to the spirit of the times and the spirit of the present generation of colored citizens, interested in their own cause and the cause of their country."

New York Age

The New York Age says in closing "With a staff of campaign directors of the class and calibre of those presented, the issues of the campaign should be carreid direct to the voters, so that they may be aroused to vote under standingly. It will be noted that in addition to the new blood injected into the direction of the campaign, enough of the tested veterans of politics have been retained, either in an active or advisory capacity, to secure the benefit of their experience and wisdom in the ways of getting the ballots safely garnered in the right columns.

"The Hoover campaign among Negro voters appears to have started off on the right footing. These voters are to be accorded the fullest representation in the conduct of the campaign. They are no longer to be treated as children, but are to regarded as an important factor in party success."

Louisville Leader

In a strong editorial, which appeared in the August 18th issue of the Louisville Leader, I, Willis Cole, local editor and publisher, declared the movement, which proposes a Negro ticket is full of pitfalls and stamped it as Democratic propaganda. At the same time he urged the colored voters to "compare the treatment given Negro delegates at the national conventions of the two parties."

"Race voters are not to be deceived by what is very probably Democratic propaganda" Mr. Cole wrote. "They will also be very likely to compare the treatment given Negro delegates and visitors at the national conventions of the two parties."

Political 1928
Party Affiliation.

Republican.

'Steam Roller' Methods Used By Leader Grenthal's Machine As He Is Designated Again For Assembly

Negro County Committeemen Fail To Support Myles Paige For Nomination, Even Though Many Had Pledged Selves To Do So

A majority of the Republican committeemen of the 19th Assembly District selected Abraham Grenthal as their choice for the State Assembly in the coming election after a bitter fight Monday night, August 6.

Mr. Grenthal has completed four terms as Assemblyman from this district and he was told in no uncertain terms that the majortiy of the voters of the district felt that it was time he stepped down to give aspiring Negroes of the district an opportunity to represent themselves.

Age

The name of Myles A. Paige, a popular young lawyer, who was a candidate for the State Senate two years ago, was presented as a candidate to oppose the present incumbent. His name will be presented to the voters of the district on Primary Day, September 18, for them to decide whether or not they want a member of their race to represent them in the Assembly.

Grenthal Was Worried.

8-11-28

That Mr. Grenthal was worried as to the outcome of the convention was evidenced by the manner in which it was conducted. Although scheduled for 8 p. m., the meeting was not called to order until 10 o'clock. While the white politicians and county committeemen were rounded up by the leader and brought in to support him and all of the Negro committeemen were interrogated in advance as to how they were going to vote. To many who were wavering or who expressed opposition to Mr. Grenthal, the possibility of getting some political position was held out as a bait, so that when the vote was finally taken, the present leader won by a count of 37—17.

New York

During the course of the meeting, steam roller tactics were constantly in evidence. As soon as Dr. Israel L. Feinberg had been appointed chairman, Michigan C. Brown made the motion that the courtesy of the floor be granted Alderman Fred R. Moore for a few minutes. Mr. Feinberg ruled that this motion was out of order because the convention had not been fully organized. The chairman promised that Mr. Moore would be given permission to speak later, but he did not keep his word.

Disregarded Her Pledge.

Mr. Grenthal was placed in nomination by Miss Ruth Jones, a Negro woman, and his nomination was seconded by William Cornelius, also colored, and by Mrs. Hattie Johnson, who ended her remarks with the words, "I am for Abraham Grenthal, right or wrong." The day before she had participated in a conference and pledged herself to vote for Mr. Paige.

Mr. Paige was placed in nomination by E. M. Gilliard and the nomination was seconded by Michigan C. Brown, clerk of the 7th District Muncipal Court, and one of the most experienced politicians in Harlem. Mr. Brown pointed to the changes that had taken place in the district under Mr. Grenthal's leadership, and declared that Mr. Grenthal was responsible for the racial prejudice now rampant in the district. He also pointed out the fact that Mr. Grenthal is the district leader, the Assemblyman and State committeeman. He urged that the majority of the voters of the district be given representation in one of these positions.

J. DeWitt Spencer also seconded the nomination of Myles Paige, and came out strongly for race leadership of the district.

Changed Their Votes.

An humorous turn was given the convention during the balloting when a number of colored committeemen, who had pledged themselves to vote for Mr. Paige, changed their vote to Grenthal. One of these persons, Deputy Atorney General C. T. A. French, whose appointment to his present position was facilitated by Fred R. Moore, and whose law pracice is altogether with Negroes stayed outside on the clubhouse steps rather than take a stand on the question. Another was Dr. Julia P. H. Coleman, who had not only promised to vote for Mr. Paige, but had also promised to place his name in nomination or second it. When her name was called for a vote, she whispered the name of Grenthal.

The Rev. Richard M. Bolden founder and pastor of the First Emmanuel Church, a Negro organization, was among those who voted in favor of Mr. Grenthal.

It was estimated by a frequenter of the club that no less than a dozen of the votes recorded for Mr. Grenthal were fraudulent. He not only voted all civil service employees in his favor, but he permitted the voting of several of the white committeemen by proxy. The request had been made that the committeemen stand up when they voted, so that those tallying the vote could be sure the right party was voting. But this procedure was not carried out.

Collector Anderson's Orders.

It was also alleged that Collector Charles W. Anderson of the Third Internal Revenue District gave orders to all members of his staff, who are county committeemen in the 19th district, to vote for Mr. Grenthal as against a colored man.

At conclusion of the meeting, Sidney Lewis told the committeemen that unless they supported Mr. Grenthal, the regular nominee, they were not loyal Republicans and should get oot of the party. Mr. Lewis also said that he did not believe the Negroes were entitled to the office of Assemblyman. Mr Gilliard and several of those who had supported Mr. Paige pointed out that it was not disloyal to engage in a primary fight.

Mr. Paige assured his supporters and the audience that he would not be intimidated and that the figh would continue through the primaries.

REPUBLICANS BOLTERS LOOK TO WILSON

WASHINGTON.—That the movement on the part of many Republican leaders to bolt the party is reaching wide proportions was indicated this week when J. Finley Wilson announced further plans for the meeting of the Negro Voters' League in Chicago, August 24.

According to the Grand Exalted Ruler, a large number of leaders throughout the country have written him pledging that they will not only attend the meeting, but that there is a growing disaffection of party loyalty in the respective districts.

Interracial Ticket

Developments in connection with the interracial ticket headed by Jacob S. Coxey and Dr. S. P. W. Drew have also announced notification ceremonies to beh eld in Philadelphia on Labor Day.

In Ohio the Coxey movement cooperated with the movement to elect Harry C. Smith governor of that state.

The Rev. W. J. Winston, president of the Northern Baptist University, will make the notification address. Mrs. D. F. Jackson, of Selena, Mo., has been named by the United Woman's Political League to organize colored women.

Doubtful States

The various Wilson movements, it is stid, plans active organizations in all doubtful states.

NEGROES SEE TRIUMPH.

July 21, 1928.

Editor of The Commercial Appeal:

We have already written you telling you what will happen in November. Hoover will be elected. But to better inform you we ask that you read Vox Pop in this week's Liberty entitled "You Can't Say He Didn't Warn Us."

Commercial Appeal 8-5-28

For years in the north we wished to pray the churches take up our cause and this year they have done so in the candidacy of Hoover. These very churches freed us in "61" you know that, you yellow livered nigger haters, and through them we will free you to observe the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and if any one is denied the ballot it will be your white ignorant tar-heeled hill billies.

Memphis

We have the majority in ten states and the majority will rule. We will elect a Republican Congress and Senate and after the seats are reapportioned the slave driving rum swogglers from the south will be passe.

Bishop Cannon and Doctor Barton have only just begun and just try and stop them. Just try it and see where you'll get off.

A southern Democrat isn't half as good as a nigger and a northern Democrat isn't much better or they would leave the party and join the Republicans. If we had more states like Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire who go Republican yearly the country would be better off.

Secretary Kellog has pointed the way and Hoover will soon get our case before the League of Nations. You rotten southern politicians will have nothing to say there.

Better join the Republican party now with Hoover because you'll have to do it soon.

The truth is bitter but even thick heads like you ought to see what's coming.

EQUAL RIGHTS LEAGUE.

EASTERN MEN OUT FOR SMITH

Boston Physician Resigns From G. O. P. Body

BOSTON, Mass.—Dr. William Worthy, a well-known and influential physician of this city has resigned from the Republican city committee and announced his intention of supporting Governor Smith for president.

In giving his reasons for leaving the G. O. P., Dr. Worthy said: "I believe Governor Smith to be an honest and efficient public servant, whose record speaks for itself. There is no doubt in my mind that the Republican party has broken faith with our group, and that our only means of redress is to use our ballot against the party."

MR. HOOVER SOUNDS AN OMINOUS NOTE

In his speech accepting the Republican nomination for President yesterday, Mr. Hoover at last committed himself unequivocally to prohibition. He said:

> I do not favor the repeal of the 18th amendment . . . .
>
> Modification of the enforcement laws which would permit that which the Constitution forbids is nullification. This the American people will not countenance. Change in the Constitution can and must be brought about only by the straightforward methods provided in the Constitution itself. There are those who do not believe in the purposes of several provisions of the Constitution. No one denies their right to seek to amend it. They are not subject to criticism for asserting that right. But the Republican party does deny the right of anyone to seek to destroy the purposes of the Constitution by indirection.

Let the Republican New York Herald Tribune, which has been endeavoring to reconcile the wet East to Mr. Hoover's nomination, make the most of this declaration!

Let the wet Republicans of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan (and California) make the most of this utterance!

While the Anti-Saloon League rejoices, the Ku Klux Klan gloats and the political ecclesiastics beam with satisfaction, let the fireside Democrats of the South reflect seriously upon the ominous words of the Republican candidate who denies the "right of anyone to seek to destroy the purposes of the Constitution by indirection."

In the light of Mr. Hoover's demonstrated lack of sympathy and patience with the Southern viewpoint on matters touching the delicate relations of the races; in the light of the open warfare which Senator Moses, one of his managers, has made upon the South for its special interpretation of the 14th and 15th amendments, in the light of Republican "traditions" which Mr. Hoover specifically glorifies, and in the light of the Republican party's recent plank endorsing the principle of the hostile Dyer anti-lynching bill—in the light of these grave matters, what, we think it proper to inquire, is the Democratic South to think of Mr. Hoover's declaration of principles regarding all articles of the Federal Constitution?

Mr. Hoover's sweeping declaration is open to but one reasonable interpretation: He believes, as a matter of principle, that all articles in the Federal Constitution should be rigidly enforced according to the "purpose" of those who wrote them. His declaration is full of sophistry, so far as that is concerned, but we are to judge it at its face value.

Mr. Hoover is opposed to any modification of the Volstead Act, which was written to give force to the 18th amendment. He would regard modification, however mild and constitutional, as "nullification," although he does not comment upon the flood of "prescription whisky" which is sold in most of the States, and so much of which is manufactured by Andrew Mellon's distillery.

Mr. Hoover leaves us no alternative but to infer that by defeating the "purposes" of the 14th and 15th amendments by "indirection," the Southern States in his opinion, "nullified" these amendments. Mr. Hoover virtually declares against the Southern viewpoint with respect to these fundamental matters.

Let Mr. Hoover's Southern Democratic supporters explain away, if they can, his declaration of principle regarding provisions of the Federal Constitution.

Let the leaders' of Hoover's cause in the South keep faith with their own people and tell the truth. Let them call upon Mr. Hoover to discuss specifically the 14th and 15th amendments and say whether he proposes to enforce them in the same manner that he proposes to enforce the 18th amendment. It is their move. Let them speak, if they would not be false to their own people!

ARMOND SCOTT STIRS NATIONAL VOTERS LEAGUE; RESENTS TUSKEGEE DICTATION

Chicago, Aug. 25.—A brief morning session of the newly formed National Negro Voters League was featured by the reading of a letter from Armond W. Scott, of Washington, D. C., a former grand exalted ruler of colored Elks, congratulating J. Finley Wilson, president of the league, on the stand he had taken in declining of a committee position as an advisor to the Republican national committee.

Scott referred to the league session, which he was unable to attend, as "holy protest against the indifferences and duplicity of a party that we have served for more than 60 years, like a herd of brainless sheep, following blindly leaders whose only function was to lead to slaughter in order to save their own hides.

"I read," he said, "with a great deal of pride and pleasure in yesterday morning's Post your declination of the empty offer extended to you to become a member of the advisory committee. I received a similar invitation, but I would have no respect for myself if I accepted the same, and today, I too, am sending in a letter to the chairman of the national committee declining his invitation.

Assails Tuskegee Influence.

"Not only am I refusing to serve because of the humilitation to which the party in power has permitted our people to be subjected in the Capital of the Nation, but I resent the selecting of a few voteless Negroes in the city of Washington to manage and dictate the colored end of the Republican campaign, while they have ignored the outstanding men of color throughout the country. I am further opposed to allowing Tuskegee to dictate to the voters of this country when none connected with that institution has the privilege or right to vote.

"I am with you to the end that we may ultimately impress the Republican hypocrites that we will no longer follow leaders picked by them, but will select our own, but we must select men who will let the people of this country know that when the Republican party picks out one amendment to the Constitution and declares for it in its platform, which amendment has to do with the social activities of people, at least we shall demand that they also declare their devotion and allegiance to the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, which not only tend to protect and safeguard us in our political and civil rights, but are the very fundamental principles on which this Government is founded."

Plan Quiz of Nominees.

Wilson was busily engaged today in establishing contact with nine men and women of Republican faith and a like number of Democratic persuasion who will be expected to approach presidential nominees of the major parties with interrogations as to where they stand on segregation in Government departments, and on Nation-wide enfranchisement of the American Negro.

Political - 1928.
Party Affiliation.

Republican.

Brookhart Scores Conduct of G. O. P. State Committee

Senator Declares That He Is Not Able To "See Any Excuse for Georgia Organization."

PATRONAGE PROBE IN GEORGIA ENDED

Postmistress at Conyers Tells Committee of Paying Five Per Cent of Her Salary.

After hearing testimony that five per cent of their salary was the customary payment of postmasters to the Georgia G. O. P. central committee, and that the amount collected was spent for salaries and expenses in Georgia, the senate subcommittee adjourned its Atlanta session Wednesday afternoon and left for Washington where a conference will be held today with the postmaster general. Later the probers are expected to investigate patronage charges in Mississippi. Constitution

Before leaving Atlanta, Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, chairman of the subcommittee of the senate appointed to investigate charges of Georgia senators that federal offices in this state were sold to the men or women who could pay most for them, scored the conduct of the state republican committee in levying tribute to federal officeholders.

"I can't see any excuse for any such organization," he said. 7-12-28

"I don't say that we have evidence on which to base prosecutions for violations of a federal statute, but from the testimony we have heard it seems to be fairly clear that the crowd has collected a lot of money, and so far as I can see all it has been used for has been to pay salaries to committee members and incidental expenses. I can't see any use in an organization that functions only once every four years maintaining so much activity."

$1,200 Expenses Monthly.

The senator referred to testimony before the committee purporting to prove that Ben Davis and his associates collected from federal office holders over the state enough money to make an expense account of approximately $1,200 each month. "Apparently the republican national committee hasn't been getting any of the money," he said.

The committee over which Brookhart presided was charged by the senate with conducting the investigation in Georgia and other southern states and reporting back to senate in December. The committee, composed of Senator Brookhart and Senator Locher, of Ohio, will study the testimony taken and plan a more comprehensive survey of the patronage situation.

"If the facts warrant, of course, we will recommend legislation to remedy any deplorable condition that may exist," Brookhart said.

"It is my opinion that the appointment of postmasters should be determined entirely by the rating applicants for the positions obtain in civil service examinations. I don't see any use in having examinations to determine the fitness of an applicant for the place if the person making the highest rating is thrust aside and the job given to the second or third highest because of political preference or financial considerations. There is too much of that sort of thing."

Pay Five Per Cent.

Miss Esther McCollum, postmastress at Conyers, Ga., told the committee at its closing hearing Wednesday afternoon that she understood that she must pay 5 per cent of her salary in order to hold her job.

Miss McCollum said she came to Atlanta regarding an application for reappointment and talked with John W. Martin, treasurer of the central committee. Constitution

"Did Mr. Martin demand of you a sum of money in order for you to obtain reappointment?" queried Senator Locher, who conducted the questioning during the afternoon session Wednesday. 7-12-28

Sum Not Demanded.

"No. He did not demand anything, but he told me it was customary for postmasters to give a certain per cent of their salary to the republican organization." Atlanta, Ga.

"How much?"

"Five per cent, or about $100 a year for me."

"Do you have any understanding by which you are to pay five per cent of your salary?" Senator Locher asked.

"No."

"You paid into the treasury just about the amount Mr. Martin suggested?" queried Senator Smith W. Brookhart, chairman.

"Yes, about that amount, five per cent," the woman replied.

Senator Brookhart asked her whether she had told a postal inspector that a friend, now dead, paid $500 to Martin in her behalf.

"No, that is not the way I told him to write it," the postmistress replied. "What I said was in answer to a question as to who might have paid Mr. Martin $500 for me, if it had been paid. I said I knew of only one man who might have done such a thing for me—a man who lived in my town and who was now dead and whose name I did not want to reveal."

"Didn't you talk to Mr. Crawford about this payment?" pressed Senator Brookhart. The person referred to was Louis H. Crawford, United States marshal here.

"Yes, I did," replied the witness, and, under further questioning, related that she had been sent to Crawford by W. R. Watson, former postmaster at Lithonia, Ga., who, she said, had advised her to pay $300 to $400 in cash.

"What did Crawford tell you?" asked Brookhart.

"He told me not to pay it," the woman replied.

Watson's Reply.

Miss McCullum then said that after she had told Watson about Crawford's advice that he had said he "didn't know what to think about that." She said that men who had been in politics all their lives had advised her that money would be required before she could get the appointment.

Senator Locher then joined Senator Brookhart in trying to determine whether she knew that a friend had paid $500 for her. She held to her original statement.

"Mr. Watson was a close friend of your father and was afraid that you would loose the job if you didn't pay the money, wasn't he?" Senator Locher demanded.

"Yes, he was."

At this point William Schley Howard, attorney for the republican committee, queried: "Watson was a postmaster himself, familiar with the machinery and you went to him for advice?"

"Yes, sir," Miss McCullum replied.

In answer to a query by Senator Locher, she said she did not remember whether she went to Watson's house before or after she had talked to Martin.

Did Not Find Martin.

She went to Martin only after she came to Atlanta to see Roscoe Pickett, chairman of the committee, and did not find him, she said.

Asked if she afterwards saw Pickett, the witness replied that she did and that he told her not to pay any money. "He told me he would take care of me," she said.

Negotiations for the filling of the postmastership at Stockbridge was the highlight of the morning session. T. J. Davis, an unsuccessful applicant for the office, accused Ben J. Davis, negro national committeeman, of having asked him $250 for the position.

T. J. Davis said that he had refused to pay Ben Davis the money until after the appointment. He said he did pay the republican county chairman $50 when he obtained his indorsement and that Davis told him the county official was not authorized to collect any money.

Denied $250 Offer.

On cross-examination by Attorney Howard, attorney for the republican committee, Davis denied that he had voluntarily offered to pay Ben Davis $250 for his recommendation, and that Davis had told him that such an offer automatically disqualified him for the office.

Attorney Howard asked that Ben Davis be allowed to return to the stand and testify in rebuttal to the statement of T. J. Davis. Ben Davis said:

"I had recommended a Mr. Wilson for the appointment at Stockbridge. Several days later Mr. Davis came to my office, said he was an applicant and had the backing of the republican organization in his district. He further said he had paid $50 to George Lemon, who told him he was representing me, with the view of getting the appointment.

"I told Mr. Davis he could not pay Lemon or anybody else money in consideration for the appointment. I further told him it was illegal and took a copy of the act of congress which Senator George so kindly sent me at my request and showed him that it was a criminal offense.

"Mr. Davis then said that he did not mind donating money to get the appointment and that he would pay $250. I told him that if he paid money for such a purpose and if I accepted it, we would both be committing a crime. I further told him I had already recommended Mr. Wilson for the job and that the appointment was expected any day.

Wilson Teaching School.

"Mr. Wilson was at that time teaching school and his time was expected to be up in the spring. I was advised by the postmaster general that an appointee would have to devote at least seven hours per day to the job as postmaster. Mr. Davis came to my office at least once a day and sometimes more often, trying to get me to recommend him. He said Mr. Wilson was disqualified, that the board of education would not accept his resignation.

"One day he came to my office and proceeded to prefer charges against Mr. Wilson, saying that he owed some bills in his home town he had not paid and was in bad standing. He left the bills with me. I sent the bills to Mr. Wilson. A few days later, Mr. Davis returned to my office and asked for the bills, saying that he had made a mistake.

"He then renewed his offer of $250 for the appointment and said that someone else would pay it for him. I told him that it made no difference who paid it it would be a criminal offense for it to be paid, both on the part of the payee and myself. I again showed him the act of congress covering that."

Mrs. Giddings Testifies.

Mrs. Hattie Giddings, postmistress of Boles, told the committee that she had been solicited for contributions three months before her appointment and that afterwards the attempt to obtain money was renewed. She said she did not pay anything because she did not think it was her duty. Ben Davis recommended her for the position, she said.

J. E. Lee, an unsuccessful applicant for the postoffice at Pearson, next took the stand to assert that two men had offered to insure him the job if he would pay $600. He said he refused to pay the money asked, but he did pay a sum he did not estimate.

Under questioning by Senator George, Lee said the county republican chairman came to him after he declined to pay $600 and told him there "was no use to go further." He said it was generally said throughout the country that the Pearson postoffice was for sale, but that he was told "I'd have to pay for it if I wanted the job."

"The Republican Party Is the Ship and All Else Is Sea"

It was Frederick Douglas, champion of Negro freedom in this country, who coined this axiom: THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IS THE SHIP, AND ALL ELSE IS SEA, and his saying is as true today as it was when he uttered it, out of the fullness of his soul.

The pessimistic utterances going the rounds of the Negro press that the Negro was eliminated from the Party and his voice largely hushed at Kansas City are contrary to the facts. A careful study of Negro representation in the Kansas City Convention will dispel these pessimistic views and correct an error that is likely to do both the Negro and the Republican Party an injustice. The average Negro newspaper correspondent does not write according to the facts, but according to his feeling and prejudice. But few of them are loyal or care anything about the race, and have only two things in their minds, a dollar and a sensation. Nothing constructive ever comes from one of their pens, it is always something destructive. They never teach harmony, their one object is to stir up strife and dissension. They did nothing but lambast and abuse the Negro delegates during the Convention, and libel them since. Many of them have no papers and represent no constituency, yet they holler louder about race interest and race loyalty than the men who own newspapers and represent constituents.

There were as many Negro delegates at the Kansas City Convention as at any other National Convention in twenty years; they were more equitably and generally distributed. The South had her usual quota, from Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, District of Columbia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Arkansas. The North sent Negro representtives from Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Colorado, Nebraska and California. We had doorkeepers, sergeant-at-arms and a reading clerk. So you see we have not decreased in our representation or has the Republican Party as such sought to exclude the Negro from participation in Party Councils.

It is true that we have two less members on the National Committee than we had before, but the Republican Party, as such, is not responsible for the decrease. Nobody is to blame for it except the Negroes themselves, and our number and momentum will continue to decrease in the Party Councils so long as we grow Negroes who will be willing tools of unscrupulous white men to crucify Negro men and womanhood on a cross of prejudice. The situation in Georgia is purely of Negro making, and Georgia would have her National Committeeman and woman today had Georgia representatives at Kansas City abided by their written instructions. The campaign against the nominee from Georgia was in the hands of two white men, one of them unknown in Republican politics until a few months before the Convention, and who said at Kansas City that the nominee had too much power, that his word was party law in Georgia and that he would not stand for a white man to have that much power, much less a "nigger." The other white man associated with him in the management of the campaign is too well known to call his name; he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan and has announced from time to time that he would spend the balance of his life to defeat Ben Davis in Georgia politics, and that if he could put Davis out and put his man in, he would be in charge of the patronage in Georgia. A few years ago this same man indicted Ben Davis five times in order to suppress him politically, and moved to squash the indictment later when his plans failed.

So you see whatever we lost at Kansas City is purely of Negro making, and the Party is in no sense responsible for our loss. We got about what we earned and possibly more than we deserved. We must learn to take stock and the responsibility for our own short comings, and quit charging the Party with the responsibility for our cat and dog fights among ourselves.

There is a fight going on now among Negro leaders in the country as to who shall and who shant control the Negro end of the Hoover campaign. We always complain about the color question and segregation and yet you will find ninety per cent of the Negro leaders willing to be segregated and packed into jim-crow quarters like sardines for a dollar, or a little cheap notoriety.

Let us be optimistic, face conditions as they exist, rely on our own resources and take full responsibility for our fortunes or misfortunes; and quit sitting around whining that somebody is doing something to me "kase I'se a nigger."

In spite of all the alarm the public hears now from the self-appointed Negro leaders, who were seeking nothing but money at any cost at Kansas City about what we lost, and are losing, not a one of these race Moses did one thing to help the race retain its representation at the National Convention or otherwise. They did what they could to discredit the members on the National Committee, charging that they voted with the lily-whites against the race. This propaganda was deliberately and maliciously planned with a view of lessening our representation and influence in the Party. All this "stuff" about race loyalty is "bunk," these little fellows without a constituency are leeches on the body politic living on deceit and deception, and would sell the race for a dollor or a woman, for these busy-boddies live only in proportion as they can stir up strife, create dissension and libel the race's real representative.

The Republican Party is all right, as it was when Fred Douglas, the champion of our freedom, immortalized himself when he coined the axiom, "THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IS THE SHIP, AND ALL ELSE IS SEA." The Party has done nothing to us; we have done everything to ourselves, and have sought to capitalize our own stupidity to hide our inefficient leadership.

Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser
Wednesday, July 18, 1928

MR. HOOVER AND THE RACE QUESTION

Editor The Advertiser:

This year especially I have been enjoying your editorials. At times you have reached the heights of the prophetic role and, alas, at other times you descend to the depths of mere propaganda. You are sitting in judgment just now upon the preachers who have anything to say about the political situation. You reach for your "hammer" with a gloveless hand when you go to write about them. These "political parsons" seem to be a thorn in your flesh somehow. And yet, you are the very person who has been preaching tolerance and liberty and the religion of Jesus as you conceive it. You say that Jesus did not preach or practice prohibition; that one can not find anything in the scriptures to give our prohibition laws the sanction of the Bible. As for that matter one can not find the word gambling in the Bible, but we have laws against it and probably you would not be willing to champion their repeal. The religion that Jesus lived and taught was both individual and social. Divine sanctions did not stop with the writings of the books of our Bible.

However, the purpose of this letter is to ask certain questions. And probably the best way to start is to plunge right in:

1. What is tolerance?

At the time Mr. Smith was nominated by the Democratic convention at Houston you had a front page editorial about it as a great victory for tolerance. Every time you editorially discuss the nominee of the Democratic party for president you are very tolerant. But when you write about Mr. Hoover you call him the "negro social equality man." My opinion is that Mr. Smith and Mr. Hoover have the same opinions with reference to racial tolerance. Are you preaching religious tolerance to help the candidacy of Mr. Smith and racial intolerance to hinder the candidacy of Mr. Hoover? When you make a plea for tolerance why not plead for the whole truth as represented by that word?

2. What is freedom?

Is freedom one thing for the press and another thing for the pulpit? Surely you hold to the doctrine of the freedom of the press. What would you think if you saw a want ad like this:

Wanted: Trumpets for judges; Muzzles for ministers?

You preach freedom with reference to your pen, but you do not allow me the same freedom with reference to my voice. Is it quite fair to preach freedom and claim freedom for one's own actions and words and at the same time deny freedom to the actions and words of the other fellow?

3. What is religion?

Of course when I see the term religion I am thinking of the Christian religion. In your editorial of July 11, 1928, you have this sentence: "The wise Father in Heaven apparently does not intend for men collectively to remove any temptation from the path of men." Then what does He intend? Jesus taught us to pray: "Lead us not into temptation." Did he mean for us to pray one thing or one way and do another way? You seem to think of religion as being individualistic only. It is individualistic but it does not stop there. It is also social. We are to labor for a better world. Would you say that religion is one thing and politics another thing? or that religion is one thing and business is another thing? If these are separate then Christianity is simply a formality and one is reminded of what the poet said:

"They're praising God on Sunday.
They'll be all right on Monday.
It's just a little habit they've acquired."

The God of the Christian is not simply confined in the temple of worship. He lives in the struggles of humanity. God's children are a family and He is interested in what they are doing. Religion is life and can not be divorced from business, politics or anything else where humanity is involved.

At your suggestion for brevity this is very short sketching, but I hope that you will be able to see a view point other than the one used in your editorials.

Yours very truly,
NORMAN McLEOD,
Pastor First Methodist Church, Troy, Ala.
July 16, 1928.

Political Ads

Republican.

Party Affiliation.

HOOVER CEMENTS VOTES OF NEGROES

Effect Of Speech In Tennessee Seen As Ten-Strike By Kent

By RUSSELL KENT
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON Oct. 10—Whatever else Herbert Hoover may have accomplished by his Tennessee speech Saturday he finally cemented the negro vote of the border and northern states to his banner. 10-11-28

The choice as his introducer of Alfred A. Taylor one of the few Southern men in Congress to support the Lodge force bill was a stroke with the negro voters. Former Governor Taylor was one of the Southern Republicans whom the Southern-Tammany alliance fighting the Force bill in 1890 hoped to win over to the opposition, but Taylor stood with Lodge. As the Force bill passed the House by a vote of 155 to 149, a margin of only six votes, it can be understood how important the votes of Taylor and the other Southern Republicans were. True, the Force bill was killed in the Senate by a filibuster but the House did its part and the active negro organizations have always been grateful to Alf Taylor. It pleased them tremendously to see Mr. Hoover choose Taylor out of all the distinguished citizens of Tennessee for the honor of introducing him.

The negro leaders have been rallying to the Hoover banner for weeks. The statement of Oscar De Priest, negro Republican nominee for Congress from Illinois, that the election of Mr. Hoover meant the enforcement of all Constitutional amendments, was reassuring to negroes, who have been anxious to obtain legislation bringing about the Federal enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments.

They were still further reassured, when Representative Leonidia C. Dyer, Republican, Missouri, in an interview declared that the Dyer anti-lynching bill taking punishment for lynchings out of state and putting them into Federal courts, would surely pass in the next Congress. Dyer was a delegate to the Kansas City convention and a strong Hoover supporter.

There are two reasons for Dyer's optimism. Despite the fact that his bill has twice been defeated. The bill was never defeated on a clear-cut vote. Once it was defeated because the entire Democratic membership fled from the House and broke a quorum. That was in the Harding administration. The next time it was defeated in the Senate on a filibuster.

But the G. O. P. feels sure that if Governor Smith is defeated this time a wedge will be driven in the Southern-Tammany Democratic combination, which not only defeated the Force bills, but also defeated the anti-lynching bill of the Harding-Coolidge administration. In other words, if Smith can be defeated the Republicans surely will add to their majority in Congress. Neither Dyer nor any other Republican knows that Tammany would fail to stand by the South as it has stood by it since reconstruction days, but they assume that if the election is lost to the Democrats through the loss of a Southern state, Tammany hardly would keep up her end of the ancient combination.

Hope For Change.

The other hope of the Dyer bill proponents is that a reform can be brought about in Senate rules making filibusters impossible. The Senate reform of rules sought by Vice-President Dawes has its good points, but it has been fought by the Southern senators on the grounds that it would make it impossible to filibuster to death Force bills and anti-lynching bills and similar negro-vote-catching measures which are attempted periodically by the G. O. P.

The Republican managers have concentrated on an effort to bring about a rift between the South and Tammany. The fact that Tammany Hall was the one place where the Southern Democrats could find a welcome on Northern soil in 1868 and was, therefore, the meeting place of the Democratic National Convention of that year, is a little too far back for the bulk of the present generation to know much about.

Even the imaginary issue of prohibition has caused thousands of Southern voters to forget that "the guarding of the portal of the Southern white man's doors," has been one of the reasons for the existence of the national Democratic party.

The Republican party, the leaders of which forty years ago were telling the nation that "Tammany Hall and the rebel crew (the South) have won their last victory, (the first election of Cleveland,) now has sent its candidate South to make in plain and unmistakble terms a plea for the divorcement of the Southern-Eastern Democratic alliance, the alliance which defeated the Force bill.

"I, with other Americans, have perhaps unduly resented the stream of criticism of American life, the stature and character of our people," Mr. Hoover said. "More particularly have I resented the sneers at Main Street—in no other country does there exist the intelligence, the devotion and the probity and ability to rise to a great emergency that exists in the Main Street of the American town and village.*History shows that crowded cities too often breed injustices and crimes, misery and suffering."

These sentences and the paragraphs near the end of Mr. Hoover's address fit into the plans made by the Republican National Committee immediately after Governor Smith's nomination to arouse the prejudice of the rural communities against New York City, because it is the residence of Governor Smith. The chief newspaper propagandists of the G. O. P. have insisted that the contest this year really was one between the large cities and Main Street of the smaller communities.

Forty years ago the Republican battle cry in the West was to "Down Tammany Hall and the Rebel Crew." Today the "rebel crew" part of it is dropped for in the fiercely burning controversy over an imaginary prohibition issue, added to the religious controversy, the G. O. P. hopes to obtain enough votes from the sons and daughters and the grandsons and granddaughters of the old "rebel crew." to turn a Southern state or two into the Republican column—a hope which in all probability will prove vain.

Tammany Hall and the "crime breeding" big cities is the spectre dangled by the G. O. P.

DOWN WITH REPUBLICAN TREASON

By NEVAL H. THOMAS
Washington, D. C.

The following burning denunciation of the Republican Party is from the pen of Mr. Neval H. Thomas. Mr. Thomas is the militant president of the Washington N. A. A. C. P., and although a teacher in the Washington schools has attracted national attention by his strenuous fights on segregation in the Federal government and all forms of race prejudice. News

Mr. Thomas came out flat-footed sometime ago for Governor Smith because he recognized the only way to bring the Republican party to its senses as far as the Negro is concerned is to defeat it at the polls. The only way to do that is to vote for Governor Smith.

"No political party will worry over the ills of any group if it can count upon its support without it. Politicians look after the interests of those who can raise them to power and punish them for broken promises. Had the Negro race divided its vote at the first Republican betrayal in 1877, it never would have been disfranchised. Both parties would have been in rivalry for his vote, and he could have traded it for the fullest citizenship. 10-13-28

Instead, he continued to vote for the shades and memories of Lincoln, Sumner, and Frederick Douglas, as he has been until recent years, until that party has bartered away nearly every right which his Fathers won. That party has kept us fighting Democrats, and keeping them out of power since the Civil War, and then made a separate peace with them, and left us out in the cold. Danville

The Republican has been charged with sins of Omission, and they stand in criminal guilt of that charge. The South, and all of its hellishness could not stand a day were it not for Republican treachery. The South has never taken a step against us that did not find t he Republican party in control of the White House, the Supreme Court, and both houses of Congress, and it never did a single thing to protect us. So, they stand guilty of all of the ills we suffer, for they could have protected us from all of them, and they would have if we had revolted long ago.

But worse, they are not only guilty of "acts of Omission." They stand convicted of the most heinous acts of COMMISSION. They have lent the Supreme Court to the cause of Negro enslavement, for it has scrapped the 14th and 15th Amendments by legalizing the Jim Crow Car, disfranchisement, and nearly every other assault the white South has made against these two bulwarks of liberty whose unmistakable purpose and intent were the destruction of all color distinctions. Only this last December, I sat in the Supreme Court only to hear Chief Justice Taft, standing where Taney stood exactly seventy years before, and deliver the Dred Scott Decision of the twentieth century legalizing segregation in education—a blighting blow to millions unborn.

I appeared before committees of both the Senate and House during the long fight for the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill, and saw from the Senate gallery the most wicked farce ever perpetr[illegible] upon a people to euchre it out of its deserts.

Lodge from Massachusetts was Senate leader, and the Republican had the unprecedented majority of twenty (20), yet that party made a deal with the South to let it speak, conduct a fake filibuster a little while, and then have its Republican leader rise and announce complete surrender. It was a pink tea arranged with the South in which every actor was to recite his little part, and one which could not fool a baby. That very session of the Senate saw nine hundred bills written into legislation, yet it could not get through the one designed to save the Nation and civilization itself.

It invented Segregation under Taft, and carried it to its greatest extent under Harding and Coolidge. It swept the South of officeholders under Taft, and now has even cleaned up the National Committee. All of these late years the Negro members of National Committee have been forced to name white men and often Democrats, to federal posts in Georgia and Missis-

Political 1928 Republican.

Party Affiliation.

HOOVER CEMENTS VOTES OF NEGROES

Effect Of Speech In Tennessee Seen As Ten-Strike By Kent

By RUSSELL KENT
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON Oct. 10—Whatever else Herbert Hoover may have accomplished by his Tennessee speech on Saturday he finally cemented the negro vote of the border and northern states to his banner. 10-11-28

The choice as his introducer of Alfred A. Taylor one of the few Southern men in Congress to support the Lodge force bill was a clean stroke with the negro voters. Former Governor Taylor was one of the Southern Republicans whom the Southern-Tammany alliance fighting the Force bill in 1890 hoped to win over to the opposition, but Taylor stood with Lodge. As the Force bill passed the House by a vote of 155 to 149, a margin of only six votes, it can be understood how important the votes of Taylor and the other Southern Republicans were. True, the Force bill was killed in the Senate by a filibuster but the House did its part and the active negro organizations have always been grateful to Alf Taylor. It pleased them tremendously to see Mr. Hoover choose Taylor out of all the distinguished citizens of Tennessee for the honor of introducing him.

The negro leaders have been rallying to the Hoover banner for weeks. The statement of Oscar De Priest, negro Republican nominee for Congress from Illinois, that the election of Mr. Hoover meant the enforcement of all Constitutional amendments, was reassuring to negroes, who have been anxious to obtain legislation bringing about the Federal enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments.

They were still further reassured, when Representative Leonidia C. Dyer, Republican, Missouri, in an interview declared that the Dyer anti-lynching bill taking punishment for lynchings out of state and putting them into Federal courts, would surely pass in the next Congress. Dyer was a delegate to the Kansas City convention and a strong Hoover supporter.

There are two reasons for Dyer's optimism. Despite the fact that his bill has twice been defeated. The bill was never defeated on a clear-cut vote. Once it was defeated because the entire Democratic membership fled from the House and broke a quorum. That was in the Harding administration. The next time it was defeated in the Senate on a filibuster.

But the G. O. P. feels sure that if Governor Smith is defeated this time a wedge will be driven in the Southern-Tammany Democratic combination, which not only defeated the Force bills, but also defeated the anti-lynching bill of the Harding-Coolidge administration. In other words, if Smith can be defeated the Republicans surely will add to their majority in Congress. Neither Dyer nor any other Republican knows that Tammany would fail to stand by the South as it has stood by it since reconstruction days, but they assume that if the election is lost to the Democrats through the loss of a Southern state, Tammany hardly would keep up her end of the ancient combination.

Hope For Change.

The other hope of the Dyer bill proponents is that a reform can be brought about in Senate rules making filibusters impossible. The Senate reform of rules sought by Vice-President Dawes has its good points, but it has been fought by the Southern senators on the grounds that it would make it impossible to filibuster to death Force bills and anti-lynching bills and similar negro-vote-catching measures which are attempted periodically by the G. O. P.

The Republican managers have concentrated on an effort to bring about a rift between the South and Tammany. The fact that Tammany Hall was the one place where the Southern Democrats could find a welcome on Northern soil in 1868 and was, therefore, the meeting place of the Democratic National Convention of that year, is a little too far back for the bulk of the present generation to know much about.

Even the imaginary issue of prohibition has caused thousands of Southern voters to forget that "the guarding of the portal of the Southern white man's doors," has been one of the reasons for the existence of the national Democratic party.

The Republican party, the leaders of which forty years ago were telling the nation that "Tammany Hall and the rebel crew (the South) have won their last victory, (the first election of Cleveland,) now has sent its candidate South to make in plain and unmistakble terms a plea for the divorcement of the Southern-Eastern Democratic alliance, the alliance which defeated the Force bill.

"I, with other Americans, have perhaps unduly resented the stream of criticism of American life, the stature and character of our people," Mr. Hoover said. "More particularly have I resented the sneers at Main Street—in no other country does there exist the intelligence, the devotion and the probity and ability to rise to a great emergency that exists in the Main Street of the American town and village.*History shows that crowded cities too often breed injustices and crimes, misery and suffering."

These sentences and the paragraphs near the end of Mr. Hoover's address fit into the plans made by the Republican National Committee immediately after Governor Smith's nomination to arouse the prejudice of the rural communities against New York City, because it is the residence of Governor Smith. The chief newspaper propagandists of the G. O. P. have insisted that the contest this year really was one between the large cities and Main Street of the smaller communities.

Forty years ago the Republican battle cry in the West was to "Down Tammany Hall and the Rebel Crew." Today the "rebel crew" part of it is dropped for in the fiercely burning controversy over an imaginary prohibition issue, added to the religious controversy, the G. O. P. hopes to obtain enough votes from the sons and daughters and the grandsons and granddaughters of the old "rebel crew." to turn a Southern state or two into the Republican column—a hope which in all probability will prove vain.

Tammany Hall and the "crime breeding" big cities is the spectre dangled by the G. O. P.

DOWN WITH REPUBLICAN TREASON

By NEVAL H. THOMAS
Washington, D. C.

The following burning denunciation of the Republican Party is from the pen of Mr. Neval H. Thomas. Mr. Thomas is the militant president of the Washington N. A. A. C. P., and although a teacher in the Washington schools has attracted national attention by his strenuous fights on segregation in the Federal government and all forms of race prejudice. News

Mr. Thomas came out flat-footed sometime ago for Governor Smith because he recognized the only way to bring the Republican party to its senses as far as the Negro is concerned is to defeat it at the polls. The only way to do that is to vote for Governor Smith.

"No political party will worry over the ills of any group if it can count upon its support without it. Politicians look after the interests of those who can raise them to power and punish them for broken promises. Had the Negro race divided his vote at the first Republican betrayal in 1877, it never would have been disfranchised. Both parties would have been in rivalry for his vote, and he could have traded it for the fullest citizenship. 10-13-28

Instead, he continued to vote for the shades and memories of Lincoln, Sumner, and Frederick Douglas, as he has been until recent years, until that party has bartered away nearly every right which his Fathers won. That party has kept us fighting Democrats, and keeping them out of power since the Civil War, and then made a separate peace with them, and left us out in the cold.

The Republican has been charged with sins of Omission, and they stand in criminal guilt of that charge. The South, and all of its hellishness could not stand a day were it not for Republican treachery. The South has never taken a step against us that did not find t he Republican party in control of the White House, the Supreme Court, and both houses of Congress, and it never did a single thing to protect us. So, they stand guilty of all of the ills we suffer, for they could have protected us from all of them, and they would have if we had revolted long ago.

But worse, they are not only guilty of "acts of Omission." They stand convicted of the most heinous acts of COMMISSION. They have lent the Supreme Court to the cause of Negro enslavement, for it has scrapped the 14th and 15th Amendments by legalizing the Jim Crow Car, disfranchisement, and nearly every other assault the white South has made against these two bulwarks of liberty whose unmistakable purpose and intent were the destruction of all color distinctions. Only this last December, I sat in the Supreme Court only to hear Chief Justice Taft, standing where Taney stood exactly seventy years before, and deliver the Dred Scott Decision of the twentieth century legalizing segregation in education—a blighting blow to millions unborn.

I appeared before committees of both the Senate and House during the long fight for the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill, and saw from the Senate gallery the most wicked farce ever perpetrated upon a people to euchre it out of its deserts.

Lodge from Massachusetts was Senate leader, and the Republican had the unprecedented majority of twenty (20), yet that party made a deal with the South to let it speak, conduct a fake filibuster a little while, and then have its Republican leader rise and announce complete surrender. It was a pink tea arranged with the South in which every actor was to recite his little part, and one which could not fool a baby. That very session of the Senate saw nine hundred bills written into legislation, yet it could not get through the one designed to save the Nation and civilization itself.

It invented Segregation under Taft, and carried it to its greatest extent under Harding and Coolidge. It swept the South of officeholders under Taft, and now has even cleaned up the National Committee. All of these late years the Negro members of National Committee have been forced to name white men and often Democrats, to federal posts in Georgia and Missis-

WILL NATIONAL REPUBLICAN LEADERS ACT IN TEXAS SITUATION?

(EDITORIAL)

With the apparent intention on the part of Texas Republican leaders of ignoring and completely failing or refusing to organize more than 100,000 qualified Republican voters in Texas, presumably on the grounds that they are Negroes and their activity for the Hoover-Curtis ticket might alienate some of the Hoover-Democrats, The Informer, the first newspaper in Texas to advocate the Republican nomination of the former secretary of commerce for the presidency, wonders if the Colored Voters' Division, directed by John R. Hawkins of Washington, D. C.—with such able advisors as Emmett Jay Scott, former Texan; Editor Robert Vann of Pittsburgh, Claude A. Barnett of Chicago, Albon L. Holsey of Alabama, Roscoe C. Simmons of Chicago, Benjamin J. Davis of Georgia, Homer G. Phillips of St. Louis, and other party notables—is going to sit supinely by and permit this large bloc of votes to go by default in the impending presidential election.

While The Informer is fully aware of the policy pursued by the Republican national committee of not "dabbling" into party politics in the several states (leaving the matter of state organization and activity largely up to party leaders in the states), this paper wonders if the ntional party leaders would adopt this "hands off" policy in a pivotal or determinative state, if the same situation obtained as now exists in Texas.

In a recent published statement, Hon. Thomas B. Love of Dallas, one of the Hoover-Democratic leaders in Texas, stated that fully 250,000 Democrats would desert the party standard in this state and cast their ballots for the Hoover-Curtis ticket at the general election; and a travel over the state will convince the most skeptical that Texas is a real battle-ground as far as the 1928 presidential race is concerned.

GRANTING THAT THESE FIGURES ARE CONSERVATIVE, AND THAT THERE ARE ABOUT 100,000 WHITE REPUBLICANS IN TEXAS. GIVING THE STATE APPROXIMATELY 350,000 VOTES AT THIS STAGE OF THE GAME OUT OF A POSSIBLE 800,000, A PERSON DOES NOT HAVE TO BE AN EXPERT AT MATHEMATICS TO READILY SEE THAT THE 100,000 TO 125,000 ADDITIONAL NEGRO VOTES WILL BE THE DECIDING FACTOR IN SUCH A CLOSE RACE.

Of course, due allowance must be made for the large number of Democrats who, being unable to stomach either Governor Smith or Mr. Hoover, will find it convenient to absent themselves from the polls on election day; and it is our guess that fully 100,000 or more will refuse to vote for presidential electors of either ticket.

This reduces the customary Democratic majority in this state, and tends to narrow the race down to the point where 75,000 to 100,000 votes will determine the presidential result in what has previously been regarded and considered as the "banner Democratic state of the union."

THE SMITH-DEMOCRATIC LEADERS IN THIS STATE HAVE BECOME ALARMED AND FRANTIC, AND ARE CONDUCTING THEIR TRADITIONAL CAMPAIGN OF APPEALING TO THE RACE HATRED AND PREJUDICE OF WHITE CITIZENS TO "STAND BY" THE DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE; EVEN ARGUING, AT LEAST BY INFERENCE, THAT PARTY IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN COUNTRY, AND THAT A MAN'S FIRST DUTY IS TO HIS PARTY, RATHER THAN TO HIS HOME AND HIS COUNTRY, AS WE HAVE ALWAYS BEEN TAUGHT.

The Informer is not suggesting that Chairman Work attempt to convert the Republican party leaders in Texas (for such a task is hardly possible or probable), but this paper is unable to discern where any objection could be raised by partisan leaders in Texas to the Colored Voters' Division lending tangible and definite assistance to the colored Republicans of this state in an organized endeavor to poll the full voting strength of this group at the election Tuesday, November 6, 1928.

It was or is our understanding that the purpose of this organization is to get out the vote for the presidential ticket in all sections of the country, being national both in scope and activity.

Furthermore, if the Colored Voters' Division does not have plenary power in such partisan situations, where their activity could not, by any stretch of the imagination, be considered directive or officious, The Informer would lke to know what functions the race division possesses and just what its real status is.

IF THE PRESENT POLICY OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN TEXAS OF EXCLUDING AND OSTRACISING THE THOUSANDS OF COLORED VOTERS HAS THE OFFICIAL STAMP OF APPROVAL OF CANDIDATE HERBERT HOOVER, CHAIRMEN HUBERT WORK, JOHN R. HAWKINS AND OTHER NATIONAL PARTY LEADERS OF BOTH RACES, THE INFORMER AND 100,000 OR MORE NEGRO VOTERS OF TEXAS WOULD LIKE TO BE SO INFORMED BEFORE THE GENERAL ELECTION

It is utter folly and stupidity to sit idly by and expect the dissatisfied and disgruntled Hoover-Democrats to "carry" Texas for the Republican presidential ticket; and, furthermore, these Democrats are telling the world that they are only supporting the Republican presidential ticket and are not the least bit concerned in building up a Republican state, district or county organization.

WHAT WILL THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL LEADERS, PARTICULARLY JOHN R. HAWKINS AND HIS COLORED VOTERS' DIVISION, DO ABOUT THE NEGRO SITUATION IN TEXAS? WILL THEY SEEK TO CORRAL THESE VOTES, OR PERMIT THEM TO EITHER GO BY DEFAULT OR LAND IN THE SMITH-ROBINSON COLUMN?

DR. E. C. CLEMENTS, STATE G. O. P. COMMITTEEMAN, IGNORES HOMER PHILLIPS, ORGANIZER

Committeeman Quoted as Saying He Wants None of Phillips and His Workers in the State

SAINT LOUIS.—A rift between Dr. E. C. Clements, Republican national committeeman from Missouri and Homer G. Phillips, organizer in charge of colored Republican work in western states, with headquarters in Chicago, is becoming more apparent here.

Clements has approved the appointment of Judge Crittenden Clark as head of the men's division in the state; Mrs. Mamie O. Trice as head of the women's division and Mrs. Willa Pollard Allen, all of whom were appointed by the state committee. B. F. Adams, appointed by Phillips as state organizer for Missouri, displeases Dr. Clements who says that he "wants it distinctly understood that neither Homer G. Phillips or any of his crowd is wanted in the state of Missouri and that this state wants only bona fide Republicans to carry on the work or some one who has been a Republican in the last four years."

Over long distance telephone yesterday afternoon, Mr. Phillips made the following statement:

"I have done no more in Missouri than I have been doing in nineteen other western states. I have appointed organizers in them as part of the program of the Western Division of the National committee. I have put men and women to work. B. F. Adams has been at work in Missouri. He was appointed by me only after conference with the newly elected state chairman, B. G. Voorhies, the conference taking place in Jefferson City on the day when the state committee met and he was elected chairman. At the same time and place I conferred with George Wagner who is in charge of organization in Missouri. The matter was referred by Mr. Voorhies to Mr. Wagner and I made the appointment.

"Mr. Adams has been at work. I have only this day received from him his report showing that he organized a Hoover-Curtis club at Lexington Tuesday night and another at Richmond last night. This makes twenty-seven clubs in all which he has organized for Hoover and Curtis in Missouri.

"I am too busy to make answer to anything Dr. Clements may say."

Political- 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

COURIER
CAMDEN, N. J.

AUG 4 1928

TEXAS AND G. O, P. HOPES

Having pointed out to the Republican party e'er this that it would do well to concentrate on the east and abandon any considerable hope of success in the deep south, this newspaper receives the results of the recent Democratic primary in Texas as another proof of this contention.

The gentleman who bears the alluring name of Love, and who based his candidacy for lieutenant-governor of Texas almost exclusively on the pledge that he would not vote for Governor Smith for president, was badly beaten by Barry Miller, who is willing to take the Democratic presidential nominee as he finds him.

Governor Dan Moody, who didn't like Smith at the time of the Houston convention but who, like Miller, has accepted the convention's verdict as he found it, received more than TEN TIMES THE VOTE CAST FOR ANY OF THE PRIMARY CANDIDATES WHO HAVE BOLTED SMITH.

The significance of this is that the Republican hopes for breaking into the "solid south" were directed principally upon Texas. If they hoped to carry any of the states of the deep south—which does not, of course, include the border states—it was believed that Texas would be the one. Surely the primary should serve to demonstrate the futility of that hope.

We predict again that the deep south, while disliking Smith, will vote for him. In that section it is a battle of prejudice.

The south has violent prejudices on prohibition and religion but it has a prejudice even more violent against the Negroes, who are Republicans.

We condemn, of course, all three prejudices, but we also recognize their existence, and we believe the racial prejudice offsets the other two.

The time will come when the increasingly industrial south will see the light and vote for its expected benefits instead of its outworn prejudices.

But that time is not yet.

PRESS
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

AUG 3 1928

Says Negroes Scorn G. O. P.

Lightfoot Tells of Sentiment at Political Conference Here

IGNORED, THEY CLAIM

James A. Lightfoot, Negro attorney and politician, has issued to the press an account of what he says is a conference of Negro political leaders in Atlantic City. He says they are dissatisfied with republican treatment of the race and refused to make any endorsements, either of Hoover, Kean, or Larson.

His statement follows in part:

"Among the colored vot, 'there is confusion,' unrest, dissatisfaction. There are many reasons for it. Some of them are as follows:

"The Negro has not been allotted a single position by party appointment of any consequence for the past four years—not one.

"It is true that Oliver P. Randolph, of Newark, is an assistant United States district attorney, but no one would ever know it. He holds the position in name only. Randolph, himself would not know it, but for the fact that he draws his salary check.

"The selection, by the white leaders, of Dr. Walter Alexander, of Orange, as one of the delegates-at-large to the last national conference, was against the recommendation and wishes of the colored vote, and they have not gotten over it.

"The New Jersey Negro is incensed at the treatment accorded the delegates of color from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Georgia at the past national convention, and they charge both President Coolidge and Mr. Hoover with the responsibility for the credentials committee's action, and further feel that the decisions were actuated by nothing less that to carry favor with the lily-whites of Dixieland.

"They further charge that the same catering to southern sentiment by the administration is responsible for attacks and prosecution of Den Davis, of Georgia, and Perry Howard, of Mississippi. It is stressed that Cohen was the only one of the regularly elected delegates of the Louisiana delegation accorded a seat, and that the same was true of Robert Chuch, of Tennessee.

"They charge that the administration has done nothing to relieve segregation in the government departments at Washington; and that Mr. Coolidge, as his predecessor, the late Mr. Harding, has been content to place his stamp of approval on the policy of segregation inaugurated under President Wilson.

"As for Mr. Hoover, while recognizing his great humanitarian work throughout the world, it is charged that he permitted the rankest discrimination to be shown towards Negroes in the Mississippi flood relief work; that an almost peonage system insofar as Negroes were concerned, was permitted by him during that relief work. And while they give him some credit for wiping out segregation in his department as secretary of labor, it is stressed that this was done some two months prior to the national convention the past June.

"All the foregoing points were vehemently stressed at a conference of Negro voters of New Jersey, held in this city Thursday, July 26, when more than one hundred leading Negro republicans, representing the state's twenty-one counties, met here at the call of Attorney Isaac H. Nutter, who presided as chairman of the meeting, and Attorney Lightfoot, who was secretary of the conference. The meeting was largely attended by women, who were more caustic in their denunciation of the policies of the party than their brother male delegates.

"While the conference did not go on record for Governor Smith, singularly enough it refused absolutely to endorse Mr. Hoover for the presidency; and not content with this, it also withheld its endorsement of Senator Larsen and Hamilton F. Kean, republican candidates for governor and United States senator respectively.

"The conference adjourned to meet the second week in August at Atlantic City, the date to be fixed by the executive committee, at which time every voting district in the state will be represented by its delegates. Then will be decidd what course the Ngro will tak."

EVE. UNION
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

SAYS NEGROES WILL NOT VOTE G. O. P. TICKET

Lightfoot States Colored Race Ill-Treated at Political Confab Here

CONFUSION EXISTS

Claiming that the Negro members of the G. O. P. have been treated unfairly by that party, James A. Lightfoot, prominent colored attorney and politician in this city, announced in a statement to the Press-Union that the colored voters would not support Hoover, Kean or Larson. This statement, he explained, came after a conference with colored leaders of Atlantic City.

His statement follows in part:

"Among the colored voters 'there is confusion,' unrest, dissatisfaction. There are many reasons for it. Some of them are as follows:

"The Negro has not been allotted a single position by party appointment of any consequence for the past four years—not one.

"It is true that Oliver P. Randolph, of Newark, is an assistant United States district attorney, but no one would ever know it. He holds the position in name only. Randolph, himself would not know it, but for the fact that he draws his salary check.

"The selection, by the white leaders, of Dr. Walter Alexander, of Orange, as one of the delegates-at-large to the last national conference, was against the recommendation and wishes of the colored vote, and they have not gotten over it.

"The New Jersey Negro is incensed at the treatment accorded the delegates of color from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Georgia at the past national convention, and they charge both President Coolidge and Mr. Hoover with the responsibility for the credentials committee's action, and further feel that the decisions were actuated by nothing less that to carry favor with the lily-whites of Dixieland.

"They further charge that the same catering to southern sentiment by the administration is responsible for attacks and prosecutions of Ben Davis, of Georgia and Perry Howard, of Mississippi. It is stressed that Cohen was the only one of the regularly elected delegates of the Louisiana delegation accorded a seat, and that the same was true of Robert Chuch, of Tennessee.

"They charge that the administration has done nothing to relieve segregation in the government departments at Washington; and that Mr. Coolidge, as his predecessor, the late Mr. Harding, has been content to place his stamp of approval on the policy of segregation inaugurated under President Wilson.

"As for Mr. Hoover, while recognizing his great humanitarian work throughout the world, it is charged that he permitted the rankest discrimination to be shown towards Negroes in the Mississippi flood relief work; that an almost peonage system insofar as Negroes were concerned, was permitted by him during that relief work. And while they give him some credit for wiping out segregation in his department as secretary of labor, it is stressed that this was done some two months prior to the national convention the past June.

"All the foregoing points were vehemently stressed at a conference of Negro voters of New Jersey, held in this city Thursday, July 26, when more than one hundred leading Negro republicans, representing the state's twenty-one counties, met here at the call of Attorney Isaac H. Nutter, who presided as chairman of the meeting, and Attorney Lightfoot, who was secretary of the conference. The meeting was largely attended by women, who were more caustic in their denunciation of the policies of the party than their brother male delegates.

"While the conference did not go on record for Governor Smith, singularly enough it refused absolutely to endorse Mr. Hoover for the presidency; and not content with this, it also withheld its endorsement of Senator Larsen and Hamilton F. Kean, republican candidates for governor and United States senator respectively.

"The conference adjourned to meet the second week in August at Atlantic City, the date to be fixed by the executive committee, at which time every voting district in the state will be represented by its delegates. Then will be decided what course the Negro will take."

POST
WASHINGTON, D. C.

AUG 5 1928

Attitude of Colored Voters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just concluded reading Mr. Bargeron's article in which he outlines the plan of campaign to be conducted among the colored voters of the country by the political management of the Republican party. I have this to say, that if the Republican leaders between campaigns would give one-tenth as much attention to the colored vote as they so ostentatiously exhibit upon the eve of the greatest political struggle since 1896, their sincerity and good faith might not be questioned.

There are 15,000,000 colored people within the United States, nearly three times as many people as compose the present Austrian nation since its dismemberment. They are contributing their share in the productive power of the United States, and yet the Republican leaders have so manipulated the political situation that they have "jockeyed" every colored man in the Nation out of individual political power. There isn't a single one left with anything like the power formerly exerted by Frederick Douglass, B. K. Bruce and Booker T. Washington.

A Republican Senate refused to confirm Walter Cohen, of Louisiana, and had it not been for Robert M. La Follette, the Progressive, and David I. Walsh, Democratic senator of Massachusetts, Mr. Cohen's name would have been rejected for the third time.

Senator Walsh got on a train and traveled 500 miles to reach the Senate in time to put over Mr. Cohen's confirmation, while Republican senators stood by and cynically voted against him. Mr. Cohen is the last colored Republican in the South holding a distinguished political appointment.

I wish furthermore to say that former Chief Justice White, of the Supreme Court of the United States, himself a Southern Democrat, gave colored America its first judicial victories before that tribunal. From the Dred Scott case to the appointment of Mr. Justice White, all of our cases were lost before that tribunal, and we did not begin to get favorable decisions until this great jurist appeared in the seat of judicial power.

I intend to support in this campaign the most brilliant gubernatorial officer in America—Alfred E. Smith, for three reasons:

(a) I am tired of Republican humbuggery.

(b) Gov. Smith has given the Nation a clear-cut referendum on the prohibition folly.

(c) His election will give no encouragement to the gallant gentlemen of the Klan.

THOMAS H. R. CLARKE.

Correspondent Sees Danger of United States Being Imposed Upon by European Diplomacy When New Kellogg Treaties for Renunciation of War Are Put Into Effect, Believing Cancellation of War Debts Ultimate Aim of Foreign Statesmen.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

"Will you walk into my parlor?" said a spider to a fly;
"'Tis the prettiest little parlor that ever you did spy."

If Uncle Sam don't watch his step this is just where he is going to find himself—in the European parlor, with no way of escape.

The European statesmen and diplomatists, aided and abetted by the international bankers, have been obsessed with but two ideas ever since the World War, viz: Getting the United States into the League of Nations, and unloading upon the American people the whole financial costs of the war. They have pursued these purposes in season and out of season, and with a persistence, patience and cunning that excite wonder and admiration.

At times their efforts have been crude and above board, but more often they have taken the form of subtle propaganda directed with the greatest finesse, in which they have been aided by many of our people, and sometimes even by the blundering of our officials. Our officials, inspired either by domestic politics, or their own vanity to make reputations in international affairs, are continually doing something or proposing something that if realized will get us just into the position the Europeans want us in.

Now take the so-called Kellogg treaty to renounce war. The thing on its face seems innocent and harmless enough; but be assured that, when once adopted, propaganda will be started to devise some means to make it effective, that is, to make it something more than a mere negative declaration. In fact this has already been suggested. That wily old fox, Lord Cecil, in his eagerness at the great opportunity he foresees, forgot his usual caution and finesse, and just the other day suggested that when this treaty became effective some means would have to be adopted so that the World Court might interpret it, and pass upon the questions that are sure to arise under it.

This sounds logical enough, for many questions must necessarily arise out of this treaty, and some means must be devised for interpreting its scope and meaning, and settling any differences that are sure to arise among the signatories, if the thing is to have any value whatever and operate as a soothing syrup among the nations instead of an irritant. What more natural than that such questions be submitted to the already existing and experienced world court? Therefore at no distant time after the adoption of the Kellogg treaty we may look for proposals for a supplemental treaty to that end.

Having taken the first false step Uncle Sam can not with any grace resist this proposal because he initiated this treaty, and it is really his offspring, and to do so would disown his own child. Now the World Court was created by the treaty of Versailles, and in reality is part and parcel of the League of Nations. The council of the league elects its judges, and, if I mistake not, pays their salaries and the expenses of the court.

The only possible way we can get into this court is either by the front or the back door of the league; and the results and disastrous consequences to us will be the same which ever way we enter, for the cards are all stacked against us. This is the parlor into which we are being so ingratiatingly coaxed, and in which we will find ourselves in no time after adoption of the Kellogg treaty, or subject ourselves, if we stay out, to the execrations of Europe, and charges of bad faith, and being unworthy of being dealt with in international relations.

Once in, good-by to our Monroe Doctrine; and be assured that we will then be jockeyed into a position where we will have to submit to cancellation of all war debts ,and will find ourselves up to our neck in all the purely political affairs of Europe and the mere tool of their unscrupulous statesmen and diplomatists for the furtherance of their nefarious schemes.

ALEXANDER SIDNEY LANIER.

Post Classified Ads are on the job from morning until night.

Negroes Are Assured Equal Opportunities If Hoover Is Elected

Republican Nominee Manifests Great Interest in Problems of Negro in Their Struggle for Equal Rights and Opportunities.

Des Moines, Iowa, September 5. Negroes who are interested in the political advancement, as well as the general progress of the group, will do well to support the candidacy of the Republican nominee for the Presidency of the United States, according to a statement made here Wednesday by James B. Morris, local attorney and editor of the Iowa Bystander.

Mr. Morris, who attended the recent Hoover celebration at West Branch, interviewed Mr. Hoover following the mass meeting. The interview, which was arranged through the courtesy of Mr. H. E. Spangler, chairman of the Hoover Agricultural Conference committee, was entirely satisfactory, according to Mr. Morris, who declared "Hoover stands unequivocably for the enforcement of the entire Constitution of the United States and for equal opportunity for all American citizens."

"When asked his views on the so-called 'race question,," continued Mr. Morris, "Secretary Hoover stated: 'If elected President of the United States, the colored people can depend upon me to see that no backward steps are made in the aspirations to achieve their full share of the opportunities under the American government.'"

Mr. Hoover showed unusual interest in the problems faced by colored citizens in the effort to maintain their rights in this section and asked many pointed questions.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

HOOVER CHIEF NOW PLAYING WITH KU KLUX

Publicity Against Catholic, Negro, Jew Prepared In Col. Mann's Office

DISTRIBUTION IS MADE THRU KLAN NEWSPAPER

Col. Mann Is Hoover Aide In Charge Of Southern Campaign

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Afro Bureau)—The Republican party is conducting a campaign of bigotry in the South.

Notwithstanding the high-sounding declaration of Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican national committee when he assumed command that the Hoover campaign would be pitched on a high plane. It is playing with the Ku Klux Klan.

This discovery was made by two correspondents for daily newspapers when they visited the offices of Horace A. Mann in the Munsey building. Mr. Mann is seeking to lure disgruntled southern Democrats to the support of Mr. Hoover.

By Klan Organ

Publicity for southern newspapers appealing to racial and religious prejudices is being prepared in the offices of Mr. Mann, it is reported. This matter is distributed to the smaller newspapers in the South by the Fellowship Forum, a Klan organ.

There is nothing to show that the matrices, plates, cuts and publicity in other forms being distributed by the Fellowship Forum to small southern newspapers come from the Republican national committee. But Mr. Mann is working for the committee and the preparation of this matter in his office under his direction is conclusive proof that it has the sanction of the Republican committee.

Would Buck Solid South

The distribution of this propaganda by the Klan organ is a part of the scheme to break the "Solid South". The Hoover campaign management has been led to believe that there is a possibility of Republican success in Virginia, North Carolina and Florida.

The condition upon which this could be accomplished, however, was stated to be the elimination of the Negro from leadership in the party in southern states. Walter L. Cohen, Republican leader in Louisiana for quarter of a century, was deposed at the Kansas City convention. This was the first move to make the party in the South 'lily white'.

Perry Howard Next

Following swiftly upon the adjournment of the Kansas City convention, Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman for Mississippi, was indicted for alleged trafficking in Federal offices in his state. The Republican convention had already refused to confirm the selection of either Benjamin Jefferson Davis or Joseph H. Watson, both colored men, as national committeeman for Georgia.

The party having been stripped of its Negro leadership, the next move was the call of C. Bascom Slemp, one of the leaders of the 'lily white' movement, to headquarters for work in southern states.

Macon, Ga. Telegraph
Monday, July 23, 1928

Show the Authority

In an editorial in the Lyons Progress, Editor Moseley says:

> The Progress is happy to inform The Telegraph and other wet, Tammany, Al Smith papers in Georgia that the Republican electors in Georgia will be white men and white women. This information is based upon an authoritive statement obtained before we would attempt to deny the allegations made by The Telegraph, for we want to be sure of our stuff; we want to be honest and fair in this campaign.

To match Mr. Moseley's fairness, The Telegraph desires to make it clear that what it said about Negro electors was that the people of Georgia would have to vote for them this November if the Republican party follows its practice of the last 60 years. They have been on the ticket in Georgia and there does not appear to be any good reason, except cheap politics, for them not to be on this year.

The Telegraph would like to know, however, where Mr. Moseley got his information that they will not be on the ticket and where Henry Clay Davis got his information. Both profess to be in possession of information to that effect, but Mr. Hoover and Dr. Work, who are really the only ones in position to say so, have been as silent as Mr. Coolidge himself about it. Editor Moseley is in no better position to get such information than The Telegraph. He is or was—unless he has resigned in pursuit of his determination to be honest—secretary of the Democratic executive committee of Toombs county. He is now a demi-Republican, of course, since he is bolting, but it is hardly likely that Dr. Work would take so new a convert into his confidence.

It is entirely possible that there will not be Negro electors on the ticket, but if there are not to be, why does not someone in authority have the courage to say so? The present situation places Mr. Hoover in a bad light. He stands convicted of trying to play the Northern Negro and the Southern white bolter at the same time. If he intends to leave Negro electors off the ticket, he hasn't the courage to say so, because it would incur the enmity of Northern Negroes; if he intends to put them on, again he hasn't the courage to say so because he fears that prejudice will deprive him of strength he might have from the finicky Southern white bolters.

The point The Telegraph makes is that if the Negroes were good enough to represent Georgia at Kansas City and vote for Mr. Hoover there, they are good enough to vote for him in the electoral college and Mr. Hoover certainly would not be so cheap as to repudiate the overwhelming majority of the support the Republican party has always had in the South.

The Telegraph has not held the Negro up to scare or prejudice anybody. It has said as effectively as it knew how that the Republican party turned its organization in Georgia over to a Negro whose sale of patronage has made him a discredit to his race—to any race. So far as the public has been informed, the Republican leaders in authority—and Mr. Moseley and Mr. Davis have not exhibited credentials to show that they are—have retained Ben Davis in leadership. They have not openly repudiated him; they have not openly repudiated the patronage peddling. If he is not the National committeeman, who is? Who is exercising the function of that office? Who is dictating the patronage in Georgia now? Insofar as any public announcement is concerned, Ben Davis is the holdover National committeeman and is exercising the functions of the office. And insofar as any public announcement is concerned, the Republican electors for whom the people will vote in November, will include Negroes—and perhaps even Ben Davis—among their number. If any actual authority for controverting that statement exists, why are not Mr. Moseley and Mr. Davis able to cite it?

Until it is shown, The Telegraph will continue to doubt actuality of any such authority, preferring to believe that Mr. Hoover is not so little as to repudiate all the decent Negroes in Georgia who have voted the Republican ticket. Even if he does desire a cleanup of the situation and even if he does remove Ben Davis, he has no ground for keeping other Negroes off the electoral ticket except the ground of pandering to a prejudice of the malcontents of the Democratic party.

NEW YORK TIMES
AUG 3 1928

CANDIDATES AND POSITIONS.

Smith Has Stated Dry Law Stand, Hoover Is Non-Committal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Presidential campaign this year presents an exceptional opportunity to test basic character.

One candidate frankly tells the voters before and after his nomination for the highest office within their gift just what he believes and will advocate if elected. He does not equivocate, straddle or conceal—as seems fashionable with many candidates for office.

The other candidate is non-committal as to his personal and specific intentions if elected. His course is in line with traditional expediency on the part of candidates for office. But as this candidate was not even advised as to his own party affiliations only eight years ago—whether a Republican or Democrat—perhaps we should not yet expect him to have a matured conception of his personal views on a certain controverted issue which he termed a "fine experiment," or words to that effect.

The candidate who has frankly told the people what he believes and stands for has simply given the people an opportunity to say by their votes whether or not they favor his policy. Are not the voters entitled to this opportunity? Is the candidate to be blamed for the manhood that takes the voters into his confidence? This candidate is of the people, from the people, and to the people he frankly submits his cause. Although a member of the minority party in his native State, he has four times been honored by large majorities for Governor, and his integrity and statesmanship have won the highest praise from such eminent men as former Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes and former Senator Elihu Root—members of the opposition party and Americans of the highest type.

The other candidate has held only appointive offices, and has admittedly demonstrated high ability and integrity therein. In personal integrity and private life both candidates stand above suspicion or reproach—for which we may all be thankful.

But the frankness of one candidate in telling the people what he believes has drawn the fire of certain ministers and others who hold different views. One strange feature of this opposition is that it involves the assumption that even a suggested modification of the Volstead act is treason, nullification, &c. Under the Constitution and the laws, since when has it been treason to suggest changing the law? Was it any less treason to pass new amendments or laws, say ten or fifteen years ago, than now? The Constitution still carries its provisions for amendments. The people who authorized the Eighteenth Amendment still retain the right to change it. The Congress that passed the Volstead act had no sacred power to commit all future Congresses to that act—regardless of whether good or bad.

Clearly, the people have not surrendered the right or privilege to consider making new amendments or changing the Volstead act, doing so as provided by the law of the land.

The Civil War produced the negro amendments, and the World War the Eighteenth and the Volstead act. Other late amendments—income tax, popular election of Senators, woman suffrage — were rather peace-time measures. But the advocates of these various amendments were not charged with "treason," "nullification," &c.

Is not the present right of the people to seek new laws just as sacred and supreme today as during the times when each and all of the several amendments were made?

The pro-Volsteaders illogically charge those supporting modification as being "nullifiers." The great majority of the American people are temperate; opposed to the saloon and the bootleg traffic. And it may be true that a majority of the people—admittedly for temperance—honestly believe that the cause of temperance and law and order may be better served by modification of the beverage laws. Referenda in several widely separated States may, or may not, indicate this.

The Houston platform commits the nominee to honest enforcement of existing laws, but does not require either the party or the nominee to renounce the right to recommend changes of existing laws.

That Governor Smith entertains a scrupulous regard for his official oath was shown by the severest human test when the appeal of Mrs. Snyder, then under death sentence for the murder of her husband, was before Governor Smith for Executive clemency. Governor Smith said his personal sympathy for the woman in dire distress would extend clemency, but under his official oath as Governor the majesty of the law—not his personal feelings—must prevail.

Apropos of the ministerial attitude, the position of Bishop Warren Candler of Atlanta and Bishop Collins Denny of Richmond shows restraining grace in opposing the efforts to scramble the Church and politics—a mixture not likely to improve the quality of either ingredient. These eminent Christian leaders of Southern Methodism are religious statesmen.

The Administration of Governor Smith has been notable for many constructive measures which have endeared him to the people and also won the support of a Republican Legislature and the friendship of men in all ranks of life.

Ripe in governmental experience, tested and honored, Governor Smith, the child of the people, the idol of the people, will restore the Government at Washington to the people, for the people—all the people.

And the candidate who has gone direct to the people with a definite policy for their approval or rejection, with the Presidency in the balance, has displayed an innate strength of character and honesty not excelled anywhere in civil life.

CHAS. M. ALDERSON.

Houston, Texas, July 28, 1928.

RECORD

Spencer - W Va

AUG 2 1928

REPUBLICANS TO COUNT ON NEGRO VOTE NOV. 6

Explanation Made That Alfred Taylor, Gubernatorial Candidate Tried To Get "Jim Crow" Law Into Effect in This State as Late as 1921.

Political observers, following developments in West Virginia's November battle for ballots, are viewing with keen interest the bid Democratic leaders are making for the colored vote in this state. For the past several weeks a quiet and subtle campaign has been underway and overtures have been made to leaders of the colored race with the hope of prying those votes from the Republican column and thereby reducing the heavy margin now enjoyed by the majority party.

The Republican chieftians however are not becoming apprehensive or alarmed. The have decided to wage their campaign entirely upon the record of the party and the past record of their nominees and regard the outcome with confidence. They believe that the colored race is familiar with the beneficial legislation the Republican party has sponsored in its behalf in the past and will not be "hoodwinked" into deserting the party that has so long rendered them helpful assistance.

In connection the return of Henry D. Hatfield, of Huntington, senatorial nominee, as titular head of the party is proving an important factor, for the legislation enacted during his administration as governor, in behalf of the colored race, proved the most constructve of any administration before or since, and included among other outstanding achievements the establishment of West Virginia Collegiate Institute and educational measures that gave the colored youths of the state the same educational opportunity that was enjoyed by the white youths.

The fact that J. Alf Taylor, Democratic nominee for governor while a member of the house of delegates from Fayette county during the session of 1921, introduced a bill to segregate colored and white passengers on all railroads in West Virginia, is also regarded by Republican leaders as seriously hampering the efforts of Democratic chiefs to win the colored votes.

"Jim Crowism" Out of Date

It is generally conceded that "Jim Crowism" went out of date in West Virginia with the Civil war and observers of things political are speculating on the manner in which the Democratic leaders can justify their bid for colored votes in view of their gubernatorial nominee harboring anti-colored sentiments when a member of the legislature seven years ago.

No great exodus of colored votes from the support of General William G. Conley, Republican nominee for Governor, is expected by Republican leaders and they are confident that the great mass of these votes will remain steadfast in support of the Republican ticket in November.

Mr. Taylor's bill was short lived, for the legislature of 1921 was overwhelmingly Republican, and the measure, introduced on January 25, 1921, was referred to the committee on railroads, where it died the painless death of "pigeon-hole" doom. Designed to "promote the comfort of passengers on railroad trains," House Bill No. 425, which Nominee Taylor sponsored, provided:

JOURNAL
MILWAUKEE, WISC.

AUG 1 1928

Side Doors for Negro Votes

There are two sets of Republican campaign headquarters in Washington. One is the regular affair where everybody comes and goes. But special rooms have been provided for Bascom Slemp and his associates, appointed to work with such southern Democrats as may follow the lead of Bishop Cannon and other churchmen and prohibition workers in revolt against the Democratic candidate. For it is thought tactful that these southerners shall not come in contact with southern negroes who come and go at regular headquarters.

Even that does not solve all the problem. There was the story of Mrs. Booze, negro committeewoman from Mississippi who had accepted the general invitation to Republican committeewomen to meet in conference with Mrs. Alvin Hert, and had not realized that this was a very particular conference, with pictures to be taken and a fashionable luncheon following. It was all very difficult for Mrs. Hert, who is from Kentucky, and for Mrs. Booze. But presently the negro woman plead her "previous engagement," and the luncheon was saved.

We are so far from even meeting our problem of races, to say nothing to solving it. The south likes the negro, but cannot think of letting him vote. The north likes his vote, but arranges a side door for meeting him socially—sends him tactfully away from really social functions, with a new sense of bitterness and frustration.

Houston, Tex., Post
Thursday, July 26, 1928

WHITE MISSISSIPPI—

In spite of the wishes of Herbert Hoover and the "equal rights" howling of Perry Howard, Mississippi will not accept the negro as the equal of the white.

Two weeks ago Perry Howard issued a biggity, bellicose statement in which he bragged that his black and tan delegates to the Grand Oil Party's convention had been seated by Hoover adherents. Loudly he proclaimed the recent ruling abolishing segregation of whites and blacks in Hoover's department to be "the most forward step of any cabinet member in recent years," adding that no member of "our race group" can fail to support the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

Thus the Republican party, through Howard, its recogniezd agent, is placing the approaching presidential campaign in Mississippi on a purely race basis. Knowing that it has offended what few white supporters it had here, it now looks to the blacks for ballots.

An emphatic reply was not long coming. Within six days after Howard's braggadocian blunder three members of his race in his home state had been shot, dragged, and strung to trees, whereas in the six months preceding not one black, no matter what his crime, had been so treated. From the state's west line, where at Clarnsdale one black was severely handled for attempting to knife two white boys, to its east, where at Hattiesburg four were seriously injured in a race fight, came warning evidences that the work of Reconstruction days is not to be undone.

Howard and Hoover are neither statesmen nor friends of the negro, if they persist in their efforts to push him prematurely into a place he cannot fill, and in which the state's white Democracy will steadfastly refuse to accord him recognition.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

Dr. I. Garland Penn Sees Rocks Ahead

Editor of The New York Age:

I am intensely interested in the success of the Republican ticket and the dry cause. I am, however, seeing rocks ahead if the Republican Party attempts what seems to me to be extreme and sacrificing methods of ending the power of Negro leaders in high party councils as in the case of Perry W. Howard.

I like the straightforward, honest to goodness statement of Howard in the Negro press, and think it ought to be taken at full face value until otherwise proven.

Then, too, your view expressed in your editorial in issue of July 21 entitled "A Queer Southern Alliance," is exactly my view of the case.

Would have you cut out ten of these editorials and mail to me as per enclosed stamped envelop? I enclose stamps to cover cost. I have already used one of your editorials to good effect, and will use others when received.

I feel sure you will follow this up. You are always doing big things for our people. Your fight for the Dry Cause in New York is great.

I. GARLAND PENN

Austin, Texas.

Militant Brooklyn Minister Says Negroes Should Not Support Smith

Pledges $200 Towards the Support of Any Colored Man Selected to Run for Congress in Harlem in Coming Campaign

Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Harten, national organizer of the National Equal Rights League and pastor of the Holy Trinity Baptist Church, held an after-church mass meeting Sunday. It was surprising to know how the news spread, for the meeting was only announced after the morning service, and in spite of the hot weather a large number of white and colored people gathered to hear what this militant pastor and race champion had to say.

After the sermon, which was delivered by Rev. John Percy, a member of Holy Trinity and a student at the Virginia Theological Seminary, Rev. Harten "rolled up his sleeves," so to speak, and delivered a very strong address relative to racial and political matters.

8-8-28

He said, "Anybody can talk, but action is the thing that counts today. I've called you here to both think and act. The Republican party, the party of our fathers, was founded upon justice and fair play; but today it seems that the great principles of human rights are forgotten by the grand old party, while a few of our Negro leaders play to the howling mob without making the proper demand for our citizenship rights. On the other hand, the Democratic party gave birth for the purpose of keeping the black man down, and the Democratic South is just as much opposed today to the Negro receiving his citizenship rights as it was 60 years ago."

"To my mind Governor Smith is one of the most dangerous men when it comes to the black man ever nominated. I'm opposed to Governor Smith, and feel that every right-thinking and race-loyal Negro ought to be. I'm not opposed to Governor Smith because he is a Catholic. According to the Constitution of this country he has as much right to be a Catholic as I have to be a Baptist. There are men of the Catholic faith I would vote for a President, but not for Al Smith. I'm not opposed to him because he is a Democrat. I'm opposed to him because he is not the type of a Democrat as ex-Mayor John Hylan, who is one of the greatest friends of our race New York City or State ever had in public office. Nor is he the type of a Democrat like ex-Governor, at present U. S. Senator from Massachusetts, David R. Walsh, who is also a Catholic. I'm opposed to Governor Smith because he has been the most indifferent Governor towards our group New York State ever had.

"There are Governors from below the Mason-Dixon Line I would prefer seeing in the White House than Governor Smith. Woodrow Wilson, one of the most prejudiced Presidents we've ever had; in fact, the Republican Party hasn't succeeded in over eight years in wiping out the discriminatory laws against our race which were enacted, under his administration; I would prefer seeing Woodrow Wilson rise up out of his grave and go to the White House than Governor Smith.

"Today the black man is without a party. During political campaigns the candidate comes, delivers flattering speeches and makes great promises, which only last until election day. In fact, the present Republican administration stood by and held the coats of the Southern Democrats while they stoned us; in other words, they have held their peace while the Democrats violated the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, while sending up a mighty howl about the Eighteenth.

"To my mind, it will not pay the Negro to lose friendship over Mr. Smith nor Mr. Hoover, but our only salvation lies in selecting some real men of our race, not only in Harlem, but throughout the country, and send them to Congress, to the State Legislatures, and elect them judges. There are enough votes in Harlem to do this. The thing we need to do is to prove that we mean business. The Negroes in Harlem, in their next primary election, should elect a leader from their own ranks and create a fund to help defray the expenses of the candidate. Don't tell me there are not some able, race-loving black men in Harlem who are qualified to lead.

"It is not my desire to dictate the policies of our group in Harlem, but Brooklyn and Harlem are one and the same city. What concerns the Negro in Harlem concerns me; in fact, my interest in the black man is not only national but international. I expect to get in the fight to help to bring this about. I will pledge $200 from this church for the campaign of any colored man who is nominated, and I believe there are a number of other churches that will give as much or more. Then I will take over from Brooklyn a number of intelligent men and women who will make a house-to-house canvass helping to register the Negro vote without any charges. I will give both my time and money to help."

A permanent organization was formed for the purpose of bringing about the election of anyone who would be nominated.

LEADERS NAMED BY CHAIRMAN WORK TO DIRECT ACTIVITIES AMONG NEGRO VOTERS IN U. S.

Hawkins of Washington Heads Executive Committee; Eastern Organization Head Is Fred R. Moore

Washington, D. C.—Much interest has been excited by an announcement from National Republican Committee Chaiirman Hubert Work giving the personnel of a Colored Voters' Division to direct the Hoover-Curtis campaign among colored citizens of the United States.

Members of the executive committee of this group are John R. Hawkins of Washington, financal secretary of the A.M.E. Church, chairman; Allon L. Holsey, secretary Tuskegee Institute and of the National Negro Business League, secretary; Walter Foster of Boston; State Senator Adelbert H. Roberts of Chicago; John E. Nail of New York; Mrs. Myrtle Foster Cook of Kansas City; Robert R. Church of Memphis; Mrs. A. W. Hunton of New York City; and Dr. Emmet J. Scott of Washington.

Gratified By Response.

Chairman Work, in announcing names of the committee, said: "We are gratified that there has been such a fine voluntary response and pledge of support from the colored people. This committee is composed of leaders of thought and opinion representing their business, professional, religious and educational life. In my opinion, the election of Herbert Hoover will herald a new day of hope and opportunity for the group they represent."

Headquarters offices of the colored voters division will be in the Barr Building, with branch headquarters in Chicago and possibly New York.

A number of special committees were also announced, including organization and speakers committees, East and West; publicity, first voters' and general advisory committees, the last named to be composed of two hundred Negro citizens representing every section of the country.

Heads of Bureaus.

The organization committee, eastern bureau, is headed by Alderman Fred R. Moore of New York City, with Mrs. Addie W. Hunton of Brooklyn as associate chairman; Ernest T. Atwell of Philadelphia, general field organizer; Lieut.-Col. West A. Hamilton of District of Columbia, in charge of organization of ex-service men. Cornelius R. Richardson of Richmond, Ind., is chairman of the Western Bureau, with Homer G. Phillips of St. Louis general field organizer, and Lieut. George W. Lee of Memphis in charge of ex-service men.

Robert L. Vann of Pitsburgh heads the publicity committee; W. T. Andrews of Baltimore is Vice-chairman, and Claude A. Barnett of Chicago, secretary, the personnel to be made up of representatives of outstanding colored newspapers.

Collector of Internal Revenue Charles W. Anderson of New York is chairman of the general advisory committee, with Scipio A. Jones of Little Rock as vice chairman. Raymond Pace Alexander of Philadelphia heads the first voters' committee, with Jesse Heslip of Toledo as vice-chairman, and the speakers committee chairman are George W. Harris of New York, eastern, and Roscoe Simmons of Chicago, western bureaus.

Strong Women Named.

In the announcement, which is sent out by A. H. Kirchhofer, associate director of publicity for the Republicn National Committee, a number of colored women are named as among the strong leaders who will function in various key capacities in the organization. These include Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune of Florida; Mrs. Daisy Lampkin of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Sallie W. Stewart of Evansville; Mrs. Mary C. Booze of Mississippi; Miss Nannie H. Burroughs og District of Columbia; Mrs. George S. Williams of Savannah; Miss Hallie Q. Brown of Wilberforce. and Mrs. Lethia Fleming of Fleming of Cleveland.

In acknowledging his appointment as chairman, Mr. Hawkins, who seconded the Hoover nomination at Kansas City, made the following statement:

"A spirited campaign, in which business, professional and religious leaders of the race will have a prominent and active part, is to be launched immediately. This program will give an effective voice to the rank and file of the race, and will bring home anew to every colored man and woman voter the fact that the Republican Uarty is our party, conceived in liberty and freedom and dedicated to the task of improving our civic and political status and condition. We must do our part in furthering its success as well as shaping its policies to fit the common needs of our race and our country."

POST
WASHINGTON, D. C.
AUG 6 1928

COLORED REPUBLICAN BOLTERS ORGANIZING

Coxey and Drew Ticket Gains Faster Than Expected; Battle in Ohio.

That organization of negro bolters from the Republican party was proceeding on a practical basis somewhat faster than expected was indicated yesterday by a display of correspondenee from various parts of the country received by J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruffiler of colored Elks, in response to his call for a meeting of the Negro Voters League in Chicago, August 24.

Dr. S. P. W. Drew, evangelist, who was named for the vice presidential office on an interracial ticket headed by Jacob S. Coxey, of Massilon, Ohio, also anounced notification ceremonies in Philadelphia on Labor Day.

The Coxey movement in Ohio had joined with the movement tc elect Harry C. Smith, negro editor, as governor of Ohio. The Coxey notification wil lbe made in Ohio by J. P. Green, of Cleveland, on the same date as the Drew notification in Philadelphia. Smith, as an Ohio candinate for various offices, has polled normally 60,000 votes

It was also stated by Dr. Drew that the notification address, in Philadelphia, would be made by Dr. Willis J Winston, president of the Northern Baptist University. Mrs D. F. Jackson, of Selena, Mo., has been named by the United Woman's Political League to organize colored women. The movement headed by Wilson plans a negro party organization in al doubtful States. This movement has been accentuated by announcement from Hoover headquarters of a negro Republican organization, on which the names of many leading negro Republicans did not appear.

HOWARD TO "DEFEND" HOOVER.

It is notable, and significant, particularly in the south, that Percy Howard, the negro republican leader who was recently "caught with the goods" in lobbying federal patronage, and is now under indictment, will go on the stump for Candidate Hoover.

In an interview sent from Washington to the Chicago Defender, leading negro publication, issue June 30th, he said:

"I shall take the stump and defend Mr. Hoover without equivocation on the charge of lilywhiteism attributed to his friends. There has never been a stronger ticket than Hoover and Curtis. Mr. Hoover has taken a more forward step than any cabinet officer in abolishing segregation. This great mind heard the cry of Cohen—the Louisiana negro collector of port—and the word went from Washington to Kansas City that, regardless of regularity, Cohen personally should not be turned out of the convention."

Those heretofore democrats in the south who are trying to scuttle the party from the within in the interest of Mr. Hoover, might be enlightened by reading the Mississippi negro's reasons for supporting the republican candidate—to "defend him against the charge of lilywhiteism," and "because of his order abolishing negro segregation."

Percy Howard had charge of the Hoover pre-convention campaign in the south. He is a lawyer, and held the position of assistant United States attorney general, which position he was made to resign recently because of his flagrant violations of law in selling patronage—a step that Mr. Hoover would probably have prevented if public decency would not have been outraged had he remained in such a position.

That Mr. Hoover does not consider the charge of consequence, however, Howard is to become one of his campaigners of defense against any charge of "lilywhiteism."

Let southern white men and women read and ponder!

HOOVER CAMPAIGN DIRECTORS.

The announcement made last week by Chairman Hubert Work, of the appointment of a Colored Voters Division of the Republican National committee, to direct the Hoover-Curtis campaign, was notable for several reasons. The appointment of such assistants to promote support among the colored voters of the country is no new thing, but this present corps of directors is different in class and character from previous appointments of this sort. As Chairman Work aptly said, "this committee is composed of leaders of thought and opinion representing their business, professional, religious and educational life."

The character of the committee is appropriately indicated by the names of the officers who head it. John R. Hawkins of Washington, who seconded Mr. Hoover's nomination at Kansas City, is chairman of the executive committee, with Albon R. Holsey, secretary of Tuskegee Institute and of the National Negro Business league, as secretary. Among the other members are State Senator Roberts of Chicago, John E. Nail of New York, Robert R. Church of Memphis, Mrs. A. W. Hunton of New York and Dr. Emmett J. Scott of Howard University. Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh is head of the Publicity Committee with W. T. Andrews of Baltimore as vice chairman. The Organization Commitee will have its Eastern bureau in New York, with Fred R. Moore as chairman, and Ernest T. Attwell of Philadelphia as general field organizer.

There will also be an advisory committee of two hundred, with Hon. Charles W. Anderson of New York as chairman and Scipio A. Jones of Little Rock as vice chairman. Among the outstanding women serving in various key capacities in the organization are Mrs. Mary M. Bethune of Dayton, Fla.; Mrs. Daisy Lampkin of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Sallie Stewart of Evansville, Ind.; Mrs. Mary C. Booze of Mound Bayou, Miss.; Miss Nannie H. Burroughs of the District of Columbia, Mrs. George S. Williams of Savannah, Ga., Miss Hallie Q. Brown of Wilberforce and Mrs. Lethia Fleming of Cleveland.

Chairman Hawkins said that a spirited campaign would be launched immediately, the program of which will give an effective voice to the rank and file of the race. It is especially designed to bring home to every colored man and woman that the Repubican party is our party, "conceived in liberty and freedom and dedicated to the task of improving our civic and poitical status." He urged that we must do our part in furthering its success, as well as shaping its policies to fit the common needs of our race and our country.

With a staff of campaign directors of the class and calibre of those here presented, the issues of the campaign should be carried direct to the voters, so that they may be aroused to vote understandingly. It will be noted that in addition to the new blood injected into the direction of the campaign, enough of the tested veterans of politics have been retained, either in an active or advisory capacity, to secure the benefit of their experience and wisdom in the ways of getting the ballots safely garnered in the right columns.

The Hoover campaign among the Negro voters appears to have started off on the right footing. These voters are to be accorded the fullest representation in the conduct of the campaign. They are no longer to be treated as children, but are regarded as an important factor in party success.

Collector of Internal Revenue Charles W. Anderson of New York is chairman of the general advisory committee, with Scipio A. Jones of Little Rock as vice chairman. Raymond Pace Alexander of Philadelphia heads the first voters' committee, with Jesse Heslip of Toledo as vice-chairman, and the speakers committee chairman are George W. Harris of New York, eastern, and Roscoe Simmons of Chicago, western bureaus.

Strong Women Named.

In the announcement, which is sent out by A. H. Kirchhofer, associate director of publicity for the Republicn National Committee, a number of colored women are named as among the strong leaders who will function in various key capacities in the organization. These include Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune of Florida; Mrs. Daisy Lampkin of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Sallie W. Stewart of Evansville; Mrs. Mary C. Booze of Mississippi; Miss Nannie H. Burroughs og District of Columbia; Mrs. George S. Williams of Savannah; Miss Hallie Q. Brown of Wilberforce. and Mrs. Lethia Fleming of Fleming of Cleveland.

In acknowledging his appointment as chairman, Mr. Hawkins, who seconded the Hoover nomination at Kansas City, made the following statement:

"A spirited campaign, in which business, professional and religious leaders of the race will have a prominent and active part, is to be launched immediately. This program will give an effective voice to the rank and file of the race, and will bring home anew to every colored man and woman voter the fact that the Republican Uarty is our party, conceived in liberty and freedom and dedicated to the task of improving our civic and political status and condition. We must do our part in furthering its success as well as shaping its policies to fit the common needs of our race and our country."

POST
WASHINGTON, D. C.
AUG 6 1928

COLORED REPUBLICAN BOLTERS ORGANIZING

Coxey and Drew Ticket Gains Faster Than Expected; Battle in Ohio.

That organization of negro bolters from the Republican party was proceeding on a practical basis somewhat faster than expected was indicated yesterday by a display of correspondence from various parts of the country received by J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruffler of colored Elks, in response to his call for a meeting of the Negro Voters League in Chicago, August 24.

Dr. S. P. W. Drew, evangelist, who was named for the vice presidential office on an interracial ticket headed by Jacob S. Coxey, of Massilon, Ohio, also announced notification ceremonies in Philadelphia on Labor Day.

The Coxey movement in Ohio had joined with the movement tc elect Harry C. Smith, negro editor, as governor of Ohio. The Coxey notification wil lbe made in Ohio by J. P. Green, of Cleveland, on the same date as the Drew notification in Philadelphia. Smith, as an Ohio candidate for various offices, has polled normally 60,000 votes

It was also stated by Dr. Drew that the notification address, in Philadelphia, would be made by Dr. Willis J. Winston, president of the Northern Baptist University. Mrs P. F. Jackson, of Selena, Mo., has been named by the United Woman's Political League to organize colored women. The movement headed by Wilson plans a negro party organization in al doubtful States. This movement has been accentuated by announcement from Hoover headquarters of a negro Republican organization, on which the names of many leading negro Republicans did not appear.

HOWARD TO "DEFEND" HOOVER.

It is notable, and significant, particularly in the south that Percy Howard, the negro republican leader who was recently "caught with the goods" in robbing federal patronage, and is now under indictment, will go on the stump for Candidate Hoover.

In an interview sent from Washington to the Chicago Defender, leading negro publication, issue June 30th, he said:

"I shall take the stump and defend Mr. Hoover without equivocation on the charge of lilywhiteism attributed to his friends. There has never been a stronger ticket than Hoover and Curtis. Mr. Hoover has taken a more forward step than any cabinet officer in abolishing segregation. This great mind heard the cry of Cohen—the Louisiana negro collector of port—and the word went from Washington to Kansas City that, regardless of regularity, Cohen personally should not be turned out of the convention."

Those heretofore democrats in the south who are trying to scuttle the party from the within in the interest of Mr. Hoover, might be enlightened by reading the Mississippi negro's reasons for supporting the republican candidate—to "defend him against the charge of lilywhiteism," and "because of his order abolishing negro segregation."

Percy Howard had charge of the Hoover pre-convention campaign in the south. He is a lawyer, and held the position of assistant United States attorney general, which position he was made to resign recently because of his flagrant violations of law in selling patronage—a step that Mr. Hoover would probably have prevented if public decency would not have been outraged had he remained in such a position.

That Mr. Hoover does not consider the charge of consequence, however, Howard is to become one of his campaigners of defense against any charge of "lilywhiteism."

Let southern white men and women read and ponder!

HOOVER CAMPAIGN DIRECTORS.

The announcement made last week by Chairman Hubert Work, of the appointment of a Colored Voters Division of the Republican National committee, to direct the Hoover-Curtis campaign, was notable for several reasons. The appointment of such assistants to promote support among the colored voters of the country is no new thing, but this present corps of directors is different in class and character from previous appointments of this sort. As Chairman Work aptly said, "this committee is composed of leaders of thought and opinion representing their business, professional, religious and educational life."

The character of the committee is appropriately indicated by the names of the officers who head it. John R. Hawkins of Washington, who seconded Mr. Hoover's nomination at Kansas City, is chairman of the executive committee, with Albon R. Holsey, secretary of Tuskegee Institute and of the National Negro Business league, as secretary. Among the other members are State Senator Roberts of Chicago, John E. Nail of New York, Robert R. Church of Memphis, Mrs. A. W. Hunton of New York and Dr. Emmett J. Scott of Howard University. Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh is head of the Publicity Committee with W. T. Andrews of Baltimore as vice chairman. The Organization Commitee will have its Eastern bureau in New York, with Fred R. Moore as chairman, and Ernest T. Attwell of Philadelphia as general field organizer.

There will also be an advisory committee of two hundred, with Hon. Charles W. Anderson of New York as chairman and Scipio A. Jones of Little Rock as vice chairman. Among the outstanding women serving in various key capacities in the organization are Mrs. Mary M. Bethune of Dayton, Fla.; Mrs. Daisy Lampkin of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Sallie Stewart of Evansville, Ind.; Mrs. Mary C. Booze of Mound Bayou, Miss.; Miss Nannie H. Burroughs of the District of Columbia, Mrs. George S. Williams of Savannah, Ga., Miss Hallie Q. Brown of Wilberforce and Mrs. Lethia Fleming of Cleveland.

Chairman Hawkins said that a spirited campaign would be launched immediately, the program of which will give an effective voice to the rank and file of the race. It is especially designed to bring home to every colored man and woman that the Repubican party is our party, "conceived in liberty and freedom and dedicated to the task of improving our civic and poitical status." He urged that we must do our part in furthering its success, as well as shaping its policies to fit the common needs of our race and our country.

With a staff of campaign directors of the class and calibre of those here presented, the issues of the campaign should

The Hoover campaign among the Negro voters appears to have started off on the right footing. These voters are so that they may be aroused to vote understandingly. It will be noted that in addition to the direction of the campaign, they are to be accorded the fullest representation in the conduct of the campaign. They are to be treated as children, but are regarded as an important factor in party success.

Political - 1928 Republican.
Party Affiliation.

Kelly Miller Submits Stinging Indictment Of Republicans; But Urges Support Hoover

Journal and Guide
Aug. 29, 1928

Special to Journal and Guide

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29—Indicting the Republican Party in a stinging bill of particulars for its sins of omission and commission against the Negro from the time of President Hayes, when the party began to recede from its party began to recede from its "pristine moral grandeur, to the present, Prof. Kelly Miller, nevertheless, in an open letter to J. Finley Wilson, urges the support of the Negro race for Herbert Hoover in the coming presidential election solely on the grounds that Mr. Hoover is opposed to repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead Act.

In fact, Dr. Miller, in spite of his arraignment of the Republican Party, believes that in this campaign it is the forced sponsor of a sound, patriotic American doctrine, which is prohibition, and that prohibition is the only fundamental principle involved in the present campagin.

More than three-fourths of Prof. Miller's lengthy letter comprising more than 1500 words is devoted to a pungent recital of the party's record of double-dealing and faithlessness to the Negro since placing the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments into the constitution, while the remainder is devoted to a plea for support of the party's nominee because he stands for prohibition. The professor's open letter to Mr. Wilson was inspired by the latter's letter to Chairman Hubert Work, setting forth Mr. Wilson's declination to serve as a member of the Colored Republican Advisory staff to which he had been named. This letter was published in the Washington Post.

Mr. Wilson, who is grand exalted ruler of the I. B. P. O. E., is chairman of the Negro Voters' League, an organization tentatively formed at the Republican National Convention at Kansas City in June as a protest against certain treatment accorded the Negro representation at the convention. The league is comprised of a representative group of colored men and is meeting this week in Chicago for permanent organization and for the purpose of charting a course in reference to the presidential election.

Refers To Wilson's Letter

Declaring Mr. Wilson's attitude, "is expressive of a wide spread spirit of revolt which is well nigh conterminous with the colored race," and that "there can be little or no doubt of the universality of this feeling," the professor asserts:

"The reason for this revolt is so self-obvious that the Republican Party is forced to acknowledge and appreciate it. Of course during the campaign season they always promise better things, if the black man will just help them out this time. The same old ruse has been worked for ten quadrenniums. But after each succes the Grand Old Party has not only forgotten its preelection promise, but has grown bold and ruthless in its reactionary attitude. At the end of each quadrennium we find ourselves pushed further and further down the scale of political privilege and preferment."

Believes Debt Paid

Professor Miller believes the Negro has paid his debt of gratitude to the Republican Party, for he declares:

"Two generations of unyielding obedience ought to count as payment in full for the debt of gratitude which we owe the party of Lincoln and Sumner for what it accomplished in the days of its pristine moral grandeur. But continued gratitude in the face of flagrant injustice is a psychological impossibility. Wounded friendship is more grievous to bear than than avowed enmity."

Citing the Negro's grievances against the Republican Party, Prof. Miller submits the following partial bill of particulars, which he declares, "every Negro resents, however they may differ in their mode of manifesting their resentment:

Bill of Particulars

"The abandonment of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments was begun under President Hayes and completed under President Coolidge. When the Kansas City Convention deliberately refused to put the fourteenth and fifteenth on the party agenda along with the 18th amendment it thereby drove the last nail in the coffin of our political expectation and clenched it on the other side. The stubborn protest of the fifty Negro delegates went unheeded, as if unheard.

The deliberate and ruthless crucifixion of Perry Howard, the displacement of Ben Davis from the national committee, the flattening out of Walter Cohen of Louisiana by the lilywhite steam roller, the threatening of Robert R. Church, the noblest Roman of them all, amply put the Negro leadership on warning that its regime has come to an end, and that the triumph of the lilywhites is at hand. The whole race must resent with unrelenting animosity the deep damnation of their taking off. The low cunning of the coward was resorted to. All these men were charged with political piccadillos and stained with the stigma of dishonesty and dishonor. The Grand Old Party which condoned a regime of corruption unparelleled in the history of our government assumed the livery of righteousness and condemns these black offenders who it is alleged were profiteers by a few dollars. There was not one word of open condemnation of Daugherty, Fall and the Teapot Dome. But Ben Davis and Perry Howard must be stamped with the brand of everlasting infamy. Surely the Negro has borne the white man's transgressions and the chastisement of his peace is upon us. We are bruised for his inequity.

Raped Haiti

"The Negro is not unmindful of the fact that the Republican Party brutally raped our little Haitian sister and forcefully deprived her of the virtue of self-liberty. Instead of playing the big brother this nation has become the big bully to the struggling weak and helpless. The justifying plea is as old as oppression. The exploiter always professes to dominate the weak for the benefit of the overridden. The institution of slavery was for the good of the slave.

Referring to discrimination in the Civil Service which makes it practically impossible to recruit the government clerical force, Prof Miller declares that "by requiring photographs which at once condemns the Negro applicant and by allowing heads of bureaus the power of choice among three certified candidates, the Negro is effectively shut out from the qualified service." Prof. Miller says. "the time when a colored person has been certified and accepted almost runs against the memory of man. There were at one time forty-five colored clerks in the Pension Office, now the number has been reduced to five and the ranks are still thinning." "This is an unpardonable piece of meanness on the part of the government," continues the professor, who adds, "It deliberately cheats the deserving Negro out of his justly earned due. And yet the Republican Party stands complacently by although this matter has been over and again called to its attention. The few Negroes who are left in the classified service are subject to the insult of humiliating segregation and penned up in compartments as if afflicted with leprosy."

"What Shall The Negro Do?"

After drawing this stinging bill of particulars against the Republican Party, Prof. Miller then asks: "What shall the Negro do in the midst of the emergency which is now upon us?" "Some will support Al Smith for vindictive reasons, while others with slave fidelity, will say to the Grand Old Party, "though you slay me, yet will I serve you." It was true when Frederick Douglass said: 'The Republican Party is the ship; all else the sea.' But this was a generation ago. Since then the old bark of safety has become unseaworthy. The Negro may as well seek passage on other crafts upon the sea of political uncertainty."

Though Prof. Miller believes the Negro may as well "seek passage on other crafts upon the sea of political uncertainty," he concludes his letter with a warning to the Negro against "vindictive politics." He declares "Vindictive politics will get the race nowhere. The Negro should align himself with firm principles and sound politics independently of whichever party espouses them."

"There is only one fundamental principle involved in the present campaign, and that is the principle of prohibition," according to Prof. Miller. "It is a sound, patriotic American doctrine, which political exigencies have forced the Republican Party to sponsor, adds the Howard professor, who declares "The Negro is the chief victim of intemperance and drunkenness. Free flowing liquor works its greatest havoc on the weaker man and the weaker race. The lemon rum loves the black victim. The Negro reversely is the chief beneficiary of prohibition."

Prof. Miller links the nullification of the prohibition amendment with the nullification of the human rights amendment by asserting, "If the country ever becomes accustomed to the nullification of the prohibition amendment, then there is little hope that it will ever return to the human rights amendments. Nullification is catching."

Support Hoover

Declaring that Mr. Smith and Mr. Hoover are two good men, Prof. Miller assures the Negro that whichever of them is elected, he may stand assured that major national problems, like flood and farm relief and foreign debt and international relations will be looked after. But he says, "Let the Negro stand with Hoover and the Republican Party because he stands for prohibition."

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

Republican

Dr. Moton To Support Hoover's Candidacy

In a letter to Albon L. Holsey, secretary of the Colored Voters Division of the Republican National Committee, Dr. Robert R. Moton principal of Tuskegee Institute, announces that he will support Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate for President, declaring that in his acceptance speech Mr. Hoover disclosed himself as "the spokesman of the finest and best in American life, as one familiar with the problems discussed, whether sectional, national or international."

Supreme Chancellor S. W. Green of New Orleans, of the Knights of Pythias N. A., S. A., E., A., A. and A., representing more than 300,000 Pythians, telegraphed Mr. Holsey that Hoover's "policy of equal opportunity for every man and woman and child, regardless of race or religion, is the expression of a heart as broad as humanity."

FT DEVELOPS N THE G. O. P. EADERSHIP

d. Church, Tennessee, ader Declines Post Under Hawkins

8-24/28

T FOLL'W VOTELESS HE TELLS WORK

Aid Hoover And Stay The Ranks He Deres

ASHINGTON, D. C.— ert R. Church, political er, of Memphis, Tenn., declined to serve on executive committee of e Republican colored ers division.

reason for refusing the ap- ment is that he cannot bring elf "to endorse the personnel of committee or the method by it was chosen."

. Church has just returned from ornia. He attended the Hoover ication ceremonies. He had erences with Mr. Hoover and party leaders. Returning east opped at Topeka, Kan., for the notification ceremonies. There nferred with Senator Curtis and party leaders also.

Letter Sent Work

declination of his appointment mbership on the executive com- of the Republican colored vot- livision was sent directly to man Work of the Republican al committee from San Fran- Mr. Church wrote as follows: nouncement of my selection as nber of the executive commit- the colored voters division has made. I am not insensible of onor.

nce, however, I cannot bring f to endorse either the person- f this committee or the meth- which it was chosen, I am to decline the appointment withdraw from membership pon.

on't Follow Voteless Leaders

timate knowledge of conditions g colored Americans, of their ent state of mind, of their grow- self-respect, of the feelings of ed Republicans who create our orities in the free states togeth- ith my own experiences in lab- g for our party lead to the con- on that neither important col- leaders nor the rank file will w men who have no votes of r own whether because they hail n states in which colored citizens denied the ballot or from neu- territory where disfranchisement universal.

Developments indicate that neith- Illinois nor Ohio will follow Ala- ama, North Carolina or the District of Columbia. Moreover, the policy is an unwise and unnecessary one that drags a religious sect into politics and involves our important universities in political quarrels.

Republican Once In 4 Years

"In no circumstance must I become party to such a situation as is created for us in ignoring men and women who meet issues daily and create votes and elevating above them those who dodge issues, cannot influence a single vote, have no voice to raise when we are assailed, and are Republicans only once in four years, and then only by appointment and not by choice of the people.

Devoted To Hoover

"To the fortunes of Mr. Hoover am devoted. Politically I am his follower and supporter. Personally am his ardent admirer. Nothing hat my hands can find to do to assist him will remain undone. Nothing I can do in aid of you and your party will remain unperformed.

"Since this is so, I send you this letter as the first duty I owe the colored Republicans, Mr. Hoover as our candidate, to our party and to you as our party leader."

The Rev. William P. Hayes Will Not Enter The September Primary For The Congressional Nomination

Writes Letter of Declination To Leaders of 19th and 21st A. D.'s, Saying Church Duties Are More Important Than Politics

The designation of a candidate for nomination to the United States Congress from the 21st Congressional District, New York City, remains still a matter to be consummated, as the Rev. Dr. William P. Hayes, who was named after Alderman John Clifford Hawkins had declined the original designation, has also declined, setting forth as a primary reason that his duties as pastor of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church are of paramount importance and can not be set aside even for the signal honor of a seat in the Halls of Congress.

Dr. Hayes' letter, under date of August 13, was addressed to Abraham Grenthal and Robert S. Conklin, Republican leaders of the 19th and 21st Assembly Districts, respectively, who, with the leaders of the 13th, 22nd and 23rd Districts, constiuted the original commitee which nominated Alderman Hawkins.

The committee to fill the vacancy occasioned by Mr. Hawkins' declination is composed of William McGruder as chairman, Mrs. Margaret Sealy and Mortimer Kraus, and this committee will again have to function.

The text of Dr. Hayes' letter is as follows:

(Copy of Letter Sent to Hon. Abraham Grenthal and Hon. Robert S. Conklin.

August 13th, 1928.

Dear Sirs:

"After due deliberation, I regret that I am forced to decline the very high honor you and your associates tender me in selecting me as the candidate of the Republican party for Congress in the Twenty-first Congressional District.

"It has not been easy for me to reach this decision. The manner in which the designation came as well as the alluring prospect of serving a wider constituency, made it extremely difficult for me to decline this honor.

"I have one compelling reason for my action in this matter, namely, the welfare of the church of which I have the honor to be pastor. At the present time, and for some time to come, the Mount Olivet Baptist Church needs the undivided attention and care of its pastor. This could not be given, I am sure, if I should decide to enter the race for Congress.

"Since either proposition demands all, if not even more, than any one man can give in the matter of energy and time, not to say money, I have been faced with the stern alternative of choosing between the two; and I have decided that I cannot in good conscience do otherwise than stick to the job that is already mine. The obligations of Mount Olivet are immediate and insistent. In order to be met the constant services of its minister is demanded.

Touched By Assurances.

"I have been deeply touched by the many assurances of support which have come from friends of all political shades, and sincerely regret the necessity which forces me to disappoint those who have expressed such unbounded faith in my ability to win a seat in Congress at the coming election.

"I trust that the vacancy will be filled by a candidate to whom all may be able to give their most loyal and enthusiastic support. I pledge my unqualified support to a candidate of this type.

With deep appreciation of the high honor you have conferred upon me, and with the hope that you will see the situation in the light in which I have presented it,

"I beg to remain,

"Sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM P. HAYES."

NEGROES PREPARE FOR PART IN NOVEMBER ELECTIONS

Newport News, Va., Aug. 29.—Definite plans for the organization of the Negro vote in Virginia to either support Governor Al Smith or Herbert Hoover in the November election will be made at a meeting of political leaders of the race from every congressional district in the state.

No comment as to which candidate the Negro vote in the state will be given is to be made until after the acceptance speech of the Democratic candidate, it was announced.

The meeting will be held at Bay Shore, a seashore resort near Newport News.

OUST HOWARD WHITES' AIM

Eliminate Negro Leaders is Cry at Miss. G. O. P. Campaign Meeting

GREENVILLE, Miss., Aug. 29.—Perry W. Howard and all Race political leaders in Miss., were bitterly assailed here Tuesday at a huge state Republican meeting inaugurating the Republican Campaign. The presidential electors representing the "white wing" of the party were endorsed.

Elimination of Negro leadership in Republican politics in the state was strongly advocated by the "lily whites."

Charles U. Gordon, president of the Southern States Republican League in one of the keynote addresses of the evening, declared that the "Mississippi people have been watching the movement for the re-establishment of the Republican party in this state, that contemplates complete elimination from control of Negro leadership.

Illinois Governor Appoints Jackson To Commerce Po

(Special to the New York Time

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Govern Small today appointed Dan Jac son, colored Republican leader the Third Ward and known "King of Gamblers" in the distri to be a member of the Illin Commerce Commission. Mr. Jac son's political ally in the color section, Oscar de Priest, is at pr ent an assistant commissioner.

Mr. Jackson succeeds Edwa K. Wright, also colored, whose r ignation was asked for by Gov nor Small on the assumption th Wright is in poor health. The a pointment becomes effective Se 1 for a term until Jan. 1, wh Governor Small goes out of offi

Mr. Jackson's political allegiar is to Mayor Thompson, who al sponsored the de Priest appoi ment. He was elected ward co mitteeman last Spring in the p mary, which has been under vestigation by the Special Gra Jury, which also has taken cogn ance of gambling conditions in t territory where Jackson and Priest are in power.

NEW OPPORTUNITY PREDICTED FOR NEGRO IN POLITICS

Negro Press Says Personnel of Colored Division Means New Chance.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—Heralding a new day in political opportunity and leadership for the Negro, editorials in various racial weeklies have commented widely and favorably upon the personnel selected to direct the Republican campaign among colored voters.

Pointing out that business, professional, educational and religious interests, as well as those purely political, comprise the Colored Voters' Division of the Republican National Campaign Committee this year, the belief is advanced by numerous papers that the campaign will be conducted upon a high plane and give an opportunity for self-expression to every phase of life within the group.

"It is a splendid augury for the political future of our group," says the Norfolk Journal and Guide, "to see men and women of the highest repute and of the most unselfish motives, men and women, personal successes in themselves and not dependent upon the promised loaves and fishes, entering actively into politics.

"In selecting the personnel of the colored division to direct the Hoover-Curtis forces among colored voters, Chairman Hubert Work was well advised. No group of Negro leaders could have been selected that would have more heartily met the approval of the race in general without regard to party affiliations than those announced as constituting the personnel of the division. Conspicuous on the list and placed in key positions are persons who are best known for the genuine service they have rendered their race and nation rather than for their political attachment."

HAWKINS HITS BACK AT R. R. CHURCH, BOLTER

Man Who Can't Be Follower Cannot Be Great Leader, He Says

WORK PUTS OKEY ON HAWKINS' LINE-UP

Imposing Headquarters In Barr Building In Full Blast

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special) — "A man who can't be a follower can't be a good leader."

This was the reply of John R. Hawkins, chairman of the excutive committee of the Republican Colored Voters' Division, to Robert R. Church, political leader of Memphis, Tenn.

Church declined to serve on the executive committee last week and sent a letter of resignation direct to Secretary Work, Hoover campaign head, announcing that he could not bring himself to endorse either the personnel of the committee or the method by which it was chosen.

Church referred specifically to the fact that Mr. Hawkins was a citizen of the District of Columbia and as such can vote only once in four years.

Hits Finley Too

Mr. Hawkins' statement is inclusive enough to strike J. Finley Wilson, exalted ruler of Elks, too, who likewise in a letter to Chairman Work declined to serve on the G. O. P. Advisory Committee which he said used his name without authority.

Headquarters Open Work Gives Okey

Headquarters for the colored division are on the first floor of the $1,00,000 Barr Building where other Hoover campaign headquarters are located.

A suite of offices with a secretarial force in separte rooms has been provided for Mr. Hawkins, as chairman, Albon Holsey, as secretary, and several other leaders of the committee.

A sign over the door indicates the location of this suite and a courteous messenger directs visitors to the various offices.

Mr. Hawkins, who is an able politician and manager, spends several hours each day with callers who come to transact business at the headquarters.

THE SHOWDOWN CAME

Daily papers had written much and loud about showdown day, August 11, 1928, between G. F. Flanders, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and Roscoe Pickett, ex-chairman. Showdown day came along last Saturday.

Messrs. Flanders and Pickett called meetings of the full committee the same day. Flanders in Atlanta and Pickett in Macon. Pickett had been ousted by the Executive Committee of the full committee July 23, 1928, which decision he refused to accept. Hence, he issued a call for the full committee to meet in Macon Saturday, August 11, 1928, to test out his strength and popularity with the people. Mr. Flanders accepted the challenge and issued his call. And showdown day was Saturday, with the following results: Fifty-three members in person and by proxy greeted Chairman Flanders in Atlanta, and only five members met Mr. Pickett in Macon. The following-named persons met the ex-chairman: C. P. Goree, T. A. Chastain, A. B. Hines, Mrs. A. V. Goff, Dr. R. H. Cobb. Of course there were others there, but they were ex-members and expelled members and had no standing as committeemen.

An overwhelming majority of the committee met Mr. Flanders and approved and ratified every act of the Executive Committee in expelling Pickett et al. There can be no longer any question of the legality of the removal of the bolters who betrayed their party.

A political party has the perfect right to make rules and regulations to control and discipline its members, and it exercised that right on July 23, 1928, when it ousted Pickett, Crawford, Hendricks, et al.

The full committee settled the question of the personnel of the Executive Committee by recognizing the Executive Committee elected by the Sovereign State Convention March 3, 1928.

Mr. Pickett claims to have had thirty members present and eight proxies. What are the facts, the committee is composed of seventy-one people; fifty-three were in Atlanta and made affidavits to the fact; five were at Macon—Goree, Chastain, Goff, Hendricks and Cobb; thirteen were absent from both meetings, C. E. Smith, O. M. Dukes, J. H. Surber, A. N. Tumlin, Clifford Dyar, William Reese, W. H. Cagle, L. H. Ridgway, H. H. Holder, E. J. Mathews, Fred Durand, Mrs. Sarah Watson King and Mrs. Callie Crittendon.

With fifty-three members in Atlanta and five in Macon, and thirteen absent, how could Pickett have had thirty-eight. But we guess he counted everybody in the house, including ex-members and expelled members. He said he had eight proxies, then there were ten members not represented in person or by proxy in either meeting. Even Crawford and Hendricks were ashamed to be present and were absent.

The full committee passed a rule authorizing Chairman Flanders to declare vacant the membership of all members who attended the rump meeting at Macon just as the Democrats are declaring the Democrat bolters disqualified to run in the Democratic primary, September 12.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation.

HERALD

Durham — NC

AUG 2 1928

NEGRO DEMOCRATS OF FORSYTH ORGANIZING

Winston-Salem, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Winston-Salem Negroes were organizing today for the announced intention of taking an active part in the approaching general election.

First steps were taken in the organization of the Forsyth county colored Democratic club and the election of E. H. Copeland, well known Negro of the city as chairman. Headquarters have already been established.

Copeland announced that the new club would seek the aid and cooperation of the white Democrats here, but J. K. Norfleet, chairman of the Forsyth county Democratic executive committee, said no action had been taken on the request and no conference had been called to consider such a move.

Even if the new club fails to get the support of the white Democrats it will continue to function, Copeland said.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Star

AUG 3 1928

COLORED LEADER URGES SUPPORT OF GOV. SMITH

Prioleau Calls for Conference of Voters to Organize in Aid of Democratic Nominee.

Call for a national conference here of colored voters on September 6 and 7 was authorized at a meeting of the National Colored Voters' Union, 902 Third street, last night, which is to be signed by Aaron P. Prioleau, who headed the unsuccessful Republican delegation seeking to be seated at the convention in Kansas City.

The purpose of the national conference is to effect union of action in support of the Smith-Robinson ticket. The call states that for 50 years the colored voters have made enemies of Southern Democracy by supporting the Republican ticket and had made no genuine political friendships.

"And now," the call states, "under actions of the Hoover lily-whites at the Republican national convention against elected colored delegates in barring them from the convention, we deem it the duty of all self-respecting colored people to resent this unjust action by supporting the honest and square-dealing Democrats of the Nation for the best interest and welfare of all people."

CHRONICLE
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

JUL 26 1928

Keeping Negro Under Is South's Big Issue

THAT it is harder for a Democrat in a State of the old black South to vote for a Republican than for a camel to pass through a needle's eye, as The Chronicle pointed out in an editorial last Monday, is strikingly presented in an editorial in the Atlanta Constitution, part of which is reprinted elsewhere on this page.

Addressing himself to the anti-Smith Democrats of his region, the Georgia editor emphasizes the doctrine that keeping the Southern negro down politically is more important to the Southern Democracy than whether or not Southerners happen to like Governor Smith as a presidential candidate.

"White supremacy," says the Atlanta Constitution, "is the paramount question."

This is a viewpoint outside our present province to argue. It is, however, very real to a Southern Democrat. In a State like Georgia he sees a vote for a Republican candidate as a vote for the negro Republican organization in the state. So the Georgia editor advises his anti-Smith Democrats to swallow their dissatisfaction with the candidate, vote for him, and keep the negro down.

Republican.

RECORD
COLUMBIA, S. C.

AUG 1 1928

WITH BROWN DERBIES ON!

We notice one of the apostles in Columbia who is still professing his love of the Democratic party with his lips, while he is openly striving to slash the juglar vein of the party by tryiing to lead Democrats over to the parade of the Hays-Daugherty-Fall combination, is calling for leaders of the Red Shirt brand.

Fortunately, and we may say much to our satisfaction, some of the veterans who belonged to that division of white men, who mustered for no other purpose than to kick government by ignorant negroes and their white associates have already donned the Red Shirt, figuratively speaking, but they are not rallying to the bolter colors.

The Red Shirt Division demobilized about 1877, after it had wrested South Carolina from carpetbag misgovernment and the most scandalous exploitation white citizens of the South ever suffered, but they demobilized, subject to call, so long as they were able to fire a gun or unsheath a sword, and they trained their descendants in the same road, as we shall see.

The Red Shirts do not belong in the fanatical column. They were never men of the hysteria type. They were men who faced danger of the black and white mob without the batting of an eye or the quivver of a muscle and defied it to the death, and those still remaining are that sort today. Generally speaking, we believe their children and their grand children are the same sort of citizens.

The men who followed Wade Hampton in 1876-1877 had no objection we may say to the negro, so long as the negro kept in his place and they realized that his place was not in governing white men for the very reason that an inferior race never yet successfully governed a superior race. For these reasons we indignantly deny the right of any man who balks on what the Red Shirts faced death for, to even ask one of them to lead the successors of the crowd they kicked out.

While we have expressed our views on the South Carolina men who now threaten to knife the Democratic ticket, or a part of it, we shall again rehearse that viewpoint. We would not, if we could force any voter to cast a ballot for any man whom he opposes. But when any man, regardless of his label, opposes what we think is for the public welfare, we are going to fight him just as harshly as the Red Shirts of 1876 fought the carpetbaggers and scalawags then.

It is, and we are repeating this, too, our opinion that the crowd who are now fighting or proposing to fight Governor Smith, the nominee for the presidency, are not fighting him because he does not approve of the Volstead Act, or the Eighteenth Amendment. We think this because they voted for Woodrow Wilson, a man who disliked both the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act fully as much as Governor Smith dislikes them.

And while we are about it, we may say the roorback, of the Republican Whites of Kansas, the Bishop Cannons, of Virginia, and Ohio, the Bartons of the Anti-Saloon League, et al., will from all appearances serve the same purpose as its historic predecessor served. Roorback originated from the "Travels of Roorback" a fictitious libel published in the campaign of 1844, in which the character of James K. Polk was viciously assailed.

That sort of campaigning was given credit by the managers of Polk's campaign that year for introducing him to the country in the early part of the contest, so that he was elected President on a rising tide of resentment by the fairminded American people. Governor Smith was attacked fully as viciously as Governor Polk was attacked in 1844, throughout the primary contest. We think the attack accounted largely for his overwhelming victory on the first ballot at Houston.

The Smith supporters in South Carolina are the heirs and successors of the Red Shirt veterans, and they not only are figuratively mustering in Red Shirts, but they are not forgetting the Brown Derby.

Columbian Replies to Colored Democratic President's Statement

Editor, The Palmetto Leader,
Columbia, S. C.

Dear Sir:

Having been in your office a few days ago, I saw a newspaper clipping which was published in The Cleveland Press by a Mr. James A. Ross, who is styled as the President of the Democrat's Association of Buffalo. Mr. Ross, as you have noticed, said that prohibition has brought financial disaster to many of our group who are employed in dining cars, restaurants, and hotels, who depend in a large degree on the tips given them. Mr. Ross further said that his organization's campaign will be concentrated in the Northern states and that the Negroes in the South will vote a straight Democratic ticket as usual.

I wish to say right here that Mr. Ross knows as much about Southern Negroes and the way we cast our votes as a hog knows about wearing and using hip pockets, for I am sure that there are but few Negroes in the South who vote the Democratic ticket. You will find the Negroes here in the South to have less privileges than the Northern Negroes, but we are striving to uphold the law and to show discredit to any and all Negro bootleggers along with the opposite race, and the quicker financial disaster comes to the Negroes or white people who sell whiskey, the better it will prove for him, for he will then resort to something honorable for a livelihood. Mr. Ross should know that if the Republican party has done but little for the Southern Negroes, it certainly has not done anything against us, and the laws that have harmed us are handed down by the Democrats and not by the Republicans.

I only wish that my colored Democratic brethren of the North who enjoy untold privileges, and who are considered equals regardless as to who will win the presidency of the United States of America, would cast their eyes Southward and to remember that though we are far from you we are still suffering brothers and sisters and we feel that every Negro should vote the Republican ticket, thereby proving himself to be his Southern brother's keeper.

The Negroes in the South have always voted the Republican ticket, and more of us will vote this year in the South than ever before. We want America for Americans, and not for political Rome. We are opposed to the wet crowd, opposed to reformed Tammany, opposed to alienism, and opposed to Al Smith or any other wet Democrat even though disaster will or may come to dining car bootleggers helpers, hotel bootleg helpers and the restaurant bootleg helpers. I am taking a part in driving the Pope and Rome out of the United States in the casting of my vote and the using of my influence against Al Smith in being the president of the great government of ours.

JOEL H. JACKSON,
2221 Richland St., Columbia, S. C.

The Palmetto Leader
July 6, 1928

Opposes Segregation Says Negro Politician

Washington, July 5.—Perry Howard, negro Republican National committeeman from Mississippi, sounds the clarion call to the negroes of the nation to rally to the support of Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee for President. His call is sounded through the Washington Tribune, a negro newspaper published in the capital, and is given editorial approval.

"Mr. Hoover has taken a more forward step than any Cabnet officer in abolishing segregation," says Howard in regard to Hoover's famous segregation order, that was issued at the instance of an Ohio negro candidate for delegate to the Republican National convention.

"Colored Republican delegates played as conspicuous a part as they have in years," continued Howard in giving an account of the doing at Kansas City.

"There has been much said," he adds, "that there was a Hoover machine and it was lily white. This I emphatically deny. I do not think one would contend that the Mississippi delegation, one-half white and one-half colored, was lily white."

He points out that the South Carolina delegation was half colored, that there were negro delegates from Florida and Louisiana and that Walter Cohen, New Orleans negro political leader, wat seated at the instance of the big man himself. There were no negroes in the North Carolina delegation.

"I shall take the stump and defend Hoover," Howard explains. "There has never been a stronger ticket than the Hoover-Curtis ticket. I know of no member of my race who cannot afford to support it."

Howard was one of the National committeemen in the South who was given two thousand dollars by Rush Holland, a Hoover worker, accordng to the latter's testimony before the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures. Holland said that he stopped over in North Carolina "to write a few letters."

JOURNAL
KANSAS CITY, MO.

AUG 2 1928

NEGRO REPUBLICAN CLUB ORGANIZED IN 11TH WARD

At a Negro Republican organization meeting of the fourth precinct of the Eleventh ward at 1914 Montgall avenue last night the following officers were elected:

Mrs. Luverta Dorsey, president.
Kenneth Muson, first vice president.
Mrs. Rachael Rushing, second vice president.
Mrs. Ona B. Russell, secretary.
Mrs. Gladys Hudspeth, assistant secretary.

M. H. Duemmer, precinct captain, spoke urging all Negro voters to cast their ballots in the primary election.

INDIANAPOLIS
INDIANA

AUG 2 1928

G. O. P. TO PAY HUGE SUM FOR NEGRO BACKING

Liberal Part of $4,000,000 to Be Spent in Wooing Colored Population.

By KENNETH CRAWFORD
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A liberal part of the $4,000,000 the Republicans expect to spend in their efforts to elect Herbert Hoover will probably be devoted to win Negro votes.

This became evident today with announcement that a Negro voters' division of the Republican National Committee had been formed.

The announcement, made by National Chairman Work, did not specify whether an intensive drive was to be made among southern Negroes. It was believed, however, that main efforts would be centered on the large Negro voting population in New York, certain Middle West states and the border territory.

Organization Announced

John R. Hawkins of this city, who seconded Hoover's nomination at Kansas City, was appointed chairman of the executive committee directing Negro activity. Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh heads the publicity committee.

Organization committees and speakers' bureaus will be established in Chicago and possibly in New York, with main headquarters here.

An advisory committee of 200, headed by Charles W. Anderson of New York City, includes men and women from all sections of the country.

"A spirited campaign in which business, professional and religious leaders will have a prominent and active part will be launched immediately," Chairman Hawkins said.

How the remainder of the $4,000,000 Republican war chest will be used is a matter of speculation. Perhaps one-third of it will be devoted to publicity and speakers. Other expenditures will be made for special bureaus for labor, women, service men, foreign born voters, farmers, commercial travelers, clerical help and office maintenance.

"Plenty to Spend"

The Republican national committee spent $4,022,902 to elect President Hardnig in 1920, and was left at the end of the campaign with a $1,800,000 deficit.

In 1924, with President Coolidge as its candidate, the party spent slightly more than $3,000,000 and had a surplus left from contributions.

Work's decision to set $4,000,000 as this year's goal may be frowned upon by some party leaders, but others probably will agree that sum is needed.

"Smith will have plenty to spend," is often repeated political gossip, especially since the appointment of several big business men to the Democratic campaign organization, and Republican leaders are apparently determined that they too will have "plenty".

Political — Republican.

Party Affiliation

PRESS
ASBURY PARK, N. J.
MAY 29 1928

WEST SIDE GROUP FLAY "CONTROL," ASK RECOGNITION

Vice Conditions and Leadership By White Politicians Deplored at Negro Mass Meeting.

ATTACK SEGREGATION ON CITY'S BEACHFRONT

Demanding that the negro voters of the third, fourth and fifth districts of the first ward, together with other negro citizens of the city, be given recognition, negroes at a mass meeting last night in Roseland Hall, Springwood avenue, attacked city officials and declared that conditions on Springwood avenue were being protected by white people.

The meeting was called by Reese Du Pree, negro singer, and G. Wallace Edwards, one of the few negroes in the employ of the city. Edwards works for the health department. The meeting was hailed as a Republican good will and "get-together." It ended with the leaders pleading for the negroes to unite and control their own votes.

"A certain white man has made the statement that he had all the negro votes under his thumb," declared Du Pree. "The conditions that now exist are that unless you conduct a place of vice on Springwood avenue and are in with certain white men who are prominent in this city, you can't afford to conduct a place of business.

"The leaders are Republicans and in the past two years the negroes who resent this leadership have voted Democratic. I have joined this organization for the purpose of seeing that this condition which has existed for some time, is corrected.

Resent Dictation

"How would the white people cross-town like it if a negro was to enter their section and dictate to them and tell them what to do? That is pretty strong but it is the truth.

"We have about 2,300 votes and the way west Asbury Park is growing we expect that in the next five years we will have 3,500. We have two negroes in the employ of the city.

"We want things in the order they are in Atlantic City. There they have negro sergeants in the police department and a wonderful bathing beach. It would be very sad to know that if a woman or a man of color should go to the boardwalk and happen to stroll up the walk and become thirsty, she or he would have to wait until they returned to the beach south of the Casino.

"Asbury Park has grown and we have some very respectable people over here. Why should they be crowded out?"

The crowd in the hall increased as the program continued and the meeting reached its height when Rev. George A. Crawley, following an address by Du Pree, declared that the white leaders have offered the negro propaganda. He pleaded for them not to "swallow it hook, line and sinker."

After recalling the school segregation question at Toms River last year, during which time he said he had been approached by a lawyer at the Ocean county seat and asked to have his people pass the matter up for the time being, Crawley began his attack on the city officials.

Officials "Not Qualified"

"Everyone that went in there (meaning city offices) were not qualified at the time and some of them are not qualified now." He then recommended that at the next city election they sponsor and support their own candidate for a city office, and told them that until they supplanted their thoughts with actions they would not accomplish much.

"You have liquor shops, gambling and immoral houses, you have every conceivable thing over here," Crawley continued. "Surely somebody is getting money out of it. If a white man is getting some of that money then let a black man get some of it. I'm not in favor of this but if they are running these places then I say let someone but a white man get some of it."

"We don't want any leader that will go to the back door of a white man's house," the speaker said in conclusion, adding that a negro candidate should be named for the next commission contest.

George W. Edwards when introduced by the chairman, Thomas A. A. Parrotte, was said by the chair to be a speaker who was going to tell the meeting how he secured his city position.

Defies City Employers

"You know that I'm employed by the city," he began. "I have fought for my race for anything and I'm in accord with this movement. I have as much right to have my voice when my race is at stake as anyone.

"There hasn't been a letter said here tonight that I haven't agreed to," Edwards continued in assuring the negroes that he was their supporter.

Turning to the question of more negro policemen in the city department as well as a negro plainclothes man, Edwards declared, "There isn't an officer in Asbury Park who supports him," pointing at Omcer Tucker, negro policeman, who was sitting but a few rows from the platform.

"Why can't he be a plainclothes man? Just because he's black. I have no mortgages on me. If you don't think so go crosstown."

"Hetrick, White And Pratt" Told

He then declared that some had already carried the information to city officials that the meeting was going on.

"Some of you are going out there now," he continued. "Hetrick, White and Pratt know this meting is going on because someone has gone hooting around. The position that I got did not come from any black man. I got it thru hard work. This is a race fight.

"We are not rebelling. We are just doing what the white people have done and a white man has never gone to the ballot box and voted for a negro," Edwards concluded.

Du Pree taking the platform said he was going to speak the truth. After being assured that the audience would support him, he declared that he was going "to go down into the woodpile and clean it out."

"Money cannot buy me," Du Free shouted. "If I ever do anything wrong don't have anything more to do with me. When we elect a leader I'm going to see that he walks straight."

He then declared that he had been humiliated on the boardwalk when friends visited him, stating that the concessionaires had refused to serve them with drinks. Crawley had previously declared that his people had the right to recognition as much as the whites on the boardwalk in view of the fact that it was a public place and that the negroes as taxpayers were helping to pay the beachfront expenses "and to help build the Casino."

Du Press continued by saying that because he had not promised the negroes recognition on the boardwalk, a candidate for reelection at the last city election had been defeated.

"Last year, just before election, I was called to a house. There were two commissioners there. Both seeking reelection. They whipped around and then I asked one if he would grant us our privileges on the boardwalk. He waited and then he said he would not. That man didn't go back to office!" the negro singer yelled.

Du Pree offered to finance the organization which the negroes will form in their fight. He said that regardless of city officials, or others, one of whom had come to him with a threat, he would sponsor the organization. He charged that one had told him if he continued his fight to secure the recognition of the negro he would be cutting his own throat because he owns the Roseland.

"We are only asking this. We want to be treated square in a public place," Du Pree said.

Intimations were made that white men of the city were "working" the west side by getting "paid off" by owners of the gambling houses and liquor stores.

The leaders of the meeting last night announced that another would be held shortly and that the meetings would continue until their number had increased. They then plan to form a permanent organization and elect officers.

Woman Takes Part

Mrs. Montgonery Jones arose during the course of the meeting to warn the negroes in the selection of a leader.

"Don't let them rush you into anything and select a leader who is not qualified to lead you," she said. "We do not want to find that he had been led into the claws and clutches of the other group."

She said that the negroes had failed to organize because the women were timid and the men were not fearless enough. Pleading for a representative of her race in city government and declaring that the negroes had the same privileges and rights as others in this city, the woman apparently changed the course of the meeting from a political gathering to one of a group seeking the recognition of others. She was given a vote of thanks and the speakers that followed centered their addresses on local conditions instead of the November election.

TIMES DISPATCH
RICHMOND, VA.
MAY 19 1928

STUDENT DENIES ONLY "IGNORANT" NEGROES FOR AL

To the Editor of The Times-Dispatch:

Sir,—I would like to question Mr. Leake, of Hopewell, Va., whose letter appeared in The Times-Dispatch of May 13th instant. He presupposes that the "ignorant" Negroes only will vote for "Al" Smith if he is the choice of the Democrats when they convene in Houston. I, myself, and several of my schoolmates are thinking strongly of voting for "Al" Smith—but, maybe, we belong to that group of "ignorant" Negroes who would have "Al" Smith as their Chief Executive.

Ignorant or not, if I vote for above-named Democrat, it will be on account of the qualifications of the man. He is diplomatic, and a President should be a diplomat; his successful administration as Governor of New York has proven his executive ability, and a President is an executive—rather—the Chief Executive; he is a "wet," and I favor modification of the prohibition law, which I believe the "drys" will not favor; being a Catholic, he automatically is an opposer of the Ku-Klux Klan, that organization which, according to Imperial Wizard Evans, is "the Negro's best friend," but which, according to my judgment, is the Negro's friend if he admits of "white supremacy" in America.

Do these reasons not justify me in voting for such a candidate? There are, I believe, many Republicans who will desert the G. O. P. this fall if "Al" Smith runs on the Democratic ticket, many Negroes included, and they are not "ignorant" in any sense of the word.

The following may be reasons for the stand Mr. Leake has taken:

If he says the Negroes are ignorant because they desert their party, then is it not logical to say that the Democrats who, he says, will desert their party, that they, too, are ignorant?

Or, if he bases his statement on the belief that "Al" Smith is not suited for the office, then would he not be justified in saying that everybody who votes for "Al" Smith is ignorant?

If neither of the above is Mr. Leake's reason for his stand, I would like to know what is his reason or reasons.

H. CARTER SPURLOCK.
Richmond, Va.

HERALD
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Harlem Vote Held as Vital In Campaign for President

Tammany Has Made Great Effort With Success in Turning Colored Citizens Into Democratic Political Column

By JUDSON C. WELLIVER

The possibility that the presidential campaign will be won and lost in Harlem has caused the colored brother distinctly to chirk up lately. The Harlem district of Upper Manhattan Island now contains the most politically potential community of colored people in the United States.

"As goes Harlem, so goes the nation," observed a wise old New York politician today. Then he expounded:

"It isn't merely that Harlem has such an enormous colored population, but the colored people of Harlem have achieved an independence of the old political affiliations.

TAMMANY INTERESTED

The truth is that Tammany, since it realized that Harlem's colorder population was important in New York, has been taking a distinct interest in it. Tammany always adapts itself to circumstances. In its early years it took in the Irish immigrants who were then coming in great numbers, and a little later those same Irish took in Tammany.

Later, the other European elements were assimilated by it, to a larger extent than anywhere else, the Germans; then the Italians, and along with these so large a proportion of Jews, Russians, and all the rest, that New York practically has been ruled by a polyglot Tammany with this genius for gathering in all the elements.

DEMOCRAT MAJORITY

"The rise of Harlem to be a new sort of colored community in the United States has been a striking phenomenon of the last few years. It has been substantially coincident with the leadership of Al Smith in New York, and as a result there is probably a larger proportion of Democrats among the colored voters of Harlem than any other colored community in the country.

"Add to this, that New York is always a dangerous State for the Republicans when Al Smith runs, and a pivotal State in presidential years, and you will understand what I mean by saying that 'As Harlem goes, so goes the nation.'"

It is not merely the weight of Harlem's vote in New York that has given concern to the politicians. There is an uneasy feeling among the Republicans that if Harlem gets really independent, it is liable to prove a powerful leader among colored voters elsewhere.

MIGRATE NORTH

The northward migration of colored people during and since the war has made them more important in the North than in the South, because in the North they can get their votes cast and counted.

Tammany has made more progress in Harlem toward weaning the colored brother from his traditional devotion to the Republican party than has been made by any other Democratic organization.

Republican managers are discovering the significance of all this. They find that magazines, newspapers, pamphlets, books, intended primarily for colored people, have been dealing for several years with Harlem in a fashion to break down the ancient tradition of race loyalty to Republicanism.

LARGE COLORED VOTE

There is a very large colored vote in several close Northern States: New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Ohio, and Indiana especially.

In the North, colored people are mostly city dwellers. They come in contact chiefly with Dmeocratic, rather than Republican political machines. Following the lead of Tammany, other Democratic organizations have been cultivating their good will; and now the colored man of the North has suddenly become recognized. He might decide an election. If Smith is nominated, this colored vote in the North will be given an attention never before dreamed of in a presidential year.

UNION
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

MAY 17 1928

HOOVER WORKER REVEALS PAYING NEGRO LEADERS

Secretary Said to Have Had No Knowledge of Move, but Blow to Campaign Is Seen.

BOTH OPENLY NAMED ON GRAFT CHARGES

G. O. P. Organizers Accused of Selling Postal Jobs; Lowden Lost in 1920 for Similar Cause.

SPRINGFIELD UNION BUREAU.
WASHINGTON, D. C., MAY 16.

Trouble seems to be in the wind for the Hoover campaign with the revelation today by Rush Holland, a former assistant attorney general, that he had paid two Negro national committeemen, who are also delegates to the Republican convention, $2000 each out of the Hoover campaign funds to organize their States.

Back in 1920 Gov. Frank O. Lowden lost the nomination because it developed that one of his earnest workers had paid two Missouri delegates to organize their State and a Senate investigating committee found that instead the money went the the personal accounts of the delegates. In the present campaign Gov. Lowden is the strongest open opposition to Herbert Hoover for the mantle of Calvin Coolidge.

Careful Not to Repeat.

The managers of the Lowden campaign are being careful not to have repeated the 1920 payoff, and they are jubilant with the disclosures of Rush Holland. It is safe to say that the most will be made by all opponents, Democratic and Republican, of this situation. No one believes that Mr. Hoover himself had anything to do with the payments to Perry Howard, Negro committeeman from Mississippi, or Ben W. Davis, the Negro Republican boss of Georgia. Howard, in addition, is a lawyer and connected with the Department of Justice. He maintains a committee here in the interest of the Hoover candidacy toward which Rush Holland stated he was contributing $200 a week of the Hoover funds but did not from his own knowledge know what Howard was actually doing for the Hoover campaign.

Named in Postal Case.

Ben W. Davis, the Negro national committeeman and delegate from Georgia, has been under fire for some time as has Howard for alleged sale of patronage in postmaster appointments. Both are said to absolutely control Federal patronage in their respective States. Southern senators have made charges to both the Justice and Postoffice Departments in the alleged patronage sales practises, but investigations are said to have cleared them as far as they were personally concerned. More than a score of complaints have been registered against them with accompanying affidavits in this matter.

As usual there are two sets of delegates in both Georgia and Mississippi, both claiming the right to sit at the convention. This situation occurs every four years and the leaders have to make a decision before the convention opens as to which will be seated.

Effect in South.

These disclosures are bound to have their effect in the border and Southern States where there is strong race feeling and will be a blow to the prestige of Hoover in that section even though every politician in the South knows that the notorious borough system is used to pick delegates and that it takes money to control them. It is improbable that Hoover's opposition will let such a chance slip but will use this evidence of Rush Holland to the very limit. The Hoover managers have already foreseen that there would be trouble over this control of Southern delegates, and have countered by stating that both Howard and Davis came out long ago for Mr. Hoover. The money given them, they say, represents funds for campaigns to send Hoover delegates to Kansas City and that they head local Hoover campaign organizations. The Hoover men assert that the Secretary of Commerce would never for a moment approve the time-honored system of using money to influence Southern delegates, even though that system is traditional. The amount involved is small and they will use that point in fighting any allusion to it.

They state that Mr. Hoover is too big a man to stoop to such practises and that his personal popularity and reputation for honesty will offset any insinuations that his workers had bought the Negro delegates.

H. L. Mencken Finds Two Intelligent Negroes Here a Relief From White Morons

The following is a part of the dispatch written by H. L. Mencken, editor of The American Mercury, who is covering the Republican convention for the Baltimore Sun.

"After hours spent in listening to the burbling of such vacuums I took ship for the Druid Hill avenue of Kansas City, having heard that the colored delegates quartered out there had formed an Aframerican bloc and were planning some sensational deviltries. The ride was a long one, and I found no such bloc. On the contrary, I found that the dark brethren were divided exactly like their white colleagues, and that they suffered from the same lack of assured and hearty leadership. But at all events I found some intelligent men among them, and especially two. One of these was A. F. Holsey, secretary of Tuskegee Institute, and the other was Claude A. Barnett, director of the Associated Negro Press.

"Neither, it appeared, was a delegate, though both were agitating in favor of Dr. Hoover. Their reasons were sound, and they stated them clearly and forcefully. At the time of the late floods along the Mississippi, it appeared, Dr. Hoover had come nobly to the rescue of their oppressed people. Left to the mercies of the native Ku Kluxers, many of the colored refugees would have fared badly, but Dr. Hoover insisted that they be succored, and to make sure of it appointed eminent Aframericans to look after them. So Messrs. Holsey and Barnett had come to town to agitate for him.

"It did not appear that they had made any appreciable progress for colored delegates to a Republican national convention are mainly susceptible to persuasions of a somewhat different sort. In such matters, indeed, they are broad-minded and do not cherish grudges. Wherever the money is they will be found. But though Messrs. Holsey and Barnett were thus not too hopeful of getting anywhere with their propaganda they at least showed good humor, good manners and sound sense. It was a pleasure to meet them after suffering for hours among the white morons. They remained the most intelligent men I have encountered among persons officially attached to the convention, one United States senator and five bootleggers excepted."

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation.

COLORED REPUBLICANS SHOCKED AT ACTION OF COMMISSIONERS

DR. SOLOMON'S PROTEST IS SENTIMENT OF NEGROES, JEWS AND CATHOLICS

Colored Republicans were given the shock of their lives last week when it was announced the Republican Board of County Commissioners had granted the Armory to the Ku Klux Klan for a big celebration Labor Day, September 1st. The Armory belongs to the citizens of Jefferson County and it would seem that an organization having the reputation for deviltry in the spreading of racial and religious prejudice that the Klan would not be granted the use of public property for which the victims of the Klan's prejudice are taxed to maintain. Under previous administration—Republican and Democratic—the Klan was not allowed to parade or gather in public places, but the newly elected Republican County Commissioners quickly, and it might be said gladly, granted the Armory to them.

Many "big" Colored Republicans called The News, Friday night and Saturday and asked, "What do you think of that?" The reply was, "The News told you last fall the Republican party was permeated with the spirit of the Ku Klux Klan, if not actually controlled by it."

Thousands of gullible Negroes would not believe The News, but perhaps they will see it now.

Before September 1st there will be many protests made by Colored and white organizations against the use of the Armory by the Ku Klux Klan.

7-14-28

The Paul Laurence Dunbar Club boasts a membership of 1000 Colored Republicans. Surely they will protest against this action of Republican County Commissioners. The N. A. A. C. P., with a membership of 3000 will protest and other organizations may protest. If they are unheeded the proper thing to do would be to speak with the ballot when these gentlemen run again for office. If any trusting Negro does not think the Ku Klux Klan is anti-Negro let him read this from Collier's Weekly of July 14, in an article, "How I Put Over the Klan," by "Col." Simmons, founder of the Ku Klux Klan. The article says the "Klan was primarily intended to control Negroes. It was an Anti-Negro prejudice he sold to his fellows."

Louisville, Ky.

The Anti-Catholic, Anti-Jewish, Anti-foreign features grew up later on, he says.

So Colored people so crazy about Republicans as to fight each other over them can figue this out: The Republican.

K. K. K. was born Anti-Negro, and Republican officials put in power by Negro voters allow that organization to hold a jollification on public property Negroes are taxed to suport.

Read this from last week's Herald-Post, and think

The Ku Klux Klan was granted use of the Jefferson County Armory by county commissioneers Friday for a Labor Day mass meeting September 1, which will be sponsored by all Klan chapters in the county.

A free show, public speaking, lunch and refreshments will be served to the public. There will be no admission charge, it was said.

Costs of lights and other minor expenses will be the only charge that the county will make, it was said.

The request for use of the Armory was conveyed in a letter signed by two klan committees. Immediately after the letter was read. Frank J. Humbert, commissioner, made a motion that the request be granted. This was seconded by Ben F. Vogt and when put to a vote Judge Fox and Ben L. Brunner favored it.

Klan's Letter

The letter from the klan follows:

"To the County Commissioners of Jefferson County—Gentlemen: We the undersigned, acting upon authority and in behalf of the Ku Klux Klan, do hereby respectfully apply to you for permission to use the Jefferson County Armory on Saturday, September 1, 1928, from 8 a. m. until 12 midnight, as headquarters for a joint meeting of the Louisville klans.

"The meeting planned will be open to the public, free of any admission charge.

"A free show, public speaking and lunch and refreshments served within the Armory will be the principal features of the meeting.

"If you will grant us permission to use the Armory on the above named date we would ask that you would please sign this letter and return one copy of the same to bearer.

KNIGHTS OF THE KU KLUX KLAN.

Committee of Klan No. 127,
E. F. Gilliam, G. T. Tabler and J. Bruce Clark.

Committee of Klan No. 133,
C. B. Aubry, George M. Phillips and W. W. Castle.

As the letter was delivered on June 12, the duplicate copy was not handed to the bearer as the usual request called for.

In the following letter the noted Dr. Leon Solomon voices the sentiments of Negroes, Jews, Catholics and thousands of patriotic and just Americans:

Opposed to Klan Using Armory

To the Editor of The Times: I observe in the July 6 issue of The Times privilege has been granted by the eJefferson County Commissioners for the use on Saturday, September 1, of the Armory building by the Ku Klux Klan for a meeting scheduled to take place between the hours of 2 o'clock in the morning and 12 o'clock midnight.

According to published letter signed Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, bearing names of certain gentlemen, representing committeess of Klans Nos. 127 and 133, it is proposed that the Armory shall be used as headquarters for a joint meeting of Louisville Klans. The letter reads in part:

"The meeting planned will be open to the public free of any admission charge.

THE NEGRO DOES NOT WANT POLITICAL REPRESENTATION

The more we study our economic and political problems the more convinced we become that the Negro does not want political representation. The race is further today from economic and political solidarity than it was 30 years ago. We are more divided among ourselves, one against the other, each pulling for himself and against everybody else, than we were in the days of Bruce, Lynch, Lyons, Cheatham, Hill, Cuney and White.

Independent

There is no organized effort among us to build a leadership with a view of securing representation in Congress, legislatures, city councils and local governments. We do not want a place in the economy of party council; we would far rather see a white man filling every place in the party council than to see one another fill these places. We do not want such positions in the party organizations as chairman, secretary or central committeeman. We fret and foam at the mouth about representation on the national committee, when in truth, our activities are empty camouflage. Our game is purely one of "If I can't get it, you shan't have it, and I'd rather see a white man with it."

7-12-28

Atlanta

All of the racket about race representation is bunk. What the average Negro leader wants is a place for himself. It is to hell with the race if I can get what I want, and I'm not particular about the methods or means used to reach the coveted end."

At Kansas City there was a great campaign about race representation and there was not a single organized effort among the Negro men and women present to secure representation for the race or to increase its economic and political influence in party councils. There was a bunch of self-constituted leaders propagating race representation every day and there was no organization among these propagandists. What they were trying to put over was to make themselves important and create a market in which they might sell an influence which they never had.

Perry Howard was trying to preserve the integrity of his own organization on one hand and to fight lily-whites on the other, and he never received any help outside of Mississippi. Every other Negro leader was either fighting to preserve his own hide or was trying to impress the white man with his own importance with a view to selling himself to the highest bidder. Bob Church, of Tennessee, was too busy trying to retain his seat in the convention to help Ben Davis, of Georgia, or Perry Howward, of Mississippi. Walter Cohen had all he could do to retain his seat and received no assistance from his race outside of Louisiana. There were a lot of Negro leaders talking about Davis and Howard voting against Cohen, but these propagandists made no effort to render Cohen any assistance. Ben Davis was overloaded trying to maintain regularity in Georgia and was kept so busy fighting the traitors in and out of the state who were trying to defeat him and elect a lily-white for a lousy dollar to help his neighbors. McGill, in Florida, and McDonald, in Texas, were so busy fighting the lily-whites that they had no time to look after the race.

The Negro press was so busy propagating yellow journalism and misrepresenting the Negro delegates that it never thought of promoting race representation. And those of the race not strictly engaged in politics were so busy socializing, dancing and having a good time that they never thought of the welfare of their kith and kin. They were out for a red-letter night and never had time to think of little things like economic opportunity and political freedom.

Taking our observations at Kansas City in consideration together with the drift of the Negro towards a good time and the strife, envy, dissension and jealousy among us we can hardly escape the conclusion that the present educated Negro leadership doesn't want any place in the councils of the party, doesn't want any economic progress, doesn't want to be members of the national committee, state central committee or county committee or to hold places of political preferment or economic advantage.

A race of people divided into selfish groups and individuals makes no progress and in like manner the individual who loses himself in selfishness may earn money and prestige but success will be short-lived. Kansas City tells the story of race consciousness, race pride, and individual selfishness among the present-day Negro leadership. There was absolutely no effort at Kansas City by the Negroes who were not in trouble to help those out who were in trouble in order to give them race prestige and to promote the common good of all. Neither were there any efforts among those that were in trouble to make common cause among ourselves to win for all. Each tried to win for self, and, in a way, each lost for all. Yes, we lost prestige at Kansas City, but it was not because of any prejudice without the race, but because of our down-right selfishness, nonsense and short-sightedness within the race. No, Negroes do not want real political representation, they would rather see the white folk with it.

WHAT WAS IN THE COMMITTEE'S MIND

Senate probe committee investigating sale of patronage issued following statement at opening session Wednesday morning:

"The impression has gone out that this investigation will cause the removal of postmasters who have contributed money to secure their appointments or reappointments. The committee wants it distinctly understood that such is not its purpose. We want to get the exact truth of the situation and the committee will certainly do all in its power to protect those who tell the whole truth. If the hearings prove that tribute is being unlawfully levied upon the postmasters it is the view of the committee that those who collect and enforce this tribute are the ones to blame, and it is the purpose of the committee to make an end of this system."

What the distinguished Senators meant by issuing the above statement, and their purpose for doing so, is one largely of conjecture and will admit of many interpretations. The statement may be construed to influence postmasters who have made contributions to the Republican organization to give testimony that they would not have given for fear they would lose their jobs. So, in other words, it may be understood to mean an offer of immunity for evidence. Some may think that the statement is unfortunate and that postmasters would go further than the facts would warrant, if they were certain they would not lose their jobs, or be punished, especially in instances where the race question is involved.

We do not know what was in the committee's mind when it wrote or uttered the statement, and we will not attempt to say; but we do know that under the law a purchaser of a post office is just as guilty in the sight of the law as the seller; and that the postmaster who is guilty of giving anything of value as a consideration for appointment need not expect immunity from punishment, or retain his job. It has been the policy of the Post Office Department to fire every postmaster who gave a consideration for his appointment, and those who bought their office, if any, and expect to keep them, had better keep their mouths shut.

The present organization has never sold a post office in Georgia or offered to sell one, and never will so long as it is in its right mind and senses. We think the statement was unfortunate, but United States Senators are far wiser than we are, and we take it for granted that they issued the statement for the purpose of freeing the witnesses to tell the truth and not in any sense of immunity for incriminating evidence.

The law is plain on this point and admits of no equivocation. Read it:

"An Act to Prevent Purchase and Sale of Public Office.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that it shall be unlawful to pay or offer or promise to pay any sum of money, or any other thing of value, to any person, firm, or corporation in consideration of the use or promise to use any influence, whatsoever, to procure any appointive office under the Government of the United States for any person whatsoever.

"Section 2. It shall be unlawful to solicit or receive from anyone whatsoever, either as a political contribution, or for personal emolument, any sum of money or thing of value, whatsoever, in consideration of the promise of support, or use of influence, or for the support or influence of the payee, in behalf of the person paying the money, or any other person, in obtaining any appointive office under the Government of the United States.

"Section 3. Anyone convicted of violating this Act shall be punished by imprisonment of not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

Macon, Ga., Telegraph
Wednesday, July 11, 1928

Republican Crows

Particularly for the benefit of those who have decided that they will bolt the Democratic party this fall because of the "moral issues" involved, it is well to consider the testimony adduc ' before the Senate committee investigating patronage sales in Georgia, in the first day of its session. That testimony justifies every charge that has been made in connection with the hi-jacking methods employed by the Republican organization in this state to bleed both Democrat and Republican holders of federal office.

It was developed during the first day that:

1. The Republican committee in Georgia has a monthly payroll and expense account of $1,200.

2. It pays salaries to six persons that total more than $1,000 a month. Ben Davis gets $250 a month, the treasurer, John Martin, gets $250 a month; the chairman and the vice chairman of the state committee get $250 a month each.

3. Contributions are made monthly by practically all postmasters in the state.

4. Contributions are made monthly by practically all federal employes, including postal clerks and rural free delivery route carriers.

5. A card index system is used, under which a new employe's name is dropped into the card file and each monthly "contribution" is recorded on his card.

6. When a federal employe drops behind in his payments, he receives a letter from the treasurer asking him if it is his intention to make any further contributions.

7. Postmasters have been forced to pay money to retain their places.

8. Applicants have been forced to make large contributions to the Republican party, although they may be Democrats, to secure places. In the first day, it was brought out that such "contributions" had been made by the postmaster at Sardis, at Stockbridge and at Nahunta.

9. The postoffice department, presided over by a Republican cabinet member, knew about this hi-jacking and in the Nahunta instance told Ben Davis it could not receive any more recommendations from the patronage referee of that county. It did not appear that the Republican cabinet officer had made any investigation to see whether that was the general situation.

10. Ben Davis, the Negro Republican national committeeman, had received these complaints, but had done nothing about it.

Several conclusions are inevitable. In the first place, political parties do not pay the men who run their affairs. They pay the stenographers and the clerks who do the work, but the state chairman and the national committeemen and the other officers work for their party because they are patriotic, or because they are interested in politics, or because they hope for personal advancement thereby. In Georgia, the Republican leaders have introduced the high-financing method of sustaining themselves. Like overlords, they demand tribute from even the humblest federal employe in the state. They say these "contributions" are voluntarily, but the card-index record belies their claim. That record shows that postmasters in the same class, drawing the same salary, contribute the same monthly amount. It is not humanly possible for 50 people, in widely separated parts of the state, to make a "free will" offering in the same amount each month. Plainly, the postmasters are assessed. Plainly, they are told what they are expected to give.

Plainly, also, the money is extorted from them. If it was not extorted, if their jobs did not depend upon the contributions, Democrats would not be found contributing to the support of the well-fed Ben Davis in the sum of $250 a month. These men who "contribute" are not even making a "contribution" to the Republican party. Not a cent of what they give goes into the coffers of the national Republican party; not a cent of it is spent to perpetuate in office the party that gives them jobs. All of it goes to sustain the carrion crows who feed upon their vitals as soon as they are put upon the payroll of the federal government.

Not only is the monthly contributions made —totalling in a year more than $14,000—but the applicant for a postmastership must pay his toll. Mrs. Wilson, at Stockbridge, paid $75 to the organization so that her husband might have the postmastership, but he got it only after he had paid another $50. Instance after instance of that has occurred in the state.

Those who are interested in "moral issues" may find the reports of the patronage probe to be interesting reading.

who were trying to defeat him and elect a lily-white for a lousy dollar to help his neighbors. McGill, in Florida, and McDonald, in Texas, were so busy fighting the lily-whites that they had no time to look after the race.

The Negro press was so busy propagating yellow journalism and misrepresenting the Negro delegates that it never thought of promoting race representation. And those of the race not strictly engaged in politics were so busy socializing, dancing and having a good time that they never thought of the welfare of their kith and kin. They were out for a red-letter night and never had time to think of little things like economic opportunity and political freedom.

Taking our observations at Kansas City in consideration together with the drift of the Negro towards a good time and the strife, envy, dissension and jealousy among us we can hardly escape the conclusion that the present educated Negro leadership doesn't want any place in the councils of the party, doesn't want any economic progress, doesn't want to be members of the national committee, state central committee or county committee or to hold places of political preferment or economic advantage.

A race of people divided into selfish groups and individuals makes no progress and in like manner the individual who loses himself in selfishness may earn money and prestige but success will be short-lived. Kansas City tells the story of race consciousness, race pride, and individual selfishness among the present-day Negro leadership. There was absolutely no effort at Kansas City by the Negroes who were not in trouble to help those out who were in trouble in order to give them race prestige and to promote the common good of all. Neither were there any efforts among those that were in trouble to make common cause among ourselves to win for all. Each tried to win for self, and, in a way, each lost for all. Yes, we lost prestige at Kansas City, but it was not because of any prejudice without the race, but because of our down-right selfishness, nonsense and short-sightedness within the race. No, Negroes do not want real political representation, they would rather see the white folk with it.

WHAT WAS IN THE COMMITTEE'S MIND

Senate probe committee investigating sale of patronage issued following statement at opening session Wednesday morning:

"The impression has gone out that this investigation will cause the removal of postmasters who have contributed money to secure their appointments or reappointments. The committee wants it distinctly understood that such is not its purpose. We want to get the exact truth of the situation and the committee will certainly do all in its power to protect those who tell the whole truth. If the hearings prove that tribute is being unlawfully levied upon the postmasters it is the view of the committee that those who collect and enforce this tribute are the ones to blame, and it is the purpose of the committee to make an end of this system."

What the distinguished Senators meant by issuing the above statement, and their purpose for doing so, is one largely of conjecture and will admit of many interpretations. The statement may be construed to influence postmasters who have made contributions to the Republican organization to give testimony that they would not have given for fear they would lose their jobs. So, in other words, it may be understood to mean an offer of immunity for evidence. Some may think that the statement is unfortunate and that postmasters would go further than the facts would warrant, if they were certain they would not lose their jobs, or be punished, especially in instances where the race question is involved.

We do not know what was in the committee's mind when it wrote or uttered the statement, and we will not attempt to say; but we do know that under the law a purchaser of a post office is just as guilty in the sight of the law as the seller; and that the postmaster who is guilty of giving anything of value as a consideration for appointment need not expect immunity from punishment, or retain his job. It has been the policy of the Post Office Department to fire every postmaster who gave a consideration for his appointment, and those who bought their office, if any, and expect to keep them, had better keep their mouths shut.

The present organization has never sold a post office in Georgia or offered to sell one, and never will so long as it is in its right mind and senses. We think the statement was unfortunate, but United States Senators are far wiser than we are, and we take it for granted that they issued the statement for the purpose of freeing the witnesses to tell the truth and not in any sense of immunity for incriminating evidence.

The law is plain on this point and admits of no equivocation. Read it:

"An Act to Prevent Purchase and Sale of Public Office.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that it shall be unlawful to pay or offer or promise to pay any sum of money, or any other thing of value, to any person, firm, or corporation in consideration of the use or promise to use any influence, whatsoever, to procure any appointive office under the Government of the United States for any person whatsoever.

"Section 2. It shall be unlawful to solicit or receive from anyone whatsoever, either as a political contribution, or for personal emolument, any sum of money or thing of value, whatsoever, in consideration of the promise of support, or use of influence, or for the support or influence of the payee, in behalf of the person paying the money, or any other person, in obtaining any appointive office under the Government of the United States.

"Section 3. Anyone convicted of violating this Act shall be punished by imprisonment of not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

Macon, Ga., Telegraph
Wednesday, July 11, 1928

Republican Crows

Particularly for the benefit of those who have decided that they will bolt the Democratic party this fall because of the "moral issues" involved, it is well to consider the testimony adduc ' before the Senate committee investigating patronage sales in Georgia, in the first day of its session. That testimony justifies every charge that has been made in connection with the hi-jacking methods employed by the Republican organization in this state to bleed both Democrat and Republican holders of federal office.

It was developed during the first day that:

1. The Republican committee in Georgia has a monthly payroll and expense account of $1,200.

2. It pays salaries to six persons that total more than $1,000 a month. Ben Davis gets $250 a month, the treasurer, John Martin, gets $250 a month; the chairman and the vice chairman of the state committee get $250 a month each.

3. Contributions are made monthly by practically all postmasters in the state.

4. Contributions are made monthly by practically all federal employes, including postal clerks and rural free delivery route carriers.

5. A card index system is used, under which a new employe's name is dropped into the card file and each monthly "contribution" is recorded on his card.

6. When a federal employe drops behind in his payments, he receives a letter from the treasurer asking him if it is his intention to make any further contributions.

7. Postmasters have been forced to pay money to retain their places.

8. Applicants have been forced to make large contributions to the Republican party, although they may be Democrats, to secure places. In the first day, it was brought out that such "contributions" had been made by the postmaster at Sardis, at Stockbridge and at Nahunta.

9. The postoffice department, presided over by a Republican cabinet member, knew about this hi-jacking and in the Nahunta instance told Ben Davis it could not receive any more recommendations from the patronage referee of that county. It did not appear that the Republican cabinet officer had made any investigation to see whether that was the general situation.

10. Ben Davis, the Negro Republican national committeeman, had received these complaints, but had done nothing about it.

Several conclusions are inevitable. In the first place, political parties do not pay the men who run their affairs. They pay the stenographers and the clerks who do the work, but the state chairman and the national committeemen and the other officers work for their party because they are patriotic, or because they are interested in politics, or because they hope for personal advancement thereby. In Georgia, the Republican leaders have introduced the high-financing method of sustaining themselves. Like overlords, they demand tribute from even the humblest federal employe in the state. They say these "contributions" are voluntarily, but the card-index record belies their claim. That record shows that postmasters in the same class, drawing the same salary, contribute the same monthly amount. It is not humanly possible for 50 people, in widely separated parts of the state, to make a "free will" offering in the same amount each month. Plainly, the postmasters are assessed. Plainly, they are told what they are expected to give.

Plainly, also, the money is extorted from them. If it was not extorted, if their jobs did not depend upon the contributions, Democrats would not be found contributing to the support of the well-fed Ben Davis in the sum of $250 a month. These men who "contribute" are not even making a "contribution" to the Republican party. Not a cent of what they give goes into the coffers of the national Republican party; not a cent of it is spent to perpetuate in office the party that gives them jobs. All of it goes to sustain the carrion crows who feed upon their vitals as soon as they are put upon the payroll of the federal government.

Not only is the monthly contributions made —totalling in a year more than $14,000—but the applicant for a postmastership must pay his toll. Mrs. Wilson, at Stockbridge, paid $75 to the organization so that her husband might have the postmastership, but he got it only after he had paid another $50. Instance after instance of that has occurred in the state.

Those who are interested in "moral issues" may find the reports of the patronage probe to be interesting reading.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation,

Republican,

TEXAS DELEGATION AND HOOVER!

In supporting Herbert C. Hoover for the Republican nomination for president of the United States, The Houston Informer, as mentioned in the editorial endorsement of last week, was a Hoover booster back in 1919—long before the present Republican regime in Texas had landed in the Hoover band wagon.

In fact, prior to the hectic convention of 1920, when the present Republican administration in this state was striving frantically to gain control of the postoffices and other federal jobs, after eight years' absense due to Democratic reign, and to feast once more at the federal pie counter, The Informer published an editorial supporting Mr. Hoover for the presidency; but added that it was feared the party "bosses" would hardly look favorably upon Mr. Hoover's candidacy, due to his connection with a Democratic national administration and his disregard for party orthodoxy.

Houston Informer

Well, Mr. Hoover looks just as good to The Informer as ever—in fact, he looks better at this angle, for during the past seven years as secretary of department of commerce of the United States, he has demonstrated to all that he is presidential timber; that he believes in efficiency and proficiency in government; that he appreciates and understands the status and attitude of the masses of American citizens; that he has the respect, confidence and goodwill of American electors who believe in and contend for honesty and efficiency in the conduct of governmental affairs.

3-3-28

Yes, Mr. Hoover certainly looks good to us—except for some pale and ominous shadows thrown on him by a few political manipulators who are now standing back of him and ostensibly pushing his cause in the Lone Star State.

Houston, Texas

What assurance have we that the present Republican regime in Texas really wants Mr. Hoover nominated and elected?

Despite the fact that this partisan faction is standing for Mr. Hoover this minute, have they only stepped there for reasons best known to themselves?

Since Mr. Hoover is not a staunch "organization" man and does not advocate strict adherence to the doctrine of party orthodoxy, it is hard to convince The Informer that the Texas Republican "machine" is anxious to see a man nominated for standard-bearer on the national ticket of the party who holds such party views as Mr. Hoover is supposed to hold in this respect.

Furthermore, who can tell what course the present Republican regime will take, in the event their "slate" is elected as delegates to the National Republican Convention at Kansas City, Mo., June 12, 1928, if we are to judge future partisan actions by past political performances?

A political party which supports a prohibitionist for office one time and an anti-prohibitionist at the next election; which trots out an anti-klux candidate in 1922 for senate and then supports and backs a klux kandidate for governor in 1924; which urges the election of a Republican congressman from a congressional district in 1920, 1922, 1924 and then stubbornlly opposes and bitterly fights that same congressman's re-election in 1926; a party "machine" which changes almost as regularly as the moon, and always endeavors to play both ends against the middle; which tries to blow hot and cold at the same time; which makes an effort to run with the hound and the hare—any such partisan organization can hardly be trusted to remain steadfast and loyal in the face of a deadlock in balloting for party presidential nominee, not even in a National Republican Convention!

The Informer wonders if the present party "machine" in Texas, if elected as delegates and alternates to the June convention at Kansas City will stand by Mr. Hoover first, last and always; or will they repeat the stunt of 1920, when they agreed to the Harding compromise and elected a national administration which was dominated largely by political tricksters and partisan gangsters, until public sentiment arose in its might against that crooked clique and forced them into the political discard, and carried President Harding, the unfortunate victim of that midnight compromise in a Chicago hotel, to an untimely and premature grave?

We have always heard that a half-friend is worse than a whole enemy, and this is just as true in political affairs as in other lines; and it is up to the genuine Hoover supporters in Texas—without regard to color or past affiliations—to see that delegates are elected at the Republican state convention in Dallas, Tuesday, May 22, 1928, who will neither double-cross nor "ditch" the Hoover cause at the least flurry or under the guise of political exigency and partisan expediency.

The Informer is unalterably opposed to electing a delegation to the Kansas City convention, which can not be depended upon to "stay in there and fight" for Mr. Hoover's nomination through "thick and thin!"

The Informer would be willing to wager a dollar to a ginger snap (if its editor were a betting man) that there will not be one delegate or alternate on the Creager-Nolte slate but will vote just like the Texas party "bosses" want him to vote.

Of course, it is probable that they will stay with Hoover until Mr. Creager thinks that Mr. Hoover can not win the presidential nomination, and then who knows but that the Texas delegation will vote for the compromise choice of Creager and the other party bosses?

Despite the fact that it is rumored that word has already been passed down the line as to the line-up of Texas Republican delegates and alternates to the national party gathering, and notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Creager is supposed to be "shelling the woods" in the state for Mr. Hoover, it is interesting to observe that none but rabid, dyed-in-the-wool, pro-Creager men are being mentioned as members of the Texas delegation—in the main, the delegation, as already decided upon by the party bosses several months in advance of the state convention, is practically the same as in 1920 and 1924, with one or two possible exceptions.

If the Republicans of Texas are wise, whether they be pro-Hoover or anti-Hoover, they will bestir themselves and organize their forces to participate in the precinct conventions called under the authority of the Creager-Nolte administration, which are due to be held in the various voting precincts of the state, Saturday, May 5, 1928.

At these precinct conventions the voters of their respective precincts will elect delegates to the county conventions, which will be held Tuesday, May 8, 1928, at some place designated in advance by the county chairmen of the party organization. At the county conventions delegates will be elected to the state convention which will convene at Dallas, Tuesday, May 22, 1928.

The Informer suggests that the black Republicans of Texas, who favor and are friendly to Hoover's candidacy, or who even favor electing an uninstructed delegation to the National Republican Convention, hold a statewide conference in the immediate future, and there counsel and lay plans for wresting the Texas party from the vest pockets of Creager, Nolte & Co., Inc., distributors de luxe of federal patronage; to see that all Republican electors have a voice and vote in all conventions in the state, beginning with precinct and ending with state, and that Texas will not send a delegation to the national meeting which will re-enact the famous stunt of 1920.

If the Texas Negroes will organize their forces and profit by the mistakes of the past along this line, they can effect their partisan freedom and political emancipation during 1928—for if we do not liberate ourselves during this year, we are doomed to partisan extinction and political oblivion.

LOUISIANA G. O. P. GOES TO COURT

Republican

2-25-28

New Orleans, La., Feb. 21.—(By A. N.P.)—The open rebellion in the ranks of the Republican Party of Louisiana reached the courts here Wednesday when eleven members of the Lily White State Central Committee, affiliated with the faction headed by Emile Kuntz, collector of customs and national committeeman of Louisiana, obtained a temporary injunction, restraining eleven followers of Walter Cohen, collector of the port, from attempting to select delegates to the National Republican Convention. The injunction was granted by Judge

Birmingham Ala.

Political-1928

Party Affiliation,

Republican,

TEXAS DELEGATION AND HOOVER!

In supporting Herbert C. Hoover for the Republican nomination for president of the United States, The Houston Informer, as mentioned in the editorial endorsement of last week, was a Hoover booster back in 1919—long before the present Republican regime in Texas had landed in the Hoover band wagon.

In fact, prior to the hectic convention of 1920, when the present Republican administration in this state was striving frantically to gain control of the postoffices and other federal jobs, after eight years' absense due to Democratic reign, and to feast once more at the federal pie counter, The Informer published an editorial supporting Mr. Hoover for the presidency; but added that it was feared the party "bosses" would hardly look favorably upon Mr. Hoover's candidacy, due to his connection with a Democratic national administration and his disregard for party orthodoxy.

Houston Informer

Well, Mr. Hoover looks just as good to The Informer as ever—in fact, he looks better at this angle, for during the past seven years as secretary of department of commerce of the United States, he has demonstrated to all that he is presidential timber; that he believes in efficiency and proficiency in government; that he appreciates and understands the status and attitude of the masses of American citizens; that he has the respect, confidence and goodwill of American electors who believe in and contend for honesty and efficiency in the conduct of governmental affairs.

3-3-28

Yes, Mr. Hoover certainly looks good to us—except for some pale and ominous shadows thrown on him by a few political manipulators who are now standing back of him and ostensibly pushing his cause in the Lone Star State.

Houston, Texas

What assurance have we that the present Republican regime in Texas really wants Mr. Hoover nominated and elected?

Despite the fact that this partisan faction is standing for Mr. Hoover this minute, have they only stepped there for reasons best known to themselves?

Since Mr. Hoover is not a staunch "organization" man and does not advocate strict adherence to the doctrine of party orthodoxy, it is hard to convince The Informer that the Texas Republican "machine" is anxious to see a man nominated for standard-bearer on the national ticket of the party who holds such party views as Mr. Hoover is supposed to hold in this respect.

Furthermore, who can tell what course the present Republican regime will take, in the event their "slate" is elected as delegates to the National Republican Convention at Kansas City, Mo., June 12, 1928, if we are to judge future partisan actions by past political performances?

A political party which supports a prohibitionist for office one time and an anti-prohibitionist at the next election; which trots out an anti-klux candidate in 1922 for senate and then supports and backs a klux kandidate for governor in 1924; which urges the election of a Republican congressman from a congressional district in 1920, 1922, 1924 and then stubbornlly opposes and bitterly fights that same congressman's re-election in 1926; a party "machine" which changes almost as regularly as the moon, and always endeavors to play both ends against the middle; which tries to blow hot and cold at the same time; which makes an effort to run with the hound and the hare—any such partisan organization can hardly be trusted to remain steadfast and loyal in the face of a deadlock in balloting for party presidential nominee, not even in a National Republican Convention!

The Informer wonders if the present party "machine" in Texas, if elected as delegates and alternates to the June convention at Kansas City will stand by Mr. Hoover first, last and always; or will they repeat the stunt of 1920, when they agreed to the Harding compromise and elected a national administration which was dominated largely by political tricksters and partisan gangsters, until public sentiment arose in its might against that crooked clique and forced them into the political discard, and carried President Harding, the unfortunate victim of that midnight compromise in a Chicago hotel, to an untimely and premature grave?

We have always heard that a half-friend is worse than a whole enemy, and this is just as true in political affairs as in other lines; and it is up to the genuine Hoover supporters in Texas—without regard to color or past affiliations—to see that delegates are elected at the Republican state convention in Dallas, Tuesday, May 22, 1928, who will neither double-cross nor "ditch" the Hoover cause at the least flurry or under the guise of political exigency and partisan expediency.

The Informer is unalterably opposed to electing a delegation to the Kansas City convention, which can not be depended upon to "stay in there and fight" for Mr. Hoover's nomination through "thick and thin!"

The Informer would be willing to wager a dollar to a ginger snap (if its editor were a betting man) that there will not be one delegate or alternate on the Creager-Nolte slate but will vote just like the Texas party "bosses" want him to vote.

Of course, it is probable that they will stay with Hoover until Mr. Creager thinks that Mr. Hoover can not win the presidential nomination, and then who knows but that the Texas delegation will vote for the compromise choice of Creager and the other party bosses?

Despite the fact that it is rumored that word has already been passed down the line as to the line-up of Texas Republican delegates and alternates to the national party gathering, and notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Creager is supposed to be "shelling the woods" in the state for Mr. Hoover, it is interesting to observe that none but rabid, dyed-in-the-wool, pro-Creager men are being mentioned as members of the Texas delegation—in the main, the delegation, as already decided upon by the party bosses several months in advance of the state convention, is practically the same as in 1920 and 1924, with one or two possible exceptions.

If the Republicans of Texas are wise, whether they be pro-Hoover or anti-Hoover, they will bestir themselves and organize their forces to participate in the precinct conventions called under the authority of the Creager-Nolte administration, which are due to be held in the various voting precincts of the state, Saturday, May 5, 1928.

At these precinct conventions the voters of their respective precincts will elect delegates to the county conventions, which will be held Tuesday, May 8, 1928, at some place designated in advance by the county chairmen of the party organization. At the county conventions delegates will be elected to the state convention which will convene at Dallas, Tuesday, May 22, 1928.

The Informer suggests that the black Republicans of Texas, who favor and are friendly to Hoover's candidacy, or who even favor electing an uninstructed delegation to the National Republican Convention, hold a statewide conference in the immediate future, and there counsel and lay plans for wresting the Texas party from the vest pockets of Creager, Nolte & Co., Inc., distributors de luxe of federal patronage; to see that all Republican electors have a voice and vote in all conventions in the state, beginning with precinct and ending with state, and that Texas will not send a delegation to the national meeting which will re-enact the famous stunt of 1920.

If the Texas Negroes will organize their forces and profit by the mistakes of the past along this line, they can effect their partisan freedom and political emancipation during 1928—for if we do not liberate ourselves during this year, we are doomed to partisan extinction and political oblivion.

LOUISIANA G. O. P. GOES TO COURT

Reporter

2-25-28

New Orleans, La., Feb. 21.—(By A. N.P.)—The open rebellion in the ranks of the Republican Party of Louisiana reached the courts here Wednesday when eleven members of the Lily White State Central Committee, affiliated with the faction headed by Emile Kuntz, collector of customs and national committeeman of Louisiana, obtained a temporary injunction, restraining eleven followers of Walter Cohen, collector of the port, from attempting to select delegates to the National Republican Convention. The injunction was granted by Judge

Birmingham News

HOOVER—HARMONY—HAPPINESS!

Having been besieged with queries, both oral and written, as to what presidential aspirant The Informer thinks the Negroes of Texas and the South should support in the pre-convention campaign—whether we should line up with the Lowden forces, or back the Hoover movement; whether any other Republican aspirant would prove a better man than these two outstanding presidential prospects—this paper holds to the same opinion it held in the fall of 1919, when it discussed the presidential possibilities for 1920.

Informer

At that time The Informer discussed the availability of Henry Ford, who was being prominently mentioned as Republican presidential nominee; Herbert Hoover, in whose behalf a mild pre-convention campaign was tentatively projected by some of his admirers and supporters; the late General Leonard Wood, whose cause we finally espoused after Mr. Hoover would not consent to enter the race; Charles Evans Hughes, one of the most brilliant statesmen America has produced; and former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who made a mighty fine war-time chief magistrate of the Prairie State, and is recognized as being sympathetic and friendly to the Negro race.

Our delay in announcing our pre-convention choice for president has been occasioned by our "watchful waiting" policy, to see if any other aspirant would enter the presidential field who would prove a better man than Mr. Hoover or any of the other avowed candidates and "favorite sons."

2-25-28

The "favorite son" idea has never had any particular appeal to The Informer, for it only affords the said "favorite" a chance to so manipulate and maneuver affairs as to get some concessions in the final showdown.

Houston, Tex.

Every citizen is quite familiar with the public record of Mr. Hoover; his activities during the World War as national food administrator, and how capably he managed and conducted this mammoth program; his recent interest and activity in the Mississippi River flooded area; his grasp on public questions and issues, particularly as they affect our domestic prosperity and resultant harmony and happiness, as well as our international relationships; how he advocates and stands for efficiency and proficiency in governmental affairs; his utter lack of party orthodoxy.

Another thing, Mr. Hoover has not solicited and is not yet seeking the office of president, but the office seems to be seeking him, which is one of the best recommendations as to his character, ability and qualifications for the highest elective office within the gift of the American electorate.

In discussing and considering the fitness and qualifications of aspirants, prospects and candidates for various public offices, it is customary for groups or blocs to discuss and consider such official possibilities in the light of their attitude and sympathy towards said group or bloc.

In this respect, if Mr. Hoover maintains the same sympathetic attitude towards the Negro race as he has in former years, and as he did recently when he virtually issued an edict in the Mississippi River flood area, practically emancipating thousands of Negro peons and serfs from the damnable and diabolical slave-system almost universally in vogue in the delta section; if Mr. Hoover remains the man with a free mind, and if he stays loyal and steadfast to his religious creed and training; if he does not permit designing politicians and political demagogues to sway and sweep him from the path of his holden duty, The Informer considers him the best man in the field for Republican nomination as standard-bearer in the 1928 general election.

As far as the Negro citizens of Texas are concerned, the fact that the anti-Negro Republican regime has already announced for Mr. Hoover should have no ill or depressing effect upon our group; for we are free, untrammeled electors of the state and national governments, and have the constitutional and inalienable right to support any man, for any office in the gift of said electorate.

The fact that one Republican faction in Texas has already endorsed Mr. Hoover's candidacy and is now organizing white "Hoover-for-president" clubs in various sections of the state, trying to enroll and enlist white Democrats to the Hoover cause; and the fact that another group of white Republicans has launched an anti-Creager movement in the state, should not deter the Negroes of Texas from bestirring and interesting themselves in the presidential aspirant which we believe will make the best chief executive of the republic; for are we not part and parcel of this nation, and is not the Republican party, nationally, the only political organization which gives the Negro some type of recognition and consideration?

The voting strength, in Texas, and most Dixie states, both pre-convention and general election, lies in the Negroes of said state, and thus our racial group is in a position to wield a powerful influence in the cause of any particular presidential prospect or aspirant; if we will only organize our forces, concentrate our efforts in one given direction and labor unselfishly towards the consummation of our program.

The Informer has made the repeated suggestion that the Negro voters of Texas should hold a statewide conference and take some definite political action before it is too late; but if no such parley is called, then we suggest that Negroes in their several communities assemble, discuss the merits of the various presidential prospects, and then line up behind and support the man they think will best serve theirs and the country's interests.

The Informer believes that man is Herbert Hoover.

While no authentic information is available at this writing, it is The Informer's calculation that fully 150,000 to 200,000 Negroes are qualified to vote in Texas during 1928; and this voting power can certainly be felt, either in pre-convention activities in the cause of various presidential aspirants or in the primary elections of next July, or in the general election during next November.

To The Informer's way of thinking, the Texas Negro stands today on the threshold of a new and better day, from both a partisan and political standpoint, if the black race in this state will just manifest a little interest and activity as other citizens in our commonwealth are doing.

The Texas Negro is a victim of political slavery and partisan excommunication; partisan usurpers have driven the Negro from the party of his first love and thus today we find the Texas black man largely in a state of apathy, indifference and lethargy regarding the exercise and enjoyment of his elective franchise rights.

Again we reiterate that "he who would be free, himself must strike the first blow;" and the hour has arrived in Texas when the Negroes must arise in the strength of their manhood and womanhood, contend with all their energy for their constitutional rights, both as Republican electors and plain citizens of the commonwealth.

We should have as much interest in who is to occupy the presidential chair as any other group in our polyglot population, and we can do that by organizing our forces and giving our pre-convention support to the candidacy of Honorable Herbert Hoover, the present secretary of commerce of the United States, and the one man in the field endowed with the necessary prerequisites and qualifications for filling the highest elective office in the country with fairness, credit and distinction.

The nomination and election of Herbert Hoover will mean that the ship of state will be guided by a safe and sound skipper for the next four or eight years.

HOOVER—HARMONY—HAPPINESS! This is The Informer's slogan, and battlecry from now until the national Republican convention meets at Kansas City, Mo., June 12, 1928.

HOOVER—HARMONY—HAPPINESS!

Having been besieged with queries, both oral and written, as to what presidential aspirant The Informer thinks the Negroes of Texas and the South should support in the pre-convention campaign—whether we should line up with the Lowden forces, or back the Hoover movement; whether any other Republican aspirant would prove a better man than these two outstanding presidential prospects—this paper holds to the same opinion it held in the fall of 1919, when it discussed the presidential possibilities for 1920.

Informer

At that time The Informer discussed the availability of Henry Ford, who was being prominently mentioned as Republican presidential nominee; Herbert Hoover, in whose behalf a mild pre-convention campaign was tentatively projected by some of his admirers and supporters; the late General Leonard Wood, whose cause we finally espoused after Mr. Hoover would not consent to enter the race; Charles Evans Hughes, one of the most brilliant statesmen America has produced; and former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who made a mighty fine war-time chief magistrate of the Prairie State, and is recognized as being sympathetic and friendly to the Negro race.

Our delay in announcing our pre-convention choice for president has been occasioned by our "watchful waiting" policy, to see if any other aspirant would enter the presidential field who would prove a better man than Mr. Hoover or any of the other avowed candidates and "favorite sons."

225-28

The "favorite son" idea has never had any particular appeal to The Informer, for it only affords the said "favorite" a chance to so manipulate and maneuver affairs as to get some concessions in the final showdown.

Houston, Texas.

Every citizen is quite familiar with the public record of Mr. Hoover; his activities during the World War as national food administrator, and how capably he managed and conducted this mammoth program; his recent interest and activity in the Mississippi River flooded area; his grasp on public questions and issues, particularly as they affect our domestic prosperity and resultant harmony and happiness, as well as our international relationships; how he advocates and stands for efficiency and proficiency in governmental affairs; his utter lack of party orthodoxy.

Another thing, Mr. Hoover has not solicited and is not yet seeking the office of president, but the office seems to be seeking him, which is one of the best recommendations as to his character, ability and qualifications for the highest elective office within the gift of the American electorate.

In discussing and considering the fitness and qualifications of aspirants, prospects and candidates for various public offices, it is customary for groups or blocs to discuss and consider such official possibilities in the light of their attitude and sympathy towards said group or bloc.

In this respect, if Mr. Hoover maintains the same sympathetic attitude towards the Negro race as he has in former years, and as he did recently when he virtually issued an edict in the Mississippi River flood area, practically emancipating thousands of Negro peons and serfs from the damnable and diabolical slave-system almost universally in vogue in the delta section; if Mr. Hoover remains the man with a free mind, and if he stays loyal and steadfast to his religious creed and training; if he does not permit designing politicians and political demagogues to sway and sweep him from the path of his holden duty, The Informer considers him the best man in the field for Republican nomination as standard-bearer in the 1928 general election.

As far as the Negro citizens of Texas are concerned, the fact that the anti-Negro Republican regime has already announced for Mr. Hoover should have no ill or depressing effect upon our group; for we are free, untrammeled electors of the state and national governments, and have the constitutional and inalienable right to support any man, for any office in the gift of said electorate.

The fact that one Republican faction in Texas has already endorsed Mr. Hoover's candidacy and is now organizing white "Hoover-for-president" clubs in various sections of the state, trying to enroll and enlist white Democrats to the Hoover cause; and the fact that another group of white Republicans has launched an anti-Creager movement in the state, should not deter the Negroes of Texas from bestirring and interesting themselves in the presidential aspirant which we believe will make the best chief executive of the republic; for are we not part and parcel of this nation, and is not the Republican party, nationally, the only political organization which gives the Negro some type of recognition and consideration?

The voting strength, in Texas, and most Dixie states, both pre-convention and general election, lies in the Negroes of said state, and thus our racial group is in a position to wield a powerful influence in the cause of any particular presidential prospect or aspirant; if we will only organize our forces, concentrate our efforts in one given direction and labor unselfishly towards the consummation of our program.

The Informer has made the repeated suggestion that the Negro voters of Texas should hold a statewide conference and take some definite political action before it is too late; but if no such parley is called, then we suggest that Negroes in their several communities assemble, discuss the merits of the various presidential prospects, and then line up behind and support the man they think will best serve theirs and the country's interests.

The Informer believes that man is Herbert Hoover.

While no authentic information is available at this writing, it is The Informer's calculation that fully 150,000 to 200,000 Negroes are qualified to vote in Texas during 1928; and this voting power can certainly be felt, either in pre-convention activities in the cause of various presidential aspirants or in the primary elections of next July, or in the general election during next November.

To The Informer's way of thinking, the Texas Negro stands today on the threshold of a new and better day, from both a partisan and political standpoint, if the black race in this state will just manifest a little interest and activity as other citizens in our commonwealth are doing.

The Texas Negro is a victim of political slavery and partisan excommunication; partisan usurpers have driven the Negro from the party of his first love and thus today we find the Texas black man largely in a state of apathy, indifference and lethargy regarding the exercise and enjoyment of his elective franchise rights.

Again we reiterate that "he who would be free, himself must strike the first blow;" and the hour has arrived in Texas when the Negroes must arise in the strength of their manhood and womanhood, contend with all their energy for their constitutional rights, both as Republican electors and plain citizens of the commonwealth.

We should have as much interest in who is to occupy the presidential chair as any other group in our polyglot population, and we can do that by organizing our forces and giving our pre-convention support to the candidacy of Honorable Herbert Hoover, the present secretary of commerce of the United States, and the one man in the field endowed with the necessary prerequisites and qualifications for filling the highest elective office in the country with fairness, credit and distinction.

The nomination and election of Herbert Hoover will mean that the ship of state will be guided by a safe and sound skipper for the next four or eight years.

HOOVER—HARMONY—HAPPINESS! This is The Informer's slogan and battlecry from now until the national Republican convention meets at Kansas City, Mo., June 12, 1928.

Political

Party Affiliation.

Republican.

SENATOR MOSES EXPOSES G. O. P. HOLD CARD

EDITORIAL

READ IT AND WEEP

In a speech before the Woman's National Republican Club of New York City a few days ago, the New York World quotes Senator George H. Moses, the eastern manager of the Republican campaign, as follows:

W-12-28

After his speech, in which Senator Moses criticized the Democratic stand on tariff, and Gov. Smith's attitude on Prohibition and his affiliation with Tammany, he opened the floor to questions.

Washington D.C.

One of the women in his audience asked about reports that Herbert Hoover had placed Negroes over white men doing work on the Mississippi flood relief, and about another report that the Republican nominee had made promises to Virginia Negroes for their support.

"I don't know that any such condition exists," replied Senator Moses, "but if any promises have been made, they will be kept."

SENATOR RAISES RACIAL ISSUE

"I do know this, however," continued the Senator, "that in Washington there is no colored Civil Service Commissioner who dictates to a white stenographer of the female sex, such as I understand is done right here in New York."

Some of the audience applauded, but about half of the women received it in silence.

Many Republican leaders frankly disliked the Senator's remark. They took the stand that it was unnecessary and could serve only to create bitterness and misunderstanding.

It was pointed out by these same men, however, that the Republicans as a party should not be placed in such a position, since Negro recognition is given by the party in New York City as elsewhere.

Anyone reading the remarks of Senator Mosis must realize now, if never before, that the policy of the present day Republican party is the complete elimination of the Negro from holding any office under the control of that party. When we say any office we mean an office such as we have held in years gone by under both the Democratic and the Republican parties.

It is surprising that a man of Senator Moses' New England heritage and training should subscribe to the dictation of the members of the Ku Klux Klan now dominating the Republican party. But we should not be surprised at Moses' attitude. Has not Calvin Coolidge, with the same heritage and environment, consistently lived up to the preachments of this same sentiment now openly expressed by Mr. Moses? Was it not Calvin Coolidge who persistently refused to issue an executive order to abolish segregation in the Federal government under his administration? Was it not this same President Coolidge, who has the dubious credit of being the first President of the United States, to place the stamp of Federal approval on segregation? This he did when he signed the jim-crow bathing beach for the District of Columiba.

The Ku Klux Klan with its insidious race and religious prejudice, is in control of the Republican party. Its spirit dominates the actions of its leaders. The Willebrandts, the Works and the Ogden Milles, filled with race prejudice, religious intolerance and proscription, are the ones who, like Moses, feel the urge to join with the bigots who are today running wild throughout the country tearing down the traditions dear to the heart of every true American.

The speech of George Moses should cause the thinking Negroes everywhere to at last realize that there is no hope for them in the Republican party. Moses says that the Republican party, according to the New York World, "That in Washington there is no colored Civil Service Commissioner who dictates to a white stenographer of the female sex." This is a direct plea to the rabid prejudice of the South which Hoover and his outfit expect to capture. The remarks of Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, was not so much for New York consumption as it was for the consumption of the bigots and race haters in the South. Senator Moses is franker than his fellows in the Republican party. Most of them have the same sentiment in their hearts but do not have the nerve, the brazen effrontery of Moses to make it vocal.

The speech of Senator Moses, the New England cracker, the man from the bleak hills of New Hampshire, the man who will, in the event of the unfortunate control of the next Senate by the Republicans, be the Speaker protem, should cause the Negro voter of the country to awake from his political lethargy. This speech together with the policy of the Republican party of the past eight years to eliminate the Negro from the party councils and places of preferment, or as William H. Lewis said four years ago, the "pie counter," should cause the Negro to make political reprisals. What self respecting Negro, after the latest insult by one of the leaders of the G. O. P. can even hold his nose and vote for Hoover? Where are the Negroes who will still insist that the Republican party is the ship and all else the sea? If there be any such still using that moth eaten slogan of the late Frederick Douglass we would invite them to a realization of the fact that the ship is scuttled by the pirate crew who are its present commanders and that they are ready to sink the old ship in the black waters of race prejudice and religious bigotry and intolerance.

KILL THE NIGGER

Every town in the South has heard the fiendish shout "Kill the nigger!" upon some occasion when it was alleged that some man of color had committed some offense. No proof was necessary; no trial was thought; no feeling of the possibility of doubt or of provocation entered the breasts of those bent upon destroying one more of the hated brood.

Man became a wolf, and a black skin became the red flag of incitation to riot and mob violence. All the pent-up antagonism of years broke forth under the spell of an excuse for destruction, and neither age or sex, neither past record nor future usefulness caused hesitation.

From time to time, as when Jack Johnson fought Jim Jeffries, the slaughter cry was heard even in cities of the North, but the busy marts of trade were slow in responding to the savage cry of the white pack.

Today, in the turmoil of political strife, that cry has been whispered in secret places and the word has gone forth the length and breadth of the land.

In the house of his friends, in the ranks of the Republican party, the cry is "Kill the Nigger," and it is being obeyed. Not satisfied with the sacrifice of Perry W. Howard upon a pretext that carried to its conclusion would disrupt the post office system of the country, according to the published statements of Senator Brookhart, that cry has led to the civic and political lairs of Oscar dePriest and Dan Jackson of Chicago.

Their reward for services to the Republican party is to be what was the reward of those loyal Negroes who kept that party in power after the Civil War and enabled it to make rich and powerful those directing minds who had battened upon the nation's internal dissension.

At last the bands are off the Negroes' eyes and he sees the promise-breakers and political sophists for what they are. As the Republican party used the Southern whites, "scalwags" to corral the newly freed blacks to keep it in power then, so today, it flirts with the "lily whites" and crucifies the blacks who have the manhood and the intelligence to understand the power of the ballot.

Illiterate and unthinking white are fed upon bigotry and religious bugaboo which the party disclaims while it distributes it, and blacks of spineless disposition are loaded with empty honors and shorn of power and resources to make their work effective.

Self defense is an elemental attitude even for animals; today in meeting the Republican cry of "Kill the nigger", that American citizen is going to vote to protect himself against his subtle enemies and false friends.

HOOVER EASTERN MANAGER HURLS BOMBSHELL AT NEW YORKERS

Senator Moses Astounds Harlemites By Boldly Endorsing The Republican Policy Of Segregation

(Amsterdam News Service)

New York, Oct. 10—The color issue was boldly raised here Monday, this time by one high in the ranks of the Hoover campaign forces, when Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, Eastern manager of the Republican National Committee, slammed a broadside at the Democrats for permitting a Negro civil service commissioner to dictate to a "white stenographer of the female sex." He hurled his scathing criticism out before 500 members of the Women's National Republican Club.

Senator Moses, a New Englander, who is not conversant with the political intricacies of New York, was following the lead of the Ku Klux Klan organ, the Fellowship Forum, which published a picture of Ferdinand Q. Morton, Democrat, civil service commissioner, dictating to a white stenographer. His reference was made of the same man.

Leaders Disagree

Applauded by half of his audience, a sector of equal size received his tirade in silence. Leaders of the Republicans openly disagreed with the remarks, which they contend can only serve to arouse bitterness and possibly create a breach between white and colored Republicans.

It was pointed out, also, that the senator was unwise in choosing his subject, for recognition is given colored Republicans in New York as elsewhere. There as Assistant District Attorneys Hubert Delaney and Richard Baltimore in the United States Attorney's office; Charles W. Anderson, Collector of Internal Revenue, postoffice superintendents and other officials holding appointive offices without engendering the least friction and no discrimination is made in assigning white workers to assist them.

The bombshell of Moses came after a speech in which he ridiculed the Democrats for their tardy espousal of the tariff. Concluding, he submitted to questioning.

One woman asked if it were true that Herbert Hoover had placed Negro officials over white men during the Mississippi flood relief. Another wanted to know whether the Presidential candidate had made promises to colored Virginians for their support.

Moses Didn't Know

"I don't know that any such condition exists," he replied, "but if any promises have been made, they will be kept."

Continuing, he declared: 'I do know, however, that in Washington there is no colored civil service commissioner who dictates to a white stenographer of the female sex, such as I understand is done right here in New York."

Party Regrets Rashness

Regret that the color issue should be raised by one of the highest campaign officers flowed freely through Republican circles. The Senator only meant, it was insisted, to draw a comparison showing that Democrats and Republicans alike acknowledge the place of the Negro to serve in public office. Meanwhile, the campaign forces await the wave of protest expected to come from the Negro constituency.

SAYS REPUBLICANS FRIENDS OF NEGRO

Discusses Southern White Men Who Support Hoover In Vituperative Vein

By ATTICUS MULLIN

Ben Davis, for many years Republican National committeeman of Georgia and editor of the "Atlanta Independent" negro publication, points out in an editorial in a recent issue of his paper that the Democratic party is the "anti-negro party" while 'The Republican party has always been the friends of the negro."

The negro editor in a vituperative vein discusses the white men of the South who are supporting Hoover, and Curtis but who believe in white supremacy. Of these men the negro editor and Republican leader says "The Independent is 100 per cent Republican because it cannot be bought by Democratic money or be bulldozed out of the party by Lily White Republican and commercialized negro grafters who would sell their wives and daughters into political slavery and economical ruin for pelf and plunder.

"The Democratic party," says the negro Republican boss of Georgia, "is anti-negro and has been from its incipiency. It was and is the party of slavery and opposed the adoption of the thirteenth amendment which abolishes slavery. It opposed the adoption of the fourteenth amendment which made us citizens and clothes us with the right to vote and hold property instead of being sold like cattle. It opposed the fifteenth amendment which promised us protection at the ballot box."

And continuing his tirade against the Democratic party the negro Republican boss in Georgia says: "It has disfranchised us in every state by ingeniously designed unconstitutional amendments to state constitutions and nullified every decision of the Supreme Court of the United States declaring these amendments null and void."

Doesn't Like Jim Crow.

The negro Republican boss of Georgia does not like Jim Crow and segregation laws and in his editorial he lays these laws at the door of the Democratic party in the following language: "In every Democratic state in the Union the negro has been Jim Crowed on the train, segregated where he lives, discriminated against in business, disfranchised and denied equal protection of the law. In every Democratic state the negro is shut out of the Democratic primary by force of court injunctions.

"The negro is told everywhere in Democratic states that the Democratic party is the white man's party and negroes are not wanted."

The negro Republican boss and editor says the Republican party has ever been the friend and protector of the negro. "In no state in the Union," says the negro editor, "where the Republican party controls is there a Jim Crow, disfranchisement, or segregation law. In no Republican state is there any separation of the races on public carriers or shutting the door of political opportunity in the negroes' faces."

"The Republican party enfranchised the negro. It voted for and passed the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments to the federal constitution which prohibited slavery, made the negro a free man, gave him the right to hold property instead of being a chattel and placed the ballot in his hands to protect himself in the enjoyment of life. liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"We are 100 per cent Republican," further declares the negro editor and Georgia Republican party boss "because there is not one line of discriminating legislation on the books of any state in the Union placed there by the Republican party but on the contrary there is special legislation on the books of every Democratic state in the Union outlawing the black man's rights and put there by the Democratic party over the protest and vote of the Republicans."

Copies of the Atlanta Independent edited by the negro Ben Davis, reached Montgomery Thursday. Democratic head quarters had no comment to make when shown a copy of the paper carrying the editorial. But the editorial became a subject of comment in political circles in the Capital City Thursday and amazement was expressed that such an article was published in the heat of a poltical campaign in the South where many former Democrats have gone into Republican ranks.

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation.

MEANING OF ROBERT R. CHURCH'S VICTORY

MEMPHIS MAN SCORES AT REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

MASTERLY PRESENTATION BY WEST TENNESSEAN IN KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI

"Robert Church was seated in the last Republican National Convention held in Kansas City, Mo., as was his alternate from his congressional district." While this was the text of a news item that appeared in most of the newspapers during the hearing of cases and the passing on credentials on the contesting of seating of delegates from many states, people in Nashville, Middle Tennessee, East Tennessee and West Tennessee, caught the full significance for the paragraph in the papers. They were confident of the fact that Bob Church had won a stubbornly contested case and re-achieved a glorious victory; he had out-generalled his opponent, out-manoeuvered his political enemies, and had placed himself in a position to again head the Republican Organization from Shelby County and from West Tennessee.

Some of those who attended the Kansas City Convention and who were fortunate in watching the fight of the credential committee before the national committee on the floor of the National Republican Convention, were not slow to announce their admiration for the manner in which Church handled his case. They said he made a picturesque figure, presented cold facts and convincing arguments on the case which was finally won by Mr. Church himself. Some of the old political war horses and leaders referred to the time when Norris Wright Cuney, a former Texan, when for twenty-four or twenty-five years this leader of the Party for his state, fought his case out before the committee. They referred to Bill McDonald from Texas, as another stalwart leader in the Republican Ranks, who was able to present his case. They referred to the contest that Col. Link Johnson, the stalwart Georgian won before his opponents some years ago in Chicago, and then they go back to Memphis and were able to show and are showing that this Tennessean, this man from Memphis, this born political leader, this splendid organizer, well and familiarly known throughout the volunteer state as "Bob" Church, but who is christened as Robert R. Church, from year to year had to fight the same group, overcome the same obstacles and contend with the same forces from his town, whether it be in the Tennessee Republican State Convention or the National Republican Convention They say he is like Calvin Coolidge, that he has never lost, he has never been defeated; that his quiet manner, his gentlemanly bearing, but his unwielding and uncompromising position have kept him afloat, have made him one of the men to be reckoned with in the affairs of the nation.

There are those who are already predicting that Mr. "Bob" Church will be in the councils of the nation and will be one of the advisors in the great campaign that is already well under way, especially since the Democrats and Republicans have both named their standard-bearers, selected their candidates and are off to see who is to win the goal, who is to triumph.

Mr. Church has made few statements for publication, but one of his friends is said to have heard him make a remark that Tennessee would in all possibility, be listed in the Republican Party, that she would go for Hoover in November, and that Bob Church's victory over his enemies, his political opposers rather than his personal enemies, would go a long way toward placing Tennessee in the Republican column again, and that his thirteen or fourteen thousand votes in Shelby County would more than off-set the Democratic vote in West Tennessee; that he would deliver these to the Hoover ticket.

Republican.

LET'S HEAR FROM THE CANDIDATES!

—o—

Party chieftans may beat their tom toms, the orators may make the welkin ring, but Negroes know there is nothing for them in either party platform, or in the deliberations of either party convention. The thirty-six words of the republican platform entitled "The Negro" were really "law enforcement," and bore more upon the lawlessness of thousands of white lynchers, than upon the few Negroes who are the mob's victims. The democratic platform said as much and as little as the republican when it said nothing.

The conventions were alike in lacking advantage for us, and both were marked by deliberate affront. The republicans gave their official endorsement to lily-whiteism. The democrats seated their Negro visitors, not only in a segregated section, but behind screens.

Choice of party this year for Negroes will depend upon the candidates, because there is no other reason. The old arguments, for and against, are claptrap, and whoever makes them, is fooling nobody but himself. The real issue is Hoover or Al Smith. Happily for the country, both men as shown by their records, are better than Harding or even Coolidge at the time he made his first race for president.

The difference between the two nominees is one of kind. Hoover, as befits an engineer, has been getting things done. He has worked acceptably as a private citizen, and as a public official. He has done it at home and abroad. He has done it over many years.

Al Smith has spent most of his days in public life, and in it has earned his advancement. New York is not the nation, but as far as a state can show the man, he has proven himself a thinker who has definite ideas about government, which have been approved by his constituency.

As the campaign develops, and the fight gets hot, the Negro vote will count. Much as the party man tries to see a walk away for his candidate, the campaign of 1928 is going to be close! The small vote which Negroes in northern states will cast can easily be the deciding factor. We shall be worse than fools if we do not make our support the fair exchange for a man's chance, and a citizen's right. We will be wise to pledge ourselves after, rather than before the candidates speak out on the Negro. Let the campaign, rather than the conventions tell us where we stand. Let Hoover and Smith do what their parties failed at.

JOURNAL
KANSAS CITY, MO.
JUN 30 1928

NEGRO G. O. P. WORKERS FORM THIRD WARD CLUB

Negro members of the third ward organized a Republican club at a meeting in the Cornerstone Baptist church last night. These officers were elected:

H. B. Thomas, president; William White, vice president; M. Allen, treasurer; W. H. Thomas, secretary; John Curray, sergeant-at-arms.

The organization will hold a business meeting July 5 at its temporary headquarters in the church, 2030 Summit street.

TUSKEGEE HEAD MAY DIRECT THE G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTIN, D. C., July 3. — It is possible that Dr. Robert Russa Moton, Tuskegee institute principal, may become manager of the Republican presidential campaign among colored voters. He arrived here Tuesday night for conferences with party leaders. His aid, Albon Hosley, has been here since last Saturday.

Dr. Moton became associated with Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the republican nominee for President, in connection with the Mississippi flood relief work. He served as chairman of the colored advisory committee which assisted Secretary Hoover.

Picture 1. Dr. Emmett J. Scott, Perry Howard and Dr. R. R. Moton are all three candidates for the Hoover campaign for the presidency.

Says Dr. Moton And Tuskegee Institute Should Not Enter Politics.

To The Editor:

I note with much concern and interest an article appearing in the AFRO in its issue of June 30th, under the caption, "Three leaders battle for Sen. O. P. Pale. Dr. Emmett Scott, Perry Howard and Dr. R. R. Moton would direct campaign. Hoover to select political leader." Being of southern birth and antecedent, I am necessarily proud of Tuskegee Institute, Booker T. Washington, Dr. R. R. Moton and all who are connected with Tuskegee and Hampton Institutes.

Hence, I protest the action of any man who is willing to drag either of the two great institutions into politics.

When I read accounts of the activity of Mr. A. H. Holsey, secretary of Tuskegee Institute, at the Republican Convention, in the interest of Secretary Hoover, I wondered what that great gladiator and noble character, the late Booker T. Washington, would have said, had he been living, relative to Mr. Holsey's activity in politics. I sincerely hope that Dr. Moton will not allow himself and Tuskegee to be dragged into politics, as Tuskegee has quite a large number of influential Democratic friends.

In the event that he does, I wish to call his attention to this fact: When the Ku Klux Klan had him in exile as the result of colored nurses and doctors being placed in the veterans hospital at Tuskegee, and the Republican administration sat in a complacent attitude, the writer went to Senator William Cabel Bruce, Democrat, and placed the matter before him.

The distinguished senator instructed me to have you, Mr. Editor, get in touch with him that he might give you an interview to be published in the AFRO-AMERICAN, condemning the activity of the Klan. The article appeared and was copied from the AFRO-AMERICAN by forty of the leading white dailies in America, including the New York Times and Denver Post. Senator Bruce was so scathing in his denunciation of the Klan, until the Republican administration got busy and drove the Klan away from Tuskegee, hence the distinguished Dr. Moton was permitted to come out of exile.

One thing which I would like to impress upon Dr. Moton is that I am not asking him and his Tuskegee staff to support the Democratic party. Why I protest is that I do not feel that Tuskegee should be drawn into politics.

HENRY F. ARNOLD

-:- The Two Conventions -:-

By KELLY MILLER

KANSAS CITY and Houston have passed into history. The Repubican and Democratic conventions have met and adjourned. I attended both assemblies by radio. The "listener-in" at a distance of 1,500 miles gains a fuller and more intimate view of proceedings than the onlooker at closer range. The objectives of the two conventions were identical, namely, to declare the platform of principles for the approaching campaign, and to select the standard bearers. The methods of procedure were also identical.

The Republican Party was split two ways; the Democratic Party, three. The lines of cleavage ran parallel. The industrial and agricultural interests, the wets and the drys met at Kansas City. The wets and drys, the North and South, the Protestants and Catholics met at Houston. Compromise was the watchword at both camps.

Houston proved to be by far the more skillful manipulator. The knowing ones say the master mind and cunning hand in the case might be located in Albany, N. Y., dancing to the radio in gleeful nonchalance at the foreplanned procedure as it unfolded itself. A shrewd newspaper observer remarked that the Democrats can only win by a miracle; but he shrewdly added that Al Smith is a worker of miracles. If, indeed, it was his political cunning that composed the wide and deep differences in the Democratic Party, he certainly deserves to be called the wonder-worker. What manner of man is this Al Smith that even the discordant factions of the Democratic Party obey him?

— Kelly Miller —

The keenest interest centered about the prohibition plank in both conventions. Strange to say, the two parties used all but identical words in evasion of this great moral issue. They both fall back on that age-old device of reaffirming their basic belief in the enforcement of the Constitution in general and the prohibition provision in particular.

Honest and courageous Al Smith, on being advised of his nomination upon the platform, flashed back immediately to the convention that he accepted the prohibition plank without reservation, but with the distinct understanding that his duty to enforce the law as written does not commit him to silence as to what he considers desirable alterations, according to his oft-expressed and widely known views.

The two conventions were similar in the choice of candidates whose experience has been limited mainly to administrative affairs, without declared views on broad national and international questions. It is also remarkable that both parties selected as Vice-Presidential candidates respective floor leaders on the Republican and Democratic sides of the United States Senate.

I discovered no real difference between the two conventions on the race question, except the mere corporal presence of Negro delegates at the one and their absence at the other. The deliberations proceeded as if the Negro did not exist. They seemed both to be utterly oblivious of moral inconsistency of avowing intention of upholding the whole Constitution, without the slightest intention of including that part of the Constitution which safeguards the rights of the Negro race.

The alignment of the race during the campaign must depend mainly upon the appraisement of the purpose and intention of the two chosen leaders — Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith. Hoover's attitude seems to be constructive; Smith's attitude destructive. The Republican Party seems to be a better instrument through which to effect temperance reform than its Democratic adversary.

Throughout the Kansas City deliberations one did not hear a single word about moral issues, but merely material values. But to my utter surprise it was reserved to Judge Crisp of Georgia, in nominating Senator George of that State, to declare that there have been two great moral issues before the American nation since its foundation; the one was slavery and the other prohibition. He declared that the Democratic Party was defeated on the slavery question because it espoused the wrong side of a moral issue.

But to redeem the Republican Party from crass materialism, Mr. Hoover, in his response to the telegram advising him of his nomination, called the party's and the nation's attention to the importance of stressing moral and spiritual values.

After all has been said and done, we must look to Hoover to redeem the Grand Old Party and restore it to its pristine moral grandeur, just as the Democrats are looking to Al Smith to galvanize the Democratic corpse into life and power.

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation.

STAR
TERRE HAUTE, IND.
JUL 10 1928

The Daily Mirror of Washington

BY CLINT W. GILBERT

TEXAS CITIES WHICH MAY BE CARRIED FOR HOOVER.

Texas is a state in which the old solid Democratic party is breaking up, not so fast that the state is likely to go Republican in the near future, but still there will be many more Republican votes in Texas next November than ever before. Texans tell me that Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth are likely to go for Hoover in November. Perhaps this expectation may not be realized, for there is a tendency in all Southern states for the anti-Smith elements to become reconciled to the New York Governor.

In the Texas cities there is a growing disposition to get away from the old habit of voting the Democratic ticket blindly. In the rural districts the tendency still is to vote as the solid South votes. The coming of Eastern and Northern business men into the cities is one thing that has built up the Republican party in them. It is now respectable to be a Republican in urban parts of Texas, especially respectable this year. The Ku Klux Klan probably also was a factor in breaking party lines in the Texas cities in which it was strong. It never spread widely to the rural parts of the state.

Then, too, the Negro element is not so large a fraction of the population in Texas as it is in most Southern states, so that factor in keeping the South solidly Democratic is not so important in Texas as it is elsewhere in the South. Moreover, Texas, situated where it is, is as much a Western state as it is a Southern state.

Another political incident like the nomination of Bryan would shake the Democratic party of Texas to its foundations, for Texas is conservative. But the nomination of Governor Al Smith is not such an incident. The New York Governor will lose some Democratic support, probably less than it now looks as if he would. The evangelical preachers are attacking him, but it is a question whether in the end some of them will not hurt their own cause by their extravagance. Senator Heflin, it is said in Texas, has helped Al Smith.

Republican.

BULLETIN

Brunswick Pilot

JUN 5 1928

NEGROES IN THE PRIMARIES

THE QUESTION of barring negroes from the Democratic primaries is to come before the State Democratic Executive Committee when it meets next Monday, and it is expected that the Committee will issue instructions to county chairmen to see that a white man's primary is held throughout the state.

The law now gives the executive committee of the party authority to define the qualifications of those taking part in party activities. Until a short time ago, the law itself undertook to bar negro voters from Democratic primaries, which was contrary to the federal Constitution and was so declared by the Supreme Court a year or two ago. Whether the Court would give its approval to the present law vesting in the party the authority to enforce the color line is a question that is yet to be answered.

In Brown county there has never been any difficulty over the matter, since colored citizens of this county have always refrained from insisting upon a right to enter party primaries and not many of them vote in general elections. The colored citizenship in this county is limited, and is of such character that there probably would be little or no protest if they should undertake to vote in the primaries. If the State Democratic Committee issues instructions, however, to close the polls to negroes, the edict will be obeyed here as elsewhere, and it is probable that regardless of the action of the State Committee the white man's primary rule will be enforced in several counties having large negro population.

In all likelihood, a Court ruling will be handed down, sooner or later, invalidating the act of the Fortieth Legislature which empowers the party executive committee to enforce the color line. Obviously, it seems to us, the Legislature can not delegate to the executive committee of the party authority to do something that it can not do itself; that is, if the Legislature can not enact laws closing the primaries to negro voters, it can not give authority to the party organization to exclude negro voters from participation in such elections.

Florence, S. C., News Review
Tuesday, June 26, 1928

PERTINENT QUESTIONS

Anent the talk of bolting which has been going the rounds for some time, The Greenvile Piedmont makes these pertinent remarks:

Not a few esrtwhile Democrats insist they will vote for Hoover in the event, now conceded, of Smith's nomination. Will they vote in November as they talk in June?

If the names of some of the colored delegates to Kansas City are put upon the Republican ticket of electors in this state, would that help to get out the vote?

As much of an advocate of prohibition as this newspaper is, and as well as it thinks of Hoover, now is the time to give emphasis to a statement that we have made from the beginning. There are some things more important to South Carolinians than prohibition. Is it necessary to go into details to remind South Carolinians of them?

The only way out for the voter who conscientiously holds that he cannot vote for Governor Smith is to refrain from voting at all this year, in the primaries, or at the general election, for it seems inevitable now that Smith will be in the running. It does not seem the part of patriotism to treat thus lightly the right of suffrage.

Pittsburgh Courier

Named Candidate For Presidential Elector

Pittsburgh, Pa.

7/14/28

COLUMBUS, O., July 12.—Negro adherents of the Republican Party in Ohio are rejoicing this week over having had for the first time in the history of Ohio politics one of their number selected to run as a candidate for Presidential Elector on the Republican ticket in November. This high honor was bestowed on Councilman Thomas W. Fleming of Cleveland, by the Republican State Convention meeting here this week.

Another important thing done for the benefit of Negro citizens of Ohio by the Republican State Convention was the insertion of the following plank in the State Platform adopted by the convention:

"Anti-lynching: Favors enactment of adequate laws, state and federal, inhibiting lynching, and pledges to the Negro the civil, religious, and political liberties guaranteed by the commonwealth."

REPUBS WILL NAME FULL STATE TICKET

Committee Meets In Birmingham To Make Nominations And Plan Campaign

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., June 12.—Special to The Advertiser.—A complete state ticket and electoral ticket will be nominated by the Republican state executive committee of 42 members, when it meets in Birmingham Wednesday, July 18, according to Republican leaders here. The committee was authorized to make all nominations for state offices and for the electors at the Republican state convention which met in Birmingham May 16, it is explained.

J. C. Swann, of Mobile, state chairman, will preside. C. B. Kennamer, of Birmingham, is secretary of the committee. Members from the Ninth Congressional District are T. J. Kennamer, J. G. Bass, J. L. Abercrombie and J. T. McEnnairy.

Advertiser

Leaders Thursday refused to predict nominations and only said they would draft the best men available for the offices to be filled in the November elections.

7-13-28

A vigorous campaign is contemplated by the Republicans in the state, not only for state offices, but for the national ticket, and Republicans here will play a prominent part in the Hoover campaign, it is thought. Opinion was expressed Thursday that Republicans are facing the best year in Alabama they have had and considerable interest is manifested in the ranks concerning the approaching nominations for state offices.

The campaign committee and campaign manager will be chosen at Wednesday's meeting.

POLITICAL EXPEDIENCY

Anyone of interest who attended the National Republican Convention at Kansas City, Mo., June 12, 1928, would observe with keen interest the wisdom of the statesmen in the selection of nominees, and the drafting of the platform, that would insure the masses of the American republic a continuation of the policies of progress and prosperity of the administration. One with only passing interest could observe the scrutiny used so as not to embarras or have the least inclination to repudiate the Coolidge administration.

In the selection of Secretary Hoover it is generally understood that we have a strict humanitarian, one whose sympathies for the suffering and whose deep interest in the fortunes of the underdog are unbounded; who is the product of the modern business world; who believes that human progress comes best through highly-developed industrial progress.

In the selection of Senator Curtis we have a regular of regulars who stands four-square on all administration issues, who is a medium through which the farmer's interest will have a square deal.

If it was expedient for the great statesmen of America to go to the voters in November with the strongest ticket in sight and a solid front without confusion in their ranks, how much more expedient is it for the Negro politician to present to the leaders of the Republican party solidarity.

There is a sentiment in nearly all meetings where colored and white assemble, to "get rid of the Negro." Can't you see "the handwriting on the wall" Why? It is because of the confusion in his own ranks; it is because of his selfish ambitions for power, popularity and greed for money.

These are some of the obstacles that stand in the way of our group, and obstruct our path of progress.

Our last state convention was the most harmonious I have attended in years. In many of the district conventions where we have had confusion for the last sixteen years, going up to every National Convention with a contest, at the last district conventions B. J. Davis, made it a point to be present at these meetings and all confusion was eliminated and the delegations went to Kansas City uncontested.

Our people are too intelligent now to forget and overlook the services rendered the Republican party and the Negro by B. J. Davis.

The Atlanta Independent is in a class to itself when it comes to fighting the battles of the Republican party of the State of Georgia and the Negro in general.

The debauchery practiced by some of the members of the Georgia delegation, unquestionably will be a stigma on those delegations that they will not live long enough to erase from their record.

Judging from the actions and practices of B. J. Davis before and during the state and district conventions, it was his fondest hope to go to Kansas City, Mo., without friction or confusion among the delegates of Georgia, thereby presenting to the National Convention once, a delegation united, fighting for those principles which the Republican party stands for, and to carry out the instructions given by their constituents, who sent them as representatives. The reason this was not done was because a Negro acted as an instrument for white men.

If the Negro loses his identification with the Republican party through this dissension, losing the National Committeeman, we need not blame the executive committee of the National Committee, nor the lily-whites, because the Negro will be the cause.

We are our greatest enemy.

J. A. Lee.

Cuthbert, Ga.

HOMER PHILLIPS MAY HEAD COLOERED G. O. P. WORK

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11—The news has gone out that the Republican campaign, as regards the Colored vote, will be waged differently than in other years. It is said that the work for the Negro vote will be conducted from the Capitol under the direction of one man.

Much speculation has been going the rounds as to the man. The strongest tip is Homer Phillips of St. Louis, president of the National Negro Bar Association, who has had much experience in national campaign work.

Mr. Phillips, it is said, has the backing of Dr. R. R. Moton of Tuskegee, and "Bob" Church, national leader of Memphis.

FALSEHOOD AND MISREPRESENTATION

We quote below an excerpt from a country newspaper, in which it seeks to stir up racial strife, intolerance and religious bigotry in order to keep decent white people from voting for Secretary Hoover for President. This little dirty sheet charges that Secretary Hoover was in Atlanta not long since, and breakfasted with B. J. Davis, colored, secretary of the Republican State Central Committee. Mr. Hoover was neither in the city nor breakfasted with Mr. Davis. Mr. Hoover has not been in Atlanta, as far as our information goes, in a couple of years, and when he was here he was the guest of the Chamber of Commerce, or some other reputable white institution.

Is it possible that the Democrats must resort to lies, falsehood and misrepresentation to carry this state for Governor Smith? We do not believe that Governor Smith will stand for any such libel, slander and slime. But it only shows to what extent the sinners of race hatred, bigotry and intolerance will go to carry their point. Read the excerpt!

"Hoover recently visited Atlanta and Ben Davis, the big nigger boss, entertained for breakfast. His next visit was to Savannah, where he was met by the fat nigger committeewoman to whom he bowed and scraped. Yet many Georgia Democrats are threatening to vote for Hoover."

Georgia Demos Paid Sums Into G.O.P. Coffers

Postal Employes Under Investigation Of Republican Patronage

Negro Won't Talk

Davis 'Knows Nothing' Of Alleged Deals

ATLANTA, GA., July 9.—(AP)—Records that many Democratic postal employees have paid regular monthly sums into the treasury of the Georgia Republican central committee and testimony by two officials denying that money had been levied or assessed was presented today before the Senate sub committee and investigating Republican patronage in this state.

A card index, offered by John W. Martin, treasurer of the Central Committee, showed that postal employes, among others, have paid sums varying from $8.50 to $12.50 monthly. Martin declared that so far as he knew all the payments were made voluntarily. He said he had solicited none and knew of no others who collected the funds paid into his hands.

Negro "Knows Nothing."

Ben J. Davis, negro former national committeeman, preceded Martin on the stand, and assured that he also knew nothing of alleged levying on postal employes. Davis said, however, that he had heard complaints that funds had been collected. He declared that the only money he had received was that donated by regular party members at the time of the state convention.

Martin said all contributions received by him were disbursed to meet expenses of the committee and on orders of the committee. He estimated monthly expenses of the organization, including salaries and office rent, to average about $1,200.

Both Davis and Martin related to the committee the salary disbursements of the treasury. Martin said salaries once totalled $1,050 monthly but had been reduced somewhat. Davis, as secretary of the central committee was paid $250 monthly; Martin himself $250 and the same sum to Roscoe Pickett, chairman of the committee. Other salaries of $75 and $30 were paid to assistants, Martin said, saying that at one time the vice-chairman also received a salary of $250 monthly.

Senators Cyrus Locher, Democrat, of Ohio, member of the sub committee and Senator Walter F. George, Georgia, who is assisting the inquiry assailed the record of payments shown on the card index presented by Martin.

Money Is "Voluntary."

"Do you mean to tell this committee that all this money is voluntary? It just all comes in?" inquired Locher.

"Yes, as far as I know," Martin answered.

"Don't you know that these payments are not voluntary and that most of the postmasters who contributed to the Republican party are themselves Democrats," George inquired.

"I presume that most of them are democrats, said Martin insisting that he himself had not solicited any funds." Asked if he had written any letters to contributors when they were delinquent, asking them to pay up, the treasurer said he had not.

Admits Letters.

Later, Martin, said he had written a few letters, not to solicit money, but to inquire if the contributors intended to continue their contributions.

Senator George, who conducted most of the examinations, sought to gain from Davis detailed accounts of what he had heard in regard to the complaints about solicited funds.

Under the steady questioning, Davis said he had been told that a republican county official accepted $200 from an applicant for a position as rural mail carrier at Nahunta, Ga. He also declared he had been told by a Mr. Davis, applicant for the postmastership at Stockbridge, Ga., that he had paid $50 to the county chairman.

Davis related he knew nothing about charges of assessments at Sardis and Waynesboro, but that at the latter place he had heard that the acting postmaster paid some money to somebody.

Never Heard of That Either.

George asked the negro whether it was true that Mr. Bargeron at Waynesboro paid a Mr. Quarles $250 and refused to pay any more. Davis said he never heard of it.

Both Davis and Martin asserted they knew nothing about a letter signed Ed Springer and purported to be advising persons that they could write to him at Marietta, Ga., for advice as to contributions.

Davis said it seemed to him he had heard something about "a Mr. Springer two years or so ago collecting some money for the state central committee" but that he did not know by whose authority it had been done.

The letter which some persons mailed to Senator George, after deleting the addressee, stated that the writer had been active in collection Republican funds in this state.

Martin declared he knew nothing of it, or of any Mr. Springer collecting funds. He said the committee had hired a Mr. Curtis as an organizer at one time but had not, so far as he knew, employed any one to solicit anybody.

Political - 1928.

Party Affiliation -

Republican.

THAT "BOGUS" COUNTY CONVENTION!

The Informer's attention has been called to a list of persons (all colored voters of Houston), who are alleged to have participated in a "rump" Harris County Republican convention on May 8, 1928; and this paper would not accord the meeting editorial consideration, were it not for the fact that the ring-leaders and instigators of this "bogus" convention were elected as delegates to and recognized by the regular Republican organization of Harris County, of which R. B. Morris is county chairman.

Informer

At the regular Republican convention, held at the City Hall council chamber, Tuesday, May 8, these double-crossing "insurgents" were literally scared stiff in their tracks when it appeared that the action of one "smart Alex" in their group had ruined the chances of the delegation from said precinct being seated, due to some irregularities; but the credentials committee recommended that the delegation be seated, and these ring-leaders in this "bogus" county convention participated and voted as delegates in the said county meet.

5-19-28

When the committee of delegates to the Republican State Convention, which meets Tuesday, May 22, at Dallas, made its report and did not include any of these pseudo-leaders of color, it is currently rumored that two or three of these disappointed colored brethren "staged" another county convention that night, enrolling the names of several persons without authority (the majority of the enrolled persons having made affidavits that they were not present, that their names were used without their permission and that they are not in harmony with this "bogus" meeting) and proceeded to elect themselves delegates to the state convention.

Houston, Texas

The Informer styles that nocturnal parley of these "insurgents" as "bogus," because it was neither legal, valid nor regular; a "bogus" convention being different from a "rump" or "bolt" convention.

Whenever the delegates present protest or challenge certain rulings or actions, either of the executive committee, the presiding officer or the convention, and then withdraw when their contention is overridden and ignored, that is a "bolt;" but when persons, not even elected delegates from any precinct convention, in league with two or three who had already participated in a regular convention, conspire to hold a subsequent meeting and allege that it is a real county convention, it is really a reflection on the intelligence of the said leaders and sanity of said followers and dupes.

It is rather funny how so many Negroes can reach the conclusion, over night, that they are so influential, important and indispensable that no movement can succeed without them; that even though they hardly control their own vote, they consider themselves political leaders and would have certain powers-that-be think that they control blocs, yea, blocks of votes.

If these ambitious black politicians, who staged their now celebrated "bogus" convention, had a grievance and cause for a split or bolt, why did they not make that known and take such action while the regular county convention was in session, as was done in 1920?

In 1920, when this paper and editor were the prime movers in a local revolt movement, the present county chairman was not in charge of partisan affairs here, and the party head in this county at that time put forth all efforts to keep colored Republicans, even in the heavy colored precincts of the Third, Fourth and Fifth wards, out of the county convention held at the extinct Main Street auditorium.

When these precinct delegates, duly elected by the voters in their respective precincts, showed up at the 1920 county convention here, their credentials having already been filed in keeping with the law, practically all of them were denied seats by the executive committee; and then these regularly and duly elected delegates—who had been chosen in conformity with the law and were Republican electors—simply retired to another section of the convention hall and then and there organized their county convention before being driven from the building by police officers, the parley later convening at Trinity M. E. Church.

No such situation prevailed or obtained here at the Republican county convention of May 8, 1928, when colored delegates, elected from all precincts where Negroes predominate and even from precincts where white Republicans constitute the majority, were given seats in the convention, and where not a solitary contest was brought from any precinct in Harris County.

The Informer can not vouch for the regularity of Republican precinct and county conventions called in other counties of Texas, May 5 and 8, respectively, but this paper does know that party heads in Harris County conducted said conventions in keeping and accord with Republican principles, procedure and policy; and, if this policy had not obtained here, The Informer would have opposed any partisan action to the contrary, despite this paper's advocacy of Hoover's candidacy.

In 1920 our local fight was for participation and representation in partisan affairs, and when the local party chieftains denied the black voters the right to hold conventions and elect their own delegates to the county meet, and then refused to recognize delegates duly and legally elected by the electors of these precincts, we had sufficient reasons and reasonable grounds for holding another county convention—the will of the people, as expressed in conventions, had been ignored and trampled under the unholy feet of partisan manipulators!

Every effort was made to get out a large colored vote at the Republican conventions held in Harris County, Saturday, May 5, and we know of two instances where white precinct chairmen were replaced with colored chairmen, when said white chairmen insisted upon calling and holding said precinct conventions in their residences, and excluding colored Republicans.

Several colored men were appointed precinct chairmen, whereas in 1920 we had only one or two, and they did not function as party heads in their respective voting precincts.

County Chairman R. B. Morris not only insisted upon Negro participation and representation, but he had himself placed upon the committee on delegates to the state convention, in order that he might be in a position to see to it that some colored Republicans were selected as delegates to said parley; resulting in three colored delegates and three colored alternates, the largest black delegation carried to the state convention by the regular Republican organization of Harris County in the last 12 years; while there were more colored delegates in the county convention than this editor has witnessed in this county in the last 12 years.

These are facts that are undeniable and can not be gainsaid by any person who has respect for verity!

Furthermore, the instigators of the "bogus" convention, through their subsidized publication, were anti-Hoover men, had made it known that they were against Hoover until, it appaers, no more money could be filched from the anti-Hoover faction in Texas, and then some of these anti-Hooverites of color vainly attempted to make connections with the Hoover exchequer in Harris County; and they finally attended the precinct conventions and there made representations that they were with the Hoover forces in the county and would line up and support the pro-Hoover program.

These ebony-hued politicians thought the leaders of the Hoover forces in this county would prove easy prey, and that they would be permitted to feast at the partisan festal boards when the election of colored delegates engrossed the attention of the convention; and the report of the committee on delegates to the state convention passed without a dissenting vote, though some of the "insurgents" present registered keen disappointment when their names were not even listed as alternates.

In their desperation to deceive and delude the Hoover leaders here, these anti-Hooverites of color pressed into service one of their imported black emissaries (a man who has an alias or two, and who is not anxious to return to some of the communities where he formerly "worked"), and attempted to poison the minds of certain local white Republican leaders against certain colored Republicans who appeared to be in line for recognition and consideration in the county convention.

Futile attempts were made to prejudice these white leaders against certain local Negroes who had been very active in the Hoover cause, and some of the remarks made about these race men and some of the propositions conjured up in the minds of some of these black anti-Hooverites of Houston, would hardly become ward heelers of the most vicious and contemptible sort.

They even charged that the colored men so active in the camp and cause of Mr. Hoover, were going to double-cross the Hoover cause, and endeavor to play both ends against the middle; that they were "radicals," "agitators," etc., and that the colored people of this city and county would not pay any attention to the black Republicans so active for the nomination of the commerce secretary.

To make it appear that some double-crossing was being done, leaders in this "bogus" convention used, without permission, the names of two or three delegates who attended the regular Republican county convention; and selected as secretary an employe of the publishing corporation which owns and prints The Houston Informer.

This stroke or move was made in another infernal and insidious attempt to prove to the white Republican leaders of Harris County and Texas, that neither The Informer nor its editor is sincere in advocating Hoover's cause; that if either the paper or editor is on the square, it seems rather strange and peculiar that one of the corporation's employes would line up on the side of the anti-Hooverites.

But when it is taken into consideration that this same employe has certain constitutional rights and political prerogatives, and is often the ready and willing tool in the hands of one of these ebony-hued "insurgents;" that this employe has a burning zeal for political preferment, it is not surprising to this editor to be informed that this employe—who owns no stock in the corporation and has absolutely nothing to do with shaping the editorial policy of The Informer—has gone off after "strange gods."

The Informer is not in accord or harmony with this "bogus" convention, for there was neither cause nor need for it, and the whole fiasco was staged just for a few would-be leaders to elect themselves as delegates to the state convention, with as much chance of them being seated and recognized as regular as a snow ball has of remaining intact in hades for a fortnight!

If the colored Republicans of Houston and Harris County had been denied participation and representation in the recent county convention, even though The Informer is advocating the cause of Mr. Hoover, this paper would have taken the initiative in a revolt movement; but since, by a pre-convention agreement (to which even the ring leaders in the "bogus" convention agreed before the county meet), Negroes were not excluded from the said convention and six of their number were elected on the county delegation to the state convention, without protest or contest, The Informer can not see how any sane, sensible and rationally minded person could pull off such a silly and foolish stunt—just to get in the limelight and pose as a political leader.

This "bogus" convention is nothing but an abortive partisan effort on the part of two or three disgruntled and discredited local Negroes to endeavor to carry a contest from Harris County to the state convention; but they waited too long, slept too late and are now burning the wrong end of the stick.

The Informer wonders if these "insurgents" had been elected by the Harris County Republican convention as delegates and alternates to the state convention, would they have held a fictitious convention, and made it appear as if certain local colored Republicans are disloyal to the regular party organization in this county; that these supposed pro-Hoover delegates would participate in the regular county convention in the forenoon and vote to endorse the candidacy of Herbert C. Hoover for presidential nomination by the Republican National Convention; and then under the shades of night, when "evil is afoot," attend a spurious meeting styled as a "Republican county convention," and then and there repudiate the vote and action taken that forenoon, and line up with and endorse the forces inimicable and openly hostile to Mr. Hoover's candidacy?

Consistency, thou art a rare and precious jewel!

Many of our racial enemies and critics assert that the Negro race is not only deficient in gratitude and self-respect, but that the race, in reality, lacks common sense; that, without any cause or reason, Negroes can pull off some of the most strange, queer and odd pranks and capers; that it is not a safe nor good policy to place too much confidence in black people; that many so-called race leaders will flop and turn a complete somersault just for empty honors, seeming preferment and a little "filthy lucre;" and then ever and anon some black men come along and, by their silly and double-crossing actions, add weight to the argument advanced against the colored race by some of these Nordic critics and defamers.

The Informer has no fuss to raise with the promoters of the "bogus" convention, nor any of the participants; for every American citizen has the constitutional right to function politically as he so desires and to otherwise deport himself along other lines, even to acting in the role of a knave; but decent people have very little respect for and confidnce in persons who are given to double-crossing and acting the fool!

Any political fight, which is not predicated on principle, is doomed to defeat and failure sooner or later, and the self-styled crusaders in such a cause are certainly reckoning without their hosts, and are totally unmindful of that scriptural doctrine which proclaims, "Be ye not deceived; God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

Political Party — Republican

Party Affiliation

Jackson Assured G. O. P. Support In Legislature Race

Cleveland, Ohio.—(ANP)—Perry B. Jackson, one of our leading lawyers, will have the support of the regular county Republican organization for state representative at the primaries, Tuesday, August 14, according to authoritative information received by a representative of the Associated Negro Press this week.

When questioned by the Associated Negro Press representative Jackson said: "In submitting my candidacy to the people of this county, I am doing so with the firm resolve that if honored by receiving the nomination and later the election, the confidence thereby reposed in me will never be betrayed. I will be ever interested in, and on the alert for mattrs for the benefit of our group and the people of the county and state. My motto will be 'service'."

Jackson is a graduate of Adelbert College, having received the degree of A. B., magna cum laude, in 1919, at which time he was elected a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society. During his college career he was a member of the track team, debating team, and chapel choir. In 1922 he received the degree of LL. D., from Wstern Reserve Law School. Jackson, who came from a large family, worked his way through college and law school.

During the nearly six years in which he was engaged in the practice of law in this city, Jackson has been active in practically every civic enterprise among our group. For one year he was editor of the Cleveland Call, which experience gave him an insight into the needs and ideals of our group.

Attorney Jackson is the newly-elected exalted ruler of King Tut Lodge No. 389 of Elks; chief mentor of Nicaule Temple No. 1, Knights and Daughters of Tabor; past master of Eureka Lodge No. 52, F. and A. M.; general counsel for the United Brothers and Sisters of Love, and the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity; assistant superintendent of St. John A. M. E. Church; vice president of the St. James Literary Forum: secretary of the Frederick Douglass Republican Clubs; and a member of the City Club, Bar Association, Phyllis Wheatley Association, National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peopel, and numerous other organizations.

Picture 4. With Cal Coolidge out fishing, the G. O. P. has made a clean sweep of all colored politicians connected with the National party.

MEET IN CHICAGO

7/28/28

CHICAGO, Ill., July 26.—The National Negro Voters' League will meet in Chicago, August 24. The new organization is the result of a meeting in Kansas City, June 14, in the Elks' Rest.

Race men from many sections of the country were present to consider the general and political welfare of the Negroes of the United States. The reason for this meeting was that the following resolutions which were presented to the platform committee of the Republican national convention, with the request that these resolutions or the substance thereof be made a part of the platform of the Republican party. This request was refused.

The resolutions were:

Whereas, the provisions of the constitution of the United States, viz., the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments, are being openly and flagrantly violated in this, to-wit: That the colored citizens of the United States are being deprived of life, liberty, property and the pursuit of happiness: and

Whereas, an anti-lynching bill has been repeatedly defeated: and

Whereas, there appears to be a disposition and concerted effort on the part of the lily white element of the Republican party to eliminate the colored citizen by discrimination, intimidation and chicanery; and

Whereas, there has been discrimination on account of race and color in the classified service under the rules and regulations of the Civil Service laws in respect to appointments when positions have been won by competitive examination; and

Whereas, segregation and discrimination in governmental departments in Washington, D. C., are still being practiced; now therefore it is

Resolved, That we, the undersigned committee, appointed at an open meeting of delegates to the Republican national convention and citizens of the United States representing the colored voters and citizens of the United States, do hereby petition the Republican national convention at Kansas City, Mo., to encouch the following plank in its platform:

First, to protect the colored citizens in all their rights, civil and political.

Second, for a strict enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments to the constitution, in letter and in spirit; be it further

Resolved, That the Republican party go on record as protecting all citizens alike in the strict enforcement of the Civil Service laws of the United States.

The committee:

Earnest G. Tidrington, Indiana; George W. Lee, Tennessee; Olando J. Smith, Minnesota; Charles P. Howard, Iowa; Mr. Lewis, Illinois; G. A. Gilmore, Texas; Bishop A. J. Carey, Illinois; Oscar De Priest, Illinois; C. H. Calloway, Missouri; Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans, Indiana; Dr. Redmon, Mississippi; James M. Burr, Texas; P. R. Crutchfield, Louisiana; J. Finley Wilson, District of Columbia; Fred Dabney, Missouri; W. C. Hueston, Indiana.

The second cause of the meeting was the precedent established by the Republican party at this convention in what was known as "The Texas case." This case presented in brief the question of whether party managers had the right to call conventions to select delegates to the Republican national convention in state conventions as a whole, or to follow the previously established rule of selecting some by district and some at large. It being made clear that to establish the rule of selecting all in state conventions bars the Negroes in the Southern states from participation in these party matters and certainly prevents them from becoming delegates to party national conventions.

In the establishing of this race-destroying precedent, many of the Negro delegates following factional leadership voted in the affirmative, to the dismay of those who stand for race equality, by party and before the law. After due consideration it was decided at the above meeting to form an organization, to be known as the National Negro Voters' League.

That said league should justify its existence as follows:

To have for its purpose the full enfranchisement of the American Negro.

To ascertain where the Negro stands in the Republican party.

To play with pitiless publicity upon those of our race who vote in political conventions and elsewhere against the race interests and then seek prominence and priority as the price therefor.

The meeting organized and elected temporary officers and instructed said officers to issue a call for a meeting to be held in the city of Chicago, Ill., for permanent organization and to agree upon and announce ways and means to carry out the purpose of the league.

Pursuant to this order a meeting of National Negro Voters' League is called to meet in the city of Chicago, Ill., on the 24th day of August, 1928, at 10 a. m., at Wendell Phillips High School. Said meeting to be composed of all those who were members of the temporary organization and those who come with a certificate of election from any church, political or social club, lodge, subordinate or grand, or who may be placed upon the temporary roll by the temporary officers.

Elected delegates are to send a copy of credentials to W. C. Hueston, chairman of executive committee, 1901 Broadway, Gary, Ind.

The officers are J. Finley Wilson, president; Charles P. Howard, secretary, Des Moines, Ia.; W. C. Hueston, Gary, Ind., chairman of executive committee.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

Republican

A Survey Of The Political Outlook By Our Editor

Our editor has just returned from Ohio and Illinois, where the campaign is really on for party supremacy. He spoke to thousands of people in the state of Ohio, covering six counties at strategic points. The editor reports that the drift in the West is to Hoover. For some time it looked like Governor Smith would have a fighting chance, but the consensus of opinion is, the more the Governor talks, the further he gets from victory; that his talks are more helpful to Mr. Hoover than any talks Mr. Hoover can make for himself; that the Governor's speeches have the tendency to unfit him for the high office of President. The people generally believe that the campaign for President should be lifted from ward politics, and from abuse and personalities. They believe that the campaign should be conducted upon a lofty plane, and that principles and measures of government should be discussed and not abuse and vituperation as has been the policy of the Governor's campaign.

Independent

The people think that the abuse and denunciation hurled at the Republican candidate and his party by the Democratic candidate and his party is rather a smoke screen to hide their lack of a cause. On the other hand Mr. Hoover's dignified way of handling his campaign, and his refusal to be drawn into any personal discussion or abusive tirades in reply to the Governor, and other Democrats of lesser note, are making for him many friends, and assure victory for him on the sixth of November. He has not stooped to dignify any of the assaults, charges, falsehoods, and misrepresentations that have been inveighled against him by the Tammany chief, or any of his lieutenants. He has addressed himself to discussing the record of the Republican Party, and its policies and principles of good government, without discussing the Democratic Party's shortcomings. On the other hand Governor Smith, instead of discussing the merits of his own party, and proposing remedial legislation and policies for the betterment of the people, he is engaged in trying to prove to the American people that the Republican Party is made up of thieves, grand rascals, and incompetents.

10-13-28

Atlanta, Ga.

But, the phase of the campaign which struck us most was the unanimity and sincerity with which the 150,000 Negro voters in the state of Ohio were supporting the Republican tickets, state, national, and county. It had been heralded about, before we went West, that 100,000 Negroes in Ohio and Indiana were just rearing to vote for Governor Smith, and were anxiously awaiting November the sixth that they might give relief to their desires; that they were anxious to repudiate the Republican Party, that had done so much for them, and endorse the Democratic Party, that had done so much to destroy not only their political rights, but to deny them the economic opportunity to make meat and bread. When we got to Ohio and opened up the campaign for the Party at Urbana, in the heart of the agricultural valley, Negro Democrats were as scarce as hen teeth. In an audience of 900 Negroes and 500 white people, not one Democratic Negro could be found, and all over Ohio, in the six counties we covered, we were reminded very much of Capt. Jackson McHenry's frog story. In this story, a farmer, judging from the noise of the frogs in a pond near his home, thought that there were carloads of frogs in the pond. He went to town, told an enterprising butcher of his find, and the butcher contracted with him for ten barrels of frogs to be delivered once a week, for four weeks. The butcher thought the find was so great that he had better bind the trade by advancing fifty dollars, which he promptly did. The farmer returned home, called his neighbors in, and fixed a day to seine the pond, and spent a whole day in seining it, and at the close of his day's work, he had three frogs. He returned to the city, and told the butcher that judging from the noise he thought he had carloads of frogs, but upon examination he found that he had only three frogs, and that this had been verified by the fact that after catching the three frogs, the noise had ceased. So, the honest farmer told the butcher that he would return the check and he could adjust it by paying him for the three frogs. This was done.

So, when we got to Ohio, we looked for the democratic colored brethren according to the noise that was being made and the releases released from the Negro press, but Democratic Negroes were as scarce in Ohio as the farmer's frogs were in the pond. We spoke to capacity houses in Cincinnati, Columbus, Springfield, Urbana, Youngstown, and Dayton, and nowhere could we find a dozen Democratic colored brethren who were willing to stand up and be counted among Democrats.

The state is safe for the national ticket, the state ticket, and the county ticket. Both senators will be elected, and the Republicans will make a clean sweep in the state. The Negro is loyal and still supporting the party of Abraham Lincoln, and will contribute their quota to the Republican victory in November. There was once some talk of the Democratic party among Negroes, but the rank and file is now accusing the few leaders who have gotten Democratic money of hogging it all, and they are jumping on the Republican band wagon with break-neck speed. It is a mistaken idea, and the Democrats are being badly fooled by the few Negro mercenaries and henchmen they have bought, that the Negroes are largely Democratic in this county. Mr. Kent, of the Baltimore Sun, and all other political writers had just as well put it in their pipes and smoke it, that ninety-five per cent of the Negroes in this country will cast their votes for Herbert Hoover. While they may not have gotten all they deserved out of the Republican Party, they cannot forget the truth, that the Democratic Party has done nothing for them, and has done everything it could to prevent them from enjoying their political rights, and that it has been the policy of the Democratic Party to crucify the Race on a cross of race prejudice, and there is more hope in remaining inside the Republican Party, and fighting for their rights, than jumping off the Republican ship in mid-ocean, and undertaking to swim back to shore where the Democratic ship is anchored with Cole Blease, Tammany Hall, Carter Glass, Tom Heflin, and Josephus Daniels standing on board cannonading at them with rapid fire guns of race prejudice, before they can make the ship.

West Point, Ga., News
September 27, 1928

MRS. FELTON REPLIES BUT SAYS NOTHING DEFINITE

"Cartersville, Ga., Sept. 22, 1928.
To Messrs. Coffee,
Editors of The West Point News.

Some one has sent to my address a late issue of your paper in which you have taken the liberty of disparaging the memory of my dead husband and of defaming me personally to amuse the readers of your paper.

You accuse me falsely of misstating his term of service in the national congress. The Atlanta Journal published in full the words I uttered when I introduced former Governor Hardwick in my own town and by request of the Bartow county Democratic Executive Committee. I said my husband served eight years as a state legislator and six years in the national congress.

I was glad to introduce Governor Hardwick. It was a very small return for his compliment to an aged Georgia woman—which gave me a seat in the most distinguished legislative body in the world. I was a Senator fifty-one days, from Oct. 3 to Nov. 22, 1922. I have no apology to offer to you or anybody—prelate or politician—for the introduction. He was one of the best governors the state has had since I can recollect, and was defeated by the Klan by their peculiar methods. He was opposed to President Wilson's League of Nations and thus invoked the implacable enmity of the man, with his influence against the Georgian as Chief Executive. This League was defeated by Congress, as we all know. God in His wisdom saved this country from that alliance.

"Your editorial makes an open charge against my dead husband and my aged self—a personal assault. This is a personal attack that calls for reproof if not for re-dress by the courts, for there was no provocation.

"You relate your personal appearance where my husband addressed negro gatherings and asked their aid to defeat the Democrats. Following these speeches you declare you saw Dr. Felton and myself pass through these negro gatherings and both shook hands with them in carpet-bag style. As this comes from you, I hold you responsible to your readers, if not to myself, to locate these negro political gatherings—the negro assemblages where he did the speaking and I helped with the handshaking in "carpet-bag style." I wish you to tell the public where these gatherings were held, in what counties, or towns or barns, or in the woods.

"And you propose now at this late day to drag down the good name of a dead man. More than half a century has elapsed since he was last counted for for congress and by men who are still well remembered in the 7th District. Fortunately, I have preserved in prints the testimony of many great Georgians that will substantiate his good character and the usefulness of his life's work as a gentleman of the South. With me it is a matter of perfect indifference. But when I am called on to defend the dead I shall possibly go into details—and present the proofs, of course.

"I am seeking no office to thus arouse your bitter enmity. I have no recollection of ever seeing or hearing of you thirty or forty odd years ago. Certainly I have given you no reason for such malignant animosity—in a newspaper tirade.

"My husband had a number of slaves. I know he tried to be a good master. Those who are still alive write me once in a while. They say they "thought lots of me," as a kind mistress.

"I make it a business to advise good negroes—when they ask me for advice, and it is a pity they are a constant football in national politics. Until the antipathy centered on the Catholics—four years ago—the negro has been the scare crow of our malcontents since Bullock's time.

"MRS. REBECA EELTON."

We are glad to publish the above, as it gives his aged lady an opportunity to say something.

We have no quarrel with her nor with her dead husband, our statements made in a recent issue being purely historical.

Several local citizens have come to this office and commended the editor upon the truthfulness of this account which dealt with a period well remembered by these older ones.

Mrs. Felton calls on us to "locate these negro political gatherings."

We heard these speeches, just as we are quoted, at Calhoun in Gordon county; Resaca in Gordon County; Rome and Floyd Springs in Floyd County and at various other places. At Calhoun Dr. Felton spoke in the Courthouse where large numbers of negroes were present, and negroes were urged to come forward and shake hands.

Since it is a fact that many thousands of older citizens of that section are still living and can recall these occurrences, the subject is not a matter of controversy—it is simply a matter of history. We regret that it is true, for that section was our home, and we saw an era torn with political strife that was not good.

The subject of the negro was injected into this campaign—as is customary in every national election in Georgia or Alabama—by those who now claim to be the Democratic Party, and, while we have no objection to any politician shaking hands with colored people, treating them kindly, it seemed right and proper to bring out this bit of past history for the benefit of those who have always used the negro to becloud more important issues.

If Mrs. Felton and her husband have records that are clean and satisfactory, she should be proud of those records. And whether they are such as to be proud of or not, she, as a person who still is before the public, must continue to live by that record. It is not the fault of this newspaper that she happens to be an aged lady, nor it is necessary for a man to drop out of history simply because he has passed on.

As to the number of terms in Congress of Dr. Felton, we suspected that this was an error on the part of the newspaper and based our statement on that. We shall not question Mrs. Felton's claim as to her statement, but, since it was due to misstatement of the figures in the newspaper report that we took note of the matter, and we would never have taken the trouble to compare these figures with our own personal knowledge if the newspaper report had not misstated the facts, we hold our position.

We regret that Mrs. Felton is, due to her position before the public, in line of fire just now. She is an aged lady whose life has been spent more or less before the public, and this is far from the first time she and the late Dr. Felton have felt the sting of "disparagement." As a politician, Mrs. Felton must accept such criticism or definitely refute it. In this case she cannot refute the facts recently published in this newspaper.

The historical facts published concerning Dr. and Mrs. Felton were brought out by reason of Mrs. Felton's statement that she and her husband had always been Democrats. What we desired was to see if one of the Atlanta papers which fought Dr. Felton so bitterly in the Eighties could be smoked out now. As we see it, there is nothing of truth that certain of these Atlanta "lamps of liberty" cannot conveniently forget or overlook nor do they hesitate to set down deliberate misstatements of fact when political expediency seems to require such a course. This is a matter of which we are not proud, but for the sake of our own readers we make an effort to warn them of unsound leadership wherever we find it, and in the above instance it was necessary to bring out a few facts concerning Seventh district history in order to give our readers a better idea of what present-day self-styled Democratic leaders are doing in Georgia.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation.

TRIBUNE SAYS HOOVER OWES NEGRO NOTHING

BIG REPUBLICAN DAILY SAYS BLACK VOTER WILL BE THROWN OVERBOARD

PITTSBURG COURIER SAYS 'TWLL BE BEST FOR THE RACE

It has been less than two weeks since the sweeping election of Mr. Hoover as President of the United States, and already the word is out that as far as the Negro is concerned it is, "Bye, Bye, Blackbird." Negro newspapers and politicians who supported Mr. Hoover do not display that gladness, joy, and happiness that would naturally be expected to be shown by winners of a cause.

There is a sad note in whatever they have to say about the victory. It has finally dawned on them that Mr. Hoover's victory, with the forces behind him that put him over, means the Negro no great good.

When Mr. Hoover broke the solid South he also broke the Negro's head if not his heart. "I wanted Hoover to win but by just a small majority" is the chorus of the song being sung by Colored politicians. And well they may sing those blues, for that overwhelming majority coming from the source it did, convinces the leaders of the G. O. P. that the Negro is the "White Man's (Republican) Burden," politically.

The Chicago Tribune, on November 9, carried an article last week from one of its special writers which shows which way the wind is blowing.

The Pittsburgh Courier, great Negro weekly, that supported Hoover admits in an editorial of the current issue that Hoover's sweeping victory with the breaking up of the Solid South means the elimination of Negroes from a few jobs and as National Committeeman." But it says, "That Is Good For The Race."

How can the elimination of the Negro from anything worthwhile Be For The Good of The Race?

Be that as it may, this is what the Chicago Tribune's special political writer says:

"Figuring in the speculation are the names of a number of southern Republicans, including that of Claudius Huston of Tennessee, who served at one time assistant secretary of commerce under Mr. Hoover. He was active in the Hoover campaign, particularly in connection with its financing.

There also is to be a bid under the Hoover administration for continued support of the Reupblican party in the south by the Democrats who voted for the Republican candidate in this election.

The Republican party in the south is to be recognized as a white man's party. The Negroes are to be eliminated from domination. The elimination already has taken place in some of the southern states, notably Georgia and Mississippi. The Hoover canvass was taken out of the hands of the Negro national committeemen in those states and delivered into the charge of white Republicans.

Mr. Hoover will be embarrassed by obligations to the Negroes in carrying out this policy, for the Negro vote went to Smith to a conspicuous degree."

And this from another G. O. P. paper:

Several questions of party organization confront Hoover. The most important arises from his breaking into the Solid South. Already Hoover has made a start toward eliminating the Negro element which has dominated the Republican organization of several Southern states. Whether the Republicans can hope to hold the gains they made due to hostility to Smith in the South is a question, but at any rate they will attempt to do it by ousting Negro party leaders. This already has been done in Georgia and Mississippi. Hoover will make his Southern political appointments chiefly from white citizens instead of from Negroes, and in this way will seek to found a real Republican Party in the South."

Richmond, Va., News-Leader
Tuesday, November 6, 1928

TWO NEGRO G. O. P. ELECTION JUDGES

Brunswick Clerk Says Law Requires One Republican, So Gains Named.

LAWRENCEVILLE, Va., Nov. 6.—(Special to The News Leader.)—Two Negro Republicans are serving as election judges in Brunswick county.

Bob Gains, Negro, Republican, is serving today as an election judge in Phipps precinct, Powelton township, along with J. H. Phillips and F. W. Carpenter, whites, who represent the Democratic party as judges.

W. E. Elmore, clerk of the court of Brunswick county, today stated that Gains was appointed by A. F. Rollins, a Democrat, chairman of the election board of Brunswick county, for the reason that there are no white Republicans available for the appointment in Phipps precinct. The law requires two Democrats and one Republican precinct judge. Gains has been serving as an election judge for several years, and another Negro Republican is an election judge in Tillman precinct.

At 11 A. M. today, there had been about 200 votes cast at Lawrenceville, the county seat of Brunswick county, and of this number Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic standard-bearer, is reported to have polled 190 votes. There are between 500 and 600 registered voters at Lawrenceville, and Mr. Elmore estimates that Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee, will poll about 25 votes.

Broken? Or Only Cracked?

"THE SOLID SOUTH IS BROKEN!"

THIS CRY burst from many lips the day after the election. At first glance it was justified. Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, Texas and Florida [illegible] the South, had gone Republican. Tennessee had done it once before, in 1920, and North Carolina had shown suspicious symptoms. But Virginia, Texas and Florida throughout their history had been Democratic strongholds, the solidest of the solid, and with their defection it looked as if the Solid South had been split wide open.

IT REMAINS TO BE SEEN, however, whether the Solid South is broken or merely cracked. This campaign was no criterion, for the Democrats had a candidate who stood for almost everything the South was opposed to. In the next campaign, with a different kind of candidate, the deserting states may return to their Southern solidity. If the Democrats nominate a man who is a Protestant, a Dry, and a foe of Tammany, and Virginia, Florida and Texas still go Republican, then we shall know that the break in the South is permanent.

IT IS FAIRLY CERTAIN that the Republicans did not break the Solid South with their "Lily White" policy. They made a bid for Mississippi by hounding Perry Howard, for Georgia by attacking Ben Davis, and for Louisiana by humiliating Walter Cohen. They might save saved themselves the trouble, for all three of these states went Democratic as usual. The Republicans had better throw their "Lily Whiteism" overboard. It has never carried a Southern state for them; if continued it may cost them thousands of Negro votes in the North and possibly an election.

WHITE VOTERS GAVE KNOX VOTE FOR VOTE

Study of Figures Shows White Precincts "Went Down Line"

An analysis of the vote follows:

White voters to the number of 9,139 thought it good for the fourth legislative district of Missouri to be represented by L. Amsa Knox, the Negro candidate. There were 10,123 Negroes who voted in the same district but of them only 5,897 were for Knox.

Against Mr. Knox ran a white candidate by the name of Morris. He received more white votes than Knox, his white vote being 9,747, 608 more, and at the same time he received 4,226 Negro votes, 1,671 less. The vote is a revelation of the attitude of voters, which admits of no misunderstanding. It punctures the claim made by Negroes that they have race loyalty. Only 58 per cent of them voted for one of the best known Negroes, and 42 per cent voted for a white candidate utterly unknown to them. Had it not been for the equally sensational surprise, namely the strong support given by whites to a Negro, because he was their party's candidate, Knox would have been defeated.

Even the whites living south of Linwood boulevard, along Troost avenue as far as 36th street, gave Knox vote for vote with Morris That was better than the Negroes did who voted at 935 Lydia and 1510 E. 11th street in the second ward, at 1405 E. 17th street, 1912 E. 18th St., and 2330 Harrison in the fourth ward and at 2201 E. 12th street in the ninth ward. These six precincts, with an all or at least with a large Negro vote actually gave the white candidate more votes than the Negro.

Majority in 20 White Precincts

A similar scorn of race was shown by white voters who gave Knox, the Negro candidate, a majority in twenty all-white precincts. In the past the argument has been raised against Negroes as nominees on a party ticket, that they would not be supported by their own people as they should, and that they would get little if any votes from whites.

The race identity of Mr. Knox was well known throughout the district. One of the campaign maneuvers put on against him, was a badly done likness of him. Yet he received majorities in the very sections where his race was supposed to cut him down.

On the other hand, 58 per cent of Negro support is not encouragement enough for parties to nominate Negroes on their elective tickets. An unknown white man getting 42 per cent of the Negro vote in a district which has schools, churches, bathtubs and in many cases steam heat, means Negroes are not giving thought to their voting and therefore there is no need for parties to consider what they want.

No Encouragement to Parties

It hurts the race with republicans who note how little Negro voters are held by considerations of support in return for representation, and it hurts it with democrats who find themselves given support which they have not even sought. The result of the Knox candidacy is a tremendous advance. It is our first elective office in many years. It has much over which to rejoice. But the future must find us far more intelligent in our voting than this election, or politicians and parties will pass us by saying "What's the use?"

Negro Republican Leader In Georgia Not Seeking Reelection To Committee

ATLANTA, GA., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Ben Davis, negro Republican leader of Georgia announced today that under no circumstances was he a candidate for reelection as national Republican committeeman and that thereafter Republican affairs in this state would be conducted by white leaders.

He made his announcement following an executive session of the so-called Davis faction of the Republican state central committee at which a resolution was adopted recommending to the national Republican committee that G. F. Flanders, of Swainsboro, be named national committeeman and Mrs. Chas. A. Vernoy, of Atlanta, national committeewoman.

Davis said he was "through" with future party activities in an official capacity and that he "would have nothing to do with the distribution of patronage in the state." He would retain his position as secretary of the Republican state central committee for the time being, however, he said. He was "tired of the cussing of George and Harris" (Democratic senators) he said, and was unable to stand the "financial drain" of participation in party activities.

"I am not moved to take this position because I do not believe that the committee would unanimously give me the nomination today, or because of any fear of those who oppose my group in politics," he said in a formal statement presented before the committee. "I have no fear of reorganization as is being agitated by 'lily whites' and some few federal office holders, for the reason we are regular. We have had our experience with bolters and disorganizers. If any abortive action is taken to the contrary we will be able to lick the bolters, lily whites or meddlesome office holders as we did in 1924 in Cleveland.

"I am firmly of the belief that if any colored man accepts the nomination for national committeeman for Georgia and he is recognized, as he would be by the national committee, he would be framed, discredited and sent to the penitentiary, just as Perry Howard has been framed in Mississippi and Cohen in Louisiana; of course Cohen was acquitted and Perry Howard has not been to trial."

O. M. Duke, of Flovilla, presided over the executive session wherein 65 of the 71 members of the committee were present in person or by proxy. The resolution nominating Flanders and Mrs. Vernoy was introduced by A. T. Atwater.

BEN DAVIS GROUP FAVORS FLANDERS

Propose Swainsboro Man for G. O. P. Committeeman; Mrs. Vernoy Declines Woman's Place.

G. F. Flanders, of Swainsboro, sheriff of Emanuel county, Saturday was nominated for republican national committeeman, and Mrs. Charles A. Vernoy, of Atlanta, for national committeewoman, by the state central committee, following announcement by Ben J. Davis, negro, that he had decided to withdraw his application for the committeemanship.

Informed of her nomination Saturday night, Mrs. Vernoy stated that she would decline to accept the place. She said that she took the position because she was an independent in politics, and believed in voting for measures rather than men or party regularity. "I cannot neglect the work required of me in the child welfare and public health programs for political purposes," she said.

This meeting of the state central committee was held at the Fulton courthouse, with 65 members of the state committee present in person or by proxy of a total membership of 71, it was announced by Davis.

The heavy financial strain attendant upon the position, as well as a desire to retire before "I am ruined and my usefulness destroyed" actuated Davis in his decision to no longer serve as committeeman, according to his statement to the press. Davis said he will retain the post of secretary of the state central committee.

Flanders Elected Chairman.

Sheriff Flanders was elected chairman of the state central committee at a meeting some months before the election, when the Davis faction claimed to have ousted from the committee Roscoe Pickett, then chairman, and other members who voted for Joe Watson, Albany negro, as national committeeman at the Kansas City convention. Pickett and his friends refused to recognize the alleged ouster, with the result that there have been two men claiming the state committee chairmanship.

Flanders was postmaster of Swainsboro under Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson. Mrs. Vernoy was a candidate for republican elector from the eighth district in the recent national election.

Davis had been national committeeman since 1925, when he succeeded Henry Lincoln Johnson, negro, now dead, up to the time of the Kansas City convention, when he was opposed by Watson. The national convention referred the Georgia dispute to the national committee. In his statement issued Saturday, Davis said that since the convention he has twice refused the unanimous nomination of the full committee for national committeeman to succeed himself, "because I felt, for the time being, it was for the best interests of the party, and requested that the matter go over for a setlement until after the election. The election having been held, I think it is time for a settlement, and I am no longer an applicant, and return to my constitutents, unsullied, the banners they placed in my hands in 1925."

Negress Former Committeeman.

The republican national committeewoman from Georgia up to the time of the state convention, when she was defeated by a vote of 229 to 2, was Mamie Williams, negress, of Savannah.

The names of Sheriff Flanders and Mrs. Vernoy are to be presented to the national committee for confirmation, under the rules of the party, it was said.

In his statement, Davis pointed out that the national committeemanship is a position paying no salary, and that the incumbent is required to meet his own expenses, not being allowed to solicit funds or accept funds from any person as a consideration for appointment, or contribution for his personal services. "Hence," Davis said, "only those who are wealthy and can afford to spend $5,000 or $6,000 per annum for the honor of serving their party can afford to accept the place."

No Remuneration Possible.

Davis said that "there is no way, then, for a national committeeman, or woman, to receive remuneration for services, unless they graft, and if they graft in violation of the plain statutes, which prohibit them from soliciting, or receiving by gift, or otherwise, any money or thing of value for services, they may expect to take the consequences. I have no desire to violate any law of my country, and being unable to finance myself, in accordance with the dignity of the position, I do not ask the committee for the nomination."

Davis said that the national committeemanship has cost him more than $10,000 in money, time and neglect of his business, and "as a matter of justice to myself and my family, I must give politics less of time, and my business more." The ex-committeeman declared that he is not moved to take this position because he does not believe the committee would unanimously give him the nomination or because of any fear of those who oppose his group in politics, for "I have no fear of reorganization, as is being agitated by lily whites and some few federal office-holders, for the reason we are regular. We have had our experience with bolters and disorganizers.

"Yes, we were reorganized in the interest of the white man's party in 1921, and we put the irregulars out of business, and have been regular since. We have an abiding faith in the integrity and regularity of the president-elect, and believe that the organization will control the patronage. If any abortive action is taken to the contrary, we will be able to lick the bolters, lily-whites, or meddlesome federal office-holders, as we did in 1924 at Cleveland."

Davis expressed the firm belief that if any colored man accepted the nomination for committeeman from Georgia, and he should be recognized, he would be "framed, discredited, and sent to the penitentiary, just as Perry Howard has been framed in Mississippi, and Cohen in Louisiana. Of course, Cohen was acquitted, and Perry Howard has not been to trial."

"Have Lived Upright."

In his political "swan-song," Davis said "So far, I have lived upright. I have sold no offices, and have a clean conscience, and am willing to retire and turn the leadership over to those who can best serve, and will be fair to all the people in the party, before I am ruined and my usefulness destroyed.

"I have many political enemies in the state, some in each group, and it would not be wisdom in me to give them the opportunity to frame me through perjury, or otherwise," Davis said. "I am a republican and will ever remain so, so long as it stands for the principles and policies that have characterized its existence since 1856. The lily whites, and nobody else can put me out. I will take my place humbly among the ranks, and do whatever I can to defend the rights of my people, who are sinned, proscribed and discriminated against."

Political-1928
Party Affiliation.

Republican.

CALVIN FINDS SENTIMENT FAVORS HOOVER

10/14/28

Pittsburgh Courier Pittsburgh Pa.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Floyd J. Calvin, special feature editor of The Pittsburgh Courier, with offices at 2297 Seventh avenue, on his return to the city Saturday after a two-week trip through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, where he was writing special feature articles, issued a statement in which he said on all sides he heard prominent Negroes, as well as the rank and file, loud in their praise and support of Herbert Hoover for President. Mr. Calvin, who lives in the Dunbar apartments in Harlem, erected by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is one of the thousand voters in the co-operative community created by Mr. Rockefeller for Negroes. During the past five months he has traveled over 12,000 miles through 28 states writing special feature articles. He is also noted for his hour at a prominent radio station on Broadway which is conducted weekly in his name. In his statement he said:

"It happened that my work as a feature writer called me to Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio during the past two weeks and while in these states, which are sometimes referred to as doubtful from a political point of view, as a newspaper man I could not help noticing the enthusiasm Negroes in general had for Herbert Hoover and the national Republican ticket. Senator Curtis, the vice presidential candidate, made his speech at Lexington while I was in Louisville, and many Negroes left Louisville by automobile to hear him. I was told later Negroes were given seats on the platform during the meeting.

"The enthusiasm for Hoover permeates all the different stratas of Negro life. Not only the professional and business men, but the rank and file, the day laborers and odd-jobs men are for him. Equally are the women in his favor. It is not Mr. Hoover's personal magnetism that seems to have won this Negro support, but it seems to be the conviction that he can be depended upon to do the right and square thing by all the citizens of our country that is what makes him popular. Of course, the business men are anxious for a continuation of the 'Coolidge prosperity.' They believe Mr. Hoover will keep this intact. And our business men are of considerable importance. Some of them have corporations with payrolls running into the hundreds of thousands yearly. The rank and file of our people want the Coolidge prosperity continued because they know when Big Business is prosperous they are prosperous. The industrial workers are for the Republican party every time because they know the Republican party is the party of good business and plenty of work for those who want to work.

My personal preference for Herbert Hoover as the next President is based on several reasons. First, I naturally believe in party regularity, and since I am a Republican of a few years' standing I would vote the ticket straight and fight my grievances out within the party ranks. Second, Mr. Hoover is a man whom every Republican can be proud of. His record as a business man of international experience, his broad, sympathetic understanding of human problems which he acquired doing relief work in the World War, and his definite declarations in favor of a square deal to all the citizens commend him to the favorable consideration of every voter in America. Aside from all this, his very definite stroke in the Negro's favor in abolishing segregation in his department, the Department of Commerce, at Washington, is the clinching argument in his favor for Negroes. In addition, before he resigned from the Department of Commerce the Negro race got its first Negro business specialist in this branch of the government, in the person of James A. Jackson, whom we all know. Mr. Jackson has traveled more than 20,000 miles this year as the official representative of the Department of Commerce, to carry the gospel of the new day in business methods to small Negro businesses. This, indeed, is recognition. Contrast this with the statement issued from the Democratic headquarters a few days ago, and carried in the New York Times and other white newspapers, which said it was the policy of Governor Smith not to employ Negroes in his administration except as janitors and charwomen. Any Negro with an ounce of self-respect would turn his back once and for all on a candidate for President that permitted such a statement to be sent out from his headquarters. But that is true to Governor Smith's type. I have lived in New York for eight years and I have never known the Governor to do one thing commendable that was degnitely in favor of the Negro. It might be argued that New York City has been kind to Negroes under the Democrats. It has. But Governor Smith was at Albany and had absolutely nothing to do with it. It is a matter of record that the Democratic mayor of New York, John F. Hylan, under whose administration the Negro came nearer to political heaven in New York than ever before, was actually kicked out of office by Governor Smith, and the man who succeeded Mayor, little Jimmie Walker, is the one who created the international stir when he objected to Negroes being present at a cafe in Rome when he was there on vacation. Of course, Jimmie Walker has denied this a hundred times, but the New York World carried the story, the paper that is heart and soul for Governor Smith for President.

"I am not unmindful of the probable benefits that may accrue by Negroes voting the Democratic ticket at certain times in some Northern cities. Indeed, it has been proven that such votes have, in particular instances, aided the race. But I view it as little short of political insanity for Negroes, because of some local benefits derived from the Democratic party in some parts of the North, to even consider voting the national Democratic ticket. Any man with common sense knows that to turn the national Democratic party loose in Washington is to turn the worse element of the South loose in Washington, and that would be a calamity for the Negro. My travels about the country have caused me to know and appreciate that there are many good white people in the South who are genuine friends of get in power. If voting the Democrats, but unfortunately when the Democratic party is successful it is not these friends of the Negro who get in power. If voting the Democratic ticket by Negroes would put only the white friends of the Negro in power, then I could forgive some of the national Democratic agitation that is at present going on among Negroes. But I know only too well this is not the case. If Governor Smith were elected President any practical politician will tell you the white South would control Washington, and the worst element of the white South. The best white people in the South are not in politics. They are in business. They cannot stoop to the petty race baiting that the average white Southern politician stoops to to get votes. For this reason the Northern Negro should view with alarm even the suggestion of sending a Democrat, even a New York Democrat, to the White House.

"I recently heard a discussion among prominent Negroes of the inside of the Wilson administration. The men were not talking for publication, so I cannot give names. But the men who were talking were those who were actually in conference with the President and members of his cabinet, and they said that while Wilson was kindly disposed toward Negroes personally and really wanted to appoint a few to good jobs, he was warned by some of the Southern senators that if he made just one dignified Negro appointment they would kill every piece of legislation of any kind that he tried to put through the Senate. At that time the Federal Reserve act was pending, so Wilson dumped the Negro overboard. That only goes to show what does and will happen when the Democrats are in control.

"Of course, the Republicans are by no means angels. But the fact remains that all the Negro has he got from the Republican party. He got his freedom from the Republican party. He got his citizenship from the Republican party. He got his right to vote from the Republican party. What more can a party give? We have the right and privilege of using our political strength in our own favor. Let us keep the Republican party in power, then use our political strength to get what we want insofar as we are politically strong enough to get it."

MOSES' ATTACK RILES RACE

Pittsburgh Courier

10/20/28

Republican's Speech Causes Spirited Comment; Said To Be Biggest Blunder Of Campaign.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. — Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, Eastern manager of the Republican National Committee, has become the storm center within the party for having raised the race issue in a speech he made here before the campaign school of the Women's National Republican Club, in which he spoke disparagingly of a Negro official in New York "dictating to a white stenographer of the female sex."

The official to whom Senator Moses made reference was Ferdinand Q. Morton, Negro civil service commissioner, and a Democratic appointee under Tammany Hall. This sort of talk, intended to intensify racial animosities, is in line with statements being put out by the Ku Klux Klan.

Directly after Senator Moses' attack on Tammany Hall and the Negro, leading politicians of the race immediately protested and likened the New Hampshire senator's intolerant attitude to that of a Heflin. They did not hestitate to express fear that the incident would lose the Republican party thousands of votes.

The Amsterdam News, which is supporting Mr. Hoover, proclaimed on the first page of its current issue in large type that "The Republican Eastern Manager Has Ku Klux Ideas," and in an editorial demands removal of Moses.

Says the Amsterdam News, "Thus in these few words all sentiment created for the Republican National ticket is wiped away and cannot be restored until definite action is taken to restore it."

Senator Moses committed what is regarded by Negro Republicans as the biggest blunder of the campaign toward the end of his talk to white women when asked if it were true that Mr. Hoover had made certain contracts with colored leaders in Virginia and other Southern states. He replied: "I do not know, but if any promises have been made by Mr. Hoover, he will fulfill, not repudiate them. I do know this—that in Washington there is no colored Tammany civil service commissioner who dictates to a white stenographer of the female sex, which, as I understand, is done right here in New York City."

Aside from being Eastern manager of the Republican National Committee, Senator Moses was permanent chairman of the Republican National Convention at Kansas City. He plays a prominent part in the shaping of Mr. Hoover's campaign policies.

Hoover Danced With Negro Woman, Bragged About It, Says Gov. Bilbo

MEMPHIS, TENN., Oct. 18.—"I, as a missionary Baptist, licensed to preach, would rather swallow the pope and the whole vatican, than vote for Herbert Hoover and his party," Gov. Theo G. Bilbo, of Mississippi, said in an address at a Memphis theater Wednesday night. The governor was here for Governors' Day at the Tri-State Fair and his talk was in interest of the Democratic ticket.

"Herbert Hoover, nom his party, have any patience with segregation of the races," Bilbo said. "On one of his flood relief trips through the Mississippi Delta the Republican nominee, to gain favor with Republicans in control in Mississippi, caused his special train to be stopped at Mound Bayou, where all inhabitants are negroes, and went to call on Mary Booze, black as the ace of spades and Republican national committeewoman from Mississippi.

"He even bragged of having danced with Mary's daughter in Washington and wrote her a letter later thanking her for her hospitality while he was in the negro village.

"And now you would elect a man and an administration who has no sympathy for white supremacy in the South. The national Republican party is the negro party of the South and would try to put the black heel on the white necks of Southern men and women. On the other hand, the Northern Democratic party has always respected the white man's rule and always will. So I would rather swallow the pope and the whole vatican than vote for Hoover and his party, and if you Hoover 'Democrats can swallow them, I hope you do and I hope the dose kills every one of you."

REPUBLICANS' 'MOUTHPIECE' INSULTS RACE

Indicates That Party Will Jim Crow

Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, eastern manager of the Republican national committee, has become the storm center within his party for having raised the Race issue in a speech before the Woman's National Republican club, in which he spoke disparagingly of a Race man in an official capacity "dictating to a white stenographer of the female sex."

Aside from being eastern manager of the Republican committee, Senator Moses was permanent chairman of the Republican national convention at Kansas City, where the "lily-white" program was formulated. He plays a prominent part in the shaping of Herbert Hoover's campaign policies.

Even some papers supporting the candidacy of Mr. Hoover proclaimed that "the Republican eastern manager had Ku Klux ideas," and in editorials demanded his removal. Senator Moses, as yet, has not been reprimanded by Republican party leaders, and those in the inner circle say he will not be. They asserted that he voiced the sentiments of Mr. Hoover in his New York address, which follows:

(From New York World

New York, Oct. 9.—Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, eastern manager of the Republican national committee, closed a speech yesterday at the campaign school of the Women's National Republican club, 8 E. 37th St., with a reference to a Negro official in New York dictating "to a white stenographer of the female sex."

Senator Moses referred to Ferdinand Q. Morton, Negro civil service commissioner of New York, a Democrat, appointed from Harlem.

About two weeks ago the same matter was brought to public attention in a photograph of Commissioner Morton dictating to a white stenopragher published on the first page of the Fellowship Forum, anti-Catholic publication.

After his speech, in which Senator Moses criticized the Democratic stand on tariff and Gov. Smith's attitude on prohibition and his affiliation with Tammany, he opened the floor to questions.

One of the women in his audience asked about reports that Herbert Hoover had placed Negroes over white men doing work on the Mississippi flood relief, and about another report that the Republican nominee had made promises to Virginia Negroes for their support

"I don't know that any such condition exists," replied Senator Moses, "but if any promises have been made they will be kept.

"I do know this, however," continued the senator, "that in Washington there is no Colored civil service commissioner who dictates to a white stenographer of the female sex, such as I understand is done right here in New York."

Some of the audience applauded, but about half of the women received it in silence.

Many Republican leaders frankly disliked the senator's remark. They took the stand that it was unnecessary and could serve only to create bitterness and misunderstanding.

The incident was all the more regretted by prominent Republicans because it came from one of Mr Hoover's highest campaign officers. They insisted that the senator only meant to draw a comparison, in which he wished to show that "Democrats and Republicans alike both acknowledge the place of the Negro to serve in public office."

What the full effect of this remark by Senator Moses will be on those who had been willing to give Mr. Hoover the benefit of the doubt is yet to be determined. It is certain, however, that such sentiments as these, expressed by recognized leaders in the Hoover movement, are not calculated to do the party any good.

HOOVER AID DENIES DANCE WITH NEGRO

Charges Bilbo With Making Most Indecent Statement in Entire Bitter Campaign.

Washington, October 19.—(AP)—An official denial of a declaration attributed to Governor Theodore G. Bilbo, of Mississippi, that Herbert Hoover had visited and danced with a negro woman at Mound Bayou during his Mississippi flood relief work last year was made public tonight at Hoover general headquarters.

The denial, in the form of a telegram to Bilbo from George Akerson, assistant to the republican presidential candidate, criticized the Mississippi executive in sharp terms, declaring that the statement was "unqualifiedly false" and "the most indecent and unworthy statement in the whole of a bitter campaign."

Akerson called the attention of the governor to a memorial passed by the legislature of his state praising the work of the republican nominee during the flood, and added that the only time Mr. Hoover was ever in Mound Bayou was when his train made a three-minute stop there.

"You are quoted by the press in the south as having stated in a public address that Herbert Hoover, while on one of his flood relief trips, got off the train at Mound Bayou, Miss., and paid a call on a colored woman there and later danced with her," said the message.

"That statement is unqualifiedly false. There is not the slightest foundation for it. It is the most indecent and unworthy statement in the whole of a bitter campaign."

Hoover had a busy day at his headquarters, receiving several delegations and individuals. His first visitors were Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, and several members of the party that made the trans-Atlantic voyage with him.

BILBO DISCLAIMS ALL RESPONSIBILITY.

Jackson, Miss., October 19.—(AP)—Governor Theo G. Bilbo said tonight that he had not yet received a telegram from George Akerson, assistant to Herbert Hoover, which branded as "unqualifiedly false" a statement said to have been made by the governor that Hoover had danced with a negro woman.

"I did not say that as a direct statement coming from me," Governor Bilbo said. "What I did say was that statement was made at a public rally held in Jackson some time ago."

LILY WHITES BAR ILL. SENATOR

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.— Republican mass meeting staged by S. D. McGill, the Rev. H. Y. Tookes, A. W. Smith and other regular Republicans went without an advertised speaker Monday night of last week.

Ex-Senator L. Y. Sherman, of Illinois, cancelled his engagement after receiving protests from the lily-whites who are using every effort to keep colored people from registering and voting.

MOSES CAN SAY ANYTHING HE PLEASES

Hoover Headquarters Won't Comment On Senators Raising Race Issue

AFRO REPORTER TOLD HOOVER ISN'T QUOTED

Moses Won't Talk Either, Says He'll Have To Be The Goat

WASHINGTON, D. C.—No one at the personal headquarters of Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential candidate, would make a statement relative to the injection of the racial issue in the campaign in New York City by Senator George H. Moses, eastern manager of the Republican national committee. Mr. Hoover himself is never quoted.

It was said at the Hoover headquarters that Senator Moses is a free agent and may say anything he pleases. Any statement explaining or clarifying his remarks concerning Ferdinand Q. Morton, New York civil service commissioner, and his dictating to a white stenographer, would have to be made by the Senator, it was stated.

It was also added that comment could not be made upon every incident of that kind which happens from Maine to Texas.

Republican workers from New York, however, brought the report here that Senator Moses had been misquoted, but had refused to make a statement giving a correct version of what took place at the meeting of the Women's National Republican Club where he made his remarks concerning Mr. Morton's dictating to white stenographers.

Senator Moses is said to have told George W. Harris and Charles E. Mitchell, of the Republican eastern speakers' bureau that two southern women in the audience were heckling him and he simply made a reference to Mr. Morton and his position in New York.

He is said to have refused, however, to make any statement concerning the incident, telling the two Republican workers that he would just have to be the "goat."

Hoover Crowd Bolts Party in Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Hoover's determination to deal with the lily-white Republicans instead of with R. R. Church and Congressman J. Will Taylor, white, regular leaders, has resulted in the formation of an independent voters' league here under the direction of Webster M. Porter, chairman.

Political - 1928

Party Affiliation

Republican

THE ELECTION

There are many points in Tuesday's election which swept Herbert Clark Hoover into the White House, that should interest the American Negro. The election is now over and the various parties, factions, groups, etc., must now look to the future. New ground won must be consolidated losses must be retrieved.

The Catholic group in America now joins the Negro, the Jew and foreigners as the victims of group prejudice. For there was no greater force working against Al Smith than the fact of his religion. Instead of overcoming her prejudices, America is gradually adding to them. First, the Negro; then the Jew; later the foreigners, (so called) and now the Catholics. "Remember, when the judgment is weak, the prejudice is strong."

